Nine File for City Council To Date

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Nine people have registered for Berea City Council as of Wednesday, with only two incumbents so far putting their hat in the ring.

All eight city council seats will be up for bids, and it's unknown how many incumbents are planning to run for re-election. Interested residents have until Tuesday to file.

So far, the only current city council members who have registered are Ronnie Terrill and Steve Caudill. Caudill is the only sitting council member who has not served more than one term. The six other

Council Approves PNC Bank for Interim Financing for City Hall

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

After reviewing interim financing bids for the new fire and police station on Tuesday evening, the Berea City Council voted to accept the 0.803 percent variable bid from PNC Bank on the approximate $10 million loan.

The City of Berea received five bids for interim financing of the new city hall, including Peoples Bank, Huntington Bank, Cumberland Valley National Bank, and Community Trust Bank. PNC Bank was the lowest rate, with Peoples Bank as the second lowest with a fixed rate of 1.69 percent.

Some of the council members were concerned with accepting a variable rate, since that could change monthly. Bowling said that PNC Bank's rate calculation follows LIBOR (London Interbank Offered Rate), which moves as the Federal Reserve changes their rates.

"The feds have been talking about raising their rates for two years," Financial Advisor Chris Bowling said, commenting that if they did decide to raise the rates, they would do it slowly.

Bowling estimated that with the fixed rate of 1.69 percent at Peoples Bank, the City of Berea would pay $132,453 in interest, and if the variable rate at PNC Bank stayed at 0.803, the city would pay $62,935. Even if the Federal Reserve raises their rates 25 basis points quarterly, the city would still pay less with PNC Bank's variable rate, of $111,518.

Council member Vi Farmer said she did like to use local banks, however. Bowling said if there was less difference between Peoples Bank's fixed rate, and PNC Bank's variable rate, he would recommend the fixed rate. But since the variable rate was so attractive, he recommended PNC Bank.

Rural Development has already agreed to lend the City of Berea over $10 million for the building of the new city hall/police/fire station, but they will not release that funding until the project is approximately 80 percent finished. The City of Berea, therefore, had to bid for interim financing to get the project going. The project is estimated to take 16 months, so the PNC Bank loan would get paid off once Rural Development releases their funds.

Council member Chester Powell reported that

Friday Concert Series Starts This Weekend

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The August Concert series in Berea will get started this Friday at the Berea Memorial Park with Dove Creek Bluegrass Band, followed by three more Friday concerts in August.

Jenny Jones from Berea Parks and Recreation has organized the concert series with the help of Berea Tourism, a summer event that former Parks and Recreation Director Maggie Kriebel started several years ago.

"We try to mix it up every year, so we're not having the same bands," Jones said, who commented that she and Tourism Director Kerri Hensley met earlier this year to plan out the August concerts. "We bring back old bands periodically, but we do want to bring in different talent."

So far, all the bands participating in the concert series have been from Kentucky.

Some of the members of Dove Creek will be familiar names to Bereans,

Women Build Berea Homes

By Kim Kobersmith
Citizen Reporter

On Saturday, Liz Laws had the joy of starting to build her own home with over 30 volunteers who came to hammer alongside her. "Praise the Lord! It feels real now," she shared.

While the walls were framed in a parking lot in Richmond, her home will be on Mason Lake Road in Berea. She and her granddaughter have health issues from the mold in their current trailer and look forward to moving into their safer, larger home in November.

Laws' partnership with Habitat for Humanity of Madison and Clark Counties offers her the support she needs to make home ownership a reality. "I couldn't afford it any other way," she says. Her home is designated as a Women's Build, initiated by the Business Babes, a support and outreach group for women business owners in Madison County. Most of the volunteers Saturday were women.

One of those volunteers was Jackie Couture. She has volunteered with Habitat for 10 years and especially appreciates the Women's Build projects. "I love empowering women to do things that are traditionally men's work, like using power tools," Couture says. She has learned so many skills in her years of volunteering and developed enough confidence

Ruth Pearl Cochran Hutchins

Ruth Pearl Cochran Hutchins, 73, the widow of Herman Hutchins, died on Wednesday, July 27, 2016 at the Compassionate Care Center in Richmond. Mrs. Hutchins was a native of Madison County, born to the late Cecil and Arebell Marcum Cochran. She was of the Holiness faith, and loved flowers, butterfly gardens, and crocheting.

Other than her parents and husband, she was preceded in death by two brothers, Donnie and Johnny Cochran.

Mrs. Hutchins is survived by her children, Linda (Mike) Pingleton of Berea, Jeannie (Darrell) Stanley of London, and Jim Hutchins, Cheryl Pigg, Connie Cope, Johnny Hutchins, Ronnie Hutchins and Bobbie Ann Hutchins, all of Berea; three brothers, Cecil "Dude" Cochran, Jr., Oscar "Doc" Cochran, and Bill (Wanda) Cochran, all of Richmond; one sister, Faye (Ellis) Baker of Cincinnati, Ohio; one sister-in-law, Bobbie Ann Cochran of Richmond; 11 grandchildren; 14 great grandchildren; and a host of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were at 11 a.m. on Monday, August 1 at Davis & Powell Funeral Home. Burial followed in the Madison County Memorial Gardens. www.davisandpowellfuneralhome.com

Copies of the Madison County Pictorial Book Now Available

Purchasers of the Madison County, Kentucky Pictorial History 1786-2015 Book can pick up their copies on August 6 and 7 at the Madison County Library on Main Street in Richmond.

On Saturday, pickups are between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., while Sunday pickups are from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Acclaim Publishers is currently packaging and mailing copies for those who requested shipment of the book.

The Madison County Historical Society was authorized to go forward with a second printing of the Madison County Pictorial Book after selling out the first printing. This beautiful 356-page book includes more than 1,500 photos of Madison County life through its ages and from every corner of the county. Reception and feedback on the quality and content of the book has been outstanding.

Approximately half of the books from the second printing have already been accounted for with pre-paid orders. The remaining books will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis at the library in Richmond. The cost at the door will be $55.

This is the last chance to purchase a copy, since the MCHS has no plans to pursue another printing. Anyone who cannot attend the pick-up times can send an email request to the MCHS website at info@madisonhistoryky.org. A reply will provide purchase instructions.

Questions may be directed to Tom Black at 859-582-6963.

GOP Ladies Host Annual Political Potluck Dinner

The Annual Political Pot Luck Dinner sponsored by the GOP Ladies Republican Club was held at the Madison County Fairgrounds with a large crowd in attendance.

The Keynote Speaker was State Treasurer Allison Ball. She spoke about her work in organizing the office for greater efficiency. Donna Mayfield, who represents several precincts in Madison County, along with Clark County, served as the emcee. Donna is up for re-election this fall, and she spoke briefly about her campaign and asked for the attendees' vote.

Donna introduced several guests including U.S. Congressman Andy Barr, who is up for re-election. He addressed the group and encouraged everyone to get out the vote on November 8 for all Republican party candidates. He discussed current events and some actions that need to be taken up by the next Congress to keep America strong.

Wes Morgan, candidate for the 81st District, was introduced by Donna. Wes set forth plans he has for his campaign, and announced a reception at his home on Willis Branch Road on August 9 at 6 p.m. His special guests will be Senator Rand Paul and Lt. Governor Jenean Hampton.

After the dinner, 71st State Representative Jonathan Shell remarked on the fall campaign and reported that Republicans have a full slate of good candidates state-wide. He auctioned several items, including a Trump hat. There was a silent auction during the evening, with proceeds going towards the candidates' campaigns.

Kelley McBride presented special music, including a beautiful rendition of America the Beautiful. The door prize, a floral centerpiece, was donated by Foley Florist of Berea.

Betty Murphy won the flowers.

Sue Ann James received the Mary James Community and Political Activism Award in recognition of her enthusiasm and faithful participation in club activities and campaigns. Mary James was a staunch Republican leader in Madison County party politics and the award was created in her memory.

Sue Ann served as club vice president, historian, and as chair of several committees. She attended both State and National Federation Republican Women's Conventions as a club delegate. Her community service includes volunteering for Home Meals Delivery and the Community Relay for Life Committee. Mary James' daughter, Kathy Renfro and great granddaughter, Danielle Renfro, presented the plaque.

It was a sentimental time for the family, since Sue Ann is the daughter-in-law of Mary James. The family also presented a bouquet of flowers to honor Sue Ann.

Gertrude Miller

Gertrude Miller, 76, of Berea passed away Saturday, July 30, 2016 at Hospice Compassionate Care Center in Richmond. She was born in Rockcastle County to the late William David and Dorothy Durham VanWinkle.

Gertrude was a homemaker.

In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by her husband, Owen Edward "Butch" Miller; one son, William Cain; and six siblings, Ruby, Goldie, George, Viola, Lonzie and Alpha Mae.

She is survived by her children, James (Frankie) Michael Cain, Kenny Cain, Etta (Keith) Cain Leger, and Marla (Pete) Cain Fryman; 12 grandchildren; 14 great grandchildren; and two siblings, Clyde David VanWinkle and Faye Himes.

Funeral services were at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, August 2, 2016 at Lakes Funeral Home with Bro. Keith Leger officiating. Burial followed in the Scaffold Cane Cemetery. Active pallbearers were Bill Cain, Daniel Cain, Ben Kirby, Jerry Kirby, Patrick Kirby, and Adam Kirby. The honorary bearer was James Phillips.

BEREA POLICE REPORTS

Receiving Stolen Property

• On July 25, an officer saw a suspicious vehicle parked at Indian Fort Theatre with two women inside. Both of them showed obvious signs of impairment, and one was in possession of a syringe and neurontin tablets.

Officers arrested Tasha Alexander, 36, of Berea and Kacey Neeley, 24, of Berea. It was later discovered that the vehicle they were in was taken without the owner's permission. Both were charged with public intoxication and receiving stolen property under $10,000. Alexander was also charged with drug paraphernalia possession, illegal possession of a legend drug, and prescription of controlled substance not in proper container.

• On July 27, officers arrested Jordan Hays, 28, for several traffic offenses following a traffic stop. After an investigation and interview with Hays, they discovered he was in possession of a stolen firearm on July 20. He was charged with the traffic offenses as well as receiving stolen property (firearm).

• On July 28, officers arrested Chris Terrill, 27, of Berea after he was seen driving a stolen vehicle. He was charged with receiving stolen property under $10,000.

• On July 31, officers were called to Knight's Inn for a drug complaint. They found a vehicle in front of the room, and when they checked the plate the vehicle came back stolen. Officers arrested Michael Purvis, 41, of Olympia and charged him with receiving stolen property under $10,000.

A small amount of methamphetamine was located when Purvis was lodged in the Madison County Detention Center. He was additionally charged with first degree possession of controlled substance and second degree promoting contraband.

DUI/Drug Arrest

• On July 26, officers were called to the Bobtown Country Store because of someone passed out in a vehicle. When officers contacted the driver, he showed several signs of impairment. He was also in possession of synthetic marijuana and a glass pipe.

Officers arrested James Wilson, 25, of Berea and charged him with operating a motor vehicle under the influence -- first offense, possession of synthetic drugs, and drug paraphernalia possession.

• On August 1, officers were called to the intersection of Ellipse and Highway 595 because of an injury collision. The driver of the vehicle had a bag of synthetic drugs in her lap when they arrived. She told the officers she had taken gabapentin and showed signs of impairment.

There was a small child in the vehicle as well as an adult passenger. Officers arrested Cindy Bicknell, 50, of Richmond and charged her with operating a motor vehicle under the influence -- first offense, first degree wanton endangerment, second degree assault, possession of synthetic drugs, and failure to wear seat belts.

Fleeing/Evading Arrest

• On July 26, an officer was stopping several people at Valero while investigating suspicious activity. One of the subjects refused to stop and began running away from the officer. He was caught on Ridgewood Drive.

During the chase, the officer damaged his uniform and lost his body camera. Officers arrested Glen Cox, 40, of Richmond and charged him with second degree fleeing or evading police, second degree criminal mischief, and third degree criminal mischief. Cox also had several active arrest warrants.

Public Intoxication

• On July 27, officers were called to Glades Village Apartments because of someone passed out in front of one of the apartments. EMS checked the subject, but he showed several signs of impairment. Officers arrested Jason Carpenter, 23, of Berea and charged him with public intoxication.

• On July 27, officers were called to Circle K on Richmond Road because of a woman asking people for money. They found her in the parking lot, and she showed several signs of impairment. Officers arrested Amy Bingham, 36, of Somerset and charged her with public intoxication.

• On July 30, officers were called to Kaye Street because of someone passed out in a vehicle. When officers contacted the man, he showed several signs of impairment. Officers arrested Robert Hager, 40, of McKee and charged him with public intoxication.

EPO/DVO Violation

• On July 28, officers were called to 103 Bowman Road because of a possible disturbance. They spoke to two people at the residence and discovered that there was an active protective order in place. Officers arrested Matthew Harrison, 35, of McKee and charged him with violation of a Kentucky EPO/DVO.

Shoplifting Arrest

• On July 30, officers were called to Walmart because of a shoplifter attempting to leave the store. Before the officers arrived, the woman ran to Cracker Barrel where she was eventually found. She showed signs of impairment and gave the officer a false name.

Officers arrested Ashley Curry, 24, of Richmond and charged her with theft by unlawful taking -- shoplifting, public intoxication, and giving officer false name or address.

Drug Arrest

• On July 31, officers were called to Fairfield Inn because of a woman passed out on the floor. Officers spoke to a man who was also in the room, and eventually located a syringe and three pills in his pockets. Officers arrested Jeremy Miller, 36, of Berea and charged him with drug paraphernalia possession and third degree possession of controlled substance.

Berea Voted #1 Craft Town

For the past six weeks, and with over 47,789 Facebook votes tallied, craft lovers all over the country voted Berea as their #1 favorite town for crafts.

Beating out much larger cities such as St. Petersburg, Fla. (#2), Asheville, N.C. (#7), Louisville (#10), and Northampton, Mass. (#8), Berea fans logged onto the American Craft Week website to vote.

The contest was sponsored by the organization Craft, and the Craft Retailers Association, whose annual focus is the celebration of craft during American Craft Week October 1-16, 2016.

The town of Berea is synonymous with the word craft and was designated by the state legislature as the "Folk Arts and Craft Capital of Kentucky." Berea is home to Berea College which in 1883 started its Fireside Industries program which continues today as the Berea College Student Crafts Program. This college program creates and sells weavings, wood products, brooms and pottery to buyers from all over the country.

"This contest really tapped into Berea's sense of community pride, into Kentucky's great network of artists, and into the amazing number of visitors who come to Berea," said arts consultant Judy Sizemore. "Even people who don't live in this town -- they take pride in Berea as a community and as craft lovers."

Vote for candidates for limited government

Dear Editor,
Supposedly, Kentucky city government elections are to be, "non-partisan."

Five years ago, Mayor Connelly plunged this city headlong into the very "partisan" culture war with his attempt to dictate to the citizens of Berea on matters of conscience during his failed "Fairness" crusade. Add in his reckless derailing of the city's largest annual tourism draw in a pander to a racist front group ("Hands up, don't shoot" never happened), and it should come as no surprise the voters of Berea are increasingly awakening to the fact our mayor is a left wing zealot.

This November, there will be candidates for city council who will make clear they will be solid "no" votes to Mayor Connelly's tax and spend/extremist agenda. All those who paid attention in elementary civics class understand the Founding Fathers' intent was for the people's representatives in the legislative branch to control the purse strings. In other words, we will soon have candidates for Berea City Council who, if you elect them, will compel Mayor Connelly to get off our backs (and out of our pockets with palatial projects/purchases), or they will refuse to approve the spending of your tax dollars.

In practical terms: "You want another pet project or crusade Mr. Mayor? Then dig into your hip pocket and write your own check."

In this fall's election, the presidential race won't be the only one in which you the voter can strike a blow against a liberal elitist. Though his name won't be on the ballot, the fate of the last two years of the mayor's tenure will be at stake. Will those be two more years of wasting your tax dollars and bullying you as to how you should think, or will he be put into his proper place by a strong majority of limited government, conservative councilmen (such as Ronnie Terrill) with backbone?

Encourage your family; friends; neighbors; co-workers; social media contacts; and particularly fellow church goers to pay close attention to where the city council candidates stand in regard to the mayor's authoritarian record. Remind them to vote for only those (you are under no obligation to vote for eight candidates unless all eight of those candidates are clear limited government champions) who will stop the mayor's excesses and pave the way for the election in two years of a city chief executive who understands the citizens are sovereign and our elected officials are the servants of the people...Not the other way around.

The Career that Never Was

Letters from Berea

Beth Myers
Editor

My kids are going through a low-level of depression this week, as the first day of school looms ever closer. It has seemed like a very short summer, so I can't blame them for feeling a bit jipped.

I remember well that emotional cocktail of dread, excitement, and fear before the start of school, when I wondered if my teachers would be nice, if I would have any friends in my class during the lunch hour, and if my locker would be close enough to my classes.

I actually got my degree in elementary education, though I have never worked in a classroom as a certified teacher in my life. I'm not sure what I was thinking when I declared that major - probably just that this degree at least had a job title behind it.

When I had student teaching during my last year of school, I had to do half a semester in first grade, and half a semester in eighth grade. When I first walked through my assigned elementary school, I practically had a panic attack. I watched the kids marching like little soldiers, with their teacher's faces all curled up and pruny, and all the little ducks and yellow flowers on the bulletin boards mocking me with their inanity. I had conveniently forgotten how much I hated elementary schools, and now I was trapped in one for six weeks.

My hope was that the eighth grade classes would feel better, with older kids, but on my first day the students were knocking each other up against the walls. In relief, the classroom teacher pushed me forward while she ran for coffee. For several hours. When my college professor came visiting, she was critical that my classroom teacher had written grades right on top of their art work. I remember looking at her in a daze, thinking, "lady, if only that was my biggest problem."

I gritted my teeth through that semester, smoked too much, and promised myself I would never teach again.

Everyone should have the experience of trying to teach a classroom of kids -- it's an incredibly humbling experience. I would go out with college friends to diners at night, and watch the waitresses with envy. I'd think, I could do that, this wonderful job of serving food to people that I'm not teaching. I could serve pie and be happy.

That was pretty typical thinking for me, during those twelve weeks of student teaching. I'd watch street sweepers, janitors, serial killers, and feel this longing for the simpler life where I could just conduct certain tasks and then go home without facing children's mocking faces. I fantasized about being a bartender -- I've never mixed a drink in my life, by the way -- and going home to a small apartment filled with books and music, where I could eat cheese and beignets and need very little money.

It was a pretty weird time for me.

Because of that experience, I have an enormous respect for teachers, especially the unconventional ones who bring such creativity into the classroom while still attending to the tons of paperwork, assessment, and state requirements that snow them under daily. When I have a concern regarding my kids, and their classroom experience at Berea Community, I have a difficult time bringing it up to their teachers. I'll argue with my husband that teachers already have hard, traumatizing careers, and they shouldn't be burdened with my worries. He always takes the lead in those discussions.

So here's a salute to all you teachers getting ready to start the new year. Better you than me.

Thank you for supporting clothing giveaway

Dear Editor,

We would like to thank all the people in our community for their many donations of items for our free clothing giveaway on July 29 and 30. We'd also like to give a thank you to all businesses who helped in any way to promote the event, and also donated items to help us with this ministry.

We were able to help over 1,000 individuals with clothing and other items because of the outpouring of love shown in the community. We were truly blessed as a church family as individuals' comments were so uplifting to us for our Ministry.

Without everyone's help and support, this would not have been such a huge success.

Join us annually the last weekend in July for this free giveaway of clothing and accessories.

Human Rights Commission ignoring disability

Dear Editor,

It was my understanding that the Berea Human Rights Commission was created to "endeavor to eliminate discrimination against and antagonism between religious, racial, sex, age, physical disability and ethnic groups." This is the description of the commission listed on their Facebook page which is paraphrased from Ordinance No. 09-2011, which established the commission.

However when I reached out to the BHRC in August 2015, with a phone call, Facebook messages and through filing a formal complaint about being harassed and threatened for a disability, I was told it did not fall within their purview because it did not involve housing or employment. It didn't matter that my family had received over 80 text messages always in the middle of the night spouting all kinds of hatred, Facebook posts attacking us and had asked repeatedly to be left alone or that we had a person block our street and stand intimidatingly in the road, another person curse us out while in Walmart and personal property was damaged. The BHRC did nothing to help us.

The BHRC has addressed issues of racial injustice in the community and promoted events to create inclusiveness for persons of color and the LGBT community, but looking at their Facebook page they have done nothing to promote inclusiveness for the disabled in our community. You only see disability mentioned three times in their Facebook posts and the few meeting minutes shared on Facebook. These times are in the creation of the group with a quote from the ordinance, when they mention Disability Awareness month, but no mention of doing anything to promote it, and the Americans with Disabilities Act. The latter two are in the July 6, 2015 minutes. And at one time they had a cover photo that included an image of a person in a wheelchair. None of these did anything to encourage inclusiveness for persons with disabilities in our community.

To my knowledge there have been events in the community for autism, Alzheimer's and in May 2016, US Congressman Andy Barr came to Berea Community School and at least one of the members of the BHRC was aware of the event held to discuss legislation and education for those with disabilities. The BHRC could have reached out and promoted these events to encourage inclusion.

In the minutes for the December 1, 2015 Berea City Council meeting it is noted that two complaints were received and several harassments were reported with the BHRC during the 2014 -2015 year. The chairperson of the commission states that complaints were referred to the Berea Police department for further investigation. Well my case wasn't referred to anyone. Assuming one of these is the one I filed and they did nothing to help my family and me then what exactly is their purpose? Why do they even list disabilities in their purpose when they have done nothing to help persons with disabilities?

including Pam Combs, Mike French, Larry Rains, and Jim West. Their music is a blend of bluegrass, country, gospel, blues, and more. They will be performing at 7 p.m. at the Memorial Park, close to the First Friday festival in Old Town.

"We try to do a different genre each week," Jones said.

On Friday, August 12, local favorite Bobby James, who is based out of Nashville, will be performing at 7 p.m. The following week, Belles of the Bluegrass, two talented women fiddlers from western Kentucky, will be performing bluegrass. The concert series will end with Signature Band out of Somerset, a classic rock band that plays songs from 70s, 80s, and 90s, on Friday, August 26.

The Berea Volunteer Fire Department will again be on hand with refreshments during the event, and people are invited to bring chairs or blankets to enjoy the music at the park.

"This is a great family event," Jones said. "You can bring the kids, and they can play on the playground while you listen to the music."

Jones said they usually get a good turnout for the August concert series, often with 75 to 100 people attending. Most are local people, Jones said, but some travel from other counties such as Jackson and Garrard, or other cities. "Last year a family came, and some of their members were from New Jersey," Jones said.

Both Hensley and Jones research different bands, ask around, and investigate new talent in the area.

community can see the police out of uniform," Pastor Josh Hampton said of Calvary. "It's in support of them, so people are not afraid of them. The last thing we want is for something to happen like in Dallas. We want to get out in front of this, and be proactive."

Hampton's friend, Ryan Mills, had the idea for Pedal with Police, after starting the Berea Bicycle Club which meets at 7 p.m. every Sunday. This would be a good way, Mills thought, for people to get exercise as well as spend some time with the police officers. Hampton has also talked to other first responders about participating in the bike ride, from local firefighters, EMT, and even police from Winchester and Fayette County. The police have responded favorably, Hampton said, and he is hoping several will come out on Sunday.

Mayor Steve Connelly will make an appearance as well at 6 p.m. Kona Ice will also be there, selling their favored slushies.

Hampton hopes to make Pedal with the Police an annual event that Calvary

Apostolic Church would sponsor. Though the event may start out small, he's hopeful that it will continue to grow.

"I'm expecting a couple of Cub Scouts, and hopefully we'll have some younger kids there too," Hampton said.

Calvary Apostolic has collected 25 cases of donated water for the event from places like Save A Lot, Kroger, and Walmart. Hampton said they plan to pray for the police officers before the bike ride, but that will be the only religious activity taking place.

HABITAT

that she took on building her own home.

Women's Build projects are not about excluding men, but about empowering women, and Kellie McClure on the Habitat staff shares, "Women's Build is a really comfortable, safe space for first time volunteers."

Interested volunteers and groups can sign up at www.habitatmadison-clark.org.

Larilynn Koury was also swinging a hammer on Saturday. Inspired to get involved at Habitat's Founder's Breakfast last year, Koury has volunteered with Habitat for less than a year. First working in the office one day a week and then serving on the family selection committee, she has now thrown her energies into the Women's Build. Her fundraising efforts have brought in over $2000 and she plans to have at least ten friends work alongside her in the coming months. Koury shares, "I see families in need of safe and affordable housing, and it is very rewarding to help build a house where the family is a partner in the work."

Habitat is also looking for more women to help fundraise by setting up a personal page at womenubuild.habitatmadison-clark.org. Then women reach out through their own networks and invite friends and co-workers to contribute, with a goal of $500 for each page.

Of the $50,000 needed, $28,000 has been raised, in part thanks to a $10,000 gift from the Novelis Neighbor initiative. "One of our main focus areas for Novelis Neighbor is safety. By extending our focus of 'Safety First' beyond our facility we are able to support organizations like Habitat for Humanity, helping to keep our neighbors safe," shares Tammy Peyton with Novelis Neighbor.

After just a few hours of work on Saturday, volunteers stood up all the exterior walls and Laws could see the outline of her new home, the beginning of a dream come true.

several residents from Haiti Road attended the last public works committee meeting, because of their concerns with speeding in their neighborhood. Street Department Director Dwayne Brumley brought some signs for people to look at that had blinking lights on them, but they were $3,000 each, so the committee decided to forgo purchasing those.

"We decided to add a couple more speeding signs," Powell said, "and add a three-way stop."

The council approved putting a three-way stop at Haiti and Taylor. Powell said more police protection is needed at Haiti, and residents have already noticed more patrols happening. Public works committee member Steve Caudill announced that they were still working on putting trailheads up.

In other business:

- A first reading was heard on authorizing general obligation bonds for the new city hall construction. The loan from Rural Development of $10.4 million is handled like a bond, with the federal government the only purchaser.

- Several items were listed as surplus, such as an air break switch, fused cutouts, and current transformers. The items will be donated to the City of Paris, Ky.

- There was a $200,000 decrease to the construction costs of the new city hall building, since the city is undergoing several cost-cutting measures, including ordering their own supplies and materials to save on sales tax. The new construction cost equaled $9,874,100.

- Craig Still was reappointed to the Code Enforcement board.

- Susan Buckmaster was appointed as a new ethics board member.

- Sandy Rowlette asked city council to put the agenda and minutes of the tourism commission meetings online. Tourism Director Kerri Hensley said the agenda was on Facebook, and she would start putting the minutes on the city website. Rowlette also asked how someone in the community could find out when there were openings on the city boards or commissions. Some council members thought it would be a good idea to post openings online.

- City staff are now divided between the old Tolle building, the old Ford building behind it, and the Berea Municipal Building because of the upcoming construction project of city hall. The phone numbers remain the same. If anyone needs to see City Administrator Randy Stone, City Clerk Cheryl Chasteen, Mayor Steve Connelly, or Business Development Director Danny Isaacs, they should ask for them in the lobby of the municipal building on Harrison Road.

- Gold Star Chili has acquired their building permit, to construct a restaurant at the old KFC site, and El Rio Grande has acquired their alcohol license.

- There will be a city council work session on the power supply contract on Aug. 10 at 5:30 p.m. in council chambers. Representatives from AMP will be present at the meeting. On September 20, the tourism commission will meet with city council.

Berea Independent School District NOTICE OF HEARING

The Berea Independent Board of Education will hold a public hearing in the Kennedy Theater at Berea Community High School on August 22, 2016, at 6:00pm to hear public comments regarding a proposed general fund tax levy of 89.1 cents on real property and 89.1 cents on personal property.

The General Fund tax levied in fiscal year 2016 was 89.1 cents on real property and 89.1 cents on personal property and produced revenue of $1,836,712.08. The proposed General Fund tax rate of 89.1 cents on real property and 89.1 cents on personal property is expected to produce $1,934,960.25. Of this amount $162,195.68 is from new and personal property. The compensating tax for 2017 is 88.8 cents on real property and 88.8 cents on personal property and is expected to produce $1,928,445.24.

The general areas to which revenue of $98,248.17 above 2016 revenue is to be allocated are as follows: Cost of collections, $1,473.72; instruction, $80,000.00; and maintenance of plant, $16,774.45. The General Assembly has required publication of this advertisement and information contained herein.

Sculptures to Demonstrate at Artisan Center throughout the U.S. and is in numerous museum collections including the J.B. Speed Art Museum in Louisville.

On Saturday, August 13, Albert Nelson will demonstrate sculpting with his signature medium limestone. A sculptor since 1972, Nelson began by carving wood. He later became interested in stone and now focuses his imagery around relationships – depicting mothers and children often in his sculpture. Nelson's work has been described as spiritual, accessible and peaceful with an immediate visual and emotional appeal. His 30-ton limestone sculpture of a fielder's baseball mitt is in the Louisville Slugger Museum.

On Saturday, August 13, the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea will offer visitors free guided tours through the center's gallery exhibit, "Great Impressions: Prints by Kentucky Artisans" and the lobby exhibit, "Kentucky Clay: A Continuing Tradition."

These free, guided exhibit tours will be led by Kentucky Artisan Center staff who will talk about the exhibit, the artists and individual works. Staff will answer questions about the techniques and various processes used and the objects featured. Tours will be given at 11 a.m. and again at 2 p.m.

On Saturday, August 20, three members of the Berea Welcome Center Carvers will demonstrate a variety of woodcarving styles and techniques from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea.

Members of the Berea Welcome Center Carvers live in many communities in central Kentucky, and their activities include carving classes, carving demonstrations at schools, monthly Kentucky Artisan Center demonstrations and special events.

On Saturday, August 27, sculptor Mike McCarthy will carve stone in a demonstration from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the center. In 2010, McCarthy turned from carving wood to carving stone, which has become his preferred material.

"I strive for my work to have a feeling of softness even though the materials I use have hard surfaces and qualities," McCarthy said. "Creating art has always been a necessity for me and sculpting allows my ideas to come to life."

The center's exhibit, shopping and travel information areas are open daily from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and the cafe is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free.

The Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea currently features works by more than 700 artisans from more than 100 counties across the Commonwealth. Special exhibits on display include "Great Impressions: Prints by Kentucky Artisans," through Sept. 10, 2016; and in the lobby, "Kentucky Clay: A Continuing Tradition." For more information about events call 859-985-5448, or visit the center's website or Facebook page.

Back-To-School the Healthy & Safe Way

Little Advice
 Robbie Little, Berea Drug

It's just about that time again: Time to switch from swimsuits to school clothes and from beach bags to backpacks. That's the easy part. What about preparing your child to have the healthiest and safest school year possible? Here's a handy checklist to help.

1. Schedule medical, eye, and dental check-ups. Before school starts, check with the pediatrician to see if your child needs any immunizations. Vision and hearing tests are also a good idea, although schools perform hearing tests during certain grades. If your child is playing sports, ask the pediatrician whether a special checkup is needed. With certain sports, concussions can be a serious problem. Talk to the doctor about ways to protect your child.

2. Organize your child's medical history records. Provide copies to your child's school or daycare providers. I can help you pull some of this together, but the list should include your child's:

- Prescription medications;
- Medical problems such as asthma;
- Previous surgeries;
- Emergency contacts;

3. Communicate about transportation. Some kids get dropped up and picked up by parents. Others carpool. Still others walk, bike, or take the bus. And, of course, teens may have their own wheels. Regardless, it's important that your kids are safe getting to and from school.

If you or another adult picks up your child, agree on a time and place for pickups. Explain what to do if the driver is running late. If your child walks or bikes, do a dry run and explain any potential traffic hazards.

If your child or teen takes the bus, find a safe route and agree on a visible pick-up and drop-off spot. Ideally, this is a place where other kids are around and adults can clearly see them. If your teen drives to school, be crystal clear about safe driving—including ditching that teen temptation: texting while driving.

Create an emergency plan in case anything goes awry. In fact, make sure your child knows what to do in an emergency.

4. Remember that there's more to school than hitting the books. For example, good nutrition and exercise are essential for brain health. Here are a few other reminders:

- Be consistent about bedtime and wake-up times. Growing kids need at least 8 hours of sleep—and teens need even more.
- Make homework a habit by having clear routines. But don't overlook free time and friend time.
- Explain ways to prevent infection such as washing hands and not sharing hats or other clothing. That's one way lice get around!
- Keep lines of communication open. Listen for signs of bullying or other concerns. Many parents find that car rides are a great time to have nonthreatening conversations with their kids. Contact the school if a problem like bullying does arise.

Nothing here constitutes medical advice, or is a substitute for professional advice. You should always seek the advice of your physician if you have questions.

ZIKA VIRUS

Madison County Travelers Urged to Take Precautions

By Beth Myers
 Citizen Editor

While there have been no confirmed Zika virus cases in Madison County yet, there have been several in Kentucky, which has led to state health departments working quickly to educate their communities.

"According to the Department of Public Health in Frankfort, there have been 12 confirmed Zika cases in Kentucky," Jim Thacker, the communications coordinator of the Madison County Health Department said, "and we have tested some folks here. When folks come back from overseas, they need to do everything they can to avoid being bitten."

The confirmed Zika cases in Kentucky were all acquired overseas, which is good news for the state. If local mosquitos end up acquiring the virus by biting carriers of Zika, then a local outbreak would be much more likely.

Most people who contract the Zika virus overseas will never develop symptoms, Thacker said, since 70 to 80 percent do not become sick with the Zika fever. Those who do become ill usually have only mild symptoms. The four main symptoms of Zika, conjunctivitis, rash, fever, and joint pain, are fairly common for fevers. Carriers of the virus, however, can spread it through mosquitos, and then Zika could make its way to the most vulnerable population for the virus—the fetus of pregnant women.

Children who have been infected with the Zika virus in utero can have microcephaly, severe brain malformations, or other birth defects. Some babies, however, who are born to a woman who carries the Zika virus do not show symptoms either.

Thacker and other officials in Kentucky are particularly concerned about church mission trips, since they often travel to areas where Zika screening is most likely inadequate. These places are also areas where people tend to spend more time outside, because of the lack of housing. The Madison County Health Department is offering free information sessions on Zika awareness and prevention to church groups. They can be scheduled by calling Jim Thacker at 859-228-2040.

People who travel back to Madison County from a trip abroad are encouraged to follow the three D's; Dress, Drain, and Defend. They should keep as much skin covered as possible, to avoid being bitten by local mosquitos; standing water should not sit for more than seven days; and insect repellents should be used. Pregnant women, or women trying to get pregnant, are encouraged to not travel overseas at all. Their sexual partners should also stay at home, since the virus can be sexually transmitted.

"The Zika virus clears a person's blood stream in two to three weeks," Thacker said. "But they have found the Zika virus in a man's semen for up to 100 days. So if a man comes back from a trip abroad, and their wife is pregnant, they are encouraged to have safe sex."

Right now there are protocols set by the State of Kentucky regarding testing of the Zika virus, so the health department can't test everyone who travels. People interested in getting tested can contact the nurse epidemiologist at the health department.

Baptist Health Recognized for Organ Donor Activities

Baptist Health Richmond was among a select group of hospitals nationwide recognized for promoting enrollment in state organ donor registries in a national campaign sponsored by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA).

The campaign has added 400,000 donor enrollments to state registries nationwide since 2011. The hospitals conducted awareness and registry campaigns that educated staff, patients, visitors and community members about the critical need for organ, eye and tissue donors.

The hospitals earned points for each activity implemented between May 2015 and April 2016.

Baptist Health Richmond was awarded platinum recognition by HRSA. Of the 995 hospitals and transplant centers participating in the campaign, only 281 achieved platinum level.

Three Madison County Arts Organizations Receive KAP Funding

The Kentucky Arts Council has awarded more than $14,000 in operating support to three arts organizations in Madison County for the 2017 fiscal year through its Kentucky Arts Partnership (KAP) program.

The three arts organizations are Berea Arts Council, which received $3,929; Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen, which received $2,973; and Richmond Area Arts Council, which received $7,489. The KAP program provides nonprofit arts organizations with unrestricted operating support to ensure that year-round participation in the arts is available to the people of Kentucky. "Kentucky's nonprofit arts organizations are essential to the well-being and character of their respective communities," said Lori Meadows, Kentucky Arts Council executive director. "They relate to many aspects of community life, including education, history, local culture and tourism. They also provide access to arts activities through classes, exhibits, performances and many other opportunities for residents and visitors to participate in the arts." The competitive grants are awarded annually.

Human Rights Commission Solicits Nominations for John G. Fee Award

September 9, 2016 will mark 200 years since the birth of Rev. John G. Fee, abolitionist and founder of Berea College.

Each year the Berea Human Rights Commission (BHRC) presents the John G. Fee Award to a Berea resident or group who has promoted human rights in the city based on nominations from the community.

The Commission is currently soliciting nominations for the John G. Fee Award; they will be accepted until August 31, 2016. The BHRC encourages everyone in the community to nominate an individual or group whose support for human rights has made a significant contribution to maintaining, improving, or expanding the human rights of fellow Berea residents. Nominations should include a clear statement of no more than 100 words describing the specific courageous or praiseworthy conduct on behalf of human rights that supports the nomination. Nominations must provide the full name, address and other contact information for the nominator as well as for the individual or group being nominated for the award.

Berea Human Rights Commission, 204 N. Broadway, Suite 20, Berea KY 40403 or by email to mharrington@bereaky.gov. The BHRC will make the final selection from the full list of nominees. The award will be presented during a City Council meeting in September, and at this time, a complete list of nominees will also be shared. The winner's name will be added to the plaque in Berea City Hall that lists each year's recipient.

Relatives of founding African-American members of the organization were in attendance for the granting of the award as well.

The inaugural John G. Fee Award was given in 2013 to the "Concerned Citizens of Berea" organization. The group was established to resolve tensions within the community following a racial confrontation that resulted in murder in 1968. Robert Shaffer and Loyal Jones, two surviving members of the group, accepted the award on behalf of the organization. In 2014, the award was given to Jackie and Virgil Burnside and a special commendation from the BHRC was conferred on Dori and Tom Hubbard. There was no award given in 2015.

"Then Jesus said to the chief priests, the officers of the temple guard, and the elders, who had come for him, 'Am I leading a rebellion, that you have come with swords and clubs? Every day I was with you in the temple courts, and you did not lay a hand on me. But this is your hour—when darkness reigns.'"

The Jeff Richey Experience to Launch New Album at the Library

Shelf Notes

Ruthie Maslin, Madison Co. Library

people in the past. "They're about celebrating and promoting the work of living people," he explained. "I think it's remarkable to live in Madison County where there are so many writers and musicians and artists." A person can go to the library, check out a book or CD, and maybe the person who created it is right there in the library, too, Richey added.

The partnership series MCPL Adult Programming Coordinator Athena Gentry does with the Berea Arts Council -- See the Art, Meet the Artisan -- is another example of this type of connection.

Each month, the work of a different local artist/artisan is showcased in the Berea library location, then the last Sunday of the month, the public is invited to the library to meet the person who created the art and hear more about his or her process.

This month, we are featuring the painting of Robert Berger, and you can meet him at the Berea library location on Sunday, August 28, at 2 PM.

That's just a couple of days after you meet the band at the launch party of The Jeff Richey Experience's new album, Watching the Waves. The launch party will be held at the MCPL Berea location, 319 Chestnut Street, in front of the fireplace, starting at 6:30 PM.

In actuality, it will be a free concert by The Jeff Richey Experience -- with cake. It's guitarist Robert Rorrer's birthday, and there will be cake.

Watching the Waves is an amazing album, and if you would like a preview, you can check out a copy from the Madison County Public Library. There will also be CDs available for sale at the launch party.

Although Richey says "I'm not sure there's a genre that describes what we do," he likes to describe the band's sound as "Joyous Jazz Rock for the General Public."

This is the 4th album The Jeff Richey Experience has released, and while there are a lot of similarities between this album and the previous ones (Jeff wrote all the songs and produced the album, for example), he said it has a distinctly different sound, due in large part to the addition of a saxophone to the lineup.

When guitarist Jason Coomes left last year, they decided to change up the classic rock lineup of two guitars, bass and drums, and replace one of the guitars with a sax. Matthew "Zip" Irvin and his sax joined band members Mike Berheide on drums, Robert Rorrer on rhythm guitar and vocals, and Jeff Richey on lead vocals, bass and keyboards.

Richey said the result is that the songs harmonically are more complex, and they are a bit "jazzier." On the album, they included several songs written for the original band, but they took out the electric guitar parts and overdubbed the sax, giving the songs a very different feel.

Also a little different on Watching the Waves is Richey playing "a lot of keyboards, which is a little out of my comfort zone." You will discover an "extensive improvisational jazz jam" tucked into one of the tracks. Comfort zone or not, it really works.

While Richey cites bands like Traffic, Steely Dan, and the Grateful Dead as major musical influences, the major inspiration for this album is much more personal.

The album cover is a picture of his maternal great-grandfather somewhere in East Asia in the mid-1940s. His grandfather ran away and joined the US Coast Guard during World War II, and served not only through the war, but for a number of years after.

Richey said he always felt a great closeness to his grandfather, and that many people said the two were so alike they even walked alike.

"A lot of the songs on this album have some connection to my grandfather," he explained, citing not only the nautical references, but themes of family connections, longing, and addiction.

Previous albums Starfish, Down to the Sea, and Let It Shine -- also available for check-out from the library -- share some of the same themes and connections.

The Jeff Richey Experience is truly that -- an experience that you will not want to miss. Although the band members have "day jobs" -- mostly in academia, they are consummate musicians. Watching the Waves, with its jazz-rock vibe, runs deep with often soulful lyrics and echoes of the natural, full-bodied sound of rock bands of the '60s and '70s.

I hope to see you soon at the library and at the launch party for The Jeff Richey Experience's new Album, Watching the Waves, Friday, August 26, 6:30 PM, at the Madison County Public Library's Berea location, 319 Chestnut Street. It's free and open to all -- bring the whole family. And don't forget -- there will be cake.

Reflections

FROM THE BEREA CITIZEN ARCHIVES AUGUST 1956

mittee chairman, Bentley Cummins, to plan for the Sixth Annual Homecoming in Berea, with invitations to such music stars as Red Foley, Roland Gaines, Billy Keith Williams, the Coon Creek Girls, and others. Many said it was the best Homecoming show yet, with Ernie Lee Cornelison, Jimmy Kinner, and Betty Foley heading the list for the show at Indian Fort Theater. Roy Drusky and the Rhythm Kings were also slated to play.

Several women from Berea signed up to participate in the Homecoming Miss Berea contest of 1956. They included Shirley Allen, Irene Lewis, Johnnie Ann Horn, Jean Wilson, Connie Sue Radford, Anna Carol Hamblen, Lucy Payne, Peggy Hamilton, Marie Lawless, Diane Jackson, Nancy Smith, Margaret Ann Lewis, Barbara Rose, Joyce Lamon, Jo Ann Leming, Diana Brown, and Vera Sue Roop.

The South Madison and Rockcastle County Homemakers held their annual meeting in August 1956. Homemakers who had perfect attendance the past year were recognized -- Mrs. Pat McCray, Mrs. John Carroll, Mae Boggs, Flora Brown, Maude Brown, Sophia Brown, Mrs. Alleyne Davis, Mrs. Frankie Brown, Rinda Brown, Mrs. Charles King, Mrs. Jesse King, Myrtle King, Mrs. Dan Botkin, Mrs. C. 25 File for City Council

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The number of people running for Berea City Council in the past two election cycles has been historically high, and this year continues that increasing trend.

Twenty-five people have registered to run for the city council, and 17 are newcomers to the local race. Six of the eight incumbents are running for re-election -- Steve Caudill, Chad Hembree, Jerry Little, Chester Powell, Ronnie Terrill, and Vi Farmer -- with Diane Kerby and Billy Wagers choosing to not pursue re-election. Both Kerby and Wagers were voted in with high numbers six years ago, and have served three terms.

Two very familiar names for those who follow local elections appear on the list

County Debates Implementing Needle Exchange Program

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

A spirited discussion on a proposed syringe exchange program (SEP) in Madison County took place at fiscal court on Tuesday, and lasted over an hour.

Nancy Crewe, the director of the Madison County Health Department, gave a slide presentation on needle exchange programs. where people such as IV drug users can exchange dirty needles for clean ones. The programs have been around for approximately 30 years, Crewe reported, and there are currently 14 in Kentucky.

In one slide of her presentation, Crewe listed the advantages of a SEP program, "They're effective and do not increase drug use. They decrease crime, increase community safety, reduce spread of infections, increase first-responder safety, and can connect people to treatment."

The data, Crewe said, showed that SEPs help to stop the spread of diseases such as HIV and acute hepatitis C, and can serve as a link to drug users to help them with treatment.

"The drug user population is very marginalized," Betty Conner said, the quality improvement coordinator at the health department who admitted to initially being a big skeptic of the needle exchange programs. "They have no link to health care, and they often have no link to treatment. We need to build their trust so we can help them."

In order for the health department to implement a SEP, the fiscal court would need to pass a resolution setting up such a program. Then, Crewe said, she would go to both the City of Berea and the City of Richmond to ask for similar resolutions.

Crewe reported startling statistics to the fiscal court, such as Kentucky

Knitters Needed for Knockers

By Marisa Hempel
Citizen Reporter

A nationwide charity has made its way to Berea this summer and is gaining momentum.

Knitted Knockers is a non-profit that donates knitted breast prosthetics for women who have had a mastectomy or other breast reconstruction. Instead of the expensive, heavy, or uncomfortable traditional prosthetics that require a special bra to wear, knitted knockers are cheap to make and donated to those that need them. They can even be worn in most regular bras, so the usual discomfort associated with prosthetics is eliminated.

Patty Boyce of Berea, now Kentucky's representative for Knitted Knockers, first discovered this project and brought it to Celtic musicians, dancers, and singers will be converging on Berea in a week, as they gather to celebrate the 7th Annual Berea Celtic Festival with concerts, jam sessions, and dances.

The festivities will start on Thursday, Aug. 18 and will end the following Sunday afternoon. On Friday night, there will be an open air concert at 7 p.m. at Berea Memorial Park with the Belles and The Beaus of the Bluegrass performing, a partnership between the Celtic Festival and Berea Parks and Recreation who sponsors a concert series every August. Saturday night will feature the only paid concert at the Russel Acton Folk Center, costing $15 for the Celtic Gala Concert. The Gala will start at 8 p.m., and will feature performances by Justin Bridges, Jeremy Wade, Jil Chambless, Don Penzien, Red Wellies, Kerry sets, Jeni's Chickens, Skip and Rebecca, Turlack and Ed-die, Beeswing, and Four Leaf Peat.

Sune Frederiksen, the organizer of the Celtic Festival, brought in two new artistic partners this year, Beanie Odell and Vincent Fogarty, who arranged for the different performers to be in Berea. The visiting Celtic musicians are not paid, but the organizers do try to give them a travel stipend to help with expenses. Many of the musicians are originally from the Celtic areas such as Ireland or Scotland, but are now living in the U.S.

In the past, Sune has partnered with the group, Liam's Fancy, in arranging the festival, but those musicians wanted to take a break.

"Musicians from ten different states will be attending," Sune said.

The Celtic Festival is again partnering with groups in Berea, including the Berea library, the City of Berea, and the farmer's market. The library will be showing "The Legend of Longwood" on Thursday at 3:30 p.m., a movie

David Wayne Huff

David Wayne Huff, 52, loving husband to Angela, died Thursday. He was born in Berea to Phoebe Moores Huff and the late Bill Huff.

A graduate of Eastern Kentucky University with an agriculture degree, Mr. Huff was employed as a general manager for the Southern States Cooperative. He loved to coach his son's sports teams and he always put others first.

Mr. Huff enjoyed exercising, walking his dogs, and remodeling projects. He was a member of the NRA, and the Christian faith; he attended Southeast Christian Church in Louisville.

Other than his father, Mr. Huff was preceded in death by his maternal grandparents, Walter & Sara Moores; and his uncle, Billy Moores.

Mr. Huff is survived by his wife, Angela McKenzie Huff of Shelbyville; his sons, Matthew Jordan Huff of Frankfort and Austin Mackenzie Huff of Shelbyville; his mother, Phoebe Huff of Paint Lick; a brother, Robin Huff and his child, Angela Combs, both of Berea; aunts and uncle, Patsy Moores, and Sallie and Larry Agee of Paint Lick; cousins, Craig Hale, Larry Todd Agee, Mark Agee, Andy Agee, Sara Jane Moores Smith, and Todd Moores; his mother-in-law, Rosemary McKenzie of Shelbyville; his father-in-law, Terry (Linda) McKenzie of Morehead, KY; and brother-in-law, Steve (Karyn) McKenzie, and children, Elizabeth and Michael of Georgetown.

Funeral services were at 1 p.m. on Monday, August 8, 2016 at the Davis & Powell Funeral Home with Rev. Roger Hurt officiating. Burial followed in the Berea Cemetery. Pallbearers were Matthew Huff, Austin Huff, Robin Huff, Kenny Jones, Cliff Winkler, and Ed Combess. Honorary pallbearers were Terry Murphy, Philip McCoun, Steve McKenzie, Terry McKenzie and Larry Wayne Agee. www.davisandpowellfuneralhome.com

Berea College Nursing Program Ranks in Top 5

Berea College's Bachelor of Science in Nursing program has been ranked #5 on the list of Best Residential BSN Programs by TopRNtoBSN.com.

Competing with prestigious programs such as the Ohio State University, UCLA, Rutgers, and Purdue, Berea's nursing program was ranked fifth with an average score of 96.5%.

"This ranking seems especially significant, based as it is on student success, affordability, and reputation. I am so proud of our nursing program and all the caring and committed alumni it has produced over many decades. I am also grateful to our faculty and staff for all of their commitment to Berea College students and to continuous improvement," said Dean Chad Berry.

Elsie Kathrine Rose Alexander

Elsie Kathrine Rose Alexander, 81, of Berea, died Thursday, August 4, 2016 at the Compassionate Care Center following an illness.

Elsie was a Lancaster native, born April 19, 1935. She was the daughter of the late William and Blanche Mitchell Hurt, and a resident of Madison County most of her life. Elsie was a retired employee of Continental Metal, and a member of Bethlehem Baptist Church.

Survivors include three children, Alan (Lorene) Rose, Teresa (Donald) Barrett, and Pam (Jim) Preston; stepson, Chuck (Michelle) Alexander; 11 grandchildren, Michelle, Debra, Christopher, David, Heather, Jessica, Brittany, Mike, Chad, Travis, and Logan; 21 great grandchildren; and numerous relatives and friends.

In addition to her parents, Elsie was preceded in death by her first husband, and the father of her children, Orville Rose; one daughter, Phyllis Rose; her second husband, Winfred "Junior" Alexander; and three siblings, Kenneth Hurt, Reda Jane Hurt, and Wilma Lee Hurt.

The funeral service took place at 1 p.m. on Monday, August 8, 2016 at Reppert Funeral Home with Bro. Mark McGuire officiating. Burial followed in Red Lick Cemetery. Pallbearers were Travis Preston, Logan Preston, Mike Barrett, Chad Barrett, David Coffee, and Brian Maupin. Honorary pallbearers were Paul Rose and Ted Rose.

Berea Municipal Utilities water distribution technicians were recently recognized by the American Water Works Association (AWWA) for running the best utility in their region and population category.

Though it serves over 4,000 customers, Berea's water utility is ranked in the small systems category for water distribution systems in the AWWA's Kentucky/Tennessee region. The department was recognized for implementing procedures employed by many of the nation's most state-of-the-art water utilities, including the use of GPS mapping of the water distribution system, as well as supplying field technicians with computer tablets for operations and maintenance.

BMU's water distribution unit has also established performance standards in other areas, including developing standard operating procedures, a detailed hydraulic model, a capital improvement plan, design standards for water mains and appurtenances, and a flushing program.

Perhaps the most highly visible contribution of BMU's water distribution system was in upgrading the city's elevated water tank near Chestnut Street, adding a new mixing system and installing a vinyl stick-on mural promoting Berea's identity as the folk arts and crafts capital of Kentucky.

Looking beyond the AWWA award, Berea Municipal Utilities Director Ed Fortner said the department is working on ways to make the water system more efficient, while keeping an eye on the community's future water demands. To deal with the impact of future droughts and a growing population, BMU's water distribution unit is developing a comprehensive plan that includes systematically replacing weak spots in its aging infrastructure, enhancing its leak detection program, offering incentives for installation of water saving fixtures in new and rehabilitated buildings, flattening the water rates to encourage conservation, engaging and informing the public on water issues, and revising the current water shortage plan to encourage conservation in a timely manner.

BEREA POLICE REPORTS

Police Reports from
8/1/16 - 8/7/16

DUI Arrest

On August 1, Berea police were called to the intersection of Ellipse and Walnut Meadow Road because of an injury collision. When the officer arrived, he found Cindy Bicknell, 49, of Richmond unresponsive at the wheel of a Trail Blazer, laying partially underneath the wheel with a deployed airbag and no seat belt.

A bag of serenity was on Bicknell's lap and prescription gabapentin were on the floor with a burnt, rolled-up joint.

Bicknell's granddaughter, who was in the rear seat, was lying on the ground with what appeared to be a severe injury to the right side of her head. She was transported by ambulance to U.K. The passenger from the front of the vehicle said Bicknell had been smoking serenity before wrecking. Bicknell, however, said the serenity was hers, but she hadn't been smoking it. She said she had taken two Gabapentin an hour ago against doctor's orders. Bicknell had slurred speech, bloodshot eyes, and was unsteady on her feet.

When the officer requested a field sobriety test, Bicknell said she had nystagmus, and therefore could not pass balance tests. She also refused to take a blood test.

Bicknell was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol or drugs, first degree wanton endangerment, second degree assault, failure to wear seat belts, and possession of synthetic drugs

Assault Arrest

On August 1, an officer was sent to Glades Road because of a domestic dispute. The woman who lived there with her boyfriend said he had been drinking, and they started arguing. She said he threw soda on her, and then pushed her down on the couch. When she tried to get him to leave, he burned her chest with a cigarette. The officer saw some red marks on her chest that she showed him. She reported that he then grabbed a knife and threatened to slit her throat. The boyfriend said he only grabbed his phone from her.

Ronald Neeley, 51, was arrested for fourth degree assault -- domestic violence, and menacing.

Arrest for Receiving Stolen Property

On August 2, an officer was sent to Knight's Inn because of a stolen vehicle complaint. The complainant said her husband's niece, Lillian Schroder, from Indiana, Jake Martin, and Kyle Cash were staying in a room at Knight's Inn and the stolen vehicle, which belonged to Lillian's great grandmother, was parked outside of their room.

Berea police confirmed that the vehicle was stolen from Lawrenceburg, Ind. Before the police could contact the suspects, however, Lillian and Kyle left in the vehicle, parked in the Berea Citizen parking lot, and fled on foot. Family members found Lillian on Haiti Road, hiding in the bushes. Cash was located later, walking on Chestnut Street in front of the Berea Police Department. Officers located Martin in the Knight's Inn room.

Lillian Schroder, 18, Kyle Cash, 20, and Jake Martin, 23, were arrested for receiving stolen property under $10,000.

Drug Possession Arrest

On August 4, an officer was sent to Circle K on Haiti Road because of a report of a domestic argument of a couple in a Toyota Camry. The officer saw the vehicle leaving the Circle K, and heading to Knight's Inn. He stopped the vehicle, and discovered Misty Pennington, from Lexington, and Thomas A. Graves, Jr., from Lexington. Both had expired driver's licenses.

Pennington and Graves gave permission to search the car, and the officer found suspected methamphetamine, suboxone strips, an unknown drug, a scale, and baggies. He also found a baggy under the passenger seat with a crystal substance inside. Pennington and Graves both denied owning the items.

Both Pennington and Graves were arrested for two counts of first degree possession of controlled substance, one count of third degree possession of controlled substance, and buy/possess drug paraphernalia. Graves, who was driving, was also charged with operating a vehicle with a suspended or revoked license.

Public Intoxication Arrest

On Aug. 5, an officer was sent to Slate Lick and Boone Street because of a woman laying on the side of the road. The officer found her on the sidewalk near the road, passed out. She had bloodshot eyes, but she said she had a eye infection. She was also unsteady, with slurred speech. Officers had been called to Circle K several hours prior to this, because of the same woman passed out.

Alicia Wilson, 32, from Berea was arrested for public intoxication of a controlled substance.

On Aug. 5, an officer was sent to Walgreens because of a man in a maroon Blazer huffing contents from a can. The officer found the man inside his vehicle, and witnessed him inhaling the contents of a can.

When he was asked to step out of the car, he seemed disoriented, fidgety, and nonfunctional. The can was a Compressed Gas Duster. The man admitted to using the canister to try and get a buzz.

Kevin O. Locker, 50, from Berea, was arrested for public intoxication of a controlled substance.

On August 5, an officer responded to a complaint that a man was passed out in the yard on Cherry Road. When the officer arrived, he found Matthew Cunigan, 32, unconscious in his yard. When he woke Matthew up, he smelled strongly of alcohol. Matthew admitted to drinking. Matthew Cunigan was arrested for public alcohol intoxication, because he was very unsteady on his feet, and had trouble answering simple questions. The officer felt Matthew to be a danger to himself or others.

On August 7, a woman was beating on the door of her ex-husband's house on Orchard Street, screaming. She was later found hiding in the woods around this home. She smelled like alcohol and was slurring her speech.

Tina Walters, 47, from Berea was arrested for public alcohol intoxication, second degree disorderly conduct, and resisting arrest. Tina had pulled her arms away from the officers when she was being arrested, and screamed profanities. She also fell to the ground to avoid arrest.

of candidates running, Robert "Peanut" Johnson and Hubert Chasteen, Jr. Both have campaigned multiple times, but have never received enough votes to be a sitting council member.

Newcomers to the city election are Gregory Bordelon, Reid Connelly, Jim Davis, Edd Easton-Hogg, Bruce Fraley, Mike Hammonds, Ed LaFontaine, Jack Marshall, Darnell Martin, Bradley Bud Montgomery, John Payne, Tracy Prater, David Rowlette, Tom Schultz, Martha J. Wayland Putz, Cora Jane Wilson, and Billy Wooten.

Incumbents Will Bondurant and Van Gravitt remain the only candidates running for the two open seats on the Berea Community School Board, while the Madison County School Board has only one contested seat for District 1, with Samantha Burford running against incumbent John Lackey. Becky Coyle in District 2 and Beth Brock in District 5 are running unopposed.

There are four people running in the election for the soil and water conservation district supervisor. They are Bob Harned, Isaac Marcum, Michael B. Parke, and Wesley W. Williams.

Hamblin Awarded Jean Ritchie Scholarship

The "Jean Ritchie MA Scholarship," named after the internationally known ballad singer, dulcimer player, and Mother of Folk music, has been awarded to Ethan Hamblin, a 2014 Berea College graduate.

Hamblin is the inaugural recipient of the Jean Ritchie MA Scholarship, which is awarded to an outstanding Berea College student who has decided to pursue their master's degree at National University of Ireland (NUI) Galway. Hamblin will receive a full-tuition scholarship, beginning in September, as he pursues his degree in rural sustainability.

Hamblin, a native of Perry County community of Gays Creek, majored in Appalachian studies at Berea College with a focus in community development and contemporary issues of Appalachia. In college, Hamblin served as a Bonner Scholar working for organizations such as Kentuckians for the Commonwealth and Brushy Fork Institute which occasionally took him off campus and back into the Appalachian region. Hamblin served as a board member for the Stay Together Appalachian Youth Project, the Supporting Emerging Appalachian Leadership Network, and the Appalachian Community Fund. His grassroots activism and community development experience led to being named a 2013 recipient of the Marguerite Casey Foundation's Sergeant Shriver Youth Warrior Against Poverty Award.

After graduating from Berea College, Hamblin began working in Appalachia for the Foundation for Appalachian Kentucky.

"The study of Appalachian culture has prepared me to more strongly represent and work within the region," Hamblin says. "I believe that the MA program at Galway will be a direct extension of the education I received from Berea and my community development work within Appalachia."

STICKS AND STONES

Vote against Trump

Dear Editor,

I am deeply concerned about the Trump candidacy for president. On many counts, I find him totally unfit for such an office. I am retired, a former pastor and seminary professor as well as a mental health counselor. Through my ministry, unlike many others, I refused to endorse anyone for office. I remember Billy Graham endorsing Nixon. I still do not endorse anyone in this election, but I vehemently oppose Trump.

He encourages bigotry, hatred, violence, torture, vigilante mentality, religious intolerance, racial profiling, xenophobia, etc. He demonstrates willful disrespect for virtually any who disagree with or challenge him, such as a disabled reporter, women, POWs, a gold star family, Muslims, Jews, the constitution, his own party's leaders, etc.

He voices approval for murderous dictators.

He has demonstrated no positive ethical or moral traits.

His only values are self and money.

He is a megalomaniac, who feels free to do whatever he wishes, regardless of the consequences. He does not care about our country or its people, except where and how it will promote his personal interests. He seeks to divide and conquer.

He is not as bad as Hitler, but he is in the same vein. He is dangerous!

Look beyond the bluster and see the man.

Berea, Kentucky, and America: Stand up! Speak out! Vote . . . against Trump!

Thank you Sharyn Mitchell and community

Dear Editor,

I'd like to give a heartfelt thank-you to Sharyn Mitchell and the community of Berea.

Over the course of several years, there has been much discussion about a reunion of former students of Middletown Consolidated School that closed in 1963. No action was taken until Sharon decided to put forth the effort required to make the reunion a reality.

As one of the oldest people that attended the Rosenwald School, I want to thank Sharon and the various committees she formed. They worked tirelessly to organize activities, research the history, and contact former students.

The entire event was well organized, the staff of Gear Up, Berea College, the City of Berea, and many other individuals and organizations were very supportive. Trolley tours of Berea and surrounding areas were provided for out-of-town guests.

We had a great time reminiscing and reliving times past. Many of the students who attended the school continued their education through college and advanced degrees. Several students had very successful careers as attorneys, educators, and other career professionals.

The people of Berea are blessed; we grew up black and white playing together and living together as neighbors. In my childhood we were separated in school, eating establishments, and church. We considered that a part of life in the 1930s and 1940s. However, if a family, black or white, was in need, the community came together to help. Historically, Berea has been a different and nice place to live. We came together again as a community to recognize and celebrate a bygone era.

Thank you Sharon, and thank you, the community of Berea.

Ruth Kennedy and friends,
Berea

Response to Last Week's Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

A letter from Ms. Virginia Bland appeared in the August 4, 2016 Berea Citizen, and made a number of allegations against the Berea Human Rights Commission.

Because Mrs. Bland's understanding differs so markedly from ours, your readers deserve to hear our side while we preserve, as we must, the confidential nature of the interactions between Mrs. Bland and the Commission.

We have a record of the communication between Mrs. Bland and the BHRC, and we think our attempts to be of service to her are a model for responsive relations with the public. We regret that her complaint was not one we could consider, and instead the police and court system were her proper venue for seeking a remedy. She followed that course, and a judge took action that resulted in a successful resolution of the problem.

Our Commission's scope of action is quite narrow and involves only cases of alleged discrimination against members of those groups spelled out in the Civil Rights laws of Kentucky and the United States as "protected classes", and these only in areas involving discrimination in employment, housing and public accommodations.

Clearly, our scope of action doesn't account for all forms of discrimination, and certainly doesn't account for all of the ways residents can be harmed, but the three areas of greatest vulnerability that most affect daily life are employment, housing, and public accommodations.

Residents frequently bring complaints alleging that they are victims of acts such as assault, harassment, terroristic threatening, etc. These are serious issues that sometimes cause terrible harm, but they are covered by criminal statutes and are police matters over which we have no authority. When we identify these, we urge complainants to go to the police and we provide them with phone numbers, etc. We are willing to accompany complainants to meet with the police if they feel a need for moral support, and we have also designed a brochure that explains when, how, and under what circumstances to contact the police. In other cases which do not fall within our charge, we try to connect complainants with social, health or other services that may offer help.

Our efforts "encourage fair treatment and equal opportunity for all people regardless of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, or physical disability of any type, and promote mutual understanding and respect among all economic, social, racial, religious, social, age and ethnic groups."

We offer or support programs of education and outreach to which all members of the community are invited. Some recent examples include a Fair Housing Workshop led by KCHR and Lexington Fair Housing staff attended by 126 people; partnering with the Carter G. Woodson to co-sponsor "A Conversation on Race" — a three day conference; held a public forum with community leaders, clergy and the public to discuss ways of bringing the community together in the face of some perceived threats to people of color; partnered with the Alternatives to Violence Project to offer a two-day training program; and worked with the schools, the police and other groups to quell objectionable aspects of the so-called "Rebel Run."

We are proud of the work we have done and we warmly invite members of the public to attend our open meetings are advertised in the Citizen's Calendar of Events. We meet at 6:30 p.m. on the first Monday of every month at our office at 204 N. Broadway, Suite 20. If we must change a date, we will advertise the change in the Citizen.

Response to Last Week's Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

What Ms. Bland's letter tells us is that she has a real issue that our community can and should assist with. Assistance could be relief from the harassment she and her family are experiencing at the hands of a neighbor.

It is an issue for which Berea Human Rights Commission was formed. It is an issue that Berea Human Rights Commission has chosen not to respond to and has ignored.

In not responding, the BHRC is failing to live up to their charter. As a community we have reasonable expectations for the BHRC to explain to us why they have chosen not to respond.

BHRC is not protecting the civil rights nor civil liberties for all of Berea by providing for just a few. Rather they are demonstrating a behavior that they were formed to prevent and eliminate: special interests.

One of the things we need to cure is the lack of oversight for groups created by city government.

The tourism commission is not fulfilling its charter. It is called upon to promote athletic events and conventions among other things. When was the last time you can recall a tournament or convention in Berea?

The Berea Human Rights Commission is not fulfilling its charter as evidenced by Ms. Bland's report.

No one in city government has taken steps to correct this. The participation of members of the Berea Human Rights Commission members in protests at Spoon Bread Festival were at odds with the prescribed methods of mediation they were empowered to pursue. The City Council and the Mayor know this. Yet we have no evidence of corrective action taken.

Effective government requires oversight. However the charters of the above-mentioned groups do not provide for that oversight. Beyond publishing minutes and periodic reports to Council to ring their own bell, we have no accountability. That should be fixed.

leading the nation in acute HCV cases and rates. Between 2009 and 2013, she said, there had been a 240 percent increase in acute hepatitis C.

"While the numbers are not great now, Kentucky is at risk of seeing a sudden rise in infection," Crewe said.

Several counties in Kentucky have been deemed particularly vulnerable to a rapid dissemination of HIV/HCV because of the "dense drug user networks" and the lack of syringe exchange programs. Several of those counties surround Madison, such as Garrard, Rockcastle, Estill, and Powell.

A board of health member mentioned that drug users weren't the only concern with the spread of disease. There are needles in the parks and in the front yards, he pointed out, and there have been documented cases where innocent victims come into contact with the dirty needles and contract the diseases.

Gwen Holder, the director of Liberty Place, the substance abuse recovery center for women in Richmond, attended the fiscal court meeting with several of her residents. Crewe and others approached the women at Liberty who had been IV users, presented their information, and asked if they would have trusted the health department enough to exchange their dirty needles for clean ones. They all reported that they would have.

"Individuals in SEPs are five times more likely to seek treatment for addiction than those who are not," Crewe said. "When those women said they would have trusted us, it brought tears to my eyes."

One of the residents of Liberty Place who had been clean for ten months talked about the "desperate state" of being an IV drug user, and asked the fiscal court to do something that could connect drug users to treatment.

Crewe said the health department estimated that the needle exchange program could cost approximately $60,000, which would include renovating a vehicle for a mobile unit for needle exchanges, as well as the people they would have to hire and train for the program. She pointed out that $60,000 was a great deal less than the estimated $326,500 that it costs to treat someone with HIV on Medicaid or Medicare.

The health department would consider the model of a one-on-one exchange, where for every dirty needle turned in, a clean one would be given.

"When you start talking about the cost of treatment, you'll start seeing how important it is, how cost-effective it is if even proud that one of their campers, Kaden, was awarded co-camper of the week. He received a certificate as well as a new bicycle for the honor.

one person seeks treatment," Crew said. "I can't give you an exact number of how many would seek treatment, and I can't tell you how many syringes will get vacuumed off the streets either. But again this is all part of a larger process where we'll all pull together in this community getting treatment to somebody, at some point."

Magistrate Larry Combs expressed his support for the program, stating that he didn't see why the program shouldn't be implemented. Magistrate Tom Botkin commented that personally he had felt the needle exchange programs were more of a promotion than a fix, but "having said that, I have a responsibility to our citizens and to the county itself to do something."

Magistrate Roger Barger expressed reservations about the program as far as where the funding would come from.

"Somebody's got to pay the bill," Barger said, "and we're paying a whole lot of bills already."

The fiscal court members asked Sheriff Mike Coyle on his stance, and he said he was "in the middle" about it. Coyle stated that he would like to protect his deputies by getting the dirty needles off the streets, but he wondered if it wouldn't increase drug use.

The quality reviewer at Baptist Health Hospital spoke strongly in support of the program, stating that they had doubled or even tripled the size of their emergency room.

"This is where the rubber hits the road," she said. "Even putting HIV and hepatitis C aside, we're drowning in drug users with abscesses, skin infections, joint infections. It's about $50,000 to fix a joint infection."

Judge Executive Reagan Taylor said he would like to give the fiscal court time to consider the implementation of a needle exchange program, and they would pick up the topic at one of the two upcoming meetings. County Attorney Marc Robbins encouraged Crewe to approach law enforcement to make sure they would support such a program.

The Madison County Youth in Action, a group of high school students that work to prevent underage drinking of alcohol, gave their award for Law Enforcement Officer of the Year. They asked for nominations from the community, and then selected from those.

The runners-up, or hero awards, were given to Sergeant Christopher Sizemore and Deputy Michael Stotts. The first runner-up award was given to Sheriff Mike Coyle.

Deputy Josh Stone was given the Law Enforcement Officer of the Year for his work in arresting drunk drivers, and for his professional demeanor.

the attention of knitting shop Fiber Frenzy. Boyce was interested in the non-profit, since she had many connections to those suffering from cancer.

"We have been trying to get the word out, and I really feel like we got off the ground in a really good way already," states Patty.

Located in Old Town, Fiber Frenzy's owners had been unaware of the charity and immediately took up the cause after Boyce talked to them. Owners Judy Cowen and Joan Beck sell the yarn to those wanting to knit a pair at a discounted rate for the charity.

Judy Cowen was grateful that she found out about the program, and said women get together at the shop the first Thursday of every month from 3 to 5 to knit the knockers, which can be made for any cup size.

"We stock the yarn, hooks, needles, and provide a place to gather and knit together for a good cause," says Judy. "We currently have half a dozen or so women knitting and we would love to have more get involved because demand keeps going up! It is amazing how many women are involved and have had mastectomies themselves. We have already donated over 20 pairs and Patty [Boyce] does the shipping when orders come in from around the state."

The Knitted Knockers feel and look natural, especially to the wearer, who may have insecurities following breast cancer and reconstruction. Susan Hopkins moved to Berea a little over a year ago and was diagnosed with breast cancer days after she arrived. Having undergone a mastectomy and a failed reconstruction surgery herself, the program is something that is literally close to her heart.

"I am wearing a pair right now," laughs Susan. "We had a booth at the quilt extravaganza and I could relate to all the stories from both women themselves and the family members of the struggles not just during breast cancer, but trying to find a new normal afterwards."

Hopkins is hoping to get a cancer-free bill of health in the near future after a year of treatment, but for now she stays positive and wears her own knockers as she knits a duo of size Ds at Fiber Frenzy. They are easier to take care of, simple to make with a pattern, and much cheaper than the reported $750 for a couple of ungainly prosthetics.

"I can knock out a pair of these in eight hours if need be for an order, and they only cost me ten dollars. Compared to the thousands I paid in a year, with good insurance, the knitted option is better all around," explains Susan.

At the quilt extravaganza, the Fiber Frenzy booth was able to get enough donations to possibly start the knitting on a weekly basis, with the ladies hoping for more knitters to donate their time and skills.

"The need for these are growing, and since this is a volunteer driven project, we can't seem to keep them in stock long enough before more orders come in," Cowen says.

Susan Hopkins agrees, "My heart is to keep it going because of the personal connection. I want to pay it forward as many women are still unaware of this project. We have a resource we can share with mastectomy patients. It doesn't make the fact of having cancer better, but it is a step to help those experiencing this for a sense of normalcy."

Providers for the Knockers are now in every state but Mississippi, as the demand for the free, handmade with love prosthetics rises. Fiber Frenzy wants to start the get-togethers on a weekly basis, and is putting out a call for more knitters to further the cause.

"It is nearly everyday you meet someone that is touched by cancer in some way, so in my heart, I hope I am making a difference for those that went through what I have," says Susan.

The lightweight, comfortable Knitted Knockers can be ordered through knittedknockers.org or can be picked up in a variety of sizes and colors at Fiber Frenzy on Broadway. Those wishing to get involved are encouraged to visit the shop or website and spread the word for those who could benefit from the beneficial alternative to expensive prosthetics.

Emergency Preparedness Calendar 2017

Bid Specifications:

Totals of 51,500 English version calendars and 700 Spanish version calendars are to be printed. Breakdown of quantity is as follows: English calendars mailed to residences and businesses in Madison County—42,000. English calendars distributed to residences in Estill County—7,000. Successful bidder will purchase postal route carriers list from United States Postal Service and deliver calendars to mailing house.

The remaining quantity of calendars will consist of 2,500 English versions and the 700 Spanish versions, both to be delivered to 2249 Enterprise Drive, Richmond, KY 40475.

Successful bidder (Printer) will invoice Madison County EMA/CSEPP for cost of postage to mail calendars—DO NOT INCLUDE COST OF POSTAGE IN BID. (Invoice postage ASAP, extra time needed to process payment for postage.)

Printer will be supplied with calendar material (Adobe InDesign 2015) and 22 pages of maps in PDF format via disk.

Size: 9" x 12", 72 pages to include front and back cover.

Stock: 80# gloss text on inside pages; 100# gloss text on the front and back cover.

Presswork: 4-color process throughout with bleeds.

Finishing: Saddle-stitch binding not to interfere with text; 1 hole drill; DOUBLE WAFER SEAL.

Bid shall include up to 10 hours non-chargeable proofing/consulting time with the vendor.

This is a complete project to be managed by the successful bidder (Printer).

Madison County EMA/CSEPP reserves the right to exclude outsourcing of work on calendar project.

Please include up to, but not more than, 3 samples of work similar to bid specifications.

Sealed bids due:

Thurs, August 25, 2016 by 4:00 PM to

560 South Keeneland Drive, Richmond, Ky. 40475

Contact: Kelley McBride or Teresa Stocker at (859) 624-4787 Mon-Fri 9:00 am to 4:00 pm. No late bids will be accepted--no exceptions.

Bid award will be announced at a meeting of the Madison County Fiscal Court (meets twice per month). All potential vendors will be contacted when the bid award is announced.

B Berea Independent School District

Child Find
 for Children with Disabilities in Need of Special Education or 504 Services

2016
 Child Find
 The Berea Independent School District keeps educational records in a secure location in each school and Board office.

The Berea Independent School District obtains written consent from a parent or eligible student (age 18 or who is attending a postsecondary institution), before disclosing personally identifiable information to an entity or individual not authorized to receive it under FERPA.

For students who have been determined eligible for Special Education, educational records will be destroyed at the request of the parents when they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. The Berea Independent School District may destroy the educational records of a child without parent request ten years after they are no longer needed to provide educational programs or services. Parents are advised that data contained in the records may later be needed for Social Security benefits or other purposes. The Berea Independent School District may retain, for an indefinite period of time, a record of the student's name, address, telephone number, grades, attendance records, classes attended, grade level completed, and year completed.

Children eligible for Special Education include those children with disabilities who have autism, deaf-blindness, developmental delay, emotional-behavior disability, hearing impairment, mental disability, multiple disabilities, orthopedic impairment, other health impairment, specific learning disability, speech or language impairment, traumatic brain injury, or visual impairment and who because of such an impairment need Special Education services.

Children eligible for 504 services include those children in a public elementary and secondary education program who have a current physical or mental impairment that currently substantially limits some major life activity which causes the student's ability to access the school environment or school activities to be substantially limited.

Children eligible for the State-Funded Preschool program include three- and four-year-old children identified with disabilities and four-year-old children who are at-risk, as defined by federal poverty levels up to 150%. Preschool children eligible for special education must have an Individual Education Plan (IEP) instead of a 504 plan to receive State-Funded Preschool program services.

The Berea Independent School District has an ongoing "Child Find" system, which is designed to locate, identify and evaluate any child residing in a home, facility, or residence within its geographical boundaries, age three (3) to twenty-one (21) years, who may have a disability and be in need of Special Education or 504 services. This includes children who are not in school; those who are in public, private, or home school; those who are highly mobile such as children who are migrant or homeless; and those who are advancing from grade to grade, who may need but are not receiving Special Education or 504 services.

The district's "Child Find" system includes children with disabilities attending private or home schools within the school district boundaries who may need special education services.

The Berea Independent School District will make sure any child enrolled in its district who qualifies for Special Education or 504 services, regardless of how severe the disability, is provided appropriate Special Education or 504 services at no cost to the parents of the child.

Parents, relatives, public and private agency employees, and concerned citizens are urged to help the Berea Independent School District find any child who may have a disability and need Special Education or 504 services. The District needs to know the name and age, or date of birth of the child; the name, address, and phone number(s) of the parents or guardian; the possible disability; and other information to determine if Special Education or 504 services are needed.

Letters and phone calls are some of the ways the Berea Independent School District collects the information needed. The information the school District collects will be used to contact the parents of the child and find out if the child needs to be evaluated or referred for Special Education or 504 services.

If you know of a child who lives within the boundaries of the Berea Independent School District, who may have a disability, and may need but is not receiving Special Education or 504 services, please call 859-986-3249 or send the information to:

"Child Find" activities will continue throughout the school year. As part of these efforts the Berea Independent School District will use screening information, student records, and basic assessment information it collects on all children in the District to help locate those children who have a disability and need Special Education or 504 services. Any information the District collects through "Child Find" is maintained confidentially.

Written Policies and Procedures have been developed which describe the District's requirements regarding the confidentiality of personally identifiable information and "Child Find" activities. There are copies in the Principal's office of each school, and in the Board of Education office. Copies of these Policies and Procedures may be obtained by contacting:

Director of Pupil Personnel

New signs have been showing up around Berea the past two weeks, as the culmination of the Wayfinding Project that Berea Tourism had started years ago. Above, workers install the Berea Sign on Highway 25, outside of Knight's Inn.

New Signs Go Up Around Berea

The Wayfinding and Signage Program began in 2011 as a submission to the National Endowment for the Arts Our Town Grant, written by Judy Sizemore. Funding was requested to design a wayfinding system to increase visibility and ease of access to the cultural entities of the City of Berea. The city was awarded $67,000 in June 2012 as one of 80 grantees selected nationwide. In addition to this grant funding, in-kind support in the form of volunteer time, came from the Berea Arts Council, Berea College, and other artists, business, healthcare and education communities throughout Berea.

During the planning phase, a wayfinding system was developed that will connect and promote the entire city as a cultural district for vehicular, pedestrian, and bicycle audiences. The committee, which represented the arts, business, education, and health care communities, engaged the environmental graphic design firm, Carol Naughton + Associates of Chicago, IL. This committee identified wayfinding needs, and met with the facilitator to prioritize those needs and to develop the scope of work. Studies included for the project included typography for visibility, readability, and color. Once this process was completed, the firm began presenting schematic design options.

Prototypes were developed and installed in June of 2013 for the opening of the Festival of Learnshops. This included one large roadway sign, one medium roadway sign, and identification/directional signs throughout the Artisan Village and College Square. The trial was deemed a success, and the process moved forward.

In the spring of 2015, the bid process began for the fabrication and installation. The bid was awarded to Jones Signs of Green Bay, WI.

The installation crew is currently working to install the signage throughout Berea. Once complete, there will be driving and pedestrian signs throughout the city. Berea College is also working with Carol Naughton + Associates and Jones Signs to create a new wayfinding system on campus which will include vehicular and pedestrian signage, in a separate project.

Kerri Lee Hensley, Executive Director of Berea Tourism, said, "The outcome of this project will enhance the cultural economy and increase traffic to our tourist areas. The wayfinding system will help visitors find their intended destination and also reveal additional cultural experiences available to them, encouraging return visits."

Kentucky Artisan Center Reviewing for New Artists

Three times a year the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea holds review sessions to consider works and products by Kentucky artisans who are not juried members of the Kentucky Arts Council programs or the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen. Applications for the next review session are due September 30.

Application categories include:

- Visual Arts (crafts, and two-dimensional art)
- Books
- Music, Storytelling and other recordings/Films
- Kentucky Proud food products
- Beauty products

Artists can download applications from the Center's website.

Completed application forms along with additional requested materials can be mailed to: Artisan Review, Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea, 200 Artisan Way, Berea, KY, 40403. Applications may also be submitted at the Center's front desk from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily or E-mailed to: gwen.heffner@ky.gov

The Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea is located just off Interstate 75 at Berea, Exit 77. The center's exhibits, shopping and travel information areas are open daily, year-round, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., with the cafe open from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free.

The center currently features works by more than 750 artisans from more than 100 counties across the Commonwealth. A gallery exhibit, "Great Impressions: Prints by Kentucky Artisans," is on display through Sept. 10, 2016, and in the lobby, "Kentucky Clay: A Continuing Tradition" and "Pipia" are also on display. For information about the center's events call 859-985-5448, visit us on Facebook or go to the center's website.

The Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea is an agency in the Tourism, Arts and Heritage Cabinet of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

For Gleaves, Music Is Connection

decided to learn the guitar so he could accompany himself. His mom told him about Jim Lloyd, a teacher in Rural Retreat, a nearby community. Lloyd is a barber and teaches musicians in between haircuts.

Through the rich, intergenerational music setting of Lloyd's barbershop, Gleaves discovered a love for traditional Appalachian music and his place in his southwest Virginia community.

In conversation, he sprinkles in the names of the many mentors and teachers he has had, saying, "The music is all tied up with the people."

That is one of the things he loves about traditional Appalachian music – learning songs from people like Sheila Kay Adams, whose family has been singing Appalachian ballads for seven generations.

As a student at Berea College, Gleaves created his own major in folklore, encompassing Appalachian studies, anthropology, oral history, and traditional music. Songwriting became important to him, but he always felt that sharing traditional music was more important. Until last year.

Encouraged by several of his mentors, Gleaves released a debut album of original songs, Ain't We Brothers, last November. The stories shared in the songs are real, though not a traditional part of Appalachian music. The title piece shares the experiences and challenges of West Virginia coal miner Sam Williams, who is openly gay. Stories play a prominent role in Gleaves' music.

"By telling real human stories, I hope to start important conversations, like what is it like to be openly gay in a small rural community," says Gleaves.

Locals might recognize Gleaves as the tall, banjo-playing member of the Bluegrass Ensemble during his Berea College career. After his graduation in 2014, Gleaves made Berea his home, in part because of how the community values arts and champions progressive social values.

Gleaves recently made the decision to dedicate his time fully to music, and he has several projects in the works. Next month he will travel to Europe playing shows as an opening act with Peggy Seeger in England and several solo shows in Italy. On November 13, he will perform at Lexington's Lyric Theatre with The Reel World String Band, Cathy Fink, and Marcy Marxer.

His current writing project is creating a folk opera with Berean writer Silas House. Commissioned by the Southern Foodways Alliance, the story focuses on corn as a pillar of southern traditional food. Weaving stories of people and social change, the innovative piece will debut in October in Mississippi.

"Through this homemade music, I get to connect with people and deepen my connection to the beautiful culture of Appalachia," says Gleaves.

And through his music, he offers those same connections to others.

Musician/songwriter Sam Gleaves from Berea comes across as a warm, genuine personality, so it is not surprising that he says his music is about connections.

Gleaves, who grew up singing with a grandmother who encouraged him to find his voice, credits his music with connecting him to people, his community, and his culture. At twelve years old, he

The Kentucky Mountain Musicians, with members Al, Alice, and Emma White; Ruth McLain-Smith; and three musicians from Morehead State will be performing music from their Chinese tour this next Monday, Aug. 15.

The Mountain Musicians, which will be playing at 7:30 p.m. at the Loyal Jones Appalachian Center on the Berea College campus, formed to tour in China for two weeks this summer. They stayed in the city of Qingdao the whole time to participate in the outdoor music festival taking place. Morehead State University usually sends performers every year, and this summer they invited the Whites and Ruth to travel with them.

"It was wonderful," Al White said, who had never been to China before. "We performed every evening, and the audiences were great."

The group played Bluegrass and Old Time music, and also learned three popular songs from the region in Chinese.

"The music was easy," Al said, "but the language was very difficult."

Fitzgerald to Speak at Women's Network in Richmond

Thomas Fitzgerald, the founder and director of the Kentucky Resources Council, will be speaking at The Women's Network meeting on Tuesday, August 16.

The meeting is open to the public. It will begin at 6 p.m. at Gillum's Sports Lounge, which is located to the right of the Sears entrance at the Richmond Mall.

Fitzgerald is widely recognized for his leadership in the environmental advocacy field. Some have even said that the name

"Fitz" is synonymous with environmental protection in Kentucky. On Tuesday, he will be speaking on the Economic Implications of Public Energy Policy.

His organization, the Kentucky Resources Council, is an environmental advocacy organization that provides legal and strategic assistance with environmental concerns. The assistance is provided without charge to individuals, community groups, and local governments statewide. Throughout his career, Fitzgerald has advocated for laws and the enforcement of laws which hold polluters accountable and improve the quality of the air and the water.

The Women's Network is a non-profit organization whose mission, in part, is to promote informed citizen participation in the local democracy.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Blue Grass Army Depot (BGAD)

EPA ID #KY8-213-820-105, AI #2805

Tentative Approval of Three (3) Hazardous Waste Permitting Actions

The Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet (Cabinet), Division of Waste Management (Division), has tentatively approved two separate Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) modifications to the existing hazardous waste permit for Blue Grass Army Depot (BGAD). In addition, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is proposing to issue a Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments (HSWA) permit for RCRA organic air emissions.

The U.S. Army is the owner of the entire permitted facility, including the additional activities proposed in this public notice. Modification #1 under this public notice is to permit a storage and treatment operation to destroy mustard (H) projectiles using an explosive detonation technology (EDT) process ("the EDT Permit"). Bechtel Parsons Blue Grass Joint Venture (BPBG) will be the operator of the EDT Permit. Modification #2 under this notice is to permit a mustard (H) sampling operation ("the Mustard Sampling Permit") which is classified in Kentucky as treatment of a hazardous waste. The U.S. Army Assembled Chemical Weapons Alternatives (ACWA) will be the operator of the Mustard Sampling Permit. Modification #3 is the U.S. EPA's draft HSWA Permit which includes requirements for organic air emissions for which Kentucky is not yet authorized to regulate. The EPA HSWA Permit and the EDT Permit will constitute the full RCRA Permit for the EDT operations.

BGAD is located at 431 Battlefield Memorial Highway, Richmond, Kentucky. The BGAD facility contact is Joe Elliott (859)779-6374. The BPBG contact is John McArthur (859)625-6447. The ACWA contact is Todd Williams (859)625-6264.

What will be done and why?

RCRA regulations require that proposed hazardous waste permits or modifications include a thorough review of all required information to ensure that all hazardous waste program requirements are met, and that all interested parties have an opportunity to review and comment upon the proposed actions. The Division and EPA have completed their reviews of the respective permit applications and have prepared draft Permits. The draft Permits set forth conditions for conducting the hazardous waste operations. The Division and EPA have determined that the applications for their respective permits meet the requirements set forth in the regulations, and that operation of the facility in accordance with the requirements of the Permits will not pose an unreasonable risk to human health or the environment. The three proposed permitting actions are:

1. EDT Permit: The Division has tentatively approved a permit modification for storage and treatment (including destruction) of mustard (H) projectiles that are currently stored at BGAD.
2. Mustard Sampling Permit: The Division has tentatively approved a permit modification for treatment (movement and handling of munitions) and to collect samples from mustard (H) projectiles for treaty verification purposes.
3. HSWA Permit: The U.S. EPA, Region 4 (Atlanta) is proposing issuance of a Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments (HSWA) permit to complement the Division's hazardous waste permit. EPA's permit primarily has requirements for RCRA Organic Air Emission Standards included in 40 CFR 264.1030 through 264.1091. Kentucky does not yet have delegated authority for this part of RCRA.

How can I tell the Division and EPA what I think about these tentative approvals?

Public involvement is encouraged and comments are welcome. Anyone wishing to comment on the tentative decision to approve these three permitting actions should submit comments on or before September 21, 2016, the close of the public comment period. Additionally, a public meeting will be conducted on September 14, 2016 at 6:30 pm in the Perkins Building, Kit Carson Drive, at Eastern Kentucky University, followed by a public hearing at 7:30 pm at the same location.

Comments on the EDT Permit and Mustard Sampling Permit should be mailed to Heather Alexander, Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet, Division of Waste Management, 300 Sower Boulevard, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, with all issues of concern clearly stated. Electronic comments should be submitted to heather.alexander@ky.gov, (502) 564-6716. All comments received by September 21, 2016 will be considered when making a final decision on each of the proposed permitting actions. Anyone submitting comments will be sent a "response to public comments" document specifying any changes made or not made, with the reasons why, as a result of the comment(s) submitted. Any person who may be aggrieved by the final decision on these proposed permit modifications may file with the cabinet a petition which sets forth the grounds of the objection and demand a hearing pursuant to KRS 224.10-420(2).

Persons wishing to comment on the EPA's proposed decision to issue the HSWA Permit are invited to submit comments during the public comment period beginning August 7, 2016 and ending on September 21, 2016. All comments received will be considered in the EPA's final decision to issue the HSWA Permit. Questions concerning this proposed issuance of the EPA HSWA Permit and written comments must be submitted by September 21, 2016, to Ms. Terri Crosby-Vega, (404) 562-8497, at the following address: U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Region 4, RCRD Materials and Waste Management Branch, Atlanta Federal Center, ATTN: Terri Crosby-Vega, 61 Forsyth Street, Atlanta, Georgia 30303.

Water, Sewer Rates to Increase

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Bereans can expect a slight increase in their water and sewer costs around September, which will affect their October bill.

For an average household, the water and sewer will increase around $5 a month, which equals a five percent increase in water and approximately 16 percent increase in sewer. A utility rate study recommended these increases, after studying the expenditures of the three utilities -- water, sewer, and electric -- and calculating what rate would bring in the needed revenue to break even.

"The last time we did a rate adjustment in utilities was in 2012, in the electric division," Berea Municipal Utilities director Ed Fortner said, "and prior to that in 2011 there was an adjustment for water and sewer. And at that time we discussed needing to do these rate

Berea Runner Wins Midsummer Night's 5K

Joseph Mullen, 25, of Berea, right, took top honors in the Midsummer Night's Run 5K in Lexington last Saturday.

Mullen finished the race in 15 minutes, 18 seconds. Approximately 4,000 participated in the race which was held in downtown Lexington. Another Berea runner, Michael James, 24, came in 4th place in the run.

Michaela Reinhart of Georgetown was the overall female winner again, finishing in 18 minutes, 26 seconds.

The Duerson stadium at Berea City Park is still roped off, because of the danger conditions of the crumbling stone structure. While the Berea football still practices at the field in back of the school, above, they will play their home games at Farristown Middle. The City of Berea owns the stadium, and the field, and are financially responsible for any renovation or replacement of the stadium. Different city festival such as July 4th have had to set up chairs by and on the field, in order to accommodate the visitors who can not longer sit on the stadium steps.

City & School to Meet About Berea's Crumbling Duerson Stadium

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

A meeting should take place soon between the city and community school to discuss the fate of Duerson stadium.

The crumbling stone stadium is still structurally sound, but the steps and stone benches are crumbling away. It has been roped off for over a year, requiring Berea Community's football team to play their home games at Farristown Middle.

"This is really a tough decision to make as far as spending money," City Administrator Randy Stone said. "It's a city-owned property, a city-owned asset, but we use it once during the 4th of July and the school uses it approximately six times a year for home games."

Because of the high cost of tearing down the stone edifice, the overall cost of replacing it with aluminum bleachers is almost as high as repairing it. The City of Berea has received an estimate of $460,000 to repair and renovate the stadium, and staff has calculated that it could cost around $400,000 to take it down and replace it.

Tourism Commission Considers Advertising

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The Berea Tourism Commission heard from the Brand Advertising Group on Wednesday, August 10, and the new advertisers for tourism introduced a few concepts to them.

Susie Merida from Brand Advertising said they would continue focusing on the arts and crafts of Berea in their advertising, but would include the other attractions of Berea as well. This would include the trail towns, as well as other outside nature attractions, music, food, history and sustainability. The new website name, visitberea.com, will be put on all the advertising to send people back to the website.

Tourism Director Kerri Hensley reported that over the 17 days of the Learnshops, 273 hands-on sessions took place. There were 605 individual people from 19 states who took at least one Learnshop.

"In speaking with multiple business owners, they have stated an increase of traffic in town and at restaurants during this time," Hensley said of the Learnshops. "We are tallying

Contentious City Council Meeting Ends in a Draw

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

When Berea Mayor Steve Connelly pounded his gavel to adjourn the city council meeting on Tuesday night, everyone in the room sighed with relief that the contentious, three-hour meeting was over.

Conflicts had erupted between two city council members and the utility director and city administrator concerning the power purchasing contract and the transmission supplier, and then between the Berea Human Rights Commission (HRC) and Berea citizen Virginia Bland, who complained that the HRC had brushed off her harassment complaint. A citizen who stood up near the end of the meeting, Ray Decker, topped off the tense evening by stating that he hoped the council would get a big shake-up in the November election, and another big shake-up two years after that.

After the city council approved a resolution authorizing Connelly to sign a Master Services Agreement with AMP (American Municipal Power) so electric power could be purchased, city council member Jerry Little complained that a contract had still not been signed with the organization more than two months after the council voted to purchase power through AMP.

"We still have not signed or locked in our contract price which can change daily," Little said, who reported that the kilowatt hour had increased by $.98 because of the delay.

City Administrator Randy Stone replied that they needed the signed resolution that had just been approved before signing a contract, to which Little questioned why it had taken so long for the resolution to be approved. Little also became upset when Stone stated that he would be getting both a three and five year contract price.

"The council approved a five year contract," Little said, who later read from the minutes where the

Parents Question School About Limited Recess

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Parents approached the Berea School Board on Monday night, asking that children in the elementary school receive more recess.

"I'm the mother of a second grader," one of them said, "and they get a total of 15 minutes of recess in the afternoon . . . but that's really not enough."

The mother said that the year before was not as bad for her child, since the teacher would make sure they had a recess break in the morning and the afternoon. She also expressed concern that one of the punishments was for a child who "is antsy and misbehaves," is to miss free play at recess.

"How can we get kids a morning recess as well as an afternoon recess?" she asked.

Madison County to Celebrate Safety Reaccreditation

On Thursday, Aug. 18, Madison County will receive its reaccreditation as a Safe Community – one of just four communities in Kentucky and 18 in the U.S. given this distinction by the National Safety Council.

Director of Safe Communities America, Carrie Nie, will be the keynote speaker at the ceremony. It will be held at Madison Southern High School in Berea. The ceremony/celebration will run from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. and is free and open to the public.

Part of the celebration will be the Roll Call of Honor to recognize all of Madison County's First Responders. Earlier in the evening, a Safety Boulevard will be open with displays and demonstrations for the public along with light refreshments.

At 7 p.m. the Roll Call of Honor will begin. Everyone is encouraged to attend.

Becoming a Safe Community has many benefits:

- o It can help reduce the incidence and cost of injuries;
- o Promote health and safety for the residents of the community;
- o Leverages and streamlines community resources;
- o Creates access to experts & other resources that strengthen the community; and o It enhances community pride by make sure everyone has a safe place to live and work.

Funeral services for John Russell Harrison were at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 17, 2016 at the White Lick Baptist Church. Burial followed in Robinson Cemetery. Serving as pallbearers were Bobby Anglin, Eddie Jennings, Harold David Eden, Jeremy Gilbert, Mayard Mayton, and Tom Mosier. Honorary pallbearers were Ray Hammonds, Wendy Pitts, John Cope, Bart Harrison, John Harrison and Steve Bryant.

The family asks that in lieu of flowers, contributions be made to Hospice Care Plus, 208 Kidd Dr., Berea, KY 40403. Online condolences may be left for the family at www.lakesfuneralhome.com.

Harold "Hal" Davis

Harold "Hal" Davis, 72, a new resident of Lancaster, passed away on Tuesday, August 9, 2016.

Hal was born on March 23, 1944, in Paducah. He attended grade through high school in Kansas, received a B.A. from University of Emporia, and a masters degree from Indiana University. He taught grade and middle school art for 26 years in the Indiana school system, and was well-known in several states for his beautiful oil paintings of huge florals. He and his wife, Yvonne, were founders and owners of The Paint Lick Community Arts Center.

Hal is survived by his wife of 21 years, Yvonne Davis; and his son and granddaughter, Evan and Lyana Davis, both of Lynchburg, Va.

Memorial services will be held on Saturday, Sept. 17, at 11 a.m., at Paint Lick United Methodist, 10931 Richmond Rd., Paint Lick, and on Sunday, Sept. 18, 2 p.m., at Hanover Presbyterian, Hanover, Ind.

Smokeless Tobacco Company Gives Nine Grants

Berea-based Kentucky Association of Food Banks, Inc. received a grant funded by the employees of U.S. Smokeless Tobacco Company (USSTC) on Friday, Aug. 12 in Hopkinsville.

Nine nonprofits based in the Bluegrass received a grant from the $70,000 given. Known as the Altria Companies Employee Community Fund (ACECF), and launched at USSTC in 2011, the program demonstrates the power of giving together, rather than individually. The fund is managed by employees who volunteer their time to collect employee donations, review proposals and select local grantees. Every dollar goes directly to support the agencies. USSTC's parent company, Altria, covers the administration costs.

Money raised by Hopkinsville employees have funded 47 grants totaling $295,000 for Kentucky nonprofits since the program came to the facility five years ago. In addition to Kentucky Association for Food Banks Inc., the Kentucky nonprofits who received funding are Christian County Rescue Team Inc., Project Camp Inc., Home of the Innocents, Wilderness Trace Child Development Center Corporation, Down Syndrome of Louisville Inc., Family Enrichment Center Inc., Hope Center Inc., and Opal's Dream Foundation.

BEREA POLICE REPORTS

Police Reports from 8/8/16 - 8/13/16

DUI Arrest

On August 8, officers were called to the area of Interstate 75 because of a vehicle that nearly struck several other cars. The vehicle was located and a traffic stop was conducted on Mayde Road. The driver of the vehicle showed several signs of impairment and was placed under arrest. Officers charged James Meeks, 38, of Lexington with operating a motor vehicle under the influence -- first offense.

Public Intoxication

On August 8, officers were called to the area of Walmart because of a woman who was possibly under the influence. The woman was located walking on Prince Royal Drive and showed several signs of impairment. She also had several gabapentin tablets inside of her purse. Officers arrested Kacey Neeley, 24, of Berea and charged her with public intoxication, illegal possession of a legend drug, and prescription of controlled substance not in proper container.

On August 13, officers were called to America's Best Value Inn because of someone causing a disturbance. He was located lying down in a stairway, and he showed several signs of impairment. As he was being placed in the cruiser, the man kicked the door and caused damage to it. Officers arrested Floyd Neeley, 45, of Berea and charged him with public intoxication, disorderly conduct, and second degree criminal mischief.

Burglary

On August 10, officers were called to the 300 block of South Dogwood Drive because of a burglary. The complainant said a vacant home was entered and the inside of the home was spray painted.

On August 10, a resident from the 600 block of Highway 1016 reported items stolen from a storage building. The estimated loss was $560.

Alcohol Intoxication

On August 10, officers were called to the Red Roof Inn because of an intoxicated person causing a disturbance. The person was located and showed several signs of intoxication.

Officers arrested James Lyninger, 37, of New Albany, Ind., and charged him with alcohol intoxication in a public place.

Counterfeit Money

On August 10, an employee at McDonald's on Brenwood Drive reported that a counterfeit $50 was passed at the business.

Theft

On August 11, an employee at the Foley Middle School construction site reported several tools stolen. The estimated loss was $440.

Trespassing

On August 13, officers were called to Walmart because of someone on the property who had previously trespassed. Officers arrested Joshua Robinson, 31, of East Bernstadt and charged him with third degree criminal trespassing. Robinson also had an active arrest warrant.

Reveal Exhibit Showcases Large Paintings by Monica Pipia am not interested in recreating a photograph and I render my subjects with a genuinely primitive and primal approach."

Using simple lines and often large areas of pattern, Pipia renders her two favorite subjects, dogs and horses, in a style that is almost dreamlike. The patterns she uses often overlap her animals so that they appear to be wearing checkerboard blankets that merge with the background.

Pipia also creates movement in how she draws her subjects using curved lines to connect her subjects and to direct the eye of the viewer. Her print titled "The Turn-around" shows this method, with the curved neck of the horse directing the viewer's eye to the hound and rider in the background.

Pipia also likes the work to have a slightly three-dimensional quality. To do this she adds sand to the paint and overlaps paint colors in layers to create depth. Her geometric shapes and patterns enhance the simplicity of her subjects and serve to draw all areas of the canvas together.

Large paintings and new limited edition prints by artist Monica Pipia are now on display in a kick-off showcase of large format works at the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea.

The brain child of the center's executive director Todd Finley, Reveal will offer new two-dimensional Kentucky artists, as well as visual artists regularly featured at the center, the opportunity to showcase larger works.

"To do justice to larger format works we had to be innovative," said Finley. "When met with this challenge we got creative and the Reveal program was born."

Reveal is a new Kentucky Artisan Center program that provides exhibition opportunities for Kentucky artists whose larger two-dimensional works cannot be accommodated within the center's regular retail spaces. Reveal exhibits will become a regular part of the center's exhibition schedule through a statewide call-to-artists. Utilizing space in the center's lobby, Reveal artworks will be shown and for sale over a four-month period.

The first exhibit of this program is a display by Monica Pipia. Her paintings and new prints are considered by some to be folk art and by others to be contemporary. Pipia refers to her work in a similar way.

"I have a contemporary approach to creating a hybrid horse," Pipia said. "I

What Do You Know?

CORRECTION

In the article on B1 about the Berea teen band in tune, Ryan Whitt was mistakenly quoted as saying he would like to always play the guitar. What he said was that he would like to always play the drums.

Back in the stone age when we were taught that the flag of our state depicting Kentucky's motto United We Stand Divided We Fall were words to live by it was important to try and get along with everyone. Even those whose views we didn't agree with. I don't know what happened but it seems that being united has completely gone by the wayside.

Up until the past few years, it seemed that here in Berea we were a community who lived peacefully together. We agreed to disagree when necessary and tried to work in unison for the good of all. It saddens me that we have become so very divided that it's hard sometimes to even have a civil conversation anymore.

Lately everything has to have a label, conservative and progressive, believers and atheists, extremist and moderate, gay and straight, white collar and blue collar, black and white, and never the twain shall meet. Is it not possible to instead focus on commonalities? We should at least be able to agree on some basic things.

Self-serving groups and politicians have to own some of the blame for the lack of civility but they aren't the only ones.

I am about to paint my own profession in a very unbecoming light but I think what passes for news these days is a big part of the problem too. Sad but true, there are very few news outlets that are agenda free.

For the most part Internet, television and to my shame, many, many print outlets don't do news, they do opinion - labeled and disguised as news.

Personally, I do make an effort to look at various outlets to try and ensure that I hear all sides, but it can be hard work. My own views tend to be quite conservative so it's pretty tempting not to bother listening to other viewpoints. Sorry but more than a few minutes of Rachel Maddow and I need extra blood pressure meds. But if we don't expose ourselves to all sides how do we know what we really believe?

Truth is, all of us pretty much only hang out with people with similar views to our own. We get tweets from people we agree with, have a Facebook feed of friends who share things we like and we shut out those with whom we disagree.

Why aren't there efforts at bringing people together, to empathize, to see things from different views? Instead we have all these voices making people inflexible, more extreme, and less willing to listen to each other.

What we need from news reporting are facts. Not opinions, or thoughts or slants, we need to know what has happened and what the effects are. What we get instead is plenty of opinion, a good deal of misrepresentation and a whole lot of current affairs and entertainment gossip.

We try hard to make sure The Citizen sticks to the facts.

Response to Vote Against Trump Letter

Dear Editor,

I found Mr. Haik's recent "Vote against Trump" letter to be jaw dropping to say the least.

It would have been OK if he had simply listed his "vehement" dislike of Mr. Trump and left it at that. Instead, he went on to advise the folks of Berea, Kentucky, and America (the country at large!) to vote...against Trump!

He did this after emphatically relating that his policy was never to endorse political candidates because of religious convictions.

Surely a former pastor and seminary professor is intellectually sophisticated enough to realize that trashing one political party (Trump), in what is essentially a two party race (Clinton), is in effect an endorsement of the party not trashed

To deny that, I believe, is what the Bible refers to...hypocrisy.

Which is worse in your mind, Mr. Haik? Mr.

Trump's disrespect of the Muslim gold Star parents, who spoke (trashing Mr. Trump) at the Democratic Convention, or the manner in which Ms. Clinton disrespects the Benghazi Gold Star parents telling them that their sons had died as the result of an on-line-video (when she knew that was a lie); and then denied telling them that (for which she is now being sued?)

What's wrong with Human Rights Commission letter

Dear Editor,

This letter is in response to the letter last week from the Berea Human Rights Commission. There are so many things wrong with that letter that I am not sure where to begin or if I will be able to fit it in the limited space.

Their letter states that they have a record of all our communications, well so do I. From the date of the first contact on August 30 to the complaint being filed on September 1, until I received my "we can't help you response" on September 22, 2015. Meanwhile from the time of the complaint until them saying they couldn't do anything, my family was harassed two additional times. One of these instances involved my then 8-year-old daughter.

Their letter states they help file complaints, offer moral support and provide numbers of whom citizens should call for assistance. I was told to contact the police or a lawyer. Never once did anyone offer to assist or accompany me with this. When I asked if they could recommend an attorney I was told to call the mayor because he's an attorney.

I used the Internet and eventually found my own way to the Madison County victims advocate who filed harassment charges on behalf of my minor children. The BHRC never followed up or showed any kind of concern or provided any further assistance.

Another thing the BHRC letter states is that "my understanding differs markedly from theirs" well, because I have been in contact with the department of justice civil rights division, I am fully aware of what the BHRC is tasked to do and believe me that isn't what they are doing. They've effectively become a special interest group focusing on a small portion of our community and not all of the protected classes they were developed to assist.

I was also told that because my case didn't involve employment or housing the BHRC couldn't help me because they have a "narrow scope of action". However when BHRC chose to get involved in other instances of harassment similar to my own which is evidenced on their Facebook page they overreached their authority and broadened their scope. When they then chose not to help me they did the thing they are chartered to prevent, they discriminated.

According to the DOJ, Civil Rights Division, under the Americans with Disabilities Act any government agency commissioned to fight for civil rights must do so equally and justly or it is considered discrimination. Therefore BHRC overreach into matters not involving housing and employment must be done for all protected groups not just the ones they so choose to pursue.

Furthermore while they chose to toot their own horns in their letter by announcing things they have done for our community, they actually proved one of my points because not one thing they have done has promoted inclusion in our community of persons with disabilities. Even though there have been events in our community to promote disability awareness and legislation the BHRC has done nothing to promote any of them.

"And not use it as a punishment."

Berea school board chair Van Gravitt encouraged the mother to talk to the site-based council, since they were in charge of the daily schedule. The real problem, he said, was finding the time for an extra recess in the daily schedule, along with everything else they were required to do. And increasing the school day, Gravitt said, wasn't always a popular option.

"Recess is important for kids, to get that break and play," Gravitt said.

Superintendent Mike Hogg said he would let the site-based council know that parents would be attending to discuss increasing recess.

Hogg said the school year has started very smoothly, one of the best starts Berea Community has ever had. All students are now receiving free breakfasts and lunches, and overwhelmingly he has received positive comments about the change.

"As superintendent at the beginning of the year, I worry about the same things I did as principal," Hogg said. "Lunch time and transporting kids at the end of the day."

The school board approved the design development drawings for the three new classrooms and a tech/education room at Berea Community, as well as the replacement of the new HVAC system in the elementary school. The drawings included ceiling rework, replacement, and thermal control as required for systems installation. Construction for the new classrooms, Hogg said, could start this winter.

The board recognized the custodians and maintenance staff of Berea Community. They are Bill Dixon, Marty Damrell, Bill Smith, Matt Woods, Anna Smith, Scott Woodard, Kenny Thompson, Vola Thompson, Cathy Dixon, Devin Strong, Connie McCracker, Tonya Woodard, Tyler Woodard, Tyler Pumphrey, and De'Andre Tate.

"They are the unsung - now sung - heroes of the school," Gravitt said.

The board bid fond farewells to Billie Buell and Rebecca McClure, who both started at Berea Community in 1993. The two women sat in their rocking chairs that are always given to retiring teachers at the board.

Since the city owns it, the Berea Community School is not allowed to contribute any funding to the repair or renovation of the stadium, though Berea Community Superintendent Mike Hogg has explored the idea of using Title IX funds. That would require moving a girls' team to the field, however, which is not a regulation-size soccer field.

Stone had indicated to Hogg that there are four options for the stadium problem. First, they could renovate the stadium for $460,000, and make it ADA accessible with seating. If they do any kind of renovation or rebuilding, the ADA requirements must be met.

The second option would be to tear the stadium down, and put up aluminum bleachers. They would then need to build a new press box and video stand. That would cost approximately $400,000. The third option would be to move the stadium, build a pad, and then bring in portable stadiums when needed. That would be a more expensive option. The fourth option would be to tear down the stadium, and ask Berea Community to adopt the the football-size regulation field in the Berea Expansion Park. They could then use the field and concrete pad for green space, or other activities, such as a new playground.

The City of Berea budgeted $200,000 this year for the repair/replacement of Duerston Stadium. Since any project that would get started this year would go into the next fiscal year, Stone would plan to budget the rest of the project in the 2017-18 fiscal year. If all goes well with the school, and the city council approval, a stadium project could begin as soon as the spring.

Hensley introduced Dylan Bogard as the new communications manager of Berea Tourism. He began his position on July 18. Bogard will be working on tourism's social media such as Facebook, Instagram, Twitter and YouTube. He reported that there was a lot of following, liking, and tweeting on the materials he was posting.

Barbara Baker who worked with the Quilt and Tricia Taylor and Grace Wintermyer were nominated for 2016 Rising Stars as part of the American Craft Week program, an award given to artists under 30 years old.

• Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society from BCTC in Lexington came for a Sustainable tour of Berea and Berea College. The society is gathering information for a Sustainable project they will create for an International Competition.

• Awnings have been installed at 123 North Broadway.
• Signs are still being installed for the Wayfinding project.
• The Berea City Council has requested a joint meeting for Sept 20 at 5:30 p.m. in city council chambers.

• The Splash and Dash event had 41 participants, and 57 volunteers. There were over 200 people in attendance.

• Berea College will be hosting the 2016 Appalachian Food Summit from Sept. 16 - 17. The year before the event was held in Abington, Va. They expect to sell 150 tickets.

council approved purchasing from AMP.

Stone, who eventually stood up to address these concerns, said they were getting prices for both, because the three-year contract prices were cheaper. The council could amend the earlier motion to a three-year contract, if that was their decision.

Little then made a motion for AMP-Ohio to be the transmission provider and to do a power study if needed. He made the motion in response to the KyMEA Interlocal Agreement, which would establish KyMEA as the transmission provider. Little has been adamant for months that Berea not partner with KyMEA, a new governmental agency comprised of most of the Kentucky municipal utilities.

The seven council members present, absent Diane Kerby, debated whether to approve AMP-Ohio as the transmission provider, or KyMEA. The discussion became tense at times, with council member Steve Caudill requesting at one point that council member Ronnie Terrill not interrupt him. Terrill continued to call for a vote on the motion to approve AMP-Ohio as the transmission provider, but other members said they didn't want to rush a decision. They council finally approved tabling the issue for two weeks, until the next council meeting. Terrill was the sole vote against.

Virginia Bland read her letter to the editor (page A3) that was in response to the letter that appeared in last week's Citizen from the Berea HRC. Bland had initially written a letter to the editor in the August 4 issue, complaining that the HRC would not help her when her family was undergoing harassment because of a disability.

"I come tonight to not only dispute their claim, but to offer you proof that what they say they do, and what they do, is not the same," Bland said. "They have done nothing to promote inclusiveness for the disabled in our community."

When reading her current letter to the editor, Bland stated that the commission never offered to accompany her to see a lawyer or the police. She said that while the commission said they wouldn't handle cases of harassment, she felt they did when it involved their own "special interests."

"I was also told that because my case didn't involve employment or housing the BHRC couldn't help me because they have a "narrow scope of action". However when BHRC chose to get involved in other instances of harassment similar to my own which is evidenced on their Facebook page they overreached their authority and broadened their scope," Bland said. "When they then chose not to help me they did the thing they are chartered to prevent, they discriminated."

When Connelly asked if she wanted the council to take a certain action, she replied that she thought the HRC should be disbanded.

Ed Lafontaine also stood up and stated that the human rights commission needed oversight from the city.

David Shroyer from the HRC stood up and stated that the commission wished they could have helped Bland.

"Every single commissioner on the Human Rights Commission deeply regretted that we unable to respond to her complaint, because we were not authorized to deal with matters covered by criminal statute," Shroyer said.

The HRC could only refer those people, Shroyer said, to other parties such as the police. They could only work with discrimination in housing, employment, and public accommodations.

Shroyer said he would make one correction to the letter to the editor that the Human Rights Commission had sent. He said when Bland first approached them, they were not offering to accompany people to police or judicial visits, but that was a service they added later when they hired a part-time administrative assistant.

In other business:
• A proclamation of Berea being a Bee Friendly Community was given on Tuesday night. Richard Olson from Sustainable Berea brought the proclamation, which reported on Berea's burgeoning beekeeping community of more than 17 households. One-third of the food eating, Olson said, is affected directly or indirectly to the honeybees. He encouraged people to leave water out for the bees, plant flowers, and use less pesticides.

• A federal grant that several agencies in Berea, Richmond, and Madison County have been working toward of approximately $22 million has been submitted to build a facility on Duncannon Lane for workforce development.

• Economic Development Director Danny Isaacs announced a Berea Business Workshop series with 22 separate events. It will start on August 29.

• The audio and video of the city council meeting faded in and out. Stone said the video would be online in an hour.

• The council authorized the general obligation bonds for the building of the new city campus, with the ex-

studies every three to five years."

The increase in electric power for Berea residents is because of the increase in purchase power from KU. The rate study indicated that as far as municipal expenses, no increase in rates was needed.

Council member Vi Farmer said the 16 percent increase seemed like a "hefty increase." Paul Garcia who conducted the rate study for Berea stated that almost all of his clients were seeing increases of around 30 percent, in part because of the ever-increasing regulations from the EPA.

Fortner said that Berea's rates were low compared to the other 16 counties in the Bluegrass A.D.D.

Garcia stated that Berea needed a rate study instead of just a simple inquiry because of the wholesale customers, who also need to approve the increases.

Fortner reviewed the net metering policy with the city council, which outlined procedures for customers who generated energy through solar or other alternative means. Customers with net metering could generate enough energy to bring their bill to zero, but they could not credit their account past that, and they still had to pay a basic monthly fee.

Currently, around 60 percent of the solar panels in Berea's Solar Farm have been leased. The remaining ones generate energy for the City of Berea, to subtract from their electric bill. The panels are still available for a 25-year lease.

LED lighting rates were also reviewed for the city council, which cover the cost of materials and installation.

"LED is pretty new," Garcia said. "We haven't determined what the cost is for running them."

City council members voted to keep the same property tax rate for 2016, 0.102, as the year before. Since property assessments in Berea have increased, the compensating rate, or the rate that would bring in approximately the same amount of revenue to the city, decreased to 0.101.

City Treasurer Susan Meeks reported that the same rate as the year before would bring in almost $30,000 more revenue into the city. If the City of Berea voted to increase the rate by four percent, or the maximum allowed without a public hearing, then the added revenue would equal $53,586.

Council member Billy Wagers expressed concern that if the council kept the tax rate the same, there could be problems in the future.

"I worry about the people who will come after us. If we go with the compensating rate every year, pretty soon it may go back to where the council has to make big increases," Wagers said.

Council member Ronnie Terrill said he wanted to take the compensating rate, but the other council members decided to keep the rate the same, and not "go backwards." Terrill was the only vote against keeping the property tax rate the same at 0.102.

Wagers asked how much had been taken off the tax rolls because of the city property purchases. City Administrator Randy Stone reported that the approximate loss of property tax was $1,500.

Young Berea Artist Wins Rising Star Competition

Tricia Taylor, 24, from Berea was a winner of the 2016 Rising Star Competition, naming 30 exceptional craft artists in the United States under the age of 30.

"My favorite memories of childhood are of the times spent in my grandmother's garden," Tricia said. "My grandmother was an artist who painted watercolors of her favorite flowers. Although I do not share my grandmother's green thumb and power to make things grow, I do share her admiration for flowers. To this day when I am in a garden in bloom, I am struck by its beauty and power to evoke memories of my past. Flowers have the potential to be associated with innocence, femininity, and ephemeral moments. They also have the potential to bring me back to a moment in time. When I create, I glorify the memories and priceless moments that are symbolized by my flowers. My work is nostalgic, borrowing from a feeling that is both poignant and sweet. I am often reminded about the frailty evident in floral forms. This fragility inspires my work; each flower symbolizes the tenacious hold that I have over the fleeting moments in my life."

The winners of the Rising Star Competition hail from all over the country. The state with the most winners was North Carolina with seven young crafters, followed by Maryland with five and Maine and New York with three each.

filed and their work can be seen in a special Rising Star digital exhibit at www.acwshowcase.com/rswelcome. In addition, the October 2016 issue of Handmade Business features a comprehensive article about the 2016 Rising Stars.

The purpose of the Rising Star Competition is to spotlight the exceptional work of young craft artists. Open nominations were held earlier in the year and the ACW National Committee juried the entries on excellence in design and skill level; an impressive body of work; commitment to working as a craftsman; work exhibited and/or offered for sale to the public; and a commitment to community and social values.

Mt. Zion Church to Hold Civil War-era Service

Everyone is welcome to the annual Civil War-era church service at Mt. Zion Church, located at 830 Battlefield Memorial Highway in Richmond, during the battle of Richmond reenactment on Sunday, August 28, at 11 a.m.

This year the program will be a little different. Daryl Harris, an associate professor at Northern Kentucky University and part of the Kentucky Chautauqua, will present a program based on the black experience, Lift Ev'ry Voice and Sing!

For African Americans throughout the country, spirituals were the soundtracks upon which the Underground Railroad movement rolled. Freedom songs helped pave the way toward true liberation. Because of its geographical and political positioning, Kentucky gave birth to its own unique musical expressions.

Not all African Americans in Kentucky were enslaved; therefore the reservoir of folk culture from which they drew their characteristic forms of expression was rich and deep - often without fixed boundaries between the sacred and the secular. In this talk, Harris takes the audience on a musical history tour through hurt, healing, and happiness.

Come Celebrate Berea's Harvest in September

Berea may be a small town, but it boasts a mighty farmers market.

On September 10, the community is invited to join the market in celebrating Berea's harvest. In conjunction with day long, city wide harvest celebrations, the Berea Farmer's Market's second Saturday event in September will culminate with dinner and dancing at the Russell Acton Folk Center on Jefferson Street. All season long, the market has been observing second Saturdays with live music, cooking demonstrations and children's activities in the Sprouts Club.

The 2016 summer season has been a great success in the new location on Chestnut Street, sponsored by Peoples Bank. On September 10, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., the market will offer shopping for the best of the season's produce, tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, squashes, green beans, potatoes, pasture-raised chicken, pork and beef.

Shoppers can also pick up one of several breakfast options: artisan pastries from Clementine's Bake Shop, bagel sandwiches from Native Bagel Company, and sweet and savory crepes by Don Weber. Artisan crafts and soaps will be for sale as well. For lunch, try a burger from local vendors, the Village Trough.

After visiting the farmers market, make your way down to the urban agriculture district for a variety of farm and garden related activities.

Building on the success of last year's inaugural Community Meal, the evening meal will highlight local food production and the community that is created by growing, selling, cooking and eating it. With a good representation of farm fresh vendors this season, this year's meal will feature quality meats, vegetables and breads.

Local restaurateur, Richard Thomas of Sonny's Barbeque, will prepare smoked meats from Sonny Wolf Farm and Triple T Farm. For all vegetarian friends of the market, Katie Startzman of Native Bagel Company will be roasting a medley of seasonal vegetables for savory sandwiches.

New to this year's meal, the farmer's market is reaching out to include local restaurants in preparing side dishes and developing signature sauces for the barbeque. All aspects of the meal are being designed to showcase the finest seasonal produce available. Patrons of the market can purchase tickets ahead of time at the Berea Farmer's Market on Tuesdays from 3-6 or Saturdays 9-1 or there will be online ticket purchasing.

The price for tickets will start at $15, but higher tiered prices will be available for patrons who would like to give extra support to the market for all its outstanding activities through the year.

At the close of the meal, the community is invited to join in a real, old fashioned barn dance, sponsored by the Folk Circle Association and the Berea College Country Dancers. Dancing will be for everyone, with no experience necessary, and fun for the whole family. With a lively band, dancing will start at 7:00.

Berea College Acquires AIR, Arts Incubator Program

By Beth Myers
 Citizen Editor

In July, Berea College acquired the intellectual property of the Arts Incubator of the Rockies, AIR. The program, now known as the AIR Institute of Berea College, has relocated from Colorado and become part of the College Crafts Program at Berea.

The AIR Institute programs serve communities with creativity-focused community and economic development workshops and programs. Using cross-sector collaboration, AIR serves artists, business people, educators, and the community together.

AIR Institute programs teach design thinking, business planning, and entrepreneurial initiative with the latest business development strategies and tactics, such as fast prototyping and lean startup principles. Hundreds of people from a dozen states have used the programs to succeed.

"Berea College believes that the AIR programs provide a sustainable future for the American Craft movement, the work of creatives, and vibrant, creative communities nationwide," said Lyle Rolofofs, president of Berea College.

Berea College will be offering AIR programs throughout the United

Berea Teenage Band in tune Rocks Big

By Beth Myers
 Citizen Editor

When his band in tune played at the Roller Derby in Lexington this past summer, drummer Ryan Whitt thought, "I think we've really got something here, we sound really good."

The Berea teenage band had been practicing together since the fall of 2014; the Roller Derby in Heritage Hall was their first gig outside of Berea. Their success playing three times at the Derby, from June to August, gave them the confidence to tackle the Battle of the Bands this past Saturday, Aug. 13, in Somerset. Despite being the only band with all teenage members, they scored the second place trophy and their bassist, Dante Clavere, won Bassist of the Year.

"We were very surprised," Dante said. "We didn't expect to win, we just wanted to play."

Dante fended off good-natured teasing from the other members, as he kept scooting his winning plaque closer to him. His accomplishment was not a small one, however, since he only started to learn the bass around a year and a half ago when he and Alex Mondine, lead guitarist of in tune, first talked about starting a band.

"I first played the bass part on an electric guitar," Dante said, who has impressed other musicians with his traditional style and innovativeness. "I really love the bass."

Alex and Dante are juniors at Berea Community High School, and both have been music lovers since very young. Dante, whose father is a concert pianist and mother a choral singer, first played the piano before moving to the flute. But he had to switch to guitar, he said laughing, because it was so much cooler. Alex wanted to play electric guitar since he was five years old, and told his mother, "I'm going to become a rock star so all the girls will chase me."

Alex brought Lydia North, a sophomore from Madison Southern, into the mix as the lead singer. He had met her some time before, and the two of them performed for teen talent at First Friday.

With a lead singer, lead guitarist, and lead bass, the

Word From Berea Streets

"How do you like Berea's new Wayfinding signage?"

Judy Mattingly said, "I like the brightness and uniformity of the signs. I think it puts a fresh face on Berea's signage."

Kendall Allen with Michael Laws said, "I think they are very helpful. I've referred to them on my visit to Berea today!"

New Teacher Highlight

Meet Micki Jo Erslan, who will be teaching algebra 2 and algebra 3 for juniors and seniors at Madison Southern High School. She lives with her husband, Bryan, and their four children, twins Kara and Kelsey, Peyton, and Brett.

How long have you been teaching? 21 years.

Why teach? This is a difficult question! Why not? I enjoy working with students and try to help them problem solve.

Degrees: B.S. degree from Union College; major in mathematics and secondary education. Master's degree from Union College.

Favorite part of teaching: When a student asks and answers their own question. Also, when students volunteer to "share their knowledge."

Hobbies: Being with my family, photography and tennis.

School Activities: I enjoy attending ALL types of school activities. My own children's activities keep me busy too!

Who has helped you most in your education? My parents. They were and still are very supportive.

Proudest Moment as a teacher: When my students return after they graduate college and say "I learned so much in your class and most importantly, I learned to believe in myself!"

Role Models: Larry Mills, Karen Hammons, and Amy Shields (all math teachers!)

Favorites: Musician - Adele, I usually listen to what my children are playing; movie - Grease, The Breakfast Club; holiday - 4th of July; school subject -- math; book - The Thorn Birds and Are You My Mother?; place to vacation - the beach.

Buell and McClure Retire from Berea

Rebecca McClure, left, and Billie Buell were honored on Monday at the Berea Community School Board as retirees. They were given rocking chairs to "Rock On."

Shawna Skidmore with granddaughter, Ashtyn Skidmore said, "I think they look becoming and should help visitors find their way around town."

Rotary Members Present During Summer

During the summer months when many members were taking vacations, the Berea Rotary Club looked to its own for programs.

While Kent Gilbert spoke on Berea's history, and Doug Thomas, Madison County Jailer, presented on the detention center, Rotary Club members conducted all other presentations. Presenting members were Mayor Steve Connelly, Charles Hoffman, Barbara Walters and Bob Shaffer.

Connelly spoke of training standards, responsibilities, issues, and needs of the Berea Police Department. He recommended that those who might wish to offer some gesture of appreciation toward the Berea Police officers during these chaotic times could write a simple note of thanks.

Hoffman updated the club concerning potential changes in Rotary rules of membership such as allowing corporate memberships and joint memberships with Rotoract (college arm of Rotary) clubs. He reported on the important dates for the next year. Of particular interest is October 18 when the District Governor (Rotary in Kentucky) will present the program.

Walters shared her experience in OCS/USMC during her college years. She stressed the impact those years had on her ideas of leadership, patri-tism, and discipline. Shaffer discussed his work in economic development for Appalachia during the 1960s and 70s. He remains proud of those businesses that are in operation today. He praised Berea for the support and acceptance he received when he came here from New Jersey.

In addition to the officers, the board members for the 2016-17 year will be Jim Davis, Lou DeLuca, Doug Shirley, and Barbara Walters. The next fund raising event for scholarships will be a Fish Fry on Friday, September 30.

Rotary meets Tuesdays at noon in the Artisan Center.

Moving Wall of Vietnam Memorial at Renfro Valley This Weekend

The Moving Wall Vietnam Veterans Memorial will be on display in Renfro Valley this weekend, from August 18 - 22.

The Moving Wall will be located at the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame and Museum. On Thursday, Aug. 18, there will be an opening ceremony at 6 p.m. to show honor and remembrance of the fallen heroes. The Moving Wall will be open 24 hours each day until Monday, August 22, when it closes at noon.

Volunteers will be on the site daily from 8 a.m. - 10 p.m. to assist visitors in finding names.

The Moving Wall is the half-size replica of the Washington, DC Vietnam Veterans Memorial, and has been touring the country for thirty plus years. When John Devitt attended the 1982 dedication in Washington, he felt the positive power of "The Wall." He vowed to share that experience with those who did not have the opportunity to go to Washington.

John, Norris Shears, Gerry Haver, and other Vietnam veteran volunteers built The Moving Wall. It went on display for the first time in Tyler, Texas in October of 1984. Two structures of The Moving Wall now travel the USA from April through November, spending about a week at each site.

The Kentucky Music Hall of Fame and Museum is located off I-75, Exit 62 on US 25 N. For more information you can contact the Mt. Vernon-Rockcastle County Tourist Commission at 800-252-6685 or info@snapp.net.

The Berea Police Department was recently accredited by the Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police for the third time in 15 years. The accreditation is given to departments that demonstrate a commitment to trainings and procedures that meet a high standard of professional excellence.

Berea Police Recently Accredited

The Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police (KACP) recently accredited The Berea Police Department, the third time in 15 years the agency has been recognized for excellence in law enforcement.

KACP's Accreditation Program challenges police and sheriff's departments to maintain certain professional standards and procedures in various facets of police work, such as patrol, investigations, evidence handling, community policing, or the implementation of new technologies such as body cameras. By participating in the accreditation program, police departments receive an independent assessment of their performance, according to Shawn Butler of KACP. This assessment enables police departments to identify operational deficiencies, enhance departmental accountability, minimize the potential for lawsuits, enhance efficiency and effectiveness, and increase the community's confidence in the police department.

Berea Police Department Chief David Gregory said one of the most important elements of the accreditation program is that it helps his department identify how new trends and technologies impact police officers. For one example, there has been a question of whether citizens can use their cell phones to film officers during the course of a traffic stop or arrest. In response, agencies started educating police and developing new procedures, allowing police to enforce the law without encroaching on the civil rights of citizens.

"Police departments are always seeing changes. There are always new issues and new laws, and you have to stay ahead of trends and keep the department moving forward," Gregory said.

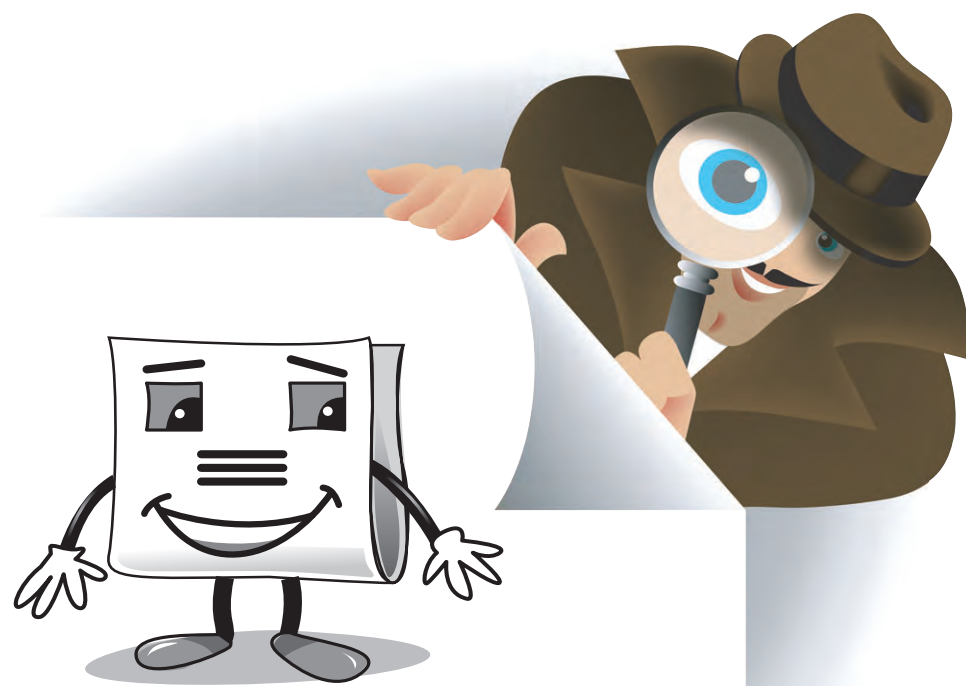

The Berea Police Department was first accredited 15 years ago under the leadership of former Berea police chief Dwayne Brumley. Under Gregory, who led the department during the last two accreditations, Lt. Jason Hays serves as the department's accreditation manager and Captain Ken Clark provides oversight of the program.

A police department that receives accreditation has demonstrated a commitment to adopting training and procedures, such as those used to hire new police officers, that meet certain standards of professional excellence. That impacts the overall professionalism and quality of a department for years to come, Gregory said.

"It gives us the chance to hire the most qualified people," Gregory said of KACP's Accreditation Program. "It means that our candidates have to measure up to a certain standard."

three of them knew they needed one more piece – a drummer. That happened during the first day of basketball, when the Berea school band played and students discovered that Ryan could play drums.

“Other people were like, ‘oh, he’s pretty good,’” Alex said, “and I was like, ‘dibs off!’”

The four members of in tune are clearly compatible both as friends and fellow musicians, all of them funny, talkative, and bright as they trip over each other’s words telling of their first days as a band, the growth of their friendship as band members, and how they all loved different types of music. With much delight, Alex was teased of his uncompromising and unwavering love of Red Hot Chili Peppers, and the song, Under the Bridge.

“He always wanted to play that,” Lydia moaned. “That fall of 2014, we would play Red Hot Chili Peppers.”

Ryan’s basement was their first practice studio, and the group decided to play only covers of rock songs until their sound was tight. They played rock songs from the 1960s up to modern day, part of the reason their fans range from six to sixty years old. Their long-term play, however, was always to write their own music.

“We’re creating our own genre,” Ryan said, and Alex agreed, stating that one of the two songs they’ve written so far, Shock Wave, starts off with a harmony between the bass and lead guitar.

“I’ve never heard that before in a song,” Alex said.

The band only started writing their own songs a month ago, partly in response to the Battle of the Bands, which partly scored musicians on “originality.” Alex writes the melody, with Lydia writing the lyrics. Ryan and Dante then write in their own parts to the song.

Alex is the only member of in tune who wants to become a professional musician, a plan that the others tease him about as being unrealistic.

Alex took the jokes in stride, responding with a Cheshire cat smile that, “Playing guitar makes me happy.”

It’s clear when watching the band play that Alex is completely absorbed in his instrument. One gets the feeling that the audience is irrelevant to the headspace he’s in. Both Lydia and Dante, however, have career plans such as psychology and law respectively. Dante joked that his dad won’t let him be a musician, since, “he wants me to support him when he retires.” Ryan said he would love to play the guitar as a career, but doesn’t expect that to happen.

The four of them already have three gigs set up for the fall, two in Shelbyville and one at the Black Gold Festival on Sept. 17. They plan to stop performing this winter to concentrate on writing their own songs; they will then cut their first CD by spring.

The band’s email is bereaintune@aol.com, and to book them, call (606) 308-1006. Their Facebook page is intuneberea.

“The AIR programs build on the Berea College tradition of serving artists, expanding financial opportunities for Appalachia, and promoting arts, crafts, and creative business practices,” said Tim Glotzbach, Director of Berea College Crafts. “The programs are a natural extension of the original Fireside Industries programs instituted by Berea’s third president, William Goodell Frost in the late 1800s. Students and others in our region will now be able to access innovative programs that will help them make a financially sustainable living as artists, creatives, and social entrepreneurs,” said Glotzbach.

Beth Flowers, the former executive director of the Arts Incubator of the Rockies, will serve as the Director of the AIR Institute of Berea College.

The AIR Institute of Berea College includes the AIR:Shift Workshop, AIR:Evolve Program, AIR:Internship Program and the AIR:affiliate train-the-trainer community development programs, and associated website, marketing materials and community development methods.

Berea College is known internationally as a center for and leader of the American Arts and Crafts movement and Appalachian Craft Revival.

Berea Community Superintendent William Bennett estimated that the school would have around $1.2 million in appropriations in August 1976, because of the increase in the state foundation program. In the past three years, Bennett said, revenues have more than doubled.

Twelve Berea residents received degrees from ECU in 1976. Valerie Darlene Barrett, Barbara Jo Bracken, Anita Frances Hinton, Deborah Brookhart Moore, Thomas Wayne Mouyeos, Loretto Kerby Powell, Henrietta Ann Smith, and Laurel Shepherd Stewart received master of arts degrees; Lewis Babb, Jr., Auldon Bernal Parker, and Charles Henry McIntyre received master of science degrees, and William L. Wheeler received an associate of arts degree.

Southern States Cooperative held their annual meeting in 1976. Newly elected board members were Luther W. Center and Robert M. Lakes. Ray Powell was elected district election delegate, and Mrs. Lewis Callico and Mrs. Jack Wise were elected to the FHAC board. Les and Jean Anderson provided food from KFC, and Renee Powell sang.

Several fifth and sixth graders from Madison County attended Camp Earl Wallace. They were Ellen Keaton, Holly Bisping, Stacy Adams, Tami Vincent, Kimra Harper, Peggy Taylor, Lisa Frazier, Cindy Thompson, Eileen Clawson, Laura Faughn, Evonne Jennings, Lencia Alexander, Susan Chenault, Penny Thompson, Anita Ofero, Susan Creek and Lydia Benton

Friendship Cane Raises Funds for Berea FRYSC

The Friendship Cane created by the Berea Welcome Center Woodcarvers was given away last week to Sharon Stewart from New York, whose name was chosen from the pool of people who bought raffle tickets for the cane. Every year, the Woodcarvers create a cane with each member carving an individual block. They then choose an organization to receive the raffle money collected. This year, the Berea Community School Resource Center received the $300 raised.

Transformation of a Beloved Tree

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

There once was a tree, and she loved . . .

This beginning of the Giving Tree by Shel Silverstein would resonate closely with many Bereans who once attended Silver Creek Elementary, home of a beautiful old pin oak tree.

Like the Giving Tree, the old oak sheltered them as they read books, watched as they ran around the playground, and protected them from the various storms of childhood. The 200-year-old tree was also there to protect their children, and their children's children, as they would come and "gather leaves to make into crowns."

Berea School Keeps Same Tax Rate

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The Berea Community School Board voted to not increase the property tax rate leveraged in the community for the school.

Berea Superintendent Mike Hogg recommended that the school board keep the same tax rate, 89.1, on real property and 89.1

on personal property for this upcoming fiscal year. Because of property assessments increasing in the past year, the Berea school will bring in around $20,000 more than the previous year, even with the same rate. The compensating rate, which would bring in around the same

County to Purchase Trucks, Heavy Equipment

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Trucks as well as heavy equipment will be purchased for both the Madison County Road Department and Fire Department this year.

The fiscal court approved purchasing another brush truck for the county fire department on Tuesday, since currently the department has only one. Madison County Fire Chief Jim Cox reported that the department had recently received a grant for $20,000 to purchase a skid unit, so they needed a truck for hauling it. The court approved purchasing the skid unit from Southeast Apparatus out of Corbin for $21,555, since it was the lowest bid.

Judge Executive Reagan Taylor reminded the court that the county budgeted for two new trucks a year for the road department,

Reenacting the Past

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

One of Mary Kuhn's favorite memories of being a re-enactor at the Battle of Richmond during Civil War times was with her mother, who was also dressed up as a fine Southern lady.

"They had my mother on the porch, pretending to be the lady of the house," Kuhn said. "We were busy showing people around our "southern home," and Phillip Seyfrit was there, dressed up as a Union soldier. The editor of the Berea Citizen took our photo, and he wanted her name for the caption, and she told him, 'son, I really don't think I want to give you my name, because I don't want people to know I have a Union officer staying in my house.'

Kuhn laughed as she remembers the editor's face when her mother spoke in a sweet, Southern accent, saying, "My mother has always been an actress."

Kuhn, who resides in Paint Lick and works at Madison Southern as a math tutor, will once again be playing an upper-class Southern lady

Unveiling of the Mystery Art Thingamajig

A "Mystery Art Thingamajig" will be unveiled in Berea on Sept. 10, as another attraction for Celebrate the Harvest.

But be warned Bereans, it will be hidden from prying eyes until the fateful Harvest Saturday of its viewing. Some clues from its creators, however, have been shared, such as the fact that it weighs 150 pounds, or perhaps 400 pounds when it is fully assembled? It is about 11 or 12 feet tall, about 10 feet long, and 7 feet wide.

On an early Sunday morning, so traffic won't interfere, the Mystery Art Thingamajig will be secretly transported by forklift to its home. And that home? The Berea Urban Farm, where the Mystery Art Thingamajig will rest and be used by the gentle visitors to the farm.

Five students have worked on this mysterious art, it has been reported, and Dan Feinberg, art pro-

Lynn Murphree

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing.

2 Timothy 4: 7-8

Lynn Murphree, 72, entered the Gates of Heaven from Holston Valley Medical Center on Sunday, August 21, 2016 after a valiant battle through the years with a multitude of illnesses. He lived each day with joy, humility, compassion, courage, and service to others with a big smile on his face.

Lynn is survived by his wife of 47 years, Patricia Graham Murphree; his beloved son, Britt Murphree; sister, Marie (Ellis) Perrin from Pell City, Ala.; brother, Jerry (Jackie) Murphree from Jonesville, Va.; mother-in-law, Lucille Edens Graham from Jonesville, Va.; brother-in-law, David (Barbara) Graham from Jonesville, Va.; loving nieces and nephews; and a host of friends.

Lynn was born in Birmingham, Ala., to J.T. and Myrtice Miller Murphree on June 30, 1944. He graduated from Hewitt-Trussville High School in Trussville, Ala., and received a B.A. degree in sociology from Berea College. He received a master's degree in student personnel in higher education from Eastern Kentucky University, with additional hours from ECU and University of Alabama.

Lynn was a vocational counselor in Birmingham, Ala., before serving as a teacher-coach at Steele Junior High School in Alabama for 12 years. He then returned to Berea College as associate director of admissions, where he worked until retirement. Lynn delighted in assisting young people with college and career goals. He also scouted prospective baseball and basketball players for college athletic teams.

Lynn was actively involved in numerous church, civic and community organizations. He served as a church deacon, youth leader, Sunday school teacher, and as part of a Nursing Home Ministry Team. He was an active Gideon speaker, and served on the board of directors for Tri-State First Priority. More recently, he prepared snack packs weekly for patients and staff at the Kingsport Hematology and Oncology Center, with the purpose of providing them with both physical and spiritual food.

Over the years Lynn was actively involved with various community and church events, including crusades and revivals, First Priority and SonQuest Youth events, community prayer walks, March for Jesus, and a variety of community beautification projects. His greatest joy was to proclaim the love of God by serving others. He was a member of Gravelly Baptist Church.

The family received friends from 12 p.m. until 2 p.m. on Wednesday, August 24, 2016 in the J. Wayne Hamilton Memorial Chapel at Oak Hill Funeral and Cremation Services. A Celebration of Life Service was conducted at 2 p.m. with Pastor David Salley officiating. Music was under the direction of Terry Bennett. Attendees to the Celebration of Life Service were asked to share a favorite story about Lynn. His instructions to Pat and Britt were to have a joyful time during the service with no crying.

Entombment Committal Service followed in the Chapel Mausoleum at Oak Hill Memorial Park. Pallbearers were nephews, Robert Graham, Kelly Perrin, Benny Bowman, Jarrid Graham and friends Charlie Muse and Craig Johnson. Honorary pallbearers were his host of friends, former students, college and athletic recruits.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made to Gravelly Baptist Church Flag Garden, 647 Gravelly Road, Kingsport, TN 37660.

Lynn lived his life like a might oak tree with deep roots in his Christian faith and many branches that reached to others in love, encouragement, and support.

The care of Lynn Murphree and his family has been entrusted to the staff of Oak Hill Funeral and Cremation Services.

Traffickers Arrested by Sheriff's Office

When deputies responded to a shots fired complaint on N. Second Street in Richmond early in the morning on Sunday, they ended up arresting five Lexington drug traffickers with cocaine and a AR-15 in their possession.

According to Madison County Sheriff Mike Coyle, Deputy Buster Dargavell received information about a gray Ford truck being involved with shots fired on Second St. on August 21 around 2 a.m.

Dargavell located the truck that matched the description turning left onto Lancaster Avenue from Main Street. He activated his emergency equipment to initiate a traffic stop, but the driver of the Ford truck failed to yield. The driver then continued down Lancaster Avenue before making a left onto Crabbe Street. After turning right off of Crabbe Street onto University Drive, the Ford truck driver went the wrong way on the one-way street before finally stopping.

When searching the vehicle, deputies found suspected cocaine, marijuana, drug paraphernalia, $833, and an AR-15 with two loaded magazines.

Deputies arrested and charged Devon Richardson, 19, Lonnie Oxendine, 18, Jabri Carter, 18, and Anwar Alcorn, 18, all from Lexington, with trafficking marijuana less than 8 ounces -- first offense, first degree trafficking a controlled substance-cocaine, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Richardson received additional charges of first degree DUI, and first degree fleeing and evading police.

All were lodged in the Madison County Detention Center.

A juvenile in the vehicle was charged with first degree trafficking a controlled substance-cocaine, trafficking marijuana less than eight ounces, and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was released to the Court Designated Worker.

Madison County Sheriff's Deputies were assisted at the scene by officers from the Richmond Police Department and ECU Police.

$30,000 Fish & Wildlife Equipment Stolen

The Kentucky State Police is investigating a theft of several items from the KY Fish and Wildlife Facility located at 638 Dreyfus Road, north of Berea.

The initial investigation indicates that between August 19 and 22, someone entered the service garage and took two Exmark zero turn lawn mowers, a Kawasaki Mule side by side ATV, Husqvarna chainsaw and weed eater, several Dewalt power tools and a Dell desktop computer. The approximate value of the property that was taken totals over $30,000.

Anyone with any information about the person(s) responsible for the theft is asked to contact KSP Post 7 at 859-623-2404. The ongoing investigation is being conducted by KSP Trooper Ken Bradley.

BEREA POLICE REPORTS

Police Reports from 8/8/16 - 8/22/16

Public Intoxication

- On August 8, officers were called to Glades Road because of a man who was possibly under the influence. The subject was located in McDonald's after going in the women's bathroom. He showed several signs of impairment. Officers arrested Kevin Locker, 50, of Berea and charged him with public intoxication.

- On August 22, officers were called to a dispute on Mount Vernon Road. One of the subjects involved showed several signs of impairment and had previously been banned from the property. The subject gave two different false names to the officers. They arrested Brandon Partin, 20, of Berea and charged him with menacing, public intoxication, and giving officer false name or address.

Burglary

- On August 16, officers were called to Storage Rentals of America on Pauline Drive because of six storage units that were burglarized.

- On August 20, officers were called to Madison Street Storage because of a theft from a storage unit. The estimated loss was $400.

Theft

- On August 16, officers were called to Speedway because of a theft from the air machine. The estimated loss was $600.

Counterfeit Money

- On August 16, employees at McDonald's on Brenwood Drive reported a counterfeit $20 passed at the business.

Drug Arrest

- On August 19, officers were called to the VA because of a man passed out in a vehicle. They were able to wake him up, and discovered two glass pipes and three small baggies of suspected methamphetamine.

Officers arrested Christopher Pearson, 39, of McKee and charged him with first degree possession of controlled substance-methamphetamine, public intoxication, and drug paraphernalia possession.

Alcohol Intoxication

- On August 20, just after 3 a.m., an officer saw someone walking on Prospect Street with no shirt or shoes. He stopped to check on him, and discovered that he smelled strongly of alcohol and was slurring his speech. Officers arrested Colin Brown, 21, of Bardstown and charged him with alcohol intoxication in a public place.

Several people emailed or called and identified the woman from last week as Sidney Saylor Farr. Loyal Jones wrote the most about her, as follows:

"Sidney was born on Stoney Fork, Bell County, Kentucky, and married at 15 before finishing high school, but she completed her GED through a correspondence course. She came to Berea with her husband and two sons in 1962 to become associate editor of Mountain Life & Work published by the Council of the Southern Mountains. She later worked in Special Collection of Hutchins Library and began taking college classes, one each semester, until she received her A. B. degree in 1980.

"Sidney edited Appalachian Heritage magazine, published by Berea College, for 15 years. She was also a respected author of the following books: Appalachian Women: An Annotated Bibliography (University Press of Kentucky, 1981); More Than Moonshine: Appalachian Recipes and Recollections (University of Pittsburgh Press, 1983); What Tom Sawyer Learned From Dying (about a person with a near-death experience, Hampton Roads Publisher, 1993) Table Talk: Appalachian Meals and Memories (University of Pittsburgh Press, 1995); Headwaters (poems, Pocahontas Press, 1995) My Appalachia: a Memoir, University Press of Kentucky, 2007). Sidney died in 2011 at the age of 78.

Incompetence of current city government

Dear Editor,

Many of us have heard of the Keystone Cops, a bumbling police department made famous in silent films from the early 1900s. They would show up to a bank robbery, bail out of their paddy wagon bumping in to each other and knocking their cohorts to the ground.

It was thoughts of this that came to my mind last week as I watched Berea's version of the Keystone Council, Mayor and City administrator perform their own slapstick comedy routine. I did not find their shenanigans entertaining or comedic. It was actually quite frustrating to see my city payroll and property taxes fund such a mess.

From that meeting I learned that it has been since 2014 the City of Berea gave KU a 5-year notice, required by contract to be that long, that we were changing providers in 2019. Berea has hired consultant Brown Thornton to work with Berea Municipal Utilities on this process.

In June of this year, after two years of study, the council voted 6-2 to enter into an "inter-local agreement" with AMP Ohio for a 5-year contract for the purchase of electricity. During the discussion it was asked if KYMEA had provided a quote. The June council meeting minute's state "KYMEA was not an established company and could not provide a RFP"

At the July 05 council meeting the city administrator reported they were proceeding ahead and working with AMP Ohio on the details of the contract as approved by the council vote the previous month.

At the last council meeting Jerry Little pointed out that it has been 70 days since the council approved going with AMP Ohio and that the resolution was still not signed or acted upon. Little reported that the inaction has cost the taxpayers an additional $600,000. The council still was unable to move forward on a resolution they passed two months ago as Steve Caudill moved to table a motion by Jerry Little to proceed. Caudill cited further studying of the process

We have learned the administration is pressing to include KYMEA, an unproven and unestablished entity with the future of our electricity. An entity we did not request a quote from and who is also represented by the same Brown Thornton working with Berea Municipal Utilities. AMP Ohio is a company who has been in business for over 40 years and has over 100 existing customers.

This is just one of many examples of the incompetence of those currently governing the city of Berea. Instead of doing what is best for the citizens, the administration is pushing an agenda contrary to the wishes of the people and votes of the council.

The lack of leadership on the council is allowing these shenanigans. It is critical that we start paying attention to how our tax dollars are being spent and that we elect people who will stand up for the citizens.

Response to earlier letter

Dear Editor,

This is in response to Pastor Peter's letter last week. How is it, that a few words could paint such a vivid picture?

The letter left me envisioning a man that has spent his life teaching the values of the Bible. A man whose income needs were met by the values of Christianity. A man who supports the killing of unborn babies, the persecution of gay people, and supports the party that in the 50s and 60s beat the crap out of black people over civil rights. What a masterpiece?

I personally can't see how any Christian can have these values.

The next president gets to appoint four Supreme Court justices. This will have a huge impact on Americans and the repercussions will last for decades. Do we really want politicians that think like our mayor running the show and stifling business? We need someone who knows finance, business, and listens to the people. We need someone who does not seem to have a lot of skeletons in the closet and what we have is Trump!

I believe George Orwell was correct when he stated, "Political language is designed to make lies sound truthful and murder respectable, and to give an appearance of solidity to pure wind." I urge everyone to turn off the T.V., quit listening to the politically staged infomercial and read something outside your comfort zone. Look up information and get informed. Start a conversation.

If I were painting this masterpiece, Trump would look more like Churchill, rather than Churchill's foe.

Thanks to all who supported Celtic Festival

Dear Editor,

The 7th Berea Celtic Festival was a fantastic cultural experience for the ones who had the opportunity to participate, in one way or another, either as a musician, singer, spectator, student, or volunteer.

The committee is very grateful for the businesses, individuals and organizations that made this happen again, especially the Celtic Gala Concert and the open air event that drew a lot of people.

Multiple thanks to our community partners, who include Berea Tourism, Parks & Rec., Madison County Public Libraries,

The Folk Circle Association and Contraire Dance Association.

To our Dublin partners: Saint Joseph Hospital - Berea, Street Side Café, Berkshire Hathaway, Union Church.

To our Edinburgh partners: Peoples Bank, Community Trust Bank, Paddy Wagon Irish Pub, Hotel Boone Tavern, Holiday Inn Express

To our Celtic partners: Chiropractic Health Solutions, Berea College Road Scholar Program, Papa Leno's, The Jennings Family, The Smith Family, The Coyne Family, Central Bank, Citizens Guaranty Bank, Silver Creek Animal Hospital, State Farm/Craig Loftis, Noodle Nirvana, and Madison Ford

To our Wild Rover partners: Save-A-Lot, Happy Meadow, Park Community Credit Union, Warren A. May, The Burke Family, Berea Farmers Market, Old Town Fudge Shoppe, The Music Makers, Robie Books, and Virginia's K-9 Clip.

The seeds for the 8th Berea Celtic Festival have already been planted, and the dates are August 17-20, 2017.

Sune Frederiksen Coordinator

Only the ones they choose

Dear Editor,

On August 16, 2016, I addressed the Berea City Council about the harassment my family has endured and the lack of support we received from the Berea Human Rights Commission (BHRC).

While I was speaking, the mayor was seen playing on his cell phone. Apparently he can't be bothered with hearing about citizens with disabilities feeling unsafe. I also offered to show the council the proof I had of reaching out to the BHRC and being turned away. Not one member asked to see the documentation I had in my hand. (After the meeting Ronnie Terrill did speak to me and offer support)

portion, David Shroyer of the BHRC spoke to the council. He stated that at the time of my complaint the BHRC "simply did not have the manpower". When I reached out to them yet again on September 18 and 19, 2015 with not only emails but also a phone call because my situation had escalated to the point of being threatened, it took until September 22, 2015 to finally get a response back. During this time members of the BHRC were witnessed both online and in the community organizing and participating in a protest. It seems they felt a perceived threat from an inanimate object was more important than a family in the community that was actually being threatened.

The purpose of the BHRC is to promote fair treatment and equal opportunity, and to promote mutual understanding and respect, not to instigate a situation where many citizens, especially young children, felt unsafe.

In a letter addressed to the community in July 2015, "The City of Berea has a long and proud history of respect for the dignity of all persons and the right of each person to achieve their full potential in an environment of respect, free of fear."

Apparently they do not mean all persons but only the ones they choose.

amount of revenue as the year before, would have been 88.8 on real property and the same on personal property.

"We raised the property tax by four percent last year," Hogg said. "So it seemed fair to not increase it at all this year. We're doing okay, we have ended in the black for the fourth year in a row."

A public hearing was held on Monday on the proposed tax rate, but no residents were in attendance. The motor vehicle and watercraft tax rate stayed the same at 59.10 cents per $100 of assessed value.

The property tax rate is estimated to bring in $1,934,960.25 in revenue for the school.

Hogg also reported on the Duerson stadium at Berea Community, which the City of Berea owns. City Administrator Randy Stone recently sent a letter to Hogg, requesting a meeting to discuss the different options for the stone stadium which has been deemed a safety hazard because of the crumbling conditions of the steps.

The Berea Community football team will be having their home games at Farristown Middle again this year, because of the stadium concerns.

Stone suggested four options; to repair the stone structure for approximately $460,000, to tear it down and install aluminum bleachers for approximately $400,000, to tear down and build a pad with portable bleachers that could be brought in for events, or to use the football field in the expansion park for Berea Community, and tear down the stadium and leave it as open space.

Though Hogg said it was "really the city's decision to make," he would prefer tearing down the stadium and installing aluminum bleachers.

"Even once it's repaired," Hogg said, "the concrete will continue to deteriorate. We'd have to do annual maintenance on it."

The school could take on the cost of installing a press box, Hogg said.

this weekend at the 2016 Battle of Richmond Reenactment at Battlefield Memorial Park. She has been a member of the BORA (Battle of Richmond Association) board since 2008, and currently serves as board secretary.

"I started attending the Reenactment in 2007," Kuhn said. "Then I became very active, and served on the Reenactment committee."

Kuhn always plays a Confederate woman for the reenactments, even though she did not grow up in the south. She was an Army brat who was born in Florida, so her mother always called her "her Little Rebel."

This Saturday, Kuhn will be in charge of the "Ladies' Social," which takes place at 11 a.m. on the lawn. Any woman can come, as long as they are in 1860 dress. They will be served a lunch, and there will also be some entertainment. A magician is coming to do parlor tricks at each table.

"It's something for the ladies to do while the men are out doing their drills," Kuhn said.

The Battle of Richmond Reenactment will start at 10 a.m., when the park opens, on both Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 27 and 28. The battles will be fought at 2 p.m. each day, and a $10 parking fee is required.

Hundreds of re-enactors attend the Battle of Richmond, most of them from outside Madison County. Kuhn has been taking the pre-registrations for the event, and said she has around 140. But many of them just show up, so they usually have around 300 actors.

"For all these people, it's a hobby," Kuhn said, "and it's an expensive hobby."

Kuhn said the outfits can be very expensive, as well as the accessories such as guns and other weapons. Most re-enactors also travel, and there are costs associated with that as well. Kuhn herself has traveled to participate in reenactments at Sacramento, Chattanooga, Gettysburg, and Parkersburg, W.V. Kuhn has only participated in Civil War reenactments, but she would like to start acting in WWII reenactments as well.

Kuhn originally dressed like a common woman from the Confederacy, but now she enjoys dressing a bit fancier. She has sewn many of her own clothes, but had to contract out for her more complicated gowns.

When asked about the importance of such reenactments, Kuhn said, "I think it's teaching the history to our students that is so important, that we can celebrate things that were a horrible time in our lives, that we don't want to happen again. Because we're not going to erase it, it's not going away. The Civil War was not a glamorous time."

Kuhn's favorite part of the reenactments, she said, is talking to the visitors, and sharing her knowledge of the Civil War times.

COUNTY

for two new trucks a year for the road department, but CSEPP funding would purchase one of the trucks for the next year.

"I'd like to take the $30,000 to purchase the brush truck," Taylor said, "and then next year replenish that line item since we'll only need to purchase one truck for the road department with county money. We're on target to buy the two new trucks for the road department, so this year we'll use that funding for the fire department."

The fire department has been using a 1986 truck that they received from the forestry department, but they recently quit using it.

"It wasn't in very good shape when we received it," Cox said. "We're in desperate need for a new brush truck."

Taylor also requested that the fiscal court approve his spending up to $100,000 at an upcoming state surplus sale. There were several pieces of equipment that the road department needed that may be available at the sale, but the organizers required that payment be made immediately.

"If we could get a good price, it will save us money," Taylor said. "I'd like permission to spend up to $100,000 for new dump trucks, and maybe some other items."

Madison County had budgeted $327,000 for new equipment for the road department such as pick-ups trucks, a culvert machine, back-hoe, and mini-excavator. The court approved the expenditure of up to $100,000, so that payment could be made immediately to the state.

The fiscal court gave Taylor permission to re-negotiate the contract with the county's grant writer. Her contract was $30,000, with different expenses paid such as travel. Taylor wanted to contract for $35,000 a year, with no extra expenses paid. The court also approved the hiring of a new human resource director, Lisa Stitem. Deputy Judge Colleen Chaney reported that the interview committee talked to 20 people, and they chose Stitem, who currently works for Baptist Health. She will start on Sept. 19 for $63,000.

Magistrate John Tudor expressed concern that the starting pay was higher than what had been budgeted at $55,000. Chaney said they could either hire someone straight out of school for $55,000, or hire someone with enough experience to handle all the concerns of the county such as OSHA regulations and personnel complaints without assistance.

In other business:

- The fiscal court approved Allen Company's bid for the asphalt resurfacing of selected roads in the county. They turned in the lowest bid at $69.85 per ton to finish and install the blacktop.

- Solid Waste Director Scott Tussey reported on his department. The Loaner trucks have been at 118 residences this year, and they're already scheduled through Jan 9, 2017. There have been 740 large item pickups, and 560,000 pounds of recycling have been picked up so far in 2016. There have been 869 animals removed so far with the livestock removal program. Tussey said they would have to do some education with the farmers, so they understand that the animals must be picked up within 48 hours.

- Hazardous Waste Collection will take place on Oct. 1 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The drop-off point will be the road department south in Richmond. Fertilizers, automotive products, pesticides, oil-based paints, solvents/cleaners, mercury containing equipment, electronics, and batteries can all be dropped off.

- The court will pay off a couple of outstanding notes for the finance building and the sheriff's vehicles, to save around $5,200 on the interest. They decided to use some of the money in their investments to pay it off, since they're only drawing 1.97 percent currently. The court will continue making "loan payments," to their investment fund, to replenish what they're taking out to pay off the two notes.

- Matthew Motz was hired for the solid waste department as a CDL driver.

- The courthouse will be closed on Sept. 5 for Labor Day.

116 BERENWOOD DR., BEREA, KY 40403

This is a nice three bedroom home on city water and city sewer. It is well located in a quiet neighborhood. It consists of a living room, kitchen, three bedrooms, and one bath. This property is considered suitable for the Rural Development Housing Program. This would be an excellent buy for an investor interested in rental property or for resale after minor repairs.

An open house will be held on September 20, 2016 from 10:00 am - 11:00 am.

The minimum acceptable bid for this property is $28,140.00.

Payments of the current year's property taxes are the responsibility of the purchaser.

Clear title to this property is not warranted. The U.S. Marshal's Deed is not a general warranty deed. Buyers are advised to have the property's title examined. Written notification regarding encumbrances on the property must be made to the Nicholasville Rural Development Office within 30 days.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on September 20, 2016, at 11:00 AM, at 116 Berenwood Dr., Berea, Kentucky, in order to raise the principal sum of $25,380.69, with accrued interest of $1,096.10 through July 25, 2014, with total subsidy granted of $19,572.38, escrow in the amount of $16.51, and with fees assessed of $323.22, for a total unpaid balance due of $46,388.90. Interest is accruing on the unpaid principal balance at the rate of $6.1568 per day after July 25, 2014, until the date of entry of the Judgment, plus interest on the Judgment amount, (principal plus interest to the date of Judgment plus the interest credit subsidy granted) at the rate of 0.37%, computed daily and compounded annually, until paid in full and for the costs of this action, pursuant to Judgment and Order of Sale, being Civil Action No. 5:14-cv-00412-KKC on the Lexington Division of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky, entered on September 11, 2015, in the case of United States of America vs. CONNIE S. JOHNSON (fka Connie S. Snowden) et al. following described property will be sold to the highest and best bidder:

Located within the City of Berea, Madison County, Kentucky, and being more particularly described as follows: Lot 29, of Section 4, Robbinswood Subdivision, as recorded in Plat Book 6, Page 358, of the Madison County Court Clerk's Office. Being the same property conveyed to Connie S. Snowden, a single person, by Quitclaim Deed from the United States of America, acting through the Administrator of the Farmers Home Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, dated the 8th day of July, 1991, and of record in Deed book 416, at Page 554, in the office of the Madison County Court Clerk.

TERMS OF SALE: Ten percent (10%) of the bid price (in the form of a Cashier's Check made payable to the U.S. Marshal) on the day of the sale with good and sufficient bond for the balance, bearing interest at the rate of 0.37% per annum until paid, due and payable in 60 days and said bond having the effect of a Judgment. Upon a default by the Purchaser, the deposit shall be forfeited and retained by the U.S. Marshal as a part of the Proceeds of the sale, and the property shall again be offered for sale subject to confirmation by the Court.

This sale shall be in bar and foreclosure of all right, title, interest, estate claim, demand or equity of redemption of the defendant(s) and of all persons claiming by, through, under or against them, provided the purchase price is equal to two-thirds of the appraised value. If the purchase price is not equal to two-thirds of the appraised value, the Deed shall contain in a lien in favor of the defendant (s) reflecting the right of the defendant(s) to redeem during the period provided by law (KRS 426.530). Under law, the purchaser is deemed to be on notice of all matters affecting the property of record in the local County Clerk's Office.

Inquiries should be directed to: John Johnson, RURAL DEVELOPMENT AREA OFFICE, Shelbyville, Kentucky Telephone: 859-881-4469 Ext. 4

2 Farms Total 65+/- acres

Farm 1: containing 45 +/- acres (1400 Ramsey Cemetery Road)
Farm 2: containing 20 +/- acres (2571 Harmons Lick Road)

Both farms will be sold at 2571 Harmons Lick Road Crab Orchard, Garrard Co., KY

Directions from Lancaster, Kentucky, take HWY 39 S 8 mile, turn left onto Fall Lick Rd., travel approx. 7.3 miles, turn left onto Drakes Creek Rd., travel 3 mile, turn onto Harmons Lick Rd., continue 2.9 miles to farm on your left. This is the site of the auction of both farms. Short drive from Richmond and Berea. Signs will be posted.

Farm 1: contains 45 +/- acres located off Dripping Springs Rd., on 1400 Ramsey Cemetery Rd. The 45 acre farm is located at 1400 Ramsey Cemetery Rd., from Harmons Lick Rd., turn onto Dripping Springs go 2.3 miles to 1400 Ramsey Cemetery Rd. on the right. Has lots of good hard wood trees that is ready for harvest.

Farm 2: containing 20 +/- acres has lots of road frontage along Harmons Lick Rd., with nice building sites, with water and electricity available. There is some timber on this farm and remnants of an old house.

Both farms have lots of good hard wood trees, the timber from both farms have not been cut for over 50 - 60 years.

If you have been looking for a nice place to build a home in the country, located in a quiet neighborhood with lots of wildlife, including deer and turkey, or a great place for a hunting cabin or a home, don't overlook these 2 farms. Very seldom do you have the opportunity to purchase a farm with a lot of marketable timber and still have the farm to live or hunt on.

Don't forget to take a look these 2 farms, not often do you have chance to buy a farm with the timber that is available on these 2 farms. Don't miss out on these farms as they will be sold to the highest bidder.

11th Annual Berea Solar Tour Coming in September

Do solar energy systems work? Are they affordable for the average household? Who can you hire to install solar systems in Berea? All these questions and others will be answered during the 11th Annual Solar Tour in Berea on Saturday, September 10.

Under the umbrella of the Celebrate the Harvest Festival, the Solar Tour begins at 12:30 pm at the Berea Urban Farm, 201 Adams Street, with an introductory presentation by Josh Bills, solar expert with the Mountain Association for Community Economic Development (MACED). Josh will describe how Kentucky families and businesses are harnessing energy from the sun to generate electricity, warm and cool homes, heat water, reduce carbon dioxide emissions, and lower monthly utility bills.

"An exciting addition to the Tour this year is the solar-powered irrigation system that Grow Appalachia has installed on the Berea Urban Farm high tunnel," Bills said. Gutters on the high tunnel direct rainwater to two 550-gallon storage tanks from where it is pumped either to an elevated pressure tank or directly to the drip irrigation system. Photovoltaic panels charge a battery bank that powers the system.

"As far as we know, it is the first system of its kind in Kentucky," said Mark Walden, Technical Director, Grow Appalachia. "This is our test model,"

Walden said. "We will see how it works, make improvements, and share our results with high tunnel producers throughout the region."

Director of the Berea Urban Farm Richard Olson said the farm was pleased to partner with Grow Appalachia on the project. "Education is an important part of the urban farm's mission," said Olson. "Our high tunnel and irrigation system will be well-used for workshops and tours."

After visiting the high tunnel, tour participants will board a bus with Bills for stops at the Berea College Ecovillage, private residences, and the Berea Municipal Utilities Solar Farm.

Tickets for the bus are

$5 each and reservations are encouraged. Seats remaining on the day of the tour will be available on a "first come, first serve" basis. Order your tickets by calling 859-985-1689 or email: info@sustainable-berea.org. Unlike previous years, there are NO solar open houses this year: access to sites on the tour is done ONLY through the bus tour.

Habitat Welcomes Barclay as new Director

Habitat for Humanity has been as life-changing for Russ Barclay as it has been for thousands of volunteers and home owners across the globe. It was at a Habitat Blitz Build that Russ, the incoming Executive Director for Habitat in Madison and Clark Counties, proposed marriage to his wife Jennifer over 14 years ago. This month, Russ and Jennifer moved their household and four children from Minneapolis back to family roots in Madison County, and with Habitat.

"We are very thankful for this opportunity to serve and lead at Habitat for Humanity of Madison & Clark Counties," says Russ. "We are excited to continue in hope with the mission of ensuring that everyone in Madison County & Clark County has a simple, decent, and affordable place to live."

The next leader of Habitat for Humanity of Madison & Clark Counties starts his post this week. Russ brings 15 years' experience with faith rooted community development and community building. Most recently, Russ served as Director of Asset Management for Urban Homeworks in Minneapolis, Minn., where he directed operations for home ownership and rental housing. Previously, Russ served as an AmeriCorps member with Habitat for Humanity Metro Jackson (Miss.), as house leader for two Jimmy and Rosalyn Carter Work Projects, and one Oprah Winfrey Angel Network Blitz.

Russ says the emphasis in his career is on "dignified, affordable, healthy and equitable housing that provides and environment for families to achieve their aspirations."

Outgoing Executive Director, Judy Flavell, will work with Russ for a smooth and strong transition to maintain the momentum of Habitat's work. "I'm so proud of the energetic work of our affiliate and all our staff and volunteers." Judy says, "Habitat means so much to me, and I am so pleased to be handing over the reins to Russ. I think he will be a gift to this ministry and to the communities we serve." Russ concludes, "We're excited to be here to love family and neighbors, to explore and experience family roots, and to enjoy adventures in beautiful Kentucky."

Habitat for Humanity of Madison & Clark Counties is a nonprofit housing organization dedicated to the vision of world where everyone has a decent place to live. Habitat for Humanity builds strength, stability, and self-reliance through shelter. People in your community and all over the world partner with Habitat to build or improve a place they call home. Information about home ownership and volunteer opportunities is available at www.habitat-madisonclark.org.

SUMMARY AND NOTICE OF ADOPTION OF ORDINANCE

The City Council of the City of Berea, Kentucky, at a meeting held on August 16, 2016 adopted the following ordinance:

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BEREA, KENTUCKY AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF CITY OF BEREA, KENTUCKY GENERAL OBLIGATION PUBLIC PROJECT BONDS IN A PRINCIPAL AMOUNT NOT TO EXCEED $10,402,000 TO FINANCE THE ACQUISITION, IMPROVEMENT AND CONSTRUCTION OF A CITY HALL WITHIN THE CITY OF BEREA; AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF A CITY OF BEREA, KENTUCKY GENERAL OBLIGATION PUBLIC PROJECT BOND ANTICIPATION NOTE IN ONE OR MORE SERIES IN A PRINCIPAL AMOUNT NOT TO EXCEED $10,402,000 TO PROVIDE INTERIM FINANCING IN ANTICIPATION OF THE ISSUANCE OF THE BONDS; APPROVING FORMS OF THE NOTE AND BONDS; AUTHORIZING DESIGNATED OFFICERS TO EXECUTE AND DELIVER THE NOTE AND BONDS; PROVIDING FOR THE PAYMENT AND SECURITY OF THE NOTE AND BONDS; CREATING A BOND PAYMENT FUND AND NOTE PAYMENT FUND; ESTABLISHING A SINKING FUND; AUTHORIZING ACCEPTANCE OF THE BIDS OF BOND PURCHASERS FOR THE PURCHASE OF THE BONDS AND AUTHORIZING THE COMPETITIVE OR NEGOTIATED SALE OF THE NOTE, WHEN, AS AND IF ISSUED; AND REPEALING INCONSISTENT ORDINANCES.

This Ordinance (the "Ordinance") sets forth general rules, regulations and conditions for the issuance by the City of Berea, Kentucky (the "City") of permanent financing in the form of general obligation public project bonds in a principal amount not to exceed $10,402,000 (the "Bonds"), as well as interim financing in the form of a general obligation public project bond anticipation note, for the purpose of financing the acquisition, construction, installation and equipping of a building for use as a city hall (the "Project"). Provisions are made for the authorization and issuance of the Bonds and Note; for the application of the proceeds of the Bonds and Note; for the establishment of certain Funds; for the maintenance of the previously established sinking fund; and for certain covenants of the City with respect to the Bonds and Note. The Bonds are to be sold at public, competitive sale. The Bonds and Note pledge the full faith and credit of the City and provision is made for the collection of a tax to pay the principal of, and interest on the Bonds, subject to certain credits, as provided in Section 2 of the Ordinance. As required by KRS 83A.060, the following Section 9 of the Ordinance is set forth in its entirety:

"Section 2. General Obligation Pledge. General Obligation; Maintenance of Sinking Fund. The Bonds shall be full general obligations of the City and, for the payment of said Bonds and the interest thereon, the full faith, credit and revenue of the City are hereby pledged for the prompt payment thereof. During the period the Bonds are outstanding, there shall be and there hereby is levied on all the taxable property in the City, in addition to all other taxes, without limitation as to rate, a direct tax annually in an amount sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on the Bonds when and as due, it being hereby found and determined that current tax rates are within all applicable limitations. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof provided, however, that in each year to the extent that the other lawfully available funds of the City are available for the payment of the Bonds and are appropriated for such purpose, the amount of such direct tax upon all of the taxable property in the City shall be reduced by the amount of such other funds so available and appropriated. The City shall maintain its heretofore established sinking fund (the "Sinking Fund"). The funds derived from said tax levy hereby required or other lawfully available funds shall be placed in the Sinking Fund and, together with interest collected on the same, are irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest on and principal of all bonds and notes issued under the Act and Tax-Supported Leases, as defined in the Act, when and as the same fall due. Amounts shall be transferred from the Sinking Fund to the Bond Payment Fund and Note Payment Fund at the times and in the amounts required by Sections 7 and 8 hereof. A complete copy of the Ordinance may be reviewed at the office of the City of Berea, Kentucky at 212 Chestnut Street, Berea, Kentucky 40403.

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS OF KENTUCKY UTILITIES COMPANY KENTUCKY UTILITIES COMPANY HAS PROPOSED A NEW OPTIONAL AND VOLUNTARY SOLAR SHARE PROGRAM RIDER

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that Kentucky Utilities Company ("KU") and Louisville Gas and Electric Company ("LG&E") filed a joint application with the Kentucky Public Service Commission ("Commission") on August 2, 2016, in Case No. 2016-00274 requesting approval to offer a new optional and voluntary Solar Share Program Standard Rate Rider ("Rider SSP"). KU and LG&E requested that Rider SSP become effective September 1, 2016, but the Commission has suspended the effective date for five months (i.e., until and including January 31, 2017) to investigate the reasonableness of the program.

This new optional and voluntary service is available to KU customers taking service under Residential Service, Residential Time-of-Day Energy Service, Residential Time-of-Day Demand Service, Volunteer Fire Department Service, General Service, All Electric Schools Service, Power Service, Time-of-Day Secondary Service, and Time-of-Day Primary Service.

The proposed rates for the new optional and voluntary Rider SSP for KU customers are:

Upfront Fee
Subscription Fee	$40.00 per quarter-kW subscribed
Monthly Charge
Solar Capacity Charge	$6.29 per quarter-kW subscribed

Monthly Credits and Adjustments

Solar Energy Credit (per kWh of pro rata energy produced by the Solar Share Facilities; number of kWh eligible for credit limited to customer's net kWh consumption on each bill)	Rate Schedule	Credit per kWh
	RS	$0.03477
	RTOD-Energy	$0.03477
	RTOD-Demand	$0.03477
	VFD	$0.03477
	GS	$0.03504
	AES	$0.03497
	PS Secondary	$0.03572
	PS Primary	$0.03446
	TODS	$0.03527
	TODP	$0.03432

Solar FAC [Fuel Adjustment Clause] Adjustment Subscriber's billing under Adjustment Clause FAC will be adjusted corresponding to number of kWh to which Solar Energy Credit applies

Each subscribing customer ("Subscriber") may subscribe capacity up to an aggregate amount of 500 kW DC, though no Subscriber may subscribe more than 250 kW DC in any single Solar Share Facility. Payment of the Subscription Fee for the amount of capacity a customer seeks to subscribe will be due at the time of subscription. Because each Subscriber's bill impact under Rider SSP will vary based on the amount of solar capacity subscribed, the kWh of solar energy attributable to the Subscriber's subscribed capacity, the standard rate schedule under which the Subscriber takes service, and the Solar FAC Adjustment, it is not possible for KU to state what the average or aggregate bill impact will be for the proposed Rider SSP. But after paying the upfront Subscription Fee for the desired amount of capacity, each Subscriber's maximum monthly bill impact will be the number of quarter-kW portions subscribed multiplied by the monthly Solar Capacity Charge of $6.29 per quarter-kW subscribed.

The rates contained in this notice are the rates proposed by KU, but the Commission may order rates to be charged that differ from the proposed rates contained in this notice.

Comments regarding this application may be submitted by mail to the Public Service Commission, Post Office Box 615, Frankfort KY 40602, or through its website at <http://psc.ky.gov>.

Any corporation, association, body politic, or person may, by motion filed by August 19, 2016, request leave to intervene in Case No. 2016-00274. That motion shall be submitted to the Public Service Commission, Post Office Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602, and shall set forth the grounds for the request including the status and interest of the party. Intervention may be granted beyond August 19, 2016, for good cause shown. Any person who has been granted intervention may obtain copies of the Application and testimony by contacting Kentucky Utilities Company at 220 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky, 40202, Attention: State Regulation and Rates. If the Commission does not receive a written request for intervention within thirty (30) days of the publication of this notice, the Commission may take final action on the tariff filing.

A copy of the Application and testimony is available for public inspection on KU's website (<http://www.lge-ku.com>), on the Commission's website (<http://www.psc.ky.gov>), and in paper medium Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 pm at the office of Kentucky Utilities Company, One Quality Street, Lexington, Kentucky 40507, or the Commission's offices located at 211 Sower Boulevard, Frankfort, Kentucky.

Thank You!

Animal Shelter Receives Grant

The Kentucky Cattlemen's Foundation awarded the Madison County Animal Shelter with a $1,170 grant from the Animal Shelter Assistance program on Tuesday.

The Animal Shelter Assistance program is in its sixth year and was funded by the Kentucky Cattlemen's Foundation.

"Find out who your local shelter is and how you can help" stated Harvey Mitchell, the Foundation Chairman. "All cattlemen understand the need to take care of our animals and it is nice to support others who are doing the same thing."

The Madison County Animal Shelter plans on using this grant to purchase scales to accurately weigh animals as they enter the shelter, as well as new fans to help circulate air and fasten drying time

The Animal Shelter Assistance program received over 25 applications from across the state and plans to continue the program in the future.

Madison Singers Starting Up this Fall

A new season for the Madison Singers is starting up, with a new conductor, and a new assistant conductor/accompanist.

Dr. Stephen Bolster, Mary W. McGaw Endowed Chair of the music program, and Berea College professor of music is the new conductor for the 2016-17 year, beginning this fall. Gabriel Evans, director of music at Union Church in Berea and adjunct staff collaborative pianist at Berea College is the new assistant conductor, pianist, and organist.

The Madison Singers are the adult community choir sponsored by the Richmond Area Arts Council. Their 2016 fall program, chosen by Dr. Bolster, is entitled Shaker Songs and Other American Hymn Treasures. Rehearsals of the choir are held once per week, on Tuesday evenings from 7:30-9 p.m. at the Richmond Area Arts Center on W. Water Street.

The first rehearsal of the season will be on Tuesday, Sept. 6. No auditions are necessary and adults of all ages are encouraged to participate in this outstanding choral ensemble. All singers in the community are welcomed to join the group.

Tuition for fall semester is $65. This includes the price of all of the music.

Singers must register for the choir in advance. For more information or for directions to the Richmond Area Arts Center, please see the Madison Singers website at artsinrichmond.org. To register for the Madison Singers, call 859-624-4242 or email debbie@artsinrichmond.org.

A year ago, they started working on the conceptual designs.

Mistakes were evidently made, but they all learned a tremendous amount. Some of the work was very tedious, where the student workers could only move an inch at a time. And it took hundreds of hours -- maybe even more, it has been told.

"This THING would cost $25,000 if it were sold on the open market," it was reported. "Well, maybe $20,000 since it was created by students."

And just as with the Giving Tree, there came a time when the Bobcats' tree had to come down, both because of disease and a fragile root system that had spread 150 feet beneath the school and concrete.

"The limbs had been falling down more this past year," Silver Creek Principal Angie Barnes said. "We were getting concerned about the safety of our kids, and we thought it might be diseased."

When it was confirmed that the tree wasn't well, many from the community mourned the need to take it down. And from those sad conversations came an idea -- could the stump be carved into something artistic? Could the tree become something else, something sustainable?

The problem was how expensive such a carving project could be, with estimates of over $3,000. Garry Gay, a teacher at Silver Creek, couldn't let the idea go, however, so Barnes told him if he could come up with $1,000 by the end of the day, they would carve the tree. In two hours, Barnes said, Gay came back with over $1,000 pledged towards the art carving from various businesses and individuals.

"I couldn't believe the support we received," Barnes said. "Some people gave $10, some people gave $20, some gave $500. It was all over the place."

In just three weeks, the school had raised enough to carve the stump and the large base of the tree lying next to it, as well as installing plaques for the donors.

Harley Dougherty, the chainsaw sculptor who is working on the carving for the school, said he has never seen a community come together for a project like this. He is also very excited by the size of the log that is next to the stump.

"You never get this size of wood in this area, since Kentucky is so over-logged," Dougherty said. Dougherty plans to carve two three-dimensional Bobcat sculptures out of the stump of the tree. He will make the log into a bench, with different baby Bobcats poking their heads out. Initially, the plan was to only carve the stump, but when Barnes saw the large base of the tree lying on the ground, she had an idea.

If you have news tips or ideas for feature stories call Beth at 986-0959

"I called Garry, and asked if we could make a bench out of it," Barnes said. "So he went and talked to Harley, and they made this whole plan with the two pieces."

Dougherty estimates that the project could take about two weeks to complete. He plans for one of the large bobcat sculptures to peer out into the playground, protectively, while the other one gazes down on the bench. Then he will carve "Bobcats" on the back of the bench.

"This will become a signature piece of this school," Dougherty said. "It will become part of who this school is."

And the tree, who will become something good for sitting and resting, will be happy.

Original Director Cuts Ribbon of new CSEPP Building

Merwyn Jackson was honored twice in June, for two groups he has served well. As the original director of CSEPP (Chemical Stockpile Emergency Preparedness Program), Jackson was chosen to cut the ribbon for the new CSEPP building. And Madison Dulcimers, the group he founded, provided dulcimer music during the ribbon cutting to also honor him.

Dulcimer lessons are free in Berea. The fall classes will begin on Sept. 6 at 1 p.m. Beginners will play from 1 - 2 p.m., and intermediate players will practice from 2 - 4 p.m. There will also be classes starting on Sept. 12, with beginners playing from 5:30 - 6:30 p.m. All the classes will take place at the Berea Senior Citizens Center on Jefferson Street. City of Berea to Host Business Seminars

 The Berea shop above, Fiber Frenzy, benefitted from the entrepreneurship series five years ago.

By Marisa Hempel
 Citizen Reporter

With the number of locally-owned businesses in Berea, many in the city would no doubt benefit from the Small Town Merchants Program. Coming to Berea on August 29 and 30, the program will conclude with a third seminar in Somerset on Aug. 31. Danny Isaacs, director of economic and business development for the City of Berea, has been working to prepare for these seminars, which feature Marc Willson leading the sessions. Willson, a retail industry consultant from Virginia, comes with 35 years of experience helping small businesses and their owners compete with the big guys as well as promote themselves.

Isaacs said they are excited to have Willson back after he led similar discussions five years ago. Businesses in Berea such as Fiber Frenzy took advantage of his expertise at that time. Now Willson is returning, with a plethora of business know-how to present to entrepreneurs in town. In the competitive business world that is 2016, these sessions can offer a lot of insight to the owner over the course of the three days. Isaacs said the classes are for anyone who is interested. "These are not just for beginners in entrepreneurship, but all are welcome to attend," Isaacs said. "Berea has been built on small businesses, such as those with less than 100 employees, so there are many start-ups that could benefit from the concepts taught in the Merchant Program." The meetings, open to the public, will address the needs of the business community. Willson's niche is in identifying growth and competitive strategies for independent businesses. Over the three days, topics will include the issues that start-up business owners may encounter, such as how to get far on a small budget. Learning to stay competitive using less capital will be discussed, something many entrepreneurs may want to learn. Anyone interested may attend; registration is encouraged by Sunday, August 28. MACED, EKU, and the City of Richmond are also working with the City of Berea to make these seminars a success. Another very valuable topic for 21st Century small businesses is marketing with social media. Isaacs said using these free sites can really help get an owner's brand out there. "[Willson] will help business owners who are either familiar or have no experience with social media and the Internet and explain how to hone your brand to leave positive impressions on customers," Isaacs said when explaining the first of the meetings. The initial seminar, entitled "How to Stay Relevant to a Changed Customer" will take place at the Berea Municipal Building on Aug. 29 from 8 to 10 a.m. The second session in Berea on Aug. 30 says it all with the name of "Competing with the Big Boys: How Independent Retailers Win and Keep Customers". "Doing Business in a GAFA World - Google, Amazon, Facebook & Apple" takes place on the final day in Somerset. However, if registered, those interested can pick and choose which of the three may interest them and their company and do not have to attend them all. Staying relevant amidst big corporations such as Amazon or Google may seem daunting, but Isaacs assures there are many ways to market locally-owned companies. The Internet provides a portal to new customers who may be unaware of the business. "Take Instagram for example. This is something that retailers hear that they need to utilize, and they may not know what their customer wants or expects from this outlet, much less how to use it," Isaacs said. Even more in-depth seminars will be held through the end of the year. The City of Berea will continue to introduce topics for those interested, such as how to manage Quickbooks and "Financial Accounting for non-Financial People." Schedules for sessions after the initial three are not yet finalized, but will be published soon for those wishing to attend. For more information on the Small Town Merchant's Program, and to register, call 859-622-2334.

Opening College Convocation Highlights Graduates' Music

The Berea College community will mark the beginning of the 2016-17 academic year at the College's opening convocation on Thursday, Sept. 1, 2016, at 3 p.m. in the Seabury Center. The program is free and open to the public.

The Berea College Concert Choir will perform the world premieres of two pieces at the convo, both written by recent Berea graduates who will participate in the performances. Both selections are contemporary interpretations of text from Berea's Great Commitments, the theme of the convocation.

A selection titled Pulse (for Orlando) was composed by Sam Gleaves '14, in response to the recent shootings in Orlando, Fla. The music was arranged by Lindsay Clavere, who will be conducting the choir's performance of this piece. The choir will be joined by Gleaves on guitar and Wade Griggs on djembe.

The Concert Choir also will perform a selection titled Vincit qui patitur, composed by Myel Byrd '16.

Named after a Latin phrase on the College's Seal, the song's text is a combination of Berea's motto and seal, along with phrases from the College's Alma Mater, Berea Beloved. Byrd dedicated the composition to Dr. Stephen Bolster, who will be conducting in this performance.

The theme for the opening convocation will be Our Berea: Speaking the Great Commitments Anew. The Great Commitments, which outline Berea's mission priorities, continue to guide and define the College. President Roelofs' remarks will highlight possible updates to the expression of the Great Commitments and explore how the College community might speak them anew during another exciting year of "being and becoming" Beloved Bereans.

In addition to the remarks by President Roelofs, representatives from the College community, including students, faculty, staff, alumni, and retiree speakers, will share brief reflections on what the Great Commitments mean to them as members of Berea's various campus constituencies.

This event opens the College's year-long convocation series of lectures, symposia, concerts, and performing arts presentations. The series features outstanding scholars, artists and leaders whose presentations enliven the intellectual, aesthetic and religious life and contribute importantly to the student's educational experience at Berea College.

Convocations also provide shared intellectual experiences for students, faculty, and staff, thus enriching the College's vibrant academic community.

See www.berea.edu/convocations for the schedule of all convocations this academic year. All convocations are free and open to the public. Those unable to attend on campus can watch the convocation live at: <https://livestream.com/accounts/5135608/events/6174378>.

Staff from Recovery Center Present to Rotary Club

Over the past several months, the Berea Rotary has heard from various speakers carrying the sad but factual message about the high rate of drug addiction locally as well as nationwide.

In response to this problem, member Danny Miller introduced a team from Chad's Hope from Manchester. This is a recovery center for male addicts age 18 and over, and it is not funded by any federal, state, or medical programs. Funds are solicited from individuals, corporations, and church donors. The faith-based, nine-twelve month program has successfully served 750 men in eight years. The program involves training as in learning a skill, such as carpenter work or gardening, while growing spiritually. Additionally, Chad's Hope partners with institutions or agencies. One is Wheaton College through a program called Leader-Trek or another called "Stay Sharp."

The strategy of Chad's Hope does not involve use of any pharmaceuticals. Program director Wendell Carmack mentioned that such use is a large focus of the recently enacted "Addiction Recovery Bill." He believes the program to be costly and potentially ineffective.

Team members are available to speak to high schools, churches, or civic organizations. Requests may be made through contact at the website www.chadshopeky.com.

Also in attendance at the meeting was the assistant district governor from the Richmond Rotary, Willie Walker-Thompson. Her message to the club listed important dates while urging the club to have an office in place for President-elect, as suggested by incoming District Governor Cheryl Spriggs.

Berea Rotary meets each Tuesday at noon at the Artisan Center.

Police Cracking Down on Impaired Drivers

Law enforcement agencies across the country have declared the time period from Aug. 17 - Sept. 5 as "Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over" campaign.

Not only will police be cracking down on impaired drivers, but the annual nationwide effort will include high-visibility enforcement and high-profile events and media outreach, supported by national federally-funded advertising in a comprehensive campaign to curb impaired driving.

The Madison County Sheriff's Office will have increased patrols and will be conducting traffic safety checkpoints during the "Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over" campaign. For a list of the approved traffic safety checkpoint locations in Madison County you may visit the website at: <http://madisoncountyky.us/sheriff/or> click on the link: bit.ly/trafficsafety-checkpoint

FROM THE BEREA CITIZEN ARCHIVES AUGUST 1976

Reflections

The 25-year employees at Parker Seal that were honored in August 1976 were, (l-r) in the front row, Edna Worley, Gordon Baugh, Evalena Thomas, Anna Lucille Burnell, Evelyn Leming, Joyce Eden and Charlie Owens; and back row were Margaret Hammonds, Ellen Johnston, Elizabeth Thomas, Ed McCollum, Clarence Pingleton, Rod Snider (plant manager), and John Lake. Forrester Vanwinkle, another employee honored for 25 years, was not present for the photo.

The Citizens Advisory Committee discussed bike-ways, buses, and bypasses at their meeting in Aug. 1976. Several alternatives were discussed, including an eight-foot asphalt bikeway parallel to U.S. 25 North.

The players for the Berea Pirates football in 1976 were Joey Poynter, Morris Edwards, Eric Nordgulen, Steve Mullins, Tom Kirk, Jim Scully, Jason Turner, Wayne Wallace, Warren Heckman, Greg Taylor, Todd French, James Saylor, Ron Atkins, Bill Lake, Peachy Flournoy, Kenny Farris, Mitchell Brooks, Brian Hatcher, Brian Vander Horst, Robert Spurlock, Randy Lake, Jeff Johnson, Mike Barnette, Bruce Farley, Carl Vogel, Craig Conn, Kevin Clifton, Bill Chesnut, Gary Clifton, and Randy Hays. The coaches were Gilbert, Elkin, and Berry. The managers were Jim Elkin and Jeff Chesnut.

Several teachers were added to the staff at Berea Community School, which Superintendent William L. Bennett announced would bring their ratio to 10 to 1.

The new teachers included Barbara Baker, Rich Brammer, Judy Calitri, Bobby Davis, Ruth Stillings Davis, Mrs. Jerry Dempsey, Paige Fulmer, Gayle Hall, Roberta Harbin, Vivane Kindler, Larry Kinnard, Carmen Logan, Cheryl Jean Morgan, Cynthia Richardson, Nancy Ross, Deborah Scragg, Chris Turley, Theodore Urban, Mary Elizabeth Zimmer, Juanita Vornholt, and Mrs. Bettencourt.

Wallaceton Estridge School had their fourth reunion. Students from Berea who attended were Arnold Brockman, Tabitha Brockman, William T. King, Gilbert Calico, Zella W. Calico, Eva Shelton, Harry Botkin, Zala McCray, Lucille Ball Pingleton, Jennifer Pingleton, Billy Pingleton, Debbie Stringfield, Jamey Stringfield, Dallace Wallace, Lillie Mae Wallace, Verna Ball Pigg, Howard Rowlette, and Ruth Rowlette.

Battle of Richmond Re-enactment This Weekend

Lock up the house, grab the kids and prepare for battle! Soldiers in blue and gray will again descend on the Richmond battlefield for the annual Battle of Richmond Re-enactment.

This year's event will take place on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 27 and 28, at Richmond's Battlefield Park, just south of Richmond on Battlefield Memorial Highway. Sponsored by the Battle of Richmond Association (BORA), military and civilian camps will both open at 10 a.m. and close at 4 p.m., with the battles being fought at 2 p.m. each day. A $10 parking fee is requested. Expect loud cannons and fast beautiful horses!

Both the Battle of Richmond Visitors Center and Richmond Battlefield are easily accessed using I-75s Exit 83.

Hundreds of re-enactors and living historians from several states come to Richmond every year to commemorate the pivotal Civil War battle of Richmond, fought on Aug. 29 and 30, 1862. The Battle of Richmond was the second largest Civil War battle in the Commonwealth, and is considered by most Civil War historians as one of, if not the, most complete victory one side had over the other during the entire war.

Confederate forces under Major General Edmund Kirby Smith thoroughly defeated an inexperienced Union army under the command of Major General William "Bull" Nelson, a Kentuckian from Maysville. Nearly the entire Union force - 85 percent - were either killed, wounded or captured.

Visitors will have the entire day filled with demonstrations, and concessions will be available with many period food vendors. Other vendors, called sutlers, will be in attendance selling various Civil War wares.

Begin the visit with a stop at the Battle of Richmond Visitors Center at the intersection of US 25 and 421. The center will open at 10 a.m. each day. The 1811 home, which served as Federal headquarters and a hospital, features a unique topographical laser map highlighting the events of the battle, video presentations of the fight, Kentucky during the Civil War and the Civil in general, and other exhibits.

This year the Battle of Richmond Visitors Center is featuring a special exhibit entitled, "Kentuckians in the Civil War." The exhibit highlights native Kentuckians who played a pivotal role during the War Between the States. These include, but not limited to, Confederate general John Bell Hood and Federal general John Buford, both significant players at the Battle of Gettysburg.

Also make sure to visit the 1850s Mt. Zion Church, which will be open for tours. This original church building is an iconic landmark on the Richmond battlefield and served as a hospital for many wounded and ill soldiers of both sides. Mt. Zion Church will be hosting a special period worship service at 11 a.m. on Sunday.

For more information regarding this unique, once a year event, visit battleofrichmond.org or call 859-248-1974 or 624-0013.

Woodworking Classes Offered by Westervelt Program

The Westervelt program for Fall 2016 will concentrate on three mini courses in woodworking.

Class will begin September 6, and will meet on Tuesday and Thursdays from 6:30-8:30 p.m. The instructor will be Gary Mahoney. To register call Sandy Wells at 859-985-3033 between the hours of 8: a.m and 5 p.m.

There is a $10 non-refundable registration fee for each course. In addition, students will be responsible for any materials used. These courses are open to persons with woodworking experience ranging from beginner to expert. All classes are limited to 17 participants. Participants must be at least 18 years old to enroll in the Westervelt program.

I. Basics of Woodturning from September 6 - September 27. This class will cover both spindle and faceplate turning.

II. Furniture Design and Construction from September 29 - October 25. Item to be made will be selected on the first night of class. The class will cover design, planning, materials, processes and finish as it relates to item selected. (No class on Oct. 11).

III. Christmas Treasures from November 8 - December 8. This class will concentrate on the production of small Christmas related items. (No class on Nov. 10, 22, and 24)

Lung Cancer

Are you at risk?

- Are you between the age of 55 and 80 (Most commercial insurances; Medicare age 55-77)?
- Are you a heavy smoker or former smoker who quit less than 15 years ago?
- Do you have health insurance?

If you answered yes to the first two questions, you may be at risk. Early detection can increase your chances for survival by nearly 50%. Ask your physician about a low dose CT screening. It could save your life.
