City 'on the rise'

Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley waves to the crowd after giving his annual State of the City address at Churchill's last Thursday.

Fraley: Growing pains a big plus, challenges ahead

By Keith Taylor
News Editor

Berea is experiencing growing pains and is considered one of the fastest growing cities among those in the state with a population of more than 10,000.

Mayor Bruce Fraley provided those figures in his annual State of the City address given to members of the Berea Chamber of Commerce last Thursday at Churchill's. According to Fraley, the city's current population stands at 15,787, which grew at a rate of 15.5 percent from 2010-2018.

"In my view, our city is on the rise," Fraley said. "We have a proud history, engaged citizens, a positive economic climate, an outstanding group of city employees who serve the citizens, relationships with our community partners that continue to grow and improve, and a strategic plan that will help guide us over the next several years."

In his address to the Chamber, Fraley reviewed his administration's accomplishments during the past year, highlighting the transition to a new electricity provider, which he said "was very smooth with no unexpected problems or difficulties."

He said one of the most "critical" projects for Berea's future is the Owsley Fork Dam Project that will raise the dam by 6 feet and "greatly increase our water supply." When the project is completed, Owsley Fork Dam will increase from 650,000,000 gallons of water to 1 billion gallons.

Second phase of the bypass back on track

By Keith Taylor
News Editor

The completion of the Berea Bypass is back on track.

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet unveiled its six-year state highway plan last week and the second phase of the Berea Bypass is a top priority for Madison County. The project will expand the bypass 3.59 miles at a cost of $23.7 million.

"This plan delivers on our commitment to invest in long-awaited regional access projects that can open up economic opportunities in rural regions while providing a responsible approach to improving our highway infrastructure statewide," Governor Andy Beshear said.

The addition will feature four lanes from the current bypass at U.S. 25 to KY 1016.

Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley said the project will feature two phases, fully funded by the state.

"The first phase will extend the bypass to Kentucky Highway 1016 and is funded at $12 million," he said. "The second phase will complete the bypass from Kentucky 1016 to Kentucky 21 and is funded for an additional 12 million."

Fraley said the project is shovel ready.

"According to our sources in Frankfort, this is the only project in Transportation District 7 that is ready to go. It is at the top of the list for District 7 projects and just has to be released for bid. We will continue to work with officials in Frankfort to keep this project on the front burner."

Council facing budget cuts

By Keith Taylor
News Editor

The Berea City Council took the first step in amending its current budget, which will cut more than $184,000 in expenditures for the next four months.

The city plans to trim the budget through personnel, including cutting part-time and temporary positions. City Administrator David Gregory said one of the top costs in the budget is employees, which he said accounts for approximately 58 percent of revenue produced by the city.

The council also adopted an ordinance that will

Keeping garbage rates low a priority

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

Officials from the City of Berea recently met with representatives of Waste Connections in a special called meeting to discuss communication, customer service issues, and future rates. City officials said they hope to keep garbage collection rates at a relatively low level despite increased costs affecting the industry. "Our goal as a city is to provide reliable and efficient waste service, and to keep rates as low as possible for our citizens," said Mayor Bruce Fraley, who added he believes the city is close to reaching such a deal.

At last Wednesday's meeting, Carl Town and Aaron Hopper of Waste Connections fielded questions and concerns from council members Cora Jane Wilson, Ronnie Terrill, Jerry Little, Jim Davis, John Payne,

Berea officials receive update on economic development

By Andy McDonald

Local leaders were recently briefed on the progress of Berea's economic development efforts, which are designed to bolster existing businesses and industries, help cultivate small businesses, and create conditions to attract new retail and industrial operations to Berea.

The presentation took place last week during a meeting of the Berea City Council's Economic Development Committee. Council members and representatives from the Berea Industrial Authority listened to presentations from Berea Business Development Director Donna Angel, Kentucky Small Business Center regional director Vallorie Henderson, and economic development consultants Lucas Witt and Lindsey Ransdell of Fortune Realty.

Angel began the presentations by revealing that since taking her post at the city in early January, she has consulted with approximately 18 local businesses, including contacting property owners on Chestnut Street. Angel said the city hopes to encourage commercial property owners along Chestnut to improve their storefronts with the goal of making that district more attractive to both consumers and prospective business owners. Angel noted the effort is consistent with the city's recently adopted Berea Strategic Plan, and that property owners have so far been excited about the project.

On the retail front, Angel reported there have been several requests to bring a Kentucky Fried Chicken franchise back to Berea, leading her to contact a representative of KFC. As a result of that meeting, Angel said the city will soon be making franchise ownership requirements available for prospective buyers.

In other developments, Angel reported showing two industrial spaces for lease, including warehouse space, and she consulted with a representative of Bluegrass Community Technical College about the possibility of obtaining funding for training classes that can serve clients in the Berea Industrial Park.

Highlighting the city's efforts to encourage small business growth, Vallorie Henderson, of the Kentucky Small Business Development Center, updated officials on her efforts to open a Berea office of the KSBDC in Berea. Henderson has been working in the Tolle building while the city prepares her office in City Hall. Having recently relocated to Berea from Louisville, the Berea College alumnus said she is focused on providing business development services to the region, but will specifically focus on ways to serve Berea's artisans.

"We will focus on Berea because we have said that the center is the first in the United States that serves creative entrepreneurs. But it's not the only people I want to work with," Henderson said, noting she has been contacted by locals who want to launch more conventional small businesses, like roofing and accounting. Henderson added she is glad to be back in Berea.

Lucas Witt and Lindsey Ransdell of Fortune Realty presented the industrial element of the city's economic development strategy, outlining how they will help local government improve relationships with existing industries while attracting new ones.

Both having worked in the Kentucky Economic Development Cabinet, Lucas and Ransdell noted that an important element of their job as consultants to the City of Berea is to make officials in Frankfort aware of Berea's desirability as a destination for prospective industries. They also aim to make existing industries aware of state programs that can benefit their operations. Additionally, Ransdell noted she has visited most local industries, and plans additional visits to touch base with companies to determine their needs. In cooperation with Berea Business Development, she will also help launch a Lunch and Learn roundtable series, allowing managers to discuss issues facing local industry.

Ransdell noted work will continue to make Berea more fertile for industrial growth, but that the city already has a good foundation for success.

"The biggest thing you have in your favor is that you have a thriving industrial park with lots that are full, and businesses like Hyster-Yale," Ransdell said. "If you can drive into an industrial park and see an existing business that's in the midst of construction, that says these people are happy. These people are making a million-dollar investment in your community and they're not going to go anywhere."

In other business, the Economic Development Committee retired to executive session to discuss a possible transaction concerning property. No action was taken, officials reported.

In addition to committee chairman Jim Davis, the meeting was attended by Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley and Berea City Council members Ronnie Terrill, David Rowlette, and Steve Caudill Also in attendance were members of the Berea Industrial Authority, including Larry Harrison, Diane Zekind, Beverly Harkleroad, Heather Reasor and Greg Lakes.

From left, Lindsey Ransdell and Lucas Witt of Fortune Realty recently updated Berea city officials on their plans for boosting industrial growth in Berea. The consultants were hired last year to help the city market its acreage in the Berea Industrial Park.

News from Berea Rotary

After the installation of new member Sune Frederiksen, Berea Rotarians heard from Jamie Hall, Deputy Commander of the Army Depot.

Hall was introduced by Keith Harrison who provided a numerical breakdown with quantities, locations, and types of weapons that are stored and are being deweaponized. An interesting fact is that, inside the igloos, names of workers are written on the walls dating back to the 1940's. He cautioned that the "booms" citizens are hearing are not from chemicals. After this preliminary information, Jamie Hall described in greater detail the different types of nerve agents while emphasizing the job of the BGCA (Blue Grass Chemical Activity) is to eliminate the chemical stockpile. He assured his listeners that these items are in safe and secure storage which lists December 2023 as the date for finalization. Attached to that completion is a vast ecomonic impact on Madison County. Kentucky and Colorado are the last two of nine locations having such storage facilities.

Guests at the meeting were Helen Eden, Donna Harrison, Keith Harrison,, and Jana Felts. Donna Harrison gave an update on the plans for the June road trip, noting that a few spots are still available for friends of Rotary. This past Tuesday the members toured the new Science Building at Berea College. Berea Rotary, an international service organization, meets each Tuesday at noon at the Artisan Center.

Make Census 2020 count

Taylor's Thoughts

Keith Taylor
News Editor

It's time to stand up and be counted.

The 2020 Census matters and will shape the next 10 years and help determine the number of seats that each state holds in the U.S. House of Representatives and the funding that will be allocated to each state and local lawmakers for the next decade. Those funds are used to help support schools, hospitals, roads, fire departments and other entities in our community.

Beginning in March, during the heat of the NCAA Tournament, households can respond to the census online or by phone. Others will receive a paper questionnaire in an effort to get head count of every person residing in the United States. This year's count will be the first to include an online option as well as the traditional mail feature.

A lot has changed since the first Census took place in 1790 and Kentucky was among the first 13 states to take part in the very first count. U.S. Marshals and assistants traveled by horseback and foot to rerecorded their answers on forms made of parchment and animal skins.

The population of the five largest cities (New York City, Philadelphia, Boston, Charleston and Baltimore_ totaled 109,826, enough to fill Michigan Stadium in Ann Arbor, Michigan. The total population after the first count was 3.9 million and provided 105 members in the House of Representatives. The house currently houses 435 representatives, including six from Kentucky.

A census count is mandated by the United States Constitution and conducted by the nonpartisan U.S. Census Bureau. The count includes all 50 states, the District of Columbia and five offshore territories, including Puerto Rico, Guam and the U.S. Virgin Islands). This will mark the 24th time in our nation's history that a census count has been conducted and there's no excuse for not participating in the mandated count.

The first census of this decade began on Jan. 21 in a remote Alaskan Village of Toksook Bay in Alaska.

When the last Census was last completed in 2010, the population of Madison County was 82, 216. The county's population estimate stood at 92,368 in 2018 and grew at a rate of 11.4 percent during an eight-year span. Between 2000 and 2010, the state population grew by 7.4 percent and new legislative district maps in the state were drawn.

In order to get an adequate number, it's important that every member of your household be counted, even children. It matters now and in the future.

Legislative Update

Jared Carpenter
State Senator

Discussions of bills, budgets, and barber shop choirs echoed in the Capitol as we concluded the fourth week of the 2020 Regular Session. While legislation continued to move steadily through the Senate over the course of the week, we were welcomed by a variety of talented constituents in the chamber.

Senate priority legislation aimed at ending pension spiking, Senate Bill 6, advanced to the House this week following a unanimous vote on the Senate floor. Senate Bill 6 would prohibit state lawmakers who contributed to the Legislators' Retirement Plan from June 20, 2005, through December 31, 2013, from using salary credited in another Kentucky retirement system to determine final compensation in the legislators' plan.

Other priority measures moving through the legislative process are Senate Bills 1, 8, and 9. Senate Bill 1, also known as the Federal Immigration Cooperation Act of 2020, passed through the Senate Judiciary Committee. This bill would require law enforcement and other public agencies to support the enforcement of federal immigration law. The amended version of this bill includes expanded exemptions to local school districts to rape crisis centers, domestic violence centers, and other groups that provide social services.

Senate Bills 8 and 9 were both passed through to the House this week. Senate Bill 8 would amend the current school safety statute to expand school personnel with the designation of a school safety coordinator for each district, one school-based mental health counselor per 250 students, and a trained and certified armed school resource officer. Senate Bill 9, also known as the "Born Alive Infant Protection Act," is a pro-life measure that requires a physician to take all medically appropriate and reasonable steps to preserve the life and health of a born-alive infant.

The Senate passed its first House measure, House Bill 236, legislation that incorporates hemp federal guidelines, sets requirements for the transportation of products, and establishes testing procedures. This bill included a Senate Floor Amendment, which now requires the House to either approve of the bill in its current form or continue the legislative process required to get concurrence from both chambers. If approved with the Senate Floor Amendment, House Bill 236 will then head to the Governor's desk for his consideration.

We also passed a number of other bills in the Senate including, Senate Bill 79, a measure relating to background checks for school employees who have been assigned an administrative hearing for potential child abuse or neglect, and Senate Bill 94 updates Kentucky law to comply with federal regulations, which changed last year to allow gasoline blended with up to 15 percent ethanol to be sold year-round.

If you have any questions or comments about these issues or any other public policy issue, please call me toll-free at 1-800-372-7181 or email me at Jared.Carpenter@LRC.ky.gov. You can also review the Legislature's work online at www.legislature.ky.gov.

FROM OUR READERS

Workman: Held hostage

Dear Editor,

I prefer vanilla but you like strawberry. So does one have to be judged wrong and the other right?

What about a compromise like strawberry ripple? Or maybe a very different flavor could be considered. The point is we do not have to always be in competition.

Washington and the press do not seem to know this and are putting our nation in danger of becoming so divided we might not recover for a long time.

One ideology does not fit all, nor serve all. So, why don't those of us who believe other points of view have merit demand that they be heard in Washington and in the press? Maybe I (we) are not being responsible citizens. Maybe it is time to stop this dividing imitation of government where only one way of thinking is called worthy.

impose fines on littering in the city limits. Those fines will be $500 per violation. Under the ordinance, no person shall throw, discard or deposit litter on any street, public place of private property. Dump outs and sweep outs are prohibited.

The ordinance states that the council "finds that such rules and regulations are necessary for the enhancement of public safety, well-being, health and the continued well-being of the city."

First reading of a revised ethics ordinance was read and includes updates on definitions, revising provisions for conflicts of interest, adding provisions relating to the receipt of gifts, use of city property, including equipment, restricting certain actions by officers and employees, revising contents of the financial interest statement, revising nepotism provisions and also revising penalties for ethics code violations.

Council member John Payne had a question regarding endorsements and said it's "not been uncommon for members of council to bring up certain events or non-profit entries within the city, say the Spoonbread Festival or (the) Public Library" and said technically they could be considered endorsements and sought clarification.

"How would that fit into the ethics law?" Payne said. "That's something fairly common and I thought a clarification would be a good idea."

Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley said he would ask Gregory to refer to contact cooperate counsel to make sure Payne gets an answer to his question and expects a response at second reading likely next month "for the benefit of all."

Council members also heard first reading of specifying the Fire Chief as the Fire Prevention Code enforcement officer. The council also heard an ordinance declaring surplus property to be sold by the city.

In other business:

• Fraley opened two bids for the Middletown Trunk Sewer Improvements. Buchanan Contracting Inc. of Winchester offered to do the project at a cost of $2,280,340. Norris Brothers Excavating, based in Crossville, Tennessee offered a bid for $3,268,330. The bids were referred to Berea Municipal Utilities General Manager Kevin Howard for analysis.

• Lucas Witt of Fortune Solutions gave an update to council members on the economic developments in the city and said reaching out to potential developers is a key to improving economic development in the industrial park and said "communities that are pro-active have been the ones to show the most success."

"Our goal is to find some movement and traction on the land that we own now, how can we do that and how can we reinvest those dollars into future growth in and around (the industrial) park," Witt said.

Resources Conservation Service on the design phase of this project," he said.

He praised the city, the Tourist and Convention Commission and the Berea Farmer's Market for the $250,000 matching grant that will be used for the construction of a multi-use pavilion, which will be built near the Tolle Building, where a former car lot was located. He said construction is likely to begin in late spring.

He added the Tourism Commission is in the process of designating a section of North Broadway, Lester Street and Chestnut Street as a historic district.

"The Historic District designation allows business owners in the district incentives for property improvements and will help us link Old Town, Chestnut Street and College Square as articulated in our Strategic Plan," Fraley said. "The Tourism Commission is also in the process of evaluating all of our programs to determine the future direction of tourism in our city."

He hopes to "re-energize our efforts to plan a dog park."

As he looks ahead to his second year as mayor, Fraley said budgetary challenges await because of the "skyrocketing cost of the county employment retirement of CERS." Fraley said the costs of contributions will increase from 18.68 percent in 2017 to 24.06 percent during the current fiscal year.

"For an employee earning $40,000 per year, this CERS contribution is currently $9,624 per year," he said. "CERS cost will continue to increase … We are not alone. This is an issue for all city and county governments that participate in CERS."

He added that the rising cost of asphalt and a decline in municipal aid from the state also is a concern.

"This impacts our ability to resurface city streets," he said. "In fiscal year 2015, the city received $327,370 in municipal road aid. In Fiscal Year 2020, that number declined to $282,133, while the cost of material, in particular asphalt, continues to go up."

To address the future shortfalls, Fraley said that current city staffing levels "cannot increase beyond where it is today."

"We plan to evaluate each position as employees retire or leave city employment," he said. "In the future, it will be necessary to combine positions, share duties, and outsource some work in order to keep costs down."

Fraley renewed his pledge to "treat everyone I work with with courtesy, dignity and respect," in moving forward.

"It is our duty as public servants to behave in such a manner," he said. "I was recently reminded that we will not be remembered for the title we held, for our accomplishments, or for how much money we had: We will be remembered for how we treated each other. I will take those words to heart and hope you will too."

Purchase supports the KPS Teddy Project

Valentine's Day is soon approaching and Kentucky State Police hope people will consider buying a Trooper Teddy Bear for their sweetheart. The bears go on sale today and will sell for $14.99 through February 14th. Proceeds from the sale benefit the Trooper Teddy Project, which provides teddy bears to children in traumatic situations such as a car crash, exposure to drugs, or domestic abuse cases which frequently result in the arrest of a parent.

Lawson says the 'Trooper Teddy' Project recently celebrated its 30-year anniversary and exists through generous contributions.

For those interested in purchasing a bear or making a tax deductible contribution to the project, citizens can access the KSP website at http://kentuckystatepolice.org/trooper-teddy/

David Rowlette and City Administrator David Gregory, who submitted questions on behalf of council members who could not attend the meeting.

Berea's contract with Waste Connections expires on March 1. The company is proposing a three-percent rate increase for 2020, which would be 28 cents more per month, or $3.36 more per year for residential customers.

"Nothing is finalized. We're just in the process of working with them," Fraley said Friday. "But we think where they're looking for a three-percent rate increase for one year, we would like to have that three-percent increase for our residential customers for two years, so there's no surprise in 2021," Fraley said. On commercial garbage collection rates, Waste Connections is proposing a three-percent increase for 2020, with the possibility of a five-percent increase in 2021. The rate for 2022 could be up for negotiation, depending on the final terms of the rate adjustment. Fraley and Gregory met with Waste Connections staff on Friday in an effort to finalize a deal.

When discussing the proposed rate hike, Town emphasized the increase is relatively modest given the fact that the industry is facing increased labor costs, driving up overhead by seven percent, according to industry indexes. Town cited the challenge of hiring new drivers as one significant factor in the increased labor costs, as younger workers seem less inclined to go into the waste disposal field, Town said. He added, however, that the proposed residential hike is still 47 cents less than the rate proposed by the city's former garbage collector, Rumpke, when the contract was bid out in 2018.

Much of the special called meeting was spent discussing customer service and communication, which Town said the company is making efforts to improve. This week, the company launched WasteConnect, a phone app that allows customers to receive updates or changes in their pick-up times, submit a payment, or search the Waste Wizard feature, which instructs customers on whether to put an item in the garbage bin or their recycling bin. The app can be downloaded for free on phone retail outlets like Google Play or Apple's App Store.

Additionally, Town noted the company has become more familiar with social media groups like Let's Grow Berea in an effort to stay in touch and better gauge how the company is meeting the needs of customers.

On the issue of customer service, Ronnie Terrill and Cora Jane Wilson requested Waste Connections provide a monthly report on complaints about service. Some customers, for example, complain to the city when their garbage has not been picked up due to non-payment. Aaron Hopper noted the company makes an effort to contact customers before service is suspended, typically trying to contact them four times over a 60-day period. Hopper noted that when the company does miss a pick-up, crews try to return the same day or the next day. Wilson requested a report on complaints to determine which customers have complained to the city without first trying to resolve it with Waste Connections.

Regarding recycling, Town mentioned that while there was a recent interruption in glass collection, that service has resumed again.

In one other item, Terrill asked for a clarification on the company's policy for picking up bulky items. He noted that he's seen a piece of furniture sitting at a curb on Prospect Street, which has not been picked up. Hopper explained that Waste Connections will pick up items every Friday if customers call at least by the Thursday prior, but that there is typically an extra charge for pick-up. Sometimes customers don't make those arrangements, then leave an item at the curb in the hope that it will eventually be picked up, Terrill said. He requested the company notify the city of those instances so that the Codes and Planning Department can be informed.

Reflections

from February 1960
Berea Citizen Archives

Berea police had no break-ins to report this week, but they did report a break-out. Chief LeMaster told it this way: Carl Combs, who runs the Berea Billiard Hall at nights, closed the place about midnight Friday. But he returned after a little while because he wasn't sure the front door had been locked. When he got there he jiggled the front door and found it locked, but then he heard glass falling out the back door. Chief LeMaster thinks that whoever was inside when Combs returned had been hiding when the pool room was closed. The hiding place was on top of the bathroom, as evidenced by the tracks in the dust. Also the bar on the back door had been set aside, something that would likely not have been done if the burglars were breaking in. The only thing reported taken was a set of keys to a soft-drink machine.

John F. Arnold, airman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Arnold of Berea, is serving with Air Anti-Submarine Squadron 36 operating out of Norfolk, VA. The squadron is presently flying from the deck of the aircraft carrier USS Randolph.

Marriage Licenses: William A. Perison, 23, student and Mazelle Dean York, 20, both of Berea. Issued on Jan. 21; Hampton Smith, 18, dry cleaner checker, and Verna Mae White, 17, both of Berea. Issued on Jan. 23; Robert Smallwood, 22, painter, and Betty Jean Smith, 15, both of Berea. Issued on Jan. 23.

Mrs. Marshall Platt entertained with a party in honor of her daughter, Barbara's twelfth birthday on Monday evening, January 25. Girl friends who attended were Sharon Miracle, Linda Coyle, Patty Peters, Belle Jackson, Nancy Gibson, and Roseann Pennington. After opening the gifts

Group will teach skills for having difficult political conversations; sessions to be held at Berea Library

At the Berea Public Library, on Saturday, February 15, 2020 from 10 to 11 am Better Angels will host an informational session. Followed on Saturday, March 7, 2020 by a Skills Workshop designed to teach skills for having political conversations across the divide, a session also hosted by Better Angels.

In a press release the group says, "In today's polarized environment, political conversations often turn angry and counterproductive. Better Angels skills help people listen and understand without arguing, to build trust, clarify disagreements, and find common ground based on common values and humanity."

Launched in 2016, Better Angels is a bipartisan citizen's movement working to unify America By bringing red and blue Americans together across the country into working alliances, Better Angels says it is building new ways to talk to one another, participate together in public life, and influence the direction of the nation.

Recent polls show that a majority of Americans feel the country is more divided than ever, and increasingly view members of the opposite political party as not just wrong—but bad people.

Better Angels stated, "At the same time, Americans are increasingly divided into bubbles and echo chambers with limited exposure to 'the other side,' consuming news that confirms their opinions and stereotypes."

By creating opportunities for meaningful discussions, Better Angels works to dial down the heated rhetoric that gets in the way of real conversations and accurate understanding of differences.

The objective is not to push an agenda or change participant's minds, but rather to provide a safe place for deeper understanding.

Interested participants should reach out to Jennifer Elam (jenelam@aol.com) for more details about participating in the workshop.

Adventures in Literature

I've always loved a great adventure, and I was brought up by parents who not only loved setting out on a grand adventure but also loved reading about them.

What made me think of this was seeing a recent picture my mom posted on Facebook from one of our big snows of the 1980s. My brother was trying to dig out the car in the driveway, and it brought back so many wonderful memories of snowy days when my mom would announce, "OK kids, we're going to try to get out." We'd all bundle up, grab shovels and kitty litter and cardboard, and set out on our grand adventure of trying to get out of the neighborhood.

We didn't really have anywhere to go – school was out for weather, and we had plenty of bread and milk. It was all about the challenge of getting out. At that time, we had this massive yellow Oldsmobile Delta 88. Even though it was big, it had rear wheel drive, so snow was not an easy thing to conquer. We'd spend hours digging and pushing and slipping and sliding and having one big old time. Eventually we would get out of the subdivision, only to return home right away for hot chocolate and a warm-up.

And then I saw the ad for the new movie based on the Jack London novel, The Call of the Wild, which was one of my favorite books as a kid. Following Buck's bravery and persistence working through adversity, racing along with him on his great trek – I was hooked. By the way, if you'd like to read it, we have The Call of the Wild available for checkout from the Madison County Public Library in a wide variety of formats.

That novel was an early step in my developing love of literary adventure, a love that would lead me sailing past the island of the Sirens with Ulysses, questing through Mordor with Frodo Baggins and Sam Gamgee, building a new life on a deserted island with the Swiss Family Robinson and later Robinson Crusoe, and even encountering the unusual Lilliputians on Gulliver's Travels.

I still feel echoes of my love of adventure reading in my life-long affinity for science fiction novels and their close cousin – tales of dystopian futures. But really, most novels that involve journeys, quests, secret passages, portals to other dimensions, or even doors that open to alternate worlds, capture my interest immediately.

Among the titles I am adding to my reading list this spring is a new offering by acclaimed novelist Olaf Olafsson (One Station Away and Absolution) entitled The Sacrament. It is the story of a young nun sent by the Vatican to investigate allegations of misconduct at an Icelandic school. Years later, she returns to the school to investigate a suspicious death. It's available for checkout with your MCPL card in print in Berea and Richmond and in eBook format through KY Libraries Unbound.

Also on my must-read list is the latest novel by award-winning author Isabel Allende – A Long Petal of the Sea, which follows the voyage of refugees fleeing the Spanish Civil War on a boat chartered by the poet Pablo Neruda on a journey to a new life in Chile. It's available in print in both locations and eBook and eAudio through KY Libraries Unbound.

And I am eagerly awaiting two novels by favorite authors set to come out later this year – To Sleep in a Sea of Stars, by Christopher Paolini (Inheritance Cycle), and The Ballad of Song Birds and Snakes, by Suzanne Collins (The Hunger Games).

I hope you get a chance to stop by the Madison County Public Library soon. It's a pretty hopping place these days – last month we had close to 25,000 visits to the two library locations and Bookmobile. And more than 50,000 items were checked out! I'll see you here soon!

Southern cheerleaders Orlando bound

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

The Madison Southern Cheerleading team is headed to Orlando, Florida, after placing first at the Smoky Mountain Regional Competition in two divisions – Super Varsity and Medium Varsity.

The Eagles cheer squad will travel to Orlando Feb. 6-11 to compete in the UCA National High School Cheerleading Championships at ESPN's Wide World of Sport.

Coach Michelle Devere said the regional competition focused around a game-day atmosphere.

"The game-day routine is focused on what you would do at a game to get the crowd involved," she said. "It consists of four sections: band dance, sideline, cheer, and our school fight song. The routine in general limits the skills that we perform to keep it simpler and crowd focused.

"Much emphasis is on motion placement and technique of basic cheer skills."

The two and a half minute routine featured challenging stunts, tumbling and a pyramid said Devere.

The routine is not a simple sideline routine one might see at a high school football or basketball game. It takes discipline from each athlete to learn and execute the routine, all the while keeping up with the sports that are in season and, more importantly, keeping up with their academics.

"The execution of these skills is not easy, and it takes a lot of hard work put in practice to make everything hit and make sure we won't have any deductions come competition day," Devere explained. "Even though this routine is all-around more difficult skills-wise, just like the game-day routine execution is key. We want a routine that is going to hit and look clean overall."

The team has been gearing up for the trip by conducting several fundraisers to pay for the trip.

"Our team is required to pay our way to nationals, which requires a lot of fundraising that begins at the beginning of the season," the coach said. "We have many fundraisers throughout the year, and this past month has been packed full of them."

With the national event just a few weeks away, Devere said the team is fine turning its routine.

"This squad is going to focus on the execution of our skills, the motion placement, and getting them as tight as possible and making sure to encourage each other to be the best we can be," she said. "We have some practices scheduled with experts in cheer such as Josh McCurdy from VROC and Eastern Kentucky University coaches."

Devere said a team doesn't qualify for nationals by happenstance. It takes commitment from each of the 26 members.

"When we're preparing for nationals, our team has to be all in," she explained. "National champions are made during practice.

"You have to want it with everything in you to do the best we possibly can. The girls have to be focused at practice and make sure they are there at every practice working hard until they get everything the way it needs to be. Competitive cheer is a sport where if you have one person missing, it can set the entire team back."

While tumbling, pyramids, and other acrobatic-type skills are needed to compete, perhaps the most important aspect of getting to this level is the balancing act between practicing for the competition, cheering at games, and maintaining the grades in the classroom.

"These ladies are athletes and push their bodies; they don't just lift weights, they lift people," she explained. "What I am most proud of them for is for being able to set differences aside and come together as a team for what is best for the team.

"There are many days when we must practice after school and then come straight to cheer a basketball game. They do all of this and keep up with their grades."

Berea College cancels 2020 season because of school, team violations

The field at Berea College sat empty behind the fence earlier this week. The school announced last Thursday it would suspend all games this season.

By Keith Taylor
News Editor

The dugouts will be empty and the boys of summer won't be playing baseball at Berea College this season.

President Lyle D. Roelofs announced last Thursday the college won't be fielding a baseball team this season. In a letter addressed to "Bereans," Roelofs said the suspension of the season was because of a violation of university and team rules, but didn't specify which rules were broken. Anonymous sources have indicated the violations were of a serious nature.

"The students who represent our intercollegiate programs are representatives of Berea College," the letter said. "All student-athletes are expected to abide by team, departmental and college polices that are tied to the high values arising from Berea's mission and traditions.

"We are committed to assuring that all of our current and future students understand the role of athletics at Berea College so that they will represent themselves, their teams and the college in a manner consistent with Berea College's great commitments and the expectations of Berea's student athlete code of conduct."

Berea College senior Seth Wallingford told the Maysville Ledger-Independent that the players were informed of the decision during a team meeting last Wednesday night before a scheduled season-opener last Friday.

Jail count going down

By Keith Taylor
News Editor

The jail population is declining at the Madison County Detention Center.

Madison County Jailer Steve Tussey told the Madison County Fiscal Court the jail had 436 inmates as of Tuesday. Of that number, 54 are on home incarceration and 20 of those are in other county facilities. Tussey noted that 20 of those housed in other counties are being held in Casey County, a savings to the county coffers.

"Our numbers continue to get a little better all the time," Tussey said. … "Casey County) is the best place we could possibly have them. It's the cheapest per diem rate around."

Tussey said the reason the jail count is "slowly coming down" is because "we are meeting with people and we are talking to folks and

Traffic accidents slightly up: Berea Police Department service stats

Motor vehicle collisions went up slightly in January compared to December of 2019, as did the number of reported crimes, according to a Berea Police Department report. Last December, there were 38 reported vehicle accidents. That total edged up slightly to 44 for January. As usual, the highly trafficked roads of U.S. 25, Glades Road and Walnut Meadow Road saw the most accidents during the month, though police were also called to streets near the city's largest retailer.

Streets where there were reported accidents, and the number of accidents on each road were as follows: There were six accidents on Richmond Road, and five collisions each on Glades Road and Walnut Meadow Road. Three were three accidents each on Ellipse Street, Chestnut Street, and Prince Royal Drive, and two reported collisions on Brenwood, Dogwood, Menelaus, McKinney Drive, Mayde Road, Main Street, Jill Drive and Paint Lick Road. There was one reported accident each on Otis, Mt. Vernon Road and Jefferson Street, respectively.

The number of crimes edged up from 16 last December to 26 in January. Larcenies reported went from four in December to six last month. There were no reported burglaries in January, down from two the previous month, according to the report. There was also one reported auto theft in January.

Note: The motor vehicle accident statistics for the Berea Police Department and the Berea Fire Department most often do not coincide because many collisions are reported as minor and do not involve injuries, thus not requiring the services of fire and rescue units.

Current Events: Clueless Republican State Legislative Supermajority Bungles School "Safety"

"Shane, you would not believe what these Frank Burnses are doing to our school in the supposed name of safety." This is how a recent phone call began which I had received from an old colleague still on the inside at my former schoolhouse. The "Frank Burnses" referenced by my friend are the newly minted bureaucratic minions (state retiree double-dippers) who recently took their marching orders from questionable EKU-based Kentucky Center For School Safety Director Jon Akers. The "Security" Compliance Investigators have quietly started making their rounds into the Commonwealth's schools.

The "security" model which is being pushed as part of "Republican" Sen. Ralph Alvarado's 2019 "School Safety Resiliency Act" consists of the same old tired, failed "Hunker Down-Hope For The Best" strategies and future mandated "security theater" harassments as employed by the TSA. Think your kids are inviting targets for a lunatic, now? Wait till they're all predictably huddled up every morning outside school waiting to go through the metal detector song and dance.

At some point in time (never); there are also supposed to be one school resource officer (SRO) hired for each and every Kentucky public school. Such a lone ranger SRO mandate is not only an economic impossibility; but tactically ineffective on multiple levels: He's an easily identifiable first target. What do you do when he stays home sick? When he stays home with his sick child? How about when he has to go potty? Etc, etc, etc.

We do not need our schools turned into institutional-like settings. And yes, I'm punning the additional mandate in Alvarado's school safety law to put on the taxpayer dime one mental health "professional" for every 1,500 students (Pending legislation in the current session would raise that number to one for every 250 students!). Remember, these "professionals" are of the same geniuses who've pumped our boys full of psychotropic drugs for the last few decades with disastrous results.

There is another avenue currently available for providing to EACH of our schools the ONLY proven effective defense against a mass murderer (multiple, unidentified, on-site armed personnel); and the cost would be a whopping $0 dollars to the taxpayer. Most significantly, when you walked into your child's school using the multiple, unidentified armed personnel model; it would remain the same inviting environment you enjoyed as a youngster.

As was recently seen demonstrated in Texas; the first few moments are critical to successfully countering an armed attack. All school boards of education may today provide multiple unidentified concealed carry license holders inside each of their schools via KRS 527.070(3)(f):

(3) The provisions of this section prohibiting the unlawful possession of a weapon on school property shall not apply to:

(f) Any other persons, including, but not limited to, exhibitors of historical displays, who have been authorized to carry a firearm by the board of education or board of trustees of the public or private institution;*

Next Month: Man-at-Arms

• It is currently legal for any non-student adult with a Kentucky CCDW License to store loaded firearms in a locked (or unlocked) vehicle on school property (KRS 527.070(3)(a)). This is mentioned to counter the excuse school systems could simply "never" get insured if they authorized concealed carry by school personnel. If the board may currently obtain insurance coverage with innumerable legally unattended firearms on school property; they will have no problem obtaining insurance with attended firearms on the persons of select school employees; as that too is authorized by state law. Now, ask your state and county "leaders" as to why your children are still considered acceptable casualties? You see, as long as the avenue I've pointed out to you is not utilized to protect your children in the same manner politicians are protected; your precious gifts needlessly remain sitting ducks.

Coffee: Depot restaurant should not be funded with tax dollars

Dear Editor,

One of my friends in the Berea Moderates was recently asked by a Berea Tourism Commission member "Why are the Moderates so against a restaurant in the old Berea L & N Depot building?" Well, we've covered that over and over, but let me reiterate.

We are not against a restaurant in the building, which is owned by the City of Berea. We are against the use of at least $300,000 in local tax funds scheduled to remodel the building. And…we are concerned that if the business folds, we will be stuck with a useless building

If the proposed manager/owner of the restaurant wants to shoe horn a business into the Depot, then let them pony up the funding for the remodel, AND, post a bond in an amount equal to what it would take to fix the building back into a welcome center/museum. We want only the potential occupants involved in the financing to be out any funds. NO CITY TAX FUNDS should be spent here-period. Many Bereans will not tolerate tossing any more money into the never-ending hole known as Old Town Berea.

Three hundred thousand dollars can build a new baseball or softball field. It could build the new Daniel Boone Health Trail boondoggle we are about to build on the College's land. We could repair or build new sidewalks, build a simple dog park, add playground equipment to city owned lots around town for small neighborhood parks and much more. It could pay to have more police officers available to patrol and protect our parks from damage by vandals. It could buy more signage, more lighting, and on and on. One thing for sure. If it's spent on the Depot remodel job, it's not benefiting 99.9% of Bereans.

So once again, I implore the leaders of Berea to finally, for the last time, stop discussing how someone is going to "Save Old Town" with a restaurant that's open only the time the shops in Old Town are open. If it sounds like it's going to be that big a success, then let them, as individuals, spend their own money to develop the property. We are talking about some of Berea's most successful business people here, not some group of clowns.

There is an election in about nine months for all our council seats. If some of our council persons want to get replaced this fall, they need to support fully a city funded remodel of the Depot.

If they like their jobs, and a have a drop of business or common sense, they will tell the people who champion this terrible idea to stop bringing it up, or go full bore at it themselves. It just seems to me some folks are anxious to spend our tax money on their dreams. I'd prefer they dream with their own funding.

Most Bereans do not support this idea. But if some council members want a vacation from local decision making, go ahead and push this idea again or stand by and let it happen. Because the people who pay taxes and vote will not tolerate, nor will we support, in any way, the restaurant.

Thank You,
Randy Coffey

BASEBALL

FROM A1

"We asked for clarification and (they) said they could not discuss an ongoing investigation," said Wallingford, a graduate of Lewis County High School.

The Mountaineers compete in the USA Mid-South Conference and Roelofs extended his apologies to the league and other member schools in the letter.

"It is our earnest hope that Berea will field a baseball team next year," Roelofs said.

Berea senior Seth Wallingford was disappointed in the decision by the school.

"I'm saddened, upset, I lost my senior season," Wallingford told the paper. "I lost my chance to contribute significantly to a college baseball team, which has been a goal for me since I was seven."

Tom Hart, commissioner of the USA South Athletic Conference, said three schools have suspended a sport for the upcoming season and added "suspending before the season is much easier to deal with than suspending for a season, which has happened" and added it gives member institutions an "opportunity to pivot and adjust."

Hart said the conference has an "unbalanced schedule" and the conference games Berea had scheduled won't be forfeited.

"We have designated two series (when these four schools play each other) as non-conference," he said. "The biggest concern is an equal number of conference games for all schools. All remaining schools will now have 21 conference games. Schools that were to play Berea now have to find three games.

"Many of them already scheduled new opponents. Some of them would be against schools planning to play Berea in non-conference action."

with the rocket docket that is successful and making all of the other programs work faster and makes it through the court system faster, therefore they are getting out of jail sooner and they're not staying as long."

The jailer added that district and circuit court judges, commonwealth attorneys and law enforcement agencies are "writing citations instead of making arrests."

"We're taking about it and it's working and it's helping," Tussey said of the dialogue between each government entity. "The people that could make a difference, didn't know that they could and they didn't know how bad the problem was. It was a communication issue and we are communicating and getting on the same page."

In other business:

• The court heard an update on the chemical weapons destruction under way at the Bluegrass Army Depot. Craig Wiliams told the court 18 tons (3.44 percent) of the stockpile stored at the depot has been destroyed. Operations are scheduled to be completed by December of 2023.

• The court approved final reading of an ordinance that establishes weight restrictions on county roadways. Between the hours of 5 p.m. and 11:59 p.m. semi-tractor trailers, tractor trailers defined by KRS 189.010 are prohibited from using county roadways and streets designated by the court as prohibited areas.

• Magistrates heard first reading of the Madison County Courthouse renovation funding ordinance. The monies will be funded by the Administrative Office of the Courts.

• Amended the road fund to $383,175. Madison County Treasurer Glenna Baker said the money was for "projects that we weren't anticipating" and that money has already been spent on road projects. The court also amended the jail fund to $302,484 (reserve for transfers).

• The court heard first reading of an inter-local agreement between the Madison County Fire Department and the Madison County EMS. The agreement replaces the previous agreement with the Madison County Rescue Squad to provide rescue services within the county.

• Heard first reading of an ordinance on the discontinuance of Phelps Spur Road in the county road maintenance plan.

• Approved a resolution accepting municipal road aid co-op funds from the Kentucky State Transportation Cabinet and a separate resolution to approve an applying for a $20,000 ASAP Harm Reduction Grant to help fight the ongoing drug epidemic.

• Appointed Joanne Cline to the Madison County Library Board, a four-year term that began in January. The court also hired Jeff McHone as head golf shop attendant at Battlefield Golf Course at a rate of $12.45 per hour. Terry Bradfish was promoted to a CSEPP lead position for $20 per hour. Dakota Begley was hired as CDL trainee/general laborer in the road department at a rate of $20 per hour.

• Clerk Kenny Barger informed the court of a proposal to raise the election precinct officer pay for polling location coordinators from $200 to $250, which are at 15 of 17 locations in the county. The precinct officer pay will increase to $150, an increase of $11,000 per election beginning in November.

• The Courthouse will be closed Monday in observance of Presidents Day.

citizens, and on-scene safety concerns involving Madison County Rescue Squad, Inc.," Madison County Judge Executive Reagan Taylor said. "In addition, feedback and input from members of the emergency response community both within Madison County Government and with our partnering emergency response agencies led to this decision."

Members of the Madison County rescue squad disagreed with the decision.

"We strongly disagree with the decision to withdraw our affiliation with the county but we will work to insure an orderly transition of services," the Rescue Squad said in a Facebook post last week.

"Organizations that have previously depended upon us for support for public events should contact the Madison County Fire Department to discuss arrangements for future support.

"Citizens who need emergency assistance should continue to call 911 as usual. While we will no longer be providing rescue services after Feb. 11, we intend to properly store and maintain our vehicles and equipment, continue training and maintain our status as a non-profit corporation.

"We hope that a future administration will reconsider the need to provide a dedicated rescue squad for the county, and if that occurs, we expect to be ready to serve."

In a release, the court said the Madison County Fiscal Court, Madison County Emergency Management, and Madison County Fire Department will:

• Continue to provide the same level of service that Madison Countians are accustomed to and in compliance with KRS 39F.

• Continue to provide rescue service, as we have in the past, with our highly qualified full-time firefighters who are trained in both fire and rescue response.

• Continue our financial support of each of our volunteer fire departments as well as the Berea Rescue Squad.

• Continue to ensure a baseline of 100 hours of training per member in both fire and rescue response.

• Continue utilizing specialized teams to assist in major scale events.

• Continue to utilize the County's extrication equipment for vehicle entrapment response.

44th District Tournament matchups all set

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

The 44th District draw was held Monday afternoon.

Both Madison Southern teams will face Madison Central on Monday, Feb. 24. The girls' team will play at 6 p.m. followed by the boys' game at 7:45 p.m.

The Berea Pirates boys and girls team will face Model's teams on Tuesday, Feb. 25. The girls play at 6 p.m., followed by the boys' game at 7:45 p.m.

The winners of Monday and Tuesday's games will face off in championship games on Friday, Feb. 28, with the girls game starting at 6 p.m. and the boys' game at 7:45 p.m. Eastern Kentucky University will host the tournament.

Pirates on a roll

The Berea Pirates made it seven wins in a row with an 88-59 victory against St. Patrick. Jayden Smith dropped in 18 points while grabbing eight rebounds to lead Berea (17-5). Jarred Whitaker added 16 points, while Timmy Thompson finished with 16 points and eight rebounds.

Earlier in the week, Berea knocked off Nicholas County, 79-61. Whitaker finished that game with 22 points. Jaylen Dorsey added 22 points and five rebounds.

Coach Eric Swords said the team has been unselfish.

"We have been moving the basketball on offense," Swords said. "When we are doing those things, we are hard to guard."

Berea closes out the regular season by hitting the road for five of its final seven games.

Southern hitting its stride

After dispatching Central Kentucky HomeSchool, 87-59, the Madison Southern Eagles (12-12) hit a bump in the road with a 58-54 loss to Dunbar.

Chad Fugate led Southern against Dunbar with 31 points, while Hunter Buchanan added 10. Against CKYHS, Fugate lead the Eagles with 22; Buchanan finished with 16. Nate Turner also added 14 points and six rebounds in the win. Jayden Adams knocked in 10 points.

With two weeks left in the regular season, Coach Austin Newton is hopeful the Eagles will produce solid defensive efforts down the stretch and post-season.

"Defense ultimately wins post-season games," Newton said. "I like our chances heading into the postseason, and we are going to be a very tough out for somebody in the next two weeks."

Lady Pirates in 'zone'

As the season winds down, Berea Lady Pirates coach Dammian Stepp said his team must figure out a way to beat zone defenses down the stretch.

"Shooting well outside against the zone helps, but penetrating zone defenses with the dribble or the pass (and) getting the ball into the interior is essential," he said. "We are improving in this regard, but still not quite there."

Berea (13-11) had an up and down week as the Lady Pirates rolled past Estill County, 70-55, but were upended against Lafayette, 51-34.

Madison Howell finished with 16 points and eight rebounds against Estill County, while Chesney Lovins added 16 points and six rebounds. Isis Rodgers finished with a double-double (12 points and 11 rebounds) in the win.

Howell also paced the Lady Pirates with 10 points against Lafayette. Rodgers added six points and six rebounds, and Lovins finished with six points.

The Madison Southern Lady Eagles have come close, but the result hasn't been what they wanted. Southern (12-12) dropped four straight games, including three games last week (North Laurel, 52-49, Southwestern, 62-57, and Campbell County, 65-56).

Samantha Cornelison averaged 18.3 points during the three-game stretch. Reece Estep was a single point away from a double-double versus North Laurel, finishing with nine points and 11 rebounds. Aleigh Richardson did record a double-double against Southwestern, finishing with 14 points and 11 rebounds.

Against Campbell County, the Lady Eagles had four players in double digits, left by Cornelison's 14. Richardson added 13, while Morgan Flannery finished with 12. Sunni Walters added 10 points.

Berea breaks swim records

The Berea Pirates swim team had a solid showing at the regional swim meet over the weekend. Katie Morgan finished fourth in the 200 freestyle and seventh in the 100 freestyle. Both of her times are new school records. Caleb Campbell finished fourth in the 100 breaststroke and seventh in the 50 freestyle, Ethan Anderson finished sixth in the 100 freestyle and 14th in the 100 breaststroke, and Alex Sallee finished 16th overall in the 100 freestyle. Overall, the team scored 119 points in the regional meet, that's compared to only 10 points last year. Morgan and Campbell were seconds from qualifying for the state swim meet.

Council revises ethics rules

By Keith Taylor
News Editor

The Berea City Council adopted a revised ethics ordinance and then dissolved an Ad Hoc committee formed to update the code during its bi-monthly meeting Tuesday at the Berea City Annex.

The ordinance helps the city in its efforts to guard against conflicts of interest, nepotism and adds harsher penalties for ethics violations in the future. The ordinance adds that the city cannot employ relatives of elected officials, the city administrator, city clerk, police chief and fire chief in addition to council members and the mayor.

Council member Steve Caudill served as chairman of an ad hoc committee charged with revising the city's ethics code.

The ordinance also states that no officer, employee, or appointee shall directly or indirectly solicit or accept any gift valued at more than $75, whether it is money, loans, travel, entertainment, other objects, or promise of such.

Benches donated to BCS

The Citizen/Keith Taylor

The Gear Up Leadership Club at Berea Community Schools donated a pair of park benches to the school on Tuesday. The benches were made of bottle caps collected by members of the club. More than 200 pounds of plastic lids were used to make the two benches. The club met after school on a weekly basis to sort the lids and learned about sustainability and teamwork. The benches were made by Greentree Plastics, based in Evansville, Indiana and the group, comprised of middle and high school students at BCS collected bottle caps for the project over a six-month period. In bottom photo, eighth-grader Brayden Thacker shows assistant middle school principal Casey Poynter and high school principal Charlie Brock a park bench donated to the middle and high school, while elementary principal Paula Johnson chats with sixth-grader Travis Harris, top photo, on a bench donated to the elementary school. The benches will be used where they are needed on school grounds.

News from Berea Rotary

Citing her number one priority as a Kroger store, Donna Angel shared her expertise through an outline of her plans in the position of Director for Business Development for the City of Berea. As a Madison County native with an extensive background in the banking industry and as a manager of several JCP (JC Penney) stores, she is able to recognize needs, issues, and hope for growth. She cited both Berea College and the Arts & Crafts community as strong assets for the town. A website is a forceful marketing tool for growing the economy while helping small business owners. "We need to step forward with what we have to offer," she stated. The Berea area offers a good quality of life with a mixture of activities and events that make it worthy of securing funding via various sources. She noted that some remodeling of places might be aided through an opportunity zone. She understands the call to stay above and ahead of a changing world. She assured Berea Rotarians that she would do all in her power to see that happen.

Rotarian Phil Malicote with speaker Donna Angel

The only guest at the meeting was Rotary Partner, Helen Eden. Since Eden had attended the tour of the Margaret A. Cargill Natural Sciences and Health Building (MAC for short) at Berea College, she had praises for the facility, describing it as "fabulous." The meeting was directed by Rita Davis, current President-Elect, in the absence of President Gary Simpson. Davis described the two leadership training sessions which she has attended and her plans for attending two more.

Berea Rotary, an international service organization, meets each Tuesday at noon at the Artisan Center and welcomes those interested in "Service Above Self."

message from Cora Jane Wilson

"And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.

The ungodly are not so: but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away.

Therefore the ungodly shall not stand in the judgment, nor sinners in the congregation of the righteous."

76 people liked it

Sample comments

Mari Calhoun Yes, but the decriminalization must happen on a federal level or people will have to choose between marijuana or owning a firearm legally. Can't have both because the background checks eliminate marijuana users from buying firearms.

Cheryl Hayes Ostrowiak It is proven to be beneficial in so many treatments.

Lesha Gay McIntosh Medicinal yes. Recreational no.

Rosa Lee Langley No: another excuse to use it - but more $$$$$$ for the state!

Gregory Bordelon Interesting question; more interesting results from the swarm... so after reading 113 comments only 3 against, and a couple concerned about recreational usage (which, is its own can of worms). Neat question and again 113 comments in 11 hours, wow! Neat results as well!

Taylor's Thoughts

A lot has changed in Berea during the course of my lifetime. Some of those changes aren't as drastic as some of you have witnessed, but still, the city isn't the same as it was even 30 years ago.

I'm old enough to remember when the first VCR recorders came out and video stores began to blossom. It was a treat for us to go to the video store and rent movies, simply because we didn't frequent the movie theaters. We usually got our movies on the weekend and returned them on Monday, giving us time to watch them during the weekend.

We rented from Video Productions, Blockbuster and there also was a store in the Boone Square Shopping Center that rented movies and had tanning beds, if I remember correctly. The video age lasted approximately 20-plus years before the era of Netflix and Amazon arrived on the scene. Although buying a movie is simpler these days, I do miss going into a store and gleaning the "new releases" and bringing them home for a couple of days.

Mom worked at Gibson Greeting Cards and she usually got paid each Thursday and that's when she did her grocery shopping. She usually went to Piggly Wiggly or Superior. I think my favorite was Superior, simply because of the traditional grocery store feel. I miss those small grocery stores that were owned by mom and pop.

I don't think Piggly Wiggly was here long, but we did frequent that chain a lot. If we went to Richmond, we always went to Thornberry's, which was near K-Mart in the shopping center off U.S. 25 and on the Bypass. I remember Thornberry's had the best bakery in the county. Their donut holes were so good. We always bought a bag when we did our grocery shopping there.

I miss a few former food establishments here in Berea, including Kentucky Fried Chicken. Seems like their chicken was always better than other KFCs in the region. It was always a treat to get a bucket of chicken from the KFC next to Mario's Pizza. It was a small restaurant, but it was big on service and always fresh and good.

I'm hoping we can get us a KFC here in town again and bring back the old days of grabbing a box of chicken and going home to eat.

I also remember getting ice cream and the famous "Big T" burger at the Tastee Freeze. It was always good and so tasty just as the name suggested. I also remember Peoples Restaurant, which later became "Sweet Betty's." Peoples, which was open 24 hours, had the best food buffet and the pies that Sweet Betty made were phenomenal.

Peoples was unique in the fact that it was open all the time. Our advertising manager, Sheila Johnson, spent many hours working there and said the only time they closed was at 5 p.m. on Dec. 23 each year and didn't open again until Dec. 26.

There have been numerous restaurants come and go in Berea and hopefully we can get us some more places to eat in the future.

I've heard that Burger King is coming back and that's a start. We have some fine dining choices here in Berea and I say the more the better.

Pelfrey: Friend needs a kidney donor

Dear Editor,

My friend, John Kevin Frasure is 58 years old and was born and raised in Raceland, Kentucky. He is the only child of Robert Frasure Jr. and Rosemary (Pennington) Frasure. He attended Raceland High School and graduated in 1979. He is now retired from CSX where he was employed for 36 years. He also worked over 40 years with his father at F & W Cabinet Shop in Raceland for many years.

At the age of 14, Kevin was diagnosed with Crohn's disease and has had a battle with many health issues over the years. He has now had both kidneys removed and is on dialysis. He has type O blood. The need for a kidney is URGENT because without a donor his life is in danger.

BENEFITS OF A LIVING DONOR:

•Close to 96% of living donor kidneys are functioning at the end of the first year.

•A living donor transplantation offers better long-term success rate then kidney transplants from a patient that has died.

•The average length of time a kidney donor transplant lasts is about 20 years, compared to 10-13 years for a deceased donor.

•Increased odds of immediate kidney function.

•Fewer medications are needed to prevent rejection.

•Long waiting periods that can occur with post-mortem donor transplants are eliminated.

•Surgery can be scheduled when the recipient is in optimal medical condition.

•Provides a significant psychologist psychological benefit to the donor.

THE EVALUATION PROCESS:

•Once compatibility is determined the University of Cincinnati will bring the donor in for a full day of medical testing. At that time, the donor will also meet with different members of the Transplant team. There is no cost to the donor for the evaluation or the surgery itself.

•The donor's medical evaluation is strictly confidential and will not be shared with anyone without his or her consent.

•The donor can decide at any time to change their mind about proceeding with donation. Their reason is kept confidential.

If you are reading this and are interested in making a life changing difference for Kevin or know of someone who would want to be a donor, please contact the University of Cincinnati directly at 1-513-584-7001. They can answer any questions you may have concerning being a donor.

We have also created a web page http://kidneyforkevin.blogspot.com and a Facebook page JOHN KEVIN FRASURE NEEDS A KIDNEY.

RATING

interpretability of CMS's hospital quality website, Hospital Care, for patients and consumers. According to CMS, the star ratings make it easier for consumers to choose a hospital and understand the quality of care they deliver.

The overall rating from Hospital Compare ranges from one to five stars, with a five-star rating being the highest a hospital can receive. The overall rating summarizes up to 57 quality measures reflecting common conditions that hospitals treat, such as heart attacks or pneumonia. The overall rating shows how well each hospital performed, on average, compared to other hospitals in the United States.

The Hospital Compare star ratings are based on data hospitals provide to CMS through the Hospital Inpatient Quality Reporting (IQR) Program and the Hospital Outpatient Quality Reporting (OQR) Program.

This year:

- 228 hospitals received one star
- 710 hospitals received two stars
- 1,191 hospitals received three stars
- 1,136 hospitals received four stars
- 407 hospitals received five stars

Saint Joseph Berea is a 25-bed critical access hospital located in Berea, KY. Saint Joseph Berea recognizes the importance of family, friends and familiar surroundings in the healing process and provides a breadth of services so that getting first-rate care doesn't have to mean being far from home.

RULES

FROM A1

The rule does not apply to gifts accepted officially on behalf of the City of Berea.

Regarding the use of city property, the measure states that no officer or employee of the city shall use city time, funds, personnel, equipment, or other personal or real property for private use unless it is specifically allowed by city policy, or unless said benefit is available to the general public.

The use of city facilities for political endorsements also is limited and adds that officers or employees may not engage in political activities by using city employees, uniforms, facilities or engage in political activity when they are supposed to be working at the city.

Following passage of the ordinance, an Ad Hoc committee charged with updating the ordinance was disbanded.

The council also entered into a new contract with Waste Connections. The new contract increases to 28 cents per month, an average of $3.36 per year for residential pickup. The new contract also stipulates that Waste Connections agrees to investigate and resolve issues raised by customers, and that they'll keep a written record of how those issues are resolved. Under the terms of the draft, the city is entitled to a copy of that written report on customer service, and Waste Connections would agree to provide it to the city administration.

In other business

- The council approved final reading of a fire prevention code, and an amended budget for the current fiscal year.
- Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley appointed Lesha Hays to the Madison County EMS Board for a 2-year term and she will be recommended to the Madison County Fiscal Court for final approval. Fraley also appointed Janel Lakes Davenport and Robert "Peanut" Johnson Sr. to the Berea Human Rights Commission.
- Berea Arts Accelerator Director Jeffrey Carpenter presented a 35-tile quilt mural to the city, a collaboration between Berea and Yatsugatake, Japan. The quilt features inspirational messages written in the Japanese language.
- Fraley signed a certificate of emergency on Feb. 7 to deal with an issue at the Waste Water Treatment Plant. A bearing was ordered for $25,031 from Lakeside Equipment.
- Accepted a bid from Buchanan Contracting for $2, 311,340 on the Walnut Meadow and South Middletown Pump Station project.

Persons with five years of service to the Hyster Company in Berea were recently recognized. Presented with awards were John Rose, Dale Young, Carl Gadd, Joe Cole, Roy Alexander, Charles Shelton, John Powell, Ted Bergstrom, and production manager Danny Dooley.

Kelly Mehler and Peter Blunt of Berea exhibited handcrafted woodwork in the Baltimore Winter Market Feb. 16-17. They were selected from over 1,300 applicants seeking to exhibit their work. The exposition sponsored by American Craft Enterprises is considered one of the most prestigious crafts events in the nation.

Ensign Randall K. Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Douglas of Berea, has graduated from Officers Candidate School and received his commission at the Naval Education Training Center at Newport, Rhode Island on Dec. 21. He is a graduate of Berea Community High School and has a bachelor's degree from Berea College.

"Our Land-Why Conserve it?" was the subject of the 1979 conservation poster and essay contest. The winner of the essay contest was Michael Singleton, an eighth grade student at Berea Community School. He was pictured with the principal of the school, James K. Miller and his teachers, Shirley Gentry and Peggy Murray. The winner of the poster contest was Gina Turner, a fifth grade student in Mrs. Nina K. Reed's science class at Waco Elementary.

onship were not paramount in many of the player's minds. Instead their minds were focused on trying to win the encounter because they had dedicated the victory to one of their own players, Junior center Tim Powell, who was absent from the lineup due to the tragic passing of his mother a couple of days earlier. Berea coach Tony Cox was convinced that Powell's loss served to inspire the other members of the team. It was with just four seconds remaining that senior guard Harold Rhodus sunk a 10-foot jumper from the side to put the Pirates on top to stay. Senior forward Joey Poynter tossed in a game high 22 points while senior center forward Steve McCollum completed the duet with 14. Also contributing were Rhodus with eight, Jeff Johnson with six, David Boggs four, Larry Sandefur with four, John Brumley with two, Mike Miller with two and David Burgio with two.

Arick Lewis Abney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Abney of 203 Oak Street, celebrated his birthday on Jan. 12 at the McDonalds in Berea. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Glen D. Renner and Mr. and Mrs. John Gill of Berea. His grandfather was the late Hobert Abney.

Superdog Rebel, owned by Kelvin, Brian, and Roy Damrell, has a real claim to fame. The Berea boys say that he is the world's first snowball catching dog. They worked about three days to train Rebel, who is part German shepherd and collie. The Damrells are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Damrell of U.S. 25 South.

A Stitch in time created a beautiful cross-stitch tablecloth for Berea police dispatcher Arthur Hays. Hays, who does stitchery and painting as hobbies, says that the tablecloth took about three weeks to complete.

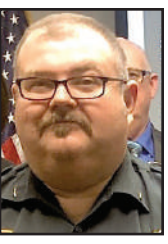
Court honors Brock

By Keith Taylor
News Editor

The Madison County Fiscal Court recognized one of its longest serving firefighters during its bi-monthly meeting Tuesday at the Madison County Courthouse.

The court recognized Steven Brock and he received a retirement appreciation certificate from Madison County Judge Executive Reagan Taylor. Brock served as a firefighter for more than two decades.



Brock

"I think in society and in the work force alone, if we had employees more like Stevie Brock, we wouldn't have a lot of the issues that we have with employment that we do," Taylor said. "Stevie is an outstanding person and he's an outstanding employee and (he) will be missed.

"He loves county government and it's obvious. He works hard at the fire department and on his days off over the past several years, he has come to the road department and has helped with whatever needs to be done. He's not one of these guys that has to do one thing. He will drive the animal wagon and mow at the parks. Whatever. He will go and pick up large items … we appreciate (his) leadership in this community and being a life-long Madison

Children's Champion art winner encourages kids to ...

'Aim High'

Lela Bowman is an athlete. She also can sing, dance and is a straight 'A' student at Berea Community. As it turns out, she's also an aspiring artist. Her principal Paula Johnson described her as an "all around student" after she was awarded the top winner in a county-wide art contest as part of "Be a Children's Champion Month" campaign that kicks off next week and will continue throughout the month of March. During an assembly Wednesday morning at the school, Bowman was honored and presented with a trophy and a banner that will be displayed in the school. She also received a monetary prize from the Berea Kiwanis Club and Madison County Judge Executive Reagan Taylor proclaimed March as "Be a Children's Champion Month" in Madison County. In top photo, Berea elementary school art instrructor Tina Wiliams presents Bowman, a 5th-grader, with the top prize. Taylor and Phyllis Adams, coordinator of "Be A Children's Champion Month" unveils a banner, bottom left, while Bowman and her mother Samantha share a happy moment during the ceremony. Bowman said she got the idea after she "almost made it' last year and started thinking about an "Aim High" theme, which allowed her to reach new heights. (Photos by Keith Taylor)

Born on July 9, 1931 in Berea, he was the son of the late Roy N. Walters, Sr. and Lillie Mae Crouch Walters. Gregory Franklin Williams, 63, Berea

Gregory Franklin Williams of Berea, passed away peacefully on Friday, February 21, 2020, after a long illness. He was 63 years old. As Greg's time for leavin' approached, he was embraced by the warm love of his sister, Pam Harrison, and the background jams of The Allman Brothers Band.

Greg was born on October 29, 1956, in Lexington. He was the only son of Eva Williams and the late Charles Williams. Although for much of his adult life he struggled with personal demons, he was able to lay them to rest through his renewed commitment to God and his love for Jesus Christ. Greg is remembered by his dear mother, sisters, nephews, daughter-in-law, and son for his generous nature, humor, and great capacity for tenderness, especially in the final years of his life.

Greg's mother and two sisters, Pam Harrison and Rebecca Williams, were fortunate for the opportunity to reconnect with Greg later in his life. As a lifelong fan of Kentucky basketball, much of his reconnection can be attributed to Kentucky basketball.

Not only did Greg enjoy watching sports, he was known to have a silky release from anywhere on the court and a love of baseball. His son (Kelly Williams) is incredibly fortunate and thankful to have the memories of playing catch, fielding grounders, and constantly losing at H-O-R-S-E to his father. The moments Greg and Kelly shared on the field and court are memories Kelly hopes to share with his future children.

Over the last few years, Greg formed a special relationship with his daughter-in-law, Junie Lim-Williams. Each Christmas Junie and Greg would scratch-off lottery tickets, compare winning, and mostly losing, numbers.

Greg cherished the special relationship with his sisters, Pam and Becky. Along with his mother, Eva, Pam was the foundation for much of Greg's comfort later in his life. They truly had a special bond.

Greg will be forever missed by his nephews, Casey Poynter and Jordan Harrison.

Greg is now at peace with his father, grandparents, Lee and Lucille Burnell, and his dear and loving uncles, Jim and Jack Burnell.

While Greg did not lead the life he had planned, he can take solace in knowing his mother is proud of her dear son for being a simple, kind man. Rest well, Greg. You deserve it.

Funeral services were Tuesday, February 25, 2020 at Lakes Funeral Home with Rev. Kenny Davis officiating. Burial followed in Berea Cemetery. Pallbearers included his nephews, Casey and Jordan. Honorary bearer was his friend and roommate, Kevin.

Leaping into March

Taylor's Thoughts
Keith Taylor
News Editor

There are 29 days in February but it only happens every four years.

The extra day built into the calendar will produce an additional 24 hours this year and the day is added to keep the Earth's movement in line with the sun and keep track with space time. Most Leap Day celebrations are centered around marriage and proposals.

In England apparently, if a man rejects a women's proposal, he owed the lady gloves, but Greeks considered it bad luck to marry on Leap Day. Some parts of the world consider Leap Day as Bachelor's Day, a time for singles to celebrate.

There are approximately 5 million people who were born on Leap Day. The odds of being born on a Leap Year are incredibly high, with only a 1 in a 1,461 probability rate. Dinah Shore was born on Leap Day in 1914 and Hip Hop artist Ja Rule was born on Leap Day in 1976.

On my very own Facebook page, it produces a list of birthdays and only one popped up on Feb. 29 and it was Pam Smallwood, who is featured with her husband Bill on the front page of this week's edition.

It's rather odd to have 29 days in February, especially after such a long month in January to kick off the new year. It just seems like the first month of the year is usually the longest. I guess the short days and longer nights can make it feel that way. A short February ushers in the winds of March. February also is Valentine's month and my mom and nephew celebrate their birthdays on the same day this month.

Because of sickness in the family, we celebrated Mom's birthday at Texas Roadhouse last Sunday afternoon.

Speaking of March, the Madness or Mayhem is set to begin not only on the weather front but also on the basketball court. The 44th District Basketball Tournament began this week at Eastern Kentucky's McBrayer Arena, an exciting time for local boys and girls basketball teams. One of my favorite times of the year covering sports is the SEC and NCAA Tournaments.

It's that time of the year when fans seemingly take it up a notch and get into the swing of the postseason. The Eastern Kentucky men's basketball team is in fourth place in the Ohio Valley Conference standings with two games remaining. The Colonels play at Murray State Thursday before ending the regular season against rival Morehead State Saturday in Richmond. The Ohio Valley Conference Tournament is set for March 4-7 in Evansville, Indiana.

Kentucky currently is playing its best basketball of the season and have three games remaining. The Wildcats host Auburn on Saturday and Tennessee on Tuesday before closing out the regular season at Florida on March 7. If the regular-season is any indication, this year's NCAA Tournament figures to be an unpredictable, but fun event.

From now until the first week of April, it will all be about basketball.

Bland: Ask Senator Carpenter to vote Yes on medical marijuana

Dear Editor,

I would like to encourage all of my fellow Bereans to call their state senator, Jared Carpenter, and request he vote yes on HB 136, to legalize medical marijuana.

On February 20, 2020, the medical marijuana bill, HB 136, passed the Kentucky House of Representatives with a vote of 60 - 35 in favor. Now the bill goes to the senate to be heard in committee then hopefully before the full senate.

I know many people that would benefit from having this made legal. Many Kentuckians are considered criminals for the simple fact they are using something to help them with their pain, relieve their seizures, or ease their anxiety. Many of them have tried multiple medications and had no luck finding relief. There are veterans suffering that could find relief from legalizing medical marijuana.

If you or a family member could benefit from the use of something, wouldn't you want it to be legal? Wouldn't you do anything to stop their pain?

For those saying, people just want to use it to get high, that isn't the case, people just want something to relieve their pain and help them feel human again.

Now is the time for this. Advocates have been working for 8 years to make medicinal marijuana legal in Kentucky.

Contact Senator Carpenter today by calling the legislative hotline at (800) 372-7181

Leave a message for him saying: "I support HB136, medical marijuana, and would like for you to help get this bill before the committee and the Senate floor for a vote. Please VOTE YES to help Kentuckians gain safe access to medical marijuana."

Follow Kentuckians for medicinal marijuana on Facebook for updates and more information.

Berea to face Central in 44th District finals

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Three Berea players reached double digits as the Pirates advanced to the 44th District championship game for the first time since 2006 with a 60-53 win over Model.

Jaylen Dorsey finished with 19 points and eight rebounds to pace Berea (22-8). Jayden Smith and Timmy Thompson finished with 17 and 12 points, respectively. Smith also added eight rebounds to the tally sheet, while Jared Whitaker added seven points in the win.

"Our kids battled hard tonight," Coach Eric Swords said. "We played great defense, holding them to 35 percent shooting."

Berea's team play offset a big night by Model's Cruse Pingleton, who finished with 28 points and seven rebounds.

"We had problems containing Cruse, but are grateful to get out with a win," Swords added. "Our offense was as good as it's been all year. Dorsey and Smith both were great, and Timmy Thompson made some huge plays down the stretch. So happy for our guys and looking forward to competing on Friday for a District title."

Berea will face Madison Central for the 44th District Championship at 7:45 p.m. Friday, Feb. 28, at McBrayer Arena on Eastern Kentucky University's campus.

Berea and Central did not play each other during the regular season.

Lady Pirates 54, Lady Patriots 40

The Berea Lady Pirates turned up the heat in the second half and erased a 21-19 halftime deficit to blow past Model, 54-40, in the first round of the district tournament Tuesday night.

Berea (17-13) got 22 points and five rebounds from Madison Howell, who finished 11-for-12 from the foul line. Maddy King added 12 points, while Isis Rodgers finished with seven points.

Berea will face Madison Central for the district championship at 6 p.m. Friday at EKU. The two squads played on Dec. 16, 2019, with the Lady Pirates coming away with a tight, 51-48 win at home.

Madison Central 53, Southern 46

It was an abrupt ending to Madison Southern's season as the Eagles fell to cross-county rival Madison Central in the first round of the 44th District Tournament Monday night.

It began well enough as the Eagles (16-14) stretched a 27-19 halftime advantage to a 33-19 lead with 6:50 remaining in the third quarter following a Hunter Buchanan basket. From there, things went wonky as the Indians rallied to claim a 53-46 win and advanced to Friday night's championship game versus Berea.

Southern Coach Austin Newton said the game boiled down to second-half execution.

"The biggest difference in the game was Central's defense in the second half," Newton explained. "They were sticking to our shooters, which caused us to have to try and finish at the rim.

We had a hard time getting the ball in the post and couldn't finish at the rim when we needed to."

Particularly troublesome was Southern's inability to connect from long range in the second half. After going 5-for-9 from three-point land in the first half, the Eagles were stone cold in the second half, going 0-for-9.

"We did not make a three in the second half, and we are one of the best three-point shooting teams in the state," Newton pointed out.

Going into the game, Southern was focused on slowing down Central's Kole Brown. While the Eagles limited Brown to seven points, the Indians had other players who stepped up their game.

It was an unceremonious end for a group of talented seniors, Newton said.

"This is one of my favorite teams that I've ever been a part of in sports because of not only the way they play, but because of their leadership and the way they have bought into the culture we have established at Madison Southern," Newton said. "Even though we lost this game, we had a winning season as far as the record at 16-14, and they are winners off the court and in the community. Their legacy will be remembered forever."

Nate Turner and Hunter Buchanan lead Southern with 11 points each. Chad Fugate added eight points, while Colby Sebastian finished with seven points.

Lady Indians 40, Lady Eagles 36

A cold second quarter spelled doom for the Madison Southern Lady Eagles as they fell to Madison Central, 40-36, in the first round of the 44th District Tournament.

First-year coach Allie Turley said Central's game plan didn't feature the unexpected, but the game boiled down to inconsistency.

"Central did not do anything we were not expecting," Turley said. "We just struggled to make shots in the second quarter and we had too many unforced turnovers during that same time."

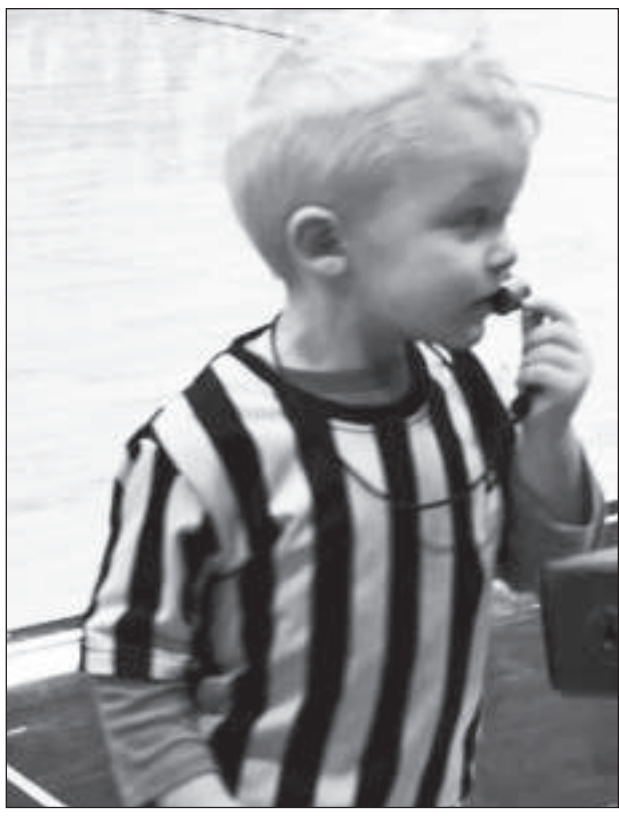
Macie Daniels led Southern with 19 points and three rebounds. Aleigh Richardson added five points and nine boards in the loss. The team's leading scorer Samantha Cornelison was strapped with foul trouble early on and finished with three points and three rebounds.

"Sam getting into foul trouble did not affect our game plan any more than if it had been someone else in foul trouble," Turley added.

The Lady Eagles finish the season with a 16-15 mark, and Turley credited his seniors for laying a foundation to build on.

"We would have liked a few more wins, but we played a tough schedule," the coach said. "This program has great kids that are always willing to work and will fight to the final buzzer.

"This senior group is made up of some fantastic young women with bright futures," Turley continued. "This group has done a great job of leading all year long, and they have helped set the standard of Lady Eagle Basketball. They will be missed. I wish I could have coached them for more than one season."



Future referee Camden Flannary at a recent Madison Southern girls basketball game.

Filling the needs of the future

In January 2019, Tim Sullivan of the Courier Journal wrote an article concerning the alarming shortage of sports officials. In fact KHSAA Commissioner Julian Tackett scolded parents and school officials alike for the effect verbal abuse was having on availability of officials.

There is even a radio ad touting the positive aspects of becoming a referee, such as, "stay connected to a game that you've loved."

Commissioner Tackett may take heart.

If he attends a Madison Southern High School girls' basketball game, he will see the best of the future.

While many youngsters wish to have a police, astronaut, or firefighter uniform, this young man runs along the sidelines with his whistle, as he mimics all the gestures known to the game by the referees. If a ball comes his way out of bounds, he proudly picks it up and hands it to the closest official who shares the uniform.

He is Camden Flannery, the brother of his Lady Eagle sister, sophomore Morgan Flannery. He is the son of David and Jessica Flannery.

SMALLWOOD

FROM A1

Pam said earlier this week. "That keeps it in February, because otherwise, you are jumping into another month. The fun part is that I have a cousin that was born on the 28th and another cousin that was born in March 1. We always just traded birthdays."

Pam admitted that it's odd because "nobody really knows how to celebrate it." One out of 1,461 babies are born on Feb. 29, making the celebrations even more special.

"A lot of times I will get a card real early or later on," she said. "Somebody is wishing me a happy birthday for about five days."

Although rare, Pam and one of her classmates shared the same birthday in grade school at King's Mountain Elementary School in Lincoln County.

"We've lost touch since, but it was very strange that two of us had that birthday, especially in a small school," she said.

While coaching, Bill and Pam scheduled celebrations with their children around the district basketball tournament, which usually occurred during the end of the month and squeezed in time to celebrate with children Katie, Tess and Hayley.

"My birthday always fell right around district tournament (time)," she said. "It was always around that time and just part of it. When you have three children you learn how to celebrate. We could have lunch together and celebrate some other time. As a family, we didn't really treat them a whole lot different."

"The girls would do an activity and we would all do something together," Bill added. "We always made something special together. We just had to squeeze it in and adjust."

This year, Bill and Pam will celebrate by attending the Kentucky-Auburn game at Rupp Arena, followed by a dinner party celebration at Dudley's with family and friends.

"This year (my birthday) is different because of my age, not because (of leap year)," she said. "This year is going to be pretty special."

In honor of Pam's birthday, her grandmother celebrated the rare feat every four years by placing a picture in the Stanford Interior Journal during her childhood and most of her adulthood and Pam often thinks of what the times were like when she was born.

"At this point (in my life), I often think of how my mom, who was super young, and how they must have acted at the hospital that day," she said.

Berea High crowns its 50th Spring Homecoming court

By Catie Terill
Staff Reporter

On Saturday, Feb. 15, 2020, in between the boys basketball game vs. Danville Christian Academy and the girls junior varsity game vs. Red Bird Christian School, the winter homecoming court was crowned. After being rescheduled and renamed "Hoco 2.0," the anticipated event finally arrived. Senior Homecoming Queen and King Hannah Caudill and Brendon Thomason were crowned along with senior Prince and Princess Sean Fagin and Christian Duff, junior Prince and Princess Isaac Uzzle and Kaetlyn Ballard, sophomore Prince and Princess Alex Clark and Emily Biggs, and freshman Prince and Princess Cannon Cummins and Chesney Lovins.

This year's candidates for homecoming were representatives from each class and elected by the student body. Each class elected three to four pairs of students from their class to best represent them in the homecoming court. The senior class candidates were Hannah Caudill, Sean Fagin, Nadalee Davis, Eric Luppins, Christian Duff, Brendon Thomason, Savannah Lurty, and Timmy Thompson. The junior class elected Kaetlyn Ballard, Tori Ellis, Braedyn Johnson, Isaac Uzzle, Julia Kilgore, and Andrew Ward from their class. The sophomore candidates were Alex Clark, Emily Biggs, Bidhu Sharma, Isis Rodgers, Ella Thomason, Mati Stepp, and Ty Thompson. The freshman class elected Cannon Cummins, Maddy King, Parker Duckworth, Chesney Lovins, Carma Rodgers, and Trent Wilson from their class.

The candidates were chosen solely on the student body's votes, so this makes being a member of the homecoming court a great honor. Those elected understood how important it was to be selected by their classmates, including Homecoming Queen Hannah Caudill. Hannah is a majorette who has never won any dances throughout high school so she was super excited to win Queen. She said, "I was definitely surprised because I'm such a quiet person and I wasn't expecting to win. Although I'm very quiet it has always been very important to me to be kind and respectful to others and by being voted homecoming queen, I feel like people have recognized that." Hannah, as well as the other members of the court recognize how special it is to be part of this event and to be part of their school.

Each member of the homecoming court is a great representative of Berea Community and their class. This honor is a great way to show support to the student body as a whole and create new memories for each candidate. Berea Community Schools is very proud of each member of the court that was selected and wants to give special thanks to everyone involved that made this homecoming the best it could be.

Hollywood actor speaks to students

By Elly Green
Senior Editor

On Friday, Jan. 31, middle and high school students gathered in the Kennedy Theatre during seminar to hear from Muse Watson, a Hollywood actor who now lives in Berea. There were about 70 students in attendance for the hour-long presentation.

The presentation began with a short video highlighting Watson's acting career in shows such as NCIS and Prison Break, to show students what he is like as an actor. Watson then spoke to students on his life experience as well as the realities of being a working actor. He talked about his relationship with Berea College and how it helped him gain success and his personal pathway to Hollywood. At one point, Watson passed "Hollywood Money" around to show students that everything in Hollywood is not what it seems on the screen. He also shared stories with the students on his experiences working with other famous actors. Towards the end of the presentation, students were given the opportunity to ask Watson questions and have headshots signed.

Watson's talk was a part of a series of presentations hosted by Berea's Middle-High Gear Up Academic Interventionist to show students the many different career paths available to them after high school. In the 2019-20 school year, students have had the chance to meet with a veterinarian, a NASA engineer, college recruiters, and now with Watson. These talks are given during seminar, a time for students to get homework help or take prep classes for standardized testing. Corey Walker, the middle school Gear Up Academic Interventionist said, "I think that for the kids, seminar can feel repetitive...However, when we have speakers come, the kids seem to sit up a little straighter in their seats and value their experience a little more. I think this is true for teachers as well." Walker also mentioned that he can see a positive impact on the students who attend the programs, saying that many leave inspired and encouraged.

Watson's presentation provided students with a positive role model in the community, as well as giving young actors a look into a working artist's life. It displayed to students that success can be found in the arts and encouraged them to be ambitious and excited about life after high school. Watson's talk was a huge success for the Gear Up team and students alike. More information on future Gear Up talks will be available to students and parents in the upcoming weeks.

Student Council hosts spirit week

By Christian Duff
Managing Editor

On Saturday, Feb. 15, Berea Community High School celebrated their 50th spring Homecoming. The week leading up to the girls and boys basketball games and the annual homecoming dance are very special, as Student Council puts together a spirit week for students to dress-up and show their Pirate pride! Spirit days are something everyone looks forward to, especially since it gives students reason to twin with their friends or wear pajamas to school, which is always fun. With homecoming being postponed for a few weeks due to weather and sickness, homecoming week has been highly anticipated!

This homecoming week was quite the treat, and students seemed to have had a fun time creating their outfits for each day! Monday was "Decades Day," Tuesday was "Pajama Day," Wednesday was "Cowboys v. Cowgirls," Thursday was "Surfers v. Tourists," and to wrap up the week, Friday was "Spirit Day or Frat Out." Senior Student Council President Thomas Brock, when asked about his favorite spirit day so far, replied "Decades Day (Mon.) because of my 70s platform shoes." Those shoes were definitely a statement piece for 70s attire, and everyone loved them!

On Saturday, the 2020 spring court was crowned before the fourth quarter of the boys basketball game. The homecoming dance followed the game, shortly after, at 8 o'clock where the court was recognized once again, and pirates gathered for a night of dancing and celebration. This time of year is always a reminder that "it's a great day to be a Pirate!"

Teachers switch positions mid-year due to vacancies

By Carly McDonald

By Emily Fredrickson
Staff Reporter

During the winter break, three teachers at Berea Community Middle and High School changed positions to better suit the district's needs. The three teachers who changed positions were Ms. Pamela Cveticanin, Ms. Jennifer Welch, and Ms. Angela West.

Ms. Cveticanin switched from being a middle school English teacher to becoming the middle and high school art teacher. She has had experience designing props in Hollywood and was a part of designing the famous Bride of Chucky doll. Cveticanin is qualified to teach preschool through 12th-grade art as well as English and communication in fifth through ninth grade. However, Cveticanin explained, her passion is art: "I want to share that passion with my students and help them to find their own creative way."

Ms. Welch taught both general and Advanced Placement American history classes. She now teaches middle school Social Studies. After she left her high school classes, a substitute teacher helped her Advanced Placement class stay on track for the exam. One junior, Braedyn Johnson, explained, "I think the new teacher will catch us up and we'll be prepared for the test in May." The newly hired American history teacher, Mr. Trussel, graduated from EKU with a Master's in History and a focus in American history. He is very excited to be teaching at Berea Community.

Ms. Angela West is now the District Instructional Coach and Striving Readers' Coordinator. She is qualified to teach fifth through ninth grade English and Social Studies but loves her new job at the board office. West explained, "I love being a classroom teacher, but I wanted an opportunity to impact education from a different perspective."

The changes resulted due to vacancies in other positions. West became the District Instructional Coach and Striving Readers' Coordinator, leaving the position of middle school Social Studies teacher available. Welch filled the middle school social studies position and left the position of high school United States history classes vacant, which was filled by Trussel. The previous middle and high school art teacher, Ms. Kimberly Clouse, became the elementary school librarian, allowing Cveticanin to become the new middle and high school art teacher. A new middle school English teacher, Ms. Wendy Nixon, was hired.

All of the changes took place during the semester because the hiring process began after the school year had started. High school principal Charlie Brock explained, "Ideally, for me and for Mr. Owens, it's never good to have a change here in the middle of the year; we want to keep our teachers in place, but sometimes those things happen." Despite the sudden changes, both the new teachers and their students seem to be adjusting well to the new changes.

Homecoming games result in success for both girls' and boys' basketball

Lady Pirates defeat Red Bird Christian School

By John Wallhausser
Staff Reporter

On Saturday February 15th, the Berea Lady Pirates took part in a homecoming day double header. They played their game against the Red Bird Christian School Lady Cardinals. The first half of the game was a close one with the Lady Pirates having a tough time holding a lead. However, after halftime, they came out like a different team. The Lady Pirates ended up winning the game with a comfortable lead of 67-51.

This game was a little bit of a curveball for the Lady Pirates. seeing as their game was only a couple hours before the school's spring homecoming dance, and some of the players probably had the dance on their minds. Some of the players planning to go to the dance afterwards had even already gotten partially ready for it, and many of them had straightened their hair, painted their nails, or other things like that. Sophomore varsity starter Isis Rodgers explained, "With hoco games, I feel like it is important to remember that the game matters the most during the game." Another thing about homecoming games is that the crowds tend to be a lot bigger. When asked how she deals with the extra pressure, Rodgers explained that "During hoco games I feel there is not much pressure to put on a show, You just have to go out and win and play as a team. Overall, it is about the game itself." Even if they weren't worried about it, the Lady Pirates certainly did put on a show for their audience.

Pirates defeat Danville Christian Academy

On Saturday, Feb. 15, the Berea Pirates Boys Basketball team played the Danville Christian Academy Warriors. Despite the pressure put upon the Berea Pirates, they did not underperform and came out victorious in their winter homecoming game.

Very early into the game, it was clear what the outcome would be. The pirates were leading by double digits before the end of the first quarter. Some key contributors to this game included the guards Jayden Smith and Jaylen Dorsey. Jayden Smith was especially effective from the 3 point line which helped him to score 12 points. Likewise, Jaylen Dorsey was a challenge for Danville players to defeat in the paint and had 14 points to finish the game. The rest of the team were involved throughout the game each scoring, rebounding, and assisting their teammates for a huge win over Danville Christian. For example, player, Nick Harrison had numerous rebounds to help the team lead in rebounds by 10. There were many other players that worked hard for this win.

One player, Edward Sexton, said the key to the big win was, "The team's ability to shut down Danville Christians shooters". One may believe the key to winning this game was the team's tenacity and teamwork. Throughout the season, the team has shown they will persevere and have no intention of stopping their winning streak.

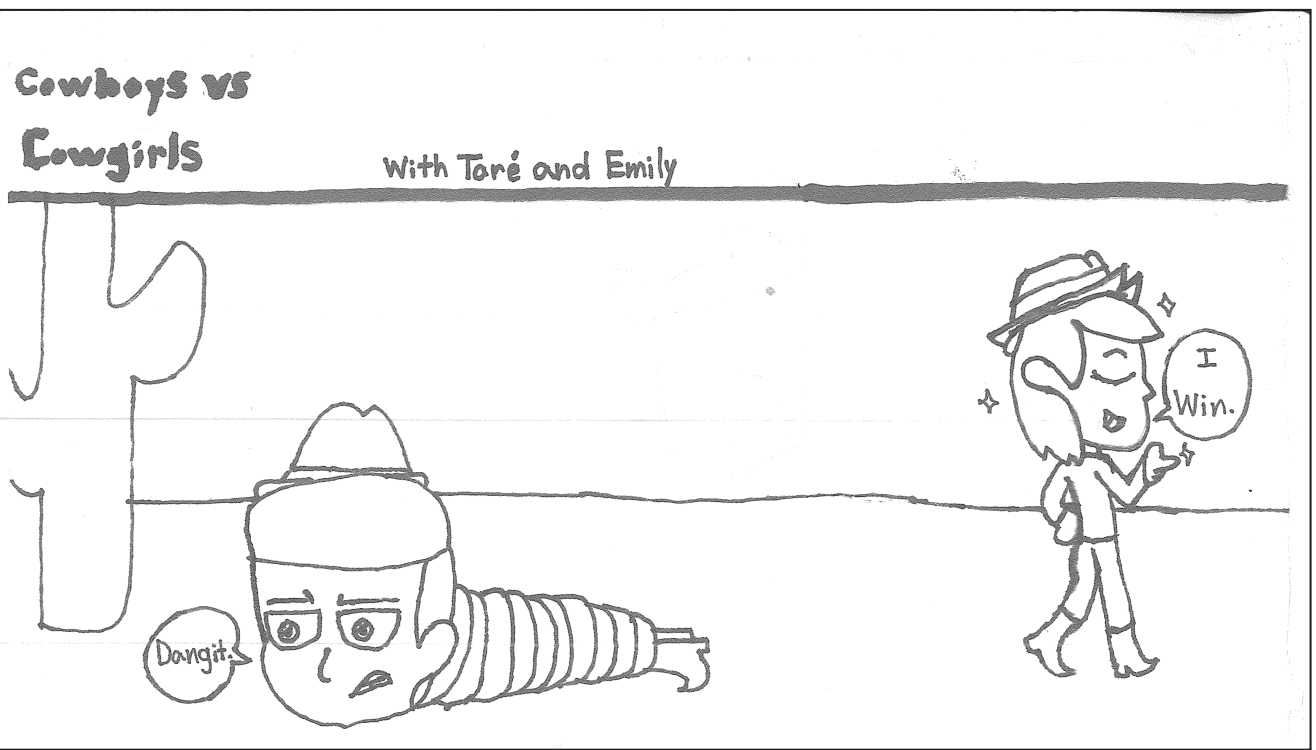
New administration, new prom

By Lola Cox
Managing Editor & Podcast Host

This April 25, Berea Community High School is hosting its 50th annual prom. Mrs. Welch, who has organized BCHS Prom for the last four years, recently moved positions to the middle school, resulting in a need for a new organizer. Mrs. Alexander, BCHS's High School Gear Up Coordinator, has put in many years of hard work into BCHS's Proms and is currently working with the junior class to organize a beautiful prom at Churchill Weavers.

The juniors choose a "Rustic Garden" theme. They and Mrs. Alexander are planning on going after school from 12 o'clock to 5 o'clock on the day's preceding prom to decorate Churchill Weavers. Mrs. Alexander said, "we're decorating with white table cloths, mason jars filled with live flowers, flameless candles, and, hopefully, [Churchill will] let us use the fairy lights. It'll be very simplistic, but beautiful." Like last year, Berea is only going to be using the front portion of the building, with a DJ and snacks that may be provided by the generous owner of Churchill Weavers.

Another new aspect of BCHS's Prom is that seniors will have to pay for their own tickets this year. In the past, prom tickets were gifted to the senior class. However, this year, seniors will be required to buy their own tickets. Tickets will still be $15 for singles and $25 for couples. Luckily both seniors and juniors can earn a free ticket by volunteering twice for concessions at BCHS home basketball games. Despite all of the changes this year, it seems like BCHS is still going to have a beautiful prom.



Special Olympics team plans polar bear plunge

By Hannah Davis
Staff Reporter

On Feb. 29, the Berea Gear Up Leadership Team sponsored by Patricia Alexander and the Special Olympics team will be holding a Polar Bear Plunge fundraiser for the team in Lexington at Texas Roadhouse from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

A Polar Bear Plunge is an event held during the winter where participants enter into the water, despite the low temperature. Special Olympics of Kentucky, will be represented at the Polar Plunge, however, because the leadership team has collaborated with Danielle Lillie's students, athletes at Berea Community will receive forty percent of the funds the group raises. Attendees can be plungers or virtual plungers, who will attend, but not plunge. Participants under the age of eighteen are required to raise $50 to plunge, and those eighteen and over are required to raise $75 to plunge. All proceeds support the Special Olympics of Kentucky. If you plan to take the Polar Plunge, having a change of clothes and a towel is advised to prevent you from getting sick from the exposed cold temperatures.

Berea Community's Leadership Team is also working on a fundraiser where students learn about sustainability. They are collecting 200 pounds of lids that will be melted down and turned into two four-foot benches that they will dedicate to our school. The goal is to complete this project by the end of February and present the benches to school administrators in the spring.

Swim team competes at regional competition

By Quenten Morgan
Staff Reporter

On Feb. 7, the Berea Community Swim Team competed in the Ninth Regional Swim Meet, their final meet of the 2020 season. The boy's team finished 10th overall with 80 points and the girls placed 13th overall with 39 points.

There were many individual successes by the swimmers on the team. Ninth grader Alex Saliee, who finished 16th in the boys 100M freestyle said, "This was my best season ever and I improved at a lot of things that I was not good at." The team has shown tremendous improvement this year, beating their own personal records as well as school records.

Eighth grader Caleb Campbell placed fourth in the boys' 100M breaststroke and seventh in the 50M freestyle. Senior Ethan Anderson finished off his career at Berea with a sixth place finish in the 100M freestyle. Sophomore swimmer Katie Morgan broke the school 200m freestyle record, which was previously set by her, with a time of 2:15.45. She finished fourth in the 200m freestyle which was Berea's best finish at regionals. Morgan also broke the 100m freestyle school record with a time of 1:02.37, where she finished seventh.

When asked about his thoughts on the team's performance this season, head coach Chuck Morgan stated, "The team score at this year's regionals was significantly higher than the prior year, which is a promising sign for the future." Morgan also commented on his hopes for the future of the team, which is comprised mostly of eighth graders and underclassmen. Morgan said, "The youth of this team is the most exciting part when I think of next season. Several of the younger swimmers were just off the pace for points at the regional meet and we had two veteran swimmers who were off the pace to qualify for state. Hopefully next year we can build on the improvement we experienced this year."

Although the 19-20 season has wrapped up, team members and coaches are excited for the prospects for next year. The team is confident that the Berea Pirate Swim Team will be one to look out for in the future.

News from Berea Rotary

One of the issues that emerged from the civil rights movement of the sixties was "fair share housing." Much of the debate which involved litigation was focused in Princeton, NJ. The group which spearheaded this in 1975 was FSHC (Fair Share Housing Center). A member of that group was Berea Rotarian Bob Shaffer who spoke concerning this at a recent meeting. The problem was that people of color or low-income could not live in the areas where they worked and served a community. Due to the Supreme Court's Mt. Laurel decision this inequity was resolved with the building of affordable single family units. Citizen groups that argued against it felt their residential areas would become a culture of fear due to criminal activities and violence. Two books (Our Town, Race, Housing, and Soul of Suburbia and Climbing Mount Laurel) address the results of the housing developments. The authors found that none of the fears were realized and that the children excelled in school because they could live where the better school systems were. People had jobs. In short, when people had a better environment their lives improved. Shaffer wanted to share the most recent settlement with Princeton, which establishes an obligation of nearly 1400 units. These new homes will be for working families and people with disabilities in a desirable community. Shaffer's long term concern for the welfare of others exemplifies the Rotary motto of "Service Above Self." Even though Shaffer came to Berea as a result of his interest in helping citizens in the Appalachian area he has remained a trustee with FSHC since its beginning.

President Gary Simpson reminded the members of the initial planning for the Pancake Breakfasts held during the voting primary May 19th and the general election November 3rd. The only guest at the meeting was Rotary Partner, Carol Shaffer.

March 3rd, the speaker will be Allie Turley, Varsity Girls Basketball Coach of Madison Southern High School.
