Health department warns of COVID scam

By Keith Taylor
Citizen Publisher

The Madison County Health Department is warning citizens of a text message scam circulating in the county concerning a positive COVID-19 test.

According to the health department, the messages are coming from a number listed as (859) 878-7608 and are bogus, but added the number can easily be changed by scammers.

If the health department cannot reach someone by phone, and there is no voice mail set up for the recipient, the health department will send a text message," the release said.

The actual message from the health department is as follows: "This is the Madison County Health Department trying to reach you regarding an urgent health matter. Please call our office at 859-623-7312 as soon as possible."

The contract tracing team won't ask for money, social security number, bank account information, salary information or credit card number.

City to cut tax rates

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

Property owners in Berea will be paying a slighty lower property tax rate as the Berea City Council agreed to cut rates during a Tuesday work session.

Audit and Finance Committee Chair Steve Caudill explained that because of increased value in property assessments, the city is in a position to realize an overall increase in revenue while still cutting the rate paid by citizens.

Under the current proposal, the city's property tax rate will go from .105 per $100 of assessed property value to .104. But since the overall value of property in the community increased, the city will still see a growth in revenue.

"We're in a really unique position this year in that we're able to take the four percent increase and also decrease our tax rate for our citizens," Caudill said "We can take it down to .104 and achieve the goal that we've had the last two or three years of seeing that increase in revenue for the city. So for citizens, they will actually see a decrease in their rate, but it will benefit the city as we move forward."

The measure will come up for a second reading again on September 15.

Tuesday's work session included a discussion of the proposed Juneteenth Resolution, with local professor and Berea official Andrew Baskin offering his advice to the council.

Baskin suggested a resolution emphasizing Berea's unique history as a community that has long strived for

Mural for Mary

Jackie Burnside, professor of sociology at Berea College, spoke at a dedication ceremony unveiling a mural painted in memory of Mary Merritt in Old Town at 210 North Broadway. Born in Berea, Merritt was the first African American licensed nurse in Kentucky. The mural was painted by Louisville native Jaylin Stewart. Prior to the ceremony, Stewart, below, put the finishing touches on the mural last Thursday. Merritt graduated from Berea College and also graduated from Freedman's Hospital in Washington, D.C. where she graduated as a professional nurse. Merritt had a close relationship with late Berea College President William Frost and his wife Eleanor. She was the first African American to dine at Boone Tavern in 1921.

OBITUARIES

Sadly another member of the Charles family has received his wings. Dr. Cleophus Charles, born August 10, 1943, entered eternal rest on August 23, 2020. No one loved God or shared his knowledge of God more than brother Cleophus. Waiting at Heaven's gate to greet him are: his loving wife, Rosa Charles; his parents Rubin and Dorcas Charles; Brothers - Rubin Charles Jr., O.C. Charles, Dobbs Samuel Charles, Joe L. Charles Sr.; Sisters – Catherine Charles and Willie Charles.

Though totally blind, Cleophus refused to allow this disability to disable him. He attended and graduated from the Arkansas Black School for the Deaf and Blind in Little Rock, AR. He then attended the Arkansas Mechanical and Normal College at Pine Bluff, AR. After graduating, he attended Cornell University at Ithaca, NY, where he met and married the love of his life, Rosa. Prior to Cornell, he applied and was accepted into the Harvard School of Law. He decided against this path in life and chose to attend Cornell.

Cleophus and Rosa Charles moved to Berea College, Berea, Kentucky, where he joined the Berea College faculty in 1973. In 1981, he received his PhD in American Political and Social History from Cornell University. Dr. Charles initiated Black Studies at Berea College, and at the second Black Berean Reunion in July 1987, he and his wife Rosa were designated as Honorary Black Alumni.

In 1995, Dr. Charles established the Cleo-Rosa Charles Pan-African Student Development Fund that provides financial support to the Black Student Union and the African Students' Association. This fund encourages these groups to "provide a high quality of learning or leadership in African, African-American, Pan-African or interracial leadership, academic life, cultural awareness, social development, current events, or campus affairs."

In 1997, as Dr. Charles began his 25th year at Berea; the college officially recognized his work with students by naming him as the first Carter G. Woodson Professor. The presentation read: "Being named to an endowed chair recognizes extraordinary contributions to teaching, scholarship, and service toward meeting the special purpose of Berea College. Throughout his twenty-four years at Berea, Professor Charles has been an intellectual and spiritual leader to many students and faculty on matters related to human rights, human dignity, and the African-American experience, from a caring perspective of Christian morality. He has served as intellectual resource and spokesperson for African-American history and culture for the College through many stages of planning and revision of its general education program. His service in this role as spiritual advisor, counselor, and intellectual leader makes his appointment to the Carter Woodson Professorship especially appropriate."

Dr. Charles loved learning. He studied and became knowledgeable of every faith that his Braille books, cassettes CDs, and DVDs had to offer. His Braille Bibles and other books would overwhelm a small library because of the size and number of them.

Through his fighting for the rights of his black American and African students, Dr. Charles gained the respect and love of all who met and knew him. After the death of his wife Rosa, Dr. Charles learned just how much his friends loved him. The family is especially grateful to Mrs. Nancy Wright, who gave of her time, sweat and tears helping Dr. Charles. Also, the family

Chester Ronald Morrow

Chester Ronald Morrow passed away unexpectedly at home on August 29 of apparent heart failure. He was preceded in death by his wife Margaret "Peggy" Green of 56 years who also passed away suddenly in April 2020. Many who knew him did not expect him to survive long without her.

Chester (or Ronald for those who knew him as a boy) was born in McCreary County, Kentucky on May 17, 1943 to Chester and Charity Keith Morrow. He is predeceased by his brother Arnold and survived by his remaining brothers and sisters JC (Betty), Milton (Patsy), Boyce "Dean" (Anne), Florence King and Kay. He was the father of Kate, Beth (Tommy) Lonn, and the grandfather of Sarah Lonn, who was his pride and joy. He was proud to be the great-grandson of the infamous train robber, Jerry Morrow.

Chester attended Berea College where he met and married Peggy. They made their home together in Sidney, Ohio where Chester worked for many years at Ross Aluminum Foundries. He retired from Ross as VP of Sales and Marketing and always counted his former co-workers amongst his closest friends. After retirement he and Peggy returned to Berea, just as he always promised her they would.

Chester loved golf, travel, and telling a good story. He was a Shriner and as such a member of the Scottish Rite of Dayton as well as a member of the Masonic Lodge of Port Jefferson. His love of history led to him serving on the board of the Shelby County Historical Society. He had many Jeopardy championships to his credit, although from his own living room. He will be best remembered as a person who could engage in fierce debates while simultaneously making those around him laugh. He had a wicked sense of humor and strong, vocal opinions on every topic under the sun.

Chester was an ardent Democrat. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Biden for President Campaign at www.JoeBiden.com or by mail to Biden for President, PO Box 58174, Philadelphia, PA 19102, making checks payable to "Biden for President." COVID-19 hits close to home

The coronavirus hit home last week.

I've been reporting and covering the COVID-19 pandemic since it tightened its grip on this state and great country last March. At first I didn't know anyone who had been infected with the virus that has crippled most of the nation.

Keith Taylor

Then slowly, the coronavirus began to hit closer to home as people I knew had become stricken with the virus and most of my Facebook feed included several followers who tested positive as the case count in Madison County began to rise this month.

Nearly two weeks ago, my step-dad Kenneth Reed tested positive for the coronavirus and my mom began experiencing symptoms similar to those associated with COVID-19. Late last week, our family had enough and my sister and niece called and had mom transported by ambulance from her home to St. Joseph's in Berea.

I didn't hear about mom being admitted until Friday morning because I had went to bed earlier than usual on Thursday night. I made a post on Facebook about mom and immediately people sent their thoughts, prayers and good vibes our way. We certainly needed them that morning, every single one of them.

Around mid-morning on Friday, I received a call from Eleanor Buckley at WLEX-TV (Channel 18) in Lexington asking if I wanted to do an interview and I gladly agreed to share our family story. Eleanor did a great job on the story, which was the top story on the 5:30 p.m. newscast.

On the other side of the fence, I shared with Eleanor our story and expressed our optimism, our faith in God and mom's dependence upon prayer in time of need. During the course of the interview, it hit me that mom, Kenneth and step-grandmother Eva Reed were one of those numbers that Governor Andy Beshear and the Madison County Health Department had been reporting on both a weekly and daily basis.

The threat of the virus became more real once it hit close to home and in our family. The hardest part has been not being able to go see mom, but I have kept in touch via phone calls and social media.

Those who have or had COVID-19 are not just numbers, they are human beings, some of them your own family members. That's when you know it's the real deal.

The staff at St. Joseph's in Berea are taking good care of mom and she is on the mend, as are the rest of the family members who have the virus. I'm thankful for the prayers and for knowledge and treatment methods the medical experts have learned over the past month to help treat and fight an invisible enemy.

When it attacks close to home, that's when you know it's real.

McGlone: Tilly's plaque in need of proper care

Editor: A few years ago, we had to stop climbing Indian Fort Mountain because of age. But, before we had to quit, we enjoyed a trip up the mountain at least once a week. The mornings we went with our dog, Casey, we got there about 7-7:30 a.m. and we were 'always' greeted by the dog, Tilly. She would join us; escort us up the trail always playing with our dog.

After Tilly passed away, circa 2013, some kind people, had a plaque made and placed it along side the beginning of the trail up the mountain. For several years, we noticed weeds beginning to grow around her 'spot.' Once we called the college and the weeds were cut down.

This month when we returned to Berea, we noticed the weeds were taking over her 'spot' again!

Briefly — C'mon Forestry Department! Are you so busy you can't spare a few minutes to care for, now called, Indian Fort Tilly's memorial ground? Maybe some people in Berea would like to remember Tilly — we would!

Workman: Troubling times didn't begin with pandemic

Editor: Where to begin? Times are troubling for the world. It didn't begin with the pandemic. I guess the best way to state my concern for the country is to ask what messages young people are hearing from people who call themselves leaders. We have no respite from international nasty, hateful self-serving political campaigning. Why do we support that?

Our country is a republic- a country with a chief of state who is not a monarch. We pledge allegiance to that country and to the flag, but not to one person or one ideology. Like shoes, one size does not fit all. Neither does one way of thinking.

Lets give our young people encouragement for a united country by setting a better example and by telling politicians we would truly like some decency and honesty in campaigning and in running the country, for the good of all the people, sending a message of unity and inclusion to our young people.

Eleanor Workman

Barnhill: Boy Scout Troop 51 projects help the community

Editor: I'm writing you today to talk about my experience in Boy Scouts. Troop 51 has done a lot for Berea and surrounding areas, we have done a lot of Eagle Scout projects throughout Berea, like a wood shed for camp AJ, a new trail for camp AJ, the garden by the welcome center in Old Town Berea, built a new outdoor garden area for a Waco elementary, we did an irrigation system at the Glades Christian Church.

These are all the Eagle Scout projects that I have participated in since I've been in boy scouts. We do a lot of camping trips like just recently we did a little merit badge fair at camp AJ and we did a lot of merit badges.

I got my life saving merit badge, my disability awareness badge, mammal study badge, and fish and wildlife badge. I hope this letter will get other people inspired to join.

End hunger, one helping at a time

This month, Feeding Kentucky, together with the Feeding America nationwide network of food banks, will mobilize across all 50 states in an effort to bring an end to hunger. Hunger Action Month is designed to inspire people to take action and raise awareness of the number of people who are food-insecure, meaning they lack consistent access to enough food for an active, healthy lifestyle.

According to Feeding America's Map the Meal Gap report, Kentucky has the eighth highest rate in the nation of people struggling to put food on the table. In Kentucky, 662,000 people are at risk of hunger and may not know where they will find their next meal. The number includes one in every five kids who may not have enough to eat.

The COVID-19 pandemic has destroyed a decade of progress in the fight to end hunger in Kentucky, according to analysis from Feeding America's The Impact of the Coronavirus on Local Food Insecurity study.

The food banks in the Feeding Kentucky network have been working diligently to help meet the increased need for emergency food assistance in the commonwealth. The network distributed 79 million meals from July 2019 – June 2020, an increase of more than 9 million pounds of food over last year.

This month marks the 13th year the Feeding America network of food banks has organized an annual call to action and 10th year Feeding Kentucky has participated in the Hunger Action Month movement. This year, the campaign will focus on ending hunger one helping at a time.

Hunger Action Day is on the second Thursday in September, where efforts across the country are focused for greater impact. Feeding Kentucky is seeking 700 actions on Sept. 10 from the public – a donation, a volunteer shift, a social media post – that will help end hunger, one helping at a time.

General election poll worker portal now available online

Secretary of State Michael Adams has unveiled an easy way for Kentucky voters to register as poll workers for November's general election.

The Poll Worker Volunteer Portal is now available at www.govoteky.com. The portal passes an application on to the volunteer's county clerk, who then will contact the volunteer.

The number of poll workers in Kentucky is at a critical low. The availability of poll workers will dictate how many polling locations are available on election day. If a county doesn't have enough poll workers, it limits the county clerk's ability to offer in-person voting.

"Just as we've made it easy to vote, we've made it easy to serve your community by volunteering to work the polls," Adams said. "Whatever your politics, we need your help so we can offer in-person voting, and also so we can ask less of our elderly poll workers who usually volunteer."

Adams appeared virtually before a Congressional committee on Friday to talk about Kentucky's success in the June primary and plans for the November general election with the COVID-19 pandemic.

Adams told the House Homeland Security Committee, "Despite the challenges we faced this year, Kentucky has a good story to tell."

He described how he, a Republican, worked with Democratic Gov. Andy Beshear, first to postpone the primary for a month, then worked with the General Assembly for legislation that granted the two men emergency powers to make changes.

Adams pointed out that 98 percent of Kentuckians vote in person on election day but, due to the coronavirus, that wasn't going to work this year.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Additional interest will accrue if the total amount due is not paid by September 30, 2020. Additionally, KRS 424.330 allows the City to assess an additional fee of $5.00 on the tax bill of the delinquent taxpayer for publication costs. The amount of tax, along with penalty, interest and additional fee, constitutes a lien on the property described on the tax bill. This list of delinquent taxes will be filed with the Office of the Madison County Clerk for recording of the lien.

racial equality, and he recommended a document that affirms Berea's aspiration to continue that effort.

"What you are saying in this resolution is that Berea wants to continue the work of its founders, and that is to build a community that's based on justice, and build a community where everyone – black, white, red, yellow – is safe living in the City of Berea. You're doing that because of the history of Berea," Baskin said.

Baskin cautioned that the recent series of crises has highlighted disparities between the African American community and the rest of America, and that an important function of the resolution would be to underscore those problems and express a determination as a local government body to help remedy those issues, because, in his words, you can't solve the problem unless you recognize the problem.

Several council members thanked Baskin for his contribution to the discussion, with Councilmember Jerry Little praising Baskin as a voice of reason. Several council members expressed their belief that a Juneteenth Resolution will soon be passed.

"This is something that I believe we all want to pass. I think we're all in favor of a Juneteenth resolution. It's just getting down the wording," said Cora Jane Wilson.

The council unanimously voted to remove the Juneteenth Resolution from Tuesday's business session agenda so that Steve Caudill can finalize a compromise draft. The item will come up again for a review on Sept. 15.

Ordinance passes

During the business session, the council unanimously adopted an ordinance giving employees more flexibility when it comes to using their vacation hours. During the COVID-19 crisis, employees were having to defer their vacations, which caused them to lose vacation time.

During the City Administrator's Report, David Gregory said staffers, with the help of the Kentucky League of Cities, will soon have a draft of a revised policy and procedure manual. The manual covers code of ethics, employment regulations, hiring, and issues relating to employee benefits. The revision process began 18 months again and was last done in 2013, Gregory said.

Additionally, Gregory praised the work of the Public Works Department for finishing a more visible crosswalk in Old Town, a move recommended by the department to enhance public safety.

Gregory referred to the COVID related federal deferral of payroll taxes ordered by President Trump. Gregory said when the city receives additional information from the U.S. Department of Treasury or the Internal Revenue Service, the city will re-evaluate whether it is possible to implement the change.

Sign revision

During Mayoral Comments, Bruce Fraley said a temporary revision in the sign ordnance means that signs can be placed from now until Nov. 15, specifically those relating to political candidates. Signs can be placed without a fee or a permit, but must not be placed in right of way, Fraley said.

Council comments

During council comments, Ronnie Terrill noted that a new Burger King has opened across from the Amish Store. Emily LaDouceur encouraged citizens to go to Old Town to view the new mural that celebrates the first African American registered nurse to practice in the Commonwealth.

David Rowlette thanked the council for trying to keep taxes low during economically hard times.

Pandemic opens up an avenue for new things

Shelf Notes

Ruthie Maslin, Madison Co. Library

It seems there are two kinds of people in the book choosing arena – those who know what they want and thus like to look for specific titles, and those who prefer browsing and the element of surprise that comes when you happen upon something you didn't even know you were interested in.

That division has become clearer and clearer as this pandemic has continued. One of the biggest requests I had from customers while we were closed to public traffic was to reopen the stacks so they could come in and browse. Even though they could use our online catalog to look for and request whatever titles they wanted and we would get the books to them through our touch-free delivery, what they really wanted was to get to walk up and down the aisles and browse.

A close second to walking the aisles for me is browsing on one of our eBook apps, like OverDrive/KY Libraries Unbound. In fact, browsing there recently, I rediscovered three of my longtime favorite genre authors and enjoyed reading a book by each: The Fallen, by David Baldacci; The Midnight Line, by Lee Child; and Sea of Greed, by Clive Cussler. But I also discovered something while browsing – eMagazines. With the OverDrive app and my Madison County Public Library card, I read the latest issues of Marie Claire and HGTV magazines right on my tablet.

The popularity of browsing is one of the reasons you will see so many book displays and "face-out" shelving of items at the Madison County Public Library. That really appeals to folks' desire to shop for something interesting, new, unexpected, and appealing. I will tell you I am one of those people most of the time. I love browsing the shelves and finding a treasure. One of my favorite things to do on a break at work is to check out the new arrival shelves and see what has recently come in that might be of interest.

We have also seen that with the Drive-Thru book sales in July and August that the Friends of the Madison County Public Library hosted. To keep things as contactless as we could, Friends volunteers bagged up books by genre and category, then on the sale day, people could drive up, pick their categories, and volunteers would load bags in their cars.

Those sales have been super popular, and we are all very grateful for everyone who came out to buy bags of books to support library programs. For the most part, those who came to the sales seemed to enjoy digging down through the bags and discovering all the goodies in them. But we had many people who came to the sale hoping to be able to browse the books and find their own treasures.

Now a good six months into the pandemic, we continue to find out new things about the way people like to use the public library and its services, programs, and materials.

For instance, the at-home, "take and make" crafts and STEM activities for kids took off like wildfire, and their popularity has only continued to grow. Since this all started, kids have made robots and done science experiments, had baking competitions, made birdhouses and popsicle stick bridges, made jump ropes and sun catchers, decorated ball caps and piggy banks. Even adults have been able to get in on the fun with activities like Zoom Zumba classes and take and make painting projects.

I even discovered something about myself. Turns out I love story time! In the old days, I never got to attend story times in person because, well, I was at work and had to work. But now that they are on Facebook and YouTube and I can enjoy them any time, I find myself really looking forward to story time with one of our amazing Youth Services librarians! You can see what's coming up by checking out the "Events" tab on our website, madisonlibrary.org. Most of the programs are viewable on our YouTube channel and/or Facebook page.

And the utilization of our curbside pickup and electronic lockers (which we began during the shutdown) has remained steady, even as our onsite usage has continued to get back closer to our old normal. These are things we plan to continue in some fashion even after the pandemic ends.

I, however, have been a little surprised by the popularity of and need for our on-site, in-person services, especially copying and notary services. In the past, I guess I didn't notice the high usage as much because it was just part of the day-to-day ebb and flow of traffic in the library. But when it is not available and people start asking for it, that's when you really begin to see the high demand and usage.

While I hope never to live through another time like this in my life, I am trying to be open to the new things I am learning about myself, about the library, and about the community that this radical paradigm shift has unearthed. In the meantime, please help us spread the word that the library is open for business.

Last month, we logged more than 12,000 visits – certainly below the 20,000-plus we would typically see at this time of year, but still respectable. And hopefully I will see you soon at the library as well!

Calipari: Wildcats faring well 'living in a bubble'

LEXINGTON (KT) — John Calipari doesn't mind living in a bubble and said the Wildcats have things "pretty well in order" when it comes to guarding against the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

"The guys have been great, but this thing has been hard," Calipari said Wednesday. "I'm more concerned with mental health than with anything else. (The players) know they have to wear masks and gloves and stay away and social distancing. … when you're locked into a room for 18 hours a day, my concern is what do we do with these guys every other day? I'm dealing with that."

Calipari has been able to take his squad to different eating establishments in a private setting and the staff has pondered opening up the team locker room, but Calipari isn't ready to commit to unlocking the doors just yet "so they can all congregate together."

"One guy doing something dumb can lock you down," he said. "Even if we are going live (in practice), I will go five, seven minutes and then we'll do something (on the script), in other words, five of them or three of them are spaced (out). Then we will come together again for five or seven minutes and then we will separate."

Kentucky coach John Calipari is making the best of things while his team is in a "bubble" in campus.

Calipari added that he's "trying to be respectful" and that he's "learning something new every day."

"I want to make sure with my guys, we're doing this in a safe way," he said.

Calipari has been impressed with the way the NBA and WNBA have handled a return to the court in a "bubble" setting and could provide a glimpse into future games at the collegiate level.

"There is no homecourt advantage and you're seeing it in the NBA right now," he said. "They're all in this bubble and no fans. … That's going to be the case with playing multiple teams together. The NBA and the WNBA have given us a path that we can do it safely."

As for a league-only schedule, Calipari said his players would favor a traditional schedule as opposed to a league-only approach the Southeastern Conference has taken in football this season. He is also concerned about guarantee money for teams at the mid-major level.

"We don't have the solutions yet," Calipari said. "I trust our league so that will come up with stuff (like) how many games are we going to play — we don't know yet. Do we play on long weekends or come together someplace? Do we play at different on-campus sites?"

"… it's not going to be exactly the same (as the NBA) for two or three months, but how do we do this and make sure everybody is safe and include all of the programs (in college basketball)."

Listern, learn

Calipari spoke out on the UK faculty of African American and African Studies program's suggestion to change the name of Rupp Arena, the team's home arena since 1976.

"From what I understand, they were talking about a lot of different things," he said. "This is another chance for us to listen and learn. Some people agree and some people are not going to agree.

"I would tell you again, for me personally, knowing the family and knowing Herky (Rupp) like I did, what's out there that tells me there's something different? I'm all ears and I'm going to listen. Here is what I do know, the university is doing stuff going forward — diversity issues on our campus, they're dealing with (those issues) — very important for us."

Calipari has taken a lead role with the establishment of the McClendon Minority Leadership Initiative he launched last month to create opportunities for minorities in athletic administration on college campuses across the country

"What we're doing in the minority leadership initiative, we are taking the fronts position in this and the lead position as this thing goes and grows, Kentucky is going to be the lead in what we're doing and be the program that's going to say, 'here are the best-case scenarios in this and how we do it.,'" he said.

Madison Southern wide receiver Jonah Farnstorm is poised to have a big season this year. In the previous two seasons, Farnstorm has been derailed by separate collarbone injuries, which robbed him of much of the 2018 and 2019 seasons.

Comeback kid

Now healthy, Farnstorm has his sights set on a big season

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Madison Southern football Coach Jon Clark isn't shy about heaping praise on senior Jonah Farnstorm, calling him one of the finest wide receivers and students the school has ever seen.

"He is the most talented wide receiver that we've ever had at Madison Southern," Clark said. "He's going to be a big part of what we are going to do this season."

The high praise comes from the coach entering his 10th year at the helm of Eagles football and directed at the wide receiver who caught five balls for 130 yards and one score last season.

There is no doubt that Farnstorm has the talent to be a difference-maker on the field, and big things are expected from him in 2020, so long as he remains healthy. In the previous two seasons, Farnstorm has been derailed by separate collarbone injuries, which robbed him of much of the 2018 and 2019 seasons.

Headed into his senior year, Farnstorm has two goals for the 2020 season.

"One, I want to stay healthy," he said. "That's a big one. As a team, the second is to be sound, play well, and play together and not allow this (Covid-19) adversity to pull us apart."

Trying to heal and being sidelined was tough on Farnstorm, but rather than tossing in the towel, he found other ways to help the team.

"There were setbacks both mentally and physically," he said. "Because I wasn't playing, I had to find other ways to help out the team and get them where they needed to be. If that was by helping them watch the film or helping them remember plays, then that's what I had to do."

Though it was a long road back to the gridiron, Farnstorm gives his teammates credit to keep him in the loop.

"I've been around these guys for a while now, and they're like family to me," he said. "No matter what I go through, they're there for me. So I cannot quit on them because they've been there for me. So I've got to keep pushing through."

All the adversity has helped Farnstorm become mentally and physically challenging. He uses the same traits he uses to excel on the football field carry over into the classroom, where he sports a 3.95 GPA.

"It's all about how you look at it," he said matter-of-factly. "You can be just a student or just an athlete. You have to be both. You have to put as much work in the classroom as you do out on the field."

The senior excels in math in the classroom. He sees similarities in figuring out math problems and determining what defense the opposition is running before the ball's snap.

"In football, when you look at a defense, you have to know what coverage they're in, such as a Cover-4 or Cover-2," he said. "It helps you know what routes you have to run to get open. It's the same thing with equations in math."

Given his ability to keep on track in the classroom and on the field, there is little doubt that Farnstorm will excel in life beyond high school.

"I am hoping to help people out in the world, and, if possible, continue my athletic career on the college level," he said. "I am undecided on a college, and I'm waiting for some possible scholarships."

Barger: Election workers needed

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

The Madison County Clerk's office is gearing up for the November 3 general election as officials work to finalize polling locations and secure more poll workers, said Madison County Clerk Kenny Barger.

Barger updated magistrates at Tuesday's videoconference meeting of the Madison County Fiscal Court, noting voters can now request an absentee ballot at govoteky.com. Barger said the ballot was certified on Tuesday, and that it has not been printed yet. The online portal to request a mail-in absentee ballot is open until October 9 at 11:59 p.m.

Kenny Barger

Meanwhile, walk-in absentee voting starts at the Madison County Clerk's Office on October 13 and continues until November 2, the day before the election. Walk-in absentee voting is also offered Saturdays from 8 a.m. to noon during that period, Barger said.

Barger explained while the county has nearly finalized the voting locations, staffing the polls is not yet complete. The county is also planning to have a separate, in-person voting day one week before the general election. "The locations are coming together, but we're trying to get enough people to have

Walk with Doc program to emphasize staying fit

Dr. Louisa Summers, a Health and Human Performance professor at Berea College, will lead Berea's first "Walk with a Doc" walking program.

All walkers are invited to join Summers with the first walk on Friday, Sept. 11 at the John Stephenson Memorial Trail, located at 200 Harrison Road. The program will begin at 8:30 a.m., and no registration is required.

The "Walk with a Doc" is a free hour-long monthly walking program for everyone interested in taking steps toward a healthier lifestyle. As part of the program, an undergraduate student at Berea College will kick off each walk with a short informational talk about a current health topic.

"It is about helping our students gain confidence talking to people about physical activity and how important it is for someone's health and well-being," said Summers, professor in the Health and Human Performance department.

This program's mission uses walking as a means for inspiring communities through movement and conversation, in people of all

Students return to class, navigate challenging times

By Keith Taylor
Citizen Publisher

Madison County Schools ushered in the first day of school virtually last Wednesday as students began a new era of learning in a pandemic.

Students opened classes with virtual learning, a new concept to keep students in class amid the onogoing COVID-19 crisis that has postponed in-learning classes until at least the end of the month.

"The administration, teachers, custodian workers, lunch and office personal at Silver Creek Elementary School have been challenged both on an individual basis and team basis," Silver Creek third-grade teacher Garry Gay said. "They have been challenged by the state, county, parents and most of all students. Teachers are learning that they may not always be

City finance department draws praise

The City of Berea Finance Department drew praise this week from City Administrator David Gregory when he noted the department's work in complying with the annual financial audit.

"The Finance Department is working hard in preparing for the audit," Gregory said. "Just to give you an idea, the department processed 2,025 pages of transactions for all of the purchase orders and all of the transactions we do."

Gregory praised Finance Director Susan Meeks and her staff, noting the work they have done not only to prepare the city for the audit, but also to ensure the city stays in compliance with its own policies and procedures regarding the safeguarding and use of public funds.

"I just want to thank Susan and her team for all they do for the city. They work very hard behind the scenes to make sure that all of our departments comply with policies and rules.

"They hold us all accountable, and I wouldn't expect anything less," Gregory said.

The city's auditing firm will produce an annual report to be received by the Berea City Council in October.

The City of Berea has consistently scored clean audits in recent years.

Sanchez named branch manager

First Southern National Bank is pleased to announce that Chelsie Sanchez will now serve as Branch Manager of the Richmond location at 894 Richmond Plaza. Chelsie began her banking career with First Southern in September 2015 and has served in various roles throughout the organization, but most recently as Retail Banker.

"My favorite thing about First Southern is that our customers come first, and they are our top priority.

They come to us looking for a positive light, or a guide for their financial needs that has their best interests in mind," Chelsie said. "I am honored to be given this opportunity to continue to serve our customers and find new ways to grow our branch and local team."

"I know that Chelsie will bring new energy to the position," said Tyler Cain, Community President Richmond. "I am so proud of the growth she has made and I can't wait to see how her career progresses with First Southern. I know she will have an impact on our branch and our community."

Chelsie resides in Berea with her husband, Jonathan, and son, Cayden. Chelsie loves spending time with family and she enjoys the outdoors. She may be reached at 859-624-6664 or csanchez@fsnb.net.

Remembering 9/11

I remember my first plane ride. I was traveling from Louisville to Michigan to cover Eastern Kentucky University's season-opening football game against Central Michigan.

Aside from being a little nervous, I handled it well, considering our stop was in Detroit and I rented a car and drove it to Mount Pleasant. I remember how easy it was to get through airport security and laid back the flights were both to and from my destination. It was enjoyable and fun.

Being such an up-and-down trip, my main objective was to cover the game and the main reason I was even in Mount Pleasant at the time was simply because longtime Eastern coach Roy Kidd was on the verge of his 300th collegiate victory, a milestone only a select coaches have achieved in history.

The Colonels lost that night and it became more apparent Kidd would reach the plateau in the team's home opener the following week. Eastern beat Liberty on Oct. 8, 2001, giving Kidd the win he needed to join an elite circle of coaches.

I remember it was a fun night that was enjoyed by all and one of the most memorable moments of my career.

How many journalists can say they have written about not one, but two coaches who have won more than 300 games in college football.

Keith Taylor

We had been planning for Kidd's milestone for more than a year and I was relieved — in a good way — when it was over and I'm sure Kidd was too. I spent the entire weekend recovering from one long Saturday night and prepared for the remainder of the season,

Three days later, the impossible happened and 19 years later, it's hard to fathom what transpired on 9-11-01. Like all of you, I remember 9/11 and memories of the horrible events of that day still linger almost two decades later.

It was a scary time and one of the most frightening times in American history.

I remember getting a voice message at home from Rhonda telling me I needed to awake and turn on the television. She told me airplanes were flying into the World Trade Center and we were under attack. For just a moment, I thought I was dreaming, you know that feeling when you first get out of bed?

At the time no one knew the magnitude and the level of evil that was taking place on American soil. I remember I was shocked, angry and scared all at the same time. I called my family and told them I loved them and hugged Rhonda a little tighter when she came home. The song "Where were you when the world stopped turning" by Alan Jackson described my emotions to perfection and I think all Americans felt that way at the time.

Under attack, we all came together and became one, daring anyone or any circumstance to tear us apart. We were unified and one nation under God as we should be.

For a time, America was back to being civil and we all cared for one another, regardless of political affiliation or religious belief. We turned to God and he embraced us unconditionally.

It's sad it took such a unimaginable terrorist attack to bring everyone to their knees.

Why can't we do that now instead of doing it in times of tragedy? America would be much better off instead of a nation of individuals who take being right and wrong to another level. There's no middle ground or room for compromise and that's sad.

Word on the streets

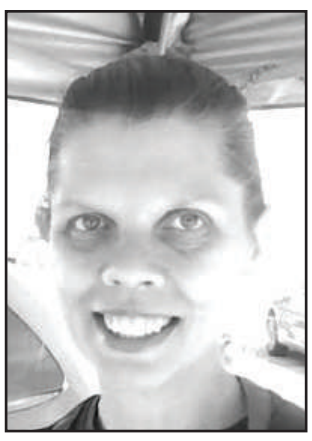
"Do you agree that people should stand up for the National Anthem?

Peanut Johnson

"Yes. I think it is a symbol of America. I think standing shows respect for our country."

J.D. Van Winkle

"Yes. It shows respect and that you are an American."



Jennifer Daniel

" Yes, because it's an American tradition."

Compiled by Randy Coffey

The power of words

A gang of robbers pulled a holdup at the train station, taking away pretty much everything they could carry.

When it was over, a father noticed that his daughter still had all her very expensive diamond rings.

"I wonder how the robbers overlooked those rings?" the father asked.

She said, "When I realized what was happening, I took them off and hid them in my mouth."

"It's a shame your mother wasn't traveling with us," the father said. "She could have saved all our luggage, too."

It would take quite a big mouth to hide luggage. Impossible? Well, I've been hearing some folks on TV, radio and social media lately who just might have mouths big enough to hide a suitcase or two. They constantly spout off about anything and everything.

Roger

If you're anything like me, you have a hard time tolerating people who we in this part of the country call "big mouths." Those are the people who are always angry about one thing or another, people who loudly proclaim their opinions believing they're always right, people who should adhere to sage advice to keep their mouths shut so their ignorance doesn't shine.

You know the Bible gives ample warnings to "big mouths," but we can only assume they're too busy talking to listen.

The Bible tells us that "whoso keepeth his mouth and his tongue keepeth his soul from trouble" (Proverbs 21:23).

Do you suppose the lion's share of the trouble we get ourselves into is the result of talking too much? Most of us have had any number of instances when your words hurt someone's feelings, made someone angry, or made you sound absolutely silly.

"Even a fool, when he holdeth his peace, is counted wise: and he that shutteth his lips is esteemed a man of understanding" (Proverbs 17:28).

It's little wonder that Solomon, a man of great wisdom, once said, "Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips" (Psalm 141:3).

You see, Solomon understood the power of words. He understood that "big mouths" are troublesome sorts who, despite their best efforts to sound like the smartest person in the room, end up looking stupid.

I don't really enjoy hanging around people with big mouths, but I suppose they would come in handy in the case of holdups.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

The price is right

What would you be willing to pay for a pair of 35-year-old used sneakers? The folks at Christie's, the auction house, got $615,000 when the sneakers Michael Jordan wore in 1985 were put up for sale, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. After all, they were apparently only worn once during an exhibition game in Trieste, Italy. And, as Christie's described the kicks, they are "a one-of-a-kind Michael Jordan artifact." What also made the shoes special is the shard of glass embedded in the sole as a result of Jordan's shattering a glass backboard during the game.

Practice makes perfect

"Golf is deceptively simple and endlessly complicated," according to famed linksman Arnold Palmer. The legendary medalist earned the nickname, The King of Golf, for his prowess on the fairways and proof of his skill are the 21 holes-in-one with which he is credited, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. West Virginian Rocco Figaretti has only one hole-in-one under his belt, but he has plenty of time ahead of him to rack up his share of aces. The four-year-old amazed onlookers at Oglebay Park in Wheeling, WV recently with his skill and dedication; his dad, Mario, remarked that "to say I'm proud would be an understatement."

The boy wonder has been playing since he was three and, obviously, spends a great deal of his time practicing.

Reflections

Berea Citizen archives, Sept. 13, 2001

'Berea Reacts to Terroristic Attack'

"Berea Reacts to Terroristic Attack" was the main headline of this edition of The Berea Citizen, 19 years ago. The town was stunned by the attack on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon. The Red Cross provided help for victims, and flags were lowered to half-mast. Schools and businesses remained open. Superintendent at the time, Mike Caudill, said they tried to keep the day as normal as possible for the kids and kept the TVs off. School Crisis teams also prepared to have counselors ready if students needed to talk. Berea College considered closing, but remained open for their students and also advised their staff to show support for their students. The Berea Post Office remained open, and lowered their flag to half-mast.

• Publisher emeritus, Teresa Scenters, titled her column "The Day the unthinkable became a reality." Scenters wrote about her family losing their beloved Aunt Leila shortly after the terroristic attack news. She wrote how this allowed her to deeply empathize with countless Americans who were experiencing the sudden loss of loved ones, who went to work that day on 9/11 and never returned. She wrote

Above, many flags across the city, state and country — like this one on the College Square — were at half mast immediately after the terrorist attacks in New York City and Washington, D.C. At right, the sign at the Berea Volunteer Fire and Rescue Squad headquarters was draped with black ribbons in honor of emergency workers who lost their lives in the disasters.

"What these extremist nut cases don't realize is that this atrocious act will only draw Americans closer together." Scenters closed her article by pointing out that churches of various denominations have come together, to cover our country in prayer. She urged readers to join them in prayer, so that God would bless America through the hard times.

• Editor Scott Powell wrote an article emphasizing the importance of Faith during this attack on America. He wrote about the need for Americans to set aside differences, and to come together in unity in support for the country. Powell concluded his article with these encouraging words, "We must have faith that we will survive this together. We must have faith that life will go on. We must have faith that we can prevent this from happening again. And we must have faith that God will continue to bless America."

NOSW adds two new staff members

The New Opportunity School for Women (NOSW) added two new women to its staff this summer: Jimmie Lewis, as the newly created Recruitment, Assessment and Graduate Engagement Coordinator; and Jacinda Townsend Gides as its new Development and Communications Coordinator.

Lewis has been a therapist in private practice since 2012, having worked in the mental health and community development fields for decades. She first became acquainted with NOSW when she worked with the Christian Appalachian Project in the early nineties.

Having participated as a clinical counselor in a June 2014 NOSW Residential Program, she has been involved with NOSW ever since.

Townsend Gides first encountered NOSW while serving as the Appalachian Writer in Residence at Berea College. In that capacity she coordinated a service-learning day in October of 2019 with NOSW alumni.

Gides brings a wealth of experience as a professor, attorney and journalist to her new challenge of communicating NOSW's mission to potential clients and supporters.

She has worked with underserved communities of women, both domestically and internationally, including a year of teaching at the Indiana Women's Prison and on-site work with anti-slavery activists in Mauritania.

PREP PROFILE: BEREA FOOTBALL

Pirates look to build on last year

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Coach: Tony DeGregorio – 1st year
Last year: 7-4, 0-4 District
Key losses: 11 seniors
Returners: Jaiden Cunningham, Tanner Hayden, Clayton Martinez and Rey Alejandro

Outlook

When the 2020 Berea Pirates host Clinton County on Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m., it will be a new look in many ways. Leading the Pirates ship will be first year coach Tony DeGregorio who inherits a team that graduated 11 players.

DeGregorio is no stranger to Pirates football as he served as an assistant for five years. For leadership and play, the first year coach will look to Jaiden Cunningham, Tanner Hayden, Clayton Martinez and Rey Alejandro, all of whom saw significant snaps on both sides of the ball.

Though the team lost 11 seniors, DeGregorio expects overall team depth to be a strength in 2020.

"We should have more depth than last season, which will help," he said. "The team's expectation for this season is to continue the winning ways, never quit and play smash mouth football every week."

Given the pandemic, DeGregorio said he considers being able to play the season a win-win for everyone involved in high school football.

"The nine-game season is the best case scenario we could hope for, the KHSAA has done and is continuing to do a great job by monitoring what is happening in the surrounding states with fall sports," he said. "We have only been able to lift weights and condition, with limits of 10 players per group with each coach. As you know, Berea is a smaller school, so we don't face the same issues as the larger schools with 50-plus players."

The team has been able practice in full gear since Aug. 24. Because of it, DeGregorio feels everyone is in the same boat, preparation-wise.

"We only have about two and a half weeks from the time we are able to put on helmets until the first game, so it will be challenging," he said.

Schedule

Sept. 11 Clinton County – 7:30 p.m.

successful but they will always give the greatest effort and reflect on outcomes.

"We as Madison County employees will thrive in our every day challenges. Our devotion to hard work has and will continue to be noticed in the classroom as well as our community and most of all our commitment to our students. We will rise."

Madison County Schools is offering a technology helpline for students needing assistance while off-campus. The helpline is available Monday-Friday 8 a.m.-9 p.m. and can be assesed by calling (859) 387-6630.

Kentucky Farm Bureau (David Mayo) is offereing free Wi-Fi for students from 7 a.m.-10 p.m.

"Reliable broadband internet service, especially in the rural parts of our state, is something that far too many Kentuckians still don't have access to in their homes," said Mark Haney, President of KFB. "In a world that now demands video meetings, virtual events and continual email communications – not to mention the tens of thousands of students who are about to start their new school year from home – internet connectivity is a must. We want to help ease that burden for some of our fellow Kentuckians through this initiative."

two locations to vote a week before in Richmond and Berea," Barger said. "But we're having difficulty finding folks who don't work during the day," Barger said.

Barger noted the county has many first-time volunteer poll workers signed up to help with the election, which is a very positive development. But he added more help is needed. "We've got 190 volunteers, but they are volunteering for Election Day. And with the polls the way they've modeled, we don't need as many people on Election Day, because we're doing early mail-in and absentee, and then we're trying to do the week before at two locations," Barger said.

Finalized plans concerning the election will likely be announced at the Madison County Fiscal Court's next meeting on September 22, Barger reported.

Citizens can request an absentee ballot or volunteer to help with the election by visiting www.madisoncountyclerk.us or call 859 624-4703.

In other business, the fiscal court unanimously approved a budget amendment to receive funds from the Coronavirus Aid Relief and Economic Security (CARES) act for $3,865,853. The act enables local governments to be reimbursed for expenditures relating to the COVID-19 pandemic. So far, Madison County has submitted requests for reimbursement for $1,082,853 in expenses that occurred March 1 through June 30. The county has been approved to receive up to $3.8 million in reimbursements, and Judge/Executive Reagan Taylor noted that more requests from Madison County are forthcoming.

Also approved Tuesday was a resolution for the God's Outreach food bank expansion project. The project has been approved for $300,000 in Community Development Block Grant funds, but the resolution requests the payment of contracts related to the project for approximately $83,000. The CBDG funds are administered through the Kentucky Department of Local Government. Madison County Treasurer said there have been $298,000 in expenditures on the project so far.

Additionally, the court unanimously approved a resolution for a memorandum of understanding between the Madison County Emergency Management Agency and Baptist Health Richmond for cooperation in the event of a disaster. The agreement between the two parties is approved annually, according to EMA Deputy Director Dustin Heiser.

In other business, the court approved an inter-local agreement between Madison County and several other Kentucky counties to participate in the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act agreement to help facilitate employments services. The agreement includes the counties of Anderson, Bourbon, Boyle, Clark, Estill, Franklin, Garrard, Harrison, Jessamine, Lexington/Fayette, Lincoln, Mercer, Nicolas, Powell, Scott, and Woodford. The act clarifies the role of local officials at the respective workforce development offices.

In department business, David Addison was approved to be hired as a light duty mechanic for the county road department, and during the judge's report, Taylor announced that the county's annual household hazardous waste event will take place on October 3 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the county's South Clarksville Lane facility near the Highway U.S. 421/U.S. 25 split. The event does not include tires, officials said. Call 624-4709 for more information on what is accepted at that waste disposal event.

The next teleconference meeting of the Madison County Fiscal Court will take place on September 22 at 9:30 a.m.

Airport project set for take off

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

The Berea City Council heard the first reading of an ordinance that will help secure funding for a water and sewer line extension project for the Central Kentucky Regional Airport (CKRA) in Madison County.

City Council

In a Tuesday videoconference work session, the council heard a presentation from Madison County Airport Board Chair George Wyatt and Karen Leverenz of the Blue Grass Area Development District.

Wyatt explained CKRA is in the second phase of a three-phase improvement project to upgrade airport facilities to allow for expansion. The first phase involved constructing new T hangars, which will be occupied this fall. The second phase is the extension of the water/sewer line to connect to Berea Municipal Utilities, and improvement of the terminal building is the third phase.

The cost of the $1.2 million upgrade would be mostly funded through a $1,024,800 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission, while the three governments, including Berea, are being asked to guarantee a loan for the reminder of the cost,

OBITUARIES

Mary Therese Rosella Reilly

Mary Therese Rosella Reilly, 77, of Berea, departed this life on Sept. 9, 2020. She passed peacefully at Bluegrass Hospice after a nearly year-long battle with cancer. She was born to the late Herman and Henrietta Hoying on March 25, 1943 on their farm in Carthagena, Ohio.

She was known by many names. Mary to her siblings, Sister Myra to the nuns, Therese to her friends and husband, Mom and Grandma to her children and grandchildren. No matter what she was called, Mary Therese was known for her servants' heart, an easy laugh, finding joy in life's littlest things, and her tireless work ethic. She prided herself in taking good care of all of those around her and being of service to her community.

In her early life she was a nun in the Precious Blood order and after graduating from the University of Dayton, she taught elementary school in Cincinnati, Ohio. She then met her husband Dave while volunteering with the Christian Appalachian Project, teaching kindergarten in Jackson County.

Together they made their home in Berea for the past 40 years where they raised 5 children and were active members of St. Clare Catholic Church. Mary Therese enjoyed her women's group and making handicrafts and food items for the annual bazaar. Over the years, she was a regular volunteer with Habitat for Humanity and PeaceCraft. Mary Therese made weekly donations to the food pantry, stopping by on her way to the store to find out what was needed. She was known to give rides to strangers or provide food to the hungry that she met on her daily trips around town.

Mary Therese loved to garden and feed her family with the fruits of her labor. She took pride in passing on the traditions of planting and harvesting to her children and grandchildren. She had an incredible knowledge of plants that made every hike to the Pinnacles an education about the various trees and flowers of the forest. She also had quite the competitive spirit and enjoyed a fun game of cards. She was always looking for a good hand and a good partner for the win.

Mary Therese never met a stranger and was infinitely interested in hearing other people's stories. She liked to share her own stories and was a friend to many. She will be greatly missed by all who were lucky enough to know her.

She is survived by her husband Dave Reilly of Berea, KY, daughter Sarah (Reilly) Hoffman and her husband David of Raleigh, NC, Nathan Reilly and his wife Theresa of Cincinnati, Ohio, Rachel Reilly and her husband Ty Bullard of Chapel Hill, NC, Danielle Reilly of Beverly Hills, MI, Elizabeth (Reilly) Hays and her husband Rob of Lexington, KY; and 12 of her 16 siblings. She has 12 grandchildren: Jonathan, Reese, Henry, Peter, Elise, Denise, Michael, Noah, Vivian, Joseph, Rebecca, and Brandon.

Funeral Mass was at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 12, 2020 at Saint Mark Catholic Church in Richmond. Father Mark Hoying officiated. Burial followed at Berea Cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to PeaceCraft (128 Main St. Berea, KY 40403), Habitat for Humanity of Madison and Clark County (PO Box 186, Richmond, KY 40476), or Bluegrass Hospice (1733 Harrodsburg Rd. Lexington, KY 40504).

Memories matter

Roger Alford

Perhaps you recall the story about the fellow who heard someone knocking. He opened the door and when he looked down at the floor he saw a snail. He picked up the little creature and threw it. Ten years later, he heard knocking again. He opened the door, and the snail was back, angry this time, and shouting, "What the heck did you do that for?"

I suppose being picked up and thrown would be rather unforgettable, even after 10 years. I expect most of us have had some unforgettable experiences. For Christians, those would include the day they surrendered their hearts and lives to Christ. For parents, that would be the day their child or children were born. For a husband or wife, that would be their wedding day. Those are some of the things people never forget. All such unforgettable events were wrought by God, and the Bible tells us in Psalm 77 we shouldn't forget that.

I hope all of us choose to remember the good things the Lord has done in our lives. I thought about that a few weeks ago when 90-year-old Carolyn Montague left this side of eternity for her home in Gloryland. Carolyn was a very classy lady. I'd describe her as rather refined, even eloquent. She had a certain aura about her, an aura of success. And I would venture to say Carolyn was among the most successful people you could have ever met. You see, Carolyn achieved her ultimate goal is life: to be a wife and a mother. She came up during a period in America when most girls aspired to those things. And she did them well.

It was a sad day when the Lord called Carolyn home, but then I remembered some of the unforgettable moments in her life and couldn't help but smile.

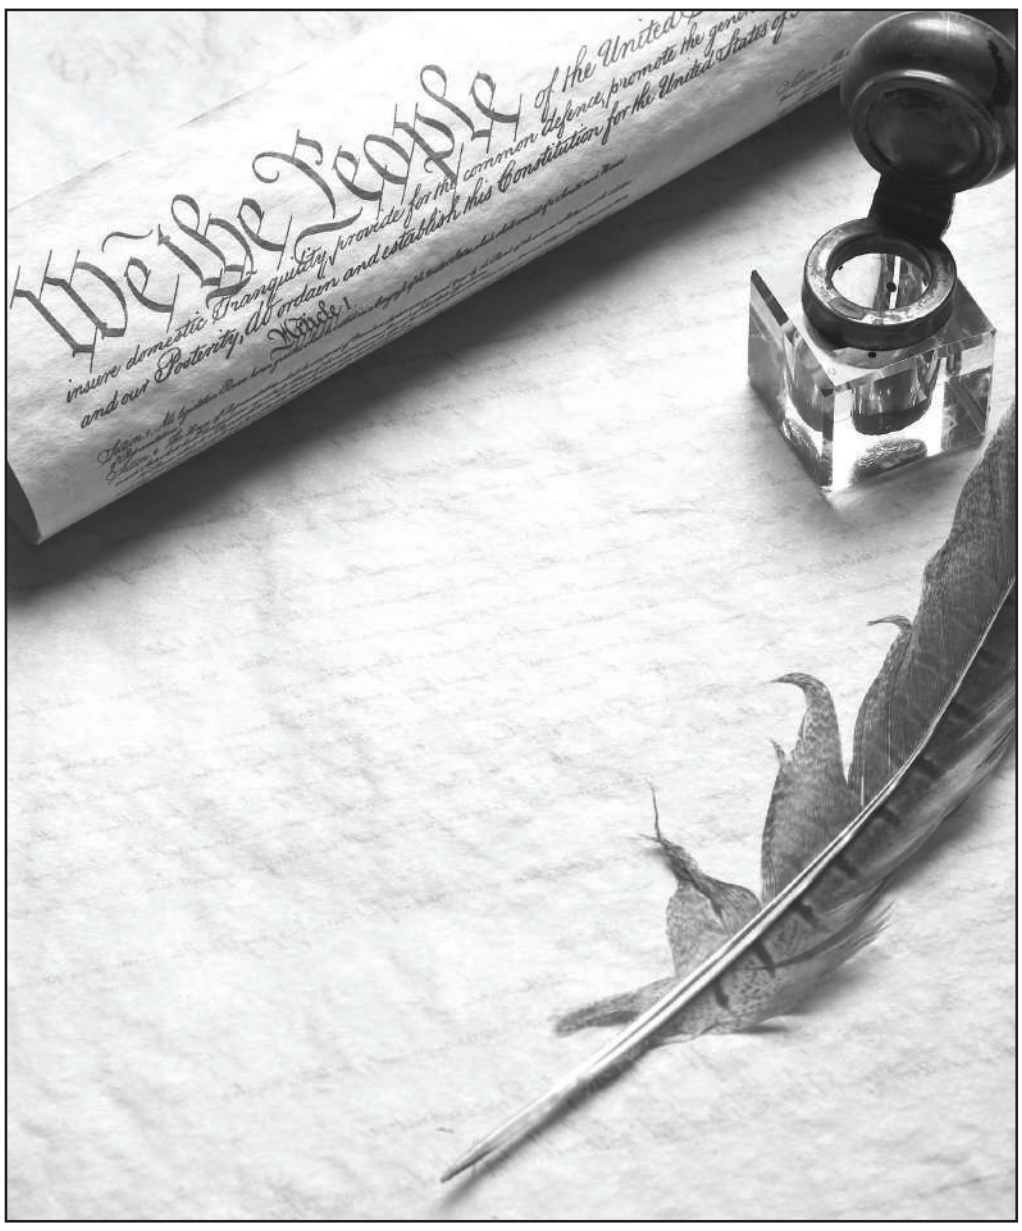
One of those moments came some years ago when we were having a Valentine's Day banquet. It was one of those times when church folks would let their hair down and have great fun together. We'd typically gather in the fellowship hall and do comedy skits of various sorts at those banquets. Carolyn was one of three senior ladies who we affectionately referred to as the Golden Girls. Ann Bond and Carolyn Baldwin were the other two. They were all up in years, great friends to one another, and they always sat together on the back pew during church services.

Well, at one of the Valentine's Day banquets, I recruited these three senior ladies to dress as the Dixie Chicks, a country trio who were known as much for their sex appeal as for their music.

These three church ladies lip-synched one of the Dixie Chick's best known hits, Goodbye Earl. You may remember the song. Earl had abused his wife, and he faced the consequences. "Earl had to die," the song said.

It just seemed so out of character for Carolyn, taking stage with her senior friends, and gyrating around in Dixie Chick fashion. As they say in show business, these senior citizens brought the house down. It was a performance I'll never forget: Carolyn, the typically eloquent lady, showing an outrageous side and making an unforgettable memory for everyone there.

When we leave this world, I hope that all of us, like Carolyn, leave behind unforgettable moments that make our families and friends smile. But more importantly, I hope we leave them with an assurance that we've trusted in Christ and will, like Carolyn, live forever in heaven.



Constitution binds and sustains us

Keith Taylor

My niece Addisyn, who just turned 11 years-old and a 5th-grader at Silver Creek Elementary School, called me the other day and read the preamble to the Constitution.

In a non-traditional fashion, Addie Bug is learning about the Constitution and the purpose of the document that our country was founded upon. Following her research, she wrote about what the Constitution means to her and the role of the three branches of Government.

This week — Sept. 17-23 — is known as Constitution Week and youngsters are starting to learn about he principles by which our unique Government is formed. Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley proclaimed Sept. 14-20 as Constitution Week to members of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The proclamation by Fraley urges citizens in Berea to "reaffirm the ideals the framers of the Constitution had in 1987." This year marks the 233rd anniversary of the faming of the Constitution of the United States of America by the Constitutional Convention.

According to the DAR, the purpose of Constitution Week is to:

* Emphasize citizens' responsibilities for protecting and defending the Constitution.

• Inform people that the Constitution is the basis for America's great heritage and the foundation for our way of life.

• Encourage the study of the historical events which led to the framing of the Constitution in September 1787.

The observance was officially enacted by late President Dwight D. Eisenhower and George W/ Bush officially declared Constitution Week in September, 2002, more than a year after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on America.

Members of the Daughters of the American Revolution typically observe Constitution Week by ringing bells at 4 p.m. on Sept. 17 each year and by distributing copies of the Constitution, the Preamble and other types of patriotic materials to educate citizens about the Constitution.

The Constitutions is what binds us and has sustained us four more than 200 years and remains the most important document ever framed in our nation's history.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hill: Barton a 'Beacon' for wealth creation

After spending the first 17 years of life in Berea I've grown to become passionate about the community that raised me. Berea is a special place to live and the promotion of real growth and development in our community is something that needs to be taken seriously because Berea — like the rest of the country — is at a pivotal point in time. A select group of individuals have a strong hold on the powers of our local government, a group of individuals that ignore the demands of the ever-changing society that we live in today because they would rather life be like it was 30 years ago.

This group of individuals have taken up several crucial seats on Berea's City Council for decades and they use their power as elected officials to fulfill their own personal interests and desires, rather than making decisions for the greater good of our community.

These City Council members have an aversion to change because they're so accustomed to having it their way, the old way, but it's time to elect someone who is ready to bring good change to our community.

Berea City Council candidate Shane Barton has overseen community planning, development, and change at the professional level for over a decade. Shane is ready to help our community grow at the right time for the right reasons.

He's committed to positive social and economic change in this town, so the next generation of Bereans can live in a community that is accepting of everyone and a community that in his own words, can be a "beacon of local wealth creation."

Please consider joining me in voting for Shane Barton for Berea City Council.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Mussels released

In conjunction with the National Park Service, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources earlier this month stocked about 1,200 individual mussels into the Green River within Mammoth Cave National Park, in order to restore a federally-listed endangered species historically found in waters of the commonwealth.

The rayed bean, a species of freshwater mussel, has not been found in Kentucky waters in more than four decades. The mussels for this restoration effort were moved from the Allegheny River in Pennsylvania .because of a tar spill.

Berea falls to Bulldogs in its season opener

By Mike Moore
For the Citizen

Clinton County's passing attack proved to be too much for Berea as the Pirates lost, 48-14, in its season and home opener last Friday night. The Bulldogs rolled up 357 yards through the air, including six touchdowns.

The lone bright spot for the Pirates was Jaiden Cunningham who rushed for 143 yards, including a 72-yard scoring run in the second quarter. Coach Tony DeGregorio said defensively, the Pirates must continue to work.

"We will work with our young guys on pass coverage," he said. Offensively, the coach said better conditioning and timing is key to Berea's success in 2020. Next up for Berea is a road game against Sayre Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Boys Soccer

• The Berea Pirates boys soccer team got off to a 0-2-1 start. The team fell to Madison Southern, 10-1 in the season opener. The squad rebounded to earn a 2-2 tie versus Bourbon County. In that game, John Paul Wideman and Cannon Cummings each scored a goal. The Pirates fell to Frankfort, 6-0, in the first round of the All A Classic.

• The Madison Southern Eagles are off to a 2-1 start to their season. The Eagles pounded Berea, 10-1 in the opening game for both teas. Andrew Mayo scored three goals, while Parker Coyle and Jase Duerson each scored twice. The Eagles lost to Lexington Catholic, 1-0, before rebounding to knock off Southwestern, 1-0. Garrett Wickersham scored Southern's goal against the Warriors.

Girls Soccer

• The Berea Lady Pirates dropped two, and earned a tie to open up its 2020 season. Berea lost to Estill County, 2-0, and Lincoln County, 3-0, before earning a 1-1 tie against Lexington Christian Academy in the All A Classic. Hannah Davis scored Berea's lone goal against LCA.

• The Madison Southern Lady Eagles jumped out to a 2-1 start on 2020. Southern knocked off Lincoln County and Model by identical scores of 2-1. The Model game was decided in a shootout. Abby Shaffer and Mallory Robinson each scored goals against Lincoln County. Ashlee Pisula tallied a goal against Model. LaFayette blanked the Lady Eagles, 7-0.

Volleyball

• The Berea Lady Pirates opened the 2020 volleyball season by picking up wins Garrard County and Model, but suffered a loss to Trinity Christian, sandwiched in between. Sophia Dobbins recorded 17 kills in the two wins, and added eight digs against Model. Taelor Alexander added 18 digs in the two victories.

• The Madison Southern Lady Eagles are off to another hot start to the season, going 3-1 in the first week of play. Southern defeated Scott County, East Jessamine and Mercer County, and fell to Great Crossing. Avery St. John recorded 36 kills in the four games. Autumn Griffith added 76 digs in four contests.

PROJECT

which is $256,200.

Leverenz explained the Madison County Airport Board would secure the funds through a state government infrastructure grant, and that the board would reimburse the three local governments.

To pay off the loans, Wyatt said CKRA will be deriving approximately $89,000 in annual revenue from the soon-to-be completed hangars, in addition to other revenue from fuel sales and payments from the airport's fixed based operator, Eastern Kentucky University.

Wyatt noted he anticipates the hangars will be fully occupied, since 27 of the 30 hangars have already been reserved. In addition, he noted corporate plane operators are inquiring about the possibility of locating at CKRA in the future.

Berea City Councilmember Emily LaDouceur expressed skepticism about the potential loan, raising the question of what happens if the airport goes into default. She noted that with the most recently proposed loan, the city would be potentially be committed to repay $750,000 if the airport goes out of business. Council member Steve Caudill doubted that possibility, saying the airport going out of business is highly unlikely.

"I don't foresee anything going south with the airport anytime soon," Caudill said. "It's been a stable entity for years, and I think it's more stable than it's ever been." Caudill noted the airport serves EKU's growing aviation program, which serves 300 students and houses 22 airplanes at CKRA.

At one point, Mayor Bruce Fraley explained the airport board will be providing a detailed breakdown of revenue estimates before the next meeting on October 6. LaDouceur said she also expects the board to provide a promised report of precisely how many corporate clients the CKRA serves.

Speaking in favor of the measure, Mayor Fraley thanked the Madison County Fiscal Court and the City of Richmond, noting the facility draws customers not only from Madison County, but also draws business from surrounding counties.

"I do want to give credit where credit is due," Fraley said. "I know Judge Taylor and his staff and Mayor Blythe and his staff have worked very hard to enter into a cooperative agreement on this which is not always an easy thing to do. But we've had a good deal of cooperation between the three governments and this is just another positive step as I see it."

Resolution passes

Turning to the Juneteenth Resolution, the Berea City Council reached agreement on the measure, which has been under discussion since June. After a previous council meeting that included consultation with Professor Andrew Baskin, Steve Caudill took on the task of drafting a compromise resolution, which touted Berea's history as a community that has striven for racial equality. The resolution also acknowledges the difficulties faced by the nation's African American citizens, and affirms the council's commitment to promoting values in the City of Berea that will help foster a safe and inclusive community for all citizens.

At one point, Councilmember Ronnie Terrill offered a motion to table the measure until May of 2021. That motion failed for lack of a second.

When the final vote was taken, Steve Caudill, Cora Jane Wilson, John Payne, Emily LaDouceur and Jerry Little voted in favor of the revised Juneteenth Resolution. Terrill and David Rowlette voted against it. Jim Davis was not present at the teleconference meeting. During council comments, LaDouceur complimented Caudill for producing what she called a beautiful document, while Caudill said he was pleased the council could vote on a more Berea-centric document that spoke to local residents.

• In other business, the council adopted an ordinance setting the ad valorem tax rate for the city at 10.4 cents per $100 of real property. The rate is one tenth of a percent lower than last year.

The Berea City Council will meet again on October 6 at 6:30 p.m.

TOURISM

Tourism Commission, was the Art Accelerator program, which was suspended earlier this year. Thomas said while the program was not as successful as hoped, participants agreed working artisans should still be featured in Berea's efforts to draw tourists, but that it should perhaps be just one element of Berea's overall tourism strategy.

"We really want to have a full slate of things that Berea has to offer that sets us apart from our competitors.

"People want to move here, live here, bring their businesses here, spent their money here, visit here, so we're open to a lot of ideas," Thomas said.

Officials emphasized participants still believe strongly in retaining Berea's brand as the "Folk Art and Crafts Capital of Kentucky," but there needs to be a new approach, would could include an overhaul of the art accelerator concept.

"I was really impressed with the former art accelerator [fellows] ideas on the program," said Commissioner Linda Ross. "They are very willing and seem to be excited about changing the program. I was just really impressed that they want to help continue this in some way, but in the best way possible.

"A lot of people are prepared to work for some new things for Berea."

Commission member Charles Sanders mentioned that some of Berea's veteran artists expressed interest in mentoring and even apprenticing younger artisans in exchange for having a retail space where their work can be displayed, thus bolstering existing art businesses while nurturing new ones.

Thomas, meanwhile, said the participants from the commission as well as the business and artist communities agreed there needs to be more effort in building support and consensus for the city's tourism strategy by conveying information to local citizens.

"Overall, we need to do a better job of explaining what tourism does, and specifically, how any future program tries to attract new people to Berea," Thomas said.

The Tourism Accelerator Committee was expected to meet again this week to discuss plans.

On a related note, representatives from Right Place Media (RPM) addressed commissioners on the status of the city's tourism campaign.

Bill Rice of RPM explained that the proposed campaign theme, "Experience Berea," is designed to draw people with a variety of interests, including those interested in outdoor activities, hiking, unique dining experiences and other activities.

High marks

Meanwhile, Director of Business and Tourism Development Donna Angel provided a departmental update, reporting that Berea is scoring unusually high when it comes to outdoor activity related internet searches.

Rice similarly reported that outdoor activities seem to be trending heavily when it comes to internet searches relating to Berea.

Angel also reported that there are some positive signs despite the continued impact of COVID-19. Two small leadership conferences were recently hosted by Boone Tavern, and participants wrapped up their stay by going canoeing and kayaking.

Additionally, a tour coach group will be visiting Berea on Sept. 17 on their way to Tennessee, a sign that a once very successful element of Berea's tourism program is slowly coming back to life.

Changing focus

In other developments, uncertainty over the pandemic has resulted in the cancelation of H.O.W. craft workshops and "Make It, Take It, Give It," two successful fall tourism programs.

Business and Tourism Development will instead focus on local Halloween and Christmas promotions, spearheaded by communication specialist Megan Campbell.

Also on last Wednesday's agenda was a proposal to allow the Berea Farmer's Market to use the Tolle building on Saturdays during the months of November through April.

The commission opted to explore the issue further to see whether the city is adequately insured for such an arrangement.

MADISON SOUTHERN EAGLES

Eagles 'Flexible'

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Coach: Jon Clark 10th Year
Last year: 7-6, 5-1 District
Key Losses: 16 seniors, including Tobias Storm, Dane Jackson, Dawson Gabbard
Returners: Cole Carpenter, Jonah Farnstorm, Adrian Jones, Jayshaun Ethridge, Clay Bunch, Cameron Holbrook and Levi Benton

Outlook

The catchphrase for Madison Southern football coach Jon Clark heading into the 2020 football season is flexible.

With all of the uncertainty surrounding the pandemic, Clark said his team has to expect the unexpected, that holds true with the schedule. While on paper, Southern will play nine teams in the regular season, Clark said chances are, some of those scheduled games will be tweaked as the season rolls on.

"We have a schedule, but the schedule will change as the year goes on," he said. "There will be teams that will have to forfeit because of Covid. There will be teams that will have to forfeit on a Thursday before Friday's game. There are going to be teams that weren't going to play each other who will call and say, 'Hey, let's play tomorrow night.' It could happen quite a bit."

The one certainty is the Eagles will play football, and between now and Sept. 12 when Southern travels to Lexington Christian Academy, much needs to be sorted out.

It starts with a new quarterback, which means the 2020 Eagles will look different on offense.

"We are replacing our quarterback," Clark said. "The past few seasons, we've had a primarily run-based quarterback with Tobias Storm. Cole Carpenter is more of a drop back passer, in that he's a taller and bigger bodied. That will change the offense quite a bit."

Clark said Carpenter will have plenty of weapons, including 1,000-yard back Adrian Jones, and wide receivers Jonah Farnstrom and Walt Smith.

"Jonah has collarbone injuries that ended his season two years in a row," Clark said. "He is a talented wide receiver that we've ever had at Madison Southern. He's going to be a big part in what we are going to do this season."

Last year, Smith lead the team in receptions last year with 36 catches for 818 yards and nine scores.

While the offense will look different, the defense will be similar to the 2019 as Southern returns several key players, including it's starting linebacker corps of Clay Bunch, Cameron Holbrook and Levi Benton."

"We're going to be very similar because a lot of those guys are returning," Clark said.

Given the topsy-turvy off season with Covid and the fluid schedule, one of Clark's primary goals is simply to line up and play football, no matter who the opponent turns out to be.

"My goal with my team is to play as many games as we can," he said. "Whatever we have to do in order to be available for games is what we're going to do."

BEREA PIRATES

Pirates rebuilding

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Coach: Tony DeGregorio – 1st year
Last year: 7-4, 0-4 District
Key losses: 11 seniors
Returners: Jaiden Cunningham, Tanner Hayden, Clayton Martinez and Rey Alejandro

Outlook

This year will be a new look in many ways for Berea.

Leading the Pirates ship will be first year coach Tony DeGregorio who inherits a team that graduated 11 players.

DeGregorio is no stranger to Pirates football as he served as an assistant for five years. For leadership and play, the first-year coach will look to Jaiden Cunningham, Tanner Hayden, Clayton Martinez and Rey Alejandro, all of whom saw significant snaps on both sides of the ball.

Though the team lost 11 seniors, DeGregorio expects overall team depth to be a strength in 2020.

"We should have more depth than last season, which will help," he said. "The team's expectation for this season is to continue the winning ways, never quit and play smash mouth football every week."

Given the pandemic, DeGregorio said he considers being able to play the season a win-win for everyone involved in high school football.

"The nine-game season is the best case scenario we could hope for, the KHSAA has done and is continuing to do a great job by monitoring what is happening in the surrounding states with fall sports," he said.

"We have only been able to lift weights and condition, with limits of 10 players per group with each coach. As you know, Berea is a smaller school, so we don't face the same issues as the larger schools with 50-plus players."

The team has been able practice in full gear since Aug. 24.

Because of it, DeGregorio feels everyone is in the same boat, preparation-wise.

"We only have about two and a half weeks from the time we are able to put on helmets until the first game, so it will be challenging," he said.

BEREA LADY PIRATES

Defense will be a key

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Coach: Jarred Penn – 5th season
Last year: 17-16
Losses: 1 senior
Returners: Sophia Dobbins, Taelor Alexander, Faith Dennis

Outlook

The Berea Lady Pirates are looking to build on a season that saw them go 17-16 in 2019. Coach Jarred Penn has a bevy of returning players including Sophia Dobbins, Taelor Alexander, Faith Dennis, Kayley Harrison, Morgan Short and Serenity Short, as optimism abounds in 2020.

"I expect a lot out of our returners," Penn said. "They've been with us since seventh or eighth grade. We've been working hard already."

Penn said it would be a team effort to replace Malyah Penn.

"We lost one senior, and she was a big loss because she was an all-around player, but we have several girls back and we've been working with a couple players to take her spot," he said. "I really think we could do some damage and shock some people this year.

The talent is there as Dennis is capable of 30 or more assists in any given match as she proved in 2019. Additionally, Alexander and Dennis are capable of 12-plus digs and 15-plus kills, respectively, on any given night.

Berea's calling card will be defense, assistant Coach Lyndsay Reams said.

"The way they've been working on defense has been great," she said. "It's about self-confidence and teaching them how to be self-confident and to know where they're supposed to be and in what they are doing."

One of the biggest obstacles to the season has been the current pandemic, which has limited practice time.

"The first part of it, we couldn't do anything but condition and drills, with one player using one ball," Penn said. "Which was fine, and it was little things we needed to work on. Now, we're allowed to do a little more. Not what we'd like to be doing. We would have already had a scrimmage scheduled (by early August), but not this year."

Despite the challenges, Penn feels good about his group of players in 2020.

"These girls have a lot of potential," he said. "As long as we play good defense and pass the ball, we'll be fine."

MADISON SOUTHERN LADY EAGLES

Lady Eagles ready to soar

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Coach: Jeremy Grant – 10th year
Last year: 28-5, school record for wins, 7-0 District
Losses: Four starters
Returners: Autumn Griffith and Avery St. John

Outlook

Heading into 2020, Madison Southern volleyball Coach Jeremy Grant knows it will be quite a feat to equal last year's success. In 2019, the Lady Eagles won a school-record 28 matches, but they also lost four starters from that team.

Given the caliber of the returning players, Grant feels 2020 can be a banner year in its own right.

"I think we're going to be OK, and we'll surprise some people. I think the team came in with a chip on their shoulder with the attitude, 'Just because we graduated those seniors doesn't mean we're not going to be any good,'" Grant said. "I don't think we're going to take as big a step back as people thinks we will."

It's not like the Lady Eagles have to rebuild, as they have several players returning who seen significant game action, including Autumn Griffith and Avery St. John.

"One of our two seniors is Autumn Griffith, who was our libero last year, and she's been a defensive specialist for us the last two or three years," Grant said. "She's a little gym rat. She's been around since the seventh grade. She is looked to as the leader of the team."

The other senior is Avery St. John, who impressed Grant as well as other coaches at Southern during organized athletic workouts.

"I've been impressed with her over the summer," Grant said. "At the SOAR camp, where all of the teams got together for a couple weeks and did some character building exercises, and I had (Football) Coach (Jon) Clark and (boys basketball)Coach (Austin) Newton and different coaches telling me Avery was working her tail off and doing a great job. She knows she will have to step up this year."

This season is unique because of the pandemic and the restrictions it has put on workouts and practices. While it has been a hindrance, every team has had to deal with it.

"We're trying to do the best we can right now," Grant said. "We've been at it for about seven weeks now, and we practiced for two or three weeks, the we took a week off and reshuffled the groups. We can't have our full group together, but we're trying to get different players together and see how they play."

The team as a whole have responded positively to the challenges, which gives Grant reason for to believe another successful season is around the corner.

"I've been impressed with the girls during all of this," he said. "They know they need to step up, and they've done it."

High School Golf

Madison Southern Lady Eagles

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Coach: John Gilliam, 2nd year
Key losses: None
Key Returning: Kasey Cameron.

Outlook

The 2019 Madison Southern girls golf team struggled to find numbers to compete in tournaments and matches, but the 2020 version should be different, Coach John Gilliam said.

"We really didn't have enough girls last year to field a team and be competitive in matches," he said. "We had four girls who played last year. Two of them competed in the region tournament and other tournaments.

The other two were beginners, so we never had enough to field a team."

This year, eight girls make up the Lady Eagles' team, and youth will lead the squad, Gilliam said.

"Kasey Cameron is a freshman, and she's out oldest," Gilliam said. "The rest of our girls are middle schoolers."

Gilliam said Cameron will set the pace for the team, as she had made great strides from 2019 to 2020.

"Individual wise, Kasey should be pretty competitive," he said. "She's finished in the top 10 in some of the tournaments she's played in, so far."

Unlike the high-contact sports, golf teams were allowed to begin season preparation on a normal schedule, meaning the first practice was held July 15.

But COVID-19 has caused some changes to high school golf, most noticeably all shots are played with the flag stick in the hole, and most courses have removed rakes from the bunker, Gilliam said.

In addition, coaches are conducting temperature checks, which is standard protocol, and limiting spectators.

"One of the big thing is they are limiting spectators to two people per player," Gilliam explained.

The Lady Eagles' season got underway on Aug. 3 with the Model Patriots Invitational at The Bull in Richmond.

The followed that up with the Madison Central Invitational Aug. 4 at Gibson Bay.

In that tournament, Cameron shot a 79, good enough for 13th place, just four shots back of first place, Gilliam said.

On Aug. 22, Cameron placed sixth in the Lexington Catholic Invitational.

One of the main goals for the 2020 is for the eight players to gain experience on the high school level, which will pay off in the next several years.

High School Golf

Madison Southern Eagles

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Coach: John Gilliam, 5th year
Last year: Lost two players to graduation.
Key returners: Clifton Scully, Sam Bingham and Brett Erslan

Outlook

The signs of improvement are there through the first handful of matches for the Madison Southern boys' golf team.

In 2019, the Eagles averaged 375 points in tournament play. Through the first month of 2020, that number dropped to 350, Coach John Gilliam said.

"We have played well enough to earn team All-State points in two of the six tournaments by finishing seventh at the Eagle Trace Invitational in Morehead and eighth at the Somerset Invitational," Gilliam said.

That improvement is on par with Gilliam's expectations for 2020.

But 2020 hasn't been without the challenge of navigating COVID-19, Gilliam said.

Among the noticeable differences is social distancing and masks in the club house, and, rakes out of the bunker and flag poles will remain in the cups.

Despite the unusual challenges, Gilliam says the 2020 team has achievable goals.

"Our team goals are to have a couple guys shoot in the 70s and everyone else to shoot in the 80s in tournament play," Gilliam said. "We want to have everyone score well in the tournaments we go to."

That also means seeing the Eagles move from the middle of the pack in tournament finishes to some top five finishes, Gilliam added.

"We had a sixth place finish (earlier in 2020) at one of the tournaments," Gilliam said. "I think top five finishes is a realistic goal for us."

Last year in a 15-team tournament, the Eagles hovered between 10th and 12th place in tournament finishes, Gilliam said.

Leading the way for the Eagles will be freshman Clifton Scully, who has been with the team since his seventh grade year.

"He's basically the heart and soul of the golf team," Gilliam said.

"He's outgoing and his game is exceptional. He brings all the guys along, and cheers them from top to bottom."

Gilliam is also expecting good things from sophomore Brett Erslan.

"I've really been encouraged with Brett," Gilliam said. "He took up the game last year, and he's really been a big part of our tournament teams."

Sam Bingham has also stood out in the early portion of the season.

"Sam usually plays in the number two spot on our team," Gilliam said. "He shot a 79 at the Scott County Invitational held at Cherry Blossom, which was good for a 6th place finish in that tournament."

So, returning talent, coupled with improved play has the Eagles boys' golf team ready to achieve new heights in 2020.

Schedule

Sept. 19 at Berea Invitational at The Greens at Churchill's, TBA
Sept. 22 vs. Berea at The Greens at Churchill's, 4 p.m.

Berea Pirates

They are Berea Community's "three musketeers." But instead of swords, senior Jacob Robinson, freshman Dalton Robinson and seventh-grader Travis Harris will be wielding golf clubs in 2020.

The trio makes up the Berea boys' golf team, coach Steve Riddle said.

"I really don't have a team," he explained. "We just have three individuals on the boys' golf team."

Jacob Robinson will lead Berea, whose regular season got underway in early August, the coach said.

"He is probably our top player," Riddle said. "He shot a 42 against Madison Southern (in late August) in a nine-hole match."

Riddle is hoping the duo of Dalton Robinson and Harris will spur on Berea's boys' squad going forward.

"They work pretty well together in practice sessions," Riddle said. "They try to help each other out.

They're terrific kids."

While Covid-19 did not delay the golf season, it did put a whammy on numbers, Riddle said.

"It's a strange year with everything going on; that's probably why we don't have more players," he explained. "It's a COVID issue."

With three players, Riddle said it is difficult to get matches.

"We've played Paris High School and Madison Southern twice," he said. "It's hard to get matches when you only have three kids."

In terms of goals, the most significant thing Riddle is hoping to get from 2020 is the experience for Dalton Robinson and Harris.

"They've been doing very well, and they love golf," he said. "They're improving all the time."

Berea Lady Pirates

When the Berea Lady Pirates golf team took to the courses in late July, they did so with five players, with the oldest being in the eighth grade.

Because of that, coach Bernie Harris adjusted his approach to the schedule.

"We're really just doing match play this year," Harris said. "Technically, I've got enough to play tournaments, but three of my golfers are very young, and they're not quite there."

Leading the way for the team is eighth-grader Chloe Carpenter and seventh-grader Jacey Isaacs.

"Those two kids who can play and play well," Harris said. "They've played varsity matches for us."

Carpenter is Berea's top golfer, Harris added.

"She's my number one golfer," he said. "This is her fifth year of playing golf, so she's been at it for a while. She is to the point where she can complete with just about anyone she plays against."

Harris described Carpenter as a consistent player and can quickly make adjustments to her game.

"One thing I like about her is she can self-analyze her own game and doesn't get too excited or too emotional either way," Harris said.

Isaacs is in her second year of playing golf, and the improvement from 2019 to 2020 is evident, Harris said.

"She grew physically quite a bit this year," he said. "She hit the ball pretty well last year but wasn't strong enough to hit it very far. This year, she grew five or six inches, and now she's advancing the ball down the course pretty well and scoring."

The other three golfers are elementary school students, but they show a lot of promise, Harris said.

"Fifth-grader Maryn McDonald is in her second year with the team, but she played golf a few years before playing with us," Harris explained. "I have high hopes for her in the future."

Rounding out the squad are fourth-graders Gabriella Harris and Emila McKay.

"Technically, they are not on the team varsity-wise," Harris said. "They're middle school players. We feel like we have to go out and get golfers at a young age. It bodes well for the future."

Through a handful of matches this year, Harris said the team had performed well. Ultimately, the team is growing, intending to be a force in seasons to come.

"We're just growing our golfers and program," Harris said. "I want them to improve and learn to love the game of golf. The better scores tend to come with time. There is no substitute for experience."

Madison Southern Eagles

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Coach: Andrew Lunsford, third season
Last year: 12-6-3, 5-0 district
Losses: Six seniors
Key Returners: Goalkeeper Austin Shepherd

Outlook

Heading into his third year at the helm of Madison Southern boys' soccer, Lunsford has been building his program with 2020 in mind.

After all, the Eagles have 11 seniors on the team, nine of whom played significant varsity minutes in previous years. So expectations were high and goals were within reach. Then COVID-19 hit.

"It's been detrimental," Lunsford said. "Not just to us, but everyone. In terms of us preparing, it has set us back to square one. We knew we have a special group of players, and if we were going to make something happen, it would be this year. The past two years, we've been building foundation for this year. I feel like it hurt us, but there is no way it hasn't hurt everyone else."

The first order of business is finding ways to replace the production of Francisco Aguilar and Sam Lee, who teamed up to account for a fourth of Southern's goals in 2019.

To counter the production loss of two, Lunsford will look for balance from his returners.

"We have a group of guys who scored five or six goals last year," Lunsford said. "It's really spread out, so we don't

For The Citizen

Coach: Josh Johnson, 1st year
Last year: 3-14-1, 0-6 in district
Lost six players from 2019
Key Returners: J.P. Wideman, Jaylen Dorsey

Outlook

With two seniors returning, first-year Coach Josh Johnson knows the underclassmen will have to shoulder much of the load for the Berea Pirates boys' soccer team in 2020.

While underclassmen are high in numbers, Johnson said the immediate leadership mantle will be worn by seniors J.P. Wideman and Jaylen Dorsey.

"J.P. is our midfield and striker," Johnson said. "He's a great leader and awesome player. He is always playing motivated and pushing the guys to be at their best day in and day out. He's the type of guy if you ask him to jump, he'll ask 'How high?'"

Johnson said Dorsey is venturing into soccer after playing basketball for several years. While Dorsey will continue to dominate for the Pirates hoops team, Johnson is hopeful the senior's athleticism will bode well for his new position as goalkeeper.

"He's a basketball player, but he's going to try a new sport this year as keeper and he's crazy athletic and has a great attitude," Johnson said.

When a new coach takes over a program, the adjustment is difficult enough. Couple that with COVID-19, and Johnson is doing the best he can. The one advantage he has is the fact he served as an assistant with the team last year.

"It's been hard for the simple fact we don't have the numbers," he said. "We range between seven and eight players at practice. We need 11 to play games, so it's been hard to get into game situations. We also can't have a physical practice to get ready for game play. It's more of a tactical sessions we're working on."

Johnson's goals in his first year are modest, adding that patience will be key in building the program.

"There were be a lot of lessons learned this year," he said. "We have a lot of freshman, so, realistically it takes a year to adjust from middle to high school. After this year, the sky is the limit for us. We need to get experience and they need to get under the lights and learn what high school soccer is all about."

have that one or two players you have to stop. We've got good balance with four or five players who can score."

On the defensive end, junior goalkeeper Austin Shepherd will be counted on to keep the ball out of the net. Last year, he recorded seven shutouts in goal.

Lunsford said so long as Southern executes, it should be able to defend its 44th District Crown, as well as advance in the 2020 11th Region tournament.

"Securing the top seed in the district tournament is a huge advantage," he said. "We really have to take care of business. We also need to stay healthy. If we are healthy, it will go a long way."

MADISON SOUTHERN LADY EAGLES

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Coach: Katy Cress
18th year
Last year: 7-11-1
Coming back: Seniors Keyara Savia and Abby Sheffer, freshman goalie Claire Cress
Seniors lost: 6, two goalies, centerback and center mid

Outlook

The Madison Southern girls' soccer Coach Katy Cress said this year's squad would have to fill big shoes in the middle of the field as they graduated starting center back and center midfielder and their two goalies in 2019.

"We lost some key players right down the middle of the field. However, I have a young team this year, but they're a very skilled team," she said.

Stepping into the key roles will be seniors Abby Sheffer and Keyara Savia and freshman Claire Cress.

"They (Sheffer and Savia) have good soccer knowledge, and they both have good leadership," the coach said. "They're already on their way to providing great leadership for us this year."

Coach Cress isn't too concerned about starting a freshman keeper.

"She is a freshman, but she has a lot of experience playing that position," Coach Cress said.

Given the preseason's uncertainty due to the pandemic, Coach Cress has been pleased with what she has seen in practice.

"We've had a lot of conditioning, but we haven't had a lot of time where we could do some one versus one stuff," she said. "But the girls have given me great effort when we were able to do some contact stuff. I really can't wait to get them out on the field."

With a young team, Coach Cress said it might take a few contests to find its game legs.

"It may take us a game or two to figure out exactly what we're all doing, especially with the preseason that we've had," she said.

"We haven't been able to do a full scrimmage even at practice. But I still have a lot of confidence in the girls who will be out on the field."

This year, Madison Southern will play a 10-game schedule, and by no means is it a pushover schedule.

"We have a strong schedule, and we're going to find out what our young girls are made up of pretty quickly," Coach Cress said. "I think they're up for the challenge. I think we can get out there and compete."

District-wise, Coach Cress said there are no easy games.

"It's always competitive. You cannot overlook anyone in this district," she said. "Central should have a great team, and they're our rival. We're going to have to step it up to be ready."

School almost back in session

Madison County to begin in-person classes Monday

By Keith Taylor
Citizen Publisher

Madison County Schools will open its doors to students for in-person instruction on Monday following more than three weeks of virtual learning.

The county school system will switch from a red contingency plan (virtual learning model) to an orange plan, a hybrid A/B attendance option for elementary and middle school students. High school students will remain in a virtual learning mode until after fall break.

The current plan will remain in place through Oct. 9.

All bus routes in the county will begin running on Monday and masks are required for students who choose riding the bus as their method of transportation. All students, including preschool and kindergarten students will be required to wear a mask at all times while in the school building.

The plan

- Option 1 students will be divided into two groups.
- Group A is last name A-K. Attend in person Monday and Wednesday.
- Group B is last name L-Z. Attend in person Tuesday and Thursday.
- For questions about which days your child should attend, contact your school.
- Students will be learning from home on the days they are not attending in person. Learning from home will be directed and facilitated by teachers.
- On Friday, everyone will learn from home. Teachers will determine what work will occur on Fridays and they will be available throughout the day.
- High School students will remain virtual learners until

We understand if you are sick and stress that you take every precaution to stay healthy and safe following guidelines set forth. Cruel COVID

It's been so long since things have been normal, I have forgotten what normal is to be honest.

Everything seems to be so abnormal. About a month ago, COVID-19 attacked my family. My mom has been in ICU at St. Joseph's East in Lexington for the past two weeks, including more than a week on a ventilator as her body fends off a virus that is more real to me than I could have ever imagined.

Keith Taylor

My own world seems to be turned upside down. It's not a dream, but rather a reality. Because of COVID and visitor restrictions, mom has been in the hospital fighting for her life alone. No family, visitors, no bedside prayers, no emotional support and no way to reassure her that she is not alone. The coronavirus is cruel, very cruel. It makes you realize just how those little things we took for granted just 12 months ago were taken for granted.

The simple things have been ripped out from under our daily lives. Simple things such as shaking hands, socializing, food and fellowship are for now a thing of the past. Going to church this past Sunday reminded me just how much a virus has affected worship services in our churches. The offering plate hasn't been passed around in months. Shaking hands with the pastor is a past tradition. Going to the hospital to visit your sick family member — in this case my own mom — is forbidden when C-O-V-I-D-19 is involved in the diagnosis.

I'm not going to lie. It's the hardest thing in the world not being able to see your mom when she needs you the most. I admit I'm selfish and I have needed her too, because, this has been the toughest battle we have faced in our lifetime and the virus has made it 10 times worse it seems.

In the past few months, we have seen mostly empty sports stadiums. Half-capacity restaurants that used to be filled with families spending time together or celebrating a special occasion are halfway filled. Churches have roped off pews and seats that are six-feet apart and the Grand Ole Opry is empty as the show goes on. Concerts are few and far between.

We are a family of faith and we are relying on God in these unprecedented times. I just wish I could call my mom and hear her voice to reassure me that everything is going to be OK and trust God's timing.

Hopefully mom will be back home soon and things will be normal again. The sooner, the better.

Chasing chickens

One of my favorite stories ever is about the farmer who told his buddies at the feed store that he had developed a chicken with four legs.

"How do they taste?" one of his buddies asked.

"Well, I don't know," the farmer said. "We've not been able to catch one yet."

I do believe there's no better place in the country than the local feed store to hear stories so funny that they make you laugh out loud. Hangouts like that, with farmers sitting around on a rainy day catching up on the latest news, are pure Americana. The big chain stores have run many of them out of business.

Roger Alford

We lost ours a few years ago, despite the best efforts of the proprietor, Jerry Jones. Jerry went head to head with the likes of Tractor Supply, Rural King and Southern States, but ultimately he lost the fight. Now only a vacant building remains marking the place where great storytellers used to loaf.

Jerry is in the nursing home now, but he's still able to spin quite the yarn. I talk with him about once a week. He still seems to know everything about everybody, and he never runs out of tales. The closing of his feed store, in my opinion, was a huge loss to our community. It was, in a very real sense, an American institution.

You do realize that feed stores aren't the only such institutions closing these days. Churches are, too. Fewer people are going to church now. With attendance declining, financial resources are also dwindling, which means less money to support ministers or to care for aging church buildings. We have churches very near your homes that have fewer than a dozen people in regular attendance on Sunday mornings.

For the past year, I've been serving as pastor of a small rural church. Longtime members talk about the good old days when all the pews were full of enthusiastic believers. I for one don't want to see our local churches go the route of the locally owned feed stores. And we, as believers, should be bent on making sure that doesn't happen.

In our rural community, only about 10 percent of the population attends church. Oddly enough, I am encouraged by that statistic, because it tells me there are literally thousands of people within an easy drive of our church who aren't attached to any other congregation and who could come and be a part of ours. These are people who could play a crucial role in saving a piece of Americana.

If you'd like to be a part of our efforts at South Fork, just give me a call or send me an email.

My phone number and email address are included below.

This is an opportunity to be a part of something truly remarkable, something of eternal value, and I hope you'll run as fast as a four-legged chicken to come help us.

Chapman: Thankful for postal service

Despite apparent efforts to dismantle certain public services, it is most troubling for me to conceive of the loss or reduction of the United States Postal service. Since long before my birth, some form of the postal service supported by local and national governments has provided a human touch in the delivery of messages and goods.

For those of us living in more rural areas, especially during a pandemic, the ability to have one's sense of isolation broken is to see the USPS person approach the door and at times meet at the door with a package, a smile, and a word of hope.

My encouragement to all receiving mail from their carrier is to find some way of expressing their appreciation for these people who are braving the many challenges of what they face each day. To receive real paper mail delivered by the hand of a real — not virtual — human is a gift representing the kind of world we need in keeping our country connected through human service with dignity.

Local input is needed for Madison County community health plan

Community members can set the agenda for a positive impact on Madison County's health for the future.

Every five years, the Madison County Health Department asks Madison County community members to provide their thoughts and opinions about the level of health experienced in our community.

The goal is to establish a five-year strategic Community Health Improvement Plan (CHIP) to address top concerns regarding health issues.

The plan happens in three phases: Gathering information, analyzing that information, and setting priorities for specific measurable actions.

Phase one has been accomplished. People in Madison County participated in a survey in Fall 2019. A partnership between the health department and the EKU Department of Health Promotion and Administration combined the efforts of faculty, staff, and students to provide a scientific survey tool.

The results of the survey and other local data are accessible online at http://bit.ly/MCHDCHASurvey.

After viewing the presentation, participants can help prioritize local needs by completing a brief survey. The link is active through Oct. 5.

A link is also available on the health department's website at www.madisoncountyhealthdept.org, Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram.

Local response is vital to the project's effectiveness. "This plan is not created in a vacuum—the foundation of the plan is based on local input," said MCHD Health Education Director Lloyd Jordison.

"The Health Department and our partners are asking Madison County community members to click on the link and give their response. Local feedback is needed to set the agenda for a positive impact on Madison County for the next five years," said Jordison.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Berea Citizen archives, Oct. 1, 1998

• The groundbreaking and site preparation process began on Glades Road for the new post office to be constructed.

• Berea was chosen as one of 41 Kentucky cities to be designated as a Renaissance Kentucky Community. Governor Paul Patton implemented the program in 1996 as a way to designate funding sources for cities that want to revitalize their downtown area.

• The city of Berea was trying to provide caller ID and *69 for Berea and Southern Madison County.

• You could get a cheeseburger, medium fry, and a medium drink for only $1.99 at Dairy Queen.

• Churchhill Weavers was having their Super Yarn Sale, with most yarns priced at $2-$7 a pound.

• There was a meeting held at Kingston Masonic Lodge, with about 75 attendees there in support of the establishment of a Richmond Battlefield Association. The association was formed with the goal that part of the Civil War Battle of Richmond would be made into a historic site for visitors to enjoy in the future.

• Approximately 400-500 people attended the third annual Hunter's Night out Sponsored by Berea Southern States. The event had games, contests, and children's activities, live music, and free hot dogs and drinks. The contests included archery, BB shooting, flower name game, bud name game, fish casting, and tobacco spitting.

• Berea Community Elementary was awarded a $14,000 grant from the Exxon Education Foundation to develop a K-3 mathematics specialist project.

• Madison Southern Homecoming was scheduled for that evening of Oct. 1.

There would be the parade, the presentation of candidates on the field, then the football game.

• The original owners of Papalenos- Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bellando, Mr. and Mrs. John Stephenson, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bennett sold their business after 15 years.

The restaurant was sold to brothers Brad and Jerome Lewis.

The mighty dollar

A dollar doesn't buy much these days but collector Bruce Morelan owns a silver dollar that is worth at least $10,000,000, says the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. That's the price he paid in 2013 for his very rare dollar coined in 1794.

It set a record for the most ever paid for a rare coin. Morelan thinks it is worth more than what he paid for it and so he's putting it up for auction once again.

It's called the "Flowing Hair" dollar and it was one of 1,785 that were struck in a single day not long after the dollar became the official currency of the U.S. and they were used as souvenirs for dignitaries.

It's estimated that only about 130 to 140 of those silver dollars exist today. But Douglas Mudd, the curator and director of the American Numismatic Association's Money Museum, says that there's evidence Morelan's coin was, indeed, the very first one that was struck.

Letter to my hometown

Dear Berea,

My name is Ronda (Harrison) Taylor. I was raised in Berea, until I moved to Richmond in 1990. I am the youngest daughter of Philip B Harrison. He moved into the log house at the base of the Pinnacles when he was 5-years-old and lived in Berea for the rest of his life. He operated various businesses for almost seventy years. He was also a WWll Veteran. My dad, Philip, passed away a few months ago, at the age of 101.

I have never been so proud and honored to be raised in such a caring and charming community as Berea. The Berea Police Department showed up in full force on the day of my dad's funeral. The funeral procession started at Berea Baptist Church and ended at Berea Cemetery. During the procession, at every intersection, there were anywhere from one to four police officers standing outside their police cruisers. The officers saluted the hearse as it drove through town. My family, friends and many others will never forget the kind gesture and poignant moment!

Berea is very fortunate to have a mayor like Bruce Fraley. He is a true Southern gentleman! He recognizes what a small act of kindness can do for a community. He genuinely cares and respects the residents of Berea. The Police Department certainly demonstrated the same values.

I want to express my gratitude to the City of Berea and the distinguished police officers that represent such a great community. I also want to thank Berea Baptist Church, Lakes Funeral Home and Foley's Florist! When I walked into Foley's, on a very emotional day, Bob said to me "Child, your dad was a legend!" I know, my dad is not a legend ~ but those were the perfect words that I needed to hear that particular day. That's one more reason why I'm glad I was raised in the quaint town of Berea.

I want to thank the local musicians that were a part of my dad's life celebration. Kevin Slemp is the pastor of Berea Baptist Church, where my dad was an usher for over 50 years. Kevin, your voice is magical. Dad enjoyed listening to you sing hymns Sunday after Sunday. Anyone who has had the pleasure of hearing your voice is forever changed. Your eulogy was touching and pure! You were one of Dad's favorite people. He had so much admiration for you!

Pam Perry and Wayne Combs, the song you wrote about my dad is obviously my most treasured song. The lyrics capture his life perfectly. I listen to it constantly and it continues to heal my soul. Your talent amazes me! Pam, thank you for personally singing Dad's song, "Bottom of My Soul." I also appreciate the two of you singing "My Old Kentucky Home." My gratitude towards the two of you will live on forever...

David Rose, what a coincidence that, three days before my dad's funeral, you were in my garage, washing my windows. You overheard me talking about needing to find a banjo player. Wow, can you play a banjo! I had never heard the term clawhammer until that day. The song "I saw the light" played with your clawhammer technique was joyful! Thank you for playing my dad's favorite instrument at his service. It was meant to be - that you were cleaning my windows that day.

Donna Angel, you were exactly that... my dad's angel. You were always there to help pass the time away. You listened to all of Dad's amazing stories full of a century of history and his life. The stories about the town of Berea were always interesting. He knew everyone in town. You made him sweet treats and I know you had to enjoy watching him eat every last crumble. You speaking at his funeral would've made him smile. Your heartfelt words were full of love and admiration.

A special thanks to Janel Lakes Davenport and Wayne Combs at Lakes Funeral Home for making things easy.

Thank you, BEREA, for the genuine and respectful people that were raised in your boundaries. The talented musicians that have entertained us Bereans through happy and sad occasions. These musicians have left a mark on our hearts. A special thank you to the Berea Police Department for etching my heart with your impeccable show of respect. I am full of pride when I say I was raised in that little town called Berea.

With heartfelt gratitude,
Ronda Taylor

BALLOTS

approximately 9,000 requests for mail-in ballots for far, but the process of sending them out to voters was delayed because the official ballot was not certified until September 8. He added voters can still request an absentee ballot at govoteky.com until October 9.

According to Barger, October 13 will mark the beginning of walk-in absentee voting at the county clerk's offices in Richmond and Berea. Citizens can walk in and vote from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 8 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. Walk-in absentee voting will be available from the 13th until the day before the election. "Anyone who wants to vote early can go to either of those locations, except for Sunday, and vote," Barger said.

The plan for polling places has not been formally approved, Barger said, though he expects the locations to be approved soon. Barger said he will announce the locations once they have been officially approved by state officials. The county has requested seven polling locations for Election Day voting, any of which can be used by voters. "They should be convenient for anybody in the county to get to and vote," Barger said. "No matter where you live, you can vote in any [county] location."

Barger said polling places will be fully staffed with 24 workers per polling place, and that the clerk's office now has enough workers to handle the processing of absentee ballots. Election workers start training in the first week of October, Barger said.

On a related note, the court unanimously adopted a resolution to apply for 2020 Center for Tech and Civic Life Covid-19 Response grant funds. The non-governmental grant allows the county to apply for a minimum of $5,000 in funds for election-related staffing and equipment.

In other action, Madison County Judge/Executive Reagan Taylor issued a proclamation declaring September as National Recovery Month in Madison County, which declares support for those who are striving to recover from substance abuse.

The court also heard the first reading of an ordinance endorsing a memorandum of understanding between the Madison County Fiscal Court, the City of Berea, City of Richmond, and the Madison County Airport Board. Under the agreement, the three governments will support the airport board's $1.2 million project to extend a water line from the Southern Madison Water District and a sewer line from Berea Municipal Utilities to Central Kentucky Regional Airport.

The project will upgrade service lines from two inches to eight-inches, thus enabling further development at the airport, officials said. The project is the second phase of a three-phase project in which the extension of the water line will be followed by an upgrade of the terminal building. The board recently announced that three T-hangars will soon be in service, garnering approximately $85,000 in revenue with which to replay loans related to the project.

The airport board is seeking a loan from the Appalachian Regional Commission for approximately $1 million to fund 80 percent of the project. The memorandum of understanding, meanwhile, is needed for the three governments to commit to insuring a loan for the remaining $256,000, which will be obtained by the City of Berea through from Kentucky Infrastructure Authority (KIA). Taylor said he doesn't expect there to be any additional cost to the county as a result of the agreement. The first reading was approved unanimously.

Also approved after a first reading was a land use map change for 107, 115 and 117 Green's Crossing, and 2707 Robbinsville Loop, reclassifying the property from RC-1 and RC-3 to RC 4 general commercial. The property is on the corner of Green's Crossing and Irvine Road, and there will be a buffer between the commercial and existing residential property, said planning director Bert Thomas.

In other action, the court unanimously approved a resolution to accept Flex Funds from the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet rural secondary road program. Tom Botkin said the money will be used to complete projects, such as blacktopping Menelaus Road in Berea

"One of the things I'm thankful for is we didn't have as big a cut as we possibly thought," Judge Taylor said. There was speculation that funding for rural roads could have dropped as much as 25 percent as a result of the economic downturn resulting from COVID-19. It only decreased by 4 percent and the county will receive $284,000, Taylor said.

The next meeting will be on Oct. 13.

participants to safely interact, in accordance with social distancing and CDC guidelines. In the unique program, attendees can benefit their health while also meeting new people in time where this may seem impossible.

The program has 500 chapters all across the world and aims to "educate, exercise, empower." Walk with a Doc's website cites that according to the surgeon general guidelines, walking is "one of the single most important things we can do for our health". At the beginning of each walk there is a presentation led by Dr. Summers about one of the health benefits of walking.

Last Friday Dr. Summers gave a presentation about how walking can benefit neurological health. She stated physical activity can help our brain's long term memory, while also getting people away from our computers and blue light for a change. Dr. Summers explained that "there are over 100 healthy reasons to walk."

Join the Walk with a Doc Program Friday at 9 a.m. to hear a short session on "Walking inside: Taking steps around your living room counts and may lower your risk of dying prematurely" (Reynolds, G. 2020, April, 4. Stuck inside? Keep Walking. New York Times). Walk with a Doc invites people of all ability and ages to take this opportunity to meet new people, learn and ask questions about health. The program meets every Friday at 200 Harrison Road in Berea.

Long time coming: UK set for opener

LEXINGTON (KT) — Coach Mark Stoops breathed a sigh of relief Monday as No. 23 Kentucky began preparing for Saturday's season opener at eighth-ranked Auburn.

"Seems like it's been a long time coming, but it's an exciting time for us — that's for sure," Stoops said Monday. " … For us, it's been a long preseason — a couple of weeks longer than usual - so it seems like it's been a long time. But we will need that preparation."

As expected, senior Terry Wilson will be the starting quarterback in the opener, while freshman Beau Allen is listed as the backup. The status of Auburn transfer Joey Gatewood remains a question mark. Stoops didn't specify whether Allen beat out Gatewood for the No. 2 slot at quarterback.

"I'm going to punt on (that) question," Stoops said.

Wilson missed almost all of last season because of a knee injury and will be counted on to give the Wildcats much-needed leadership in the pocket. Stoops said having experience at all positions and a proven starter at quarterback will prove to be beneficial against a 10-game Southeastern Conference schedule.

"An experienced quarterback helps and experience football team helps and certainly in these uncertain times in the way things have been so different," Stoops said.

"An experienced football team is something that I like and (also) a team with strong leadership is something that I like and a team that is very tough physically and mentally, I like. Things that are out of our control is our schedule. You know, it's brutal. It's brutally hard."

Stoops has a preliminary list of 80 players available for the opener, but the numbers could change depending on COVID-19 testing throughout the week. He added 70 players would be an ideal number to take on the first road trip of the season.

"We are working off that number right now," he said. "There will be some minor changes here throughout this week, depending on injuries."

As the Wildcats step into uncharted territory, Stoops is confident the Wildcats will adjust to adversity both on and off the field.

"We have to adapt," he said. "And, you know, just like we talked about on the football field, just like we had to do a year ago, adapt and overcome.

"It is what it is. But our players are used to adapting to the situation. They've done a remarkable job."

Despite the preparations, Stoops said the biggest question mark is the future unknowns.

"Being able to stay healthy and having enough depth to compete and to play 10 SEC games is something that's an unknown," Stoops said. "But I like our football team. I like a lot of things, starting with their experience and their toughness, physically and mentally."

HONORING OATS

Stoops said the team plans to honor junior linebacker Chris Oats with a different player wearing his jersey number on a week-by-week basis.

DeAndre Square will wear No. 22 in the opener against the Tigers. Keaton Upshaw will wear Oates' number in the home opener the following week against Ole Miss.

"(That is) to show him that he's still with us and we're thinking about him," Stoops said.

Oates has been battling an undisclosed medical condition since May.

Zooming into the New School Year

Janna Cline and Emily Alexander are teachers at Madison Southern who are currently teaching their students online.

School this year is much different from usual, everything is currently online. With COVID-19 numbers rising in Madison County, the governor recommended that it would be best to stay at home for the first month of school. Until October 19th students in Madison County will be using programs such as Zoom, Edgenuity, and Google Classroom. Students, parents, and teachers alike all have had to adapt to using these programs.

Many parents have had to juggle teaching their children while working a full-time job. Other parents have been able to stay home with their children but online schooling has still had its obstacles. Kristie Johnson, a parent of a 4th grader and kindergartner, says, "I'm lucky to be able to stay at home with two elementary aged kids. My kindergartner has struggled with thinking it's fun. They don't get to enjoy the things that they normally would! My 4th grader has learned a lot within the little amount of time he has had! The teachers are doing a terrific job making it enjoyable and he is able to learn as he would in the classroom." Some parents have not been as lucky as Mrs. Johnson, they have had to find care for their children while they're working. Madison Southern's Early Childhood Education pathway has plenty of students who are willing to volunteer or work to help those parents. A list of students, that can be interviewed by parents or guardians, can be given to parents who are struggling with online schooling by Mrs. Emily Alexander. Many of the students in the Early Childhood Education pathway would love to take the opportunity to improve their skills in teaching or caring for children.

Students have positive and negative outlooks on the school year so far. Senior Ashlin Rogers says, "there is a lot of tears some days, it's difficult to understand the assignments. It's hard to concentrate because I am already home all the time." After speaking with many of the other seniors that seems to be the common answer. Some students took a more positive outlook on the situation such as senior Emma Haselwood who says, "It gives me the opportunity to kind of make my own schedule, so I am not complaining." Busy students who are trying to work a part-time or even full-time job have used online schooling to their advantage. The more relaxed schedule allows for students to do assignments at later times or complete them earlier than they would in an in-person class. Senior Maggie Alexander says, "I like online school because I don't have to spend time getting ready for the day but I also dislike it because I don't get to see my friends as much." A lot of the students feel the same way as Maggie, they are all missing the interaction with the rest of their class.

Teachers have also had to adapt to the new way of learning during the pandemic. Mrs. Alexander, who is one of the FCS teachers at Southern, says, "Although teaching virtually was never on my teacher bucket list, for the most part, it has gone better than expected. I had to think of creative ways to teach my content, which has also helped me to think outside the box, look for new ideas, and try out different approaches for delivering lessons. I will be so happy to see my students in person, but I am thankful that virtual learning is a skill we will all possess if and when it is needed again, although just like students, I will miss having snow days!" Ms. Cline, one of the agriculture teachers at Southern, says, "Distance learning is not ideal; however, I would not want to go through this with any other group of teachers. Our teachers at Southern have worked hard to give our students the best learning experience that we can. Even though this situation has caused our teachers to think outside the box and become creative with their curriculum, I can't wait to get back into the classroom with my students." Mrs. Maryssa Miller, a teacher at Madison Middle, says, "As a parent my children have special learning needs that are negatively impacted by virtual learning. They desperately need in-person interaction and accountability. As a teacher, though, I have had a really good time learning how to navigate the virtual world while still making learning engaging for my students. It has been far more time-consuming, but I truly enjoy bettering myself as a teacher. It has definitely been a learning curve for myself and my students, but we have to keep in mind how important it is to show each other grace."

Overall the school year is an obstacle that as a community we will have to overcome together. Online schooling is an opportunity for all of us to learn and find new ways to work when in-person schooling is not an option. Parents, teachers, and students are all in this together and we will get through this! Hopefully high schoolers will be back together on October 19th.

Lady Eagles Charge into Season

Lady Eagles soccer is a strong part of Madison Southern's sports culture. Since last season, the Lady Eagles have been practicing hard to prep for this strange season ahead of them. With the novel corona virus looming, the season in its entirety is largely uncertain. However, one thing is for sure: These ladies are ready to bring it to their opponents.

After a 7-11-1 record last year, the Eagles are looking forward to paying back the close games that they lost. They placed second in districts and are hoping to claim that title back. The Eagles graduated many of the starting players last year, leaving some holes to be filled by newer, younger faces. This, however, does not daunt Coach Katy Cress. When asked about these young faces moving onto the field, Coach Cress was confident. "We are young, but determined to win more than ever." The three returning seniors are Abby Sheffer, Keyara Savia, and Rylee VanDeCar. All three have varsity experience and are no doubt ready for the teams in front of them.

The three seniors are closely followed by a group of younger athletes and new faces to the team. "Since we have so many new faces in our starting lineup, it's really important that we all work together and communicate with each other on the field to keep everyone on the same page," said Abby Sheffer. The young players don't seem to change the culture and determination of the team, and they are all playing to win this year. The leadership is vital this year to ensure that nobody gets caught in the spotlight, but it seems that hasn't become a problem, as the Lady Eagles are already 3-1, showing a strong start to their season with no hesitation to prove themselves.

As most everyone is aware at this point, COVID-19 has altered society and changed everyday life as we know it. These changes don't stop when it comes to sports. There have been alterations to practices and games this season, ranging from masks to crowd size control. "We have had less practice time than usual throughout the summer, so we just had to work harder in the time that we had and outside of practices to get to the level that we should be playing. COVID-19 also didn't allow us to have contact practices for a while so it was difficult to teach the new players how a game works and what the pace would be like in high school," said Rylee VanDeCar.

Regardless of what challenges the team faces this year, there is no doubt that they are ready and filled with determination and a will to win. Time will only tell what the season holds, but the lady Eagles are ready for it all. All home games will be at 7:30 p.m. on the turf, with tickets limited to three per player. The games will also be streamed on Facebook or WBON. Make sure you support the Eagles in any way possible this year, as their future in sports is very uncertain up to this point.

MSHS FFA Receives First National Ranking

Eagles' Eye FFA Reporter
Holly McDaniel

FFA officers participate in a communication skills activity at the summer retreat.

Our chapter has put so much hard work and dedication into competing this year. We have worked very hard on speeches and proficiencies which has definitely paid off. There is one thing that is for sure and that is that even though many things have stopped during this time FFA has not! In the nation our chapter was ranked 2 out of 3 stars which has never been done before! We are also ranked among the top 14 chapters in the state. We are so proud to be Madison Southern FFA!

This year multiple members have competed in contests for speeches and proficiencies. The following members competed in speech contests and made it to state: Chelsea Haigh - small animal, Hannah Davis - Nursery and Landscape impromptu (placing 2nd), and Logan Kirby - Swine impromptu (placing 1st). Our members have also competed in proficiencies the following were: Hannah Riley - specialty animal, Matt Rowlette - turf grass and management (placing 3rd), Logan Kirby - Diversified Ag. (placing 1st). Logan's proficiency also went on to get a bronze rating at nationals, and Seth Anderson - Forestry (placing 1st) and Wildlife (placing 2nd) Seth is a national finalist for forestry proficiency and we will find out the results at the National Convention in October.

We have had multiple activities whether it has been in person or virtual, we made it work to keep our chapter going! We had an officer retreat which was definitely a success, it was in person but we made sure to social distance and wear our masks to stay safe. During the retreat our officers participated in leadership and team building activities, planning events for the year, setting chapter and team goals, and creating our chapter t-shirt design for this year. During September we also finally had our chapter drive-thru banquet. During the banquet our members drove by to pick up their awards for the year. We retired our senior officers and brought in our new 2020-2021 Chapter Officer Team. The following officers hung up their blue jackets one last time during the banquet: Logan Kirby (president), Chelsea Haigh (vice president), Andy Northern (secretary), Caleb Alexander (sentinel), and Ashley Anglin (historian).

Don't forget that we also have many upcoming events as well for the month of October! We are looking forward to our chapter kickoff that has been rescheduled for October. It will be a night full of fun with friends and a good time to get to know other members. We are also excited for our chapter leadership workshop. This will be a night filled with fun leadership activities and allowing our members to bond and make new friends. The main event that we are most excited for next month is the 92nd National FFA Convention & Expo, this year's convention will virtual, the date is October 28th-31st. This year Seth Anderson will be competing after being named one of the national finalists in forest management and products proficiency. Our chapter is proud of each and every member who has worked so hard! We look forward to another amazing year of hard work and dedication! FFA advisor Janna Cline says, "Overall this year FFA is going to look different, that's for sure. However, I think it's going to make us think outside of the box. When we were planning at our POA day it was making us be creative and have out of the box ideas. We came up with the drive in movie, the pumpkin patch trip, and other activities that require social distancing."

Pandemic Offers Students Time to Prosper

Mckenzie Walters and two of her most recent works of art.

The coronavirus pandemic took the world by storm this past spring, changing the lives of all Americans across the country. From the White House to your local grocery store, every American suffered almost immediate disruption, particularly for the students of the nation and Kentucky. Madison County Schools, having shut down schools this past March, are only just now reopening or have begun virtual learning online, leaving students nearly six months out of school. With nearly half a school year to themselves without the burden of school and the cancellation of most sports and activities, what have students, particularly high school students, been doing with their time? I spoke with four different seniors from Madison Southern in Berea to gain insight on their experiences.

Some students have spent their time teaching themselves new things in isolation. Greg Ou, a senior at Madison Southern, chose to spend his time exploring an area that's always interested him: computer science. "I've always loved to create things and I've wanted to create an app for some time," he explained. "When Covid hit, it wrecked my summer plans. So while I was stuck at home, I decided to learn and create something I believe in." Ou spent his extended summer learning to develop a puzzle style mobile game, called "Sha-Paz: The Game." He developed it in the Unity game engine and released it on the Apple App Store recently. "There really wasn't a moment of inspiration, sometimes you just do what's fun and the game makes itself. You just have to dive right in." This wasn't the first app Ou has attempted to create, but it's the first he's had the time to finish and release. "It's all about grasping the opportunity!"

Another student at Madison Southern took advantage of the free time that the Covid-19 created as well. Carter Pryor of Madison Southern spent his summer teaching himself how to speak Japanese. "Before the pandemic, my school work and extracurricular activities took up the majority of my time," Pryor explained, "After school became online, I had a lot of more free time to learn Japanese." Pryor had begun learning Japanese after he was given Japanese books last Christmas. "I learned Italian and Spanish before, but I wanted to try a language that was more difficult and from a part of the world with a different culture." Pryor claims that Covid-19 has allowed him time to focus on the study and do exercises to improve his skill rather than only reading the material. "Learning Japanese has taught me how it's possible to express the same ideas with entirely different grammar and structure. I've made much more significant progress than I would have without the free time Covid-19 has allowed."

Quarantine has allowed for many high school students to explore their hobbies and focus on themselves as well. Mackenzie Walters, a senior at Southern, has been spending her time painting and exploring nature. "I've hiked at Red River Gorge, the Berea Pinnacles, Anglin and Flat Lick Falls, and kayaked Owsley Fork Lake." Walters says that quarantine has given her a chance to grow and better herself. "I was inspired because I knew (quarantine) would be a hard time and wanted a way to keep my anxiety under control and create a routine and structure for myself." Staying inside allowed for Walters to focus on her art and improve her skills and technique. Many of Walter's works will be featured in an upcoming art show in Winchester in the fall. Another student, Vivian Robbins, has also been exploring her creative side. "Quarantine has allowed me to express myself more freely. I've started wearing more clothes I like and I don't have to worry about judgement from my peers or teachers at school." Robbins makes earrings and plans on selling them in the future. "I make earrings out of pretty much everything you can think of, from toys, to pendants, to pokemon cards. I just try to have fun with it." Robbins says she's been quarantined and has allowed her to focus on herself and express herself.

From programming apps to exploring their creative side, students have managed to find ways to spend their time. Despite the Covid-19, the difficulties a global pandemic offers, and isolation from the schools they lived their lives in, the teenagers and students in our community have managed to find ways to learn, explore, and find light in the darkness.

Volleyball Dives into Rigorous Season

As we know sports are looking different this year for most schools. With regulations over mask and social distancing our players are trying to make the best of what they can. The Madison Southern volleyball team has seen changes but they are not letting that stop them. With the season only being four weeks, they are squeezing in a total of 17 games, playing up to three a week. Leading the varsity team this year are seniors Autumn Griffith, Avery St. John, Emily Young, Chloe Osborn, and Emma Haselwood. Head coach of the team, Jeremy Grant, has said "with a shortened window for practicing I think the success of our team will depend on how quickly everyone gets comfortable playing together. We've got a lot of potential and as everyone plays more and more, I think we can have a mix of players that can have a very successful season."

In the season opener Southern did not disappoint when they scored their first win against Scott County. With junior Kyla Atkins having a total of 21 assists, Avery pulled 11 kills, and sophomore Julia Bingham brought in another 7 kills. In the third game of the week against East Jessamine the team pulled another win of 4-1. Libero, Autumn Griffith helped by picking up 27 digs and 8 aces. "I am proud of what we have accomplished so far as a team and I cannot wait for the rest of the season. Though it's not what we are used to, I am excited that we get to play and have a senior season," says Avery St. John. Southern had a difficult opening week and it only gets more difficult from there. In their game on the 14th against Mercer County, Southern swept up another win of 3-0. Kyla led the team with 19 assists and 10 aces followed by Avery St. John who pulled in another 11 kills and 3 aces. On the team's senior night, the Lady Eagles picked up another win against Berea of 3-0. Avery led the team with 8 kills followed by a combined total of 23 digs from seniors Autumn, Chloe, and Emma.

In the game against rival, Madison Central, MSHS fought hard and pulled yet another win of 4-1. Junior, Ally Skidmore dug 14 balls up helping setter, Kara Combs.

Players are learning how to adapt to the idea of no longer having fans, "we are used to having large student sections for our most important games, now we are having to get used to the idea of only having 60 fans" says Autumn Griffith. Not only are players learning to adjust to the limited fan policy they are also having to wear a mask on the bench. Madison Southern is doing their best to keep both parents and players safe from taking temperatures at the door to cleaning the stands in between games.

Though it is difficult at the moment our Madison Southern Eagles are trying to establish a path of normality through their sports. The volleyball team, like many others, are trying to make do with what they are given and do not intend to waste it. Even though you cannot personally come out to support your Lady Eagles at the moment you can always support them over Facebook Live at MSHS Eagles where all of their games are live streamed.

In our fight for the regional title our boys and girls golf teams are competing in a series of tournaments and matches. Our goal this year is to score below par, take home titles, and earn enough state points to rise in the rankings.

Our number one player this year is freshman Clifton Scully. This is his first year at Southern and we are looking forward to seeing him play his third year on the team. We are expecting the boys to play nine tournaments, and eight matches. We would like to highlight senior Noah Eastham, on the boy's team, he has been playing for one year. Noah has accumulated a reputation of golf excellence at his most recent match against Berea on September 15th. He was Southern's low man with a score of 46 for 9 holes carrying the Eagles to victory! The boys will be competing in a regional tournament to be held at the University Club of Kentucky in Lexington, on September 28th.

This year's lineup for the MSHS Girls golf team includes eight promising players. Special mention to freshman Kasey Cameron, Aysia Brock (8th grade), and Brooklyn Hillman(7th grade), and for their excellent participation and commitment to the team. Kasey Cameron has shown she is a keen golfer in the recent tournaments against Central and Lexington Catholic with scores of 79, and 84, congratulations to Kasey for a strong opening to a long season. Aysia Brock has played in the past three matches and has accumulated tournament scores of 116, 103,117 against Model, Central, and Lexington Catholic. Brooklyn Hillman continues to show improvement in her recent tournament scores of 117,121,103 against Model, Central, and Lexington Catholic. Upcoming is the last tournament for the girls it will be the Regional tournament at Kearney Hill Golf Links in Lexington, on September 29th. When asked what she looks forward to this year by our Head Coach, Aysia reports "We can hope to make a good showing in the regional," and her coaches can't agree more.

Sounding off for the golf team starting with our head coach John Gilliam, Madison Southern business and marketing teacher is leading a strong and promising team through the tournament season. Our assistant coach Doug Martin is ready to finish in first this year and bring back a trophy from the 2020 golf championship.

KSP warns of phone scams

Kentucky State Police are warning residents about two scams making the rounds in the state after being contacted by concerned citizens about them and urge people to get in touch with the attorney general's office.

One involves telephone calls from someone claiming to work for AT&T. The scammers advise callers that if they would send $1,000 via eBay cards, theirs monthly bill would be lower. After sending the payment, the person being called would then qualify for other discounts, if more eBay cards were sent.

The second telephone call scam is similar, but this time the person claimed to work for Amazon. They requested money to be sent via Google Play cards.

Both scams have been reported to the KSP Post in Madisonville but could be taking place in other parts of the state as well.

The Kentucky State Police reminds everyone to never share your social security number or other personal information online or by phone. Also, and more importantly, the KSP says legitimate businesses will never ask you to pay with Apple cards, eBay cards, Google Play cards or any other prepaid card.

With the upcoming election on November 3rd, I know a lot of you have decided to support me because of Robert Goforth's Indictment. That's fine, and I appreciate the support. What I want is a working coalition that improves the quality of life for everyone that lives and works in the 89th District. This district has NOT been represented in 2 1/2 years. The list of projects that we must address is long. I'm ready to go to work day one.

I want to make sure that our way of life can continue for the next generation. We can't sit back and watch our children battle drug addiction because they don't have anything else to be involved in. Our bread winners should NOT have to travel so far to find employment. I've listened to parents talk about children that leave home because there is nothing for them here. Our way of life won't continue if we don't address these problems.

The roads are in a dangerous state of disrepair. I know of at least 3 bridges that have failed since my campaign started. We have to address these issues and get this fixed for public safety. It seems like every few days I see a boil water advisory coming out of Jackson County. These are all things that should have been addressed but were sacrificed for a failed Gubernatorial run.

I want to fully fund the classrooms so our children get the best possible education. I want to protect the teachers and first responders pensions. I want job creation and rural development. I want clean water and safe roads. I want EVERYONE that lives here to have equal representation. This isn't political for me, this is a fight to keep our way of life. I will work diligently to ensure it can continue for generations to come.

Goforth indicted, wife comes to defense

Ashley Goforth, wife of state representative Robert Goforth, released a statement to The Citizen Monday saying she never wanted her husband charged with a crime.

Rep. Goforth was charged in April after his wife called 9-1-1 dispatch center saying she had been assaulted and he attempted to hog tie her and then strangle her with an ethernet cord to the point she was passing out, according to his citation.

Goforth's wife released the statement saying they had reconciled.

"Robert and I both deeply regret the incident that occurred last April. We were reconciled within days after it

The victims were later identified as 20-year-old Trevor Cleary of Tompkinsville and 19-year-old Austin Copas of Fountain Run.

OBITUARIES

Lynda Campbell

Lynda Campbell, 65, of Berea, Kentucky, died on September 26, 2020, after 18 years pursuing a full, active life with a breast cancer that metastasized and brought an end to her time in this world. Throughout her life Lynda's gregariousness and lightness of being belied a fierce competitiveness, a sharp, nimble mind, a zealous commitment to justice for all, and, for nearly 20 years, a stalwart, stubborn realism while living well with breast cancer. Lynda's zest for life and extraordinary fortitude pervaded her work and all facets of her life to the end.

Born in Dallas and raised in Miami and Daytona Beach, Florida, by the late Donald and Jeanne Campbell, Lynda moved to Berea in 1983, when her husband, Bob Hoag, joined the faculty at Berea College. Lynda's family, especially, lives on with many a marvelous memory: her husband of 39 years, Bob Hoag, of Berea; two sons, Scott Hoag (Sarah) of Washington, D.C., and Bryan Hoag (Heather) and grandson, Carter, of Ft. Collins, Colorado; a brother, John (Kathy), of Dutton, Alabama; and in the Daytona area, two brothers – D.J. (Roberta) and Steve (Carol) - and two sisters – Pat Weber (Mike) and Carolyn Pratt (Rick) – a mother-in-law, Eleanor H. Frye – and an abundance of nieces and nephews.

From 1980 until 2007 Lynda was a practicing criminal defense attorney and public defender. In 1973 she graduated Seabreeze Senior High School in Daytona Beach, in 1977 completed a B.A. at the University of Florida, and in 1980 earned a J.D. from the Florida State University College of Law. Always passionately committed to truth and "justice for all," regardless of race or economic class, for nearly 30 years first in Florida and then in Kentucky, Lynda worked tirelessly as a criminal defense attorney, providing quality legal services as a public defender for those unable to afford a lawyer. Handling literally thousands of criminal cases, including about a dozen involving the death penalty, in 2007 the state of Kentucky recognized Lynda's work and commitment with the Nelson Mandela Lifetime Achievement Award for "dedicated services & outstanding achievements in advocating the right to counsel for poor criminal defendants in Kentucky." As a retiree, Lynda embraced her life-long passion for playing games and competitive sports (primarily tennis and golf, but also Scabble and Upwords), pursued her sense of adventure by snorkeling in Hawaii and around the Caribbean, hiking in America's national parks, and traveling internationally with her husband (Lesotho, Rwanda, Tanzania, South Africa, Europe). She also continued her deep commitment to helping others by generously sharing her legal and financial acumen in service to family, friends and local organizations, especially the Hope's Wings domestic violence shelter in Richmond, Kentucky. Many will much miss Lynda's big smile, contagious energy, frequent laughter, quick mind, and zest for living. Lynda had but two attitudes about life: enthusiasm and excitement.

A private service to celebrate Lynda's life was at 2 p.m., September 27 at Union Church.

In lieu of flowers and other remembrances, please donate to Hope's Wings Domestic Violence Program in Richmond, Kentucky (www.hopeswings.org) or to Bluegrass Hospice Care, a service of Bluegrass Care Navigators, in Lexington, Kentucky (www.bgcarenav.org), with many thanks from the family for your generosity.

Helen M Powell

Helen M Powell, 74, daughter of the late Willie and Mary Cope, passed away Monday Sept. 28, 2020 at her home surrounded by her family.

Helen was born in Rockcastle County; she had been a Wal-Mart employee but also worked many years at Dinner Bell Restaurant. She was a devoted mother and grandmother.

Helen is survived by her son Dwayne Spires, and her siblings: William Cope, Buddy Cope, Jean Hayes, Christine Barnett, and Alice Shupe, and her grandchildren: Brandon (Heather) Spires, Latasha (Josh Thomas) Spires, and her great-grandchildren: Courtney Burns, Kaitlyn Burns, Mackenzie Cates, Kaitlyn Cates, Branson Spires, and Levi Thomas.

A memorial service will be Thursday Oct. 1, 2020 at 5 p.m. at Lakes Funeral Home, with the family receiving friends from 3-5 p.m. at Lakes Funeral Home on Thursday.

COVID-19 a game changer

What's it like covering a sporting event during a pandemic?

When I traveled to Auburn to cover Kentucky's football opener last weekend, admittedly, I didn't know what to expect, since my last road trip, ironically was to Auburn more than seven months ago.

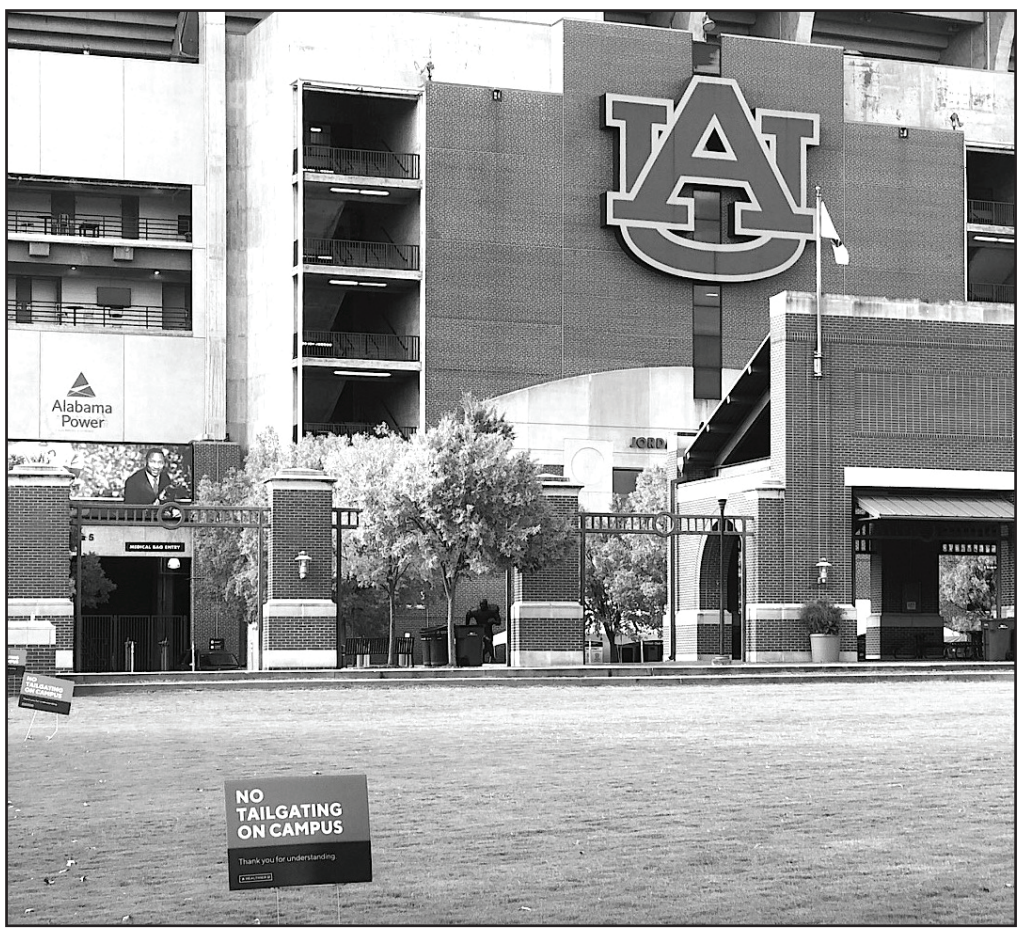
Keith Taylor

While on the road, I ordered drive-thru, stopped for gas less and packed sanitizer, lots of it. Sanitizer in the car, my suit case and my backpack.

Usually press boxes are lively pregame, with a buffet and lots of conversation with your colleagues, while meeting others. Lots of pregame notes, media guides and such to help prepare you for the game are provided. I print my notes from home via e-mail and then grab notes at the game and go over them again to make sure I don't miss anything before kickoff.

This time, the only thing we received at our work space was a flip card.

On my way to the stadium, I didn't see anyone tailgating. As a matter of fact, signs placed all around Jordan-Hare Stadium prohibited tailgating. It was easy come and easy go for the 17,000-plus fans who attended the season-opener for both teams. Upon arrival, temperature checks awaited everyone who entered the stadium and social distancing was prevalent in all areas, including restrooms, concession stands and the press box.



Fans and attendees weren't allowed to tailgate at Jordan-Hare Stadium in Auburn last weekend, one of the many changes on the college football scene ;last weekend. (Keith Taylor Photo)

The press box featured social distancing, with those covering the game spaced out at every other spot, making attendance much-lower than capacity than the last game played last season. The atmosphere was much more lower-key, a far cry from noise heard from the bleachers in years past.

The pregame meal was a boxed breakfast provided by a local establishment with my name and origination inscribed on the box. The cheesy grits and the fruit were great. Water, soft drinks and coffee was readily available for us thirsty journalists. We were encouraged to pack our own snacks and you better believe I did just that.

Usually post game features a sprint to the field, followed by a trek to the press conference, followed by a mad dash back up to the press box to file a story.

Between eight-minute mark of the fourth quarter the press box folks are allowed on the field and it's there where I usually talk to the photographer to formulate a plan for photographs.

Since only a handful of photographers are allowed on the field, we are at the mercy of what the Southeastern Conference provides through an online portal. Statistics also are provided electronically and postgame press conferences are via Zoom.

It was indeed different, but as close to normal as it could be under the circumstances.

Although Kentucky lost the opener, I was just glad to cover an athletic event, a path to life as usual.

Word on the streets

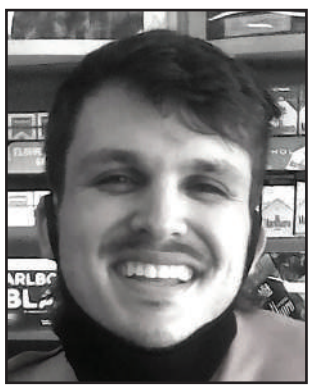
"What are some of your favorite things about the fall season?

Donna Branham

"Football, the cooler weather, halloween sitting around the fire, and festivals."

Logan Garrison

"Family get-togethers, bonfires, football and cooler weather."



Hunter Saylor

"Halloween, crisp autumn air, the changing of the leaves and S'mores!"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Coffey: Hill letter not true on current council tenure

I read the "fake news" presented a couple of weeks ago from a Mr. Hill as a letter to the editor. It was about how some of the more conservative of Berea City Council members had sat on council for "decades" and that they had "controlled it" and inferred they had gained personally.

None of that is true. Only Jerry Little has as much as 10 years' experience. All the rest have served less.

Now, on the other hand, the more Progressive "Consensus Councils" those folks who served in the 1990s---2010s and saddled us with the Restaurant Tax of the 2000s, still had members seated in 2016, when Bereans flipped the Council. Perhaps he's got those folks who left in 2016 in mind.

For whatever reason, Mr. Hill referenced how some folks seated on council want to Berea to return to the "Berea of the 1980s."

Well, Mr. Hill, in the late 1970's and 80's, Berea had a much more diverse set of workplaces, as there were about 9 medium sized factories.

We had a few clothing and shoe stores. We have only 1-2 small boutiques now. We had three new car lots, eight drug stores, three large grocers and several smaller ones. We also had five hardware stores, six auto parts stores. Berea also had a movie theater, a privately owned, public pool that didn't require public tax support.

There were three drive-in theatres nearby. We had a few places teenagers could hang out. We had 3 thriving Boy Scout Troops of 30-plus Scouts on average each.

We had summer Little League Baseball, only had about four age groups, but had 300-plus kids playing in a town of 4,300. There was men's softball six nights a week until sometimes 2 a.m.

Our churches were thriving, our clubs were growing. We built schools, expanded school transportation and did all that without taxing the heck out of our citizens.

The poor man is ignoring the facts. This past City Council had perhaps the least experience going into its two years of service in 2018 as any we've had in decades.

But let's just ignore all that, right, Mr. Hill? He simply wants his Progressive pals and their wonderful ideas — their Fairness, their dreams and programs ushered into local office.

Along with them, higher taxes, more regulation, more bad ideas, more money spent on trails and art than parks, sidewalks or roads. It's time to elect a group that will stand up to the Progressive/Liberal/ Left, and stop them from pushing around the little guy.

I know who I'm voting for.: Team Berea — Donnie Scalf, David Rowlette, Jerry Little, Ronnie Terrill, Cora Jane Wilson, Teresa Scenters and Jim Davis.

I'm also voting for Steve Caudill, whom I feel the Progressives have trapped. But that's another story and shows just what they will do to get their way.

There is still time to register to vote in the next election.

Vote Donald Trump and Vote Team Berea. Vote for your town & your country.

Randy Coffey

Workman: Party politics divisive

Is party politics making its way into Berea?

That thought occurs to me when I see the "Team Berea" signs.

I really hope not, because that is always divisive.

I wonder what others think when they see the sign?

I wonder if the people listed will vote on issues before the city council as a block or if all issues will be considered on their merits only?

Block voting will negate any other ideas or opinions and the town could suffer.

The last thing I wonder is will our city elections will become like state and national elections?

How sad that would be.

State highway mowing season now under way

FRANKFORT (KT) — With fall mowing season underway along highways around the state, the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet warns they are collecting signs from the roadsides.

Political candidates, residents, business operators, and property owners along US and KY routes are reminded that no signage is allowed on the right of way, other than official highway signs and items approved through a permit process.

As the election cycle continues, candidates and supporters must place campaign signs beyond right-of-way limits.

For roads with a right-of-way fence, no signs may be attached. Trash cleanup cycles are scheduled periodically.

Items placed on the right of way create significant delays for mowing crews and are potential hazards for mowing operators and passing motorists on the highway.

The Transportation Cabinet says in addition to elections, the restriction often becomes a problem with yard sale and real estate advertising.

Illegally placed materials along roads can create additional hazards by blocking sight distance or distracting drivers, particularly at intersections.

It is also illegal to attach items such as flyers, posters, balloons, or streamers to stop signs, highway markers, or any other road sign or utility pole. Illegal placement on utility poles presents additional obstacles and potential dangers for utility crew workers.

Removed items are taken to each county's transportation cabinet maintenance facility where they are held for 30 days. Any unclaimed materials will be trashed or recycled after that time.

If you have any questions, contact your nearest transportation cabinet highway district office. You can find their locations by going to http://transportation.ky.gov.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Stoops: Mistakes in loss at Auburn easily noticeable, correctable

LEXINGTON (KT) — Kentucky doesn't have much time to dwell on what went wrong in the season opener last weekend.

After reviewing film from a 29-13 loss to Auburn, coach Mark Stoops said the team's two turnovers — an interception and a fumble — were "very noticeable" and added "we have to get that corrected" going into Saturday's home opener against Mississippi set for 4 p.m.

Stoops remains confident his team will fare better in crucial situations against the Rebels, who opened the season with a 51-35 loss to Florida. The bottom line, Stoops said, is to eliminate costly miscues.

"You can't make critical errors in critical moments in an SEC game at home or on the road," Stoops said Monday. "You can't make those kinds of mistakes."

Stoops said the Wildcats have plenty to build on moving forward. On their first drive of the season, the Wildcats marched 93 yards that took more than six minutes to complete.

Quarterback Terry Wilson threw for 239 yards and one touchdown. Overall, Kentucky amassed 384 total yards against the Tigers. Kentucky collected 234 yards in the opening half and managed just 50 in the final two quarters against the Tigers.

"We felt like the majority of the first half, we played a lot like we want to play," Stoops said. "We had some balance. We were very physical. We controlled the line of scrimmage, played solid defense, not great. We had some errors there as well."

Wilson was intercepted at the goal-line one play after an running back Chris Rodriguez appeared to have scored a touchdown. The officials, both on the field and following an instant replay, ruled he didn't cross the goal line. Stoops said the turnover by Wilson was a "critical moment" and added the missed call doesn't matter.

"We had our opportunities. I think that's the good news," he said. "There's a lot to build from a lot of good things, but they need to clean up the mistakes. It doesn't get any easier when you're playing a schedule like we're playing this year. We got to pick it up quick (this week). We do have to analyze ourselves, you know, and be very critical of ourselves early in the season."

Stoops hopes the Wildcats can eliminate mistakes this week.

"You just hope to be the team that screws up the least because everybody is going to screw up, you know, early in the year," he said. "You have to be able to overcome it when you're a better football team. You could overcome mistakes because everybody has them."

Elected Official Indicted by Grand Jury on Charges of Alleged

Strangulation & Assault

Story by Jerry Sparks Article originally published in the Jackson County Sun • September 23rd, 2020

Last Friday (September 18th, 2020) Laurel County grand jury returned an indictment (#20-CR-180) against the 89th District's State Rep. Robert S. Goforth on strangulation and assault charges stemming from an incident in late April. Goforth of East Bernstadt was indicted on one count of first-degree strangulation and one count of assault in the fourth degree. The indictment alleges that Goforth committed the offense of "strangulation, 1st degree" by "intentionally and without consent impeding the normal breathing or circulation of blood of Ashley Goforth, by strangling her with an ethernet cable on the throat of Ashley Goforth." Further, the grand jury charges that Goforth committed the offense of "assault in the fourth degree" upon Ashley Goforth by "hitting her in the head, and thereby causing physical injury." Goforth is scheduled to be back in court on October 20th, 2020 to answer the indictment.

The case against Kentucky 89th District State Representative Robert Goforth was referred to the grand jury by the Laurel County court on August 04th, 2020 at the end of a preliminary hearing. Rep. Goforth was arrested on April 21, 2020 and charged with Strangulation, 1st degree, Assault, 4th degree (domestic violence) minor injury, and Terroristic Threatening, 3rd degree. Goforth was released on a $25,000 cash bond. Goforth was arraigned on domestic violence charges Monday, June 01, 2020 in a Laurel County Courtroom. Goforth entered a plea of "not guilty" at the hearing. Goforth's bond was also kept at $25,000. The terroristic threatening charge was not included in the indictment returned by the grand jury.

The allegations against Representative Goforth are contained within the uniform citation obtained from the Laurel County Detention Center. The uniform citation states that Officer Inman received a complaint that there was a female waiting to speak with a deputy at the 911 Dispatch Center in reference to an alleged domestic assault that had just occurred (the citation reports that the incident occurred around 1:35 a.m. on April 21, 2020) with three small children still in the home. Officer Inman reported that upon arrival at the Dispatch Center he observed visible marks on the forehead, neck, and arms of the female complainant, Ashley Renee Goforth (wife of Rep. Robert Goforth). Rep. Goforth represents the 89th District, which covers Jackson County, as well as parts of Laurel and Madison counties.

The alleged victim told police that she tried to flee from Goforth, and that he made several attempts to "hogtie her," according to the citation. She stated that during this attempt she believed she was struck on the forehead. The citation noted observing "bruise and knot on forehead". As the altercation ensued, Goforth also allegedly strangled her with an ethernet cable, while her face was turned down toward the ground, to the point where she said she thought she was going to pass out, according to the citation.

According to the arrest citation, she also told police that Goforth said he was going to kill her during the altercation. The alleged victim told police she was able to escape by promising to unlock her phone, which was later determined to be the issue that had started the incident, according to the citation.

The citation states that it took two attempts at the residence for deputies to make contact with Goforth. Once they made contact with him, police determined that Goforth did not appear to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol and the three children were found safe, according to the citation. In addition to the injuries that were noted upon initially observing the alleged victim, further investigation also revealed bruising on her leg. The citation reports that JC-3 documentation was done along with EPO (Emergency Protection Order) completion and Case #2020-0-0386.

In 2019, the General Assembly voted to upgrade strangulation to a felony offense, defining it as a crime of domestic or dating violence. Rep. Goforth helped pass the bill. Goforth was elected to Frankfort in 2018 and challenged former Governor Matt Bevin in the last Republican primary. In the midst of this controversy and another sexual assault allegation, there have been calls for Goforth to resign. The office of 89th District State Representative is on the ballot this November in the General Election. Incumbent Rep. Goforth is being challenged by Democratic candidate Mike Van Winkle. While Goforth has remained largely silent verbally on his future plans he has started advertising his bid for re-election with campaign ads on social media, PRTC Channel 9, and signage.

BRIEFS

Berea Circuit Clerk's office to close

Due to circumstances out of our control we regretfully have to announce that our Berea office has been permanently closed.

The decision came down from the DOT and Frankfort. The Circuit Court Clerk and the City of Berea did everything they could to keep open. Any angry comments or concerns need to be directed to department of transportation not the clerks. As clerks we wanted to remain open.

All court and drivers license matters will have to be taken care of in our Richmond offices (the county clerks office is still available in Berea). We are sorry for any inconvenience this may cause.

Also please note we are working extremly hard — without pay a lot of times — trying to make things run as smooth as possible for Madison county residents.

Shortline Pike to be shut down Monday

On Monday, Oct. 5, Shortline Pike will be shut down beginning at 8 a.m. for approximately six hours, for the installationof two culverts.

The closure will be in the area of 128 Shortline Pike to Blue Lick Road. Entrance to Shortline Pike should be made from the Highway 1016 side.

From the 21 East side, access to Blue Lick Road will be unaffected.

Chapin plant bringing 100 jobs to the region

FRANKFORT (KT) — As many as 100 new jobs are coming to Rockcastle County as Chapin International Inc., a manufacturer of metal compressed air sprayers, announced plans on Tuesday to locate a production operation in Mount Vernon.

The company says they will make a nearly $5.5 million investment to relocate segments of existing operations in New York and Ohio to the 175,000-square-foot former Eagle Manufacturing facility in the Rockcastle Business Park.

"This is another example of people coming together to build a better Kentucky and create an even stronger economy," said Gov. Andy Beshear. "This project came together incredibly quickly, and I want to thank everyone, including our state and local economic development teams, who quickly worked to meet Chapin's needs in such a short period of time and bring these jobs to Rockcastle County. We welcome Chapin International to Kentucky."

The new plant will produce and distribute metal compressed air sprayers for a variety of uses, including industrial concrete sprayers, professional landscaper/contractor backpack sprayers, ATV sprayers and specialty hose-end and handheld sprayers. The new location will position the company to better serve customers throughout North America.

"Chapin Manufacturing is excited to be standing up a new operation in Rockcastle, Kentucky," said Jim Campbell, Chapin's president and CEO. "There were many moving parts that included purchasing this 175,000-square-foot facility. The town, county and the state of Kentucky did an amazing job in bringing the project to conclusion in just under 10 days. We look forward to our part in growing American manufacturing in the great state of Kentucky."

happened, and we have lived together at our home with our children since that time," Ashley Goforth said in the statement. "It was my strong desire that my husband not be charged with any offenses, and I formally communicated that to the commonwealth's attorney and grand jury in Laurel County."

Commonwealth's Attorney Jackie Steele said that while his office does take into account statements and requests from victims, they do not ultimately dictate the office's decisions. As of Tuesday there was no intention to dismiss the charges against Robert Goforth, Steele said.

But, Ashley Goforth insists her husband is a loving father and "goes above and beyond for his family."

"We have both sought spiritual and family counseling as we continue to work on our personal issues as a married couple," Ashley Goforth said. "It has been a difficult year, but we are thankful for the grace and compassion of a loving God. It has sustained us."

Goforth was indicted on one count of first-degree strangulation and one count of assault in the fourth degree, reported the (London) Times-Tribune on Sept. 18. His original charges included the two aforementioned charges and third-degree terroristic threatening.

The state representative's arrest occurred April 21 around 3:10 a.m. after a woman went to London's 911 Dispatch Center to speak with a deputy about a domestic assault. The deputies noted the woman had visible marks on her forehead, neck and arms.

The female stated she was able to leave the residence after promising Goforth she would unlock her phone — the subject that initiated the altercation, according to the arrest citation. The citation states the female said Goforth struck her in the forehead and she had a bruise and knot on her forehead.

The female was also found to have bruising on her leg and reported that Goforth had stated he was going to kill her.

She further stated Goforth grabbed an ethernet cable from a kitchen drawer and while she had her face toward the ground, he began strangling her to the point that she had difficulty breathing and believed she was going to pass out.

Goforth also threatened "to hog tie" her, according to the arrest citation.

After promising to unlock her phone, she was able to leave the residence and seek help.

There were three children at the residence during the altercation, according to the report.

The citation further stated that Laurel Sheriff's deputies had to make two attempts to get Goforth to the door of the home, where they found all three children safe. Goforth, according to the citation, did not appear to be "manifestly under the influence of alcohol or drugs."

The citation noted the female also completed paperwork for an Emergency Protection Order (EPO).

Goforth was held in the Laurel County Correctional Center for approximately 7 1/2 hours before he was released on $25,000 bond.

Goforth was arraigned June 1 where he pleaded not guilty. His preliminary hearing was held in Laurel District Court on August 4 with the case being sent to the grand jury for possible indictment.

An indictment is a formal charge by a grand jury; it is not a conviction or an admission of guilt.

Stoops: Mistakes in loss at Auburn easily noticeable, correctable

LEXINGTON (KT) — Kentucky doesn't have much time to dwell on what went wrong in the season opener last weekend.

After reviewing film from a 29-13 loss to Auburn, coach Mark Stoops said the team's two turnovers — an interception and a fumble — were "very noticeable" and added "we have to get that corrected" going into Saturday's home opener against Mississippi set for 4 p.m.

Stoops remains confident his team will fare better in crucial situations against the Rebels, who opened the season with a 51-35 loss to Florida. The bottom line, Stoops said, is to eliminate costly miscues.

"You can't make critical errors in critical moments in an SEC game at home or on the road," Stoops said Monday. "You can't make those kinds of mistakes."

Stoops said the Wildcats have plenty to build on moving forward. On their first drive of the season, the Wildcats marched 93 yards that took more than six minutes to complete.

Quarterback Terry Wilson threw for 239 yards and one touchdown. Overall, Kentucky amassed 384 total yards against the Tigers. Kentucky collected 234 yards in the opening half and managed just 50 in the final two quarters against the Tigers.

"We felt like the majority of the first half, we played a lot like we want to play," Stoops said. "We had some balance. We were very physical. We controlled the line of scrimmage, played solid defense, not great. We had some errors there as well."

Wilson was intercepted at the goal-line one play after an running back Chris Rodriguez appeared to have scored a touchdown. The officials, both on the field and following an instant replay, ruled he didn't cross the goal line. Stoops said the turnover by Wilson was a "critical moment" and added the missed call doesn't matter.

"We had our opportunities. I think that's the good news," he said. "There's a lot to build from a lot of good things, but they need to clean up the mistakes. It doesn't get any easier when you're playing a schedule like we're playing this year. We got to pick it up quick (this week). We do have to analyze ourselves, you know, and be very critical of ourselves early in the season."

Stoops hopes the Wildcats can eliminate mistakes this week.

"You just hope to be the team that screws up the least because everybody is going to screw up, you know, early in the year," he said. "You have to be able to overcome it when you're a better football team. You could overcome mistakes because everybody has them."

Elected Official Indicted by Grand Jury on Charges of Alleged

Strangulation & Assault

Story by Jerry Sparks Article originally published in the Jackson County Sun • September 23rd, 2020

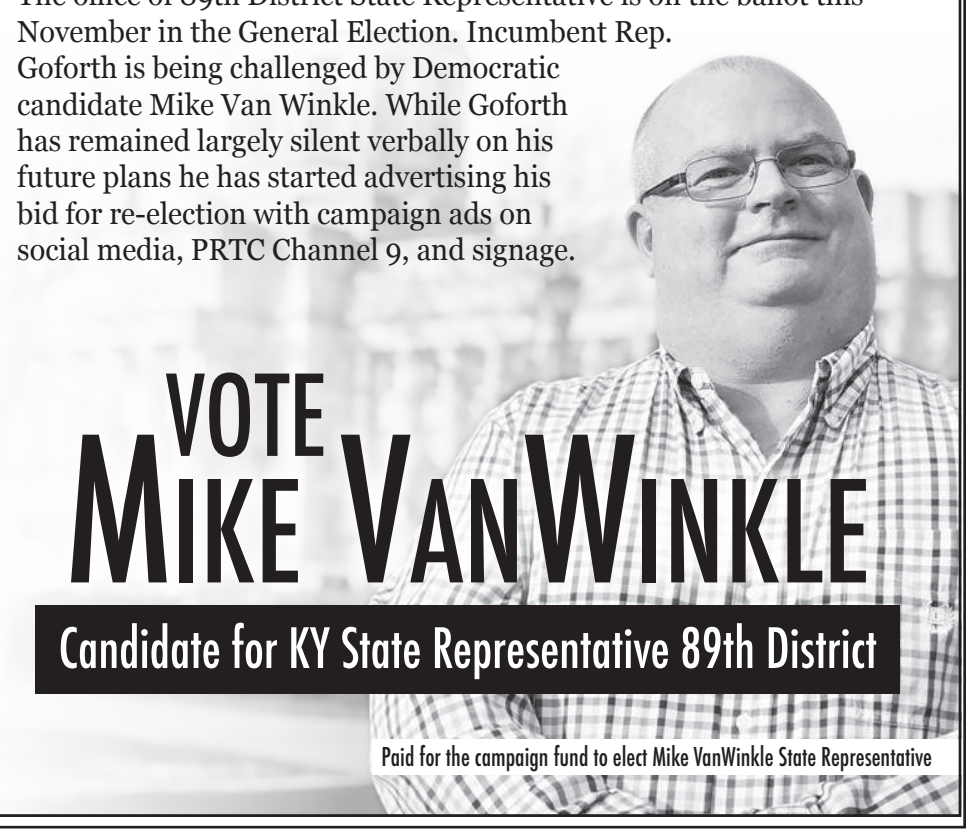
Last Friday (September 18th, 2020) Laurel County grand jury returned an indictment (#20-CR-180) against the 89th District's State Rep. Robert S. Goforth on strangulation and assault charges stemming from an incident in late April. Goforth of East Bernstadt was indicted on one count of first-degree strangulation and one count of assault in the fourth degree. The indictment alleges that Goforth committed the offense of "strangulation, 1st degree" by "intentionally and without consent impeding the normal breathing or circulation of blood of Ashley Goforth, by strangling her with an ethernet cable on the throat of Ashley Goforth." Further, the grand jury charges that Goforth committed the offense of "assault in the fourth degree" upon Ashley Goforth by "hitting her in the head, and thereby causing physical injury." Goforth is scheduled to be back in court on October 20th, 2020 to answer the indictment.

The case against Kentucky 89th District State Representative Robert Goforth was referred to the grand jury by the Laurel County court on August 04th, 2020 at the end of a preliminary hearing. Rep. Goforth was arrested on April 21, 2020 and charged with Strangulation, 1st degree, Assault, 4th degree (domestic violence) minor injury, and Terroristic Threatening, 3rd degree. Goforth was released on a $25,000 cash bond. Goforth was arraigned on domestic violence charges Monday, June 01, 2020 in a Laurel County Courtroom. Goforth entered a plea of "not guilty" at the hearing. Goforth's bond was also kept at $25,000. The terroristic threatening charge was not included in the indictment returned by the grand jury.

The allegations against Representative Goforth are contained within the uniform citation obtained from the Laurel County Detention Center. The uniform citation states that Officer Inman received a complaint that there was a female waiting to speak with a deputy at the 911 Dispatch Center in reference to an alleged domestic assault that had just occurred (the citation reports that the incident occurred around 1:35 a.m. on April 21, 2020) with three small children still in the home. Officer Inman reported that upon arrival at the Dispatch Center he observed visible marks on the forehead, neck, and arms of the female complainant, Ashley Renee Goforth (wife of Rep. Robert Goforth). Rep. Goforth represents the 89th District, which covers Jackson County, as well as parts of Laurel and Madison counties.

The alleged victim told police that she tried to flee from Goforth, and that he made several attempts to "hogtie her," according to the citation. She stated that during this attempt she believed she was struck on the forehead. The citation noted observing "bruise and knot on forehead". As the altercation ensued, Goforth also allegedly strangled her with an ethernet cable, while her face was turned down toward the ground, to the point where she said she thought she was going to pass out, according to the citation.

According to the arrest citation, she also told police that Goforth said he was going to kill her during the altercation. The alleged victim told police she was able to escape by promising to unlock her phone, which was later determined to be the issue that had started the incident, according to the citation.

The citation states that it took two attempts at the residence for deputies to make contact with Goforth. Once they made contact with him, police determined that Goforth did not appear to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol and the three children were found safe, according to the citation. In addition to the injuries that were noted upon initially observing the alleged victim, further investigation also revealed bruising on her leg. The citation reports that JC-3 documentation was done along with EPO (Emergency Protection Order) completion and Case #2020-0-0386.


In 2019, the General Assembly voted to upgrade strangulation to a felony offense, defining it as a crime of domestic or dating violence. Rep. Goforth helped pass the bill. Goforth was elected to Frankfort in 2018 and challenged former Governor Matt Bevin in the last Republican primary. In the midst of this controversy and another sexual assault allegation, there have been calls for Goforth to resign. The office of 89th District State Representative is on the ballot this November in the General Election. Incumbent Rep. Goforth is being challenged by Democratic candidate Mike Van Winkle. While Goforth has remained largely silent verbally on his future plans he has started advertising his bid for re-election with campaign ads on social media, PRTC Channel 9, and signage.
