Budget Concerns Continue to Dominate City Council Talks

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The Berea City Council spent time discussing budgeting in terms of city and governmental accounting in their work session on Tuesday, with both council members Jerry Little and Ronnie Terrill again expressing their dislike of the current process. The second reading and approval of the 2012-13 budget will take place at the city council meeting on June 19, but the council members were presented with a few budget changes this week.

Little asked what the city was doing to get the expenses and revenue in line, since expenses have been increasing while revenues have flat-lined.

"We're going to be okay for this next budget," Little said, "and we'll skip right through it. But when it comes to our 2013-14 budget, that's when it's gonna be bad."

Mayor Steve Connelly encouraged Little to step up and figure out strategies to handle the future uncertainty.

"That's part of what the council needs to do," Connelly said. "Don't just sit back and wait for answers. You need to ask how you're going to set the city up for revenue streams . . . look at municipal strategies, not municipal control."

Terrill stated that they needed to look at cutting expenses instead of diversifying revenue streams.

"Tell us what to cut then," Virgil Burnside said. "Are we going to cut fire, police, streets? What services are you going to cut? What per-

Billy Edd Wheeler, "High Flyin' Bird"

By Mary McMahon
Special to the Citizen

More than 60 years ago when Berea College alum Billy Edd Wheeler wasn't milking cows and doing other farm chores to earn his keep at Warren Wilson College, in Swannanoa, NC, he would retreat to write poetry and songs and dabble in oil painting.

Born in 1932, Wheeler spent his early boyhood in the mountain shadows of southern West Virginia's coal country where there was little to stimulate creativity. But it was in that barren Boone County environment that the seeds were sown and later nourished at WWC for a storied career that has brought him success and numerous awards and honors.

On May 12, before a Warren Wilson commencement crowd, Wheeler was awarded the degree of Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree. The occasion was significant: it marked the only two honorary degrees ever awarded in the history of WWC. Wheeler shared the stage with co-recipient, philanthropist Irwin "Call me Ike" Belk, whose father founded Belk Department Stores.

The presentation recognized Wheeler's contributions to Appalachian culture through a "prolific Orville and Donna Webb from Shortline Pike received a city warning about their fowl becoming a hazard on the road. The violation was cancelled after city staff realized these were wild ducks that had made themselves at home at the Webbs pond. Donna told them she couldn't control whether they walked on the road, or flew over it. To the right, ducks dig for the corn that Donna threw out.

Deceptive Ducks and A Crane Named Fred

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Chickens may not be the only fowl to have trouble finding safe harbor in Berea, as two residents found out recently when they received a letter from the codes department. Orville and Donna Webb from Shortline Pike found themselves called to defend their actions to the City of Berea regarding ducks on their property.

The letter from Amanda Haney of the Berea Codes Department stated that there had been complaints concerning the ducks getting on the road and creating a hazard. There was a reminder of the ordinance stating that fowls of any kind are forbidden to run at large within the corporate limits of the city.

"They thought these ducks were ours, domestic ducks that we kept," Donna said chuckling. "When we explained that they were wild ducks that stay at our house, then there wasn't a problem. I told them I couldn't control whether they flew over the road or chose to cross the road."

Since the ducks are wild, and therefore responsible for their own actions, the City of Berea kindly cancelled out the violation notice.

The particular Mallards under discussion have adopted the Shortline Pike address as their home away from home however, enjoying both the pond that the Webbs have in their front yard along with the corn that Donna and Orville will throw out to them. Donna remembers a few years ago when over 30 ducks hung out at their pond, though currently they have been seeing nine. These nine quacking birds of Shortline Pike have split into two groups for the present, with a group of four hanging out at one side of the yard, and the other group of five hanging out at the other. Even when they are all in the pond, Donna said, the two groups stay on opposite sides.

Donna and Orville moved to their five acres on Shortline Pike over 20 years ago, before the subdivisions started springing up around them. The pond already existed out front, though the wild ducks hadn't taken up residence yet. Dr. Carl Kessler lived there before they moved in.

"We just love it here," Donna said, pleased with the little slice of paradise

Louise Feng-mei Chang Yang

Louise Chang Yang was born on June 23, 1916 to Fu-Liang Chang and Louise Harriet Huie in Ku-ling, China. She was the oldest of five children. She died in Oakland, Ca., on May 28, 2012 at the age of 95.

Louise was a graduate of the McTyeire School for Girls in Shanghai, and Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, NY in 1938. After Vassar, she obtained a M.A. in 1939 from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, MI. In 1959, she obtained a second master's degree from the University of Kentucky.

On Christmas Eve in 1940, Louise married Daniel Yang, who died in 1980 while he was still actively teaching at Berea College. Her father was also a professor at Berea College.

Most of Louise's adult life was spent in the area of education. After obtaining her M.A. from Michigan, Louise traveled to China and taught as a professor of English at Ginling College. This was disrupted by the Japanese invasion of China during WWII. She returned to the U.S. in 1950 and became a librarian at the Sterling Memorial Library of Yale University. This was followed by a position to work as a librarian and teacher at the Hutchins Library of Berea College in 1957, where she worked until her retirement in 1986. Helping students was her vocation.

Even after retirement, Louise taught English to foreign students from China in a program at Stanford University. She also worked for a time at the Hoover Institute cataloging books in the Asian book collection.

Louise was a linguist in several languages. These included English, Chinese - two dialects, French and Burmese. She was fond of classical music and was a competent pianist through most of her life. She played the piano well into her 90s.

Louise is survived by her four sons, Robert T. Yahng of Kentfield, Ca., Huie T. Yang of Lexington, Christopher T. Yahng of Walnut Creek, Ca. and Michael T. Yahng of Shanghai, China; six grandchildren; one great granddaughter and four siblings, Irving Chang of Virginia Beach, Va., Margaret Ma of Palo Alto, Ca., Huie Chang of Silver Springs, Md. and Katharine Wang of Stony Brook, NY.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to Berea College, CPO 2216, Berea, KY 40403 for the Hutchins Library in memory of Louise Chang Yang.

Paul Sturgill

Paul Sturgill, 65, of Kindred Spur in Berea passed away Sunday, June 3, 2012 at the Hospice Compassionate Care Center in Richmond.

Paul was born in Paintsville, Kentucky to the late Ellis and Mamie Little Sturgill. He was a U.S. Army veteran and a member of the Disabled American Veterans.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by a brother, Charles Sturgill.

Paul is survived by his loving wife of 46 years, Lucretia Blakley Sturgill and four sons, Paul Sturgill Jr. and Perry Lee Sturgill, both of Colorado Springs, CO, Phillip Sturgill of Berea and Robert Sturgill of Columbus, OH. Nine grandchildren, Logan, Robert Dakota, Chelsea, Courtlyn, Damon, Matthew, Ethan, Kelsey and Justin also survive him.

A memorial service was held at 2 p.m. Wednesday, June 6, 2012 at Lakes Funeral Home with Hospice Chaplain Andy Rutrough officiating. Full military honors followed the services. Condolences for the family may be left at www.lakesfuneralhome.com

David Worley

David Worley, 66, of N. Powell Ave. in Berea passed away Friday evening at the Hospice Compassionate Care Center in Richmond. He was born in Inskip, Tennessee to the late Troy H. and Edna Horton Worley. He was retired from Okonite in Richmond and had attended Madison Community Church for many years.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by two brothers, Phillip Worley and Fred Worley. He is survived by his wife, Gloria Mullins Worley; three children, Candy Worley of Berea, Tara Worley Hutchins of Berea and Kerby (Erin) Worley of Bryson City, NC; one sister, Janet Haywood of Bowling Green; his mother-in-law, Della Mullins; six grandchildren, Logan, Dustin and Jacob Hutchins, Allison, Miche and Tamara; and two special nephews, Trevor and Christopher Coccari. Many other family and friends also survive him.

Visitation was Monday evening from 4 - 6:30 p.m. at Lakes Funeral Home with funeral services starting at 6:30 p.m. with Pastor Jason Carpenter officiating. A private burial followed Tuesday.

Condolences may be left for the family at www.lakesfuneralhome.com In addition to flowers, donations may be made to Hospice Care Plus in Berea.

BEREA POLICE REPORTS

Vehicle Theft

• On May 30, officers were called to Berea Auto Sales on Chestnut Street. The owner told them a man had just left in one of his vehicles for a test drive. He stated that the subject came by earlier in the day inquiring about a vehicle and then left. He then came back later in the evening and wanted to test drive a vehicle.

The subject took the car for a test drive and left his own vehicle at the car lot. He never returned from the test drive. Officers ran a check on the Ohio license plate on the vehicle that the subject left behind, and it came back stolen. It also did not belong to the vehicle it was on.

A check of the Vehicle Identification Number (VIN) on the vehicle showed that it had also been stolen from Ohio. Before the test drive, the subject told the victim that he was a traveling car salesman and he was looking for vehicles to purchase for his own car lot.

Officers were able to contact the owner of the stolen car in Ohio as well as the sheriff's department in Franklin County, Ohio. The victim in Ohio put up his car for sale at his residence and a male subject took it for a test drive. He never returned with the victim's vehicle and the vehicle he left behind turned out to be stolen from Indiana.

Berea officers also made contact with the police in Van Wert, Ohio where the license plate they recovered had been stolen. In that case, a car had also been stolen with another stolen vehicle left in its place. That vehicle has not been recovered. Since that theft, the stolen plate has been called in to law enforcement in Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio because of gas drive offs.

The only description of the suspect is that he is a white male, approximately 5'10 and 170 lbs. The stolen vehicle from Berea is a 2009 Gray Toyota Corolla with Ky tag 795-JVR. Anyone who sees this vehicle is asked to call the Berea Police Department at 859-986-8456.

Burglary

• On May 31, the Berea Police Department received reports of three area churches that were burglarized. Officers were called to Liberty Avenue Baptist Church, Glades Christian Church and Emmanuel Baptist Church. In all three cases, the suspects broke out glass doors on the buildings to gain entry.

Several items were taken from Liberty Avenue and Glades Christian, but no items were taken from Emmanuel Baptist. Electronics and other items were taken, but a complete list of stolen items is still pending. Anyone with any information is asked to contact the Berea Police Department at 859-986-8456.

Theft

• On May 16, officers responded to Shell on Highway 1016 in reference to a theft. The clerk stated that a male subject had stolen a donation jar from the front counter. The estimated loss was $300.

• On May 8, a resident in the 200 Block of Oakwood Drive reported that items were stolen from a storage shed. The estimated loss was $850.

• On May 21, a victim in the 2000 Block of Brooklyn Blvd reported that copper wiring was stolen from an apartment under construction. The estimated loss was $1,500.

• On May 29, a resident in the 600 Block of Farmland Drive reported that a heating and air unit was stolen from the rear of the home. The estimated loss was $5,000.

• On June 1, a resident in the 100 Block of Glades

Road reported that items were stolen from a parked vehicle. The estimated loss was $300.

Property Damage

• On May 22, a resident in the 100 Block of Reed Hill reported that an AC unit was damaged. The estimated loss was $2,200.

• On May 24, a victim in the 100 Block of 76 Blvd reported that five storage units had been broken into. At this time nothing is missing, but the locks on the buildings were cut. The estimated loss was $50.

• On May 24, a resident in the 100 Block of Lorraine Court reported that two tires were cut on his vehicle. The estimated loss was $200.

• On May 31, an employee of People's Bank reported that their ATM on Chestnut Street had been damaged. A hole was kicked in the wall. The estimated loss was $50.

Drug Arrest

• On May 26, officers received a complaint at Save-A-Lot on Richmond Road. The caller said a subject was attempting to sell drugs to people in the parking lot. When the Berea officers arrived, they located the vehicle and stopped it for a traffic violation.

The driver was identified as Jason Cottongim, 32, of Manchester. Officers received consent to search the vehicle and they located meth making materials. Officers also located burnt pieces of aluminum foil and five green pills.

Cottongim was charged with manufacturing methamphetamine, possession of controlled substance -- first degree and drug paraphernalia possession

• On June 4, officers located a vehicle behind Family Dollar on Richmond Road. The officers spoke to the two subjects inside and one of them admitted he had marijuana. Officers located twelve individually wrapped bags of marijuana along with two marijuana cigarettes. They arrested Kenneth Roberts, 20, of Berea. He was charged with trafficking marijuana, possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Shoplifting Arrest

• On May 29, officers were called to Walmart for a shoplifter. The store employee said they observed a man taking items from their packages and then trying to leave the store. When they arrived, officers discovered the subject had blue pills. They arrested Stephen Robinson, 22, of Richmond. He was charged with theft by unlawful taking - shoplifting and possession of controlled substance -- first degree.

Water: The New Oil

Clint Patterson, College Forester

My family and I just got back from the Grand Canyon. Wow, what an awesome place! We had never been there before. No matter how many photos a person sees of the canyon, until you actually look across nine miles of vast rock formations; dropping five thousand feet down to the glistening Colorado River below, you just can't get a real feel for the size and beauty of the place.

We hiked for eight hours one day, mostly rode the shuttles another, and took a smooth water boat tour of Glen Canyon, upstream. We also swam at Lake Powell and looked around the Navajo town of Tuba City. Good time, beautiful scenery. Hot, dry weather.

It's interesting to me to see other parts of the country, and think about what it must be like to live in a completely different climate, a different ecosystem, and even a different culture. The United States is so incredibly diverse "from sea to shining sea", with everything from mountains, deserts, plains, swamps, etc., and just as many different kinds of people.

One thing I especially appreciate, after returning from arid Arizona, is water. Coming off of the "wettest year in Kentucky history", I've been getting pretty tired of rain. The nearly weekly rain occurrence has impeded my ability to get projects done at work all year. But, it could be a lot worse; we could be experiencing a drought.

Kentucky's annual rainfall averages between 40 and 50 inches of rain per year, with most areas of Kentucky receiving over 60 inches of rainfall in 2011. Northern Arizona's annual rainfall, by contrast, is 5 to 15 inches per year.

The boat tour guide on the Glen Canyon float trip told us that Lake Meade and Lake Powell, on the Colorado River, stored enough water to supply the Southwest with water for five years in the event of a drought. Though this sounds pretty good, at first; the more I think about it, the more alarming it seems that millions of people are so dependent on a couple of dams and the unreliable annual snow melt which fills them.

Berea's little water district uses just over a billion gallons of water each year, from Berea College's managed watershed. Owsley

Lake makes the largest contribution, but several small lakes and springs also factor into that supply. With a growing demand for water in our area, there is talk of more storage being needed in the future.

Here, in Kentucky, with a relatively low population and a fairly high rainfall average, we're in pretty good shape. There are springs, wells, lakes and rivers in abundance, and enough rainfall to keep them going. But, in many parts of the arid Southwest... and many other areas of the world... some with fast-growing populations; this is not the case. And, as our climate changes, who knows if the wetter areas are going to stay that way.

"Peak oil" is the term which means we have reached the point where oil production has reached its peak and, despite growing demand, begins to fall off in supply. Economic collapse, war, etc., could ensue, when this happens, if alternative sources of energy are not in place before it does. Yet, another, less talked about shortage could trump "peak oil". Maybe we should worry even more about "peak water"; especially with an apparently changing climate and the concerns about increasing groundwater pollution caused by fracking (for oil).

Words Matter

Scenter Stage
Teresa Scenters, Publisher

As if I needed one more sign of advanced aging, even the language is being changed on me. Martin Ramsey and I had a brief conversation at church Sunday about a word in a headline last week that we had both been taught was incorrect usage. (Sorry to out you on being an oldster with me Martin.)

I have no idea who his fifth grade teacher was, but Mrs. Bach, who was mine, did not accept the word "bust" or "busted" when used in reference to something having ruptured. Back in the olden days we were taught that balloons and fireworks burst and that little ladies and gentlemen did not use vulgarities like bust.

Much to my surprise, but obviously not to Beth's, who burst into my office waving a dictionary, bust is no longer just a noun to describe an art form of the upper part of the human torso or a section of the body.

Newer editions of Merriam Webster's Dictionary indicate that it is also a verb, "a: to break or smash especially with force; also : to make inoperative -busted my watch. b: to bring an end to : break up -helped bust trusts — Newsweek. — often used with up -better not try to bust up his happy marriage — Forbes. c: to ruin financially d: exhaust, wear out — used in phrases like bust one's butt to describe making a strenuous effort. e: to give a hard time to — often used in phrases like bust one's chops."

Surprise to no one, the definition of vulgarity has changed too. But to save me, I cannot get comfortable with it. If that earns me an uptight label, so be it.

I believe the words that proceed from the mouth are indicative of more than the level of one's education or the environment they were reared in. Mrs. Bach wouldn't have liked my ending that sentence in a preposition either, but I digress.

Don't think I'm so overboard that I really think of "bust" as a vulgar word. I don't. And given the right circumstance a s#!+ or d@%^ is certainly apt to come out of my own mouth. But I tend to think we should use even the mildest expletive sparingly. Like spice, too much ruins the effect.

The widespread usage of the name of the God of heaven and His Son as words of emphasis is the worst, followed closely by the f-bomb. Both make me cringe. I think it shows a lack of vocabulary in those who feel the need to use them liberally in conversation.

In my opinion, the language a person uses will tell you a lot about them. Didn't Socrates say, "Speak that I may see you." There's also something Jesus said, "Out of the abundance of the heart, the mouth speaketh." I think He meant, your mouth will reveal what kind of person you are.

Or to paraphrase in the new and modern English, What comes out of your mouth will bust you.

Letters from Berea

Beth Myers Editor

I watched another heated budget discussion at the city council work session on Tuesday, and heard many of the same complaints and questions from the same council members that I've heard in meetings before — they don't like the budget standards, they still don't understand the processes of government accounting, what about the rainy day fund even though the whole rainy day fund — whether informal or formal — has been discussed, on and on and on. It felt like the movie Groundhog Day, where Bill Murray's character lived one day over and over again, except this was the work session that I get to live over and over.

Actually, this constant complaining is not a bad political strategy these days — basically wear everyone out. Kind of like filibustering, where the minority block talks on and on, keeping a motion from coming to a vote. These few council members seem pretty adept at bringing the business of a city to a halt while they recycle the same objections and questions. It's good I'm not serving on city council. I would have raised the white flag a long time ago; given them anything they wanted as long as they quit talking.

But here's what I find perplexing. The couple of council members in question keep talking about cutting costs, cutting the budget so we don't have to figure out how to bring more money in, but I have yet to hear any specific proposals of cuts to offset annual inflation. In fact, one of them actually argued for hazardous duty retirement for the police officers — costs currently bankrupting cities across Kentucky. He also supported adding funding for the Berea Health Ministry to the budget. Now, don't get me wrong, I would love to see the Health Ministry get more funding, but neither am I the one marching around Berea to the "cut costs" drum beat.

These same council members also were behind the redesign of the 25 N Highway — pushing to change the existing plan. So the City of Berea had to pony up more money to pay for the redesign — of course, that spending was declared "good" by one of them. Again, I give credit for the city and state being responsive to the highway 25N concerns, and taking some action, but let me repeat, I'm not the one beating the long-dead-and-on-its-way-to-fossilization horse of Berea spending cuts.

Unfortunately, there's no line item in the Berea budget labeled, "Wasteful Spending," that we can just cut. There's no fat to easily chop around. There's also no magical city fund in the sky labeled "Not From Taxpayers or Bereans" that can pay for things such as hazardous duty retirement, redesigns, streetlights and, dare I remind them, stipends for city council members. It's all taxpayer money — even state and federal grants are taxpayer money, just from a much larger pot.

One of these complaining council members was asked point-blank at the work session meeting, well, what would you cut? They didn't answer. So let's ask more specific questions. Would you cut out firefighters? Policeman? Upkeep on city parcs? Should we forget the drainage work we've been doing, to try to help the people from getting their homes flooded? Don't widen Menelaus? Should we cut benefits to our city employees? Trust me, anything you choose is going to start the bleeding somewhere, something will be taken away, and more importantly, get some contingent of the city upset enough to not vote for them next time.

To be fair, I can understand the frustration of trying to understand finances. In my former life in grant writing and development, it became pretty clear that government and nonprofit accounting was neither intuitive nor simple. But it isn't efficient to keep spending public meeting time requiring city staff to go over the same information. I think it's time for these city council members to take their personal time to discuss and figure out these concepts, so I can cut down on my migraine medication every other Tuesday.

So far, these complaining council members seem to be the party of "no". If they have proposals for the budget, or strategies to deal with covering inflation in a flat economy, I have yet to hear them. At some point, you have to quit arguing every ordinance and every budget, and actually come up with something on your own, or suggest a way to start discussing concerns. I've heard their sentences start with, "well, how are you going to . . ." As a sitting council member, couldn't they turn that around to, "how am I going to . . .?" or "how can we . . .?"

The fact is, complaining and repetitive arguments get old fast. Guess we can be thankful that we're not paying these guys by the work session, or heaven forbid, per word.

"Let us not be weary in well doing, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not." — Galatians 6:9

On June 1, officers were called to the Family Dollar on Richmond Road in reference to a shoplifter. When the officers arrived, store employees stated that a man concealed several items in his pockets that totaled $17.23. Officers arrested Daniel Cook, 30, of Berea.

On June 3, officers were called to Walmart in reference to a shoplifter. A store employee said a woman concealed several items and then attempted to leave the store. The total value for the items was $149.50. Officers arrested Lisa Miller, 51, of Georgetown.

Disorderly Conduct Arrest

On May 31, officers observed a naked man walking down Jefferson Street. When they made contact with him, they detected a strong smell of alcohol. They arrested Justin Slone, 26, of Berea. He was charged with alcohol intoxication and disorderly conduct -- second degree.

On June 1, a resident in the 200 Block of Jackson Street called 911 and stated that she needed a police officer. When officers arrived, they met Charlene Kirk, 33, who was intoxicated. She began yelling and screaming and got in the face of one of the officers and yelled at him. When they attempted to arrest her, she laid on the ground and would not follow commands to get up. She was charged with disorderly conduct -- second degree, menacing and resisting arrest.

Assault Arrest

On May 31, officers were called to St. Joseph Berea in reference to a combative patient. They located Crystal Slone, 33, of Berea in the ER. She was cursing and screaming and had spit on hospital staff. She also urinated on a table and splashed it on staff members. She was charged with disorderly conduct -- second degree and assault -- third degree.

personnel do we cut?"

Connelly encouraged Terrill to come up with a specific proposal for cuts, if that's the direction they wanted to go.

"We must provide adequately for the services we decide on, and not over commit to what the city spends," Connelly said.

Both Terrill and Little disagreed with the city's method of overestimating expenses and underestimating revenues for the budget. In past meetings, they have expressed concern about the budget using up all but one million of the revenue; staff has assured them that they have no intention of spending all of it, but they keep all the items in the budget so they can be flexible and choose the projects that come to fruition that fiscal year.

When Terrill mentioned amending the budget every time a change needed to be made, Connelly stated that would not give the needed flexibility to city staff.

"You would be spending thousands of dollars in advertising, every time you amended the budget," Connelly stated, "because that always needs to be printed in the newspaper. You have to allow the municipalities to run differently than your business. Propose a strategy to deal with the situation."

Vi Farmer said, "In all my years serving on city council, they have never used the reserve funds."

The City of Berea has approximately $4.5 million in CDs; much of that money is written in the budget expenses, but City Administrator Randy Stone stated that the city has no intention of touching the CD funds. Stone indicated that since the City of Berea staff can only purchase items that are currently in the budget, putting all possibilities in gives them the necessary flexibility to respond to emergencies and other capital improvements for the city.

Little said, "But it's spent. Right here, it's all in the budget."

Connelly suggested that Berea City Council invite the League of Cities to come down and give a training on governmental accounting and budgeting for the council. Members agreed that was a good idea.

The draft of the 2012-13 budget starts with a fund balance of $5,600,000, with the ending balance $1,792,139. Stone reiterated that they did not intend to spend the $4.5 million in reserves, but budgeted several different items so the city could respond to emergency situations.

The council approved the fire department purchasing a skid unit for $15,000. This unit is a complete, self-contained firefighting apparatus that will slide in the back of the pick-up truck at Station 2. It can hold up to 250 gallons of water. NAFECO out of Dekatur, Alabama turned in the accepted bid.

The auditor's management letter was reviewed, which gave no findings for the City of Berea.

The city council briefly discussed the Berea Municipal Utilities electric costs and revenues. Last year, the electric utilities fell short $600,000, with expenses far outpacing revenues brought in. Stone announced that he would be meeting with the consultant on Wednesday to discuss the rate study for electric.

During audience comments at the city council meeting, Mae Suramek of the Berea Human Rights Commission gave an informal report on the first six months' activities of the commission. She stated they would be giving their scheduled annual report in November.

She reported that the commission established three priority goals; to train and prepare commissioners by attending professional development workshops and trainings, to establish an operational framework which they have started on by setting up a Facebook page and complaint intake forms; and to perform community education and outreach. They have worked extensively with Madison

Southern High School on the Rebel Run, holding a public forum and also sending out commissioners to work with the student leadership at the school.

Suramek stated that the larger goals of the commission would be tackled in the future, but for the first year they are concentrating on getting the operation going.

There was some controversy regarding Hubert Chasteen, Jr.'s request to remove the barrier at the end of Pinnacle Street. The City of Berea agreed to remove the barrier until he gets his driveway completed, but that process has taken longer than anticipated. A woman from Pinnacle Street spoke to the council, and asked that they keep Pinnacle a dead-end street, since she didn't want to live at the end of someone's driveway.

"Chasteen unlocks the cable and leaves it down, even though Randy told him to unlock and then lock it back right away. The cable was down most of the day the other day. Then the city came and locked it, and he cut the lock... How much time do you need to give him," she asked.

Stone announced that the City of Berea does have the authority to get lighting on the intersections of 595 and the bypass, as well as the bypass and Highway 25N. They will continue to work on getting the lighting put up.

that if Orville leaves in the morning without throwing out the corn for breakfast, they will end up honking and chasing him down the driveway. They do occasionally leave for around a week, which makes Donna very curious as to where they travel to.

There are a few advantages to having wild Mallards around, Donna pointed out. They eat bugs and keep that population down, and also work well as "guard ducks". Though useless in terms of protection, they will set up a honking racket when anyone drives or steps foot on the property. They also are fun to watch, and even some of the neighbors join in and feed them.

The ducks are not the only interesting visitors to Shortline Pike. There is a crane that visits the Webbs approximately once a week, which Donna and Orville have named, "Fred". For a while, Fred showed up with a baby crane too. Fred's favorite spot has been on top of the gazebo the Webbs built.

Fred's not quite as outgoing as the ducks, taking off as soon as he gets a hint that the Webbs are coming outdoors. He does enjoy the Mallards, however, often lying down with them or walking with them around the pond. Along in the middle of the development across the street and further down the road.

The Webbs first brought tame ducks to their pond when they moved in, white ducks and Muscovys. However, these breeds cannot fly, so dogs running loose around the neighborhood quickly finished them off. Before they were all killed, however, the Mallards came for a visit to see their tame cousins. In the 20 years since then, there have always been ducks on the Webb's property.

"Three years ago, we had around 100 ducks hatch out when we had 30 ducks," Donna said. "We ended up taking the babies to the farm stores, because we couldn't keep them all here."

Though the ducks are not tame, they do have certain expectations of their hosts. Donna reports

Three BCHS Seniors Attend UK Camp

Submitted to The Citizen

Three BCHS Football seniors were a part of UK Football's Annual Showcase Camp on May 27th at the UK Football Complex in Lexington. Seniors Zach Cunningham, Daniel Hubbard, and Hunter Wilson, along with other top football players across the Commonwealth worked with University of Kentucky coaches and players as well as coaches from across Kentucky in the one-day spotlight camp. The camp provides instruction for all offensive and defensive positions and was a chance for top players at all positions to challenge each other. Cunningham and Wilson are the heart of the Pirates backfield for next year while Hubbard anchors both the offensive and defensive lines. The Pirates begin their 2012 season with a home opener against Trimble County in August.

Shannon Johnson Elementary School Summer Adventure Camp July 9-13 & 16-20 • 8 a.m. - 3 p.m.

Summer Adventure Camp is the perfect opportunity for children ages 5-12 to enjoy a physically active summer! Adventurers will have the opportunity to experience many different activities focused on developing motor skills, athletic abilities and a healthy lifestyle.

Activities Include: Dance, Danish Gymnastics, Jump Rope, Tennis, Heart Adventure Course, Recharge (Football), Open Gym.

Students will also get to participate in activities teaching them how to make healthy lifestyle choices.

MSHS's McGuire Signs at Asbury

By Jonathan Schinhofen
Citizen Reporter

Madison Southern senior Brandon McGuire signed a letter of intent to play baseball for Asbury College in the fall on Tuesday. At the signing ceremony, Madison Southern Principal David Gilliam, Madison Southern Baseball Head Coach Scott Howie, and Asbury College Head Coach Bob Silvanik all had quite a bit to say about McGuire.

They spoke of a young man whose faith in God is evident in everything he does. He is a leader on the team and in the school. They spoke of his academic ability. He had a 4.0 grade point average over 4 years at Southern. They spoke of his character. He is the recipient of the Mr. Southern award, given to a senior each year on the basis of academic achievement, extracurricular involvement, and strength of character. He received the James Williams Athletic Director Award for sportsmanship in basketball. There was so much to say that it took some time before the speakers got around to talking about McGuire, the baseball player. When they did, there was still a lot to

Coach Howie referred to Brandon's "baseball IQ." During training, Howie could hardly get his instructions out before McGuire went about following them. Baseball requires quickness and decisiveness on defense so that the player is at the right place at the right time in order to be able to do the right thing. McGuire's hustle helped him be a force on defense. In his senior year, he had over 80 assists playing shortstop. In his 4 years, he only had 27 errors.

McGuire's defensive skills may have escaped notice for those who were waiting to watch him at the plate. In his sophomore year, he led the team in batting average, and has since developed his power. He is a hitter, preferring to go after the ball. Despite this aggressiveness, he has struck out less than 30 times in 4 years.

McGuire exhibits grace under pressure. As a freshman, Southern found itself without a third baseman for a tournament in Florida. The opponents came from all over the country, some looking like the hulking behemoths that step up to the plate in Bugs Bunny cartoons. Howie called McGuire over and said, "Brandon, we need a third baseman." McGuire simply replied, "Yes, sir, Coach." He might have been pale as a ghost, his knees knocking together, but he went out to play without question, argument, or complaint. It was a preview of looking like, acting like, and being like a true baseball player that characterized McGuire's career at Southern.

Asbury's Coach Silvanik told the story of how McGuire came to his attention. "Assistant Coach [T. C.] Calhoun came to me and said, 'We really need to take a look at this kid.'" When Silvanik asked about his statistics, Calhoun said, "I don't know, but this is the kind of kid we want on our team."

Silvanik continued, "We recruited the person first, and then we started looking at the baseball. Asbury has two pillars that the school is built on. One is spiritual vitality, and one is academic excellence. Not all kids have that. Having kids on the team who are already living that, the academics and the spiritual side, then they become almost the automatic lead-

Of course, nothing is automatic. McGuire does not have strong faith, and a strong mind and body because he sat back and let things come to him. He chased them like an infielder chases a ground ball. But as he continues his spiritual walk and his academic and athletic careers, becoming a leader will really just be a matter of picking up where he left off at Madison Southern.

Tools and Personal Property

Saturday, June 9th, 2012 at 10:00 a.m.
 10833 Battlefield Memorial Hwy (Big Hill Road), Berea, KY

Location: From the Intersection of Hwy 421 and 21, turn right on Hwy 421 (toward McKee) and proceed 6/10 of a mile (on the left). Auction signs are posted.

Mrs. Young is moving to be near her son and has authorized our firm to sell her real estate for the high dollar.

This immaculate brick and vinyl house offers a floor plan of four bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths, kitchen/dining room, large living room and den. Other amenities include: range, refrigerator, large front porch, city water, metal roof. The home is situated on 18 acres more or less and is well landscaped with a concrete drive.

The property is further improved with a commercial building formerly used as a store. The building is a concrete block structure with an addition and attached shed. A portion of the building is a finished display area and the rest is a workshop. It offers a concrete floor, restroom, metal roof and parking area.

Personal Property that will be selling include: Two Pc. Oak Bedroom suite - Low-boy Dresser with Large Beveled-edge Mirror and Full Size Ornate Oak Bed - Cherry Table and Four Chairs - Cherry Claw and Ball Scalloped Edge Table - Two Oak Entertainment Centers - Oak Dresser with Beveled-edge Mirror - Oak Pedestal Table and Four Chairs - Ball and Claw Foot Square Table - 5 Drawer Oak Chest of Drawers - Ornate Cherry Settee - Oak Dresser with Mirror - Three Drawer Cherry Stand - Dresser with Mirror - Oak End Table - Stand Table - Table Lamp - Half Bed - Wash Stand - Two Crock Churns - Square Walnut Tables - Wall Mirror - Several Framed Prints - Floor Model Radio - Ansonia Mantle Clock - Several Figurines and What-nots - Sewing Machine Cabinet (no machine) - Horizontal Air Compressor - Metal Shelving - Cherry Picker - Bench Grinder - Trolling Motors - Western Saddle - Window Air Conditioners - Large Green Cart and award-winning career as a songwriter, playwright, poet, visual artist, sculptor and performer of the arts."

During the degree presentation, WWC's President Sandy Pfeiffer said, "Billy Edd is a creative genius with a kindhearted spirit. He has been a true and generous friend to education at Warren Wilson, throughout the Appalachian region, and across the nation. All of us at Warren Wilson are proud to claim him as a distinguished alumnus."

In 2005, he was awarded a similar honorary degree from his second alma mater, Berea College.

Wheeler has received 13 awards from the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers for songs recorded by more than 90 artists, including Elvis, Kenny Rogers, Johnny Cash and Neil Young.

Other prestigious awards have kept pace with his ever-growing body of work. In 2001, he was recognized by his peers in the music industry by induction into the Nashville Songwriters Association's International Hall of Fame.

Last October, he was tapped for induction into the North Carolina Music Hall of Fame in Kannapolis, NC.

Of his 2011 co-inductees, George Hamilton IV, John D. Loudermilk, Billy "Crash" Craddock, Ben Folds, and those previously honored, including James Taylor, the late Earl Scruggs and Don Gibson, Wheeler said, "I was deeply honored to be in their company, and because I wasn't born in the Tar Heel state, this was quite a surprise."

Accepting the award, he paid tribute to the "enablers" in his life: his alma maters and his late, great friend Chet Atkins with whom he performed, played golf and co-wrote songs.

In 2007, he was among the inaugural class of inductees whose names were enshrined in the West Virginia Music Hall of Fame. Another famous Mountaineer, Kathy Mattea, introduced Wheeler and sang his "Red Winged Black Bird," the lament of a woman who has lost her man in the coal mines. Mattea's latest CD, Coal, includes that song and features two other vintage Wheeler compositions, "Coal Tattoo" and "The Coming of the Roads." Both express the misery and hopelessness of the coal mining life.

Wheeler is currently enjoying yet another upsurge in his career. Canadian singer-songwriter Neil Young's new album, Americana, scheduled for release in June, features Wheeler's "High Flyin' Bird," previously recorded by some 22 other artists. Another of his crowd-pleasers, "I Still Write Your Name in the Snow," co-written with Atkins, is part of Ray Stevens' "The Encyclopedia of Recorded Comedy Music," updated in March, 2012.

His early compositions continue to be recorded by younger artists, who are producing a new generation of Wheeler fans.

Recently, his song, "No Lawyers in Heaven," reached #1 on two Bluegrass charts. Soon, he will head for Nashville to cut demos of three more new gems.

"Not bad for an old geezer," he says.

Wheeler songs pop up in some unusual and surprising places. Sitting in a movie theatre, he heard strains of his mega hit, "Jackson" blaring from a car radio in the 2011 movie, The Help. Merle Haggard chose to include the old favorite on his new album, Working in Tennessee, a set that features Haggard and his wife, Theresa, "quarreling" through their version of the duet. The song was inspired by Edward Albee's Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe?

The BBC recently declared "Jackson" to be "one of the greatest songs in the history of recorded music." With the classic opening line, "We got married in a fever, hotter than a pepper sprout," it has become universally recognized since it won a Grammy Award for Johnny Cash and June Carter in the 60s. It was recently performed live on MTV by Florence and the Machine, with Josh Homme, frontman for Queens of the Stone Age, and will be included on her new album, Ceremonials.

His only self-recorded hit song, "Ode to the Little Brown Shack Out Back," was written, he quips, "based on 16 years of experience trotting to the outhouse as a boy."

Wheeler's studies at Yale's School of Drama still inspire him to write plays, of which he has a dozen to his credit. Last year he put the finishing touches on a Broadway-styled children's musical, The Cat on the Roof, and is currently in consultation with several producers to stage the production, with an eye toward its eventual staging on Broadway.

This summer will mark the 41st season that his outdoor drama, The Hatfields and McCoys (his longest running play) has been staged at Grandview State Park's Cliffside Amphitheater, near Beckley, WV. Thousands have enjoyed his vintage version of the notorious feud every year since it premiered in 1970. Wheeler refers to it as his mountain West Side Story.

If it is true that age is only a number, then Wheeler, who will celebrate his 80th birthday this year, is a reflection of that adage. He has no plans to retire, and doesn't view his creative activities as work.

"I write songs and paint pictures because it's fun and I love doing it," he says.

He often finds fodder for new songs through his perception of ordinary things around him. One of his latest, "My Baby is Made from Scratch," soon to be recorded, was influenced by something he read on a ketchup bottle over breakfast with his wife, Mary. It led him to thinking of packaged biscuits labeled "Made from Scratch." And with that the lyrics began to germinate in that creative right hemisphere of his brain.

He said, "I thought to myself, hey, maybe that's a song! So I wrote it later that night in one sitting."

At times when an idea for a new song isn't floating in his head, Wheeler retreats to his studio to paint. Currently, he is splashing the canvasses in earnest as he prepares to fulfill a second invitation to exhibit his work, beginning in January, 2013, at Asheville, North Carolina's Blue Spiral 1, considered the most prestigious gallery in western North Carolina. He has exhibited his colorful Impressionist and representational paintings at several galleries in North Carolina.

Wheeler's idea of celebrating most any special occasion, even his birthday, would be sitting down to enjoy his favorite meal; pinto beans, with cornbread, onions and chow-chow, a diet enjoyed during his youth in High-coal, WV.

"You can't get above your raising, you know? And why would I want to? West Virginia people and the mountains I love have inspired most of my best songs, poems and plays. Everywhere I've been, they've gone with me," he said.

Heritage Honors Arnow

The public is invited to celebrate the Spring 2012 issue of Appalachian Heritage on Friday, June 8, at Berea College's Loyal Jones Appalachian Center at 205 North Main Street in Berea. The event will honor Harriette Simpson Arnow (1908-1986). A reception with refreshments will begin at 7:30 p.m. followed by presentations at 8 p.m.

Harriette Simpson Arnow was a distinguished American novelist and a Kentucky native. She earned her teaching certificate from Berea College in 1926.

Her novel, "The Dollmaker" remains widely viewed as one of the very best depictions of Appalachian migrants. It was runner-up to Faulkner's "A Fable" for the National Book Award in 1954. Made into a television movie in 1984, it won an Emmy for Jane Fonda.

Presenters on Friday will be Sandra L. Ballard and Thomas L. Arnow. Ballard, in addition to serving as Arnow's biographer, is also the editor of Appalachian Journal and The Collected Short Stories of Harriette Simpson Arnow. Thomas L. Arnow, Harriette's son, is coming all the way from San Antonio, Texas.

For more information contact George Brosi, editor of Appalachian Heritage, at (859) 985-3699 or (859) 985-3559.

Local Chapter of NAMI Starting Up ma associated with mental illness, improve access to services and mental health providers, educate the general public and policy makers about mental illness and provide accurate information about mental illness and treatment to people living with mental illness, their loved ones and professionals who serve them.

The need to raise awareness about these issues is much greater than many people know. In a given year, one in four Americans experience a diagnosable mental disorder. Fewer than a third of affected adults and half of children receive any treatment for their mental disorders each year. One in six adults has a mental illness.

Misconceptions and stigma associated with mental illness are serious barriers to treatment. A shortage of mental health care providers is also a barrier for residents of Madison County. For those on Medicaid, there are further complications, as it can be difficult to find a provider who accepts it.

"There are a limited number of places to go," said Clark. "There are community mental health agencies. They're doing the best they can, but it still takes time to get patients in."

The Madison County NAMI meetings will be held on the first Tuesday of every month in the boardroom on the first floor of Saint Joseph Berea Hospital. Clark is encouraging anyone who has interest to participate in the meetings and other activities. Building a new NAMI chapter from scratch will require the expertise and footwork of volunteers of all sorts to get it off the ground. From legal, financial or health care professionals to people willing to post fliers and spread the word, there will be something to do for anyone who wants to pitch in.

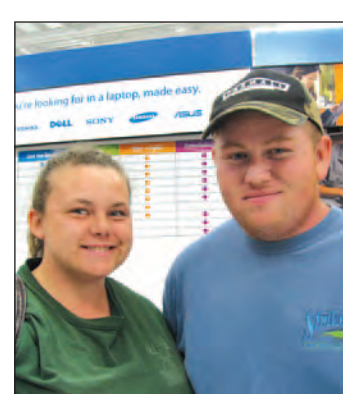

There is no source of funding for the Madison County chapter at this point, so everything that gets done must be done by volunteers committed to NAMI's mission.

As participation grows, meetings will change from general meetings for all concerned to separate groups that address particular issues. Programming will be determined by the needs of the Madison County residents and by the local chapter's resources, but other NAMI chapters offer peer support groups for people living with mental illness, family-to-family support groups, education programs, referral and advocacy for individuals facing particular problems and publicity events like the annual NAMI Walks.

Questions can be addressed to Beth Clark at 986-6309 or ElizabethA.Clark@catholichealth.net.

Word From Berea Streets

Do you feel you receive good customer service from businesses in Berea?

Charlie and Jessica Willis of Berea said, "We feel about 60% of the businesses in Berea do offer good customer service. We are especially pleased with the service at Ace Hardware because as soon as you enter the door they are right there to help you."

Myron Miller of Berea said, "Most of the time I do receive good customer service in Berea."

Paula Kidwell, with daughter Teresa of Berea said, "I've lived in Berea for 58 years and I do most of my shopping in Richmond because of the poor customer service I have had in Berea."

Library Sponsors Couch to 5K Teams

Pain, sweat, maybe even tears.

People pushing themselves further than they ever thought they could go, then getting up the next day and doing it all over again.

The Madison County Public Library's Couch to 5K program will once again offer that experience to the community. The "Couch to 5K" or "C25K" program, developed in 1996 by Josh Clark, is a beginner's running program that has helped thousands of new runners off the couch and onto the roads, running three miles in just two months.

The main appeal of the program is its "no pain, no pain" approach that eases beginners into the habit of weekly walking, jogging and running.

Starting this June, the Madison County Public Library will sponsor a team of Couch to 5K runners. The team will run together on a weekly basis, and conclude the program by running a 5K race in the fall. All ages and skill levels are welcome.

Both library locations in Berea and Richmond will hold introductory and informational meetings for those interested in participating in the library's Couch to 5k running team. During these meetings, prospective participants will discuss the training plan and determine running schedules. The meeting will be held at the Berea location on Thursday, June 7, at 7 p.m.

If people cannot attend the meeting but still wish to participate, email Christina Cornelison at christina@madisonlibrary.org. There is no charge to join or to participate.

Those needing special accommodations should contact the library at least 72 hours prior to the program.

Ponytails for Locks of Love

The Berea Builders Club sponsored the "Locks of Love" drive on Friday, May 11. The club had one staff, three students, and one parent donate their ponytails, making five ponytails total. Great Clips in Berea was generous enough to cut the new 'dos and send the hair in to the company.

Stephanie Ison, a teacher at Berea, students Caitlyn Russell and Elizabeth Tapley, who personally gave two ponytails, and Melissa Russell, a parent, donated hair. The minimum was 10", but each gave at least 11" with some even longer than that. The Builders Club plans to facilitate the Locks drive next year as well, with a goal of at least 10 donations.

People may visit the Locks of Love Website to see the requirements if they would like to participate in the program.

Dunn Graduates, Plans to Attend Berea College

Kathryn Anne Dunn of Berea graduated this spring, and plans to continue her education at Berea College. She intends to pursue degrees in anthropology and dance. Kathryn also plans on continuing her work with KFTC (Kentuckians for the Commonwealth) and volunteering in the community during the summer months. Kathryn is the daughter of Tress Spencer of Berea.

Two local students from Berea took home their degree after the Spring 2012 semester.

Tyler S. Horn and Aviyia Q. Sullivan graduated from Berea College on May 6, 2012. Horn received a bachelor of arts degree with a major in art and Sullivan received a bachelor of science degree with a major in technology and industrial arts.

Two Transy students made the Dean's List for the 2012 winter term, having achieved at least a 3.5 grade point average. Berea Community High School graduate and Transylvania University junior Hayley Smallwood and Madison Southern High School graduate and Transylvania first year student Donovan Sowder were named to the Dean's List.

Smallwood, a theater major and English minor, is the daughter of Pamela and William Smallwood of Berea.

Sowder, a political science major, is the son of Donald and Jamie Sowder of Berea.

BAC holds 2nd Friday event, reading of plays

The Berea Arts Council will hold its Second Friday event on June 8 at 7:30 p.m. It will be a public reading of works by the top seven winners of the Kentucky Playwrights Workshop's "2012 New Play Contest". The ten-minute plays which will be read are How Many Times by Shan Ayers, Gene Pool by Heather N. Branham, The Pictures by Gary Eldridge, The Santa Claus Discipline by Elizabeth Orndorff, War Games by Heidi Saunders, Conflict Resolution by Brian Walker, and The Winner by Nadeem Zaman.

Community members will have the opportunity to participate in the reading and help the characters come to life. Audience members who volunteer will read different character parts. The readings will be followed by a short question and answer session.

The plays will have a staged reading at the Berea Arena Theater on September 8 at 8 p.m. The Kentucky Playwrights Workshop is a nonprofit organization that conducts readings of members' plays monthly, and occasionally sponsors contests and other events for members. If you have specific questions about KPW you may email ky.playwright@yahoo.com or check out their blog at <http://517playwrights.blogspot.com/>

There is no admission charged for this event, but a donation of $5 is encouraged to help support the work of the BAC. For additional information please contact the Berea Arts Council at (859) 985-9317.

- Teachers have the opportunity to enhance their teaching of writing with a series of professional development workshops offered by the ECU Writing Project.

The first offering is a one-day workshop entitled "Critical Conversations," which will be held on Friday, June 15, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. This workshop, led by Mark Overmeyer, author of What Student Writing Teaches Us, will allow participants to develop strategies for engaging a variety of learners and develop methods for formative assessment. This workshop is appropriate for teachers at all grade levels and in all subjects and for administrators, writing committees, and program review teams.

Registration and $20 fee due by June 11. For more information or to register, contact Dr. Gill Hunter at gill.hunter@eku.edu or phone 859-622-3097.

The next offering is a free four-day workshop entitled "Getting The Most out of Writing Workshop." During this workshop, teachers will work with expert writing teachers to develop practices for writing workshop and create lessons for their students. Each participant will receive a free resource notebook, demonstration materials, and $100 for creating a digital mini-lesson (if completed by June 29). Register by June 18 by contacting Sally Martin, sally.martin@eku.edu, 859-622-3097.

- Navy Seaman Recruit

Michael Hughes, son of Jama L. and Michael T. Hughes of Berea, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command in Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Hughes completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations". This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. Hughes was a 2010 graduate of Madison Southern High School of Berea.

- This summer, The Kentucky Center will host over two hundred young artists from the Commonwealth, as The Kentucky Center Governor's School for the Arts (GSA) takes place at Lexington's Transylvania University from June 17 to July 7.

Participating from Madison County are Olivia Jacobs from Berea Community High School in drama and Derek Wilson of Madison Central in instrumental music.

During their three-week stay, 225 student artists from 43 counties will be immersed in a rigorous schedule of daily seminars, master-classes, lectures, hands-on workshops and field trips to regional arts attractions.

Gilbertson Graduates from St. Vincent

Jacob Paul Gilbertson, who graduated from Berea Community in 2004, graduated cum laude from St Vincent College in Latrobe, Pa. with a degree in psychology. While at St Vincent he was a starting goalie for the soccer team and was named to the academic all conference team. In his senior season he was awarded the William Rafferty Award.

The William Rafferty Award is awarded annually to athletes who achieved excellence both athletically and academically.

Jacob will continue at St Vincent, working towards a master's degree in special education. He will serve as a graduate assistant in the role of assistant soccer coach for the men's and women's soccer teams.

Jacob is the son of Keith and Mary Kay Gilbertson of Berea.

Home Prisoner Program Started, FEMA Maps Approved

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The home incarceration program has started in Madison County, Michelle Albertson, the deputy from the sheriff's department assigned to the program, reported at the fiscal court meeting on Tuesday. The program officially kicked off on Friday, and two females are currently enrolled and wearing the required ankle bracelets.

"I got a report of two more for the program when court started," Albertson stated, "and by the end of fiscal court there were three more recommendations."

She stated that they were starting off slow, to work the kinks out of the program and find out what the program would require in terms of staff and time. There have been a few interesting violations already, such as one inmate breaking program regulations before he even made it off of jail property and getting yanked back into the Madison County Detention Center.

Albertson stated that she has been running for two days without stop, considering the different court times she has to attend, the paperwork that needs to be completed, outfitting the inmates with their equipment and then monitoring the ones active in the community. She stated that they are looking into getting an intern from Eastern Kentucky

Berea Youth League for 11 - 12 year olds had their championship series on Tuesday, when the Athletics faced the Reds (above) in the final game. The Athletics ended up taking home the championship for this summer season. Youth League will be starting up baseball and softball in the fall now, and are currently taking sign-ups.

Farmer Family Celebrates 100th Anniversary of Battleship Launch

Seventy-two years ago, a 19-year-old United States Marine stepped aboard the USS Texas Battleship, faced aft, saluted the American flag, then turned and saluted the Officer of the Deck. That was the start of a more than two-year tour aboard as part of the Marine Detachment of the ship's crew, from 1940 to 1942.

Marvin D. Farmer of Berea was the young 19-year-old Marine private. A native of Lee County, Marvin has lived in Berea for sixty years with his wife, Virginia.

On Saturday, May 19, 2012 a special event was held on board the USS Texas to celebrate the century that had passed since it launched in 1912. Marvin and Virginia, along with four of their five children, one daughter-in-law and three grandchildren all attended the 100th anniversary of the launching of the USS Texas Battleship, after receiving a special invitation to attend as an honored guest. After WWII, the

Berean Remembers Glory, Agony of 1972 Olympics

By Truman Fields

The 1972 Summer Olympics in Munich, Germany proved to be one of the most interesting and controversial of all times. This is particularly true of the basketball tournament. Kenny Davis, of Paint Lick and Berea, was the captain of the American Team. In the final game, playing for the coveted Gold Medal, the Soviet Union took, or stole, the game in a bizarre and confusing manner.

Davis said, "We were behind one point with three seconds to go in the game when Doug Collins was fouled. He made two free throws and we were ahead 50-49. The Soviet Union brought the ball in and time expired before they could get a shot off. The tournament di-

That year, the Soviet Union won the gold medal against U.S.A. in a bizarre turn of events. This was also the Olympics when 11 Jewish athletes were killed by terrorists.

Commission Looks at City Vision, Goals

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The Berea Planning and Zoning commission met on Tuesday to hear the latest draft of the goals and objectives of the City of Berea's Comprehensive Plan, and hold a public meeting for the community on the document. They felt satisfied enough with their progress to approve sending it on to city council. The committee charged with revising the City of Berea's Comprehensive Plan has been meeting since January, and the draft presented on Tuesday was the fifth one.

"It's pretty typical to take that many drafts," Dallam Harper said, the facilitator from Bluegrass Area Development District who has been working with the city on the planning process. "All different groups look at the comprehensive plan drafts and give their input, and each time the document changes."

The Comprehensive Plan is one of the few official documents of a city that has legal standing. At its best, it serves as the guiding vision for a city in their next five, ten or twenty years. Cities are required to review and approve a new comprehensive plan every five years; the last approved plan for Berea was in 2008. This draft will be approved in 2013.

The committee charged with reviewing the plan has spent the last six months only looking at the goals and objectives; the next step will be actually working on the text. The seven broad categories for Berea's plan stayed the same as 2008, though they were reordered to repre-

George Childress

The funeral service for CW2 (retired) George Childress, 86, of Lawton, Okla. was at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Becker Funeral Home Memorial Chapel with Rev. Danny Elkouri, pastor of Word Alive Church in Lawton, officiating.

CW2 Childress died Thursday in Lawton.

Burial with full military honors was in Sunset Memorial Gardens under the direction of the Becker Funeral Home and Cremation Service.

He was born May 8, 1926 in Berea to John and Sylvania (Wy-lie) Childress. He married Francine E. Earnhart on July 9, 1952 at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. She passed away October 4, 2005.

CW2 Childress retired from the US Army on September 30, 1968. He had served in Korea and Vietnam. While in the Army he earned the following awards -- the Good Conduct Medal, Army of Occupation Medal (Germany), National Defense Service Medal with first oak leaf cluster, United Nations Service Medal, Korean Service Medal, the Republic of Vietnam Service Medal with bronze star, Vietnam Campaign Medal with 60 device and the Overseas Service Bar. After his retirement from the Army, he worked at Milo Gordon Auto as a new car service tech and later went to work for Lawton Public Schools as a custodian. George was an avid coon hunter, and loved camping and traveling.

George is survived by two children and their spouses, Rhonda Terry and husband Don of Norman, Okla., and Greg Childress and wife Gwen of Lawton, Okla.; his son-in-law, Charlie Culbertson of Duncan, Okla.; a brother, Robert Childress and his wife Shirley of Richmond; six grandchildren, Dustin Terry and wife Amy of Norman, Okla., Clint Terry of Norman, Okla., Casey Childress of Lawton, Lauren Childress of Lawton, Brandi Culbertson of Idaho and Lindsey Claborn of Lawton; seven great grandchildren, Kristal Terry, Kaelyn Terry, Amber Terry, Adam Terry, Trent Terry, Kaylee Childress and Chase Culbertson; and two nephews, Larry Childress and Delbert Childress and his wife Gwen, both of Kentucky. He is also survived by numerous other relatives and friends.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Shelah Culbertson. An online guest book and sympathy cards are available at www.beckerfuneral.com.

University to help with the job duties. While they would not be qualified to do many of the required tasks, they could attend the different courts and write down the names of the inmates recommended for home incarceration.

Albertson said that two lists have been requested in reference to this program, the inmates who are incarcerated for not making child support payments and ones jailed for petty thefts. In both cases, they could be released into the community to work and pay off their fines and financial obligations.

Duane Curry, the director of planning and building codes, announced that the FEMA flood plain maps will go into effect on October 2. The federal government announced that there would be no alterations made to the original maps of three years ago, because of funding reasons.

Curry stated that people who were in the flood plain in the new FEMA maps needed to obtain flood insurance now. If they wait until after the Oct. 2 date, they would pay the much higher flood plain rate.

Judge Executive Kent Clark stated that he was very upset that the federal government spent the money to have a company come down and measure for the flood plain maps, and have governments go through the whole appeal process, only to state there was no money to take protests.

"And we don't have a choice," Clark said, "because if we don't accept FEMA flood maps then we're not eligible for FEMA assistance."

Curry also brought forward two land use change regulations for first readings. The first one set up a process allowed by KRS by which property owners could fast track zoning changes if there was no controversy or question by citizens or planning and zoning members. If planning and zoning either declined or approved a zoning change at a hearing with no opposing views expressed, their decision could stand if 21 days passed and no one filed a notice asking that the fiscal court hear the zoning change. Currently, all zoning changes need to be approved by the fiscal court.

Magistrate Greg King stated that he was uncomfortable that there could be zoning changes coming up, and the magistrates would have no knowledge of it. Curry told him he would make sure magistrates were informed before planning and zoning hearings, of any zoning changes on the agenda.

"If the zoning changes are exactly where they're supposed to be, and they fit the land use map, and no neighbors have a problem with it," Curry said, "then this allows people to save 30 days where the zoning change would go through two readings at fiscal court."

Planning and zoning is also attempting to clean up some language in their land use documents regarding animal feeding operations. This would not affect farmers, only feed lots. Currently the language is vague, and doesn't give codes enforcement any authority to regulate the feed lots. The new language requires people to have permits from the state to run such operations.

Curry referenced one situation on Tates Creek, where a property owner had less than one acre but had goats, chickens, and various other animals on the property.

The First Christian Church on Main Street in Richmond asked the fiscal court to give them bonding authority for proposed construction and renovation of their church. Madison County has the capacity of $10 million of bond issuance every year, and they have allowed different nonprofits such as McCready Manor to take advantage of the tax free bonds that are offered specifically to banks.

"There has been misunderstanding in the past about this," Clark said. "This is not using taxpayer money for projects. There is absolutely no liability to the county. The bank is responsible if the project goes under."

The court approved being a conduit issuer for First Christian Church, in the amount of $3 million.

Magistrate Roger Barger did express a concern about being a conduit issuer for a church, since other churches may expect the same type of assistance from the fiscal court, which may put them under some legal obligation. The magistrates were assured that they only needed to hear all bonding authority requests, but they could always refuse for varying reasons.

Craig Williams gave a quarterly report on the demilitarization project at the Blue Grass Army Depot. A new program executive officer, Conrad F. Whyne, was appointed in February. The revised completion date for getting rid of the chemical weapons is Winter 2023.

BEREA POLICE REPORTS

Theft

• On May 23, a resident in the 100 Block of Barberr Lane reported that his CD Player was stolen from his vehicle. The estimated loss was $50.

• On June 6, a resident in the 200 Block of North Broadway Street reported that items were stolen from his vehicle. The victim stated that a Samsung Galaxy tablet was taken from inside his vehicle. The estimated loss was $450.

Burglary

• On June 1, a resident in the 1000 Block of Vineyard Way reported that items were stolen from inside her home. She reported that the rear door of her home was forced open and prescription medication was taken along with a jar of change. No one was home at the time and the amount of money that was taken is unknown

• On June 7, a victim in the 200 Block of Mary Street reported that an empty residence was burglarized. The victim stated that when he arrived at the home the front door was standing open and wiring had been stripped from inside. The estimated loss was $5,000.

Wanton Endangerment Arrest

• On June 7, an officer conducted a traffic stop on Chestnut Street for a minor traffic violation. The officer detected an odor of alcohol on the driver of the vehicle. After a short investigation it was determined that the driver was under the influence, and he was placed under arrest.

The driver, Roderick Smith, 29, of Berea also had his 11 month old child in the vehicle with him. He was charged with DUI -- first degree, no operator's license, possession of open alcoholic beverage container in a motor vehicle and wanton endangerment -- second degree.

Public Intoxication Arrest

• On June 8, an officer conducted a traffic stop for a minor traffic violation on Highway 595. The passenger in the vehicle appeared to be under the influence and had bloodshot eyes. She was also unsteady on her feet when asked to step out of the vehicle. She admitted to officers that she had just taken a Percocet 30 and smoked a marijuana cigarette.

Cassie Guinn, 24, of Berea was arrested and charged with public intoxication.

Shoplifting Arrest

• On June 7, officers were called to Walmart because of a reported shoplifter. Store employees said they detained a man that walked out of the store without paying for the items he had in his possession. The total value for the stolen items was $21.74. Officers arrested Michael Blair, 39, of Mt. Vernon and charged him with theft by unlawful taking -- shoplifting.

Drug Arrest

• On June 9, officers were at a local motel serving an arrest warrant. Mitchell Doolley, 27, of Berea was arrested. After the arrest, officers located two syringes on him that contained Dilaudid.

Dooley was charged with possession of controlled substance -- second degree and drug paraphernalia possession. Inside the motel room officers located a partial Suboxone tablet, a straw with residue inside and one marijuana cigarette.

Officers arrested Nora Horn, 49, of Berea who was also staying in the room. She told officers that the items were hers. Horn was charged with possession of controlled substance -- third degree, drug paraphernalia possession and possession of marijuana.

Receiving Stolen Property Arrest

• On June 10, officers were called to the Berea City Pool in reference to a stolen bicycle. The victim said that when they arrived at the pool, they located a bicycle that had been stolen from them the day before. After an investigation officers arrested Floyd Moore, 18, of Berea and charged him with receiving stolen property under $500. The bike was returned to the owner.

Suspended License/Drug Arrest

• On June 7, an officer witnessed someone throwing trash out of his vehicle and conducted a traffic stop on McKinney Drive. The driver of the vehicle said their license was suspended for a DUI.

Officers received consent to search the vehicle and located a prescription bottle with different pills inside. They arrested LeRoy Womble, 45, of Indianapolis Ind. He was charged with criminal littering, operating on a DUI suspended license and prescription controlled substance not in original container.

BEREA KENTUCKY

Blessing or Curse

Scenter Stage

Teresa Scenters, Publisher

In this week of before Fathers Day I thought that was the subject to address but after reading Beth's account of her visit with an aunt whose health is failing, I started considering the aging population and their care. Beth's Aunt Milli is lucky to have all those nieces and nephews who have adopted her. Too many of the elderly who just can't care for themselves any longer seem to be out of sight and out of mind as far as their families are concerned.

But for most of us middle-aged children of older parents we not only want to care for them we know that we have a responsibility to. We tell each other stories, sometimes with tears, others exasperation, and usually when we can take a step back, with laughter. Not funny ha-ha, but more like hysteria. The kind we experience when we're forced to come to grips with our own helplessness. I remember when Tex's mom was at a crisis point and we were trying so hard to get the right help for her, an ER doctor at a Lexington hospital inserted some much needed humor into the conversation when he looked Tex in the eye and said, "Run Forest run!"

Believe me it's a struggle, the decision of sending aging parents who can't care for themselves any longer to a nursing home. It may well be our generation's most agonizing life crisis, what to do when those who once took care of you need to be cared for themselves. For Granny it was the only decision and she got such good care, right up to the end.

My sisters and I are fortunate that our mother is still in relatively good health, honestly she can work rings around any of the four of us. Despite that, we still panic and start calling each other if we can't get her on the phone. I know it drives her nuts, feeling she has to let someone know her every move. It would make me crazy too but we can't help it, we worry.

We were all fortunate that as Daddy's health failed she was able to, and did, take such good care of him. But in those last months there was no way she could have physically or emotionally done it without help. All of us tried to be there as much as we could and looking back we feel blessed to have had that time.

Living into ripe old age is both a blessing, because we live longer, healthier lives and a curse because old age is, well, old age.

Whether we're the ones doing the caregiving or the ones forced to be cared for we can only hope to do either with as much grace and acceptance as we can muster.

And to those of you who still have your father with you, no matter how much he protests, know that it means a lot to him when you acknowledge his special day.

THE CITY LOOKS FOR NEW "REVENUE STREAMS"...

From our readers

Thank you from COTR Relay for Life Team

Dear Editor,

The Church on the Rock Relay for Life team wants to thank the people of this community for supporting our fundraiser last Saturday, June 2, at the Berea Park. We raised $2,100 at the yard sale for the American Cancer Foundation. We thank all of the Church on the Rock folks and Berea citizens that donated items for the yard sale — may God richly bless you all.

We want to thank all the people that helped and supported the gospel singing that evening after the yard sale was over; Pat Lakes for setting the PA system up and running the sound board and singing; and JR with De Sloover real estate for being DJ that evening and also for his group singing.

Also thank all the groups that sang; Kristi Miller, the Fugates, Straitway, Friends of Faith, Coffey and Stivers, Taylor Lakes and Dora Beth Mays for helping DJ and singing; and Auction Retail Center for donating table and chairs for that day.

Together you all made our event a great success. God bless each of you for taking time to help with this very worthy cause. With all of your help, we are one step closer for a cure, and helping meeting the needs of cancer patients.

Berea Government Hanging by 2 threads

To Citizen editor,

The mayor said, "Don't just sit back and wait for answers. You need to ask how you're going to set the city up for revenue streams... Look at municipal strategies, not municipal control." I just didn't arrive on a boat, he is saying what and how much are we going to tax Bereans. The real question, is our local government a monarchy or a republic? We could have a good debate on this subject. What little republic form of government we have is hanging by two threads, Jerry Little and Ronnie Terrill. I have more to say, but I don't feel like getting into a _____ contest with you Beth!

When My Legs No Longer Carry

Letters from Berea

Beth Myers
Editor

Two weeks ago, I traveled to see my Aunt Milli in the Friends Retirement Home in Maryland, along with my cousin who is four days younger than me. To hear our moms tell it, the two of us cousins had bonded early — first in utero when they hiked up Stone Mountain in Georgia in their third trimester and later on when we had screaming matches as toddlers with our faces one inch from each other. So it only seemed right that the two of us go together to visit one of our favorite aunts.

She holds the position of favorite aunt with many of my cousins. Never married, she adopted us all — until the term "Aunt Milli" took on an almost existential meaning. When we went to a cook-out for a second cousin, someone asked who she was, and she answered, "I am that thing called an Aunt Milli".

She can still be such a ham, my cousin commented later.

Such a funny, loving, wise, giving lady, in spite of a heart that has become very tired, and a body that can't keep up with the vibrant spirit residing within. Rheumatic fever took a toll on her heart when she was young. I remember when I was around ten years old and she had double bypass surgery. I talked to her the night before — too young to try to be diplomatic about what I said.

"Don't die on me," I begged her on the phone, and she promised she wouldn't. She has kept that promise for over 30 years. I finally realized she couldn't keep it forever.

It's hard for her to have to use her sporty rolling walker all the time, to struggle to get up and down out of bed. She makes jokes about it, talking about getting that nose above her toes, but she's frustrated with a body that no longer follows her commands.

The hardest thing of all is that she can no longer help others. I had a headache, as she was lying down to rest, and she asked me if there was anything she could do for me. I had no doubt that if I asked her to rub my head, she would somehow figure out how to roll over to me and unbend her crooked fingers.

That's what it means to be the thing called an Aunt Milli.

She took us to visit her friend in the Alzheimer's unit when we were there. He doesn't remember her name, though his face lit up when he saw her. While we walk, she tells him again about his wife that passed away and his children still living; he relies on her to remind him of those he loved. He went into his room to get a handkerchief, and after standing there confused, he laughs, asking her what they look like. She struggles to fit her walker in so she can look in his drawer.

It was bittersweet watching them, she with her intact mind and weak body, and he spry and fit, with a mind slowly crumbling. He plays piano for us before we leave; Aunt Milli thinks it may be the last thing to go.

I'm amazed as she walks along the halls of the Alzheimer's ward, greeting all residents and staff by name and taking time to slowly bend down to touch their shoulder or hand. Her kindness, I think, would be the last thing to go.

That's also what it means to be the thing called an Aunt Milli.

I cry getting ready for bed that night. It's just life, of course, but there seems such cruel edges to growing old. I think of the song lyrics from Blind Boys of Alabama, "when my legs no longer carry, and the warm wind chills my bones, I reach for mother Mary, and I shall not walk alone."

I'm so glad we're all there together.

The last morning she reads a poem to us from Rabindranath Tagore. The first few lines are, Peace my heart, let the time for parting be sweet, Let it not be death but completeness, Let love melt into memory and pain into song, Let the flight through the sky end.

My cousin and I cry, after hearing it, neither one of us able to stand the thought of her flight ending. It occurs to me that she may be trying to prepare us for her own passing, even in facing her own death, reaching out to comfort us.

Such is the beauty of the one we call Aunt Milli.

And she shall never, ever walk alone.

Response to editor's column last week

Letter to the Editor,

After reading Beth's editorial in last week's paper, I believe I need to clear something up. I actually understand money management pretty well. The fact that government has stopped operating like those of us who run a business have to if we want to be successful is the cause of lots of problems. We don't want to see Berea having to furlough employees like the state government has been doing or worse yet cutting jobs like the University of Kentucky.

I'm not saying Berea is in financial trouble. Not now, but if we stay on the path we're on we'll get there. In the last three years our fund balance in the budget has went down around five million dollars. I'm very concerned about where we'll be in another year or two if we don't plan for it now. That's why I keep beating what you call the dead horse of caution.

To insinuate that I want to cut police or fire protection or city jobs is just not right. What I want is to keep us aware that money, namely taxpayer money, does not grow on trees. I'm under the impression that the people elected me to watch out for them. I am trying to protect the interest of the average working and retired person in Berea.

The mayor talks about new revenue streams, in common language that boils down to more taxes somewhere or higher utility rates and the like. Somebody has to speak up for the Berea citizens.

The Jubilo Music And Arts Festival presents Darrell Scott and Unknown Hinson

On the weekend of September 13, 14, and 15, 2012, the Jubilo Music and Arts Festival will stage London, KY native Darrell Scott, Unknown Hinson, Bonepony and a host of others at Fort Boonesborough State Park in Richmond, KY. Pre-sale tickets for the music and camping event are $60 for General Admission, $85 VIP, and $110 for RV passes for 2 persons, and may be purchased online at www.jubilofestival.com or by calling (859) 575-4178. Tickets will increase in price beginning as early as June 16.

Darrell Scott, the son of musician Wayne Scott, was born on August 6, 1959, on a tobacco farm in London, KY. Scott became one of the more successful country songwriters of the late '90s and early 2000s, placing songs with the biggest names in country music, including several major chart hits. Garth Brooks, the Dixie Chicks, Tim McGraw, Faith Hill, Travis Tritt, Patty Loveless, and many others recorded his work. At the same time, he worked consistently as a studio musician and released a series of his own solo albums. He is most widely known for writing the song "You'll Never Leave Harlan Alive", a moving account of his search for his family's roots deep in the hills of coalmining Eastern Kentucky. He is currently touring in promotion of his latest album, Long Ride Home.

Unknown Hinson, dressed in his signature rodeo tailor coat and black ribbon necktie, is a dark parody of the country western stars from the 1950s through the mid-1980s. With his glued-on sideburns, blacked-out front teeth, and dark hair slicked back to reveal a prominent widow's peak, he has been referred to as the "hillbilly vampire." The self-proclaimed "king of country-western troubadours" speaks and sings with an authentic southern drawl, commonly pronouncing words like woman "womern," and window "winder." Hinson lends his unique vocal talent to Adult Swim's "Squidbillies", as the voice of Early Cuyler.

Jubilo's mission is to donate a portion of all ticket sales to its non-profit sister organization, Appalachian Uprising, which will provide students in all of Kentucky's 54 Appalachian counties with college scholarships and assistance. In addition to music, the festival will host food vendors, local and regional artisans, and activities for all ages.

Through June 15th, 2012, ticket buyers may enter promo code BA2275M for 25% off their Jubilo pre-sale ticket.

The Christian Appalachian Project, Inc. seeks qualified and interested persons to fill the following position:

Director of Major Gifts #2801 Lexington, KY

Christian Appalachian Project (CAP) seeks a dynamic and results-oriented Director of Major Gifts to implement a strategic vision and to lead a team in accomplishing bold goals for the leading human services organization helping people in need in Appalachia. CAP, the 11th largest human services organization in the nation, is headquartered in Hagerhill, KY, in Johnson County. This position will be located in Lexington, KY.

The Director of Major Gifts will work closely with the President/CEO, a seasoned leadership team, and committed Board of Directors to ensure the organization has resources sufficient to carry out its mission and achieve its vision. The Director of Major Gifts position responsibilities include:

- Preparing and implementing an annual plan for the major gifts program to achieve the charitable giving objectives and strategic plan goals of the organization
- Reshaping and growing an ongoing major and planned giving program to include engaging the President/CEO, key staff, and Board members in the cultivation and solicitation process and securing major gifts from a portfolio of top prospects
- Evaluating and overseeing policies and procedures needed to conduct an effective major gifts program
- Serving as the principal architect for comprehensive campaign efforts
- Managing and overseeing budgets for major gifts and public relations
- Working with the President/CEO and other organizational leaders in planning and visioning for the successful future of the organization
- Authentically reflecting and portraying the mission of Christian Appalachian Project

Requirements: The successful candidate will have a minimum of six years of effective fundraising/major gift experience and development leadership, preferably with a faith-based and/or human service organization; a demonstrated knowledge of all development areas, especially major and planned gifts, donor relations, and public relations; persuasive oral and written communication skills; a high level of personal and professional integrity. A history of success in soliciting and securing major gifts is required. Regional and national travel, some evenings and weekends, and occasional special events are expected. A bachelor's degree is required. CAP offers competitive pay and benefits.

If interested and qualified please respond (email preferred) by June 29, 2012 to:

NOTICE OF SALE FOR DELINQUENT TAXES

Please take notice that under the provisions of KRS 91A.070 and Ordinance No. 12-11, the following taxpayers are delinquent in the payment of City of Berea ad valorem property taxes for tax year 2011. The amounts set out hereafter are exclusive of a penalty of 10% on the amount of tax due, and interest at an annual rate of 10% from and after January 31, 2012. The amount of tax, along with penalty and interest, constitutes a lien on the property described on the tax bill. This list of delinquent taxes will be filed with the Office of the Madison County Clerk for recording of the lien.

rector, sitting in the audience, ran on the floor demanding there was still one second left to play."

"The Soviet's assistant coach left his designated coaching area and ran to the scoring table yelling for a time out. That should have been a technical foul in itself. Time had clearly expired and we were walking off the court in a celebrated manner. For some strange reason one second was put on the clock after we had won. This gave the Soviets another chance after time had definitely expired. They threw the ball in and made a short. This was a most confusing time for everyone. The referees and many of the officials did not speak English," Davis continued.

The coach for the American team was the legendary Henry Iba of Oklahoma State. He coached the America teams in the Olympics in '64,'68 and

'72. The American team had never lost a basketball game in the Olympics since they first started playing in 1936. Following much disagreement and protests the referees and game officials decided to review the game and declare a winner in the next 14 hours. They came back with a decision that the Russians were definitely the winner. Davis said they later learned three of the five authorities were from the Communist countries. The decision was three to two. Some think the decision was based on Cold War politics.

"I will never accept the Silver Medal. None of my children, my family, or descendants will ever accept anything but the Gold Medal, the one we deserve. I have that firmly planted in my will," Davis said.

He received a call and a letter from President Nixon telling him that the team was the true champion. America fans were up in arms about the game and its ending.

All of the 12 American players are still alive. They have never had a reunion or a get together since that Olympic game. This year the 40th anniversary of the 1972 Olympics, they have planned a celebration. The party will be at the Lexington Marriott Inn this August 25 during the 2012 Olympics. The celebration will be open to the public, and Davis is in charge of the event.

Davis recently received a call from the president's office. President Obama is taping a two minute film concerning the game and the 1972 team. The film will be shown at the 40th year reunion.

Davis, a pure shooter with a quick release and a high percentage, was a basketball superstar even in his teens. He played high school ball in Wayne County. Once he scored 61 points in a single game.

"They took me out early in the fourth quarter. I remember I had 48 at the half and 56 at the end of three," he said.

That still remains a record. At Kentucky's Georgetown College, where he became an All-American three years in a row, he scored 3,003 points, also a record. In 1971, he played in the Pan American Games.

As captain of the Olympics basketball team, Davis was the player who had to tell an international television audience that the Americans would not accept the Silver Medal under any conditions. The Olympic Silver Medals are still locked up in a vault in Lucerne, Switzerland. Sixteen years ago, during the 1996 Olympics, Davis was one of the Olympians who carried the Olympic Torch as it was crossing the United States.

Now, 40 years later and living on a farm in Paint Lick, Davis is semi-retired from raising a family, selling athletic equipment, farming (raising llamas) and being active in church.

He is a noted motivational speaker and plays a great game of tennis as well as peddling his bike over 5,000 miles yearly. He stays in top notch physical condition. When asked to describe the high points and low points of his Olympic experience, he was a little hesitant to answer.

"The low point, of course, was when the terrorist killed 11 of the Jewish athletes. We saw them being carried out in caskets. That really hurt. Naturally, not getting the Gold Medal after we won it fair and square also hurt.

It hurt all of us deeply, and it still hurts. The high point for me, personally, was the Opening Ceremonies. Being a part of it all and getting to represent my country was very special. Walking in with the American Flag flying and the national anthem playing, along with my fellow country men, will be a meaningful lifetime memory and experience. For one to be lucky enough to represent his country will always be extremely special. I thank God and America for the wonderful experience."

USS Texas had been decommissioned and turned over to the State of Texas. The State moored the ship at the San Jacinto Battleground Park at Le Porte, Texas where it was open to public visits and tours.

Marvin, Virginia and the eight members of their family that attended the 100th anniversary with them, were met at the ticket office ashore by the Curator on Friday, May 18, and then escorted aboard ship where a group of volunteers waited to assist the group. Arrangements had been made for a free night aboard the battleship, so the whole group got to sleep on Navy bunks. After they adjusted to these unfamiliar headquarters, an Overnight Education Program Manager gave a tour of the ship. Marvin's family enjoyed seeing all the duty stations where he had served.

On Saturday the group was up - Navy style - called reveille, where Marvin had the privilege of raising the American flag at the stern of the ship. There were more tours that day, and Lieutenant Governor of Texas, David Dewhurst, was the keynote speaker. The Farmer family received special seating at the event, following by the cutting of a large cake in the shape of the battleship.

It ended up being a once in a lifetime experience for the family, with many things given and brought home to remember the event.

The ship, although launched in 1912, was commissioned in 1914. Another, even greater, celebration is planned for the 2014 year. Marvin was one of only eight "Old Salts" of the 1940s present for the 100th anniversary celebration, and the only Marine. The other seven were Navy.

The Farmer group of ten were Marvin and Virginia; their daughters, Ginger F. Cornett, Cindy F. Kauffman and Greta F. Miller; their son, Robert Farmer; daughter-in-law, Karen B. Farmer; and granddaughters, Katie Kauffman, Lindsey Farmer and Paige Farmer.

sent priorities. The current draft for the 2013 plan puts the category of Environment first, then Land Use Management, Transportation, Community Facilities and Services, Housing, Economic Development and Historic Preservation.

Though Harper stated that the goals and objectives of the draft of the 2013 Comprehensive Plan of Berea were not drastically different from the 2008 document, there are differences that reflect the direction of the town.

"There a new focus when you do this again," Harper said. "It is fresh. You can see the new ideas from the economic development process that the city went through bubbling up in the goals and objectives. You can see the affect that the energy audit has had on the City of Berea's attention."

Under Environment, there is one goal, "Support environmental protection and preservation for the physical, social and economic well-being of the population."

"It is my sense that the recommended Goals and Objectives do articulate and reflect the community's sense of its past, present and future hopes and aspirations," Harper said, "and that they have been developed and improved by community input during each step of the way."

Despite leaving when she was three years old, Kentucky was still home for illustrator and artist Tanya Stewart.

"I've always considered myself a Kentuckian," Stewart said, who has been the editorial cartoonist for the Berea Citizen around nine years. "We visited my grandparents in Berea a lot, and I just fell in love with my birthplace."

Stewart's roots go deep in Kentucky, with Clifford Kerby, the former Berea mayor, as her uncle, and Celia Kerby her grandmother. Her mother's parents were from Jackson County, and moved to Berea in the 1930s, while her father's family moved back to Louisville during the same decade.

Despite these strong roots, however, it took Stewart over 40 years to live in Kentucky once again. Her parents moved to California when she was 11, and she stayed in L.A. until 2003.

"I decided to move back to Berea because I had some family connections here. I had visited in the heyday with Berea being the arts and crafts capital and that really appealed to me. This was where I wanted to be. There were a lot of happy memories that moved me back here," she said.

Stewart has never received any formal training as an artist, though she doesn't remember a time when she wasn't drawing or doodling something. She is basically a two-dimensional artist, using open and ink, pencils and watercolors as her mediums. "I remember as a child, stealing my father's typing paper out of his office to draw on," Stewart

Silver Creek Homemakers Final Meeting Before Break

The Silver Creek Homemakers met for their last meeting of the year, June 7, at "Hangers" in Richmond. It was a great day and the weather was beautiful. The most wonderful thing about the day was having Elaine Marshall present. We were so happy one of our members, Penny Begley, was able to be present. Penny has been a major caregiver for Elaine and her family. Our president presented Penny with one of our club recipe books that Mable Bengue put together for each of our members. Sue said a few words and welcomed everyone. We had 13 members present and six visitors. This was one of our super meetings with lots of laughter and fellowship. The food was outstanding, with very good service, so we thank "Hangers" and give them an A+. This was a great year for the Silver Creek Homemakers as we finished all our projects and gave our time to different things through the year. We hope everyone has a wonderful and restful summer and will be ready to start back to Homemakers on Sept. 6. We are an older club, but we're a loving club and invite new ladies to join us. We meet next at the Madison County Extension Campus on Sept. 6 at 10 a.m. Submitted by Freda Wilson

When only the best will do...

My wife and I have lived in Berea for 22 years and we own a cab company here. I have come to know this community and its citizens.
My business experience has prepared me well to deal with the issues which come before the city council.
I want the opportunity to serve on the city council and work with the city's officials and citizens to make this good community a better community.
I need your vote on November 6 so I can work with you to make Berea the best little city in Kentucky

chuckles. "I would draw on all the fly leaves of my books. That's probably why my parents kept me well supplied with drawing paper."

Her passion and skill she remembers as innate; no family members or close friends were artists when she was a child. She does remember a portrait by Mondrian hanging in her house, that she would draw over and over again.

"I did have teachers who encouraged me. I didn't receive training, but I would look at other people's work and take a few classes. It was the 1970s, so you were supposed to do whatever you wanted as far as art," Stewart said.

After different jobs -- with no connection to art -- to pay the rent earlier in her life, Stewart has been able to support herself as a professional artist for about 20 years. She has done illustrations for children's books and magazines and illustrations for such publications as Triple AAA for Southern California. Her career really took off when she started giftware design, for such items as figurines and snow globes.

"That really taught me a lot," Stewart said, in reference to the giftware design. "I had to think 3-dimensionally while drawing the designs on paper."

As far as the editorial cartoons, she has only professionally drawn those for the Berea Citizen.

"I came of age during the Watergate scandal," Stewart said, "and saw what editorial cartoonists could do. I remember Paul Conrad from the L.A. Times, the striking visuals of his cartoons and the gut-yanking visceral reaction."

During her brief stint in college, Stewart won an award for an editorial cartoon she drew for the school newspaper. When she started to consider moving to Berea in the early 2000s, she took the Citizen and realized there was no editorial cartoonist. She considered that she could fill that niche.

Approximately a month after she moved to Berea, she toted her portfolio to the Citizen, and the rest, as they say, is history.

"I enjoy editorial cartoons," Stewart said, who admitted that the political ones are probably her favorite. "It's an outlet for the screaming liberal inside me."

She doesn't mind negative reactions that she receives from readers to her cartoons, since she considers that to mean, "I'm doing my job".

"I've heard that there's not a lot of women doing editorial cartoons," Stewart said, "and I'm sure that's not because of a lack of material. I wonder if women are not seen as fitting that position."

She remarked that her field is dwindling, as newspapers look increasingly to the Internet for cartoons or simply pull from a few syndicated ones. It's very rare that a weekly such as The Citizen has a local cartoonist.

While the illustration market has been hard hit in the recessions, because of publishing companies struggling, Stewart has seen this time as an opportunity to work on art for herself. She also works at Hot Flash Beads, designing necklaces to go with Jimmy Lou Jackson pendants. She takes private commissions as well, at times designing portraits for people.

"I like doing portraits because I hope that I'm showing who that person is inside," Stewart said. "I like to communicate with at least one other human being -- this is what I see, do you see this?"

Girl Scouts Troop Wins Bronze Award

Submitted Photo

Girl Scout Troop 650 received the bronze award Sunday, June 3; it's the highest award given to junior girl scouts. The bronze award is a service award for a service project of 20 hours that a Girl Scout troop undertakes. Troop 650 made craft kits for tornado victims, and also made a quilt that they gave to the daughters of a mother who was killed in the tornadoes. The mother was a Girl Scout leader.

FROM THE BERA CITIZEN ARCHIVES JUNE 1972

The new Chamber Information Booth was the chief topic of conversation among the dozen Berea Chamber of Commerce members attending a monthly meeting at People's Restaurant. The booth was expected to be in position on the lawn of the Texaco Station at the west intersection of US 25 and Ky. 21. John King had procured the site. John Bill Allen had volunteered his shop as an information center on US 25 North if the Chamber wished to install a sign there.

Life guards for the summer at Berea Community Pool were Vicki VanWinkle, Rod Morgan and Joan Howe. Swim classes were being taught by Claudia Schlachter.

Even though Kevin Sparks pitched a one-hitter his Braves still allowed the competing Reds to collect nine runs to the Braves four, in one of seven Little League games played in the first week of June 1972 on the new field at Memorial Park.

Lt. Governor Julian Carroll gave the commencement address at Berea Community School's high school graduation.

Five Bereans had received degrees from the University of Kentucky, Kendall Lee Duerson and William John Buda had earned bachelor's degrees while Paul Rominger, Corban Goble and John Joseph Watson Jr. received masters degrees.

Born at Berea Hospital were, Earline Martha Sparks to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Dale Sparks (Mary Louise Baker), Jacqueline Shayne Nicely to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Edward Nicely (Carolyn Ann Long), Cathy Elaine Smith to Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Edward Smith (Mary Ethel McColum), Christopher Michael Frith to Mr. and Mrs. James Leon Frith (Narine Hayes), Sheila Marie Flannery to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Flannery (Barbara Ann Isaacs), Jason Dean Chasteen to Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Chasteen (Janice Jean Burdette.)

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall E. Vaughn of Forest St. had celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary with a family dinner at their home. Present for the event were, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Vaughn with Carol, Vickie and Eddie, Mrs. Dora Grosbosch, Mrs. M.E. Vaughn and Mrs. Roland Kurd.

Three Jackson County men had been taken into custody after they were discovered to have been operating a moonshine still.

Property transfers were recorded from Chester Elkin and wife and Don Combs, to Bonded Oil Co. John Stephenson and William Hamilton and wives to John R. Coyle and wife. Robert Nunnery and wife to William Bicknell and wife. Donnie Hale and wife to Pennington Insurance. Lee Angle Co. to Larry Cormney. Riley Recce and wife to Lewis Reynolds and wife. Charles E. Kelley and wife to Robert Bishop. Noel Kendrick and wife to Herman Johnson and wife. Sarah B. Hurley to Ellen Johnson.

B & B Market had bananas for ten cents a pound, tomatoes were twenty-nine cents a pound and bacon was seventy-eight cents a pound.

The Style Boutique on US 25 South had a June special, conditioning and protien wave for $15.00.

Mrs. Floyd Lamb and son Joe Tommy and Miss Clara McDonald spent a weekend in Tennessee where Joe Tommy remained for an extended visit with his grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Deaton and Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Swope had returned from a visit to Biloxi Miss. with Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Richard McAfee and family.

Mrs. John Dougherty, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hershell Logsdon, had become ill while visiting from Louisville.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Keith and son Billy had returned to Berea after vacationing in San Francisco where they visited Lt. and Mrs. Jim Rousey and son Chris.

Willie "Pops" Cummins was a patient in room 210 at Berea Hospital.

Mrs. W.m. Clark had returned to her home on Chestnut Street following a two week stay at Central Baptist Hospital.

Frank Gay had suffered leg injuries when he tangled with the tying mechanism of a hay baling machine.

Mrs. Scott Richmond and son Kraig of Knoxville had been in Berea for a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Huff. They were accompanied home by her sister Taunya who would visit for a week there.

Pvt. Kenneth Shouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Shouse had been transferred from Fort Dix, N.J. to Fort Ord, Cal., for on the job training in supply.

Pvt. Gary M. Newby, son of Mrs. Bobbie Chapple had completed eight weeks of basic training at Fort Knox.

Army Pvt. First Class Glyndon E. Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Green had completed nine weeks of advanced individual training at the U.S. Army Infantry Training Center in Ft. Polk, La. He was 1968 graduate of Berea High School.

Electric Rate Hike Passed to Avoid Projected $1.1 million Shortfall

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Facing a projected $1.1 million deficit with the electric utilities next year if rates stayed the same, the Berea City Council voted in a substantial increase on the electric service charge when they approved the 2012-13 budget on Tuesday. Residential customers will have a monthly service charge of $20 starting in September, an increase of $5.70 from the current rate of $14.30. Commercial customers will increase from $16.01 a month to $24, and large commercial customers will see an increase from $20.02 to $37.

This increase is not tied to the projected increase in the cost of purchasing power from KU (Kentucky Utilities); the service charge increase is to cover basic operations of Berea Municipal Utilities.

"Our current rate structure does not support general expenses," City Administrator Randy Stone stated on Monday evening, when the council met with their consultant, Paul Garcia.

Garcia, with Norbourne Associates, conducted an electric rate study for the City of Berea to determine where the expenses were

Chickens? Yard Sales? Alcohol? Budget? City Council Covers Berea Issues This Week

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The Berea City Council tackled several ongoing issues in town on Tuesday's work session and council meeting, discussing chickens, alcohol and yard sales, and ultimately passing the 2012-13 budget that includes an increase from Berea Municipal Utilities in the monthly service charge for electricity (see related story).

Both city council members Ronnie Terrill and Jerry Little voted against the proposed budget for next year. During council comments, Terrill stated, "I want to explain why I voted against the budget. I'm asking for a realistic budget. Right now they overestimate expenses and underestimate revenues."

When it was his turn for comment, council member Virgil Burnside said, "The reason I voted for the budget is that it's a very realistic budget for a government entity."

When Terrill mentioned getting a realistic budget during Monday's meeting on the utilities rate study, City Administrator Randy Stone replied that it wasn't possible to calculate revenues and expenses so closely in government account-

The city council also had the first reading for a new chicken ordinance. There has been discussion about changing the existing ordinance after the controversy surrounding the board of adjustments hearing when an Adams Street resident applied for a conditional use permit to have chickens. When the board of adjustments turned down the permit, Melvin Higgins, above, stands with his granddaughter, Samantha at the 50th wedding anniversary of he and his wife, Rhonda. Melvin just retired his scissors after 62 years working as a barber in Berea. He has served Berea in various other ways, including 26 years on the sewer commission and two terms in city council. He and his wife have two children, Jane and Scott, and two other grandchildren, Travis and Kimberly.

After 62 years, Higgins Retires His Scissors

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

After 62 years of trimming and cutting the hair of young and old alike in Berea, Melvin Higgins recently put up his scissors and retired his barber's chair. Two weeks ago on Saturday, June 9, he ended up cutting his last head of hair.

At 84 years old, Melvin has been a familiar face around Berea for many decades. In addition to cutting hair, he served on the sewer commission for 26 years, sat on city council for two terms and worked on the first housing authority that brought in the Glades Road development and the housing development for the elderly.

Because of his long service to the sewer commission, where he also served as chair-

Reed Hired as New Elementary Principal

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Berea Community School hired one of their own teachers as the new elementary school principal this week, announcing the new head on Monday. Emily Reed, who taught second grade last year, will be taking over the leadership position starting July 1; a position left vacant when Debbie Coleman moved over to the director of district wide services position.

"My mother is a retired teacher and principal, so it's in my blood," Reed said smiling.

Reed has been at Berea Community for three years as a teacher. She taught her very first year at Berea as well, but then moved back to her hometown, Pikeville, for several years. She taught there until 2009, when her family moved back to Berea.

Her husband, Brian, grew up in Berea, and eventually wanted to move back. Their three children, Coleman, who will be in fourth grade, Wiley who will be in kindergarten and Cora Beth, the preschooler, attend Berea Community. Reed admits that her family and new job will certainly keep her hopping for the next year. The fact that her children attend, or will attend, Berea Community, had a lot to do with her interest in the principal position.

"I have a real vested interest, with my own three children in the school system, to make a success of our community's school," Reed said. "I know what an impact education can have on a small elementary school child."

Teaching was not Reed's first career choice, however, since she decided early on that she would avoid taking her mother's path. She attended Georgetown and received a communication degree, and promptly went to work at GTE in advertising.

"I was living the American dream, making more money than I am now, I bought my own house," Reed said, "and I hated it."

She eventually gave in to the call to teach, quit her job, and enrolled in U.K. to receive

Richard Allen Heckman

Beloved father, husband and professor, Richard Allen Heckman, PhD, passed away on February 1, 2012 in Los Angeles, California after undergoing surgery to repair a broken hip sustained from a fall in his beloved garden.

Dr. Heckman was born and raised in Lanark, Illinois and attained his college education in Indiana -- first at Manchester College and then at Indiana University to receive his doctorate in history. Dr. Heckman taught at Berea College before relocating to California where he taught for all three state college systems, including Cal State, University of California and Los Angeles Community College District. In addition to teaching at these two states within the U.S., Dr. Heckman taught in several countries of Europe, and in Africa. He was a Lincoln scholar and wrote, "The Lincoln-Douglas Debate."

Dr. Heckman leaves behind a wife, Niedre Heckman; the mother of his three children, Alice Jeannette Heckman; a daughter, Katherine Anna Heckman; two sons, Warren Wintzer (Regina) Heckman and David Douglas Heckman; and four grandchildren, James Ian Heckman, Nicholas Wintzer Heckman, Emma Claire Heckman and Audrey Ann Heckman.

Vearlene Joy Wilson Sturdevan

Vearlene Joy Wilson Sturdevan, 76, was the daughter of the late Leonard and Rachel Wilson. She was a member of the Lafayette Christian Church in Lexington, where she had worked for many years.

Vearlene had been an assistant loan officer for the First Security Bank in Lexington for about 30 years, and had started her banking career at the Berea Bank and Trust while in high school. She had also worked at Kroger in Lexington before moving to the Terrace in Berea these last few years. Vearlene was preceded in death by her parents; her brothers, Paul and Pat Wilson; and her brothers-in-law; Walter Riley, Fred Botkin and Jim Marsh.

Vearlene is survived by her sisters, Jean Marsh of Amherst, OH, Sarah Riley of Berea and Fern Botkin of Paint Lick; her sisters-in-law, Shirley Wilson of Lexington and Ann Wilson of Berea; and many nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were Monday June 18, 2012 at 2 p.m. at Lakes Funeral Home with Dr. Rev. J Randolph Osborne officiating. Burial was in the Madison County Memorial Gardens.

Pallbearers were Mike Wilson, Mic Wilson, Doug Botkin, Tom Botkin, Steve Riley, Kyle Wilson and Ken Dunke. Honorary pallbearers were Debbie Dunke, Becky Woods, Teresa Botkin, Mona Bond and many friends. Online register book at www.lakesfuneralhome.com.

BEREA POLICE REPORTS

Police Reports from 6/3/12 - 6/18/1212Drug Arrest

On June 3, officers were called out to Brenwood Drive because of a possible drunk driver. The vehicle was located in the McDonald's parking lot, and the people inside the vehicle were moving around as if they were trying to conceal something.

Officers received consent to search the vehicle and located 31 Claritin D tablets inside of a small black bag along with rubber tubing. One of the occupants tried to hide a coupon for Claritin D inside the front bumper of the vehicle after they were asked to step out.

Officers arrested Edna McDaniel, 49, of London, Jody Noland, 37, of London and Charles Sizemore, 37, of London. McDaniel was charged with public intoxication and Noland was charged with tampering with physical evidence and possession of methamphet-amine precursor. Sizemore was charged with possession of methamphetamine precursor.

On June 14, an officer conducted a traffic stop on Richmond Road. Upon contact with the driver, the officer smelled alcohol and had the driver step out of the vehicle. He conducted a pat down of the driver and felt an item in a pants pocket. The subject stated that the item was methamphetamine.

Inside the vehicle officers located two baggies of methamphetamine and one methadone tablet. The driver, along with a passenger in the vehicle, attempted to destroy evidence by putting a baggie inside a soda can. The passenger had a plastic straw with white residue inside.

Officers arrested Dennis Saylor, 42, of Berea and Steven Knuckles, 36, of Berea. They were charged with manufacturing methamphetamine, possession of controlled substance - first degree, possession of controlled substance - second degree and tampering with physical evidence. Knuckles was also charged with drug paraphernalia possession.

On June 18 an officer conducted a traffic stop at Knights Inn on Chestnut Street. After speaking with the driver, the officers were given consent to search and they located a small wooden baseball bat concealed behind the driver seat.

The driver stated he had swallowed eight Percocet tablets so that they would not be located by the police.

James Sturgill, 46, of Big Hill was arrested and charged with carrying a concealed deadly weapon, tampering with physical evidence and trafficking in a controlled substance -- first degree.

CEMP Council Names Billboard Contest Winner

On May 23rd, the Madison County Council for Elder Maltreatment Prevention (CEMP) announced the winners of their billboard art contest. Nearly, thirty B. Michael Caudill Middle School students participated in an art project contest under the direction of their art teacher, Heather Cooksey.

The contest was to design a billboard that encourages awareness and prevention of elder abuse among students as well as the public. Sidney King won first place and her artwork is currently featured on a billboard on the Eastern Bypass in Richmond near the Middle School. In addition to having her work displayed, Sidney won a $100 prize.

Taylor Bonham won $75 for second place, Zach Hardin won $50 for third place, and Austin Lauterbach won $25 for fourth place. An additional fourteen students (Brooke Smith, Chyanne Rasnick, Jamey VanDyke, Dylan Mays, Karlie Sizemore, Ben Hughes, Amya White, Austin Venable, Lily Roberts, Julia Field, Hunter Hazelwood, Justin Eversole, Chelsea Smith and Austin Franklin) were recognized as $10 winners for their artwork that will be featured in the 2013 CEMP calendar.

CEMP Council board members Paula Strunk and Tanda Dannelly said they were thrilled by the participation and the detail the students gave to their art. The council also expressed appreciation to B. Michael Caudill Middle School and especially the art teacher, Heather Cooksey and principal, Ken Bicknell, for their support.

Elder Abuse Awareness Day is celebrated every year in June. For more details about elder abuse prevention, contact CEMP/Adult Protection by calling 986-8411.

Science, Tradition Complementary

scape for thousands of years, and maybe now, after the "experts" have messed things up really bad, they should listen to the Indians.

Two ways of thinking and knowing are outlined in the article: traditional knowledge and scientific ecological knowledge. Traditional knowledge is defined as "a body of culturally transmitted knowledge and beliefs about the relationships of living beings (including humans) with one another and with their environment". In contrast, scientific ecological knowledge is based on a "conceptual separation of humans from the environmental world; focusing on the control of nature and primarily concerned with theories of general interest and applicability".

Although scientific ecological knowledge has been extremely successful in manipulating the environment to maximize simple production and economic gain, many problems have been created when traditional knowledge is disregarded or relegated to an inferior status. Our environment and our human communities have suffered.

In short, the article explains how Federal agencies, researchers, university-educated Native Americans, and Native American elders are beginning to work together to formulate strategies to better manage forests using fire. These efforts are purposefully integrating traditional knowledge rather than ignoring it, to find ways to better manage natural resources on tribal lands. Tribal leaders and agency personnel both believed that traditional knowledge combined with scientific knowledge could provide a better framework for solving problems than either system alone.

This effort is particularly urgent, as traditional knowledge; normally passed down through showing, telling, and doing, rather than publication; is disappearing from cultures everywhere. Mass media, public education and the disintegration of the family unit are homogenizing the world's people, and discarding thousands of years of place-based knowledge and tradition.

I have always been a big fan of Native America. My wife and I both have a bit of Indian in our heritage, and are proud of that. But traditional knowledge is not limited to any particular culture. There is also Appalachian traditional knowledge. Those who strive to preserve and pass on Appalachian traditional knowledge -- whether weaving, gardening, carving, storytelling, music, or what not -- have an important task as well.

Who knows where science will take us; perhaps we'll turn ourselves into bio-engineered "Borgs" like on Star Trek, where we can have all our technological gadgets incorporated into our bodies. Maybe we'll destroy ourselves and the planet before then. What Man can do with knowledge is amazing, but it can also be scary. Ethics, beliefs, and faith supposedly have no place in science; which tells us we evolved from nothing and return to nothing. I think Man needs more than science.

From our readers

Not War on Coal, War on People of Appalachia

Letter to the Editor,

I was among seven people arrested in Congressman Hal Rogers's office on June 6. As a mother of five, this was a drastic decision, but one I felt was necessary to bring attention to the issues facing the people of Appalachia. I love the mountains. It wrenches my heart to see the destruction caused by mountaintop removal coal mining. More than that, my children's heritage is in Eastern Kentucky. My husband was born and raised in Lawrence County; most of his family still lives there. My two oldest also have a grandmother and other relatives in Harlan County. My husband and I ache to raise our kids amongst their grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins, as we were brought up. We want them to be able to roam the hills, climb the trees, catch crawdads in the creeks and fish in the rivers.

Instead, my husband became part of the exodus of young people-- he left home right after high school and we decided not to move back. There aren't enough good jobs to support a family of seven. Educational opportunities are limited. Good health care is hard to find. The air is full of coal dust. The water is contaminated by lead, mercury, selenium, and other toxins -- even municipal systems. We could wake up one morning to find that the mountain behind us is being blasted away and our creek is being buried by "overburden", as has happened to too many people we know. The threat to our children's well-being is too large.

Eastern Kentucky's elected officials could fix these problems, but too many are puppets of the coal industry. Instead of insisting that the Clean Water Act be enforced, Hal Rogers attacks the EPA and blames environmental regulators for the loss of coal jobs. That's simply not true. Years before production slowed, the number of workers decreased because of mechanization. Recently the demand for coal has declined because natural gas is cheaper and cleaner.

If Congressman Rogers is doing such a good job of bringing money to the region (he is the Prince of Pork, after all), then why is his district still one of the poorest in the nation? Why does it rank dead last among Congressional districts in physical health? Why has the cancer and birth defect rate increased so dramatically in areas with mtr? Why do Kentucky mine operators owe 40% of the nation's past-due fines for safety violations? Why are internationally owned companies allowed to mine without permits? There is no "War on Coal", there is a war on the people and land of Appalachia, and I occupied Rogers's office to demand that he do something about it, now.

"Guys, It Is Time to Put Up or Shut Up"

Dear Editor,

How long must the citizens of Berea endure this hyperbole from council members and their supporters? Mr. Boggs thinks our city government is a monarchy. Mr. Little thinks that government should be run like a business, and that money doesn't grow on trees. Mr. Terrill is certain that the city budget is full of waste and abuse.

Well Mr. Boggs, if you think this city is a monarchy, you must have just arrived on that boat you spoke of. Mr. Little, government has never operated like a business. The concept really is quite simple. The government raises revenue, then it manages and spends that revenue to give the taxpayers the services they require. I am pretty certain that government is not about making a profit. I think my father told me about 50 years ago that money does not grow on trees. I wish somebody would have told those Wall Street Bankers about those trees. Mr. Terrill, for all your effort to become the savior of the taxpayer, I would say that so far you don't have much to show for it.

So far as I can tell, the biggest waste of money is the stipend you are paid to keep bringing up the same issues that go absolutely nowhere. I will say most succinctly what the Mayor and Ms. Myers tried so diplomatically to accomplish....."guys, it is time to put up or shut up"!

Enjoyed Last Week's Column

Dear Editor,

I am an out of town subscriber who enjoys keeping up with Berea since I have family living there. However, I do read articles other than those related to the schools.

I thoroughly enjoyed

Beth's article about her Aunt Milli, When My Legs No Longer Carry. I, too, had a favorite aunt. However, I watched both the aunt and my mother endure the process of aging with much the same feeling.

Life is not easy, especially letting it go. This was a beautiful article, leading me to cry with the author as I read it.

Thanks for sharing with your readers.

Misreading or Misleading?

Dear Editor,

In a Letter to the Editor last week, councilman Little wrote: "In the last three years our fund balance has went down around five million dollars." Where are his facts? Without facts, Councilman Little's claim of excessive spending is either a misreading of our past audits or a misleading of the public with false claims.

Here are some facts from our last three audits:

Ending balance of General Fund on:
6-30-2009	+$5,703,844	(audit p. 14);
6-30-2010	+$5,510,165	(audit p. 13); and
6-30-2011	+$5,904,852	(audit p.16).

Ending balance of cash assets on:
6-30-2009	+$4,851,652	(audit p. 13);
6-30-2010	+$5,162,680	(audit p. 12); and
6-30-2011	+$5,328,675	(audit p. 15).

If the General Fund had gone "down five million dollars" in the last three years, these funds would be near zero.

Because "taxpayer money does not grow on trees," citizens and elected officials need to know how public money is spent and how much is on hand. We need to know the facts to make good decisions.

The City Council works hard each year to pass a budget that is financially sound and meets the needs of our city for essential services and important projects. The City Administrator and staff work tirelessly to implement this budget and safeguard the city's solvency. When a council member makes allegations of poor financial management, unsupported by facts, he diminishes the good work and integrity of these efforts.

Mr. Little, where are your facts?

Steven Connelly, Mayor
City of Berea, Kentucky

were stolen from a storage shed. The victim stated that several tools were taken. The estimated loss was $1,075.

- On June 16, officers were called to Burger King in reference to a theft by an employee. The complainant stated that one of the managers kept a $100 bill instead of putting it in the cash drawer, and stated the incident was captured on video. The complainant noticed that the money was missing when the drawer came up $100 short.

Officers located Jason Lay, 32, of Berea at his home and interviewed him. Mr. Lay turned over the money which was returned to Burger King. Mr. Lay was charged with theft by unlawful taking.

Burglary

- On June 8, a resident in the 100 Block of Meadowlark Drive reported that his bicycle was stolen from his garage. The estimated loss was $160.

- On June 11, a resident in the 300 Block of Prospect Street reported that several items were stolen from their residence. Items including jewelry and electronics were taken. The estimated loss was $4,750.

Menacing Arrest

- On June 12, officers were called to the 1000 Block of Whipporwill Drive in reference to a domestic dispute in progress. When they arrived they could hear arguing, but when they knocked, the man refused to open the door.

When he did open the door, he attempted to push one of the officers out of the house while the officer was trying to investigate the complaint. Officers arrested Joshua Grace, 21, of Berea and charged him with menacing.

Public Intoxication Arrest

- On June 13, officers received a call in reference to a possible drunk driver. The caller stated that the vehicle had struck a curb and had a flat tire. The vehicle was located at Walmart -- the auto service center -- and the driver was inside the store. He was unsteady on his feet and had slurred speech. Officers arrested Mark Jackson, 42, of Berea and charged him with public intoxication.

- Officers were called to the 800 Block of Scaffold Cane road in reference to a fight. When they arrived they located Connie Cope, 45, of Berea standing in the front yard and yelling at another person. She had bloodshot eyes and reported that she had taken Percocet the night before. She was arrested and charged with public intoxication.

Shoplifting Arrest

- On June 13, officers were called to Family Dollar on Richmond Road in reference to a shoplifter. Store employees said they observed a man come into the store and then leave. It looked like he had items stuffed inside his pants.

Employees called for police and the man went to his vehicle and put something inside. He was located by officers at Walgreens and admitted taking T-shirts from the Family Dollar valued at $9. Joshua Sparks, 26, of Berea was arrested and charged with theft by unlawful taking shoplifting.

DUI/Drug Arrest

- On June 17 an officer conducted a traffic stop on a vehicle, when he noticed that the vehicle did not dim the headlights and also crossed over the center line. When the officer made contact with the driver, he noticed that the subject had slurred speech and had a hard time keeping his eyes open. He also noticed that the driver had white residue in one of his nostrils.

After a short investigation, the officer determined the driver was under the influence and placed him under arrest. After doing so, he located a handgun, several Methadone pills and a hollow ink pen with white residue on the driver's person.

Officers arrested Bobby Johnson, 52, of Berea. He was charged with DUI -- first degree, possession of controlled substance -- second degree, carrying a concealed deadly weapon and drug paraphernalia possession.

Drug Arrest

On June 18, an officer conducted a traffic stop for a minor traffic violation on Mount Vernon Road. When the officer made contact with the driver he conducted a pat down and located a handgun on the driver's person. The driver was then placed under arrest and officers located a crystal methamphetamine inside a plastic container in the subject's pocket. The subject also had $1,743 in cash and another small baggie containing crystal methamphetamine on his person.

Officers also located a small baggie of crystal methamphetamine and several items of paraphernalia on a passenger in the vehicle. Patrick Luppens, 37, of Berea and Natasha Spires, 25, of Berea were arrested. Patrick Luppens was charged with carrying a concealed deadly weapon, possession of handgun by a convicted felon and trafficking controlled substance -- first degree, methamphetamine. Natasha Spires was charged with possession of controlled substance -- first degree and drug paraphernalia possession.

occurring, and how much of an increase should be given to each class of customer. The last time there had been a rate study for the electric was in 2007, when it was recommended that the rates increase to $14. There has not been a revenue increase for the electric side of the utilities since 2007.

Stone reported that Berea Municipal Utilities recorded a $600,000 deficit on the electric utilities last year. They covered the shortfall by putting less money in the depreciation fund, which pays for repairs and other infrastructure improvements in the electric system.

City council member Jerry Little expressed surprise that a rate increase was necessary, "I thought everybody last year said the electric was all right. We're so far out of kilter and I'm wondering how that happened. I'm just trying to understand."

Both Garcia and Stone reminded Little that the changes in the electric rates last year were revenue neutral; only the water and sewer had an increase in rates. Because of the rate increase in water and electric, the city council was hesitant to make it more difficult for people with an electric rate increase as well.

"Donald [Blackburn] said the $14 was not enough back then," City council member Virgil Burnside reminded Little. "He told us then that we're not going to go up enough; we're going to have to come back."

Stone stated that they knew when they took over the utilities from Berea College that upgrades and other infrastructure improvements, as well as debt service, would incur heavy expenses the first several years.

"We're simply restructuring rates to cover our expenses," Utility Director Ed Forbes said

The vast majority of questions were asked by Little, during the meeting with the consultant, prompting Burnside to rib him once by saying, "Careful Jerry, Ronnie wants to make sure we're not paying too much per hour," referring to city council member Ronnie Terrill's questioning at the beginning of the meeting of how much Garcia and his company had gotten paid for the study. Terrill learned then that they paid per hour for the consultant.

Terrill retorted, "Thanks for thinking of me."

Garcia informed the council members that he conducted a cost of service study on the City of Berea to determine the costs that a customer imposes on the utility, to match as closely as possible costs to user.

"Not surprisingly, your customer base that's imposing the greatest costs are your residential customers," Garcia said.

When city council member Diane Kerby asked why that was not surprising, Garcia replied that residential customers were very expensive. They don't use a lot of energy, but they require a great deal of servicing, unlike commercial customers. They are, according to Garcia, the most expensive customer to serve. Ninety percent of the Berea Municipal Utilities customer base is residential.

With the new rate increase in September, the charges for a customer will be clearly split between the operational costs and the energy usage costs. The monthly rate, which will increase to $20, will be used for operational expenses for the Berea Municipal Utilities. The energy charge on the bill will equal how much electricity a customer uses, and will essentially pass through to KU. Mayor Steve Connelly and other staff members emphasized in the past the importance of the monthly rate paying for the operational costs, stating that will free up the utility company and the city to push for energy conservation since they don't have to sell a certain amount of energy to pay the bills.

In what is titled a power cost adjustment (PCA), the energy rate Bereans pay will fluctuate according to changes in KU's fuel cost and will be adjusted annually. In contrast, the monthly service rate will stay the same until the next rate study.

"Instead of manipulating rates to cover the pass through of what KU is charging us for fuel, we'll calculate the fuel cost according to usage, separate from the rates," Stone said. "The rate won't be affected by KU's changing costs."

Near the end of the meeting, Kerby requested that the utilities company cut their costs as well. Forbes stated that the budget for operational costs was already so lean, they would have to let go of people if expenses needed to be cut.

"Your customers' costs are 80 percent purchasing energy from KU and 20 percent for operational," Garcia said, agreeing with Forbes that the budget was already very lean, "and that's really low. I was stunned to learn that, it's unreal. Most places have their operational costs equal 30 to 40 percent of the overall costs."

Over 200 Children Attending Sports Blast Camp

By Jonathan Schinhofen
Citizen Reporter

Two years ago, Pastor Jonas Hill of Crossroads Fellowship Church and his wife Susan had a simple idea. They had run a small summer day camp and thought it would be a good idea to build the activities around sports.

Sports Blast was born. The camp served fewer than 70 children that year. The simple idea must have been a good one, because they doubled that number last year and are serving 230 children this year.

The two-week camp features a different sport each day. This year, the campers will participate in soccer, golf, martial arts, baseball, swimming, boxing, basketball, football, roller skating, and bowling. Many of the campers would have had no other opportunities to experience some of these activities.

Each sport requires a different venue, so the campers are transported in 84-passenger buses, with "support" vehicles following in their wake, carrying volunteers, nurses, a paramedic, food and water, and everything else necessary for the day's activities.

Needless to say, the logistics are frighteningly complicated. It would not be possible without considerable support from the community. "A lot of businesses have really caught the vision of what we're doing and what we want to do with the kids," Hill said. There are also individuals who lend a hand, such as the Madison Southern High School boys basketball team, led by coach Shane Buttry, who coordinated basketball activities at Berea College's Seabury Center on Tuesday.

The Sports Blast Camp is a service to the community provided free of charge by Crossroads Fellowship Church. Crossroads budgets and raises funds throughout the year in preparation for the camp. There are a number of ways that individuals and businesses contribute, either by sponsoring a child, giving free or discounted use of facilities, and simply by showing up to do all the behind-the-scenes work. Facilities must be set up and cleaned up, and campers are provided with breakfast and lunch.

At least 50 volunteers are on hand every day, not including the volunteers like the members of Southern's basketball team, who participate just for a day.

Even after a successful day of camp, acting as pastor, athletic director, and teacher, Hill regrets that the camp cannot serve all who would like to come. There are possibly 40 campers he had to turn away this year. Among other limitations, he only has the use of 3 buses. "We try to get it to where we don't have to turn children away. That's our goal."

Hill was getting inquiries about the camp even before they started registering this year. Within 4 hours of announcing the camp on the Crossroads Facebook page, 160 registrations were received. Hill and his workers had not even posted signs around town yet.

Hill described Crossroads as a "working church," meaning that it tries to get involved in the community as much as it can. Accordingly, the Sports Blast Camp is also a ministry. When a sport is introduced to the campers at the beginning of the day, Hill tries to connect the approach to and philosophy of the sport to a scriptural principal. Golf, for example, requires patience, which is a traditional Christian virtue. Basketball involves teamwork with each team member making a unique contribution, just as individuals are described as being parts of the body of Christ.

Teamwork is among the qualities required of Hill and the army of volunteers, sponsors, and partners that make the Sports Blast Camp a success. If it takes a village to raise a child, it certainly takes a community to navigate the controlled chaos of over 200 kids jumping in a swimming pool or shooting baskets. And it takes a community like Berea to recognize a good idea and turn it into something that benefits so many.

man from 1983 – 2000, the old sewer commission building behind Berea City Hall was named after him.

As he relaxes at home with his wife, Rhonda, and answers questions about his various civil engagements, it's clear that his memories continue to be sharp and detailed.

"There's nine boys in the family, and we cut each other's hair," Melvin said, when asked how he first became interested in being a barber.

Melvin remembers one funny hair cutting incident recently, where a customer handed him his glasses to hold while getting his hair cut. Instead of setting them down somewhere, Melvin put them on. When he was finished, the two of them couldn't find the man's glasses anywhere, neglecting to look on Melvin's face.

"I sat there and cut his hair, wearing his glasses the whole time," Melvin said, with a twinkle in his eye.

Melvin was one of twelve children from Magoffin County. He first came to Berea to attend Berea Academy in 1942, later called the Foundation School, because the school in Magoffin County only went to eighth grade. Ten of the twelve children in his family eventually attended either the Academy/Foundation school or the college in Berea; when Rhonda asked about using the Trustee's Room for a family reunion one year, it was given to them free of charge because of the family's heavy involvement with Berea College.

Rhonda herself graduated from both the Foundation School and Berea College, and met Melvin when they both hung around Little Mamas on Short Street.

"I joined the Navy in 1945, and stayed one year," Melvin said, who spent nine months in the Pacific doing minesweeping. He returned to Kentucky afterwards to attend barber school in Louisville, and worked his first job at the Boone Tavern Barber Shop, located in the basement of the Tavern. He was pulled from that job when he was drafted in the army in 1953, and stayed in Texas for two years. Upon his return to Berea, he stepped right back into the barber shop.

"I've always enjoyed associating with people," Melvin said, when considering what he enjoyed about his work. For that same reason, he was glad to serve in various positions in the community. He embodies the "greatest generation" spirit, spending his time and resources in community service and finding a great deal of satisfaction in the social networking that came along with serving his town.

In addition to his work on the sewer commission and the housing authority, Melvin served on the draft board during the Vietnam War as a Berea representative and on the Cemetery Board, where he is still active. He also was appointed to the Kentucky State Board of Barbering for 20 years by five different governors, something unheard of since it was a very political position.

Melvin worked at the Boone Tavern Barber Shop for 25 years, and then started his own, the Higgins Barber Shop. It was located on Highway 25 N, where Sonic currently is. He worked there for 25 years until one of the worst fires in Berea occurred, destroying his shop. Melvin remembers being at a sewer commission meeting when he heard about the fire.

"They told me they would hurry up the meeting, but I told them the fire was already going so we may as well sit and take our time," Melvin said.

Melvin had an Oscar fish in his barber shop, which kids would often sit and watch while getting their hair cut. Miraculously, the fish survived the fire and Melvin was able to give it away to a family in Glades Village.

After that fire, he ended up working at City Barber around 12 years before retiring this month.

Melvin has memories of current city council member Ronnie Terrill and Gary Baker when they were young children, when he worked as a barber on the college square.

"They were the meanest two boys you've ever known," Melvin exclaimed, who often teases Terrill when the "Liar's Club" meets in the morning at Dinner Bell. "They would come in the barber shop and run into the bathroom and turn everything on and just mess it all up. Ronnie was just the meanest boy you ever knew, causing so much trouble.

They went down to the construction at the Boone Tavern in the 50s and they would hide the tools."

In addition to his community service, Melvin is a lifetime member of the American Legion and Masonic Lodge, and has been involved with the Cleveland Frost Post 50. One of his proudest memories is the work the Legionnaires did on programming for July 4, something that continues until today. Other proud accomplishments for Melvin are the sewer plant that the commission built for four million capacity that is still running, and the housing complexes that the housing authority brought in. He served as chairman of the police committee when he sat on city council, and the men would call him "Ma Higgins," because he was always checking on them.

Melvin remembers when the Post had a march on Memorial Day to the cemetery.

"We started out marching from where the KFC is to the cemetery, but then we didn't want to walk that far, so we started from the center of Lorraine Court, then we got tired so we started from the gate of the cemetery and marched to the flagpole, but finally we said we would just meet at the flagpole," Melvin said.

One other impressive award that Melvin received was the Red Tie Award, an award that sums up Melvin's work in Berea perfectly; its purpose to, "recognize outstanding service to the City of Berea".

her teaching certification.

"I had always fought the urge to be a teacher," Reed said, "but I think I always knew that's where I should be. Besides being a mother, it has been the most rewarding thing."

Reed also felt the call to be a leader in the education field, and she got her master's in school administration and her Rank I in supervision. She already had a principal's certification, and recently completed her DPP certification. When the job position became open at Berea Community, she jumped at the chance. There were 22 applicants, so Reed knew there would be stiff competition, but felt sure she could succeed at the position if chosen.

"I can use my skills in this position," Reed said, "with my background in communication, and my understanding of our school and our community. We have such varied expectation in our community for the school, and I understand and appreciate that."

The other big news for the Berea Community School employees is a one percent salary increase. Referring to former Superintendent Gary Conkin's goal of competing successfully with Madison County schools, Berea Superintendent Mike Hogg said they were increasing the district salary schedule to 99 percent of the county schools. Substitute pay will increase to 99 percent of the county, as well as bus drivers and the added supplement for National Board Certified teachers.

Coleman, who will serve as the elementary school principal until July, reported on the MAP scores for the elementary school students at the school board meeting on Monday night. In terms of math, all the grades except for fourth increased the number of students who were proficient or distinguished from fall to spring. First grade jumped 20 percent, second grade jumped 12 percent, third grade jumped seven percent and fifth grade jumped 11 percent. There was no increase or decrease for grade four. The number of students proficient or distinguished still hovered around 50 percent, however, for all the grades.

In reading, all the grades improved their percentage of proficient or distinguished students except for fourth. The first grade increased eight percent, the second grade increased eight percent, the third grade increased 15 percent and the fifth grade increased two percent. The fourth grade decreased by seven percent. Coleman stated that they were looking at the fourth grade, to see what interventions may be necessary. The percentage of students proficient or distinguished also hovered around 50 – 60 percent.

Berea Middle and High School Principal Donna Lovell reported on the MAP scores for the middle and high school. They had quite a bit of technical difficulty in the fall testing, losing approximately 1/3 of their students' scores, so they did not do a comparison of fall to spring. Instead, Lovell stated that their spring scores would be a good baseline to compare to spring of 2013.

She reported that all students who were enrolled in English II, biology, U.S. history and algebra II passed their end of course exam, now required by the state of Kentucky in lieu of standardized testing.

Lovell also discussed a possible School Diversion Program with the school board, which would be targeted at those students who are continually getting in trouble and struggling. She proposed a new position, where that person would work intensely with 6 – 12 students at a time, pulling them out to work on skills, counseling, and other necessary interventions.

"What research shows is that consequences do not deter or hinder these students in any way," Lovell said. "And right now we really don't have a way to pull them out and re-teach them. This isn't about consequences, it's about giving them the skills to be successful. We need someone always working with them, who can provide case management and counseling. They'll have to earn their way back into the regular classroom."

Lovell stated that she expected they would serve 22 – 25 students a year. The school board suggested that she put a proposal together, and they could discuss it, keeping in mind costs and other factors like space. Board member Will Bondurant, a former principal at Berea Community, stated that he remembered trying some version of that program, but it wasn't implemented well.

"You really have to find the right person for the job," he stated.

Hogg reported that the school lunch for full pay students will increase to $1.85 next year, a $.05 increase. Because of a new requirement by the National School Lunch Program, schools must incrementally increase the price of full pay lunches every year until they reach the reimbursement rate of $2.46 for free lunches subsidized by the federal government.

despite the applicant meeting all the criteria, the applicant appealed to the circuit court and is suing the City of Berea for the right to harbor chickens.

Terrill asked if the new ordinance should be considered with the lawsuit ongoing, and Stone responded that the city has been advised by legal counsel to pursue changing the ordinance. The ordinance as far as guidelines and criteria is exactly the same as before, but the new ordinance states the application for a conditional use permit to house chickens will go to the Berea Codes Enforcement Office instead of the board of adjustments. If the codes office determines that all requirements are met, and there are no existing code violations on the books for the applicant, then the permit would be granted. There would be no hearing, such as has existed prior, and the neighbors would not be notified beforehand.

"In other words, the neighbors have no say in this," Terrill said.

Stone reminded Terrill that the neighbors didn't have a say in the former ordinance either.

"The earlier ordinance was not written that neighbors had a say," Stone said. "If you met the criteria, then you get it. That's where we got into trouble in the first place. I've served on these boards, and I know how you become influenced by the people talking to you."

"I'll tell you what the hardest thing is," Codes Director Dale VanWinkle said, injecting some levity into the discussion. "It's trying to find out who owns a free roaming chicken. First you have to catch it, and then no one will admit to owning it."

Terrill asked VanWinkle why he didn't just shoot the chickens, but VanWinkle reminded him that you couldn't discharge weapons inside city limits.

VanWinkle brought up ongoing concerns about the yard sales in Berea. People now come to the codes office to get permits, but there are still issues with traffic problems, people running yard sales all the time and the paper and signs that the city has to pick up on Monday.

"On one Monday we'll fill the back of a pick-up, a truck load of these signs and paper from the yard sales," VanWinkle said. "I don't know why people don't clean up afterward. . . It's almost like we don't have a yard sale ordinance, because it's not enforced."

VanWinkle suggested they could increase the number of yard sales to two a year for three days each, or three yard sales a year with two days each. Then the ordinance would be strictly enforced by the police and codes office.

"A yard sale is supposed to be a real brief sale to clean out your garage or get rid of stuff," VanWinkle said, "but a lot of people are using it like a flea market, setting it up as a permanent business."

VanWinkle asked council members to consider the issue, and they could discuss it at a later meeting.

Stone also passed out a possible ordinance for city council members to look at, which outlined local regulation and tax collection on alcohol sales. Now that Boone Tavern could possibly sell alcohol sometime in the future, Stone said, they were interested in passing a Berea ordinance that would outline alcohol regulation and also put in place a six percent city tax. In this way, Stone said, they wouldn't have to be reactive and this could be used as a model if Berea goes moist in the future.

"It's a choice to have local regulation instead of Frankfort," Mayor Steve Connelly said, "and local tax."

Stone asked council members to consider the matter, and they would discuss it at a later time.

In other business:

- The City of Berea will be receiving Municipal Road Aid; aid that comes from the gas tax. They will be resurfacing city streets with the money, including Dinsmore, Herndon, Miracle, Forest, Rawlings Street, Burnell and portions of Center.

- Keith Crawford from the Madison County Animal Shelter gave a report to the council. They have housed 1,949 animals in their shelter up to May.

- George Oberst addressed council members, and requested that the new bridge that is being built across Silver Creek and on Brushy Fork be named after the late Howard Baker. He and George had worked on the bike and walking trails together in the past, and this new bridge would facilitate a shared use path from Brushy Fork to Indian Fort Theater.

- Kenny Madden, a Berea College student and Berea resident, asked city council to consider passing symbolic legislation that would state that corporations are not people, and money is not free speech. He spoke of the scourge that is trickling down from the federal level to the local, where corporate entities and Super Pacs are basically purchasing elections, even financing local city council elections in some places. Over 200 cities have passed this symbolic legislation and he asked the Berea City Council to consider it as well, to send a message.

BAC Art Camp Starting in July

The Berea Arts Council is accepting registrations for its 2012 Summer Art Camp for 8-12 year olds. The two weeks of camp, from July 16 - 20 and July 23 - 27, will offer a wide variety of daily art fun.

Campers will learn to express themselves through a variety of specialty classes in clay, photography, painting and drawing, music, drama and movement. Each day will provide a unique artistic experience provided by experienced instructors. Enroll for individual days, or sign up for the entire two-week camp for a one of a kind artistic experience.

Sessions run from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The camps will take place on Berea College campus in Knapp Hall and are open to children throughout the community.

Visit the website at www.bereaartscouncil.org for a full schedule of all the classes. Registration information and forms are also available on the website, or call the Arts Council at 985-9317.

Summer Art Camp is offered in conjunction with Berea Tourism's Festival of Learnshops, a wide variety of workshops offered during the same time. For more information on the Festival of Learnshops visit www.berea.com.

Berean Students to Attend Earth Summit

Two Berea students will be joining thousands of youth, government, business and environmental group representatives this month at the United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, called the "Rio+20 Earth Summit." The Summits are held every 10 years; the first was in Rio in 1992 and the 2002 Summit was held in South Africa.

Hannah Crowe, a junior at Berea Community School, and Lekey Leidecker, a May graduate from Berea Community School, and two high school students from Pueblo, Colorado will represent chemical weapons stockpile communities at the Summit, at the invitation of Green Cross International.

The purpose of the Summit is for government, non-governmental, business and other organizations to discuss, create and implement strategies to tackle some of the most pressing environmental issues facing our planet.

"This will be a very timely and unique experience for these students to connect with youth from all over the world, reaching across culture and language differences to discuss issues of great importance to the well being of the planet," said Dr. Paul Walker, director of Environmental Security and Sustainability Green Cross International.

The Kentucky and Colorado youth delegation will present information on the chemical weapons disposal effort during Green Cross International's own event prior to the Summit, called "Building the Safe and Sustainable Societies of the Future." This event will be held at the Getúlio Vargas Foundation, one of the most respected education institutions in Brazil, on June 16. They will also be part of the "Young Voices for a Sustainable Future" event on June 18.

The U.S. students will be chaperoned by Berea's Elizabeth Crowe, director of the Kentucky Environmental Foundation. Travel expenses are being paid for with funds donated from several individuals, organizations and businesses in KY and CO, and by Green Cross.

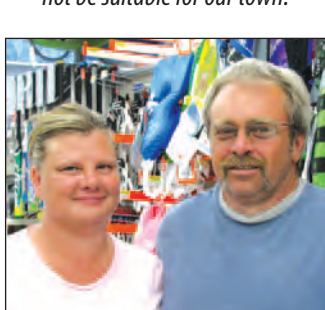

More information on the Summit is at <http://www.uncsd2012.org/rio20/index.html>. For more information on "Building the Safe and Sustainable Societies of the Future" see: <http://www.gcint.org/event/green-cross-returns-rio-building-safe-and-sustainable-societies-future>.

Word From Berea Streets

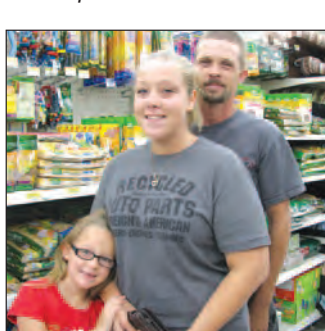

Do you believe Berea should go wet?

Beverly McKnight from Berea said, "No, I feel as a Christian that it would not be suitable for our town."

Shelia and David Means from Berea said, "No, we don't believe Berea should be wet. Staying dry keeps it the small town it is."

Tisha Carter, with husband Chris and daughter Brooklynn of Berea, said, "No, I would prefer Berea to stay dry. I would like for it to keep its small town feel and be a good environment to raise a family."

Will Johnson of Berea, said, "Yes, I believe Berea should be wet, after all, it is 2012. It shouldn't be such a big issue; there are bigger problems to worry about."

AAUW Scholarship Awards

The American Association of University Women (AAUW), Berea Chapter, has awarded scholarships to two non-traditional Berea College students. Patricia Watson, left, a freshman child and family studies major from Richmond and Luwam Okbasion, a junior nursing major from Eritrea, completed a competitive process for the awards. Both have encountered and overcome major challenges to their pursuits of education and both plan for careers in which they can contribute to their communities.

The AAUW scholarships are awarded annually to students who demonstrate excellence through written essays and interview processes.

Funds for these awards are earned by members of the local chapter through various activities. The AAUW sponsors a book sale in October and a Kentucky Authors' Brunch in March.

My wife and I have lived in Berea for 22 years and we own a cab company here. I have come to know this community and its citizens.

My business experience has prepared me well to deal with the issues which come before the city council.

I want the opportunity to serve on the city council and work with the city's officials and citizens to make this good community a better community.

I need your vote on November 6 so I can work with you to make Berea the best little city in Kentucky

Berea College Students Selected for EPG Summer Program

Polina Larina, Berea College student from Uzbekistan, has been selected as one of the 15 people participating in the Entrepreneurship for the Public Good (EPG) Program for the summer 2012. EPG seeks to transform the city of Berea and some of the most distressed counties in Kentucky through the use of social media as a way to address some of the toughest challenges experienced by the small local businesses.

EPG students this summer are working closely with small, locally-owned business, especially in the tourism-related sector, to promote them through online marketing. With the help of the travel and tourism experts, as well as civil leaders and local entrepreneurs, EPG students will showcase the assets of the region in history, arts and crafts and local foods. Using social media as a tool allows locally owned businesses to have a significant impact without the need for extensive funding.

Polina Larina is thrilled about this learning and leadership opportunity: "I have only been in Appalachia for a year and I am still learning a lot about this place, but already I feel like there are certain challenges that I can address as an individual," she says.

Dr. Peter Hackbert, director of the program, is certain that the group of EPG students this year can in fact transform the city of Berea and bring significant improvement to some of the small businesses.

Nasser Mostafazadeh, 2012 EPG student, stated, "I am very excited to be accepted in Berea College and the opportunity to be a part of the EPG program and commitment. I am sure that the experience that I get from BC and EPG will be an important part of my future success."

Ability Kakama has also been selected as an Entrepreneurship for the Public Good candidate 2012. In this capacity, Ability will work as a social media community development specialist in Eastern Kentucky, helping local businesses optimize social media to drive up their business' sales and profits. The aim of this work is to spread the word about tourism attractions and local businesses in the region through social media.

Entrepreneurship for Public Good is a 2-summer experience that consists of a Summer Institute and an internship. During the EPG Institute, selected EPG participants practice entrepreneurial leadership skills such as creativity and recognizing opportunity by pursuing both social and commercial enterprises in Central Appalachia, including Eastern Kentucky.

Alana Kuntz, above, of Berea is among the record 600-plus participants in the 77th annual Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp this summer at Eastern Kentucky University. The nation's second oldest music camp offers numerous options to middle and high school students and attracted campers from eight states this year. For more information about the camp, visit fostercamp.org.

Fitness Camp, Full Scholarships Available

Teens between the ages of 15 and 17 can attend a summer day camp for fun fitness activities, nutrition programs and to learn skills leading to greater self-esteem. Campers will be grouped by gender. Boys and girls will not be attending class at the same time. This program is to help young adults learn how to get fit using fun activities. (We won't be pounding on a treadmill) We will be using games, and sporting activities to help kids move more. Teens will also learn about nutrition and how to eat healthy on their own and while eating in the school cafeteria. We will learn how to make healthy meals and snacks, and learn how to have fun exercising.

To be considered for a scholarship teens must email a 100 word essay on why they want to spend time during the summer getting fit, learning about nutrition and developing skills that lead to greater self-esteem. Submissions should be emailed to veronica@fitnessfriendsandfun.com by July 7. Fitness, Friends and Fun group exercise instructors will review the essays to determine who is awarded the scholarships. 4-6 deserving teens will receive a full scholarship. The value of the scholarship is $99 for this four week day camp.

Solar Farm Tour on July 7

The local chapter of Kentuckians for the Commonwealth (KFTC) is offering a free and engaging tour of the new Berea Solar Farm on Saturday, July 7. The solar farm opened in December of 2011 by Berea Utilities. Energy Expert Josh Bills will be leading the tour of the 120-panel farm.

After the tour, there will be a screening of the award-winning documentary Kilowatt Ours at the Berea Public Library at 319 Chestnut St. in Berea.

"I'm excited that we're getting the opportunity to share Berea's innovative approach to clean energy with a wider community, as well as learning about energy efficiency solutions, and discussing the future of energy as the country transitions away from fossil fuels," said Berea KFTC member Carey Henson. "It will be a fun day."

This event is free and open to all. Those interested should meet in the parking lot of Berea Utilities at 200 Harrison Road in Berea at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, July 7. Refreshments will be provided.

LUCKY BUCK FOUND

Seeker Owner, Kristi Miller with winner, Mike Friend & Smith Tire's Rick Smith.

It finally happened after three and a half years. It really did pay for one Madison County resident, Mike Friend, of Super Save Foods in Richmond, KY. On June 7th, Mike called and reported that he had found the Lucky Buck in The Seeker Christian News Treasure Hunt. As many of you know The Lucky Buck contest has created quite a buzz since no one had found it for 42 months. Over that time the jackpot had swelled to $4,200 as it increases $100 each month. The contest had some close calls as two people called who claimed they found the prize dollar, however, it was past the deadline.

For those of you who don't know, we release The Lucky Buck in a location within The Seeker readership area each month. Treasure hunters have until the 5th of the following month to find the dollar with the matching serial number as printed in The Seeker, and turn it in.

We congratulate Mike on his find and winning the $4,200 jackpot. We also want to thank our Lucky Buck Sponsors, Ronnie Cornett, formerly with Cornett Chrysler in Irvine, and Rick Smith of Smith's Tire Center in Berea. We would also like to thank all of you who participated in the treasure hunt.

For those of you wondering about the future of The Lucky Buck, CHECK YOUR ONES!!! New contest will begin immediately in our July edition of The Seeker Christian News.

Hope's Wings Receives Funding, Property For Brush Voted Down

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The Madison County Fiscal Court heard some good news from Representative Rita Smart on Tuesday, when she gave them a legislative report as the 81st District Representative. Rep. Smart reported that she was able to give them some positive information about roads. "We're all interested in roads," Smart stated, "so the first thing I asked the Department of Transportation about was E. Main Street and when they were going to repave it. We were happy to get that done."

Dust was flying on Wednesday, when workers used a packer on the construction site by Ellipse Street. Berea College is having Campus Drive reworked, the road that runs around the back of the college library up to Seabury Center. According to the college, the slope of the original road was too steep for emergency vehicles and had deteriorated to the point where the entire road needed to be repaired. A new entrance is being built nearer to the intersection of Chestnut and Ellipse. The parking lot adjacent to Ellipse will be rebuilt, though with fewer spaces. The construction should be done by the time the fall semester starts at Berea College.

Craft Show Coming To the Mountains One More Time

Submitted to the Citizen

The Berea Craft Festival will be celebrating its 31st anniversary this summer, once again taking place at Indian Fort Theatre on July 13, 14, and 15. The summer Craft Festival has become one of the most anticipated and celebrated craft events in the Southeastern United States.

Artists from all across the Southeastern United States will converge on Berea in a few weeks to demonstrate and sell their work. Over 130 artists from 15 different states will round out this year's full house.

There will be a record number of educational demonstrations including broom-making, vegetable yarn-dyeing, blacksmithing, chair making, pottery and silver-smithing. There will also be the traditional booth for children.

Music has also become a big part of the Berea Craft Festival, which is becoming widely known for the variety and quality of the music. Peach Pie Jazz, Heath Eric (and Molly), the Reel World String Band Trio, Emory Joseph, Mitch Barrett, James Bellando and the Breakall Family Band will be on hand to present a wide variety of music. The Berea Festival Dancers will also be performing to share traditional dances from all over the world.

Gates for the festival will open at 10 a.m. daily and close at 6 p.m. Admission is $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and children under 12 are free.

For more information visit www.bereacraftfestival.com or call 800-598-5263.

Hogg Publishes First Book

By Sheri Patterson
Citizen Reporter

Amy Caudill Hogg's love for Appalachia inspired her to write and publish her first book; titled Callie Rose. Callie Rose is a children's fiction story about an 11 year old girl's experiences growing up in the mountains of Ap-palachia. The story celebrates and honors Amy's own memories of her youth growing up in Letcher County.

Callie Rose is dedicated to both sets of Amy's grandparents; in memory of Bill and Eunice Bates, and to Granny Grace

Napier from Snug Hollow To Teach Vegetarian Cooking

By Christie Green
Citizen Reporter

Berea's Festival of Learnshops expands this year to offer two full weeks of "learning by doing," including Vegetarian Cooking One Day at a Time by Barbara Napier, owner and hostess of Snug Hollow Farm. During her learnshop, on July 26, from 5:30-8:30 p.m., Napier will lead participants in discussion while they prepare and enjoy a healthful vegetarian meal.

According to Napier, the learnshop is intended to provide "whatever people want to learn, from being vegetarian, or eating some vegetarian meals each week, to just learning healthier options." As they prepare the meal, they will talk about ingredients and cooking methods. As they eat their meal together, they will trade stories about their own experiences trying to feed themselves and their families. They will leave with printed recipes, aprons, and other goodies to help them on their culinary journeys.

Napier explains that vegetarianism is not "just tofu and seaweed." The learnshop title, "Cooking Vegetarian One Day at a Time," implies a step by step process, which is exactly what she wanted to convey. Discussion will be an important part of the evening, because she wants people to leave the learnshop with concrete ideas that they can use in their own kitchens.

James "White Rock" Taylor

James "White Rock" Taylor went home to the Lord on June 19, 2012. He was a well-known and respected member of the Berea community during his entire adult life.

James was born in Rockcastle County on August 12, 1920, the son of William and Maggie Taylor. As a young man, he served honorably in Europe during World War II. He continued service for his country during his professional career at the Bluegrass Army Depot. A man of strong faith, he was a devoted member and Deacon at Hays Fork Baptist Church for over 60 years, and was a member of the Kingston Masonic Lodge F&AM #315.

James was married to Dora Johnson Taylor in 1947 and was the father of three daughters, Donna, Barbara and Phyllis. He was preceded in death by his wife, Dora; two daughters, Donna Conn and Phyllis "Fee" Taylor; two sisters; and two brothers.

He is survived by his daughter and son-in-law, Barbara and Jimmy Lakes of Berea and six grandchildren, Chad (Danna) Conn, Cason (Jasmine) Conn, Cyndi (Pete) McKinney, Chris (Stephanie) Lakes, Christy (Gavin) O'Neill and Beth Lakes. James was also blessed with 14 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were at 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 23, 2012 at Lakes Funeral Home in Berea. Rev. Vince Carman officiated. Burial followed in the Madison County Memorial Gardens with full military honors. Masonic Services were at 7 p.m. Friday at the funeral home.

Pallbearers were his six grandchildren. Honorary pallbearers were Jimmy Lakes, Philip Conn, Gavin O'Neill and Pete McKinney. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the Hays Fork Baptist Church Building Fund.

Lillie Browning

Lillie Browning, 63, of Lake Street in Richmond passed away Saturday. She was born in Floyd County to the late John G. and Marie Tackett Holt.

Lillie is survived by her husband, Drew Browning; two children, Micky McAlister of Richmond and Melissa Williams of Winchester; one brother, Melvin Holt of Oklahoma; one sister, Liza Hayes of Florida; and two grandchildren, Patricia Gail Williams and Joshua Michael McAlister. In addition to her parents, she was also preceded in death by one daughter, Monica Elizabeth Browning.

Funeral services were 12 p.m. on Friday, June 22, 2012 at Madison County Memorial Gardens with Bro. Grant Tackett officiating. Burial followed the services. Condolences for the family may be left at www.lakesfuneralhome.com.

Pauline Reese Banther

Pauline Reese Banther was called home Friday, June 22, 2012, following a brief illness. She was a native of Berea, and served as a social worker for the Kentucky River Foothills and as a domestic worker for many years.

She served as church clerk at Farristown Baptist Church where she was a member, until her illness prohibited it.

Mrs. Banther was preceded in death by her parents, Dave and Nancy Bennett; and two sisters, Calvin Brooks and Regans Harris.

Mrs. Banther is survived by three daughters, Veronica Banther of Lexington, Holly Banther of Dayton, Ohio and Janet Banther of Berea; a son, James (Gina) Banther of Walton; one grandson, Aaron (Jamie) Banther of Virginia Beach; two granddaughters, Brittney (Steven) Thatcher of Campbellsville and Nikea Banther of Berea; one great-grandson; two great-granddaughters; one brother, G. T. (Theresa) Bennett of Orlando, FL; a special niece, Patricia F. Shearer; and a host of nieces, nephews and cousins.

Funeral services for Mrs. Banther will be 12 p.m. Thursday at Farristown Baptist Church with Rev. Dr. Gerald L. Smith delivering the eulogy and Minister Ray Reed officiating.

Burial will follow in the Madison County Memorial Gardens. Pallbearers will be Johnny Harris, Mendell Harris, Kenny Bennett, Tony Chenault, James Cornelison and Lamont Cornelison.

Spicy 5K Raises Funds for Hospice

The numbers are in, and the 3rd annual Chick-fil-A Spicy 5K has set a fundraising and attendance record. The relatively new event and fundraiser earned $4,920 for charity.

This year's non-profit recipient is Hospice Care Plus, who was on-hand at Chick-fil-A last week to accept the check.

Just under 400 individuals registered for and raced in the 2012 Spicy 5K at Richmond Centre, the most ever for the event. Held on Memorial Day, the runners started

The overall male and female race winners were Alex Dreyer and Kendall Hayes respectively. Both received free Chick-fil-A for one year.

The Spicy 5K is a joint effort of Chick-fil-A at Richmond Centre and the City of Richmond's tourism office. Hospice Care Plus says it will use the funds to help support the cost of its programs, all of which are offered regardless of ability to pay.

Michael Wayne Hurst

Michael Wayne Hurst, 58, of Richmond, formerly of Berea and Cynthiana, died Friday, June 22, 2012 at Rockcastle Regional Hospital in Mt. Vernon. He was born in Lexington to the late Robert Gene and Pearlmae Mae Hall Hurst.

Mr. Hurst was a Navy veteran and had been employed at Bluegrass Plating.

He is survived by his wife, Valerie Fryman Hurst of Richmond; his sons, J. R. (Daniele) Steele of Taylorsville; Kenny (Louann) Schmidt of Winchester; his daughter, Pearlmae Hurst of McKee; his sisters, Cindy Carolyn Browning of Cynthiana, Yvonne Elizabeth Sexton of Cynthiana and Sherry Kay Barron of Georgetown; five grandchildren; and one great grandchild also survive.

Funeral services for Mr. Hurst were 11 a.m. Tuesday, June 26, 2012 at the Davis and Powell Funeral Home with Bro. Doug Martin officiating. Entombment followed in the Madison County Memorial Gardens. www.davisandpowellfuneralhome.com

Phyllis Marie Green

Phyllis Marie Green passed away on June 19, 2012 at Springfield Regional Medical Center in Springfield, Ohio.

She was a native of Clark County, Ohio, born December 2, 1927 to Harold and Asenath Green. She was a devoted wife to Floyd Alan Pyles for 29 years.

She is survived by her son, Craig (Joyce) Pyles; daughters, Laura (Ian) McGee and Regina (Gerald) Newman; grandchildren, Brandon and Benjamin Pyles, Patrick and Amanda McGee and Chelsea Newman; great grandchildren, Indigo and Gabriel Quinn; and one brother, Edwin Green and sister, Eunice Green.

BEREA POLICE REPORTS

Theft

• On June 10, officers were called to the 800 Block of Ridgewood Drive in reference to a theft. The victim stated that his wallet had been stolen from his home by someone known to him. The wallet was later located at Dollar General on Richmond Road, but the money was gone. The estimated loss was $42.

• On June 13, officers were called to Walmart in reference to a theft. A store employee stated that a white female and a black male came in to the store and went to the electronics section. The female wrapped a towel around the security device of a television to muffle the sound, and cut the device from the television. The two of them loaded the television into a shopping cart and pushed it out of the store. They left in a red passenger car with a temporary tag. The estimated loss was $798.

• On June 17, officers were called to the 100 Block of Bowman Road in reference to a theft. The victim stated that a man she knew sold her an air conditioner and offered to help install it. The victim stated that while he was in her home, he took her purse and left the area. The estimated loss was $1,401.

• On June 18, a victim in the 1000 Block of Whispering Oaks Lane reported that a firearm had been stolen. The victim stated that a handgun was stolen from his vehicle. The estimated loss was $600.

• On June 19, a victim in the 200 Block of Mary Street reported that the bottom half of a window was removed from a residence. The value was unknown.

• On June 21, a victim in the 100 Block of Miracle Street reported that some items were taken from inside his home. The victim stated that he just noticed that the items were missing and is unsure when they were taken. The estimated loss was $85.

Drug Arrest

• On June 12, officers were called to Cornerstone Baptist Church in reference to a suspicious vehicle in the parking lot. When they arrived, they obtained consent to search the vehicle. They located a partial unknown pill, a spoon with residue, a used syringe and a small amount of marijuana. Officers arrested Cayenne Reams, 19, of Lexington. She was charged with third degree possession of controlled substance, possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of marijuana.

• On June 18, officers executed a search warrant at a residence in the 9000 Block of Battlefield Memorial Highway. They located two people at the residence that were in possession of methamphetamine.

Ricky Adams, 47, of Berea and Lisa Smith, 46, of Richmond were both arrested and charged with first degree possession of controlled substance -- first offense methamphetamine. Lisa Smith was also charged with possession of drug paraphernalia.

Forgery Arrest

• On June 21, officers were called to People's Bank on Richmond Road. They located Jeremy Burns, 31, of Berea. Burns was attempting to cash a forged check on someone else's account. He was arrested and charged with two counts of second degree criminal possession of a forged instrument.

DUI/Drug Arrest

• On June 22, an officer conducted a traffic stop on a vehicle for weaving over the yellow lines in the roadway. After making contact with the driver, the officer determined that the driver was under the influence and placed the subject under arrest.

After searching the driver, the officer located two Valium pills and one Lortab. Steven Chaney, 29, of Berea was arrested and charged with first degree DUI, second degree possession of controlled substance and third degree possession of controlled substance.

Motorcycle Crashes Increased By 52 percent

Kentucky State Police (KSP) Spokesperson Lt. David Jude said motorcycle crashes are up 52 percent in 2012 over the same time period last year.

"Unfortunately, already this year, we have experienced 818 motorcycle crashes resulting in 33 deaths," he said.

Jude said KSP is utilizing a two-prong approach to this trend by reaching out to both the motoring public and motorcycle riders.

"It's crucial that motorists always make a visual check for motorcycles by checking mirrors and blind spots before entering or leaving a lane of traffic and at intersections," says Jude. "Because of their smaller size, motorcycles are often hidden in a vehicle's blind spot."

"Motorcyclists have responsibilities, too," says Jude. "They should follow the rules of the road, be alert to other drivers, never ride while impaired or distracted, and always wear a helmet and protective gear."

Jude was flanked by first responders, law enforcement, safety organizations and representatives from the motorcycle industry as he delivered his message.

"More importantly, we are seeing the need for experienced riders to take refresher training courses. Training needs to be a lifelong learning experience to keep a rider's skill sharp."

Billy Dukes, Manager of Business Development for

PHI Air Medical unveiled a new 'Rider Alert' program to the crowd of over 200.

Dukes said that PHI Air Medical personnel are often on the scene of severe motorcycle crashes transporting victims by helicopter to the nearest hospital.

"For this reason, our agency has developed a 'Rider Alert' program designed to provide rapid and accurate medical data to first responders at the scene," says Dukes. "This information will assist with a rider's medical treatment in the event the victim is not able to verbally communicate with emergency personnel."

The Rider Alert cards are placed inside riders' helmets and contain vital, life-saving information, emergency contact, and any important medical history. When first responders arrive on the scene of a motorcycle crash, a one-inch, round sticker on the outside of the helmet will indicate that the victim has the Rider Alert card. The sticker also warns bystanders not to remove the helmet, which could prevent further injury.

habits come from learning how to adjust the things you are already doing in order to make it work," she said. "There are always adjustments that can be made."

When asked about her own cooking and eating habits, she said, "Well, that's a complicated story." Napier became a vegetarian 33 years ago after a series of life changes led her to see that it was right for her both spiritually and physically.

"I don't believe we should be killing something in order to eat," she explained.

At the time, she had two little boys, and she had to think about what to feed them. As she learned new cooking methods, they did many versions of beans and rice and pasta and broccoli. Over time, Napier has perfected her art, and her meals are a combination of the comfort and pleasure of good old fashioned Appalachian cooking and the healthfulness of vegetarian techniques.

"I prefer to serve up old favorites with as little alteration as possible," she says, and that approach is certainly working. Guests at Snug Hollow can enjoy vegetarian breakfast, lunch and dinner as part of their stay. Reservations can also be made just for the meals. When asked about guests' opinion of a fully vegetarian menu, she replied, "Well, they enjoy eating what we've got, and we just really enjoy feeding it to them."

Participants at the learnshop will also talk some about gardening. Napier points out that "here in Kentucky, we are lucky with all our growing seasons" and it is not hard to grow enough to enjoy fresh vegetables at the table. Napier ran a CSA (Community Supported Agriculture) for seven years, and she learned a lot about how easy it is to garden organically.

"If we prepare the ground well, when we plant the garden, it grows with or without us," she said.

Napier credits her mother, who is now ninety years old, with planting the seeds for many of her own ideas. "She was an organic gardener...a real fan of Rodale's, and her garden was well known in the community."

She also demonstrates how success is a community endeavor. Snug Hollow, a 300-acre secluded retreat in Estill County, is staffed by people who are doing what they love and sharing that love with their guests. The inn draws guests from across the nation and other countries, and it has been recognized for its eco-friendly practices, including water conservation, solar outdoor lighting, wood heat in winter and air conditioning only in bedrooms in the summer.

"Our philosophy with the inn is the same as with our cooking, simple but fulfilling," she explains. "We have everything we need, right here around us."

Did you know...

Sue Massek is an instructor at Festival of Learnshops July 13-29, 2012!!!

Sue Massek is a musician committed to using the music she writes and the songs she sings as tools for social justice. As a member of the Reel World String Band from its beginning in 1977, she has been heavily influenced by the Highlander Center, which has provided training for grassroots movements beginning in the 1930s. It's there that the spirit and purpose of her music took shape. Sue's songs have received radio play throughout the United States and in 21 countries around the world and have been used by numerous social justice organizations for media presentations.

Songwriting for Social Justice - Beginner. Beginning songwriting for social justice will introduce participants to the basic elements of songwriting and how to apply them to creating songs about social justice issues. Each participant will write a song or parody and the class will write a group song.

Songwriting for Social Justice - Intermediate. Intermediate songwriting for social justice will help participants move their songwriting skills to the next level, including writing an entire song (lyrics and melody). Participants should bring any musical instrument they currently use for songwriting. The class will explore various musical forms and styles and methods involved in creating songs that speak to the issues of social justice that are important to each individual.

From our readers

Thank You from Berea Senior Citizens Center

Letter to the editor:

Berea Senior Citizens Center held our fourth annual "Linens and Lace Tea", on June 16. We had over 70 people who attended, and were able to raise $1,900 for the Berea Senior Citizens Center.

Many thanks to all individuals and businesses that helped make this event a success. A special thanks to our mayor, Steve Connelly and Councilman Truman Fields, who attended and conducted our auction. Thanks also to the Madison County Dulcimer Group who provided us with wonderful music. Many thanks as well to Beth Myers at the Berea Citizen for giving us outstanding advertising coverage for our special event.

We deeply appreciate all of our donors who gave gifts of cash, decorated tables for auctioning, silent auction items and the volunteers who gave their time to help with this event.

Thanks to our benefactors: People's Bank, Meijers, St Joseph Berea, Dr. Thomas Boyd, The Potting Shed, The Terrace, Hot Flash Beads, Annette

Almjeld, Lori and Rebecca Caldwell, Joyce Fields and the scrabble group, Jefferson Street Friends Homemakers, Triss Holland, Vicki Jozefowicz, Bruce Fraley, Lisa Edwards, Ruby Morgan, Wanda Metro, Miriam Rozeman, Jean Harding, Jean Breeding, Bruce Creech, Margaret Davis, Dora Beth Bays, Larry and Carolyn Chadwick, Karen Bailey and Delores Carpenter.

Local Governments Should Manage Services

Editor,

Congratulations, Mr. Pyles, you said it better than me. The government raises revenue (taxes), then manages and spends that revenue (taxes) to give the taxpayer the services they require. I don't think require is the right word, "get" seems more correct. The problem here is services always expand to meet revenue. It's sort of like full-time workers (40 hour week) after a period of time are able to do the 40 hour week in 32 hours but are able to expand the 32 hours into a 40 hour work week. Over time, companies adjust the jobs to reduce the expansion, in other words they manage the services for a more efficient business. Local governments need to manage services, not revenue first. Do you

I find your letter offensive. The old boys at Moore's Grocery will vouch for my rhetoric. My wife will tell you I am never wrong. Again congratulations, you just woke up a sleeping midget.

Work Together, Talk Things Out

Letter to the Editor,

The facts are the newspaper is not the place to debate the Berea city budget numbers. The budget is very complicated. The balances can be interpreted in different ways.

All our city leaders are good people, some of us have different ideas on how things are done. We need to respect the office. We need to work out our needs and wants for the city at city hall, not in the newspaper. Working together, talking things out and getting everybody's input is the way to have a good city government.

Too Connected?

Does anyone else sometimes wish we could go back to a time when it was okay to be out of reach for a while? It's a rare person these days whose ear isn't permanently attached to a cell phone. I wonder if some people's self images are tied to their phones. Anywhere you are, even in public restrooms, it's easy find yourself informed about all kinds of things from one side of a conversation that's being loudly carried on by a person who must think I care or am somehow impressed. I don't and I'm not. Maybe worse are the people who walk right into you while they're texting. Or can't carry on a face to face conversation because they can't take their eyes away from the electronic conversation they're having with someone else at the same time. I'm sorry but that's just rude. Maybe it really is an addiction. I read something that indicated over twenty percent of people in a survey, when asked which they'd rather give up for a week their cell phone or their toothbrush, would choose to let the plaque and the stale breath build up. Among iPhone users it was forty percent. The study showed that over sixty percent of people sleep next to their smartphones, and that twenty percent would go shoeless for a week (forty three percent for iPhone users) rather than temporarily release their phones. Now don't get me wrong I'm not advocating for getting rid of them, and to be perfectly honest I've gotten so accustomed to being able to reach people no matter where they are that I can get a little panicky if a call or text isn't answered or returned right away. I'd just like to see people, myself included, be a little less attached. And really, who cares what's going on facebook and twitter every minute of every day. I worry that people are losing the ability to honestly communicate and are hiding behind their edited and retouched images via their electronic devices.

And They Said It Wouldn't Last . . .

This June makes a year since I first became editor of Berea Citizen. As far as weekly, community newspapers go, I doubt many entered the job as editor with as much controversy as I did. Two editors were let go in the 12 months before I signed up for the job, and the town was imploding around the Fairness Ordinance. One prominent minister in town asked me how many months I thought I would last in the position, without a chuckle or smile on his face.

Not a pleasant time for any of us at the newspaper. Because of the different issues around town, the Berea Citizen was getting hit from all sides. As many of you have probably guessed, our publisher Teresa leans just a wee bit conservative and I lean just a wee bit liberal, so we had fun picking on each other. As criticisms and insults would fly in via telephone, email and Facebook, I would say to Teresa, "would you please tell your people to quiet down!" in which case she would reply, "if you tell yours to back off!"

What was hard to explain to anyone back then was the feeling of optimism Teresa and I both had, even when things were stressful and everyone wondered what the heck was happening to the newspaper. We both felt that if we could just hang on for the first several months, keep our cool and stay calm, we had the potential to create something good, something valuable.

And indeed, as a veteran of many difficult work environments, I can say our office now is hands-down the most creative and functional I've been a part of.

per has meant many different things. It's meant having monthly features on artists, highlighting small businesses and the work of different nonprofits, giving more attention to our churches and their activities, featuring older Bereans with stories to tell, highlighting schools and discussing sustainability efforts, to name just a few. And featuring in pictures and news the lifeblood of any community -- work and play of our children.

Even more importantly, however, the Berea Citizen should tell of Berea over time. It's one of our most significant archival documents. Seventy years from now, when people read/research the newspaper from this past year, they should be able to see what we held important, what activities our town was engaged in, what values were held and why decisions were made. What caused us to fight, what caused us to unite and what made us laugh.

It should tell the rich and ongoing story of Berea.

Think Like A Mountain

Chances are, if you see me during the work week I've probably got a shirt on that says, on the back, "Think Like a Mountain". This saying by Aldo Leopold, the "Father of Ecology" and a forester, is what I have adopted as the Berea College Forestry Department's motto.

So, what does it mean to "think like a mountain"? The saying comes from the title of a poem, written by Leopold in 1949, as part of his book A Sand County Almanac. The poem laments the author's shooting of a wolf before he understood what the demise of wolves meant for the land. It then describes the consequences of eliminating wolves from the ecosystem; namely, the over-population of deer and subsequent destruction of the plants on which deer feed.

In a nutshell, Leopold realized that the same ecosystem which supports the wolf also supports the deer, the cattle and humans. So, when humans take away parts of the ecosystem, a domino effect happens and impacts us all. Hence, as Leopold states, "...we have dustbowls and rivers washing the future into the sea".

When in college, I had to read A Sand County Almanac; I then became a fan of Leopold. I had a T-shirt back then with "Think Like a Mountain" on it and an abstract picture of a wolf howling, with a mountain in the background.

For a long time, I've considered what it means to "think like a mountain"; at least in relation to working in forestry.

I wonder what it would be like to live in an ecosystem which is intact with all its predators? Cougars are repopulating the Midwest. Wolves are spreading from Minnesota and upper Michigan. Bears seem to be spreading too, and are sometimes spotted in our area already. If we're "thinking like a mountain", these occurrences should excite us rather than scare us, right?

I've never worked in an area where I might run into a dangerous animal, other than maybe a poisonous snake; which, remarkably, I have never ran across on the job, in all my years of working in the woods. Ironically, the only time I have seen them is when my wife and I go on a hike together. People claim to see cougars in Illinois on occasion, but the possibility of me running across one was so remote it wasn't worth thinking about.

Even with predators on the land, I can't see it as being all that more dangerous, or much of a concern for most people. As someone who spends most days in the woods alone, I'm not worried about it.

There is so much bad news, with regard to the environment, out there. One of the few areas where things seem to be improving is the restoration of many wildlife species to the land. Fifty years ago, for instance, deer and turkey were nearly absent from the Middle South and the Midwest.

Now, they're all over the place, and elk are firmly established in many areas too. Predators are the next step to restoring our native ecosystems, and they're on their way.

COUNTY

For the future, Smart was able to secure the approximate $725,000 for the county that was funding left over from the project between the Bypass and Wilderness Trail. Judge Executive Kent Clark indicated that this money would allow them to open up the connector to Kernel Road, and put in 16 feet of black top.

Smart also reported that she was able to secure $100,000 for Hope's Wings in the next county budget.

"This will be on the two-year cycle," Smart stated, "and will allow us to open that back up."

The magistrates and Judge Clark were divided on an issue that came up during the fiscal court meeting, when a vote was taken on whether to purchase property in Garrard County where brush, tree limbs and other natural debris could be dumped.

Clark stated that the property would be available to the street department to dump debris after a clean-up, and two days a week the property would be available for free for residents in Madison County who needed to dump tree limbs or brush. Both Clark and Magistrate Larry Combs voted in favor of purchasing the 110 acres for $75,000, while Magistrates Roger Barger, Billy Ray Hughes and Greg King voted against.

The vote took place after Lee Roy Brock from the Madison County Road Department stated that the county needed a place to dump the debris. "This would help me out a lot," Brock said at Tuesday's meeting. "We've been trying to find a place to put all this stuff. I get a lot of calls every day from people trying to get rid of their limbs and brush. It would mean a whole lot to the road department."

King said he didn't like the idea of dumping the county's trash in another place.

"It's the thought, just me now, but the thought of it. I don't like throwing our stuff somewhere else," King said.

Neither Hughes nor Barger spoke up when discussing the property purchase, even though they both voted against it. During magistrate comments, Combs stated that he was upset about the vote.

"I'm disappointed in the court, that they wouldn't take the initiative with this, to help out our street department and give the residents of Madison County a place to dump this debris," Combs said.

Barger responded, stating he was not interested in paying for a place that's not the only place available to dump debris in. Later on, he commented that he does not believe the fiscal court has looked at other locations.

"We should find a couple of smaller places, such as small farm holders who may need some extra money where we could pay a lease," Barger said. "I serve the northern end of the county, and my people won't drive to Garrard County to dump this stuff. We need a couple of places in different parts of the county."

Hughes stated that no one in his district has expressed a need for a place to dump tree limbs or brush.

Clark initially brought up the possible purchase of the Garrard County property last year at an intergovernmental meeting with the City of Berea officials and City of Richmond personnel. He asked then whether the two governments would be interested in splitting the purchase with Madison County, so street departments as well as residents of the county could dump natural debris after events such as tornadoes or floods.

Early on the City of Richmond stated they were not interested, and Clark reported on Tuesday that the City of Berea staff still felt they had the old dump. Clark said that Berea would probably join up with them at some future point, after they were written up a few more times.

The Madison County Fiscal Court approved a new budget for fiscal year 2012-13 on Tuesday.

"Really good things are happening," Clark said. "The department heads are doing what they can to cut expenses, the street department is doing a lot of work in-house which cuts a lot of expense. Things are good. People are watching what they need to watch."

The total funding in the budget is just under $39 million, with $12 million of that for CSEPP. It's up approximately two million from last year. The occupational tax revenue has not gone down, like other counties. Madison County, along with the City of Berea and the City of Richmond, will be borrowing money to update the 911 system and its equipment. 911 has been using the same radio system for 12 - 13 years; a system that is usually good for half that time. The total cost of the upgrade is $950,000, and FEMA will be matching $375,000 for the upgrade.

A change in the Madison County subdivision regulations was approved at the fiscal court meeting, which allows people with farms to divide up their property even if each plat doesn't have 100 feet of frontage road on the main highway. People with single family or agricultural property will be given just one shot to divide their farm property into up to two minor subdivision plats, with minor plats fronted by private roads. Duane Curry, the director of planning and building, stated that this seemed a reasonable compromise.

Madison County approved a new state road maintenance agreement with the state, which spelled out the county's commitment to take care of the state secondary roads in exchange for payment from the State of Kentucky. Madison County, who has had this agreement with the state for years, is the only county that has this arrangement. There are approximately 120 miles of state secondary roads that the county maintains.

The next intergovernmental meeting will take place on July 16 in Berea at the Berea Municipal Utilities Building, and the fiscal court meeting dates have been rescheduled to July 17 and July 31.

Berea College Presents Ragtime, The Musical

The Berea College Music, Theatre and Dance programs are collaborating for the first time to showcase Ragtime, the Musical. Performances are scheduled for July 6 and 7 at 8 p.m. and July 8 at 3 p.m. in Gray Auditorium. The event is $15 for adults and $7 for children and students. Reserve tickets at 859-985-3174.

Professors Mark Calkins, Dr. Stephen Bolster, Dr. Deborah Martin and Stephanie Woodie combined their talents in order to organize Ragtime in one month along with a cast of 23 members. Students enrolled in Dr. Mark Calkins' summer class are participating in Ragtime as actors and singers while some students are also earning labor experience by constructing the set and stage managing.

The Tony Award-winning score by Lynn Ahrens and Stephen Flaherty brings to life a classic tale of early 20th century America performed in song and dance. Ragtime illustrates a nostalgic portrait of diverse American backgrounds and welds history's enduring struggles of freedom and prejudice, love and hate, prosperity and poverty.

American novelist E.L. Doctorow wrote Ragtime - the novel - in 1975. Blending three American families with historical figures between 1902 and 1917 into an ambitious storyline, Doctorow explored the American industrial machine, the legend of the American Dream and the rising tensions of race, immigration, World War I and national identity.

who is still an inspiration to her at 96 years old. Amy's desire is to share the good and positive aspects of growing up in this part of Kentucky. She hopes to honor old time customs and traditions through her writing. Amy, like her main character Callie, loved life in Appalachia gardening, square dancing, family reunions, pets, and exploring the great outdoors. Amy states she felt fortunate to grow up in Appalachia and felt it was the best place in the world; with closeness of family and the magic of the mountains.

Amy began writing Callie Rose in 2006 and took a while to finish. She explains it was a long process; some days she would write a lot, others only a sentence or two. Amy wrote the entire book out long hand before typing it. She edited it herself then shared it with a few close friends to critique before sending it on to publishers. Callie Rose was officially published in May 2012 by Motes Books, a small publisher located in Louisville, Kentucky.

Writing has always been a passion for Amy. She states "As an introvert, it is a way for me to connect with other people and allows me to express myself creatively. It is a way to celebrate and honor traditions and customs of Appalachia that are dying out."

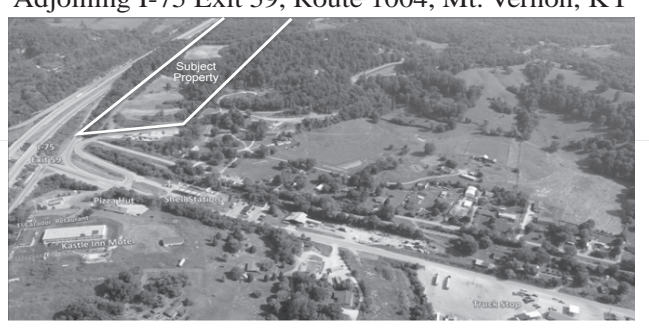

Amy attended Eastern Kentucky University and obtained her bachelor's degree in journalism and her master's in English. She was formally employed at Berea College working in communications. She has done freelance writing for nonprofit organizations, and is currently employed with Kentuckians for the Commonwealth as a development writer. Amy has started writing her next book, which will be for young preteen readers and will again reflect on life in Appalachia. Amy is married to Mike Hogg, superintendent of Berea Community Schools. They have two daughters, Ellie at 16, and Claire at 13.

Callie Rose is available for sale at Robie Books for $12. It is also available at the public library or can be ordered online.

Jonathan Schinhofen, Sports Reporter

If you live in Kentucky (but not under a rock), you have undoubtedly seen people playing the game of cornhole. For the last 10 years or so, no backyard barbeque, festival, or national holiday celebration is complete without a game of cornhole. For those of you who have been living under a rock, cornhole is just like horseshoes, except the target is a hole cut into wooden board instead of a stake in the ground and the projectiles are bean bags instead of horseshoes. The board is set at a slope facing the players. The object is to hit the hole exactly, or hit in front of the hole so the bean bag slides up the ramp and into the hole. Points are also scored if a bean bag comes to rest on the board.

The word "cornhole" comes from the Aztec word "maize-hol" meaning "too much plywood and not enough to do." But seriously, folks, nobody knows for sure where cornhole came from. There are similar games from different cultures in the past, but none lead directly to the game we see today. It seems to have sprung up out of thin air and swept the country, replacing horseshoes as the game of choice and picking up legions of fans in the process.

Cornhole has a number of advantages over horseshoes. In horseshoes, an errant throw or a ricochet can turn a cold steel horseshoe into a deadly missile temporarily suspending festivities while everyone hits the deck. A cornhole bag pretty much sticks where it lands. Cornhole is easier to learn and play. The boards can be decorated or emblazoned with the colors and logos of your favorite sports team or organization, creating a cottage industry for custom boards that sell for $100 or more.

Always the intrepid sports reporter, I decided last Saturday to enter my first competitive cornhole tournament. Waco elementary hosted a tournament as part of a fundraiser for a new walking path. I arrived without a partner, but was lucky enough to be matched up with Jo Howard, a player with plenty of experience. Her experience consisted of pitching in a city slow-pitch softball league. I told her that throwing a cornhole bag is just like pitching strikes at a round, horizontal, six-inch-diameter strike zone.

The tournament was a 4-team, double-elimination format. I was happy about the double elimination, because it meant I got to play at least two games for my $10 entry fee. As it was, Jo and I did quite well. It took 3 games to eliminate us.

Games are played up to 21 points, unless one team goes ahead by a score of 13-0. This is called a "skunk" presumably because the losing team stinks. Jo and I lost our first game in a 14-0 cliffhanger. The decisive factor, in my view, is that Mike Rose, one of the guys on the other team, had built the board. This gave them the slight edge they needed to put them over the top.

In the second game, we played a couple of middle schoolers, Aaron Johnson of Clark Moores and Jeremy Thompson of Faristown. I decided to use trash talking to get into their heads and throw them off their games. The strategy worked, as evidenced by the 21-20 thrashing we gave them. I was confident that Jo and I could win the next three games against the teams in the winners' bracket to take the $80 prize and my first of what would surely be many cornhole tournament championships.

Alas, we lost our third game. We nearly scored several times in a 15-0 nail-biter that lasted about 4 minutes. Jo and I walked off the cornhole field with our heads held high, knowing that we were first place among the teams that were never in contention for the championship.

Searching for some way to put a positive spin on the afternoon, I realized that I paid just $10 to score 21 points, which is better than I usually do at the bowling alley. And I learned a number of things about the game that will serve me well as I continue my quest for cornhole glory. A cornhole bag should be tossed more like a Frisbee and less like a softball. It is unseemly and unsportsmanlike for a 43-year-old to trash talk middle school boys. And most important, never, ever play against the guy who built the cornhole board. He might be skilled in something besides carpentry.

Jonathan Schinhofen/The Citizen

Intrepid sports reporter Jonathan Schinhofen entered a cornhole tournament at a fundraiser for Waco Elementary this past weekend, at the county fairgrounds. Above, Jonathan's partner, Jo Howard, pitches towards the target. Below, Brynn Bentley, related to the principal of Waco Elementary, picks the sure-fire way to get a "hole in one".

Energy Charge per kWh:	$0.06987	$0.07235

General Service - Rate GS

	Current	Proposed
Basic Service Charge per Meter Per Month:
Single-Phase	$17.50	$20.00
Three-Phase	$32.50	$35.00
Energy Charge per kWh:	$0.08332	$0.08678

Availability of Service: Text changes clarify that demand component of eligibility for taking service under this rate will be calculated on 12-month average of monthly maximum loads. Also clarifies that a customer taking service under this rate schedule who ceases to take service hereunder must meet eligibility requirements of new customer to again take service under this rate schedule.

Determination of Maximum Load: New provision states how maximum load will be measured.

All Electric School - Rate AES

	Current	Proposed
Basic Service Charge per Meter Per Month:
Single-Phase	$17.50	$20.00
Three-Phase	$32.50	$35.00
Energy Charge per kwh:	$0.06670	$0.07060

Availability of Service: Text change clarifies that customer taking service under this rate schedule who later ceases to take such service may not again take service under this rate schedule because it is closed.

Current:
Where:

- the monthly billing demand for the Primary Peak and Intermediate Demand Periods is the greater of:
 - the maximum measured load in the current billing period, or
 - a minimum of 60% of the highest billing demand in the preceding eleven (11) monthly billing periods, and the monthly billing demand for the Primary Base Demand Period is the greater of:
 - the maximum measured load in the current billing period but not less than 20,000 kVA, or
 - a minimum of 75% of the highest billing demand in the preceding eleven (11) monthly billing periods, or
 - a minimum of 75% of the contract capacity based on the maximum load expected on the system or on facilities specified by Customer.
- the monthly billing demand for the Transmission Peak and Intermediate Demand Periods is the greater of:
 - the maximum measured load in the current billing period, or
 - a minimum of 40% of the highest billing demand in the preceding eleven (11) monthly billing periods, and the monthly billing demand for the Transmission Base Demand Period is the greater of:
 - the maximum measured load in the current billing period but not less than 20,000 kVA, or

Street Lighting Service - Rate ST.LT. and Private Outdoor Lighting - Rate P.O.LT.

Street Lighting Service (Rate ST.LT. – Sheet No. 35) and Private Outdoor Lighting Service (Rate P.O.LT. – Sheet No. 36) are being reorganized into two rate schedules. The first schedule will be named Lighting Services (Rate LS) and will be a consolidation of lighting fixtures currently offered. The second schedule will be named Restricted Lighting Service (Rate RLS) and will be a consolidation of lighting fixtures that are in service but no longer available for new or replacement installations. The current and proposed rates are presented below based on the lights to be included in Rate LS and Rate RLS. The lights proposed to be contained in the specific schedule are shown in bold type with the current light and rate sheet shown below the proposed light.

Cable Television Attachment Charges – Rate CTAC

	Current	Proposed
Attachment Charge per year for each attachment to pole:	$5.40	$10.01

Curtable Service Rider 10 – Rider CSR10

	Current (per kW)	Proposed (Per kVA)
Monthly Demand Credit:
Primary	($5.50)	($2.80)
Transmission	($5.40)	($2.75)
Non-Compliance Charge:	$16.00	$16.00

Proposed Contract Option: Removes restriction that KU may only use physical curtailment during system reliability events. Also changes contract options' demand from a 15-minute demand basis to the one the customer's standard rate schedule uses.

Curtable Service Rider 30 – Rider CSR30

	Current (per kW)	Proposed (Per kVA)
Monthly Demand Credit per kW:
Primary	($4.40)	($2.30)
Transmission	($4.30)	($2.25)
Non-Compliance Charge per kW:	$16.00	$16.00

Load Reduction Incentive Rider – Rider LRI

Current Rate	Up to $0.30 per kWh
Proposed Rate	This rate schedule is proposed to be eliminated.

Standard Rider for Excess Facilities – Rider EF

Current Rate
Customer shall pay for excess facilities by:
Monthly Charge for Leased Facilities:	1.54%
Monthly Charge for Facilities Supported
By a One-Time CIAC Payment:	0.74%

Proposed Rate

No adjustment in the monthly charge for a replacement of facilities will be made during the initial five (5) year term of contract.

Customer shall pay for excess facilities by:

- (a) Making a monthly Excess Facilities charge payment equal to the installed cost of the excess facilities times the following percentage:

Percentage with No Contribution-in-Aid-of-Construction	1.28%
--	-------
- (b) Making a one-time Contribution-in-Aid-of-Construction equal to the installed cost of the excess facilities plus a monthly Excess Facilities Charge payment equal to the installed cost of the excess facilities times the following percentage:

Percentage with Contribution-in-Aid-of-Construction	0.49%
---	-------

Standard Rider for Redundant Capacity Charge – Rider RC

	Current (per kW)	Proposed (Per kVA)
Capacity Reservation Charge per Month:
Secondary Distribution	$0.85	$1.55
Primary Distribution	$0.68	$0.99

Standard Rider for Supplemental or Standby Service – Rider SS

	Current (per kW)	Proposed (Per kVA)
Contract Demand per month:
Secondary	$6.54	$12.91

Transmission	$5.99	$11.17

Availability of Service: Text addition clarifies that KU has no obligation to supply non-firm service to a customer-generator unless the customer seeks supplemental or standby service under Rider SS. This requirement does not apply to Net Metering Service (Rider NMS).

Temporary and/or Seasonal Electric Service Rider TS

Availability of Service: Text change clarifies that service is available when it is not necessary for KU to install permanent facilities.

Conditions: Customer will pay for non-salvageable materials plus a monthly charge for the salvageable equipment at the Percentage With No Contribution in-Aid-of-Construction specified on the Excess Facilities Rider.

Real-Time Pricing Rider RTP

Current Rate: Billing under this Rider is formulaic.
Proposed Rate: This rate schedule is proposed to be eliminated.

Standard Rate for Low Emission Vehicle Service – Rate LEV

Proposed Rate: $15.00 per month per installed set of pulse-generating equipment

Customer Deposits

Kentucky Utilities Company is proposing no change to the required Customer Deposit for residential electric customers served under Residential Rate RS from the current amount of $135.00 (0% increase), and the required Customer Deposit for general service customers served under General Service Rate GS from the current amount of $220.00 (0% increase). Text change states when Rate GS deposit may be waived in conjunction with taking service under Rate RS.

Kentucky Utilities Company proposes to change the text of the following electric tariffs: General Service Rate GS, All Electric School Rate AES, Power Service Rate PS, Time-of-Day Secondary Service Rate TODS, Time-of-Day Primary Service Rate TODP, Retail Transmission Service Rate RTS, Fluctuating Load Service Rate FLS, Street Lighting Service Rate ST. LT, Private Outdoor Lighting Rate P.O.LT, Cable Television Attachment Charges Rate CTAC, Curtable Service Rider CSR10, Curtable Service Rider CSR30, Excess Facilities Rider EF, Redundant Capacity Rider RC, Supplemental/Standby Service Rider SS, Rider IL for Intermittent Loads, Temporary/Seasonal Service Rider TS, Large Green Energy Rider LGE, Low Emission Vehicle Service Rate LEV, Fuel Adjustment Clause FAC, Demand Side Management Cost Recovery Mechanism DSM, Environmental Cost Recovery Surcharge ECR, and the Terms and Conditions.

Changes to the Terms and Conditions include proposed clarifications on terms and conditions for determining customer rate assignments, as well as when standby or supplemental service must be purchased if customer desires non-firm service.

Although KU is not proposing to change the text of its Fuel Adjustment Clause ("FAC"), other than the correction of a minor typographical error in Paragraph (3), it is proposing to recover certain costs through the FAC to ensure that the correct amounts are collected through base rates and the FAC.

Complete copies of the proposed tariffs containing text changes and proposed rates may be obtained by contacting Lonnie E. Bellar, Kentucky Utilities Company at 220 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky, 502-627-4830, or visiting Kentucky Utilities Company's website at www.lge-ku.com.

The foregoing rates reflect a proposed annual increase in revenues of approximately 6.5% to Kentucky Utilities Company.

The estimated amount of the annual change and the average monthly bill to which the proposed electric rates will apply for each electric customer class is as follows:

Electric Rate Class	Annual $ Increase	Annual % Increase	Mthly Bill $ Increase	Mthly Bill % Increase
Residential	$37,381,886	8.03%	$ 7.41	8.03%
General Service	$ 9,061,201	4.97%	$ 9.20	4.97%

Traffic Energy	$ 6,388	5.40%	$ 0.79	5.40%
CTAC	$ 681,722	85.37%	N/A	N/A

The rates contained in this notice are the rates proposed by Kentucky Utilities Company; however, the Public Service Commission may order rates to be charged that differ from the proposed rates contained in this notice.

Notice is further given that any corporation, association, body politic or person with a substantial interest in the matter may by written request, within thirty (30) days after publication of the notice of the proposed rate changes, request to intervene. The motion shall be submitted to the Public Service Commission, 211 Sower Boulevard, P. O. Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, and shall set forth the grounds for the request, including the status and interest of the party. Intervention may be granted beyond the thirty (30) day period for good cause shown. Any person who has been granted intervention may obtain copies of the application and any other filing made by the utility by contacting Lonnie E. Bellar, Vice President – State Regulation and Rates, Kentucky Utilities Company, c/o LG&E and KU Energy LLC, 220 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky, 502-627-4830.

A copy of the application and testimony shall be available for public inspection at the office of Kentucky Utilities Company, 100 Quality Street, Lexington, Kentucky, or the Public Service Commission, 211 Sower Boulevard, Frankfort, Kentucky.

A copy of this Notice and the proposed tariff, once filed, shall also be available for public inspection on Kentucky Utilities Company's website at www.lge-ku.com.

Time To Water

When summer weather heats up with no sign of rain, gardeners hook up the water hose to give their thirsty landscapes a drink. It seems like a simple enough task, but there are some tips to help you get the most from your efforts.

Plants benefit more from occasional heavy watering than from frequent shallow watering. Water equal to about 1-inch of rain penetrates the soil to a depth of about six inches which is enough to sustain most plants for a week. Light watering generally wets the soil to a depth of only an inch or less. This top inch of soil may hold some of the plant's roots, but it will dry very rapidly. That means the water is not available to the plant for very long. It is much more effective to water less frequently and more thoroughly. During hot weather, some plants will wilt toward the end of the day – this is normal even if the soil has enough moisture. Look at plants in the morning for signs of drought stress (wilted, cupping of leaves, rolling of grass blades) and apply water when these signs are present. Wait until the next morning if you only see these signs at night.

When you need to water your landscape, use a hose attachment to apply water to the base of the plant. A nozzle with multiple settings breaks the water into finer droplets that soak more easily into the soil. Apply water for several minutes before moving the hose to the next area. You can check with a hand spade to see how far down the soil has gotten moist. Try to apply enough water to soak to a depth of six inches. Soaker or drip hoses also are an efficient and effective way to water large areas. Plan to run this type of irrigation system for several hours to accomplish a thorough watering.

Morning is the best time to take care of any overhead watering. This gives wet foliage a chance to dry in the sun. Flowers, leaves and stems that stay wet for several hours can have a higher incidence of disease.

Field to Fork Not Your Typical Festival

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

After a successful first year, Deborah Messenger from Halcomb's Knob Farm in Garrard County is bringing back the Field to Fork Festival for a second annual run, on Saturday, July 21. While she had around 200 attend the festival last year, this year she has already had registrations in excess of 500.

"For a brand-new festival that number was fine," Messenger commented on last year's attendance. "But this year's number means it has grown by more than 300 percent."

Field to Fork Festival, or the short hand F2F that Messenger has adopted as a title, concentrates on education and outreach. Messenger originally had 15 workshops planned with such topics as making cheese or bee keeping, but added eight more workshops when Centre College staff informed her they would be bringing 350 Governor's Scholars to take classes on that Saturday.

"We have something for everyone interested in learning more about Kentucky agricultural commodities and 'how to's,'" Messenger said. "I wanted to have some place to bring experts and producers to one place. So many people want to start some of these practices, but they don't know where to start."

A small sampling of the vendors and experts that will be present include Angel Fleece Alpacas, Berea College Farms, Central KY Regional Humane Society, Community Farm Alliance, Cooperative Extension Service - Garrard County, Cooper Farms, ECU Farms, Sweetgrass Granola, God's Creation Greenhouse, Healthy Hills Farm, The Shepherd's Rug / Brownland Fiber, and 2 Acres Shy.

One new vendor just confirmed attendance with Messenger, and that's Federal Grove, one of the premier makers of maple syrup in Kentucky.

"Very few people realize that Kentucky makes very fine maple syrup," Messenger said. "They think it only happens up north, but Federal Grove will be bringing several cases."

There will be opportunities not only to take workshops, but also to purchase Kentucky products at the festival such as the maple syrup. Locally grown munchies will be sold as well from on-site concessions including grass-fed burgers and bratwurst, pasture-raised chicken wraps, grilled eggplant sandwiches, sweet potato salad, freshly-made fried apple pies and Kentucky Proud funnel cakes.

"This may be the only festival in Kentucky of this sort. Very few festivals have the two-pronged approach of education and vending," Messenger said.

Messenger contacted Berea Tourism last year, when she was planning the first F2F, to make sure that her festival didn't conflict with any of their events. Kerri Hensley from tourism, after hearing Messenger's plan, told her it would be a wonderful partnership with the LearnShops that Berea was planning for that time. With her planned date working perfectly with the LearnShops schedule, it was an easy partnership to facilitate. This year, Messenger's festival will once again be part of the Berea LearnShops, which is scheduled from July 14 – 28.

Partly because of this partnership, most of the people attending the workshops at F2F are from outside of Garrard and Madison County, though the majority is from Kentucky. She stated that only a few participants from Berea have signed up for workshops and the majority are people who did not attend last year.

Whether a workshop participant or someone who comes to browse through the festival, all visitors have the opportunity to interact with live demonstrations held every 45 minutes, through the festival's hours of 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. General admission is $10 for adults, $7.50 for 65 and older and $5 for under 18.

This ambitious undertaking has pretty much been a one-woman operation, with Messenger starting to plan the next festival as soon as the current one is completed. She does not find this particular challenging, however.

"I worked at the Natural Resources Department for the state of Indiana before I moved to Kentucky," Messenger said. "I was in charge of 92 counties and their professional development."

After planning events for a few thousand legislatures in Indiana, Messenger said, the F2F was easy in comparison.

Field to Fork Festival is one of only a handful of litter-free festivals currently being marketed.

Word From Berea Streets

How will you be celebrating 4th of July?

Becky Riley of Berea with her kids Josh and Haley and her mother Debbie replied, "We are going to Renfro Valley's 'Blast in the Valley.' They will have bands, inflatables, and fireworks. It is from 12 noon until 1 a.m."

Beverly Miller of Berea with daughter Macensie replied, "We will be celebrating my son's fourth birthday with a party, then going to Renfro Valley to watch the fireworks."

Haley Johnson of Berea with her friend replied, "I will be at Myrtle Beach on vacation." Her friend replied, "I will be at Lake Reba with friends having a cook-out and watching the fireworks."

My wife and I have lived in Berea for 22 years and we own a cab company here. I have come to know this community and its citizens.

My business experience has prepared me well to deal with the issues which come before the city council.

I want the opportunity to serve on the city council and work with the city's officials and citizens to make this good community a better community.

I need your vote on November 6 so I can work with you to make Berea the best little city in Kentucky

Robert (Peanuts) Johnson for Berea City Council

Local Residents Receive Awards in Art, Music

• Nora Swanson, of Nora Swanson Arts in Berea, is one of eleven new artists that have been accepted into the Kentucky Crafted program, the Kentucky Arts Council's marketing assistance program that provides opportunities for artists to expand their market reach.

Artists are accepted into the program based on artistic excellence and market readiness as judged by an independent panel of art and craft industry professionals.

• Twenty-nine students from the University of Kentucky School of Music were honored at the 2012 McCracken Awards and Honors Ceremony, held April 26 at the Hilary J. Boone Center on UK's campus.

This year, five Ralph McCracken Scholarships, each worth $1,000, were presented to students, including Berea's Josh Dargavell. Dargavell is a music performance senior and trombonist at UK.

He is the recipient of the McCracken Performance Scholarship for his exceptional achievement in the winds, percussion and jazz division of the performance category.

Nancy Pickle of Berea was the recipient of the 2012 Tommy Sandusky Memorial Band Scholarship. Pickle, a gender and women's studies senior, received the $500 scholarship as recognition of exceptional service in university bands.

Berea BPW Elects New Officers

On Tuesday June 5, the Berea Business and Professional Women's Organization installed the new officers for 2012-2013. The installation took place in the beautiful country setting of Goosehill Downs Bed and Breakfast at Pilot Knob just outside of Berea. We would like to thank Rene' Poitra and her husband for being the gracious hosts of this year's event.

Joanne Story, a teacher with KCTCS in Somerset and active member of the Business and Professional Women's Organization, was the installing officer. We want to offer our sincere appreciation for her willingness to conduct the installation. The new officers are; President Zayda Flannery, a former state BPW President and Program Coordinator for Christian Appalachian Project, Vice-president Edith Baker, retired counselor with Morehead State University, Secretary Linda Vanwinkle, Vice-president for Whitaker Bank and Treasurer Sherry Jones, a professor at Eastern Kentucky University.

We would like to congratulate these women on their election and we look forward to continued progress under their leadership.

Progress Club Travels to Paris

Thirteen members and one guest of the Berea Progress Club met at 10:30 a.m. in the Chestnut Street Baptist Church parking lot to board a bus for Paris, Kentucky. One destination was Duncan Tavern, which is owned and operated now by the Daughters of The American Revolution. Our hostel for the outing was Mary Kay Kauffman, Vice Regent of the Berea Laurel Ridge Chapter of the DAR.

Always lovely, the sight of the well kept horse farms and lush pastures on a spring morning made for a very pleasant trip and we soon arrived at Duncan Tavern. We were seated for the luncheon, which was prepared and served to us by DAR members.

Our lunch consisted of salad, French onion soup, chicken salad on whole wheat rolls and delicious strawberry shortcake, all accompanied by wine provided by our hostess Mary Kay.

It would be hard to describe our luncheon without mentioning the table settings - large silver vases held masses of peony, rose and tulip blooms and the beautiful serving pieces were from a day long gone by. It was the perfect setting for good conversation.

Following lunch, we were invited to view the upstairs, which contained antiques donated by the previous owners and those connected with the history of the area.

The trip would not have been complete without stopping in the gift shop before departing, which was a great place to pick up unusual gifts.

President Joyce Mosher called a brief business meeting beginning with a big "thanks" to Mary Kay for arranging this get-together.

Under new business, Dinah Tyree announced that the June meeting would be a luncheon meeting at Boone Tavern. We look forward to meeting in one of our own historical spots.

Member Jean Huffman is ill and Leslie Berger's husband, Bob, is recovering from illness; cards were encouraged.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned. After more browsing and buying, we returned to the bus and traveled back to Berea with yet another great memory of a day spent with friends.

Respectfully submitted,

Barbara McDonald Secretary

Whittemore Construction was in charge of the demolition of the Berea Swimming Pool on Lewis Street. The pool that had served Berea for many years was being replaced with apartment buildings.

Dr. Betty Watson had resigned her position as principal at Berea Community School where she had served since 1980.

David Tipton of Berea College's Technical Services Department had been awarded a PEW fellowship at the University of Kentucky to work on a master's degree.

Ray Towery had introduced the "Berea Street Construction and Re-paving Policy" to fellow members of the Berea City Council and asked that it be drafted as an ordinance.

Amy Michelle Powell had been named to the Dean's List at Morehead State University. The Berea Community High School graduate was a member of the Color Guard with the MSU band.

Harold Eads and his wife Tomi had delivered a petition to Hal Rogers office asking that prayer and Bible reading be allowed in the public schools. The petition had been circulated in local and churches and contained more than 2500 signatures.

Maurice Dula had told The Citizen that the Berea Cemetery would begin a policy of having anyone who wished to remove flowers from the cemetery to contact workers at the cemetery. There had been complaints of flowers being stolen from grave sites.

often pretend to understand what people say. Even when my surroundings are quiet, it can be hard to

HEAR
My wife says that our relationship would be so much BETTER

if she didn't have to repeat herself so often.

THIS YEAR is our year. I'm doing it for us.
