Vehicles stolen then recovered New Year's Eve

By: Sara Coguer

Two vehicles were recovered last Friday, after one of the vehicles was stolen from Rose's One Stop in Brodhead.

Jackie Payne, of Brodhead, was getting gas in his 1999 Toyota pickup at Rose's and went inside to pay. He had left his vehicle running and when he came back out he saw his vehicle being driven off.

According to KSP Trooper Darren Allen, a lot of vehicles are being stolen and taken to recycling centers that do not follow the law and require the person to show proof of identification.

The person who has stolen the vehicle gives the disreputable centers a bogus name and address and then receives $200-300 for the stolen vehicle they have "junked".

Even though there is a law that requires recycling centers to make a copy of the person's identification, there is no penalty for recycling companies that do not comply.

Trooper Allen called around and found the vehicle, not yet destroyed, at the Hidden Valley Recycling Center in Garrard County.

Recycling center employees gave Allen a description of the vehicle that the thieves had driven off in and, later that day, a vehicle matching that description was identified by Rockcastle Sheriff Detective Barry Adams in the parking lot of Dollar General in Brodhead.

Shawn Davidson, of Covington, fled as Detective Adams approached but a woman in the car, Stefanie Davidson, was charged with receiving stolen property as the vehicle they were in had been reported as stolen from Ohio.

"Even if you drive an older vehicle, do not assume it is not a target as this is a new way thieves are getting quick cash, and please do not leave your title in your glove box. If a thief steals the car and the title is in it, it's theirs," Allen said. "I wish scrap yards in surrounding counties did as good a job of making the people who are trying to sell "junk" cars show proper identification and keep records as good as Mt. Vernon Scrap and Eastern Kentucky Recycling do."

The incidents are still under investigation and additional charges are pending.

Ramblings . . .

A New Generation

by:

Sara Coguer, Editor

I have been thinking long and hard about whether I should even make New Year's resolutions this year. After all, who really keeps them? I never have for sure, but I have had such an epiphany about life lately that I have decided to not only make New Year's resolutions, but to keep them! I am that optimistic.

I am so optimistic about life, in fact, that I am not going to make just one or two, because that is how many I usually make and break. I am going to make four resolutions for the New Year (that way if I only keep one or two, I have bettered myself than from years past, right? That's logical, isn't it?)

Anyway, I've decided to share my new year's resolutions so people who see me can help keep me on track – like say if you see me at McDonald's with a Big Mac and large fries feel free to glance disapprovingly at me. I will feel guilty about it but will probably still eat them. Also, maybe my struggles are the same as yours and we can help each other be successful along the way.

First and foremost, and isn't it this way with a lot of people, I have to lose weight. I am probably the heaviest I have ever been and it isn't any fun. I have yet to find anything that has really motivated me, but there are a few working on me.

After taking pictures at the first basketball game, I realized I was standing in front of everyone in the stands and that was not a pleasant thought. I have this one black sweater that hides my stomach pretty well, but I can't wear it every game I take pictures at so those thoughts have been working on me. Of course I just realized that if you do go to high school basketball games and I had managed to escape your scrutiny, I just pretty much took care of that. I might as well hang a sign on my back that says, "Talk about me because I weigh too much!" I'll keep you posted on when I actually intend to start this resolution, as it is really cold outside and running isn't fun even in good weather . . .

Not that I want to look like a refugee camp regular, but I would like to look like I did before I started having children. I had very large children, 8 lbs. 10 oz., 10 lbs. 5 oz., and 9 lbs. 1 oz., respectively, and I had gestational diabetes when I was expecting Reese. I am pre-diabetic now, and my doctor told me if I didn't start exercising and lose weight I would be diabetic. So what do I do? Gain fifteen pounds! Oh well, I guess that reverse psychology thing isn't working out too well . . . I guess I really do need to start exercising and watching what I eat. New Year's resolution #1: Get healthy.

New Year's Resolution #2: Be a better mom. I have talked about this before and changing careers has helped (some). I have decided, as I am writing this and two of my children are screaming at each other about stupid things, that it's not me, it is my children. Just kidding, but if you have ever been around my children for a very long time . . . no I'm joking.

Seriously, I started reading a book, The Power of a Positive Mom, and am on chapter two. I have to admit though, that I bought this book probably a year ago and stopped reading it after the first chapter, so maybe I should have a mini-resolution to actually finish the book. So far, if I understand what I've read correctly, nothing is my fault. No not really, but I am starting to understand that I need to recharge my batteries just like a cell phone does, and my power source is God. So profound, and I haven't even gotten to the meat of the book yet. I know that I already knew that, but it is hard to put into practice, the letting God have control thing. Resolution # 3: Stop trying to control everything and give it over to God. I will keep you posted on

Remembering family holiday dinners

For most of my life, Christmas dinner was celebrated in Mt. Vernon at my grandparent's home. Mommie Katie and Pop made all the preparations for the entire family to gather and celebrate the birth of our Savior by sharing a huge meal and exchanging gifts. My mother (Bee) assisted Mommie Katie for several days before all of the family arrived. Because of their efforts, the dinner spread was breathtaking.

Pop's contribution to the yearly event was to make sure that we had enough country ham and to walk into the fields behind Bee's house to find a real cedar tree for the ladies to decorate a few days before Christmas. He also helped Mommie Katie to make enough "shuck" beans to fill a huge pot for our celebration.

Bee's pre-Christmas involvement centered around the production of a large jam cake or fruit cake for our dessert. The fruit cake was prepared several days before the actual meal in order for it to "perk" in the refrigerator so it would be just right for Christmas.

On the day of our celebration, family members began to arrive during the mid-afternoon. Usually Uncle Charles Brown, Aunt Ruth, and Janis pulled into the driveway before any other guests. They were followed by my brother Albert, Eva, and their children, Debra and Denise. The women generally gathered in the kitchen to set the large table with all of the food that had been prepared, while the men found their way to the living room in front of the black and white television.

At some point, Mommie Katie announced that dinner was served, and everyone made their way to the kitchen table. No one ate a bite until she asked one of the men to "bless our food." That duty usually fell upon my preacher brother or on Uncle Charles.

As a young man, the yearly gathering of family for Christmas was just right. The closeness we felt was uplifting and somehow inspiring. It just made me feel warm inside and safe. Over the years, members of our family reached old age, and one-by-one they have passed away. After Mommie Katie and Pop were gone, Bee moved to Lexington and lived in a small apartment. For several years, the family made their way to her apartment for our annual celebration, but of course it was never the same.

After Bee's passing, the remaining group was invited to Albert and Eva's home for the celebration of Thanksgiving and Christmas. At that point, most of the group was young and many grandchildren and great-grandchildren were now part of the family, so the tradition changed somewhat. The food, however, was mostly the same because Eva has the golden touch in the kitchen just like her mother, Bee, and Mommie Katie.

My wife, Kathy, and I were invited to Al's for Thanksgiving this year and the meal was, as always, awesome. Most of the usual dishes were prepared, and I am sure many of us gained a few pounds by consuming more than our share of the scrumptious meal.

Al and Eva invited us to come back for Christmas this year but we had responsibilities concerning Kathy's father, who is in a nursing facility, so we decided to prepare our own Christmas dinner at home.

I decided to try to cook a traditional holiday meal much like Bee and Mommie Katie many years ago on our little farm. I asked Al to find me some "shuck" beans, and he came through. I dug out an old recipe book in which I had copied many of Bee's recipes years ago. My menu looked like this: a freshly baked, 12-pound turkey, Bee's wonderful cornbread dressing, Kathy's awesome corn pudding, Al's "shuck" beans, cranberry sauce, and a jam cake

Points East

By Ike Adams

She looked wearied, did the young lady there in Kirksville, but she had a sign out advertising her garage sale on one of the coldest days we've ever seen in December and it occurred to me that I might find a bargain. And so I stopped at the next drive way, turned my truck and drove back up to her yard and pulled in to shop around.

Not too much to look at. Just regular junk of this and that and I asked her why she was having a garage sale in the middle of December and she told me she was getting ready to move to Florida and we laughed about how I wished I could go with her.

"You're way too old for me," she said. "I'm just getting rid of what I can and turning it into some cash before the U-Haul gets here to take me to Orlando. And my husband would shoot you for flirting we me like this."

"Must be a fine man," I told her while I wondered why Mr. Wonderful wasn't there to help do the packing and selling, but that was none of my business. It had never occurred to me that I was flirting. I know for sure that I never winked nor had a reason to.

It's impossible for an old guy to be friendly with a younger woman this day and age without getting into trouble with the law, but it's just fine if the girls call men like us old guys, "Honey." And I actually kind of like it, even though I've come to realize that they know that I'm worn out and harmless. Whatever. All I know for sure that when a young lady calls me "Honey", I do feel sweet and not a tad insulted.

So, anyway, I shopped her tables and came upon a Barlow pocket knife that was rusted shut. She had it marked at fifty cents and I told her that was a high price to pay for a knife that wouldn't even open. And she said, "gimme a dime and stick it your pocket. Maybe that will loosen it up." And she winked at me. I swear she did.

I tossed her a quarter and told her to keep the change for dessert. (I hit pay dirt and found a lady in Stanton who made me a delicious jam cake just like Bee’s – thank you, Bonnie!)

On Christmas Day, I got up early and put the bird in the oven. The night before I had soaked my shuck beans and placed them in the refrigerator, so they went on the stove at about the same time as my bird disappeared into the oven. I included a ham hock in the beans for flavor. After the turkey had cooked for about three hours, it was time for the dressing and corn pudding to replace the turkey in the oven.

Oh, how wonderful the kitchen smells at times like these! The aroma reminded me of our little house in Rockcastle County so many years ago. The only dish that was missing that really mattered to me was my mother’s dumplings. Bee never did write down that recipe for me, and I regret it terribly. Maybe I need to watch Eva make her dumplings next Thanksgiving so I will be able to cook my own, because hers are almost identical to Bee’s.

It was comical to watch Kathy and I devour that Christmas dinner. She commented later, “I bet I have gained six pounds today!” Even though the meal was scrumptious, our “celebration” was somewhat lacking since the family was not gathered around the table as they were when I was a small boy.

A few days later, I decided to use another of Bee’s recipes and make her wonderful turkey hash. In case you like that dish, here is her recipe.

4 large potatoes finely chopped
2 cups of chopped onions
4 cups of chopped turkey
Salt and pepper to taste
Simmer until the mixture is mushy

I always remember that my sons, Andy and Todd, loved my turkey hash and demanded that I make it every Christmas. I miss having them looking over my shoulder when I prepare this recipe.

I am so blessed to have the heritage of holiday meals to remember and even the recipes to prepare those memorable feasts. I am grateful that Mommie Katie and Bee took the time to teach me a few tricks in order to cook my own small version of the family’s Christmas dinner.

Thank you for continuing to read my column and for your many cards, letters, calls, and emails – keep them coming. And a blessed new year to you and yours!

but I put the Barlow in my pocket and went on about my business.

And so the day wore out as I meandered along the slopes of Poosey Ridge looking for the perfect winter picture and aimed my camera all about to no avail.

In the meantime, the black-handled Barlow was smoldering in the right front pocket of my jeans.

I pulled it out when I got home and it opened smooth as silk. Both Blades—as rusted as they were—but the back springs were solid and full of life.

I found a can of WD-40 and some steel wool and before you know what was going on, I had a real pocket knife for the first time in many years.

I drove back to Kirksville last Sunday, intending to pay an extra dollar for the knife

But the house was empty.

A flyer advertising Disney World was blown up on the swing.

My fourth resolution probably goes along with number one, but I am only going to drink one Diet Pepsi a day and I have actually started this one and kept it so far. I had been drinking five or six (or seven) a day, and mom assured me that drinking too much soda is what causes women to look like they have an inner tube around their stomach, and even though I’m sure she wasn’t referring to me, I believe everything my mom tells me, so goodbye Diet Pepsi. Bible Talk

Our study this month will be on the 2 Covenants, Old Testament and the New Testament.

Old Testament-

Comprises the books of Genesis to Malachi. It is inclusive of the Patriarchal age and the Mosaic age. In the Patriarchal age, it was the time when the fathers ruled in the religious realm. Men such as Adam, Noah, Abraham, Job, etc. were the leaders in the religious worship as they served God. The Mosaic age began at Sinai when God made covenant with the Israelite nation and gave him his law under Moses, Ex.19-20. The law of Moses was a national law for one nation, Israel. All the various laws and statutes that governed the Levitical priesthood and tabernacle worship (and later the Temple) were given by Moses.

New Testament-

Comprises the books Matthew through Revelation. Jesus preached and prepared people for the gospel age during his lifetime, Heb.2:3-4. The New Testament became binding after his death, Col.2:14, Heb.9:17, and began to be preached in it’s fullness starting in Acts 2 on the day of Pentecost. The gospel is a universal law for all nations, Mt.28:19, Lk.24:47. Now it is important for us to see that we are obligated to follow New Testament law, not Old Testament law. Consider this text in Matt.17:1-9 where we read about the transfiguration of Jesus. Notice vs.2-3, “And was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light. And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elijah talking with him.” Now Moses and Elijah represent the law and the prophets. Now let’s notice a very important point from verse 5, “While he yet spake, behold, a bright cloud overshadowed them: and behold a voice out of the cloud, which said, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him.” What did God say? Hear ye THEM? No! Hear ye HIM! God says we are to listen to Jesus. The problem with a lot of folks is that they want to listen to Jesus AND Moses and the prophets of the Old Testament. Beloved we are obligated to follow the New Testament teachings, the words of Christ, God’s beloved Son. Other texts also point out that we are under the law of Christ, not the law of Moses, Heb.8:6-13, Rom.7:1-4, 2Cor.3:6-12. If we fail to make the distinction of the Old Testament and the New Testament, we are bound for all kinds of troubles in understanding and practice. “Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.” 2 Tim.2:15. May we rightly divide the word of God on this topic of the covenants.

We invite you to study and worship with us at the Providence church of Christ.

Sunday 10am Bible Study, Worship 10:40 & 6:00pm; Wednesday 7:00pm.

Brenda’s Gift: “Graceland with Elvis”

On October 13th, 2010 my sister Brenda Sue Peters was diagnosed with breast cancer, which had metastasized to bone. The following two weeks of tests with doctors in Lexington led to her having Stage 4 cancer with no possible surgery to help her.

This news was not what her family wanted to hear. We turned to God for healing her, God heals in different ways. Brenda’s cancer is still there, but she hasn’t had to take anything stronger than ibuprofen or tylenol for the pain at this time. This is divine healing on God can give.

We’ve had several family get-togethers at my house lately with Brenda, and our time has been priceless. God has given us time to talk and love her, she refuses to hear any doom or negative thoughts from anyone. Her saying is “I’m a winner either way, I’ve got a better place to go.” She has inspired her family and friends to depend more on God.

Brenda’s co-workers raised $500 for her to take a vacation, because they knew she’d never had a vacation. She wanted to go to Graceland, because she was a big fan of Elvis Presley. The plan was made to go to Graceland, but due to the pain in her knees, she couldn’t make the seven hour drive so we took her to Pigeon Forge, Tennessee.

She had a good time, then I had this big idea to bring Elvis to her. We turned my den into an Elvis shrine with giant Elvis posters and records on the walls and hanging from the ceiling.

We collected all the Elvis music we could find, and a friend suggested getting an Elvis impersonator. I made a call to County Attorney Billy Reynolds, requesting if his son Will would come to my house and do an Elvis concert.

Billy was so touched that we wanted an Elvis concert for my sister. Billy agreed with hesitation to do this free of charge. On December 18th, Will did a two hour performance for Brenda, family and co-workers.

“Elvis” did a wonderful concert, everyone was whooping and hollering, but when Elvis put that scarf around Brenda’s neck and kissed her, the smile on her face was priceless.

Brenda’s gift didn’t cost money, only the time of Billy and Will Reynolds that they donated to make my sister’s dream of Graceland come true. Both of them were so charming and gracious to our family. Will made that day one of the happiest days of my sister’s life, not to mention several of us “old” women wishing we were 17 years old again.

May God bless Will Reynolds all the days of his life, and bless Billy for the compassion he showed to Brenda and her family.

*Sincerely,
Jenny and Gary Vickers

It was on that awful cold winter’s day
God took you home to heaven to stay we cried and cried when you went away
But at last, we have come to learn it was God calling, it was your turn
God had another life for you to learn
We had to understand it was just meant to be

Here on earth you shall always be in our thoughts

Rockcastle County led 14-6 at the end of the first, but South Greene pulled it back with a better second quarter, trailing 26-20 at halftime.

The big difference was the Lady Rockets' defense in the second half. South Greene turned the ball over six times in the first half, 15 over the final two periods. The Lady Rockets scored 17 points on the South Greene mistakes.

Scoring for Rockcastle: Hammond, 16; Arvin, 7; Burton, 5; Lawrence, 13; Hunter, 7; Adams, 2; McQueary, 2; Cowan, 2; Cobb, 4.

vs. North Greene

Halfway through the third period, North Greene was very much in the game with the Lady Rockets, down by a slender 30-27 count.

However, 6-3 post Sara Hammond went to work. After sitting out much of the first half with two personal fouls, scoring one point and grabbing one rebound, Hammond scored 14 points and nabbed 14 rebounds in the final two periods and led the Rockets to a 66-37 win over the LadyHuskies.

After winning by forfeit in the first round, it was the first game on the floor in the tourney for the Huskies, and they battled hard, but Rockcastle took over with a 16-3 run to close out the third period and didn't slow down in the fourth.

Hammond and Angie Lawrence each scored 15 while Kristin Abney and Shanlee Burton netted 11 apiece for the Rockets (9-0). Rockcastle held a huge 45-22 rebound advantage.

Other scoring for Rockcastle: Chasteen, 2; Hunter, 6; Adams, 1; Cowan, 3; Cobb, 2.

vs. Mt. Juliet

Mt. Juliet earned a chance to defend its GreenBank Ladies' Classic title by rallying in the second half to beat Rockcastle County 60-47 in the tournament's first semi-final matchup.

Rockcastle led 28-19 at halftime but the Lady Bears made some key adjustments and came out of the locker room a team on a mission.

Caya Williams scored 22 of her game-leading 26 points over the final two periods to lead Mt. Juliet back to the championship game for the second straight year.

The Lady Rockets (9-1) had the best of it in the first half, leading 12-8 at the end of the first and spreading it in the second quarter.

Shanlee Burton led Rockcastle County with 16 points. Standout Sara Hammond was limited to four points for the game.

Other scoring for Rockcastle: Arvin, 6; Abney, 6; Lawrence 8; Hunter, 7.

vs. Greenville

Rockcastle County took consolation honors in the 22nd annual Ladies' Classic, moving past short-handed Greenville 56-36.

Sara Hammond, the 6-3 University of Louisville signee, put on a show with 25 points and 16 rebounds in 20 minutes of playing time for the Lady Rockets. She also had four blocked shots. Hammond got help from Angie Lawrence with 15 points, three assists and four steals.

Greenville (7-4) was without the services of post Samantha Fender, who sat out the game after injuring a wrist during Thursday's semifinal game.

The Rockets (9-1) led the entire way, up 12-8 after one quarter and 28-17 at intermission. A 17-6 scoring run in the third pretty well sewed up the outcome.

Other scoring for Rockcastle: Abney, 2; Burton, 2; Hunter, 8; Cowan, 4.

Rockcastle vs. Somerset Tuesday night

The Lady Rockets welcomed the Somerset Lady Jumpers on Tuesday night for a 47th district match-up. Rockcastle would overmatch the Lady Jumpers and it was all Lady Rockets, all of the time, rolling to an easy 61-26 win at home.

Rockcastle, who defeated Somerset on December 10th on the road 74 -42, held Somerset scoreless in the first quarter and led 10-0 after the first break. Coach Noble's squad outpaced the Lady Jumpers 23-13 in the second quarter, building a 33-13 lead at the half.

After three quarters, the lead had ballooned to 41-17, and then capped off the fourth quarter with a 20-9 difference for the 35 point victory, mainly behind the play of the Lady Rocket bench.

Nine different Lady Rockets scored, including senior point guard Angie Lawrence who led all scorers with 18. Senior center Sara Hammond added 16 in the blowout win.

Other Lady Rockets who got in the scoring column: Katie Cobb 6, Kristin Abney 4, ShanleeBurton 4, Emily Miller 4, Michaela Hunter 3, Sydney Arvin 2, Katie Cowan 2.

Rockcastle improved their record to 11-1 overall and 2-0 in district play and now turn their attention to another 47th district foe in Pulaski County (8-5), (0-2) this Friday night at Rock Arena. Tip-off for the doubleheader is scheduled for 6 p.m.

It will also be Little Rocket League night. All Little Rocket League participants can wear their jersey for free admission to the game and will be introduced between games.

Junior Katie Cowan looks for two in the win over Somerset Tuesday night. The Lady Rockets are 2-0 in district play.

Senior forward Sydney Arvin puts up a shot in the Lady Rockets win over Somerset Tuesday night.

Sophomore Ashton Arvin drives to the hoop during his team's loss to Somerset Tuesday night.

Rockets fall to Jumpers; are 1-1 in district play

It was a tale of two halves in Tuesday's night game between Rockcastle and Somerset with the Rockets trailing by 29 points, 43-14, at the end of the first half but bouncing back in the second to make it a game.

Rockcastle responded in the final two quarters by outscoring the visiting Jumpers 35-16 but in the end Somerset held on for the 55-45 win to avenge an earlier loss to the Rockets. Rockcastle had defeated the Jumpers 67-62 on December 10th.

Somerset scored the last eight points in the first quarter to take a 16-9 lead. Things snowballed from there for Rockcastle as a disastrous second quarter saw the Jumpers reel off a 21-2 run en route to the 43-14 advantage at the break.

Coach Blanton must have pushed the right buttons in the half time locker room as the tide turned in favor of the Rockets who outscored Somerset 15-4 to pull within 18 points heading into the fourth. The Rockets showed a lot of heart and clawed their way back to within 10 with 3:38 to go at 52-42 but they would not get any closer as Somerset would hold on to the district road win.

The Rockets, who had been on a two game winning streak, now have a record of 5 and 9, 1-1 in the district.

In Tuesday night's game, senior guard Travis Carpenter led Rockcastle with 16 points, Josh McKinney added 12, Ben Allen, Ashton Arvin and Cody Noe each scored 6 and John Curtis Wilson 3.

The Rockets will take on the Pulaski Maroons (9-3, 2-0) this Friday night in the second game of a 47th district doubleheader at Rockcastle.

Senior Travis Carpenter goes for a three in the 55-45 loss to Somerset. The Rockets are now 1-1 in district play.

Sophomore Alexis Chasteen drives to the basket during the 61-26 routing of the Lady Jumpers.

2010 Year in Review

A record wild turkey harvest, the return of the alligator gar and south-central Kentucky received two new wildlife management areas, are just some of the highlights of the past year.

Here's a look back at the top 10 stories of 2010:

1. Hunters took a record 36,094 wild turkeys during the state's 23-day spring season, which closed May 9.

The record harvest was achieved despite high winds, heavy rains and extensive flooding which made the hunting difficult during the last two weeks of the season.

Steven Dobe, wild turkey biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, said he believed the foul weather had an impact on the harvest. "It rained the last two weekends of the season," he noted. "If it had been clear, I think over 40,000 birds would have been taken."

The final tally for the 2010 spring season was an increase of 24 percent over the 29,007 taken during the 2009 spring season.

Kentucky's wild turkey flock currently has an estimated 220,000 birds. The first statewide spring wild turkey season was held in 1996.

2. Dr. Jonathan Gassett, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, will serve as an officer for both a regional and national association of fish and wildlife agencies in 2011.

In May, Gassett was elected president of the Southeastern Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies (SEAFWA).

SEAFWA has member agencies in 15 states and two U.S. territories.

"Election as president of SEAFWA is a reflection of the esteem in which Commissioner Gassett is held by his peers in the other 14 southeastern states," said Bob Brantley, SEAFWA executive secretary. "It also speaks to their high regard for the leadership the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources provides in fish and wildlife conservation and management."

In December, Gassett was named vice president of the Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies (AFWA).

He previously served as the organization's secretary/treasurer, and currently serves as the vice-chairman of its executive committee.

"AFWA is a strong and unified voice for all 50 states, and I look forward to working with all of them in addressing the various issues that can benefit our fish and wildlife resources," said Gassett.

Over the past century, the organization has emerged as a powerful, effective and collective voice for fish and wildlife conservation. The association, headquartered in Washington, D.C., consists of fish and wildlife agencies from all 50 states along with more than 100 other representatives from the conservation community and the sporting industry, as well as territorial, provincial and federal fish and wildlife agencies.

Gassett came to Kentucky Fish and Wildlife in 1999 to head the agency's elk restoration and deer programs. He headed the department's Wildlife Division for four years, before becoming commissioner in 2005.

3. A restoration project hopes to bring back a native fish species absent from the sloughs, backwaters and bayous of western Kentucky waters for over 40 years -- the alligator gar.

Alligator gar restoration efforts, which began last year, shifted to the Clark's River in 2010. "We have stationary receivers to monitor the movements of tagged fish from tributary streams to the major rivers," said Paul Rister, western fisheries district biologist for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "We can track the gar stocked in Clark's River as they move into the Tennessee and Ohio rivers."

Alligator gar once swam in all the major rivers in western Kentucky. By the 1970s, the species had disappeared due to habitat loss for spawning fish and juvenile gar.

The alligator gar is listed by the Kentucky State Nature Preserves Commission as an endangered species.

Federal funds from the State Wildlife Grants program, administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, are being used to help fund the alligator gar restoration efforts in Kentucky, and several other neighboring states, including Missouri, Illinois and Tennessee. The restoration effort provides fisheries biologists a unique opportunity to learn about the alligator gar's biology, movements and habitat preferences in Kentucky.

5. In June, the department announced plans to acquire the 2,155-acre Otter Creek Park in Meade County and operate it as an outdoor recreation area.

The park, property of the city of Louisville, was forced to close for financial reasons.

Commissioner Jon Gassett said Kentucky Fish and Wildlife plans to reopen Otter Creek in 2011 with user fees offsetting operational costs. Activities at the park will include: picnicking, hiking, bird watching, fishing, hunting, camping, horseback riding and mountain biking.

6. In early August, the Salato Wildlife Education Center in Frankfort unveiled its new, interactive exhibit "Get on Board."

The entryway to the exhibit looks like the mouth of a Kentucky spotted bass. Visitors learn about the efforts of fisheries biologists to manage and maintain healthy fish populations. They also discover how fish hatcheries function, ways that fish populations are sampled and the funding for fishery management programs.

7. In mid-August, Gov. Steve Beshear appointed three new members to the nine-member Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Commission, which works with the department to establish policy and regulations.

David M. Williams II, of Reynolds Station, is an agent with Kentucky Farm Bureau. Williams will represent the Second Wildlife District. He replaces Dale Franklin, whose term expired.

Stuart N. Ray, of Louisville, is executive vice-president of Steel Technologies LLC. He will represent the Third Wildlife District. He replaces Tony Brown, whose term expired.

Norman "Joe" Fryman, of Paris, is senior vice-president of Kentucky Bank. He will represent the Eighth Wildlife District. He replaces Rick D. Storm, whose term expired.

Each term is effective through Aug. 13, 2014.

8. On Aug. 21, two new state wildlife management areas opened to public hunting in south-central Kentucky -- the 1,293-acre Marion County WMA and State Forest and the 859-acre Buck Creek WMA in Pulaski County.

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife, the Kentucky Division of Forestry and Marion County jointly own the Marion County Wildlife Management Area (WMA), which was purchased with money from the Kentucky Heritage Land Conservation Fund and the federal Wildlife Restoration program.

Buck Creek WMA was acquired through the Kentucky Wetland and Stream Mitigation Fund to protect this unique area and offer public access.

This program uses the Fee-In-Lieu Mitigation Fund to compensate for stream losses in each river basin across Kentucky as authorized by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Buck Creek WMA also offers access to anglers for wading, and fishing from kayaks and other small, cartop boats.

9. In October, a land trade involving 1,530 acres in Ohio County on Peabody WMA was announced which gives anglers access to 10 lakes and forested land that offers excellent deer and turkey hunting opportunities.

The acre-for-acre land trade gives hunters and anglers frontage along the Green River, and encompasses all of Ken Lake and the Boy Scout Lakes, some 190 acres of water.

10. In early November, Kentucky Fish and Wildlife announced a series of nine town hall meetings to be held across the state.

Commissioner Jon Gassett and managers of Kentucky Fish and Wildlife's fish and wildlife programs were on hand to answer questions, provide updates and discuss issues of interest to hunters, anglers, trappers, boaters and other wildlife/outdoor enthusiasts.

The goal of the meetings was a more informed and involved public.

Not many six year olds have their own successful business.

Nor do they have a grandmother like Jerry Raye Dick.

Ok, maybe Anna Katherine Dick isn't in charge yet, but her name is on the window of the unique two-year-old enterprise in Science Hill.

The only grandchild of Jerry Raye and husband Louie, and daughter of Charles, manager of Somerset Water Dept., is "owner-in-training" of Penny Lane Antiques & Collectibles and Anna Katherine's Tea Shoppe, according to her grandmother.

After a 20-year career with Pulaski County schools, the Science Hill native retired in 2003 while teaching seventh and eighth graders at Northern Middle School.

At first, the Somerset High grad of the class of 1963 thought about opening a tea room in the house on Ky 635 where she and Louie have resided throughout all but two of their 46 years of marriage.

Those plans changed when Louie's father offered to give her the historic building at 322 Main Street.

A research of the 150-year-old brick structure revealed it had served multiple uses, including housing a hat shop owned and operated by the late Lenora Bryant.

In more recent times, it served as a warehouse for the Davidson & Taylor Hardware Store once located next door.

It had sat vacant for 40 years when Jerry Raye took it over and had local master carpenter Art White renovate the interior, allowing for a large retail area in front and a tea-room with seating for 35 in the back.

The two rooms are separated by a kitchen where Jerry ("Who is known as an excellent cook," says Louie), prepares foods that keep customers coming back week after week.

Open only on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m., the food offerings draw a crowd of regulars, many of whom enjoy bringing friends along on first-time visits.

"One group of retired teachers meet here most every week, and there's one lady who always brings a new group with her....I love to see her coming," says Jerry.

"This place is Pulaski County's best kept secret," says Shirley Dick Walt, a 1969 Somerset High graduate, retired teacher, and recent first-time newlywed.

"I tell everybody I see about it because it's one of the most delightful places in the area," says the Science Hill native who taught in her home community and at Somerset High.

This is Jerry Rae's first business venture, but the daughter of the late Bill and Ada Broyles grew up around family members with extensive experience working with people.

In addition to farming, her dad was a much sought-after carpenter, and her mother, a long-time employee of the old United Department Store and Rose's Department Store in downtown Somerset.

An uncle, Herb Broyles, husband of long-time teacher Williana Broyles, was owner/operator of Farmer's Supply on East Mt. Vernon Street in Somerset.

According to Jerry, she has seen a decline in business for her retail merchandise, such as furniture, crafts and homemade decorations, but an increase in tea room traffic over last year.

But doing a brisk business was never her goal anyway, which is partly why she has limited operating hours.

"This is not a job, but a hobby," she says, while sitting in the dining area surrounded by elaborately decorated Christmas trees.

"I don't want to put a lot of time into it because I want to help raise my granddaughter properly."

Part of that rearing will come as she teaches the youngster how to prepare her famous tomato pie, bread pudding, chili, Hoppin' Johns (a dish consisting of blackeyed peas, tomatoes and rice), and a German dish made with sirloin steak and vegetables.

"One thing about it, she can't tell you a recipe for anything," says Louie, pointing to his head. "It's all up here."

Jerry is hopeful the business, which she says she started with the intent of passing it on to her granddaughter, will be the recipe for her success.

"I think it's important for youngsters to have something to do....something worthwhile to keep them out of trouble and off the streets.

"I realize Anna Katherine will probably not stay here, but it will be something of her own for her to do while she's still in school."

An encouraging word:

With Confidant Hope

By Howard Coop

A new year, often depicted as an innocent newborn baby, has been given to us. We are confident that, like all other years that have gone before it, it will unfold one day at a time; and at this point, only a few days of this precious gift is gone.

As we face the unfolding year, one thing is absolutely certain: We do not, and cannot, know what the year ahead will bring. Margaret Armstrong was right when, in a poem called "Another Year," she wrote, "The future path lies hidden; and shadows seem to fall across the way." But that does not cause us to despair. We are confident that, although hidden at the moment, the path will be revealed one day at a time, and we are confident that it will, like all other years that have passed, bring both a mixture of triumph and tragedy. But from past experience, we are confident that there will be more triumph than tragedy. That's the way life unfolds. Therefore, we face the unfolding year optimistically as we look forward to all the good things we believe it will bring to us.

Throughout his long and eventful life, John Wesley, that venerable spirit of eighteenth century England, faithfully kept a Journal in which he recorded his daily activities and observations. On January 1, 1789, when Wesley was eighty-seven years old, he welcomed the coming year by making this entry in that Journal, "If this is the last year of my life, I hope it will be the best." While we cannot know in detail what the unfolding year will bring, we can face it in that same confident and hopeful spirit, and we can believe that it will bring an abundance of good things to us. And with Robert Burns, the famous Scottish poet of the eighteenth century, we can face every day of the unfolding year with the confident hope that "the best is yet to be."

January is Thyroid Awareness Month A Low Thyroid

Presented by Dr. George W. Griffith

The thyroid gland takes a lot of blame when people have fatigue, weight gain, or a variety of other symptoms. In many of these cases though, the thyroid has nothing to do with the symptoms.

When the gland is actually too low or inactive the symptoms are often insidious and non-specific. Usually there will be constipation, dry skin, and an intolerance to cold weather. Later, there may be a moderate weight gain and fatigue. Some people may develop a lower voice, hair loss, or even heart problems.

The diagnosis of hypothyroidism can be made by simple blood tests that will tell your doctor exactly how the thyroid is functioning. If the tests are normal, it is generally not wise to "try a little thyroid" to see if it gives you more energy. Only when the thyroid is too low by laboratory measurements should it be treated, and then it is easily done with a medicine taken once a day.

When the thyroid is low, the supplement will need to be taken indefinitely; the thyroid is unlikely to return to normal. In fact, it is more likely that it will become less and less active, so yearly blood tests for the thyroid level are worthwhile, even after starting the medicine.

Since salt has become iodized, hypothyroidism caused by iodine deficiency has disappeared along with the large goiters that iodine deficiency used to cause. Now, if a person develops an enlarged thyroid, one must check for tumors.

If a person's symptoms are not explained, further testing should be done to look for diabetes, anemia, a low potassium, tumors, side effects of medicines, and many other possible causes.

Court approves budgets for county clerk and sheriff

In a much different atmosphere than in the past couple of years, the fiscal court Tuesday approved the 2011 budget, and maximum salary cap, for newly-elected County Clerk Danetta Allen.

Allen, who took over January 1st for long time clerk Norma Houk, presented the court with a total estimated budget for 2011 of $2,299,625. down from Houk's 2010 budget estimate of $2,467,600. Allen told the court that she only had figures through September of 2010 on which to base her revenue for 2011 but that she had lowered the budget because receipts through that date were down during the first three quarters from the estimated revenue for 2010.

Included in Allen's budget was $190,000 for salaries for deputies, up from the $180,000 set for 2010. Allen told the court that she planned to hire another full time deputy and a part time bookkeeper with the approximate $52,000 this would make available in the salary cap. Allen currently has the same deputies who worked for Houk, with the exception of Houk's husband, Russell, who also retired at the end of the year.

County Judge Executive Buzz Carloftis reminded the magistrates, including new members Gary Burdette and Lee Earl Adams, that the court has no authority over how the clerk distributes her maximum salary amount but that the pay level in the clerk's office for the past few years had created a "great disparity" among county employees' salaries causing "friction."

Carloftis reminded Allen that her employees were paid $15 to $18 per hour while jail employees are paid $9.85 an hour, road department employees from $11 to $13 and Gene Cromer, head of maintenance for the courthouse who is licensed in electricity, plumbing, heating and air, makes $3 an hour less than deputy clerks.

Allen said she understood the problem but "I'm keeping it (the salary scale) at what it is. The deputies didn't put themselves there and like everyone else whatever you make gets obligated."

However, Allen did say that while she anticipated very little overtime for her deputies (over 36-37 hours per week), they would be paid at time and a half rather than double time as they were paid under Houk.

After more discussion, the court did not raise the clerk's salary cap to $190,000 but rather told her that when she decided what positions she wanted to fill, the salary cap could be amended. Allen agreed to lower her maximum salary request to $180,000.

This action brought the total budget for the clerk's office to $2,244,308.33 and estimated excess fees of $55,316.67 for calendar

By: Sara Coguer

July started off for 2010 with more than just fireworks, even though the second annual Blast in the Valley was a huge success.

Over 450 people attended the Longest Day of Play held at Mt. Vernon Elementary and the county's real property tax assessment came in at $361 million.

The Harrison family finally reached Alaska on their quint bicycle after traveling over 7,000 miles to reach their destination.

July ended with Hannahbeth Owens taking home the 12-and-under State Junior Amateur Title, shooting even par on the final day of competition and 19-year-old Sarah McKinney of Mt. Salt, snow removal costly for county

By: Sara Coguer

Just as every other county in the state, Rockcastle County is feeling the burden and costs of the snow that has been pouring down.

According to County Judge-Executive Buzz Carloftis, the county has already spent the same amount on salt and snow removal this year as it did all of last winter.

Approximately 300 tons of salt has been used since the first of December, to the tune of $30,000, which is

Changes coming to Renfro Valley postal services

By: Sara Coguer

Changes are coming to the Renfro Valley Post Office, and may affect residents in the Renfro Valley area.

According to Tim Reynolds of the Post Office Review in Hazard, the Postal Service is in the process of reviewing potential sites in the Renfro Valley Community for a Community Post Office.

A final decision has not been made about the new location.

The difference between the current post office and a community post office is very little. The community post office will offer all the same services that customers can presently receive at the Renfro Valley Post Office at the same prices.

The goal for the new community post office is to actually extend service hours beyond what is presently being offered.

Customers who use post office boxes at Renfro will not experience an address change and will continue to use their present PO Box number and the last line address of Renfro Valley, KY 40473.

Customers that prefer rural delivery should contact the Mt. Vernon Postmaster concerning placement of rural boxes.

A last day of business date has not been determined for the Renfro Valley Post Office. Post office boxholders will be notified by a posting, in the Renfro

Update on school calendar

The Rockcastle County School System is in the process of updating its calendar for the school year due to the missed days for snow.

According to Director of Pupil Personnel Becky Issacs, the original closing date was May 4. As of Wednesday, the system has missed 9 days, and the new closing date is May 18th. Of course, any additional missed days will be tacked on to this date.

When the system misses 10 days, they can ask the school board to allow President's Day to be used as a makeup day. Also, a spring break is currently not on the calendar.

Students will not go to school Monday, January 17th in observance of Martin Luther King, Jr. day. This is a federal holiday, and systems cannot use this day as a makeup day.

ERWA water issues being addressed

By: Sara Coguer

Even though residents in the Eastern Rockcastle Water Association have had issues with their water being available since Christmas, the problem is being addressed.

According to ERWA representatives, the pump station that distributes water to customers has been having problems, but workers are currently working 70-80 hours a week to try and resolve the issue.

The association is also working with engineers from the Kentucky Division of Water to work out the several problems that the pump station is having.

Court gets big check from RCIDA grants

Corey Craig, chairman of the Rockcastle County Industrial Development Authority, was at Tuesday's meeting of the fiscal court to give them an update on the new industrial park and to present the court with a check for $781,859.95 as the first reimbursement from a $1.3 million transportation grant that RCIDA received from the state transportation cabinet. The work had to be completed and the state invoiced before the reimbursement could be made.

The court agreed to pay the entire amount toward a $2.5 million loan the county

School board accepts resignation of Cox

By: Sara Coguer

In their regular monthly board meeting, the Rockcastle County Board of Education accepted the resignation of board counsel Jerry Cox, which was submitted in a letter to Superintendent Larry Hammond dated December 21, 2010.

Cox's letter did not give a reason for his resignation but is reportedly because he is representing the family of a child injured in an accident at Mt. Vernon Elementary in a case against the board and their insurance carrier.

His representation as board counsel and of the family in this case would represent a conflict of interest.

In other business, the board re-elected Martin

Education and Refinement for Women Comes to Rockcastle

Many years ago, Mount Vernon and Rockcastle County, as a whole, was especially fortunate to have something most communities didn't have. Being nestled in the rural mountains of Kentucky made this educational institution even more rare. When considering this was an era when women were considered second-class citizens, therefore not deserving of an education, made the Langdon Girls School a shining example and a forerunner of the equality of women.

The Langdon Girls School was located on Williams Street on the site of the Dr. George and Martha Griffith property. It is currently owned by Albert and Catherine Payne. Next door, to the right, was the school's Home Economics building. It was a smaller, white frame house that still stands. It was built around 1917, but recently has undergone extensive improvements. The property is owned at present by Lynn Tatum, who like myself, has a passion for the preservation of old and historic structures.

The primary use for the Home Economics building was to house a site: a structure similar to a home, where the female students could learn the basics of housekeeping. This, of course, included cooking, sewing, and a variety of such duties. One of the "arts" of housekeeping for the era was weaving. Mrs. Cynthia Cox, a teacher of Home Economics at the school, had a loom that is still in existence today. It has passed through several hands, but has returned, with much effort on the part of Lynn Tatum, to her home, the original Home Ec building. Ms. Tatum hopes to preserve this loom and add it to a local historical museum, when and if such a structure ever comes into existence.

ROCKCASTLE MEMORIES

BY DAVID J. GRIFFIN

"I Only Have Eyes For You"

I was having breakfast with some of my friends at the local Dairy Queen a few days ago, when the conversation turned to songs that we remember loving to dance to when we were teenagers.

My friend Haydon Johnson said how he loved to dance to the slow songs of the 50's and 60's. He went on to recall that when we were at "sock hops," most guys didn't start dancing until the slow songs began to play. It was late in the evening when the slow songs began to play one after another. It was only then that the majority of guys would finally be choosing a dance partner and heading for the floor.

Haydon is very much like me concerning that "special" music era. It has had a hold on us from the time it arrived. It has never been a fading interest. On the contrary, the older we have grown the more we desire to hear those sounds. The more we can listen to, the better. (Which is why, of course, I HAD to get satellite radio in my Tahoe.)

Reflecting on those times took me back to the places where my high school friends and I danced when we were students at Mt. Vernon High School. I gave Bud Cox a call, and we remembered that, most of the time, we either danced at his house, my house, or at Nancy Helton's home on Fair Ground Hill. (I agree with Haydon that most guys didn't dance enough to fast songs, but most were quick to get on the floor when slow love songs began to play.) Bud was the exception to that rule because he was a great dancer, no matter what type of music was playing.

Bud and I began to list our favorite slow songs and were surprised that we both included several of the same songs on our individual lists. The ones that we both named were: Only You (The Platters), Dedicated To The One I Love (The Shirelles), Endlessly (Brook Benton), It's All In The Game (Tommy Edwards), I Wanna Walk You Home (Fats Domino), and My Happiness (Connie Francis).

My personal list included the following songs that Bud did not name:

Put Your Head On My Shoulder (Paul Anka), At Last (Etta James), Love Me Tender and Are You Lonesome Tonight (Elvis), Chances Are (Johnny Mathis), You Send Me (Sam Cook), True Love Ways (Buddy Holly), I Can't Stop Loving You (Ray Charles), Your Precious Love (Jerry Butler), My Girl (The Temptations); and my favorite song to dance to, I Only Have Eyes For You (The Flamingos).

I have a hard time believing that there is a single sole from my generation who does not recall those records playing on a 45 rpm record player. And if the memory of hearing any of them is because they were playing on your car radio late in the evening, then I do believe that the recollection is probably even sweeter!

Take a step back in time with me and enjoy the lyrics to I Only Have Eyes for You. Does this song make the hair on the back of your neck stand at attention? Did you hold your special girl very close when this 45 played?

My love must be a kind of blind love
I can't see anyone but you
Are the stars out tonight?
I don't know if it's cloudy or bright
I Only Have Eyes For You, Dear.
The moon maybe high but I can't see a thing in the sky,
'Cause I only have eyes for You.
I don't know if we are in a garden,
or on a crowded avenue.
You are here
So am I
Maybe millions of people go by,
but they all disappear from view,
And I Only Have Eyes For You.
As you probably know by now, I am fanatical about

Points East

By Ike Adams

Oh well. So much for New Year's Resolutions and good intentions.

My first resolution was to consistently get my column out no later than first thing Monday mornings.

I have not yet been able to get started on that one. I dutifully prepared my column on Sunday night, January 2 only to discover that my internet service provider was down. Of course it stayed that way until mid-afternoon, Tuesday, January 4.

This week, when I sat down to write, I discovered that the software on my computer was locked up as a result of letting too many novices play around on it over the week end. It is now 2 a.m., but, after spending most of the day and night re-loading and rebooting etc., I have finally cussed the damn thing back into cooperation. You might want to try this yourself. When all else fails, get right up in your computers face and vent your wrath and maybe even slap it around a little bit. I'm reasonably convinced that was the ultimate solution to my problem.

However, this also caused me to break my second resolution which was to stop cussing out loud.

For many years I have consistently resolved to quit smoking and sometimes made it stick as long as 30 days. Knowing that it would not stick again this year, I resolved to put my ash tray on a table out on the front porch and, when I had to have a fag, I'd go out there to smoke it. That one didn't even last a day because the temperature started dropping to single digits around dark while the wind gusted consistently between 10 and 35 mph. I found it impossible to light a smoke, much less actually smoke it with gloves on.

So I compromised. I would go into the utility room, then half-way down the basement steps and turn the stairwell into a smoking lounge. That one lasted for about a week until Loretta started complaining that the smoke was venting upwards into the laundry room and

January is National Birth Defects Prevention Month

Early Care of Pregnancy is Important

Presented by Dr. Kimberly Cornelius

In spite of the excitement of becoming pregnant, many women do not seek medical care as soon as they should. However, there are many reasons for seeing your doctor as soon as possible.

It is very early in the pregnancy that the major risk of complications occur. These complications include both accidental harm to the developing baby, such as from exposure to x-rays, infections or medicines, and the unavoidable complications, such as miscarriages and tubal pregnancies.

Your doctor can also advise you about the risks of medicines, alcohol, tobacco, caffeine and other substances. These can be harmful, especially if taken in the first few months of the pregnancy.

Early in the pregnancy your doctor will prescribe vitamins which will provide extra nutrition to the mother and the developing baby. Iron is important, and folic acid helps prevent the risk of defects of the brain and spinal cord.

Many medical problems which may affect a pregnancy can be discovered early and treated to help avoid the potential complications they carry. These illnesses include diabetes, anemia, high blood pressure and hereditary illnesses.

Genetic counseling may be important for couples who are likely to be carriers of certain genes that can cause birth defects or miscarriages. Also, if a woman is over 35, she may benefit from genetic studies.

Early and regular prenatal care will give you the healthiest baby possible. It is even wise to have an exam and discuss potential risks with your doctor before conceiving.

An encouraging word:

The Countenance is Revealing

By Howard Coop

For several months, I had not seen one of my friends. Then, one morning I, unexpectedly, met him. When I saw him, I was surprised; there was something about him that was oddly different. The expression on his face was vastly changed, and everything about him seemed radically altered. For years, I had known him as an outgoing, cheerful man with a pleasant smile and an optimistic outlook. But that morning the pleasant smile with which I was so familiar was gone from his face; it was replaced by a very noticeably troubled look. Indeed, he was a vastly different person from the person I had known for so long. As friends usually do when they meet, we engaged in a pleasant conversation during which we discussed a number of things, but he never mentioned anything that gave the slightest clue to the change in his situation.

After some time elapsed, I met my friend on another occasion, and again he was a different person. There was another radical change in his look and attitude; he was the old self that I had known previously: a happy man with a pleasant smile and an optimistic outlook on life.

After a few moments, he told me that, for sometime, he had been dealing with an extremely difficult personal problem that, as he expressed it, had been "gnawing at" his heart, but things had worked out. A solution had been found, and the

LIHEAP to receive additional funds

U.S. Representative Harold “Hal” Rogers (KY-05) announced today that the Department of Health and Human Services will release additional funds to the Commonwealth of Kentucky this week for the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP). This will bring the state’s total allotment of block grant funds for the current year to approximately $57 million, equivalent to last year’s funding level. LIHEAP funds, administered through the Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services, help those households which must expend a high proportion of income for home heating during the winter months.

“In our region, home heating costs can put a strain on the budgets of every family trying to make ends meet. This season’s brutal cold spells and snow showers haven’t helped the situation,” stated Rogers. “It is critical that low-income families, particularly our seniors and households with small children, be able to keep their homes warm to avoid illness and assure comfort.”

The Kentucky LIHEAP program helps approximately 150,000 families in Kentucky, including many in the 5th District, pay their heating bills each winter. The Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services coordinates with Community Action Agencies across the state to provide recipient benefits. Customers can receive assistance with natural gas, electric bills, and bulk fuels such as propane, fuel oil, wood and kerosene. More information on how to apply for LIHEAP funds can be obtained at <http://www.communityactionky.org>.

Rogers has served Kentucky’s 5th Congress-sional District since 1981. With a focus on economic development, job creation, fighting illegal drugs and preserving Appalachia’s natural treasures, he has a reputation for listening to his constituents and fighting for the region he represents. my rock and roll roots as a teenager. I keep my automobile radio (XM) set on the 50’s and 60’s channels and sing along as I drive. I can sing the correct words to almost all most of the songs I hear.

During the days of Haydon, Bud, and me, the music was just too “cool,” and I believe that it gave us an advantage with our lady friends. What girl could resist an invitation to join us on the dance floor if the Flamingos were “casting their spell”?

We did not need flames, fireworks, or other gimmicks; we just wanted to hear the fine music and lyrics that were “oozing” out of the stereo speakers.

I suppose that was the reason most DJ’s saved the majority of their love songs until the end of their gigs. I can distinctly remember almost no one sitting while the last songs played. In those days, EVERYONE knew how to slow dance –and it was definitely your best shot at holding that special girl for just a few minutes. Girls liked to be held close – I remember.

(You can reach me at mtmman@mis.net I appreciate your suggestions and comments.)

This girls school formed in 1927 through the efforts of the Presbyterian Church. The church also still stands on West Main Street, and is now a private residence, after being remodeled. It is located to the right of the First Baptist Church.

Girls came from all over the state, and most likely some came from out of the state to take advantage of the educational benefits offered by the Langdon School. The girls wore matching uniforms. Locally, they were known as the “polka dot girls”, due to the polka dot blouses they wore. They had other clothing, such as plain white dresses for social occasions during summer, and dark blue house dresses. The polka dot blouses were worn under their navy suit jackets.

Since moving to Mount Vernon, I’ve had the opportunity to meet a “polka dot girl” or two. Even in advanced years, you could tell there was something unique about them. It was a real honor.

Next week, we’ll take another look at the Langdon School, Mrs. Cox, and the “polka dot girls”.

Remember that I’m looking for good stories about the county, people and the events in their lives. I causing all our clothes to stink. As of right now, I fire up in the kitchen, take two puffs and snuff it out. If the temperature is above 30 and the wind is less than 20 mph, I still go to the front porch. I realize that I’m gonna catch hell for smoking at all but I have not been able to quit. In fact, if I had all the money back that I’ve spent on gimmick medicines, hypnosis, and stop-smoking clinics, I could easily buy a few years worth of cigarettes.

Resolution # 4 is to clean out and organize my garage. We have a two bay job but there’s not room enough in it right now to park another lawn mower. My current plan on this one is to pull a Tom Sawyer trick on Jack and John, the Edwards twins both of whom have never seen a piece of junk that did not have potential. I will tell them to bring their pick-ups and that they can have anything that I don’t want. The inventory includes at least two weed eaters and three chain saws that won’t start, at least a thousand board feet of scrap lumber, two huge kitchen tables, three telephone wire spools, and that’s just for starters. They may have to make two trips between my house and Mt. Vernon.

My final resolution is to be a better husband and help-mate to my wife. That loud braying and cracking sound you may have heard coming from Paint Lick should not concern you. That was Loretta caught up in hysterical laughter and slapping her leg.

Enjoyed photo...

Dear Editor,

I wanted to let you know that I really enjoyed the photo that was submitted by Clinton Graves of the Sand Springs School Grades 1 thru 8 1948-1949. It was on page A8 of the Signal dated Thur. December 9th 2010.

I don’t know how many people looked at that photo like I did, but if they had or did they would have seen that the Teacher was Catherine Graves and along with Clinton Graves there was a total of nine (9) children with the name Graves, eleven (11) children with the name of Renner, four (4) Bullocks, and four (4) Isaacs. Those four surnames made up half of Mrs. Graves class of 58 students.

It made me wonder how many of those kids were related.

Thank You from RockIn 2011...

Dear Editor,

Hillary Rodham Clinton said, "It takes a village to raise a child." While a family offers the true support, guidance, and discipline it takes for a child to grow up a contributing member of society, a village can offer many things to help. One such offering is a safe environment for kids to celebrate and enjoy life! On behalf of First Christian Church, I Finally thanks to our speakers Quint Pottinger, Andrew Davis, and Sam Payne and to our bands Guest and My Heart Remains.

CHICKEN IN A BASKET

While at Berea, Will and I both worked at Boone Tavern in their dining room. The manager then was Richard T. Hougan, the author of three cookbooks. One of his most famous recipes is probably Chicken Flakes in a Bird's Nest. That dish is one of his creations still being served in today's Boone Tavern. This is my version of that famous dish.

4 1/2 cups frozen hash browns, thawed, drained
6 tablespoons butter, melted
1 to 2 teaspoons salt
1 can cream of chicken soup
1/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon sage
3 cups cooked chicken, cubed or shredded
1 cup frozen peas and carrots

Preheat oven to 375°. In a bowl, combine the potatoes, butter and salt. Press into a greased 9-inch pie pan. Set aside. In a saucepan, combine the soup, milk and sage. Stir well and heat just until warm. Remove from heat and add chicken, peas and carrots. Mix well. Pour into prepared potato crust. Bake for 40 to 45 minutes or until crust is golden brown.

CREOLE CHICKEN COMBO

I found this recipe in a newspaper in Ann Arbor, Michigan when Will was getting his MA degree. Money was fairly tight then, as he was a full time student. This recipe fit right into our budget. The left-over chicken mixed with all the spices made a nutritious as well as tasty dish.

2 tablespoons oil
1 medium onion, chopped
1 or 2 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 green bell pepper, chopped
2 cups chicken stock
1 large tomato, peeled and chopped
Dash hot pepper sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup uncooked white rice
2 cups cooked chicken, bite-sized pieces
1 medium green onion, chopped
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Sauté onion, garlic and green pepper in oil in heavy saucepan until tender but not browned, stirring occasionally. Add stock, tomato and seasonings. Bring to boil and stir in rice. Cover and simmer until rice is almost tender and most of liquid is absorbed, about 18 minutes. Stir in chicken and heat thoroughly, about 5 minutes. Sprinkle with chopped green onion and parsley.

Ashley Bullock, daughter of Shane and Paula Bullock graduated December 17, 2010 from the University of Kentucky with an English degree in College of Arts and Sciences. She is shown here with her parents, Shane and Paula; grandmother, Mary Bullock and sisters Courtney and Kristin Bullock.

Alfred Carpenter was misidentified as his twin brother Ralph during the Mt. Vernon Christmas Parade. Also, Harris Burton was misidentified as riding a bike during the Brodhead Christmas parade. We are sorry for these errors.

Lady Rockets on a roll; beat PC and Clay

The Rockcastle County Lady Rockets continued their winning streak against in-state teams by knocking off 47th district foe Pulaski County 61 – 31 last Friday night at Rock Arena. The win moved Rockcastle’s record to 12 – 1 on the season and 3-0 in the district.

The Lady Rockets jumped out 8 – 0 in the first quarter in route to a commanding 18 – 6 lead after the first quarter. Another 11 – 0 run to begin the second quarter helped Coach Noble’s squad secure a 33 – 11 advantage at the half.

Rockcastle came out of the break where they left off and outscored the Lady Maroons 19 – 9 to go up 49 -20 after three quarters of play. The Lady Rockets won the fourth quarter as well, 12 – 11 for the final of 61 – 31.

Coach Noble was impressed with her team’s defense, as no player for the Lady Maroons hit double figures. “Our team defense has steadily improved and that is one of the reasons why we have had the success that we have had so far,” said Noble.

Noble was also impressed with the play of junior forward Kadi Cobb who has come off the bench to give solid minutes with her defense and rebounding, “Kadi has made us a really deep team in the post by her play of late.”

Three Lady Rockets got into double digits including an off the bench 17 point performance from sophomore guard Micheala Hunter, that tied for top game scorers with senior point guard Angie Lawrence who also contributed 17 points.

Coach Noble was impressed with the play of Hunter saying, “That is a huge lift when our team can get that kind of production.

It really makes it difficult for other teams to scout us because we have had different players contribute in a big way. When someone is not making shots we have always had someone step up for us.” Senior center and Miss Basketball candidate Sara Hammond turned in another fine game adding 10 points.

Other Lady Rockets hitting the scoring column included: Shanlee Burton, 6; Sydney Arvin, 5; Ella McQueary, 2; Kadi Cobb, 1.

LADY ROCKETS vs. CLAY COUNTY

The Lady Rockets traveled to Manchester, Kentucky to take on the Lady Tigers of Clay County in a top 25 matchup. Rockcastle ranked #1 in the 12th region and number 4 in the state according to Dave Cantrall’s Rating the State system. They would get a big test on the road to keep their 9 – 0 record against in-state teams going as they faced the Lady Tigers, who are rated #1 in the 13th region and #12 in the state based on the same rating system.

It would be the Lady Rockets, however, getting the best of their longtime rival of the 49th district and the 13th region, earning a hard fought win 54 – 45 to improve their record to 13 – 1. Clay County dropped their record to 7-4 on the year.

Even though Sara Hammond, who was hampered by foul trouble much of the night, only contributed seven points, her presence was definitely felt on the defensive end by recording eight blocks on the night.

The guard play picked up the slack in offense as Angie Lawrence, who is averaging Senior point guard Angie Lawrence drives the ball in Friday’s action against Pulaski County.

Sara Hammons scores two of her ten points in Friday night’s 61-31 route against district rival Pulaski County.

Center Ben Allen waits for a rebound in Friday night’s action against Pulaski County. The Rockets are now 1-2 in district play.

The Rockets and Lady Rockets travel to Casey County Friday night.

The RCHS Cheerleaders cheered on both the boys and girls teams during Friday night’s home action against rival Pulaski County. The girls upped their district record to 3-0, and the boys dropped to 1-2.

Rockets fall to 1-2 in district

Slow first half starts have plagued the Rockcastle Rockets this season and if they were going to knock off district rival Pulaski County who is the #1 rated team in the 12th region according to Dave Cantral’s Rating the State, the Rockets would need to get off to a fast start.

The opening two minutes of the game went well for the Rockets as they held a 6 – 1 lead over the Maroons and the possibility of an upset was brewing in Rock Arena.

That feeling quickly faded as the Maroons outscored the Rockets 30 – 2 in the final six minutes of the first quarter to go up 31 – 8. That knock out punch by the Maroons fueled an 80 – 42 victory.

One of the contributing factors to the lopsided victory was that the Rockets shot 25% from the field, including going an ice cold 3 of 13 from beyond the three point line.

Coach Blanton noted the lack of shooting as well as the 12 turnovers that Pulaski’s press created in the first half. “We can’t turn the ball over like that and give them easy opportunities to score and then when you have an off night shooting like we did it you get the results that we got.”

Sophomore forward Ben Allen turned in a solid performance for Coach Blanton’s squad by scoring seven points and claiming nine rebounds. Junior forward Jaden Brock, who is averaging 2.7points per game, turned in a nine point performance.

Another bright spot for the Rockets that came in the first half was the play of freshman reserve guard Corey McPhetridge, who came off the bench for all of his 8 points, all coming in the second quarter.

Other Rockets getting into the scoring column: Travis Carpenter, 6; Josh McKinney 4, Tyler Smith 3, Ashton Arvin 2.

For the Rockets the loss dropped their record to 5 – 10 overall and 1 – 2 in the district, with Pulaski improving their record to 10 – 3 overall and 3 – 0 in the district. Rockcastle’s next opponent will be Casey County on the road in another district game, tip – off is slated for 8:00 in Liberty, Kentucky.

Senior point guard Josh McKinney guards a Pulaski County player during Friday night’s loss.

Junior guard Cody Noe looks for the ball in Friday night’s action against Pulaski County. The Rockets lost 80-42.

15.2 points per game, turned in another solid game by coming up with 24 points in the win. Senior guard Sydney Arvin doubled her average output of 6.3 points by contributing 13 points.

Coach Chrysti Noble was happy with how her team responded to adversity on the road by saying, “Our kids made some big shots at key times. Sara (Hammond) was a force in the paint tonight for us on defense. We tried to change defenses to keep them off balance and the kids did a good job of that.”

The Lady Rockets were short handed as one of their starters, senior guard Kristen Abney did not dress because of illness. A theme this year for the Lady Rockets has been having different players contributing in different games. Noble expressed that sentiment again in talking about Arvin’s performance. “Sydney made some big shots for us tonight, even though we did not have Abney, Sydney took up the slack, that is what team is all about.”

Other Lady Rocket scoring: Shanlee Burton, 6; Micheala Hunter, 4.

The brutal part of their schedule will continue this week for Coach Noble’s squad as they will now turn their attention to district rival and the #4 rated team in the 12th region, Casey County this Friday night in Liberty, Kentucky, tip – off is scheduled for 6:00 p.m.

The Lady Rockets will then have to bounce right back and in less than 18 hours to take on the #3 rated team in the 14th region, Breathitt County in a rare Saturday matinee, tip-off will be noon at Rock Arena.

Court

year 2011.

Sheriff’s Budget

Sheriff Mike Peters also presented his budget to the court for their approval and the sheriff’s budget also showed a reduction in the total over the 2010 level of around $30,000. The difference ties back to the fact that, in years past, the fiscal court has reimbursed the sheriff’s office for its employees matching social security, health insurance and retirement benefits which has to be shown as revenue in their budget. The sheriff’s office decided to let the fiscal court just pay the benefits straight to the IRS and state. The sheriff’s budget shows $470,400. expected in revenue and disbursements of $468,586, including $260,000 for salaries - down from $280,000 in 2010. Dale McNew, the sheriff’s bookkeeper, also told the court that revenue from property tax collections was down for 2010, and the trend was expected to continue because of the economy.

According to the maximum salary request by the sheriff, the $260,000 assumes 11 employees, including part time, $20,000 for over time and $15,000 for increases in pay for HIDA (deputy paid by the DEA) and court security officers.

According to Carloftis, the court supplemented the sheriff’s department $275,000 in 2010 which includes matching employee benefits and $24,000 a year fuel allowance. Peters pointed out that calls to his office have increased dramatically with 1347 calls for assistance being received in December, up from 490 calls two years ago. He also told the court that some of his deputies haven’t had a raise in pay in four years and some are making as much as $2 an hour less than city policemen.

Carloftis commented that the fiscal court was caught in the middle because the sheriff’s department could not operate effectively without manpower and they couldn’t afford enough manpower without the fiscal court’s help. “The court is not required to help the sheriff’s office with health insurance, gas, etc. and we have to bite the bullet sometimes,” Carloftis said. To which Peters responded that without the court’s assistance, “it would be me and one deputy and you could expect a lot of calls for assistance to not be answered.”

The court approved the sheriff’s budget as presented, although McNew said there would be an amended budget presented at a later date after the final operating figures for 2010 were known.

In other action, the court approved an extension of their contract with the Commonwealth Attorney’s office for the “Rocket Docket” program; approved a $82,500 claim by Ford Contracting for replacement of the Piney Branch Road Bridge -- of which the county will be reimbursed $66,000 by the state’s rural and municipal aid fund; approved payment for three new snow plows of $13,218 total and three salt beds of $9,750 total and approved an expenditure of $7,756.29 for relocation of utility lines on the Merritt Cemetery Road so that a slip can be repaired. This expense will be reimbursed by FEMA.

took from KACo which provided the upfront costs for the project. There is still about half a million to be reimbursed to the county from that grant.

Two other grants were also obtained by RCIDA for the park. One, a $338,000 grant for a road inside the park has been totally reimbursed and a $620,000 70/30 matching grant for infrastructure at the park, which still has $50-$60,000 left to be reimbursed to the county.

Craig told the court that the new industrial park is an asset second to none, “in terms of what we can deliver to potential employers.”

“We have a master plan for the park which enables us to, within 24 hours, give a prospect a conceptual drawing of a structure on a site with costs. We are now competitive with the world for industry,” Craig said.

Later in the meeting, the court decided to place the entire reimbursement toward the KACo loan to reduce the county’s indebtedness.

October came to a close with a still unsolved murder. Jacob Alcorn, of Mt. Vernon, was found shot to death in his home on White Rock Road, and four people were arrested, after a routine traffic stop, when police found the materials for manufacturing methamphetamine. Angela Morris, Travis DeBord, Paul McNew, and Jeffery Mullins were all arrested.

Forest fires torched several hundred acres and one barn after a severe drought in the county and a total burn ban was put into effect.

Two Mt. Vernon families lost their homes to fires. Jack and Patty Taulbee’s and Johnny and Lori Eaton’s homes both fell victims to electrical fires that totally destroyed both homes.

November saw the general election roll around with incumbent County Judge-Executive Buzz Carloftis holding on to his seat by less than 200 votes over Doug Bishop, and Michael Bryant, Sr., winning the Mt. Vernon mayoral race by 30 votes over Gary Cromer.

William Renner was arrested after an altercation at the county attorney’s office, and Good Samaritan Cletis Brown, Jr., pulled Natasha Isaacs from her vehicle after she wrecked on Big Cave Road.

The Mt. Vernon Christmas Parade ended in a police chase down Main Street when Timmy R. Coots failed to comply with the detour around the parade, and students missed an entire week of school due to a large winter storm dumped four inches of snow on the ground with exceedingly cold temperatures not helping the situation.

Northern will create baskets January 15th

On Saturday, Jan. 15, Janet Northern of Mt. Vernon will create baskets using honeysuckle vines and willow bark from 10:30 a.m. – 3:30 p.m. at the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea.

Janet Northern has been making baskets for 13 years and is primarily self taught. She utilizes the wood and natural vines that she finds and gathers in the region surrounding her Rockcastle County farm to create her baskets. The eastern Kentucky woodlands give Northern inspiration as well as material from which to work.

To prepare the honeysuckle vines, Northern boils the vines for 30 minutes and then strips off the outer bark to reveal the honey colored, pliable surface of the vine. When the vines are freshly cut they are pliable, but over time they dry out and need to be soaked in water to re-soften them. Northern's smaller baskets are often made with reed and driftwood.

Starting with an interesting piece of wood, she begins to design her asymmetrical one-of-a-kind basket forms, often creating multiple openings. She soaks the honeysuckle vines in water, attaches them to the piece of wood chosen, and begins to weave her forms into asymmetrical and beautiful shapes.

Northern also creates baskets from the inner bark of willow trees. These are usually started with a criss-cross pattern and a square bottom. She tapers the willow bark into varying widths depending on the size and function of each basket. The bark is kept supple by soaking it in water before weaving.

Works by Janet Northern are regularly found at the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea, located at 975 Walnut Meadow Road, just off Interstate 75 at exit 77 (Berea). The center's exhibits, shopping and travel information areas are open daily. Winter Hours in effect from Jan.

Memories of “olden times” in Rockcastle

We have two special memories about the old times in Rockcastle County. Maybe some of these memories will refresh some of your own, and we will gladly run any memories that celebrate the uniqueness of Rockcastle Countians.

The first memory is from Loretta Bales Terry and is of her school days in Mt. Vernon and the second is written by Nivra Ann Senters about Wilbert and Pauline Bustle-Kincer of Luner, Kentucky. Enjoy!

By: Loretta Bales Terry

Way back about a hundred years ago (well, not really, it was more like seventy-five), I first started my education in Mt. Vernon in a three room schoolhouse.

It was located on Richmond Street behind what is now a vacant convenience store. The shotgun building housed kindergarten, first and second grade with a path leading to two outhouses. On the inside there were heating stoves and water buckets complete with common dippers. I do not remember there being any playground equipment.

My mother enrolled me in kindergarten there in 1935. I went for a short time until someone came to school and gave some of the kids oranges but I got none. I went home crying and my mom tried to explain some kids' parents could not furnish oranges for them. That was my first encounter with the words depression and relief. None the less I refused to go back and spent the rest of that year at home. At four years old I had become a kindergarten dropout.

The next year I was taken back to start the first grade. I do not remember too much about the lessons during the first and second grades except all the coloring we did on dittoed pages and having my left hand hit and having my crayons put in my right hand. It never worked. I am still a “lefty”. I must have colored well because I was passed each year.

I do remember the Maypole dance we did on the first of May to welcome spring and the play we did. The play was great. I still have a picture of me in my Little Bo Peep crepe paper costume with a pull toy covered with white crepe paper for my sheep. My brother, Bob was Little Boy Blue. When Little Boy Blue appeared asleep on a hay mound, my two year old brother, Jim loudly piped up from the audience saying “What’s Bobby doing in that haystack”. The audience roared with laughter.

During the summer break the WPA had completed the addition to the “big school” and the small school was abandoned so I started third grade there. It had inside restrooms complete with sinks to wash your hands and water fountains in the halls. I was amazed at the sunken gym and the shutters that could be pulled down. The new part of the school had six new classrooms, a library, conference room, principal's office and a lunchroom. The lunchroom was located downstairs under the library. It was equipped with picnic tables and benches. I learned to eat sauerkraut there by mixing it with my mashed potatoes.

The principal's office had formerly been upstairs above the entrance to the school. Later that office was used as a kindergarten classroom. Mazie Bussell taught there. The library also served as study hall. When I was a freshman and began to change classes my two older brothers, Henry and Bob and I had study hall at the same time.

I remember Miss Ruby (Bullock), Miss Shirley (Miller), Miss Nancy (Helton) and Miss Mollie (Bryant) the most during my grade school years.

I had a Mr. Brown in the sixth grade. He was the only male teacher I had ever had and I was scared to death of him. But when a classmate and I were throwing a ball in the room and it just happened to break a window, he was nice about it. My dad was not when he had to replace the window. Mr. Champ was the principal and we were all afraid of his “electric paddle”. I dearly loved Miss Nancy and Miss Mollie.

Miss Nancy, my third grade teacher taught me a lesson that has stayed with me throughout my life. The town dump was located in front of the school and we were forbidden to go there. During the winter water would collect there and freeze. Needless to say the temptation was too great. During recesses we would sneak off the school grounds and go there to “ice skate”.

One day in our excitement of gliding on the pond, we did not hear the bell ring so we overstayed. When we finally returned to class Miss Nancy had this sentence written on the blackboard “If I do not do as I am told I will suffer the consequences”. We had to write it 100 times for our punishment.

I have never forgotten the correct spelling of consequences or what it meant.

Miss Mollie taught me to crochet a chain stitch. It was not an easy job because of my left-handedness. It took me forever to watch what she was doing and adjust to it.

Each class had two soft balls, two bats and a jump rope. There were swings on the playground. Even with this limited equipment, I never remember ever feeling deprived. We could hardly wait for recess to grab a ball and bat and find a place to start a game. Once when I was standing too close to the batter, she slung the bat and hit me knocking all the wind out of me.

When we reached the

seventh grade Miss Ruth was our home room teacher, moved on with us to the eighth grade and was still our homeroom teacher when we became freshmen. She worked so hard to help me believe in myself. She is the one teacher I will never forget.

At times we were excused from study hall to work in the cannery. It was housed in a building on the back part of the school property. There I learned to seal the cans and control the temperature of the pressure cooker so it would not get too high and explode.

Mrs. Haynes, the home ec teacher tried to teach me to sew but I had trouble with the instructions. When I made a princess style dress I sewed the middle panels on the sides. I got a very bad grade on that one. I did get better though when she taught us to make French felt seams on baby kimonos. We made a great number of kimonos, I suppose for relief babies who needed clothes.

In my sophomore year the chorus was invited to sing on the radio so we all went to the barn at Renfro Valley and sang “Kentucky Babe”. It was done for a delayed broadcast so I got to hear it later that day. I know we thought we sounded very good but when I heard it I thought it was the worst caterwauling I had ever heard.

Boys’ basketball dominated the gym. The Red Devils star player was Lawrence Harmon then. My brother, Bob and step-brother, Bud Mattingly named our youngest brother, Lawrence for him. I do not remember the cheerleader’s names but I do remember the envy I felt when I saw them dressed in their white sweaters with a big “M” on the front and their circle tailed skirts.

Once, for some reason I do not remember the high school girls were allowed to use the gym for an exhibition game. We had never played a basketball game there before and were not very good but we set the fans into an uproar of laughter when Jean Banks and I acted as centers to start the game. She was so tall and I was so short I could only strike air while she sailed the ball up the court. We were told Mrs. John Lair who was very much a lady screamed with laughter.

We were never allowed to dance in the gym because Miss McCord, the lady who donated the funds to build the gymnasium, stipulated no dancing could ever occur there.

I fondly remember Clyde Linville with his wide smile and his ability to understand what it was like to be a kid and Charlie Hines who cleaned up our messes and spent hours running his oiled mop polishing the halls and gym floors.

I recall Miss Dorothy Half who always has perfectly styled hair and Mr. Landrum who was so handsome. I understand they were married when he returned from service. I will never forget Bragg Thompson, the band director who spent hours teaching me to sing a song for the “Night Club” at the Halloween Carnival.....

Ahh, Mt. Vernon school day memories.

I left Mt. Vernon at the end of my sophomore year to live with my mother in Ohio. When I enrolled in school there for my last two years, I expected the same type of friendships, the same caring faculty and the feeling of belonging I had experienced all my life in Mt. Vernon but they never came. I was just one “very small frog in a great big pond”.

It took me a long time to remember to say “all of you” instead of “y’all”.

Wilbert and Pauline Bustle-Kincer of Luner By: Nivra Ann Senters

Wilbert Kincer and his wife, Pauline Bustle-Kincer had a post office and store at Luner, which was located in the southwestern portion of Rockcastle County,

Pauline was the postmistress and Wilbert ran a grocery wagon pulled by a team of mules. He would bring chickens, hams, and eggs to Livingston and trade them to groceries, taking them back across Sand Hill to Long Branch, along the Rockcastle River, Skaggs Creek and Luner.

He would stop along the way to sell groceries to the people who lived on this wagon road. My mother, Gladys Smith, and her sister, Mattie Poynter, were two of the people who bought from Wilbert.

I always got a candy bar (Milky Way or 5th Avenue) and if mom couldn’t buy one, Wilbert always made sure I got one.

Wilbert started his grocery wagon in 1936 and he ran it for 13 years, stopping in 1949. He then moved his family and grocery to the Calloway area, in the building that I now own.

They moved so their children, Will, Keith, and June could go to high school at Livingston. There were several country schools in their area, including Whitaker, Beech Grove, ad Rocky Bend.

Arnold Brown lives in what is left of the Beech Grove school. He told me that he had remodeled the building several times, and that there was only a small part of the old Beech Grove school left.

Whitaker rschool was in the area near Luner. The Rocky Bend school was on the Long Branch Road approximately 500 feet after you turned off the River Road going toward Sand Hill. It sat on the right side of the road near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Linc and Mattie Nicley.

There were several homes in the area, and some of the names I’ve heard from my mother were Faulkner, Clouse, Taylor, Nicley, Lankford, Wilson, Bussell, Bustle, and Blackburn.

I’m sure there were others, and some of the information I received from Pauline Bustle-Kincer, Arnold Brow and Coy Kirby, who is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Linc Nicley.

Some of the teachers that boarded with Mr. and Mrs. Nicley were Francis and Josephine Dickerson, Alma Pike, Jess T. Pike, and a Mrs. Wilson.

Allen sentenced last Friday to 24 years after guilty plea

Eddy F. Montgomery, Commonwealth Attorney for Rockcastle, Lincoln and Pulaski Counties, announced Wednesday that, Michael Allen, 29, of Mt. Vernon, was sentenced, on January 19th, in connection with a motor vehicle collision that left one woman dead and her passenger seriously injured.

According to Asst. Commonwealth Attorney, Jeremy A. Bartley, who handled the prosecution, Allen was sentenced following his plea of guilty to Manslaughter, Second Degree and Assault, Second Degree.

According to court records, on September, 2009, Allen crossed the center line, on U.S. 25 South in Mt. Vernon, in his pick-up truck and collided with a car operated by Juanita Davis. Becky Davis, the granddaughter of Ms. Juanita Davis, was a passenger in the car. Juanita Davis was killed in the crash. Becky Davis received serious injuries.

Circuit Judge Jeffrey T. Burdette allowed Allen to address the court. Allen apologized to the Davis family, as well as his own family, the prosecution and the court.

Arguing for the imposition of the sentence, Bartley drew a sharp distinction between the choices Allen had made

Students have specific interest in drug testing bill introduced by Napier

By: Sara Coguer

For the past two years, students at Rockcastle County Middle School have presented a bill during their Kentucky Youth Assembly to require welfare recipients to undergo random drug testing.

Even though the bills the students introduced were "mock bills," Kentucky State Representative Lonnie Napier (R-Lancaster) has introduced into the real House a similar one, House Bill 208.

This should be an exciting time for students to see how the legislative process works, especially since one piece of legislation is eerily similar to their own brainchild.

RCMS students Alaina Coguer, Rachel Cain, Kayla Cromer, Brianna Mink and Cheyenne Gilliam introduced a bill at the 2009 and 2010 KYA stating that Kentucky residents who received 50% of their income from state assistance would be subject to random drug testing.

If the person tested positive for illegal drug use, they would lose their state assistance and any minor children would be removed to protective services.

Representative Napier's bill, which has the backing of House Speaker Greg Stumbo, would also require random drug testing of adult Kentuckians who receive food stamps, Medicaid or other state assistance.

Also in Napier's version, which he plans to alter when the legislature resumes February 1, adults on welfare who test positive for drugs would lose their assistance, but could get it back by passing a drug test at a later date.

Even though the bills introduced by the students at KYA did not get out of committee, they are still very interested in seeing its fate in the Kentucky legislature. "I am anxious to see how far the bill gets in the real legislature," said 8th grader Alaina Coguer. "I'm hoping that the adults in congress take it more seriously than the kids did at KYA."

Grand Jury hands down 13 indictments

By: Sara Coguer

The Rockcastle County Grand Jury handed down indictments against twelve people Friday, January 14th -- Four on multiple charges.

Lisa Baugh, 27, of Eubank was named in two indictments on two separate charges, stemming from arrests by the Rockcastle Sheriffs Department in May, 2010. She was indicted on one count each of committing the offense of trafficking in a controlled substance, by selling Oxycodone, a schedule II controlled substance to a confidential informant. Bond was set at $25,000 cash/property for each indictment.

Tammy McCormick, 37, of Livingston, was indicted on one count of committing the offense of trafficking in a controlled substance, by selling Methamphetamine, a schedule II controlled substance to a confidential informant. Bond was set for McCormick at $25,000 cash/property.

James S. Bradley, 46, of Livingston was indicted, following an arrest on June 11, 2010, for trafficking in a controlled substance, by selling Oxycodone to a confidential informant. His bond was set at $25,000 cash/property.

Bobby Hensley, 28, of Orlando, was indicted for receiving stolen property by having in his possession property belonging to Lisa Willis Lamb of a value of over $500 and knowing it to have been stolen. Hensley's bond was set at $10,000 cash/property.

Arthur Bailey, 32, of Mt. Vernon was indicted on one count of trafficking in a controlled sub-

RCIDA discusses several items at regular meeting

By: Sara Coguer

In their regular monthly meeting, the Rockcastle County Industrial Development Authority discussed several items of business, including an update on their budget and the South Park business complex.

The authority has spent 78% of its appropriated yearly budget, for personnel, operating expenses, administration and debt services totaling $698,946.25.

They had estimated receipts of $898,096 for the fiscal year, including revenue from the county for their portion of the occupational tax, the lease from Sourcecorp and a cash balance of $356,000 as of July 1, 2010.

In other business, work is ongoing at the South Park business complex, with the authority beginning to complete the final touches to the park, including adding signage to the front entrance on Hwy. 150 and the side entrance on White Rock Road, as well as landscaping around Sourcecorp.

The RCIDA Audit Committee reported that an audit had been completed, in conjunction with an audit of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court, and the only finding was of a lack of adequate segregation of duties over some accounting functions.

The newly formed committee responded to the recommendation in the following manner: "In the short term the RCIDA Board realizes that this is not ideal, however we are managing the risk with monthly oversight of the financial statements at our regular board meetings as well as the implementation of our Audit and Finance Committees. In the long term, our goal will be to shift some of this process over to our newly hired

Ramblings . . .
A New Generation
by:
Sara Coguer, Editor

First off, I must apologize to newly elected magistrate Gary Burdette. I reported a couple of weeks ago that he was a retired farmer, and my information was incorrect. Magistrate Burdette is not retired, and I apologize for that error.

I was pleasantly surprised to see the headline in Monday's Herald-Leader about Representative Lonnie Napier's House Bill 208, requiring random drug testing for people on welfare.

The main reason is because my daughter Alaina, Rachel Cain, and Kayla Cromer introduced a very similar bill at KYA when they were seventh graders, and another group, including Cromer, Brianna Mink and Cheyenne Gilliam did the same their 8th grade year.

I hope the girls feel a little vindicated with this "real" legislation being introduced, because their bills went nowhere at KYA -- killed in committee. You go girls!

I have to admit that I am struggling with reading The Power of a Positive Mom. I received some encouraging emails from other mothers who were going to read it too, and I am just ashamed that I have only read one more chapter since I last spoke of it.

I can make all kinds of excuses about why I haven't read more of it, but the truth is it makes me feel bad because most of the time I do just the exact opposite of what it says to do. Who wants that guilt trip!

Honestly, I couldn't decide what to write about in my column this week so I thought, hey, read another chapter of the book, that ought to give you plenty to talk about and sure enough here I am.

Chapter three is about the power of positive words. I can't even use the excuse that I didn't know better, like so many grandmothers nowadays want to say about their own poor parenting skills back in the day.

If I have heard, "well, we just didn't know any better back then" one time, I have heard it fifty. Really? I find that hard to believe, but whatever works for you.

I do know better, but that sinful nature just keeps getting the best of me, and I often speak before I think. I have told my children and a lot of my former students countless times, just because it comes into your head, doesn't mean it has to come out of your mouth. Boy, do I need to heed my own advice!

And isn't the Lord's timing amazing. Just last night, before I read the chapter on positive words, Jason and I (I'm not about to leave him out of this) spent a good hour berating Alaina on her less than stellar performance in her basketball game.

Sadly in our family, there are no good cops. I know a lot of parents play good cop/bad cop with their kids, and we do too. However, when it comes to basketball, we don't.

Jason really does know a lot about how to play and I like to think I do, so we are pretty much on the same side - which is usually against the kid. When one takes a breath, the other usually starts back in, and it's not very positive. So imagine my guilt when I read that chapter after that ballgame.

Of course, it's all Alaina's fault, if she had only played well I could have poured praise down upon her and she could have gone to bed feeling like a million bucks, but no . . .

I'm joking of course, Jason and I take full responsibility for our horrible parenting skills, and I have decided to get another copy of The Power of a Positive Mom and we (Jason and I) are going to begin a book study. Hey, he loves to inform everyone that he is the PCG (primary care giver) in our family, so I think he should have to share some of the guilt.

I know there is probably a father's version out there, but I mostly find those to be fluff. They tell men to "be men" and listen and lead and

Remembering good teachers

Last week I was honored by being named as chair of the Powell County Board of Education. After returning home, I started to reflect on how a rascal of a boy from Rockcastle County could achieve such a high honor. In considering how this success was possible, I came to the conclusion that my entire educational experience (student – teacher – board member) was directly related to the excellent teachers that I had in Rockcastle County many years ago.

My education started at Mt. Vernon Elementary School, where I experienced several of my best teachers. I am hesitant to single out which teachers were the most talented because time and space does not allow me to list every teacher who had an influence on my eventual adult outcome.

I was blessed to sit in the classes of many very good instructors who had a variety of talents that shaped my educational experience. Mary Ellen (Hansel) Rhoney expressed it best, "We attended a 'one horse school' that produced a great many well rounded and successful individuals. Our teachers taught the basic subjects so well. We were certainly blessed with our educational experiences."

One of the first teachers who made an impression on me was Ms. Alza Mitchell, who taught my 5th grade class. One reason that I consider her to be one of my best was because I was scared to death of her. She absolutely allowed no foolishness in her class. She was responsible for teaching me the multiplication tables, and she taught them well! I had started dreading those tables when I was in the third grade.

Another teacher who influenced my life was Ms. Dorothy Landrum. She was absolutely the finest science teacher of her day. In addition to having expert knowledge of her subject, she also had sound classroom-management skills. No horseplay was even considered in her presence.

When contemplating a column about my favorite teachers, I also decided to call several of my school friends and get the names of their choice instructors. The following also listed Ms. Landrum as being at the top of their lists: Mary Ellen, Sandy (Murrell) Ruter, Patsy (Cummins) Barnett, Eva Griffin, and Marty (Sowder) Cox.

My sister-in-law, Eva, discussed her impression of Mrs. Landrum in this way, "She was a very cordial and gracious person. You could always talk to her, but she

We have a Maine Coon cat who rode home from the pet store in my coat pocket as a kitten just before Christmas in 2007. It was one of those deals where the breeder found imperfections in her markings or whatever and she was not fit material for a cat show. She could not be registered and part of the deal was that she had to be "fixed" when she was six months old. So the guys at the pet store had marked her down to ten bucks.

Months earlier, our old Siamese cat, Socrates, had passed to the great beyond just before he turned his 18th year on earth and Loretta had sworn that she would never have another cat in the house. (Too much mourning and sense of loss when they die. Too much turmoil of the heart)

But I kept asking her; "What is a house if it doesn't have a cat in it?" And she had no easy answer.

As long time readers already know, I have this keen superstition about mentioning pets by their first names in the paper because they seem to suffer a quick demise every time I do so. Which is why I am not mentioning our current feline by her given name. So, for editorial purposes let's just call her Underfoot Pussyfoot. Or UP for short.

We had gone into the pet store to get fish food for Lo's aquariums and I saw UP hunkered in a corner away from the other kittens in the cage. She was not as big as my fist. I reached in and picked her up, much to the amazement of the store owners who swore that she was ultra human-shy and basically untouchable. But she took to me like apple butter to biscuits and she cuddled in the crook of my arm as we walked about the store. I suppose that I should say here that my wife has never seen a tropical fish that did not interest her which means that the shopping around took half an hour.

In the meantime, UP had gone to sleep there at my elbow and she and I had quietly fallen in love.

So, finally, I told Loretta that all I wanted for Christmas was this kitten and she finally acquiesced.

UP is now well over three years old and still growing and she is stunningly beautiful. The book says that Maine Coons grow until they are five years old. It also says that they are not lap cats, highly independent, but that they like to be around to "help" you do whatever it is that you are up to. In my case, UP is my constant on-site consultant whenever I'm doing anything inside the house. If I get up at night for any reason, she is immediately on my heel. UP fits the cat book description of Maine Coon from attitude down to the photo illustration.

When I am writing or checking email, she is never more than three feet away and her eyes follow my fingers on the keyboard. When I kick back on the couch to read, she sits atop the back behind my shoulder to make sure that I don't miss a word. When we take meals in the kitchen, she sits on the floor nearby to make sure that Loretta and I clean our plates. She doesn't beg unless she is hungry or if we are having fish for dinner and then she wants Purina in her food bowl.

Come bedtime, she either sleeps beside my shoes or

In Loving Memories

Nancy Williams, you have been gone a year now, the 22nd, but if you were here, I believe this is what you would tell your children and grandchildren.

"Grandma's Pearls of Wisdom"

I've traveled paths you've yet to walk Learned lessons old and new
And now this wisdom of my life
I'm blessed to share with you
Let Kindness spread like sunshine
Embrace those who are sad
Respect their dignity, give them joy
And leave them feeling glad Forgive those who might hurt you
And though you have your pride
Listen closely to their viewpoint
Try to see the other side
Walk softly when you're angry
Try not to take offense
Invoke your sense of humor
Laughter's power is immense!

Express what you are feeling
Your beliefs you should uphold
Don't shy away from what is right
Be courageous and be bold
Keep hope right in your pocket
It will guide you day by day
Take it out when it is needed
When it's near, you'll find a way

Remember friends and family
Of which you are a precious part
Love deeply and love truly
Give freely from your heart
The world is far from perfect
There's conflict and there's strife
But you can still make a difference
By how you live your life
And so I'm very blessed to know
The wonders you will do
Because you are my children
And I believe in you.

By: Travis T. Burton
Rockcastle Republican Party Chairman

“2010 marked a pivotal year in our nation’s history. Alarmed by the direction that the country was being taken, Americans from all walks of life decided that it was time to step up and make their voices heard.

The people of Rockcastle were not left watching on the sidelines. Citizens young and old were eager to do all they could to help turn the tide and take Kentucky and America back. Whether it was by running for office, making phone calls, putting out yard signs, or attending rallies, people got involved like never before in order to make a difference.

Up and down the ballot, Rockcastle Countians overwhelming responded to the message of lower taxes, less spending, and fiscal responsibility.

In the United States Senate, we will be well served when U.S. Senator Rand Paul joins U.S. Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell to represent our C o m m o n w e a l t h .

Rockcastle can also be proud that the Representative we are always proud to support, Hal Rogers, will be ascending to the Chairmanship of the powerful U.S. House Appropriations Committee.

Rockcastle Countians also made clear the type of representation they want in Frankfort. State Senator Jared Carpenter will be a valuable asset for our community and a fighter for common sense solutions in Frankfort. He will join our State Representative, Danny Ford, and together, I know they will be a team that will get things done for Rockcastle County.

All our local county offices will continue to be operated by proven conservative leaders. I know they will work well with the all Republican Fiscal Court who will be valiant stewards of our tax dollars and help our county progress.

Circuit Judge Jeff Burdette swore in our local officials three weeks ago. The state and national leaders have taken their post. 2011 is set to be a year of true change and real solutions that take our communities forward.”

Last week our new state senator, Jared Carpenter, was sworn in and began his service to the people of our county. Already Senator Carpenter has made big waves in Frankfort and worked tirelessly in the opening days of the 2011 session to advance legislation important to our community and all of Kentucky. He will be an asset to Rockcastle County.

Also, State Representative Danny Ford is a distinguished statesman whose service has long benefited Rockcastle County. I am excited, but not surprised, that members of the Kentucky House Republican caucus have elected Danny to serve as Republican Whip in the Kentucky House. He will be effective in promoting an agenda that will help take our state forward and his years of experience will certainly benefit our Commonwealth.

hug, and those are great, but they are a little vague for me.

I want a book written for men that when it says listen, it really means to put your cell phone down (or mute the tv or look up from the laptop) and look at your children and respond to what they have said, even if it’s a song about poop (which my seven year old is very fond of making up these days).

I want a book written for men that when it says lead, it means by example. For instance, and not that this is an issue in my house, a good man will do a load of laundry when it is overflowing in your hallway/laundry closet and a good man shouldn’t expect every one else in the house to applaud when you load the dishwasher.

Reading over my column, I realize that I am so trying to displace my guilt about my own poor parenting skills, and I have done a fantastic job! Applaud me all you mother’s out there just like me - clap, clap!!

“Points East”

bounces up to the foot of the bed and curls up as close as she can get to my feet without actually touching them. Several times a night she patrols her beat downstairs to make absolute sure no mouse is in the house. On at least three occasions, mice have made the mistake of entering our house and then venturing out onto a floor. I have found one, quite dead, on my pillow and two in my shoe but that was more than a year ago. Word is apparently out in micedom this winter I that UP is one tough cop and takes no prisoners. At least we haven’t seen a mouse or, for that matter, any sign of one since UP took on the job.

Once or twice a week she will hop up on either Loretta’s or my chest when we reading in bed and demand a bit of loving. She will quietly purr for 5 or 10 minutes as she graces us with her affection and then she hops back off as if to say, “That’s all you get this time. You can thank me later.”

When company comes, UP disappears in favorite hiding places upstairs. As far as she is concerned, Loretta, son Christopher and yours truly are the only humans with a place in her heart. When we have house guests for a couple or three days, she will venture forth because even shy cats have to eat now and then, but she does not socialize with strangers.

Right now she is sitting just behind me and staring down the monitor in case I misspell something. I reach down to pet her and she scoots back just out of reach as if to say, “I’m just trying to help but let’s not get personal about this. “

And that’s just fine by me. I appreciate the company and I know of none that would be better.

UP is easily the best Christmas present I’ve ever received and Loretta will readily agree that a home is not a home unless it has a good cat in it. UP proves that premise well beyond denying.

Education and Refinement for Women Comes to Rockcastle, Part II

Previously in the Roots series, the Langdon School on Williams Street was discussed as well as the Home Economics structure that still stands. It has recently been restored by the home's current owner, Lynn Tatum. It was built in 1917, and became the home of Vernon “Swift” and his wife, Cynthia Brewer-Cox who was the Home Economics teacher at the school. The Home Economics building was sold to the Cox family in 1938 according to the book called “Mount Vernon, KY”. This week, the Roots series will take a closer look at Cynthia Cox and her husband, Vernon.

Cynthia Brewer came to Mount Vernon in 1925 to teach at the Langdon School from Leslie County. After being in Mount Vernon a few years, she married a local boy, Vernon Cox, who was a bank teller.

Early in their marriage, they went to Santa Fe, New Mexico. She worked as a dietician, and he as a manual trainer in a Presbyterian girls' school.

About 1934, they returned to Mount Vernon where they later bought their home that was used as the Langdon School Home Economics facility, as the school was in the process of closing its doors to merge with the new high school.

Before being used as a Home Economics facility, it was used as a parsonage for the Presbyterian church. Also, from time to time, minor surgeries were performed there. Doctor Pennington from London came to perform the surgeries and nurses from the school assisted him.

During the Great Depression, Mr. Cox taught skills such as woodworking and masonry to local boys. It was during this time the stone wall was built around the park on Main and Richmond streets. He also worked for Cox Hardware for a time.

Vernon made his wife a loom on which she taught herself to weave. She became quite accomplished, and sold her rugs, along with Friday, January 21, is the last day to sign up for the Books for Bikes Program. Children ages 3-12 can sign up for the program. Books for Bikes is a program where children can read age-appropriate books from the library or from their school library and complete a form about the book. The form is much similar to a summarized book report and are only available at the library. The forms can be turned in all at once or you can return them as you visit the library. The names of the top ten girls and top ten boys of each age group will then be put in a basket and have their name drawn out to win a bicycle. The age groups are as follows: 3-5, 6-8, and 9-12. If you have any questions or concerns please call the Rockcastle County Public Library at 256-2388.

Please keep in mind that the library may be closed because of inclement weather. Sometimes the library will not open until Lady Rockets are 4-0 in district; beat Wayne Co.

The Lady Rockets found out on Monday that they had moved up to #2 in the Dave Cantrall Rating the State rankings behind only one team - Louisville Dupont Manual. They would try out their new ranking against the Wayne County Lady Cardinals Tuesday night at Rock Arena.

The Lady Rockets wasted little time in solidifying the new ranking and may have made a statement that they deserve the top spot as they rolled to a 65-41 win. The victory improved the Lady Rockets record to 16-1 on the season.

If the Lady Rockets were making the statement that they deserved to be number one then Sara Hammond made a huge statement to be Miss Basketball. Hammond led all scores with 22 points and claimed 12 rebounds and five blocked shots. The senior center also went an impressive 3-4 from beyond the three point arc and 9-13 from the field.

The Lady Rockets shot 60% from the field on 27 of 45, including an impressive five of eight from three point land. Rockcastle also won the rebounding edge 29-17, including nine second chance points.

Senior guard Ella McQueary continued her good play by contributing 12 points on five of six shooting. Kristen Abney added 11 points, going five of seven from the field. Angie Lawrence scored 9; Shanlee Burton, 7 and Sydney Arvin and Michaela Hunter, 2 each.

Rock vs. Casey

The Lady Rockets overcame a sluggish start on the road last Friday night against district rival Casey County, trailing 8-6 at the end of the first quarter, to cruise to a 46-37 victory. The win gave Rockcastle a commanding lead in the district with a record of 4-0 with remaining games at Pulaski County and a home game with Casey County.

Casey County was still without their star player, senior forward Megan Pittman and Rockcastle exploited that weakness in the middle to regain the lead in the second quarter scoring eight points in the paint as well as going 7-10 from the free throw line to take a 21-13 lead at the half.

If Rockcastle came out slow in the first quarter they made up for it in the third. A 10-2 run mid way in the quarter helped fuel a 40-20 lead going into the fourth quarter. Casey would not go down quietly and took advantage when Hammond, who led Rockcastle in scoring with 16 points, picked up her fourth foul with 4:49 left in the game.

The Lady Rockets missed three one and the bonus free throws down the stretch and went scoreless in the final 2:53 but was able to hang on for the 46-37 final. The win improved Rockcastle's record to 14-1 on the season, Casey dropped to 10-3, 2-1 in the district.

Other Lady Rockets getting into the scoring column: Kristen Abney, 10; Shanlee Burton, 9; Angie Lawrence, 6; Katie Cobb, 3 and Michaela Hunter, 2.

Rock vs. Breathitt

Back in the day, Saturday morning matinees were dominated by serials. The one characteristic of a serial is that there was always an element of excitement and anticipation of how the stories would come to a conclusion.

The Lady Rocket matinee last Saturday had none of the suspense that dominated the Saturday movie theaters of yesterday as they handily took care of Breathitt County 68-22 just 17 hours after they defeated Casey County. Ten different Lady Rockets got in the scoring column and were led in scoring by Sara Hammond with 15 points.

Rockcastle stormed out to an 18-4 lead in the first quarter on their way to a 33-11 lead at the half. The Lady Rockets outscored Breathitt 19-7 in the third to extend their lead to 34 points at 52-18.

Lady Rocket scoring: Angie Lawrence, 14; Kristen Abney, 5; Shanlee Burton, 8; Ella McQueary, 7; Micheal Hunter, 6; Syndey Arvin and Alexis Chasteen, 4 each and Katie Cowan, 3.

The next game for the Lady Rockets will be a doubleheader with the boys this Friday night at home against Casey County. The girls begin the action at 6:30.

Lady Rocket Notes

- Coach Chrysti Noble notched her 400th career victory last week against the Clay County Lady Tigers.
- Sophomore guard Micheala Hunter is 4th in the state in field goal percentage shooting 62.1% while senior center Sara Hammond is 7th at 60.5%.
- Hammond is 7th in the state in rebounding averaging 11.6 rebounds per game.
- Rockcastle is 5th in team scoring, averaging 64.2 points per game and ranked 7th in team defense only allowing opponent 42.3 points per game.
- The Lady Rockets are 4th in the state in field goal percentage at 48.1% and ranked 3rd in scoring margin, defeating teams by an average of 21.8 points per game.

Senior Kristen Abney goes for two of her twelve points in Tuesday night's action against the visiting Wayne County Lady Cardinals.

Sophomore Michaela Hunter runs the Lady Rockets offense in Tuesday night action against Wayne County.

Rockets lose to Wayne Co. and district rival Casey

Rockcastle welcomed the 16-1, and ranked #2 in the 12th Region, Wayne County Cardinals Tuesday night to Rock Arena. The Rockets were trying to halt a three game double digit losing streak but it would be the Cardinals who were red hot, knocking down 11 threes in the game to romp over the Rockets 76-51.

Wayne County jumped out to a first quarter 28-12 lead by nailing six threes. Rockcastle battled back in the second quarter, outscoring the Cardinals 16-10 and cutting the lead to 10 going into the break. The Rockets got within seven points at 38-31 early in the third when Travis Carpenter connected for a three, but that would be as close as the Rockets would get as Wayne County extended their lead to 17 points at 53-36 after three quarters of play.

The Rockets placed only two players in double figures and were led in scoring by Josh McKinney with 24 points. Travis Carpenter added 16 as the Rockets dropped their record to 5-12 on the year. Other Rockets who got into the scoring column: Cody Noe, 5; Tyler Smith, 3; Ben Allen, 2 and Tyler Harper 1.

Next up for Rockcastle will be an important district game rematch with Casey County on Friday night with tip-off slated for 8 p.m.

Rock vs. Casey

Rockcastle was looking to snap a two game losing streak when they traveled to Casey County to take on the 3-11 Rebels in an important 47th district match-up last Friday night. However, a long dry spell, where the Rockets failed to score a field goal for over seven minutes that spanned two quarters, sealed the 55-45 win for the Rebels.

The loss placed Rockcastle at 1-3 in the district and the possibility of finishing fourth in the seeding for the district tournament. The Rockets desperately need another win to avoid the fourth spot and having to face the number one seed Pulaski County who is also hosting the district tournament.

"Quality Care with a Mother's Touch"

Mamaw's Kitchen

By Regina Poynter Hoskins

Eating a piece of this cake is a pure pleasure, but its name provides me with the right place to relate this memory. Talking about it afterwards is certainly more pleasurable than living through it at the time. Do you remember where you were and what you were doing at exactly 5:04 p.m. Pacific Time on Tuesday, October 17, 1989? I was in San Francisco, but I wasn't eating a piece of this cake. I was actually experiencing a real, honest-to-goodness earthquake. We later found out that it registered 7.2 on the Richter scale. We were among the lucky ones. We were together, we were unharmed, the house was not damaged and we had wonderful neighbors. This recipe was already named by the time Ann's mother-in-law first fixed it for me. Eating a piece of this sinfully delicious rich cake almost made me forget all the bad things about one of the events for which it was named—the San Francisco earthquake of 1989.

EARTHQUAKE CAKE
1 1/2 cups coconut
1 1/2 cups pecans, chopped
1 box German Chocolate cake mix
1 box (8 ounce) cream cheese
1 stick butter or margarine
4 cups powdered sugar
Preheat oven to 350°. Sprinkle coconut and nuts in bottom of 13 x 9 baking pan. Prepare cake mix batter as directed on box; pour over nuts and coconut. Melt butter and cream cheese. Add powdered sugar. Spoon cream cheese mixture down center of batter—DO NOT MIX. Bake for 45 minutes at 350°. Let cool. Serve warm or chilled.

LEMON CHESS PIE
1/4 cup butter
1 1/2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1 tablespoon white corn meal
Juice of 2 lemons
1 unbaked 9-inch pie shell
Preheat oven to 325°. Cream the butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time. Stir; do not beat, after each egg. Add cornmeal and lemon juice. Mix well. Pour into pie shell and bake for 25 to 30 minutes or until a fairly hard crust forms on top. Chill.

to a 10-5 lead, with 3:41 left in the first quarter, only to be outscored 10-2 in the final three minutes to trail the home team at 15-12. The second quarter did not get much better for Rockcastle as they only scored seven points in the quarter and trailed at the half 25-19.

Casey County increased their lead to 10 at the end of third quarter and the home team looked to cruise from that point. Rockcastle had other ideas as they cut the lead to five at 43-38 with 4:49 left in the fourth behind five straight points by Travis Carpenter. However, Casey made 8-10 free throws in the final three minutes and the Rockets went 2-10 in that same time period to secure the victory for just their second win in the district.

Rockcastle Scoring: Travis Carpenter, 16; Josh McKinney, 11; Cody Noe, 9; Jaden Brock, 4; John Curtis Wilson, 3 and Ben Allen and Ashton Arvin, 2 each.

Frankfort Report

By Jared Carpenter,
State Senator

My first week in Frankfort serving as your state senator has been a whirlwind of activity. I was appointed to the important Appropriations and Revenue Committee, the Banking and Insurance Committee, the Capital Projects and Bond Oversight Committee, the Economic Development, Tourism, and Labor Committee, and the Education Committee. Further, I will be chairing the Budget Review Subcommittee on Education. These committees reflect my passions and will give the people of Senate District 34 a seat at the table on important public policy decisions. And with Senate Bill 4, legislation on public servant accountability, I even passed my first bill.

Going around my district, I heard over and over that the people demanded action. Usually, the first week is an organizational week during which the different parties elect their leadership. This year was different. We in the Senate moved aggressively on passing legislation regarding job creation, education, and transparent and responsive government. With the passage of these bills, the “Agenda for Prosperity,” very few can say that the Ky State Senate didn't move in a focused and determined manner to deliver.

Jobs and the economy are on the minds of many. Kentucky needs a clear and fair tax code that encourages current businesses to hire more Kentuckians and new employers to relocate in the commonwealth. Senate Bill 1 creates an independent commission of tax experts including economists and accountants who, with assistance from other interested parties, will review, revise, and most importantly, draft a new state and local tax system. If passed during the session, the proposal would be considered by the 2012 General Assembly. An independent panel without a political agenda has the best chance to overhaul an antiquated system.

Senate Bill 8 makes it easier for employers to cut through government red tape by consolidating on one website everything a business needs to file taxes or apply for licenses.

Education was a focus of mine in the Fall and I was pleased to vote for two measures that, if passed by the House, will have a positive impact on our children's futures. We passed SB 13 and SB 3. The former will offer financial incentives to teachers whose students do well in math and science advanced placement exams and the latter allows voluntary charter schools authorized by the local school district. These bills prepare students for the work needs of the future as well as provide parents with choice on the education of their children.

Five bills addressed the need for transparent and responsive government. My bill, SB 4, increases accountability of public officials by demanding more frequent reporting of campaign contributions, restricting contributions from lobbyists, and perhaps most significantly, moves the filing deadline to file as a candidate from late January to after the legislative session. In this way, the public will be able to review the full legislative record of any legislator.

Senate Bill 7 put the financial data from all three branches of government and universities online.

Senate Bill 5 requires any bill that deals with appropriations to be posted at least 48 hours prior to voting. Senate Bill 11 gives Kentucky officials another tool to aggressively go after those who attempt to defraud the state's Medicaid program.

The Senate also moved forward with protecting our traditional values. Senate Bill 10 protects Kentuckians' sovereignty under the 10th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution by banning federal mandates forcing the purchase of health insurance on individuals, prohibiting expanded gambling without a vote of the people, affirming the free practice of religion, promoting coal over environmental extremists, and guaranteeing the right to hunt and fish. SB 9 enhances the informed consent statutes already on the books by ensuring a face-to-face meeting between a woman considering an abortion and her doctor—as opposed to a recorded message—and requires doctors to make available ultrasound images of the unborn baby to the mothers. Finally, SB 6 is immigration reform that will help local governments uphold federal immigration laws.

It's been a long and productive week. The General Assembly will now take a three week break and then come back in February to consider any further bills as well as any bills that the House may pass. Please feel free to call me toll-free with any questions or comments at 1-800-372-7181 or TTY 1-800-896-0305.

Yards to Paradise

By Max Phelps
Walking in Darkness;
Looking for the Light of Springtime

Dark when you get up and dark when you get home from work? Since ancient times people have been gazing at that low-hanging winter sun in the sky and anticipating when it will begin to return and bring longer, brighter days. Though I'm no sun-worshiper, I do take note of winter's doldrums and that the days are headed towards longer and brighter times.

Similarly, our state and national economies are in a dark spell. I've been looking for glimmers of light at the proverbial end of the tunnel. While far from the sunnynights of five years ago, there are a few bright rays to look at and hope for better times.

One ray of hope came from a customer who is employed by a major bank. Expectations of a good 2011 from their perspective seemed obvious.

Another beam of light among the doom and gloom comes from a national survey of companies and professionals in the “green industry”. Slightly more job hirings and slightly fewer layoffs are expected versus expectations from the same survey done a year earlier. Polling is pretty accurate these days when the questions are posed in an objective manner. This looks mildly promising going forward.

Just like failed banks and corporations, individuals must sometimes go all the way into darkness via bankruptcy in order to start back at ground zero (from which point things indeed look brighter).

“It's darkest just before dawn” as the saying goes.

I've seen a few landscape companies fold up this year. I've seen a few garden centers and retailers close their doors. The farmer, the little guy, the grower seems to be hardest hit of all. (Always wanted to be a tree farmer? You can buy a whole farm full of seedlings in McMinnville, Tennessee for less than half what the same farm would have cost you a couple years ago.)

Those who don't have a lot of debt and those who are walking with the light shining on their financial statements will probably survive. For those wandering in uncertainty and in darkness, it may take longer for them to see some light.

Even in the Great Depression of the 1930's there was still demand for the skills of about three-fourths of the nations workers. We may all have to tighten our belts at times, but there will continue to be demand for skilled artisans who perform quality work. Ditto for fresh produce from the land.

The desire to relax in lush homes and yards, the desire to entertain and be entertained, will continue.

Yet, tough times bring out caution and thriftiness even among the more affluent or above average on the socio-economic 'totem pole'.

A more unsettling darkness than that of long winter nights, I believe, is the darkness our governments at all levels seem to be wandering around in. However, if I digress to hit more than one or two short beams of light on this subject, the whole paper would be filled, and there would be no treatise about creating a lovely yard at all.

Just a word before I move on: When an individual gets six months behind in making payments, he's lost his credit rating and is probably about to be foreclosed upon. A number of our cities and states are in such fateful circumstances.

And Uncle Sam's feverish running of the printing presses can have no other eventual consequence than that everything you and I need and want will cost more and more. Higher gas prices, for example, are not the fault of Arab sheiks or BP, but rather the nation's leaders and policy makers (and those who placed them into positions of power).

I cannot refute that we are in dark times, but the farmer and gardener, and landscaper too, seems eternally to find a glimmer of optimism the closer we get to springtime and a new planting and growing season. Things always look better when blossoms commence to burst forth.

The slow economy has chased away a few weak and unprepared companies and unprofessional individuals in many fields. Maybe that process is still ongoing. But the survivors should do a good business as things gradually improve.

Another ray of sunlight I see is that a number of people are growing a bit of what they eat, or buying locally more at places like farmer's markets. This can't help but be a good thing!

Pausing to be sure we really need or want that new item (whatever it be) for our homes and lifestyles is also not a dark thing. Indeed, it's sensible to evaluate and be sure in any decision we make. We can then be considered wise stewards of our blessings as we make choices that improve our lives.

So, as the days surely will increase in length soon again, let us look with optimism for a brighter new year.

Eagles’Nest Parent Group planning Winter Festival

The Eagles’ Next Parent Group at Roundstone Elementary is hard at work bringing together their Winter Festival planned for Saturday, February 5th. Proceeds from the festival, being held in conjunction with their annual Benefit Singing, Silent Auction and Cake and Pie Auction, will go toward completion of the new school playground.

Individuals, families, businesses, church, and other organization, are needed to sponsor games and prizes, as well as work their booth/game at the Winter Festival. There are two ways anyone can help. The first is for you to sign upfor a specific game and buy/order the necessary supplies needed for children to playthe game and to donate money to hel buyprizes. For example, if you chose to sponsor the Duck Pond, you would need to buy a plastic or inflatable pool, ducks and donate money to help buy prizes. The second way would be to donate a specific dollar amount, of $50 or more, and you will be assigned a game and supplies needed for the game will be purchased and the rest of the money put toward the purchase of prizes. Either way, sponsors will need to have two people to work your booth/ game. This would be a great acitivity for youth groups, clubs and community service hours for high school students. Any extra game/ prize donation money will be used as a donation to the playground fund.

Admission to the games will be with an armband costing $6 for the first child and $3 for each additional sibling, purchased in advance, or $8 at the door for the first child and $4 for each additional sibling. The armband allows children to play unlimited games to earn tickets for prizes or to go to booths to make crafts, get their faces painted, balloon animals, etc. All children or persons who play a game would win at least one ticket for participating and more for success at the game. The tickets are then saved and traded in at theprize booth for the prize or prizes of the child’s choice, based on the number of tickets won. Each child will be given a bag at the door with his/her name on it in which to keep the tickets.

By having community members and organizations sponsor games and prizes, all proceeds from armband sales will go to the playground fund. Sponsors will have the opportunity to pass out appropriate information about your church, organization or business and a poster at your booth will relate the name of the game and sponsors name. This would be positive advertising for your organization while helping the children at Roundstone Elementary.

Please read the volunteer sheet in this week’s Signal and sign up to help. We have lots of jobs that need to be filled with volunteers.

For more information/questions, contact Cynthia Wolfe Rogers or Tonya Parrett Clark at the school 606-256-2235.

Legislative Update

By Danny Ford,
State Representative
New Year Brings New Energy, Leadership for House Republicans

The start of a new year always brings hope for our community and our Commonwealth. This year’s legislative session is bringing new energy and a new outlook for House Republicans and all Kentuckians.

We kicked off part one of the 2011 Session of the General Assembly by welcoming ten new members to the House Republican Caucus. The ten new legislators raise the total number of Republicans in the Kentucky House of Representatives to 42.

The first week of the session is always a special time, not only for the new members experiencing it for the first time, but also for those legislators returning for the fourth, fifth, or even sixth time. Traversing the hallways and House Chamber that first day, one feels both awesome responsibility at our tasks and also humility at the trust and confidence voters in our communities have in us by electing us to represent them.

The beginning of a new session also represents a time of organization. During our first week, members selected those who will lead the Republican Caucus for the next two years. Representative Jeff Hoover of Jamestown was elected to a sixth consecutive term as House Republican Floor Leader. Representative Bob DeWeese of Louisville was elected to a sixth term as House Republican Caucus Chair and chose me to serve as House Republican Whip.

We also prepared for the second portion of this legislative session that will reconvene on February 1 by receiving our legislative committee assignments. These assignments, which we typically hold for at least a two-year term, allow us to have a hand in shaping legislation that affects many different sectors of our Commonwealth. This year, I am honored to be serving on Agriculture and Small Business Committee, Banking and Insurance Committee, Budget Review Subcommittee on General Government as a Liaison Member, and the Government Contract Review Committee.

With the organizational events and leadership elections out of the way, our focus is now on passing the legislative agenda we announced last year, “A New Day, A New Direction for Kentucky.” This agenda includes bills that, if passed, would make all bills dealing with tax dollars available to the public 48 hours before a vote could take place, and also post all government expenditures and contracts dealing with taxpayer dollars on line.

Finally, our caucus proposes that if we as legislators fail to pass a budget in a regular session, that we will receive no pay in any subsequent special session. Our past failures to pass a budget in a regular session have led to the unnecessary expenditure of additional tax dollars in a special session, and it is time that state government holds ourselves responsible to you if we fail to pass a budget in the 2012 Session.

As always, I welcome your comments and concerns for the upcoming session. I can be reached at home, or through the toll-free message line in Frankfort at 1-800-372-7181. A taped message containing information on legislative committee meeting schedules is available by calling 1-800-633-9650, and information on the status of each bill is available by calling 1-866-840-2835. If you have Internet access, I can be reached at danny.ford@lrc.ky.gov, or you may keep track of leg-stance, by selling Oxycodone to a confidential informant. His bond was set at $25,000 cash/property.

Westley T. Perkins, Jr., 48, of Brodhead, was indicted on two counts stemming from an arrest made September 1, 2010 during which Perkins was charged with manufacturing methamphetamine, first offense, while in possession of a firearm.

He was also indicted for possession of a controlled substance, Methamphetamine, a schedule II controlled substance while in possession of a firearm.

Michael Edwin Roberts, 22, of Somerset, was indicted on three counts, stemming from an arrest on June 13, 2010, for robbery, first degree, by threatening or using physical force upon Michael Callahan and Cora Callahan while armed with a firearm and while in the course of committing a theft.

Perkins was indicted on a second count of burglary, first degree, by entering or remaining unlawfully in the home of Michael and Cora Callahan with the intent to commit a crime, while being armed with a firearm, and a third count of committing the offense of theft of a controlled substance, by taking or exercising control over controlled substance belonging to Michael and Cora Callahan, of a value under $300. Roberts’ bond was set at $100,000 cash or property.

Robert Robinson, 31, of Mt. Vernon was indicted on one charge of theft by unlawfully taking of property (a firearm) belonging to Oscar Hensley. His bond was set at $10,000 cash/property.

Bobby Hensley, 28, of Orlando, and Brandi “Fredrick” Robinson, 27, of Mt. Vernon were both indicted on one charge of complicity to theft by unlawful taking by counseling, planning, promoting or aiding Robert Robinson in the unlawful taking of property. Their bonds were each set at $7,500 cash/property.

Allen

Bartley drew a sharp distinction between the choices Allen had made for himself and those made by Ms. Davis. He noted that while Ms. Davis tried to enhance the community by being a civic leader, Allen chose to use drugs despite having earlier been convicted of felony theft.

Bartley also informed the court, that according to the investigation by Craig Reed, of the Kentucky State Police, Allen’s own family had urged him not to get out on the roads because he was intoxicated.

The assistant Commonwealth Attorney then urged the court to impose a 20 year sentence for the DUI crash case, and four years for a probation violation. In closing, Bartley told the court that although “many say drugs are a victimless crime, Ms. Davis and her granddaughter place a face on the human toll that drugs can place even on completely innocent bystanders.”

Judge Burdette ruled that imprisonment was necessary for protection of the public and that to impose a lesser sentence would not do justice for the “great amount of harm caused (by Allen’s actions).”

Montgomery, commended the efforts of his assistant prosecutor and noted, “I had the pleasure of knowing Ms. Juanita Davis and know that this community, and the area at large, definitely miss her and her work. There is no giving back the life that this criminal took, but I hope it sends the message that if you use drugs, get out on the road and kill someone, you’re going to pay.”

In other court news from Friday, Heather Emerson, 26, Mt. Vernon, was sentenced to one year imprisonment for Receiving Stolen Property, over $500.

Executive Director in order to work toward a more segregated system that has checks and balances.”

Executive Director Regina Crawford gave her report, including a Flex E Grant of $10,000 from the Brushy Fork Institute funded through ARC for a recreation/health and wellness center feasibility study.

According to Crawford, the county will also be hosting a forum with the Distance Earning Initiative about its mission and how it can be available for the unemployed person in Rockcastle County who has a higher skill set available. The forum is planned for February.

UNITE "Accidental Dealer" campaign Rockcastle County to launch program for awareness of need to properly secure meds

A new UNITE initiative to raise awareness in Rockcastle County about the need to properly secure over-the-counter and prescription medications will be launched at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, January 20, at Mt. Vernon Elementary School.

"The majority of youth who experiment with prescription drugs for the first time obtain these drugs from family members or friend's family members without consent, making them an 'accidental dealer'," said Karen Kelly, director of Operation UNITE. "In southern and eastern Kentucky the average age of first-time drug use is age 11, so this is a particularly critical issue."

The Accidental Dealer Community Campaign will be implemented from January through March and specifically target parents, grandparents and other caregivers.

"We are in dire need of volunteers to help spread the word about the dangers of being an accidental dealer," Kelly said. "Volunteers are needed to assist with very specific tasks leading up to a community-wide awareness event."

During the one-hour meeting on January 12 a

UNITE representative will explain the various components of the campaign, provide all materials needed to carry it out, and assist the local coalition begin the organizational process.

To learn more about the meeting or about the campaign contact Carlos Cameron at 606-438-9130 or ccameron@centertech.com, or visit the UNITE website at www.operationunite.org.

A Berea woman was seriously injured Monday afternoon after the above semi-truck plowed into her car as she was sitting at the red light in front of the high school. Angie Merritt, of Berea, was airlifted to the University of Kentucky Medical Center from the scene of the accident. Mt. Vernon Rescue Squad had to extract Merritt from her vehicle. Hwy. 461 was closed and then partially blocked for several hours for cleanup. In the top photo, Mt. Vernon Rescue Squad member John Kerns was one of the firemen who responded to the scene.

Mt. Vernon City Council discusses several items of business at meeting

By: Sara Coguer

Several old items of business were discussed during the special called meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday night.

The meeting had to be a special called meeting since the date was changed from its regular night because of the Martin Luther King, Jr. holiday. During a special called meeting, only items already on the agenda can be discussed.

February will also be a special called meeting, as it is being moved to Monday, Jan. 28th, due to President's Day being on the regular meeting date of the council.

Newly-elected Mayor Mike Bryant suggested making an amendment to the ordinance that sets the meeting date on the third Monday of the month to state that if that Monday is a holiday, the meeting will be held the following Monday. This will keep the meeting from being a special called meeting.

Conducting his first meeting, with two new council members, Bryant had a short agenda to discuss, mainly updates on old business and the 2010 audit presentation by John Craft, of Craft, Noble and Company.

In old business, Mayor Bryant saved the city some money by changing the feasibility study of the need to dredge Lake Linville to only a review of information already acquired by the city, by the company hired to do the feasibility study. The feasibility study was going to cost the city up to $10,000 and the review, according to the mayor, will now cost about $1,400 with basically the same results.

The update on the Newcomb Street/School Street project showed that the state still has the traffic lights and the 12 pedestrian lights to install, and those items should be taken care of soon, weather permitting.

The Rose Hill Sewer project is ongoing, with the city lacking one easement. The city's attorney is trying to avoid the condemnation process on this property, and the final approvals from the EPA and state for the project have been received by the city.

Berea woman seriously injured in wreck Monday

By: Sara Coguer

A Berea woman was seriously injured, after being hit in the rear by a semi-truck, Monday afternoon.

Angie Merritt, of Berea, was stopped at the red light in front of Rockcastle County High School when a Super Service semi-truck plowed into her and pushed her 200 feet.

The driver of the semi told Mt. Vernon Police Chief Terry Jackson that he saw Merritt stopped but his brakes failed when he applied them. The truck hit the car so hard that the entire trunk ended up in the back seat of the car. Members of the Mt. Vernon Fire and Rescue responded to the 1 p.m. crash and used the Jaws of Life™ to remove Merritt from her vehicle. Traffic was rerouted around the wreck for approximately three hours, and students and staff at RCHS had to leave the school by the softball field.

The driver of the semi was not injured, but his truck was not drivable and had to be towed. An environmental clean-up company was called in to remove the oil, gas and other liquids that had leached from both vehicles onto the road and the grass on the side of the road where the truck stopped. Two arrested on multiple charges

By: Sara Coguer

Two Rockcastle County men were arrested last week after firearms they had allegedly stolen were found in their possession in Lincoln County.

Donnie Lee Jones, 35, of Brodhead, and Joe Michael Spoonamore, also 35, of Mt. Vernon, were arrested Monday, January 17th by the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department and charged with one count of burglary, 1st degree and eight counts of possession of firearms by a convicted felon.

The criminal complaint against the two men states that on January 7th, Jones and Spoonamore unlawfully entered the residence of Scott Durham of Mt. Vernon and took several items from the residence including eight firearms, miscellaneous ammunition and several other items.

On January 10th, the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department was contacted by a citizen that had bought the eight firearms from the defendants, but had not yet received them. The Lincoln County Sheriff's Department ran the serial numbers on the guns and seven came back as stolen in Rockcastle County, and all eight were identified as Durhams.

Jones had a preliminary hearing on Tuesday, and was charged with one count of burglary, first degree, one count of receiving stolen property, and eight counts of possession of a firearm by a convicted felon. He is currently in the Rockcastle County Detention Center under four cash bonds ranging from $25,000 to $100,000.

County Attorney Billy Reynolds stated, "Anyone who commits a burglary and is caught, I will go to Ramblings . . .

A New Generation

by:

Sara Coguer, Editor

I am not going to talk about my kids, they asked for the week off, and Jason is still a bit miffed that no one comes to his rescue when I talk about him, so I am also going to let him off the hook this week, except for one small note.

Jason turned 41 on Monday, and that kind of makes me sad because that means I only have six more months to say that I am 39 and it be true.

The only thing I have noticed as I age is that it is a little harder on me when I exert myself, so I just try not to do anything too physically demanding and it seems to be working pretty well. I know I have stated that I am going to start exercising as a new year's resolution, and I am, but it is still too cold to start. I'll keep you posted.

I don't really know how I feel about turning 40, I've watched all of my siblings do it except Travis and Allison, and I can't really say that they magically changed the second they turned 40. Maybe they got a little meaner, but I can't put my finger on it . . .

I can remember Dad, Mom, and Rick's birthdays the most, because there is ten years difference between each of us, and we always turned the same thing only ten years apart. In my mind though, I am always going to be the youngest.

I have a small identity crisis because I was the baby for nine years (the most formative, I might add) before Travis came along. I pretty much still identify with being the baby (according to my older siblings) but I also tell people I am the oldest child of the second set of kids (Me, Travis and Allison).

I say this because by the time Allison came along, all of the old ones were already gone except Paige, and she was a senior in high school and on her way out.

I was almost always their babysitter and so I can also identify with being the oldest. I have found through the years that being the baby is much better -- Allison has mastered it, and so I still like to say that I am also the baby of the family.

The real baby Allison, figuratively and literally, is getting married this summer. We found some poor fellow to pop the question . . . no I'm just kidding. Seriously though, the whole planning thing has been fun, but it's amazing how much more weddings cost nowadays.

I don't know what Jason and I are going to do when the girls get married, hopefully by then plain and simple will be in vogue, but I doubt it. I should probably be saving now, although Jason and I started telling the girls when they were just babies what the process for aging was. Graduate high school, graduate college, get a job, get a car and house and then get a husband. It was funny watching a three year old repeat that . . . but hopefully it will stick. Oh well, so much for my promise not to talk about them this week.

Quilting bees were not only about quilting

Recently I was rearranging a shelf in my bedroom closet when I noticed a prized quilt that was handmade by my mother (Bee) in Rockcastle County many years ago. She had given me the quilt when Kathy and I first married, along with a couple more that she thought I might want to pass on to my sons.

Bee and my grandmother (Mommie Katie) often invited several of their neighbors to join them in a day-long quilting bee. It was almost like a neighborhood party; they drank several pots of strong coffee, ate pastries that they had made, and spent the time "spinning yarns" while working on several quilts.

As a very young boy, I was allowed to crawl around under the quilting frame as I watched the women carefully craft their stitches on a quilt that would likely become someone's family heirloom. It has been too long for me to be able to remember the specific conversations that occurred in that room, but I'd bet that they solved every problem that was to be found in our community.

I do specifically remember one such gathering because the women were going to construct a quilt that would eventually be used on my own bed. Several of Bee's and Mommie Katie's closest friends were invited to participate in this project. I can still recall a few of their names, including: Charity Barnes, "Sudie" Carter, LeAnn Nicely and Ollie Helton. As I said, most of the time the women would spend the entire day helping one of their neighbors finish a quilt or two to be used on family beds.

During such times, the ladies were usually taking turns at sitting around the quilting frame while the others migrated to the kitchen to make delicious snacks for the gathering. These events served not only the purpose of creating needed goods; they were actually a way for these women to socialize. They shared news of the local neighborhood, exchanged recipes, discussed child-rearing measures, and simply had a day that was a change of pace for each of these hard-working homemakers. It was a warm and cheerful way for them to spend the day together.

None of the ladies in our neighborhood wanted to ever miss a quilting bee because it was a major social function and a forum for the latest gossip. I strongly suspect that many of the women wanted to be sure to attend so that their names would not be included in the most recent "chitchat."

I could never forget my mother's quilting frame. When not in use, it was rolled up and placed in the corner of her bedroom. It was a most essential piece of equipment. It was made from four strong pieces of wood that were placed on "saw horses" that my grandfather (Pop) made especially for this purpose. When a quilt was placed on the frame it was rolled tightly in order for the ladies to have a firm area to do their work. As a section was completed, the quilt was rolled again so that a new section was ready for their skilled hands.

These gatherings occurred several times a year in order for each family to have an ample supply of quilts for the winter months. My mother's closets were filled with them. My memory of her quilts is sometimes quite amusing. On those really frigid nights, Bee always stacked several layers on my bed in order to keep me warm. Sometimes there would be so many that it required brute strength to even be able to turn over during the night. Frequently, she heated a brick on our Warm Morning stove, rolled it inside a towel, and tucked it into the foot of the bed. I also can remember her having placed a glass of water on my bedside table, only to find upon awakening that a layer of ice had formed upon the surface of the water—a good example of why these quilts were so necessary.

Sometimes when the ladies of our neighborhood gathered around the quilting frame, several quilts would be finished in a single, day-long session. Most of these bed linens were constructed of scrap pieces of cloth that had been gathered by the individual women. My mother had a large cloth sack in her bedroom where she stashed those small scraps of old clothing. I still have one quilt that is constructed of clothing that I wore as a young boy.

I think Bee called those types of quilts "crazy patch quilts." From time to time,

Points East

By Ike Adams

I read fast. Don't ask me how or why I do it but I can lie in bed at night and devour a novel in two nights, or just one night if the book is really, really good. I turn on TV for the news or to catch a special on National Geographic, The History Channel, Discovery, KET and like that but most of my entertainment and peace of mind comes from the printed word.

Over the course of this year, I intend to tell you about some very special contemporary writers who command my attention and bring some satisfaction and joy to an otherwise dry and ordinary life. Some of this will be pure fluff and some so deep that you will think you're in a well. You can accept or reject as you go along but do keep up.

A couple of years ago I got hooked on an author whose name is Debbie Macomber. She is a very prolific writer (150+ books) of what I call "chick fluff fiction"—gentle, clean, easy reading targeted at women who simply want to enjoy the tale without pondering, too much, some deeper, hidden, philosophical revelations even though they're there. (She is not an internationally known best seller by accident.)

Macomber writes some stand alone stuff but her crowning achievements are contained in themed series where one book leads into the next and they all revolve around women with turmoil in their lives and most often they solve, in uncanny ways, whatever problem it is that is weighing heavily on their shoulders.

Debbie—I call her by her first name because I feel like I know her up close and personal—is a master at character development. I read her like preachers read the Bible because the people in her books become very real in my imagination and because they are just that—so very real. And Debbie's work is not tv soap opera stuff. It is everyday living in the most realistic sense of the word. And it is oh so entertaining.

If you like and enjoy light fiction, the first thing you should do is read Debbie's "Dakota series" in the order in which they are written. Dakota Born was the first one and three more followed. You can get online and figure it out because we have limited space here in the paper to do chronology. Call or email me. Or, better yet, go to the library that your tax dollars support, whereupon you may be quite amazed at the resources available for literate people.

I was intrigued by the Dakota Series but I did not get addicted until Debbie's Cedar Cove series evolved, at which point I swallowed the bait and got gut hooked. Suffice to say that I just read the 11th installment of this series and the next one will not be published until September of this year. I have marked my calendar. The last one was a cliff hanger.

On a side note, let me mention that Loretta gave me a Kindle for Christmas and Jenifer gave me a $50 gift cert to purchase books. I'm already in the hole on the gift cert but it is the best gadget to come along in a long, long time. More on that later. But suffice (again) to say that our house will be less paper heavy over the coming years.

I am hoping that Megan

The Lord is my Shepherd, He ever walks near to guide and protect me each day of the year

Beside the still waters, through meadows so fair, on life's troubled pathways I'm safe in His care.

His rod and His staff reassures me anew, no hills are too steep He's walking here too.

He preparates a table with gifts from above and binds up my wounds with His tender love.

Through all my days, no harm will I fear. It comforts me to know my Shepherd walks near.

Words cannot express the heartache we feel here with you. The void in our lives can never be filled.

It's been a year since God took you home. Know you're happy and free from the awful pain has helped us get through the year and knowing you're walking with the Shepherd today. We love and miss you so much.

The Roots of Rockcastle

by: Tonya J. Cook

Education and Refinement for Women Comes to Rockcastle, Part III

For the past few weeks, the Roots series has been exploring the Langdon School at Mount Vernon. This was a wonderful educational experience for the girls of the area. The not only learned from their books, but they learned a practical way to apply their knowledge in everyday situations.

The school and the Home Economics buildings were on Williams Street. The Home Economics building is still standing. The school was made possible through the Presbyterian church.

Last week featured one of the teachers at the school, Miss Cynthia Brewer, who later met and married one of the local boys, Vernon "Swiftly" Cox, who was a bank teller. He taught several of the young men of the area the arts of masonry and woodworking. His wife, Cynthia, taught the girls homemaking skills.

This week I'd like to do a reprint article, in part, from about two years ago about the life and first-hand account of another teacher, Miss Mary R. McCord. She not only taught at the school, but did more for the city of Mount Vernon than many before her or since. She was a remarkable woman.

The following is a letter I received from Elinor Denney of Lexington, Virginia, who was a personal friend of Miss Mary McCord.

Dear Ms. Cook:

I enjoyed reading your early Mt. Vernon history. I believe I can add a few facts from my memories of living in Mt. Vernon.

The church building on Main Street was Presbyterian, organized by the missionary group that built and maintained Langdon school, a boarding school. Mr. Wm. Mcbee and Mr. Ralph Griffin bought the school after Langdon School closed and the church had been empty for many years.

About 1940 they remodeled it into a dwelling, and Mrs. Miller and her family who owned a dry goods store on Main Street lived there. The family consisted of Mrs. Miller, her son Raymond, a widowed daughter, Blossom and her daughter Rose Katherine, another daughter Norine, her husband Alec Milam and their two daughters, Phyllis and Nanette, and Mrs. Miller's young son Harold.

The McBees lived next door, between the Millers and the Baptist Church.

I do not know when Langdon School was organized or closed. Miss McCord then went to Hyden to a Presbyterian mission center, but while she was in Mt. Vernon she organized the Woman's Club, an International organization of women for community betterment.

When I became president of the Woman's Club, I invited Miss McCord to come for a visit, and she told us many interesting stories of early Mt. Vernon.

One rainy night coming home in the dark from a town meeting, she fell over a cow in the muddy street. She persuaded the town to erect street lights. She also was persuasive in the building of the new state Brodhead road to replace the old crooked road beyond West Main Street.

In 1948 Mrs. Walker Owens, who had been president of the Womans Club, decided we needed to honor Miss McCord for her years of community leadership. She persuaded me to go with her to the quarry to pick out a suitable rock. After a long hot search we found a stone that pleased her. She then persuaded Mr. Jim Cummins to hitch his two mules to the stone, and she and I and my two small children followed him to the small park on the corner of Main Street and Richmond Street near the depot. She then hired someone to chisel in Miss McCord's name and dates. I assume it is still there, and I wonder if people know its significance.

One spring Mrs. Henderson, Joe Henderson's mother, planted a dogwood tree near the stone.

Miss McCord, Mrs.

Owens and so many others would be so gratified to see the wonderful, progressive community has become and see how it has built on their dreams and visions. Miss McCord would be especially proud of Mt. Vernon's exceptional school system and the many graduates who go on to the best colleges and universities.

I think of John Lair as one who realized on the edge of the area with its strategic location on the edge of the Bluegrass and yet retaining the beauty of the mountains and the rich cultural mountain tradition and heritage; and there are many other whose initiative and hard work have made Mt. Vernon a place proud to call home.

I am glad that I and my family shared in its history.

Sincerely,

the women traded patches with other members of the group. I have a few of these quilts still in my possession. I could never part with them unless someone in my family wanted one for a keepsake.

The memory of these gatherings is very significant to me. It represents a time in my life when things were so wonderfully simple. People in our community relied heavily on others for assistance, survival, and close friendships. We needed each other and often checked on our neighbors to make sure everything was in order.

I remember Mommie Katie instructing me to "walk out the lane and see if Mrs. Barnes needs anything." Mommie was concerned because Mrs. Barnes lived alone during that time and she had no indoor plumbing. I also remember carrying buckets of water to her when it was exceptionally cold. Back then, that is just what neighbors did — they looked out for one another.

Although neighborhood relationships are not the same today, I am happy to be living in a community that is small enough to still need one another. It was one of several reasons that I had to get away from city living, where people are rarely even acquainted with their neighbors much less look out for them. I suppose that is one of the results of having such a mobile and affluent society. But frankly, I am not so sure that we weren't really better off when we all had to pool our resources and lean on each other — like they did at those incomparable quilting bees.

(You can reach me at mtmman@mis.net I appreciate your comments and suggestions.)

In Frankfort

Rally to support SB-45

A rally to show support for legislation aimed at reducing the availability of methamphetamine across Kentucky will be held in Frankfort on Thursday, February 3. The event will begin at 2:30 p.m. in the Capitol Rotunda.

At issue is whether to enact stricter requirements for the sale of pseudoephedrine-containing medications.

Senate Bill 45 would make pseudoephedrine a scheduled drug in Kentucky, require a prescription, limit quantities to 9 grams within a 30-day period, and prohibit refills until after the original prescription has expired.

A similar measure, House Bill 15, would require a prescription for pseudoephedrine-containing products.

The main difference, according to the Kentucky Narcotic Officers' Association, is that a scheduled drug can be tracked using the Kentucky All-Schedule Electronic Reporting (KASPER) system and law enforcement officers would be able to bring illegal possession and/or trafficking charges.

HB-15 was pre-filed for the 2011 session by Rep. Linda Belcher (D-49th) and is co-sponsored by Mike Marzian (D-34th). Belcher is expected to amend her bill to mirror the provisions of SB-45.

Senate Bill 45 has drawn bi-partisan support from senators representing about half of the counties in southern and eastern Kentucky since being introduced by Sen. Tom Jensen (R-21st) on January 4. Co-sponsors of the legislation include senators Jared K. Carpenter (R-34th), Ray S. Jones (D-31st) and Brandon Smith (R-30th).

Speaker of the House Greg Stumbo (D-95th) has indicated he will support the effort to schedule pseudoephedrine.

"Substance abuse is a non-partisan issue that impacts every family in every community," said Karen Kelly, director of Operation UNITE (Unlawful Narcotics Investigations, Treatment and Education). "This legislation is aimed at curtailing the widespread methamphetamine epidemic by requiring a doctor's prescription for medications containing the main ingredient needed for its production and giving our police officers extra enforcement tools."

"No single action will put an end to the drug problem," Kelly concluded. "But, when you can identify a specific contributing cause, it is essential to take expedient action to eliminate that cause."

UNITE anti-drug efforts include a network of 30 community coalitions serving the 29-county Fifth Congressional District.

"We're asking each of our coalitions to organize groups and caravan to Frankfort to show a unified front on this issue," Kelly said, noting that "in the past, citizens have been effective in getting anti-drug legislation adopted when they've let their voices be heard."

For those unable attend the rally, Kelly encouraged them to contact both your state Senator and Representative using the Legislative Message Line — 1-800-372-7181. "If they are already supportive of the bill, then leave a message to thank them for their position."

Only two other states have made pseudoephedrine a scheduled drug — Oregon in 2006 and Mississippi in 2010. Both states reported decreases in the number of methamphetamine labs within months of their laws taking effect. In Oregon the number of lab seizures dropped 97.3 percent from 2004-2010, and Mississippi has seen a 68 percent reduction in just six months.

By contrast, Kentucky's meth lab seizures increased 48 percent in the past year (from 741 labs to approximately 1,100) and was rated third in the nation for labs dismantled by law enforcement.

A study by the Kentucky State Police using pseudoephedrine sales data from 2009 concluded that approximately 77 percent of these sales were diverted to methamphetamine production.

The toll taken by methamphetamine is staggering.

According to information from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), the average lifespan of a meth user is seven years and a meth producer five years.

"This does not take into account the collateral damage done by meth to the children living in the homes and the danger to the community and law enforcement," according to Tommy Loving, executive director of the Kentucky Narcotic Officers' Association.

A second impact is felt in the wallets of taxpayers.

"The cost of dismantling meth labs and the incarceration of those charged with meth-related offenses is an

How wildlife escape snow, ice and cold weather

The broad-winged hawk vacations south of the border. Resident Canada geese congregate around open water. Black bear sows den up and give birth. Woodchucks simply go underground and sleep it off.

Those are just a few of the ways wildlife escape the snow, ice and cold weather of winter.

"The broad-winged hawk nests here but migrates to central and south America for the winter," said Kate Heyden, avian biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

While most species of hawks in Kentucky never leave their territories, they modify their behavior in winter. It's harder for birds of prey to find food, so they may gather on a south-facing slope, where the snow is melted away.

"Hawks and owls can get very creative in where they take shelter from the cold, often roosting in barns, or sleeping in thick evergreen trees overnight," said Heyden.

Red-tailed hawks stay here during the cold weather months, but there's a big push of migrant birds from the Great Lakes Region, mostly Wisconsin and Michigan.

"We have a lot more hawks in Kentucky during the winter months, and they are much more visible," Heyden explained.

Resident Canada geese spend the spring and summer raising their young on farm ponds, small lakes and streams across Kentucky. They usually stay close to home when cold weather arrives, but they gravitate to certain areas.

"They go to bigger water and concentrate on the Ohio River, or Cave Run Lake," said John Brunjes, migratory bird biologist for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. Brunjes conducts aerial surveys of waterfowl twice a month in eastern Kentucky from December through February.

"During the big freeze on Dec. 15, I counted 5,860 geese, and on Jan. 4, after the thaw, there were 2,209 geese in the same area," he said.

He explained that in cold weather geese like to hang around steam plants which have warm water discharges.

"They're looking for waters that don't freeze up. As soon as temperatures moderate, they scatter out and go back to small ponds, where they are much harder to count," he said.

Unlike birds and other wildlife, black bears spend the winter in dens.

"Bears enter a state of torpor, during which their metabolism slows markedly, but they can move around and may even leave their dens," said Steven Dobey, bear biologist for the department. "They live off their body fat, and don't eat or drink."

Sows give birth in their dens and nurse their cubs all winter, emerging in March or April with the little ones in tow. "A bear den may be in a rock crevice, the root wad of a fallen tree, or inside a standing hollow tree," said Dobey.

While bears spend the winter in a state of torpor, woodchucks sleep away the winter in hibernation.

In October, they go underground for the season to a dead-end nest chamber sealed off with dirt to prevent rabbits and other wildlife from disturbing their slumber.

The woodchuck's body temperature drops, and its heart rate slows to as few as four beats per minute. They don't emerge until the first warm days of February.

Other Kentucky wildlife hunkers down.

"Pond turtles, such as the common map turtle or red-eared slider, sit on the bottom of a pond or on the bottom of the river in a backwater area," said John Macgregor, herpetologist in Kentucky Fish and Wildlife's non-game program. "On sunny days in February, they might crawl up on a log to get some warmth."

The rat snake spends the winter in a small mammal burrow, below the frost line.

Imagine being a chipmunk and having to share your home with a big snake four months out of the year.

"Toads burrow down in leaf litter and loose topsoil," said Macgregor. "Tree frogs might spend the winter in a rotten log or in a hole in a enormous economic drain on the commonwealth of Kentucky," Loving said, adding the annual cost to be about $48 million.

In 2005, UNITE coalitions rallied 2,000 people in Frankfort to support of SB-63. The bill, passed unanimously, required pseudoephedrine to be sold only at pharmacies, set a 9-gram limit for a 30-day period, made it easier to prosecute for methamphetamine production, toughened penalties when a child was present, and required participation in the KASPER drug-tracking system.

From 2005-07, UNITE conducted a pilot project for MethCheck - an electronic reporting system designed to catch individuals who sought to obtain pseudoephedrine from multiple pharmacies and in different counties, a practice known as "smurfing." The results of the pilot project were so successful that this system was adopted statewide.

"Despite the early results and promise of success, MethCheck has not lived up to expectations and has not prevented smurfing," Kelly said. "As a result, UNITE no longer supports use of this system."

"Last year meth labs were discovered in two-thirds of Kentucky's counties. Lives are being lost and innocent children are being placed in harm's way," Kelly stated. "By adopting SB-45 to schedule pseudoephedrine lawmakers have a tool that will greatly reduce the instances of meth labs across the commonwealth."

The measure has the endorsement of the Kentucky Education Association, Kentucky Medical Association, Kentucky State Police, Kentucky Academy of Family Physicians, Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police, Kentucky Jailer's Association and Appalachia HIDTA Drug Task Force.

SAWDUST SALAD

My sister-in-law introduced this salad to the family back in 1977. It was an instant hit with Will's family as much as it was mine. The "sawdust," of course, is really shredded cheddar cheese sprinkled on top. My family eats this as a dessert instead of as a salad. Either with your meal, after your meal, or as a snack, it is worth the effort. It makes an excellent potluck dish. In the summertime, the whipped topping and cream cheese may tend to melt some if it's left out in the sun too long, but you usually don't have to worry about that. It is among the first dishes to disappear. In San Francisco, I took this to ADP when I worked there and it turned out to be a favorite of co-worker Steve Aguirre as well as some of the other co-workers.

1 small box orange Jello®
1 small box lemon Jello®
1 can crushed pineapple, drained
1 bag miniature marshmallows
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 egg
2 cups juice and water
1 small container Cool Whip®, thawed
1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese, at room temperature
1 to 2 cups cheddar cheese finely shredded
Drain pineapple; reserve juice. Mix Jello® with 2 cups boiling water until dissolved. Add 1/2 bag marshmallows. Stir until they are slightly melted. Add 1 1/2 cups cold water, pineapple and rest of marshmallows. Refrigerate until set. In the meantime, combine sugar with cornstarch, add beaten egg. Add enough water to the reserved pineapple juice to make 2 cups. Slowly stir into sugar mixture. Cook over medium heat until thickened. Let cool. Spread cooled pudding over Jello® mixture. Beat cream cheese, fold in Cool Whip. Spread over pudding. Sprinkle with finely grated cheddar cheese.

WATERGATE SALAD

1 small package instant pistachio pudding mix
1 can (15 ounce) crushed pineapple, undrained
1 container (9 ounce) Cool Whip®
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 small package miniature marshmallows
1 can mandarin oranges, drained
Mix dry pudding mix with the pineapple and juice. Mix well. Fold in Cool Whip® and nuts. Add marshmallows and oranges carefully as to not break up the fruit. Chill.

An encouraging word:

Dressing Appropriately Is Important

By Howard Coop

The summer of 1971 was an exciting summer for me. Some of my hopes and dreams of a lifetime were realized. After weeks of preparation, I and those I had recruited to travel with me met in Louisville to board a chartered plane for Amsterdam, and on July 20, we began what had been booked as a Grand Tour of Europe. Then, for three weeks, we visited the traditional tourist attractions in Holland, West Germany, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Austria, Italy, France, and England.

Our guide for the tour was Chris Hotten, a young English university student who worked as a tour guide during the summer to earn money to attend law school. As we got to know Chris, we discovered that, along with a lot of good information, the young Englishman had a unique sense of humor.

Day after day and in city after city all across Europe, we visited ancient cathedrals and admired their architectural beauty and grandeur. Early in the tour, Chris informed us that all of the cathedrals we would be visiting during the tour imposed strict dress codes, and it was important, especially for the ladies, to dress appropriately; no shorts were allowed. So, almost every evening as we enjoyed dinner, Chris would come by our table and, without smiling but in a joking sort of way, remind the ladies, "Dress decently tomorrow; we are going to visit another cathedral." Then, each morning as we had breakfast before we boarded the bus, he would come by our table and, without a hint of a smile, say to the ladies, "I see you are dressed decently for the day."

Dressing appropriately, whatever the occasion, is always important. But there is a real sense in which dressing appropriately goes beyond choosing from among items that may be located in the wardrobe. For almost two thousand years, we have been reminded that every day we are to clothe ourselves in "compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience."

Help Save Climax Spring!

The US Forest Service has proposed to log and spray herbicide on the hills above Climax Spring and throughout the Daniel Boone National Forest in Rockcastle County.

Kentucky Heartwood believes that taxpayer dollars should not be used to subsidize commercial logging on public land or to degrade our local natural resources.

We cordially invite you to join us to discuss the Forest Service's plans:

Lady Rockets continue to roll over opponents

The Lady Rockets continued their dominance of the 47th district by romping over the Casey County Lady Rebels (11-4 and 4-2) last Friday Night at Rock Arena 53-23. Rockcastle has beaten teams in the 47th district by an average of 28 points this season and are a perfect 5-0 in district play.

The tenacious Lady Rocket defense frustrated Casey County all night long. The Lady Rebels only scored eight points in the first half to Rockcastle's 27.

Rockcastle's Sara Hammond continued her aggressive play scoring 23 points to lead Rockcastle to their 17th win of the season against one loss. Angie Lawrence, who received a basketball acknowledging her accomplishment of joining the "1,000 Point Club" before the game, added 15 points.

Other Lady Rockets who scored: Micheala Hunter, 5; Alexis Chasteen, 4; Kristin Abney and Shanlee Burton, Sydney Arvin and Ella McQueary with 2 each.

Rockcastle vs. Franklin

The Lady Rockets traveled to East Jessamine to play Franklin County (11-9) in the Jaguar Classic Saturday night. The Lady Rockets rolled to an impressive 67-33 win and notching their ninth straight victory.

Rockcastle vs. Mercer

The Lady Rockets were looking for their tenth straight win Monday night as they faced the #4 team in the 12th region Mercer County (11-5). The Lady Titans, who do not have a single senior, gave a scare to Rockcastle and never let the #2 team in the state have much breathing room but Rockcastle prevailed 53-42.

Rockcastle's leading scorer, Sara Hammond who is averaging a double-double with 15.8 points and 11.9 rebounds a game, did not get her first basket until the 6:28 mark in the fourth quarter.

However, one of the characteristics of Coach Noble's squad is that it has great depth and once again that came to the forefront. Angie Lawrence led Rockcastle in scoring with 13 points. Micheala Hunter and Ella McQueary came off the bench to add 12 and seven points, respectively, to pick up the slack.

The score was tied at 12 at the end of the first quarter but the Rockets went on a 12-3 run to stretch the lead to 11 at 25-14 at the half. The biggest lead for Rockcastle came midway through the fourth quarter at 16 points, 49-33.

Lady Rockets scoring: Shanlee Burton and Kristin Abney, 6 each; Sydney Arvin, 5 and Sara Hammond, 4.

The Lady Rockets, (19-1,5-0) will travel to Pulaski County (10-10 and 0-4) to play their final district game of the season this Friday night. Tip-off is scheduled for 6 o'clock.

The next home game for Rockcastle is a jayvee and varsity match-up Monday night, January 31st against Madison Central (11-6) who is ranked 20th in the state. Tip off for that game is slated for 7:30.

Senior Shanlee Burton goes for a basket in the Lady Rockets win against Casey County last Friday night.

Sophomore Michaela Hunter drives around a Casey County defender Friday night.

Junior Kadi Cobb drives around a Casey County defender after pulling down the rebound.

The shot heard 'round the gym... sophomore guard Jon Curtis Wilson shoots the three that put the Rockets ahead of the Casey County Rebels. The Rockets would hang on to the lead for the 66-62 win.

Rockcastle County and Casey County met up Friday night in a pivotal 47th district matchup. It would be just 7 days removed from the last meeting between the two teams in which the Rebels defeated the Rockets 61-49 at Casey Co.

Casey seemed to be cruising to a road win leading for most of the game and holding a 12 point lead, their biggest of the night, midway through the 4th, 56-44. The Rockets however clawed their way back with tremendous hustle and great team defense not allowing a Casey field goal in the last 4:48. Rockcastle's sophomore guard John Curtis Wilson connected for a three to get the Rockets to within one at 58-59 with 2:34 left. Then senior point guard Josh McKinney put the Rockets ahead for good when he slashed through the defense for a layup to put the home team up 60-59 with 1:58 left in the game.

McKinney and senior guard Travis carpenter nailed six consecutive free throws down the stretch to seal the come from behind 66-62 win for Rockcastle.

Coach Benny Blanton got some much needed production from his bench in the way of 25 points as Wilson came up with 11 points and sophomore guard Ashton Arvin added 10 along with some key hustle plays.

Carpenter led Rockcastle, now 6-12 on the season and 2-3 in district play, in scoring with 22. Other players who scored were: Josh McKinney, 12; Corey McPhetridge, 4; Ben Allen, 2; Cody Noe, 2; Jaden Brock, 3.

Rockcastle vs. Southern Rockcastle was riding the momentum of the come from behind win against Casey County and would take that new found confidence on the road to out of district rival Madison Southern Tuesday night. However, the Rockets would come up short against the Eagles falling 56-38.

Rockcastle did own a 24-22 lead at the half but a combination of turnovers and cold shooting held the Rockets to only 14 points in the second half. That allowed the Eagles to get their record to 9-10 on the year. Rockcastle dropped their record to 6-13 and will now get set to play again on the road for their final district game against the #22 team in the state, Pulaski County.

The Rockets were again led in scoring by Travis Carpenter who had 15. Jaden Brock turned in a good game by hitting the boards hard and adding 7 points. Other Rockets who got in the scoring column included Ben Allen, 5; John Curtis Wilson, Corey McPhetridge and Tyler Harper, 3 each and Josh McKinney, 2.

Sophomore Ashton Arvin shoots a jumper in the late minutes of the win over district rival Casey County.

Avoid mistakes when filing for financial aid

Filling out the Federal Application for Financial Student Assistance (FAFSA) can be a daunting task. So make a nice mug of your favorite hot drink and sit down ready to work. Submitting a complete application as early as possible can be a big benefit to your entire family, especially in these days of diminished state and federal budgets. When it comes to financial aid, the first applications are processed while the pot of money is still full but the last applications have to settle for whatever is left.

"There are literally thousands of dollars in financial aid available to students; but, they must complete the form early," says Charity Milby Ferguson, Director of Admissions at Lindsey Wilson College. "There are limited funds that often run out by March 15. Additionally, the form must be completed and correct. If the form is completed but there are errors, the student does not qualify for the aid until the form is corrected."

Ferguson's comment points to the importance of getting the FAFSA right the first time. Here are some steps you can follow to help that happen.

First, gather the documents you need: student's Social Security number, driver's license, most recent income tax return, bank statements and investment records. Be sure when filling out the application to record accurately the student's social security number, taxes paid as listed on the tax form (not the W2) and the family's Adjusted Gross Income (AGI). Donna Jean King, Director of Financial Aid at Morehead State University, says these are all areas in which people often make mistakes.

Second, print out the FAFSA worksheet from the website address at (www.fafsa.ed.gov). This will help you gather whatever other information you'll need to fill out the actual application. Ferguson says the directions outline the information you will need, but if you have questions be sure to clarify the answers. For example, one area of FAFSA that typically confuses people regards assets. Assets are considered to be stocks, bonds, real estate, etc. but do not include the home where the family resides or any retirement accounts.

Third, decide how to sign the FAFSA. You can sign it electronically with a Personal Identification Number (PIN) for which you must apply) or by mailing in a signature page. If applying for a PIN remember that it will take a few days to receive it so don't wait until the last minute.

Fourth, if you have questions about eligibility, check them out with the school guidance counselor, someone in the college admissions office or at www.fafsa.ed.gov. To receive federal student aid, a student must be a U.S. citizen or eligible noncitizen and meet a few other guidelines, such as not having a drug conviction for an offense that occurred while receiving federal student aid.

Some people also have questions about if the student can file independently and who are considered to be parents. Fill out the worksheet from the FAFSA website to determine dependency status. A parent refers to a biological or adoptive parents. Relatives, legal guardians and other caretakers are not considered parents on the FAFSA unless they have legally adopted the student. Students with divorced or separated parents should provide financial information from the parent he or she lived with most during the past 12 months.

Fifth, be sure to check deadlines for state aid applications, federal aid applications and school aid applications. The Kentucky deadline is March 15. King agrees with Ferguson when it comes to submitting early. "Some aid is limited," she says. "Once funds are gone, even though you qualify you cannot be awarded." The sad fact is Kentucky state funds are often exhausted well before the deadline.

When the application is processed using a federal formula, it will result in an Expected Family Contribution (EFC). That is an estimate of how much the family is assumed to be able to pay. That amount is subtracted from the cost of attending the school. The school will then put together a financial aid package that can include grants, loans and work-study to help make up the rest of the cost.

On the financial aid application, you can list up to 10 colleges that you would like to receive this information. Comparing the available financial aid from each institution might be an important part of deciding which school to attend. Also note that aid is paid directly to the school, not to the family.

King recommends parents contact the high school guidance counselor or the financial aid office of the school they plan to attend for assistance with this process. She notes that College Goal Sunday, when parents can sit down directly with financial professionals to receive assistance with the application, will be held around the state on January 30, 2011 and will also be a good place to get further information. To find a location near you, go to www.kasfaa.com.

The tiny cricket frog, which Macgregor has studied in Mammoth Cave National Park, spends the summer in ponds and wet areas at lower elevations, then moves to upland woods for the winter.

Box turtles dig down in the ground as cold weather approaches. "The colder it gets, they deeper they dig," said Macgregor.

He is concerned that this past year's unusual weather may cause a box turtle die-off. "It was a dry summer, and we did not have the rainy weather in the fall we usually get, so turtles couldn't dig down as far. Then it turned off so cold (in December)," McGregor explained.

White-tailed deer can't escape winter, so they try to conserve body heat when it's cold. They feed on high-calorie foods, moving as little as possible, and expending energy only during the warmest parts of the day.

Doesn't that sound a lot like the human couch potato, curled up in front of the tube watching pro football?

Police chief Terry Jackson introduced the newest member of the Mt. Vernon Police force. Travis Dotson, who is currently employed with the London Police Department, has been hired to replace recently retired Assistant Chief Bill Barrett.

Dotson comes to the police department with nine years of service to the London police department, where he presently serves as Sergeant and a K-9 Handler. He is also a former US Marine, Kentucky National Guardsman and has served on the H.I.D.T.A. drug task force. Dotson will replace Barrett as Assistant Chief.

Chief Jackson also announced the promotion of officer Brian Carter to Sergeant.

Jackson's report to the council showed that during December, 76 citations were issued, 45 people arrested, 5 DUT's were apprehended, there were 11 citations for other traffic offenses, 8 citations for speeding, 5 arrests for other criminal charges, 35 wanted persons were captured, 18 traffic accidents were investigated with 8 injuries reported, and 5 investigations were opened with 5 being cleared or closed.

New council member and Assistant Fire Chief Adam Bales submitted the fire report for December, which included 11 fire runs with 5,000 gallons of water used.

For Rogers Scholars or ELI
Jan. 31st is deadline for students to apply

The Center for Rural Development is looking for some of the best and brightest high school students across Southern and Eastern Kentucky to grow their leadership skills as Rogers Scholars and build their business and entrepreneurial skills while participating in Entrepreneurial Leadership Institute (ELI) program.

Applications for the 2011 summer sessions of both Rogers Scholars and ELI will be accepted through Jan. 31 and may be downloaded from a link on The Center's Web site at www.centertech.com or directly from Rogers Scholars' Web site at www.rogersscholars.com.

Both programs provide leadership and scholarship opportunities for the region's youth and inspire them to make a difference in their home communities by taking an active role in community service or developing their business or entrepreneurial spirit.

Rogers Scholars—The Center's flagship youth program—is an intensive one-week summer session for rising high school juniors in The Center's primary 42-county service area. The program emphasizes the development of technological skills and instills in participants a sense of leadership, an entrepreneurial spirit, and commitment to rural Kentucky.

"We are excited to welcome the University of Kentucky and Western Kentucky University to the Rogers Scholars program as our newest partners to provide scholarship opportunities for graduates of this program," Lonnie Lawson, president and CEO of The Center, said. "Rogers Scholars was created in 1998 as an action step toward reaching U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers' goal that 'no young person should have to leave home to find his or her future,' and The Center strives to provide leadership and scholarship opportunities to keep more of our best and brightest students in the region."

During the last 13 years, 732 high school students have graduated from Rogers Scholars and been eligible to apply for scholarship opportunities, valued at $7.2 million, from 14 participating colleges and universities in Kentucky, and one university in Tennessee.

ELI focuses on creativity and teamwork and is helping to build business and entrepreneurial skills in high school freshmen, sophomores, and juniors within The Center's primary service area.

During the one-week summer session, participants work together as teams to create a business plan and present their proposals before a panel of judges acting as prospective financial lenders in a business concept competition on the final day of the program.

Members of the first-place business concept team earn a Presidential Scholarship to Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond, Ky., and are recognized as the winning team at the Excellence In Entrepreneurship Awards (EIEA) program held later that fall at The Center.

Both Rogers Scholars and ELI are presented and sponsored by The Center and held on its main campus in Somerset. Two summer sessions of Rogers Scholars are planned for June 26-July 1 and July 10-15 and ELI has been scheduled for June 12-17.

Lodging, meals, and program expenses (excluding transportation costs to and from the host site) are provided free of charge to participating students.

For more information on Rogers Scholars or ELI, visit The Center's Web site or contact The Center at 606-677-6000.

In other news, the application deadline for Rogers Explorers—The Center's third summer youth program—is March 4. This program provides hands-on training for eighth-grade students interested in developing their math and science skills while spending three days, two nights on a college campus. Applications may be downloaded at www.centertech.com.

Working Together Works

Research shows that children who are in school most of the time do better on standardized tests. Studies also show that kids who are absent more often score lower on standardized tests. Attendance is a key to your student's success!

Being late for school hurts a child's learning too. A student who is 10 minutes late every day will miss 30 hours of instruction during the year.

Children can copy notes or make up an assignment, but they can never get back what's most important: the discussions, the questions, the explanations by the teacher and the thinking that makes learning come alive.

Your child's success in school depends on having a solid educational background...one that can only be gained through regular school attendance.

Rockcastle County
4-H Sewing Projects

The 4-H Sewing Projects will again be offered after school at each of the elementary schools. Sewing projects will be different than past years. There will be NO first class meeting; we will begin the classes on the appropriate dates listed below. This year the sewing projects will be conducted by local leaders and the Family and Consumer Sciences Agent. Following is the date and location of the first meeting at each school.

NOTE: Middle School and High School students may meet with the elementary school of their choice.

- February 14th-17th at Mt. Vernon Elementary School
- February 28th-March 3rd at Brodhead Elementary School
- March 7th-10th at Roundstone Elementary School

Students will stay after school until 5 p.m. Students can be picked up at the front door or in the sewing room. Hazel Jackson and/or volunteers must see the individual who is picking up the student.

Parents, you will need to provide transportation home after classes at 5 p.m. PROMPTLY.

During the classes, your child will learn to use a sewing machine, follow directions and construct a useful item. First year students may make a drawstring tote bag. Second year students may make a zippered tote bag or purse. Third year students may make a gym bag. Fourth year students will make a backpack with lining. Fifth year students will make a 2 or 3 piece luggage set.

1.) Things They Will Need:

- *Sewing Equipment
- *6" inch ruler or seam gauge
- *A Sewing box-large shoe box is fine
- *Pencil
- *Straight Pins
- *Tape Measure
- *Dressmaker shears (scissors)
- *Seam Ripper

Underlined items are most important for each child to have. The 4-H Program has some sewing equipment that can be loaned to 4-Hers' for the week. Label all items with your name! Put it in some type of small box for easy storage at the school for the week.

2.) Fabric & Notions: See attached list according to Unit Level.

Prewashing of all fabrics is recommended! To prewash, simply put the fabric yardage in a regular load of laundry. You may line dry or dry the fabric in the clothes dryer. Iron the fabric if it is wrinkly.

3.) 1 large spool of thread to match the fabric. Cotton or cotton covered polyester thread is preferred-all purpose thread. 100% polyester thread does not sew well on the Extension Service machines. Quilting or upholstery thread will not work for these sewing projects.

If your child wishes to participate in the 4-H Sewing projects, please complete the permission form given to your child by the Extension Service and return it to their teacher by February 7, 2011. If no permission form is given, your child WILL NOT be able to attend....

Eagles’Nest Parent Group planning Winter Festival

The Eagles’ Next Parent Group at Roundstone Elementary is hard at work bringing together their Winter Festival planned for Saturday, February 5th. Proceeds from the festival, being held in conjunction with their annual Benefit Singing, Silent Auction and Cake and Pie Auction, will go toward completion of the new school playground.

Individuals, families, businesses, church, and other organization, are needed to sponsor games and prizes, as well as work their booth/game at the Winter Festival. There are two ways anyone can help. The first is for you to sign up for a specific game and buy/order the necessary supplies needed for children to play the game and to donate money to help buy prizes. For example, if you chose to sponsor the Duck Pond, you would need to buy a plastic or inflatable pool, ducks and donate money to help buy prizes. The second way would be to donate a specific dollar amount, of $50 or more, and you will be assigned a game and supplies needed for the game will be purchased and the rest of the money put toward the purchase of prizes. Either way, sponsors will need to have two people to work your booth/game. This would be a great activity for youth groups, clubs and community service hours for high school students. Any extra game/prize donation money will be used as a donation to the playground fund.

Admission to the games will be with an armband

costing $6 for the first child and $3 for each additional sibling, purchased in advance, or $8 at the door for the first child and $4 for each additional sibling. The armband allows children to play unlimited games to earn tickets for prizes or to go to booths to make crafts, get their faces painted, balloon animals, etc. All children or persons who play a game would win at least one ticket for participating and more for success at the game. The tickets are then saved and traded in at the prize booth for the prize or prizes of the child’s choice, based on the number of tickets won. Each child will be given a bag at the door with his/her name on it in which to keep the tickets.

By having community members and organizations sponsor games and prizes, all proceeds from armband sales will go to the playground fund. Sponsors will have the opportunity to pass out appropriate information about your church, organization or business and a poster at your booth will relate the name of the game and sponsors name. This would be positive advertising for your organization while helping the children at Roundstone Elementary.

Please read the volunteer sheet in this week’s Signal and sign up to help. We have lots of jobs that need to be filled with volunteers.

For more information/questions, contact Cynthia Wolfe Rogers or Tonya Parrett Clark at the school 606-256-2235.

Mamaw’s Kitchen

By Regina Poynter Hoskins

BUTTER BEAN SOUP
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1 cup diced cooked ham
1 small onion, chopped
2 small carrots, chopped
2 celery stalks, chopped
2 cans butter beans, undrained
4 cups water
Salt and pepper
In a large saucepan, sauté the ham, onion, carrot and celery in oil until the onion is soft. Add water and beans to sautéed vegetables and ham. Stir in salt and pepper to taste. Simmer for 30 minutes, or until heated thoroughly.

FRENCH ONION SOUP
1/4 cup butter
6 cups thinly sliced onions
1/2 teaspoon sugar
2 cloves garlic, crushed
7 cups beef stock
Salt and pepper
Grated Parmesan cheese
Croutons
In a large saucepan, sauté the onions in the butter on medium-high heat for 10 minutes. Add the sugar and cook for another 35 to 45 minutes until well browned, but not burned. Add garlic and sauté for 3 minutes. Add the stock; season with salt and pepper. Cover partially and simmer until the flavors are well blended, about 30 minutes. Ladle into bowls. Add croutons to each bowl. Cover croutons with cheese. The heat from the soup should melt the cheese.

CHICKEN CORN CHOWDER
4 medium potatoes, diced
1 onion chopped, chopped
1 can (14 ounce) whole kernel corn
1 cup cooked chicken, bite-sized pieces
1 cup whole milk or cream
4 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper
1 tablespoon cornstarch, optional
Place potatoes and onion in pan, cover with cold water and 1 teaspoon salt; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and let simmer gently 30 minutes or until potatoes are very tender. It’s fine if the potatoes start breaking up. It just makes the soup a little thicker. Add the corn and chicken. Heat thoroughly. Add the milk or cream and butter; let butter melt. Season to taste and serve. If you want soup a little thicker, stir cornstarch into milk or cream before adding to potato mixture. Cook for an additional 5 minutes. Then add butter and seasoning. NOTE: Canned chicken works well in this recipe.

Money Tips for Students Plan your financial goals

Even students still in school should set long-term financial goals.

The biggest goal should be to save money for retirement. Recent and proposed changes to the nation’s Social Security system make this more important than ever.

An important goal for high school and college students is to graduate with as little student loan debt as possible. For high school students, this means doing the best they can in school to help them qualify for more scholarships. When applying for student loans, college students should borrow no more than what is necessary to pay college costs.

To plan for your financial future, make a list of your goals. Make reasonable estimates on how much you will set aside from each paycheck to save for those goals. You will have a better idea of how to reach your goals when you know for how long you will need to save. That may mean cutting back on dining out or shopping or taking a part-time job, if your schedule permits.

Remember that how much you earn may affect your financial aid package. Dependent students are expected to be able to use more of their earnings to pay for college because the financial aid system assumes their parents are paying for most of the students’ day-to-day expenses.

Whatever your goal, you have a much better chance of reaching it if you have a plan in place.

To learn how to plan and prepare for higher education, go to www.gotocollege.ky.gov. For more information about Kentucky scholarships and grants, visit www.kheaa.com; write KHEAA, P.O. Box 798, Frankfort, KY 40602-0798; or call (800) 928-8926, extension 6-7372.
