As of press time, few details were available concerning the shooting of a Madison County deputy from the sheriff's department on Wednesday.

According to sources, the incident occurred on Arthur Jackson Road, southeast of Berea. No further details were available.

Berea Starts Busy Weekend With Yard Sale

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

This weekend will be one of the busiest as far as events in Berea, with the US 25 Yard Sale starting off on Thursday and going until Saturday.

The US 25 Yard Sale, which started five years ago, has been slowly growing every year. Local coordinator Randy Coffey started working with Judy Wigginton from Williamstown, who started the highway sale in 2012, after the first year. Now US 25 Yard Sale stretches from Richwood, Ky. to Woodfin, N.C., for approximately 565 miles.

"I saw a handbill on the store in Conway," Coffey said. "She had put up handbills all over, especially in Grant County where she was from, and that's how I found out about it."

The Creation of a Quality Black School in Berea

Special to the Citizen

This is the third article in the series about the historical Middletown School for black children in Berea from 1927 to 1963. A reunion will be held on July 3 at the renovated school building for all who were involved with the school.

Middletown Consolidated School in Berea was built in 1927 when Berea College, which abolitionist John G. Fee founded in 1855, donated four acres of land to build the school and agreed to supply it with water and electricity.

L.N. Taylor, the Kentucky state agent for Negro schools, was responsible for the statewide coordination of the Rosenwald school-building campaign. State agents like Taylor were typically white men who used their professional connections to broker relationships between the philanthropic agencies that financed African American public education and the commu-historical frontier.

This group had been traveling since May 7 along the Boone Trace, reenacting the journey that the first settlers would have made when they were seeking new opportunities west of the Allegheny Mountains. America's Frontier History Expedition included men and women walking or horseback riding (and sometimes driving) from Sycamore Shoals, Tenn., to the end of their

Berea Team Places Eighth at Global Competition

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The Berea High School Destination Imagination team placed eighth at Global Competition last weekend, against 81 teams from 27 states and 11 countries. This was only the third time that a Kentucky team placed at Globals. Above in the front row (l-r) are team members Alex Mondine, Dakota Baker, Hudson Campbell, Kentucky Director Bill Broomhead, and Berea Team Manager Connie Mondine; back row are Dante Clavere, Gabriel Abaunza, and Joseph Caudill.

For the first time ever, a school in Madison County placed at the Destination Imagination Global Finals.

The Berea Community High School team won the right to participate at Global competition, which took place at the University of Tennessee, when they placed first at the Kentucky state competition in March against over 20 teams. Berea placed eighth at Global this past weekend, where they competed against 81 other teams from 27 states and 11 countries, including China, Qatar, Guatemala, and Poland.

"They put the top ten teams on the big jumbotron," Connie Mondine said, who serves as the coach for the high school team. "When the kids saw Berea High School up there, they started screaming and jumping up and down. I was really afraid they were going to fall off their seats! Even afterwards, they were still running and jumping."

Lila Rose Grimes Hatton

Lila Rose Grimes Hatton, 37, of Berea died Sunday, May 29, 2016 at Baptist Health Lexington. She was a lifelong resident of Berea, born October 29, 1979. She was a housewife and mother. Survivors include her husband, Robert Hatton; two children, Austin Grimes and Kaydy Hatton; her mother, Judy Grimes Brown; sister, Anna Lee Grimes Newcomb; and numerous relatives and friends.

The funeral service took place at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, June 1, 2016 at Reppert Funeral Home. Burial followed in Berea Cemetery. Reppert Funeral Home entrusted with arrangements.

Tressia W. Powell

Tressia W. Powell, 81, passed away at the U.K. Medical Center after a long illness. Born to the late Curt and Bertha Willis, Tressia was an Estill County native and current resident of Clay City in Powell County. She was a homemaker and is survived by her four children, Joe Ann Starnes, Harold Powell, Chester Powell, and Billy Powell.

Graveside services were at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, June 1, 2016 at the Garrett Cemetery in Estill County.

Dr. James Douglas Crase

Dr. James Douglas Crase of Somerset -- physician, veteran of the US Navy, Kentucky state senator, farmer, beloved son, brother, husband and father -- passed from this life on Saturday, May 28 in Louisville.

He was proceeded in death by his loving wife, Jan, and is survived by his sisters, Guinevere and Elaine; brothers, Ike (Sedahlia) and Ken (Sue); his children, Kim (Joe) Claytor, Kit, and Karl (Melissa); and grandchildren, Laura and Neil Claytor, and Jonathon and Ameila Crase.

Dr. Crase was born on July 19, 1937 in Letcher County to parents Ted and Ida Crase. He was a graduate of Whitesburg High School, Berea College, and the University of Louisville Medical School. He married Janice Hunley in 1959.

Dr. Crase interned in Wichita, Kan., and practiced medicine for over 53 years in McKee, Berea, Norfolk, Va., with the US Navy, and over 40 years in Somerset. He was proud to have provided care to over 10,000 patient families while practicing in Somerset. In recognition of his commitment to his patients and his craft, Dr. Crase was named Citizen Physician of the Year in Kentucky by the Kentucky Academy of Family Practice.

Dr. Crase served in the Kentucky State Senate. After retiring from his medical practice, he helped create an innovative healthcare clinic called ClubMD, which highlighted his passion for putting the patient first. Dr. Crase cared deeply for communities and institutions that influenced his life, and shared this commitment by serving in a variety of organizations including the Lake Cumberland Lincoln Club, the Lake Cumberland Performing Arts, the Kentucky Medical Association, the Berea College Board of Trustees, the Somerset Community College Athletic Directorship, trustee and elder of The First Presbyterian Church of Somerset, chief of staff of the Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital, Judicial and Legislative Retirement trustee, Pulaski Civil War Round Table, and the United Way.

A man of boundless energy and enthusiasm, Dr. Crase will be remembered by those who knew him best as a passionate lover of life with an endless array of interests. A big, robust and athletic man, he was gentle and compassionate to those he cared for and loved. He lived life on his own terms, raged against the dying of the light, and died peacefully surrounded by the love of family and friends. A life well lived.

In lieu of flowers, please make donations to First Presbyterian Church. A funeral service will be held at 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 4, 2016 at the First Presbyterian Church of Somerset with Reverend Jack Wilhelm officiating. Burial will be in Lakeside Memorial Gardens.

Visitation for Dr. James Douglas Crase will be from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m. on Friday, June 3, 2016 at the First Presbyterian Church of Somerset.

Pulaski Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Gertrude "Gertie" Marie Hamilton Taylor

Gertrude "Gertie" Marie Hamilton Taylor of Berea departed peacefully for her heavenly home on Sunday, May 29, 2016, surrounded by family at the Hospice Compassionate Care Center in Richmond.

Gertie was born in McCreary County, the daughter of the late Neal and Myrtle Rose Hamilton. She moved to Berea with her young family soon after WWII, once her husband had recovered from wounds he received fighting the Imperial Japanese. Gertie was a Wayside Christian Church member, loving wife, mother, grandmother ("Nanny"), great grandmother, and patriotic Republican.

As with so many Great-est Generation mothers, what she enjoyed most in this life was spending time with her family.

Gertie was preceded in death by her husband of fifty-one years, Fred Taylor; one son, Kenneth (Brenda) Taylor; three brothers, Lloyd Hamilton, Garnett (Velma) Hamilton, and Fred (Teresa) Hamilton; and a sister, Ella (Fred) Mae Eller. She is survived by one brother, Eanis (Glenda) Hamilton of South Lyon, Mich.; two daughters, Wanda (Gary) Morris of Sand Gap and Kelly (Carl) Cain of Berea; and two sons, Scott (Carla) Taylor of Berea, and Tim (Darlene) Taylor of Berea. Gertie was blessed with eleven grandchildren, Shane (Jaime) Morris, Todd Morris, Jaime (Terry) Potter, Jerad (Paula) Taylor, Jennifer Cameron, Stephanie Taylor, Heather (Aaron) Burton, Morgan (Justin) Clemons, Lauren (Cody) Jones, Jade Taylor, and Kenneth Cain; ten great grandchildren, Caleb Morris, Katelyn Potter, Abby Burton, Landon Cameron, Matthew Potter, Alexis Cameron, Isabella Clemons, Reagan Morris, Carson Morris, and Olivia Clemons; and numerous nieces, nephews, extended family, church family, and friends.

Visitation will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, June 1, 2016 at Lakes Funeral Home, where funeral Services were held at 11 a.m. on Thursday, June 2, 2016 with Wayside Pastor Ron Lutes officiating. Pallbearers will be Shane Morris, Todd Morris, Caleb Morris, Jerad Taylor, Eli Haddix, Aaron Burton, and Cody Jones. Honorary pallbearers are Rick Jezowski and Jerry Rynearson.

Gertie will be laid to rest with her beloved husband Fred at Camp Nelson National Cemetery near Nicholasville. In lieu of flowers, the family requests memorial contributions in Gertie's name be made to: Hospice Compassionate Care Center, 208 Kidd Drive, Berea, Ky. 40403. Please designate on memo "In memory of Gertie Taylor."

Downtown Richmond Association Offers Free Concert Series on Third Thursdays

As part of Downtown Richmond Association's mission to enhance the quality of life in the community, as well as promoting local businesses, the organization is launching a new free concert series called Third Thursday.

This new event showcases local musicians and bands, and occurs each third Thursday from May through October from 6 - 8 p.m., and works in conjunction with Downtown Richmond's Thursday Night Live that takes place weekly from April to October.

In an effort to provide an enriching event that is free and can be enjoyed by all ages, adults and children of Richmond, Berea and surrounding counties are invited as well as ECU and Berea College students and faculty. People can bring a lawn chair or blanket and sit on the lawn of the Downtown Richmond courthouse to relax, unwind and socialize. The bands will be playing on the courthouse steps. There will be plenty of free parking available.

The event will also feature local vendors for farm fresh produce, baked goods, crafts, jellies, jams, honey, soaps, lotions and much more. The Downtown Richmond Farmers Market vendors will be set up on Main Street between

First and Irvine Streets. There will also be other vendors including Mary Kay, Thirty-One, Kentucky craftsmen and artists, and other local businesses. People who would like more information about vending at the Third Thursday series can email the market manager at farmersmarket@downtownrichmondassociation.com.

Great food will also be available with Smitty's BBQ, food trucks and food vendors, as well as local Downtown eateries offering specials including Purdy's Coffee Company, Cafe Meebles, Babylon Gardens, Apollo Pizza, Madison Garden Bar & Grill and more.

The Madison County Public Library will be hosting a kid's dance contest, with prizes for the kids.

And here is the 2016 concert series lineup:

- June 16 – Over the Top with John Harden
- July 21 – Cherish the Blue
- August 18 – Ben Lacy

• September 15 – Modern Marilyn (this will take place at City Fest on ECU Campus)

- October 20 – The Jeff Richey Experience

More info: www.downtownrichmondassociation.com/downtown-richmond-introduces-third-thursday/

The Jeff Richey Experience will be one of the local bands performing for the new free concert series in Richmond on Third Thursdays this summer and fall. The concerts will take place on the courthouse steps from 6 - 8 p.m.

Sheriff's Office Makes Drug Arrest on East Haiti

On Wednesday, May 25, 2016 Madison County Sheriff's Office Deputies Jeff Bol and Deputy Kevin Crutcher responded to a complaint of possible drug activity at a residence on East Haiti in Berea.

According to Madison County Sheriff Mike Coyle, when deputies attempted to make contact with the residents, Thomas Renner fled on foot while Christopher Jones was apprehended attempting to flee.

Through the course of the investigation, Deputy Bol and Deputy Crutcher seized approximately 356 grams of synthetic drugs, methamphetamine, and drug paraphernalia.

Christopher Jones, 22, of Mount Vernon was arrested and charged with trafficking in synthetic drugs -- first offense, possession of a controlled substance -- first offense methamphetamine, and drug paraphernalia - deliver/manufacture. Jones was lodged in the Madison County Detention Center.

This case remains under investigation with charges pending against Thomas Renner. If anyone has information on the location of Renner, please contact the Madison County Sheriff's Office at (859) 623-1511 or Madison County 911 at (859) 624-4776.

BEREA POLICE REPORTS

Theft

• On May 24, a resident from the 100 block of Kayla Drive reported her vehicle stolen. A family member located the vehicle on Lewis Street while the officers were taking the report. The vehicle was returned to the owner. On May 25, officers were called to Redi Mart on Paint Lick Road because of a theft. Employees reported the lock cut off the air machine and money was stolen from inside. The estimated loss was $72.

• On May 26, three different residents on Pine Valley Drive reported items stolen from their vehicles overnight. The estimated loss was $500.

• On May 27, a resident on the 400 block of Short Line Pike reported a toolbox stolen from the bed of his pickup. The estimated loss was $600.

DUI Arrest

• On May 24, officers received a complaint of a reckless driver on Richmond Road. The vehicle was located and a traffic stop was conducted on Bratcher Lane.

The driver of the vehicle showed signs of impairment, and an oxycodone tablet was located inside of the vehicle. There were also two juvenile passengers in the vehicle. Officers arrested Peggy Vanderierendonck, 50, of Berea and charged her with careless driving, operating a motor vehicle under the influence -- first offense, first degree possession of controlled substance, prescription of controlled substance not in proper container, and two counts of second degree wanton endangerment.

Obtaining Prescription Arrest

• On May 25, officers were called to Berea Drug because of a woman who was attempting to obtain a prescription. The pharmacist spoke to the patient's doctor, who stated that the prescriptions had been stolen.

Officers arrested Lisa McQueen, 48, of Berea who attempted to pick up the medication with the stolen prescription. She was charged with obtaining/attempting to obtain controlled substance without practitioner/patient relationship.

Kidnapping

• On May 25, officers were called to 132 E. Haiti Road because of a man holding people in the home with a firearm. When police approached the home, the man yelled that he had a gun and would shoot, so the officers backed off. He was identified as Gene Charlton, 50, of Berea. The surrounding homes were evacuated and the street was closed.

The Kentucky State Police Special Response Team was contacted. Negotiators from the Berea Police Department and the Richmond Police Department spoke to Charlton by phone for several hours. At approximately 9:15 a.m., Charlton walked out of the home and was taken into custody by the Special Response Team through use of a taser. The other people in the home were identified as Charlton's spouse and two minor children.

On May 21 an Emergency Protection Order had been issued, dictating that Charlton was not supposed to be in the home. Further investigation revealed that Charlton had forced sexual contact with his spouse while barricaded in the home. Charlton was charged with kidnapping -- adult, two counts of kidnapping a minor, violation of a Ky EPO, DVO, first degree rape -- domestic violence, and first degree sodomy -- domestic violence

Public Intoxication

• On May 27, officers were called to East Street because of a man passed out. The man was located under a tree and showed signs of impairment. A second person was also located and also showed signs of impairment. Officers arrested Brett Himes, 26, of Berea and Kacey Neeley, 24, of Berea. They were both charged with public intoxication, and Neeley was also charged with illegal possession of a legend drug.

Facing Tension Between Media Coverage, Personal Privacy & Truth

When the hostage situation occurred in Berea last Wednesday, May 25, I drove down to East Haiti for coverage.

I’m always a bit nervous in such situations, because I’m torn between the need or desire to get the story and some powerful photos, and the need to be in the way as little as possible while the police work to peacefully end such a situation. While I’ve never covered a hostage situation before, I’ve had the same feeling when I’m covering an accident where the police are trying to contain the scene, or even the aftermath of a natural disaster such as the floods.

When I arrived on East Haiti, the situation had already been resolved, and the perpetrator had been driven away. Because of that, I was able to walk up to the house where the kidnapping occurred, instead of waiting down the road with the television crews. I had a sense of gratitude towards our police department for ending the situation peacefully, with no loss of life or injury, with the help of other law enforcement. In this day and age, I think it’s important to express that thanks to our police for using negotiation effectively; in many ways our department is a model for other communities in how to manage community/police relationships.

I was getting ready to take some photos of the house when a family walked in front of my camera. Police Chief David Gregory asked me, “please don’t take photos of them Beth.” That’s when I realized that they were the victims heading back to their home.

My immediate instinct was to respect the request, not only to keep a good relationship with the Berea police, but also because a natural aversion kicked in with snapping a shot of victims who just survived a tragedy. However, it did occur to me what a powerful photo it would have made, with the exhausted family walking back and one of the children skipping along to the house -- in that miraculous way of the young, able to put the trauma completely away for the moment.

I discussed this with Teresa when I returned, the tension between getting powerful coverage as a journalist and respecting the privacy and rights of individuals, especially those who have been traumatized. I wish as a profession we would discuss these types of issues more, since they’re multi-layered and very complicated.

If I had taken a photo of this family, it would have perhaps brought home the tragedy to all of us versus the drama, showed the consequences of violence within a family. Are we silencing or hiding victims in a way that takes away their experiences, when only mug shots of perpetrators show up on the front page? Was my instinctual aversion to violating their privacy really a fear of taking on a very difficult journalistic task, showing the story of the victims with respect and without bringing on unwanted judgment from the community? It’s so difficult to know how media coverage can effect individuals and families, and I probably err on the side of being too conservative, because of my own dread of my writing or editing blowing up somehow. Especially now with social media and the Internet, personal privacy seems to have gone the way of the dinosaurs.

Journalists do have a duty to “go where no one else goes,” not only in terms of being a monitor or check for the government and other institutions, but also to show the true story of every situation. Perhaps by putting the mug shot of Gene Charlton on the front page, and the police officers, I pushed aside the real story -- what the family underwent in those nine hours of hell. The ones who will continue to live those 540 minutes over and over again in their minds, while the rest of us have moved on to the next story.

As with many things, I don’t have answers, only a continual need to ask the questions.

What Do You Know?

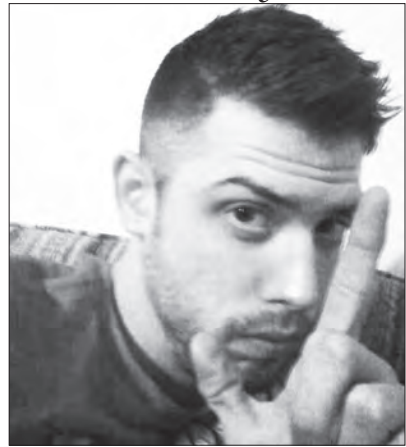

The above photo from Warren Brunner’s archives appears to have been taken in front of the old Middletown School, with Mary Farris speaking in the center. Can you identify anyone else in the photo, or what might have been happening at this time, and when?

RESPONSE TO PHOTO FROM LAST WEEK

In last week’s photo of two Berea policeman, Brenda Tate Lanham identified the old Berea jail on Broadway Street on the same side as the dentist office. Brenda’s father, Owen Tate, who died in 1971, was on the right inside the cell, and Roy Eden was on the left. They were both from Berea. Eden ran a gas station in Berea after serving as an officer. Rhonda Eden also called about Roy, and stated that he died in 2012. There were seven officers on the force at the time, she reported. The two of them estimated that the photo was taken between 1966 and 1969.

Celebrate Hard-Fought Victories, Discuss Ongoing Issues in Pride month

Dear Editor,

Each year in June, the LGBT community and its allies gather for parades and demonstrations around the world to celebrate Pride month.

A significant focus of this month is to reclaim and retell the LGBT community’s often overlooked and unsung history.

This year, we have the pleasure of celebrating the one-year anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court’s marriage equality ruling, which involved many couples from Kentucky, including some with strong Berea roots. The ruling was issued on June 26 of last year.

Exactly 12 years prior, the U.S. Supreme Court issued another significant ruling advancing LGBT equality, maintaining that anti-LGBT sodomy laws were unconstitutional. Lawrence v Texas (2003) was a watershed moment for LGBT rights. Unfortunately, the plaintiffs, Tyrone Garner and John Lawrence, did not live to see the marriage equality ruling, and more unfortunately still, the United States has failed to appropriately respect the legacies of these civil rights icons.

Twelve states have kept these unconstitutional laws on the books, and many police officers still arrest gay and bisexual men under these unconstitutional laws. Situations like this must change. Accordingly, it is critical for us to have conversations about these issues that continue to plague the LGBT community, even in the era of marriage equality.

During the past year, a backlash to the Supreme Court’s ruling has taken hold, and Kentucky and many other southern states have been at the forefront of these developments. For example, Rowan County Clerk Kim Davis caused an international controversy when she refused to issue marriage licenses to same-sex couples. Additionally, the transgender community has been unconscionably targeted by those seeking to roll back hard-fought advances for LGBT equality.

We have seen numerous anti-LGBT hate crimes, censorship campaigns directed at LGBT-themed publications, and setbacks in ensuring that those living with HIV have access to necessary healthcare services. The LGBT community has also witnessed high-profile cases of discrimination in public accommodations as well as the continued mistreatment of LGBT students in our schools.

We should treat LGBT Pride month as an opportunity to discuss the numerous issues facing the LGBT community in the United States and around the world. However, we should also celebrate our hard-fought victories that bend the arc of the moral universe toward justice. We have much to celebrate and much to accomplish.

over 300 Boone family descendants, sponsored the expedition. Their mission is to preserve the legacy of the Boone Family and America’s frontier history, as well as bringing awareness to the Boone Trace Corridor, the historic road stretching from Cumberland Gap to Fort Boonesborough that was constructed by Daniel Boone.

“This expedition is really about education on America’s frontier, and also creating awareness of the Boone Trace,” Cindy Jackson said, who has been traveling as one of the “core riders” of the expedition.

Jackson committed to always sleeping outside, and even when the expedition stayed at Happiness Hills Farms near Big Hill where beds were available, she stayed in the barn. Jackson especially loved the horseback riding; Deer Run Stables in Richmond loaned their horses out for the adventure.

There were some locations where expedition had to travel off of the Boone Trace, either because private property owners didn’t give their permission for the riders to pass through, or because the Trace went along non-passable routes. It was also a very wet journey, Jackson said, reminding them of the harsh conditions that pioneers would have suffered as they traveled westward.

There were fourteen encampment stops during their three-week journey, where the reenactors delivered educational presentations for the public. Communities responded with different levels of enthusiasm, Jackson reported, with Livingston and Berea offering them some of the warmer welcomes.

On Thursday, May 26, the group set up education stations at Happiness Hills Farm, with a barn dance that evening. They planned a parade earlier, but had to cancel because of weather. They continued those education stations on Friday.

“The purpose of this journey is to bring awareness to the need to preserve America’s frontier history,” a press release of the expedition stated, “the importance of the westward movement, and its impact on the Euro American and native peoples, and the skills necessary to survive on the frontier. Campfire presentations, live fire demonstrations of long rifles and the music of frontier fiddling are all planned activities for the event.”

Two highlights were speakers Mark Sage, representing the frontiersmen, and Rusty Cottrell as “Shawnee Chief Black Hoof” representing the native American culture. They both spoke on Friday.

nities that wanted new schools. In Madison County, Taylor convinced the Board of Education to consolidate the Berea, Middletown, and Farristown colored school districts and build a four-room school on the Berea College land with Rosenwald and other funds.

Taylor was responsible for insuring that new schools met the standards for sanitation, lighting, ventilation, and landscaping set by Rosenwald’s design experts, including Robert R. Taylor, the Tuskegee-based MIT graduate who is regarded as the nation’s first professionally trained African American architect. By the time the school at Berea was being planned, Taylor’s 1915 Rosenwald architectural handbook had been supplanted by later editions.

Officially dedicated on December 8, 1927, the Rosenwald school at Berea was a one-and-a-half-story, rectangular building with brick veneer and centrally-placed entrances on the main facade and the gable ends. Featuring three classrooms and a community room on the first floor, it appears to have been based largely on Community School Floor Plan No. 30 from the handbook called Community School Plans.

A large folding door between the two rear classrooms was built to be opened to create a large space for special events like plays and commencement ceremonies. Each room on the first floor was fitted with bookshelves whose volumes comprised the school’s library. From the beginning, the modern brick schoolhouse was equipped with electric lights and drinking water. This school included a concrete-floored basement, unusual for a Rosenwald school, where the manual training and home economics classes were held.

Other features of the Middletown Consolidated School came to typify Rosenwald schools of this period, and ultimately progressive school architecture in general. These included exterior decoration limited to a few eave braces suggestive of the Mission Style and a central entrance protected by a projecting gable porch roof. Also typical were the batteries of tall, double-hung sash windows that maximized natural lighting and circulation; the building was oriented to insure that windows faced either east or west. Cloakrooms were designed to safeguard classroom hygiene as was the inclusion of two four-seat sanitary pit privies. Along with a playground, the privies were required for all Rosenwald schools.

Middletown Consolidated not only functioned as a school, it served as an important social center for the African American community. Many Madison County residents still identify the school’s teachers as important community leaders.

Middletown Consolidated School closed in 1963 when local schools were integrated. The building was used for a few years to house a Head Start program and a community center, but then it sat vacant for nearly forty years. In 2007 it was rehabilitated to serve as the headquarters of Gear Up, a federal program administered by Berea College to help low-income middle school students complete high school and pursue higher education.

Few changes were made to the exterior of the historic school, but the interior underwent a number of modifications. Most of the interior walls were reconfigured; all of the cloakrooms were removed; an elevator and bathroom were added; and the basement was entirely remodeled. The original folding door between the classrooms on the first level was retained, as was one of the privies.

In 2014 two, one-story brick structures were erected immediately to the rear of the school to house expanding program spaces. In 2007 the Bluegrass Trust for Historic Preservation included the Middletown rehabilitation project on its “Positive Preservation in the Bluegrass List.”

PUBLIC NOTICE

KRS 424.330 permits cities to publish a list of uncollected delinquent property taxes by listing the names of the delinquent taxpayers and the amount due. The 2015 list of delinquent taxpayers will be published in the Thursday, June 9, 2016 edition of the Berea Citizen. The current list is available for inspection at the Finance Office, 200 Harrison RD and on the City’s website: <http://bereaky.gov> To avoid publication of your information, payments must be received before 4:00pm on Monday, June 6, 2016. The City will assess an additional fee of $5.00 on the tax bill of the delinquent taxpayer for publication costs if not paid by June 6, 2016.

For questions, please contact the Finance office at 859-986-7218.

people, and all will pick up the energy, partly because of the creative process,” Clarence shares.

The 22-acre piece of land Vicky and Clarence own is now devoted to that very process as they use their own resources and talents to give back to Berea’s unique arts community. The couple agrees that there is no other place like Berea where there is such a dense population of artistic folk and crafts-people.

“It is difficult to make a living as an artist, and we have made a lot of sacrifices for our own art. Being around other artists by giving them access to our workspace twice a week lets us give back as there are not many studios that you can just walk into,” states Vicky.

This mission helped spark the Bobtown Arts classes that the Hayes’s schedule in the studio they built from the ground up. Whether beginners, intermediate, or even graduates from Berea College with a degree in the arts, all are welcome to stop by for a class and enjoy the motivating setting. Knowing personally how difficult it is to hone one’s craft when in between degrees, or without space to work in of their own, Clarence and Vicky wanted it to be known that artists could find a sanctuary at their home.

The sessions are held on Wednesdays, and are $25 along with open studio time on Saturdays. One hundred percent of the proceeds go to the nonprofit to keep Bobtown Arts alive, and all who work there are volunteers with a passion for ceramics.

Clarence says, “We are not a commercial pottery place. Education and human beings are our product. We are in the business of helping people become better artists and see the importance of the community and healing aspects of the arts.”

The couple loves that people are constantly coming and going from their home; they dedicate their lives to those who love the arts just as much as they do. Their interests are not confined just to pottery wheel classes: they have dreams to utilize their acreage and make their area a stopover for painters and musicians to hold sessions as well.

For now, the classes are purposefully small but the Hayes’s welcome anyone interested in attending the classes, which will be held all summer and beyond if interest continues to build.

“[It is] marvelous to stay connected to the Berea art community both physically and on a personal level. It’s a great thing to be around that energy of creativity and artistry,” Vicky said.

Pottery classes are held 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesdays for beginning and intermediate for $25 and they provide open studio on Saturdays at 132 Smith Lane off of Highway 1016 in Berea.

Artists Invited to Submit for Chair Exhibit

Kentucky artists are invited to submit entries for the exhibit “Have a Seat: Chairs by Kentucky Artisans” which will run from Sept. 17, 2016 through Feb. 25, 2017, at the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea.

Each year the Kentucky Artisan Center develops and presents several special exhibits to showcase works by Kentucky artisans. These exhibits focus on a specific medium, theme, technique, or subject and often include artists and works not regularly on display at the center.

The center’s “Have a Seat” exhibit will showcase an array of chairs made from any material or in any medium. Artists can also re-purpose an existing chair to create a new work. Chairs can be functional or non-functional, but should be recognizable as a 3-dimensional chair form. Chairs can be tiny or large, but not to exceed 4 feet in height and 3 feet in width. Both innovative and traditional chairs are sought for this exhibit.

Information about the exhibit and entry information are available on the center’s website. You can also request an entry form and prospectus by calling 859-985-5448. The deadline for entry is July 2, 2016.

County Clerk’s Office Relocating Next Week

With the expansion of the new Berea City Hall building, the Madison County Clerk’s Berea branch office will be relocating.

As of June 10, the Berea branch will be located in the rear of the Municipal Building, also known as the “Old Post Office” at 304 Chestnut St. The new location will offer convenient parking, while allowing us to provide the same level of services at a new location.

The branch office will be closed all day June 10 to complete the move. The Richmond Office will remain open to serve our citizens. After June 10, the Berea office will resume normal business hours of Monday – Friday 8 a.m. – 4:30 p.m.

Please feel free to contact the Madison County Clerk’s Office at 859-624-4703 #2 if you have questions. We are open, Monday-Friday from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

excited, since Berea Community is only the third team from Kentucky to ever place at Destination Imagination Global. Destination Imagination (DI) is a worldwide nonprofit that strives to foster creativity, courage, and curiosity in students. Most of the international DI teams are sponsored by either public or private schools, but some are sponsored by private organization such as the Girl Scouts.

“The opening ceremony is like the Olympics, where you walk in under the flag of your country, and people wear the costumes from their culture,” Mondine said.

DI teams must have a minimum of three members, and a maximum of seven. They are judged as much by their teamwork as their creative solutions to presented problems. If one of the members dominates, or if certain team members do not contribute, they will lose points.

“I’m not allowed to help at all,” Mondine said. “I can ask open-ended questions, and I help with logistics like purchasing supplies or setting up speakers, but this is completely student driven.”

The students have two challenges at competition. One is a team challenge, which they work on all year and then present to the judges. The other is an instant challenge, where they have approximately five minutes to create a solution. Their global team challenge was the same as the one they faced at state competition, where they had to create a skit.

“The neat thing about Destination Imagination is all around the world, they are facing the exact same challenge,” Mondine said. “They want the students to be competing on the same level.”

When the Berea team went to their instant challenge at DI Global, they were faced with a ramp with sides, blue tape that was placed around it, and 30 dowel rods. Judges told them to build a structure with the dowel rods – no tape, glue, or other connecting material provided – within the blue taped section, that did not touch the ramp. The kicker? There were marbles in a trough they had to release on the ramp upon completion, and they lost points for every marble that was able to get past the structure and roll off the ramp. They gained points, however, if they used less than 15 dowel rods for the solution. They had five minutes to complete it.

“They create such wild and crazy situations,” Mondine said, who was sitting off to the side where she couldn’t see her students. “But they used less than 15 dowel rods, and no marbles went past.

YARD SALE

I think this will be a great event this year.”

Judy and Randy are now working with Pamela Briggs from Weaverville, N.C., who’s coordinating the event from the east. They would still like a coordinator from Tennessee, to build up the yard sales in those towns on Highway 25.

“There’s some long stretches in Tennessee where there aren’t any yard sales,” Coffey said. “If we can’t get something going, we may have to close sections off.”

For Coffey, the main premise of the event is to get people off the Interstate, and driving from town to town on the old highway. It’s an economic development event so that people will visit the restaurants and other attractions while driving from yard sale to yard sale.

Kentucky has the largest participation for the US 25 yard sale, with participating towns almost the whole way through. Coffey reported that Corbin has really developed the event, along with London and Rockcastle County, which really “killed it”. Berea itself has over 20 individual yard sales along US 25, with many of them held by multiple families or church groups. Other smaller towns like Rocky Top and LaFollette in Tennessee have also been on

“It seems like the smaller community do a better job,” Coffey said.

The Facebook page is www.facebook.com/U.S.25Yardsale.

“My favorite part is getting to meet people and make friends,” Coffey said. “I never served in the military, and I always felt bad about that, so this is my way to give back to the community. It’s been really rewarding work.”

Other events happening this weekend in Berea;

- Join the community block party, First Friday, on June 3 in Old Town Artisan Village. The party will begin at 5 p.m. with live music, art and craft vendors, food vendors, the Farmers Market, and shops staying open late. Things will wrap up around 10 p.m. with a special fire dancing performance.

- The 17th Annual L & N Day will take place this Saturday, June 4 at the old Berea Depot/Welcoming Center. The Depot will be filled up with model train exhibits, storytelling, railroad items from lanterns to pocket watches. The event will go from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

- The 9th Annual

Blast from the Past Car Show will take place on Saturday at the Russell Acton Folk Center from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The Berea Volunteer Fire Department hosts this event as a fundraiser every year.

- The 4th Annual Chase for the Championship 5K Run/Walk is scheduled this Saturday at Madison Southern High School. This fundraiser for the Southern football team will take registrations at 7 a.m., and the race will begin at 8 a.m.

- The first ever George Oberst community Bike Ride will take place on Sunday, June 5, and will also serve as a celebration of the 40 anniversary of the TransAmerica bike trail. Meet at the Berea Welcoming Center in Old Town at 3 p.m. to explore Berea’s portion of the TransAmerica.

INSPECTION PERIOD FOR THE MADISON COUNTY PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL
 JUNE 6, 2016 THROUGH JUNE 20, 2016 *****
MONDAY THROUGH FRIDAY 8:00 AM - 4:00 PM
SATURDAY 8:00 AM - 12:00 PM

The Madison County real property tax roll will be opened for inspection from June 6 through June 20, 2016. Under the supervision of the Property Valuation Administrator or one of the deputies, any person may inspect the tax roll. This is the January 1, 2016, assessment on which state, county, and school taxes for 2016 will be due about October 1, 2016. The tax roll is in the office of the property valuation administrator in the Madison County Courthouse Annex and may be inspected June 6 through June 20, 2016, Monday through Friday between the hours of 8:00 AM and 4:00 PM, and Saturday 8:00 AM to 12:00 PM by appointment.

Any taxpayer desiring to appeal an assessment on real property made by the PVA must first request a conference with the PVA or a designated deputy. The conference may be held prior to or during the inspection period. After the conference with the PVA or designated deputy, any taxpayer still aggrieved by an assessment on real property may appeal to the county board of assessment appeals. The taxpayer can appeal his assessment by filing in person or sending a letter or other written petition stating the reasons for appeal, identifying the property and stating the taxpayer's opinion of the fair cash value of the property. The appeal must be received in the Madison County Clerk's office no later than one work day following the conclusion of the inspection period (June 21, 2016). A taxpayer failing to appeal to the county board of assessment appeals, or failing to appear before the board, either in person or by designated representative, will not be eligible to appeal directly to the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals.

Appeals of personal property assessments shall not be made to the county board of assessment appeals. Personal property taxpayers shall be served notice under the provisions of KRS 132.450(4) and shall have the protest and appeal rights granted under the provisions of KRS 131.110. The following steps should be taken when a taxpayer does not agree with the assessed value of personal property as determined by the Property Valuation Administrator: (1) He must list under protest (for certification) what he believes to be the fair cash value of his property. (2) He must file a written protest directly with the Department of Revenue, Office of Property Valuation within 30 days from the date of the notice of assessment. (3) This protest must be in accordance with KRS 131.110 (4) The final decision of the Department of Revenue may be appealed to the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals.

ABSOLUTE
Auction

Anglin Family Properties

68.95 Acre Farm ~ 11.5 Acres ~ Houses

Saturday, June 11th at 10:30 a.m.

Near Berea, Ky.

All properties to be sold at Sale 1 site

Directions: From intersection of Chestnut St. & US 25. Follow 25 south approx. 1.3 miles to the property.

SALE 1: 68.95 acres m/l

The heirs of the late B.F. (Benny) Anglin have authorized our firm to sell this property at absolute auction.

This farm consists of 68.95 acres of which mostly is cleared crop and pasture land. The property fronts along US Hwy 25 with over 1400' and 863' along Haiti Rd. This property will be sold as a whole and not tracted. This property is set up for an ideal farming opportunity located close to town with a lot of development in the area. It is improved with an older 1 1/2 story frame house. The house has living room, large kitchen, 2 bedrooms, bath and enclosed back porch on the first floor, and two bedrooms upstairs. In addition to the house, there are barns and a shed. All improvements are in need of repairs.

SALE 2: 11.5 acres m/l

This tract consists of 11.5 acres of which all is woodland, recreational type property. The property is located on the west side of Interstate 75. This tract is landlocked and does not have access. There is a family cemetery on the property.
Property will be sold subject the cemetery being reserved.

SALE 3: House & Lot

532 Mt. Vernon Rd., Berea (US Hwy 25). This property is owned by two of the grandchildren of the late Mr. Anglin. This property is referred to as lot 39 of Plat Book 1, Page 28 recorded in the Madison County Clerk's office. Having 50' of frontage along Hwy 25. This tract is improved with a frame house with living room, kitchen, 2 bedrooms and bath. It has Masonite siding and shingle roof. The house is in need of repairs.

SALE 4: House & Lot

313 East Haiti Rd., Berea. This property is owned by the late Mr. Anglin's daughter.
This property consists of 6/10 acre and has creek frontage. It fronts Haiti Road and has city water. The exterior is aluminum siding and has a metal roof. The house consists of a living room, kitchen, 2 bedrooms, utility room, and bath. In addition to the house, there is a detached garage and tool shed. The house is in need of repairs.

Auctioneer's Note: Here is a rare opportunity to buy farmland with an abundance of potential less than 1 1/2 miles from town.

Note: None of the tracts will be offered together, all will be sold individually.

Note: The purchaser of any single-family residence built before 1978 has a period of ten days to inspect the property for the presence of lead based paint. The inspection period is June 1st through June 10th. The successful bidder must sign a waiver of the 10-day post-inspection period.

Buyer's Premium: A 10% Buyer's Premium will be added the winning bid to determine final sales price.

Terms: 20% down day of sale with balance due within 30 days with deed.

Satterthwaite & Galloway Win 2015/2016 Berea Championship Series

Nick Galloway and Wendy Satterthwaite were the winners in the men's and women's categories in the Berea Championship Series. Galloway and Satterthwaite accumulated the most points in the 2015-16 four-race series which included the Madison Southern Chase for the Championship 5K, the Spoonbread 5K, the Jingle Bell Run, and the Berea Police 10K. The second place winners were Zane Isaacs and Mary Robert Garrett, and third place champions were Scottie Frederiksen and Elaine Davis.

The 2015/2016 Berea Championship Series was presented by the Berea Parks and Recreation Department, Berea Tourism and the Berea Police Department. The series includes established road races of varying distances. Runners eligible for the Berea Championship awards may participate in any or all of the four legs, but they must enter and finish at least two races in the series.

Participants of the series receive a series race shirt, and the top three official men and women champions receive a Berea Championship Series medal and a special prize package.

Planning for the 2016/2017 Berea Championship Series is underway. The Madison Southern High School Chase for the Championship 5K Run/Walk and 1 Mile Fun Run will take place this Saturday, June 4, at 8 a.m. It will kick-off the series. Chase for the Championship information and registration may be found at active.com.

The Spoonbread 5K will not take place this year. The two new races are the Berea Chamber of Commerce sponsored 5K in the fall and the CASA sponsored 5K in March. Series details and registration are available at www.visitberea.com/berea-championship-series.

Wendy Satterthwaite, above, and Nick Galloway, left, with Berea Tourism Director Kerri Hensley, were the first place winners in the 2015/2016 Berea Championship Series. They accumulated the most points in the four races organized this past year. The new Championship series begins this Saturday, with Madison Southern's Chase for the Championship 5K Run/Walk and one mile fun run. Series details and registration are available at www.visitberea.com/berea-championship-series.

Word From Berea Streets

"What are your plans for the summer of 2016?"

Arthur Lewis said, "I plan a whole lot of work this summer at Hitachi. And I'll be training for an obstacle course competition."

Dustin Hisel said, "I plan on going fishing, creek swimming, four-wheeling and packing a whole lot of mail."

Gerald Price said, "I'll be getting ready for the big Berea Craft Festival in July, by stocking up on my metal work!"

Health Insurance Companies in Kentucky Ask State for Rate Increases Averaging 17 Percent

Health insurers are requesting rate increases averaging 22.3 percent in 2017 for individual policies in Kentucky.

Counting small-group plans, the overall increase would be 17 percent, "continuing a national trend of hefty hikes as insurers adapt to a market reshaped by President Barack Obama's signature health care law," Adam Beam reports for The Associated Press.

"But the rate increases, if approved by state regulators, do not guarantee double-digit increases in the monthly premiums people have to pay," Beam said. "The base rate is one of many factors companies use to determine how much someone pays in a monthly premium. Other factors include age, where a person lives and whether the person smokes."

The average requested increases for individual policies range from 7.6 percent for Aetna Health Inc. to 33.7 percent for Louisville-based Humana Inc., which reported recently that it was losing money on Obamacare plans and is working on a merger with Aetna (to which Missouri objected this week).

Baptist Health Plan is requesting 26.68 percent more, Anthem Health Plans with 22.9 percent more, and CareSource with 20.55 percent more, all on average.

"The Department of Insurance will fully investigate all proposed rate increase requests to make sure they are warranted," Kentucky Commissioner Brian Maynard said. "Insurance rate increases are not specific to Kentucky; states across the nation are dealing with this issue."

The department said some of the rate increases "appear to be attributed to the failure of the Kentucky Health Cooperative Inc.," a non-profit that was created under the reform law to provide more competition, but then was not fully funded by Congress.

"The co-op went bankrupt and was placed into liquidation earlier this year, leaving other insurance companies to cover the more than 51,000 former co-op customers," the department noted. "Many of those customers were high-risk, and Kentucky's remaining insurers appear to project that those high-risk customers will affect the risk pool."

Anthem spokesman Mark Robinson told AP that the expectation of insuring co-op customers was responsible for its rate request.

UnitedHealth Group Inc. said recently that it would stop selling exchange policies in Kentucky, leaving many counties with only one insurer on the exchange. The only company that seeks to sell individual policies statewide is Anthem. It will be the only choice on the exchange in 54 counties.

However, Indianapolis-based Golden Rule Insurance Co., a United subsidiary, will sell "in all counties, off the exchange," the department said. Golden Rule, which still won't sell exchange policies, is seeking a rate increase of 65 percent.

Anthem, Aetna and Baptist will also offer non-exchange policies. Aetna plans to sell in only tencounties. Baptist will sell in 38 counties off the exchange and 20 on the exchange. Humana will sell on the exchange in nine counties and off the exchange in nine. CareSource will sell in 61 counties, all on the exchange.

Consumers in Fayette, Jefferson and Oldham counties will have five insurers to choose from on the exchange. Jessamine, Woodford, Bullitt, Henry, Madison and Trimble counties will have four, which include Aetna, Anthem, Baptist Health, and Care Source. Thirteen counties will have three choices, and 44 will have two.

Rates must be approved within 60 days of each filing, or no later than July 11. The administration of Gov. Matt Bevin is dismantling the Kynect health-insurance exchange and will use the federal exchange, HealthCare.gov, as a portal for enrollment.

Johnsen Receives Masters of Science in Nursing

Kristin Eckerle Johnsen graduated from Eastern Kentucky University with high honors and a 4.0 GPA on May 13 with a masters of science in nursing as a family nurse practitioner. Kristin was a 2006 graduate of Berea Community High School and the recipient of the Beverly Hamilton Moran Scholarship. She graduated from Midway College in 2010, and received her bachelor's degree from Indiana Wesleyan University in 2013. She maintained a 4.0 GPA throughout her high school and college career. Kristin is the wife of Michael Johnsen, the daughter of Kimberly Kirby of Berea and John Eckerle of Somerset. She is the granddaughter of Elsie Kirby and the late Kenneth Kirby.

Bartruff Receives Full Scholarship to UK

Taylor Paige Bartruff, a 2016 graduate of Rockcastle County High School, was this year's recipient of the Legacy Scholarship presented by the Robinson Scholar Program through the University of Kentucky. This scholarship is a four-year, full ride to attend UK. The Legacy Scholarship is awarded based on academic achievement, community service work, extra-curricular activity involvement, and fulfillment of the scholarship panel requirements. Taylor plans to attend medical school after receiving her undergraduate degree. Once she obtains her M.D., she hopes to become an ob/gyn and eventually open her own practice. Taylor is the daughter of Tonya Carl of Mt. Vernon and Gary Bartruff of Berea.

Berea College Joins USA South Conference

Berea College has been accepted to begin the process of full membership within the USA South Athletic Conference College. Berea, which is transitioning from NAIA to NCAA Division III status, will begin USA South play during the 2017-18 academic year.

Berea College currently offer seven men's sports, baseball, basketball, cross country, golf, soccer, tennis, track and field; and seven women's sports, basketball, cross country, soccer, softball, tennis, track and field, and volleyball.

Mark Cartmill, director of athletics, said, "I am extremely excited for Berea College athletics to be joining the USA South. It provides an opportunity for our student athletes to compete against athletes from outstanding institutions."

Online Renewal for License Plates Available

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet increased the number of license plates available for online renewal to 85. Citizens can renew all group and organization special plates, most military plates, all University and Independent College plates, trailer plates and recreational vehicle license plates online. The motorcycle and personalized plate versions within these same categories will also be available for online renewal. To use the online renewal service, a debit card will be needed and the vehicle property taxes must be current. Title number, plate number, and proof of current insurance will be needed to complete the process. After the online renewal is completed, registration credentials are mailed to the motorist's current address. To renew vehicle plates online, visit the link on the Madison County Clerks Website: www.madison-countyclerk.us or www.drive.ky.gov. For questions, please call the Madison County Motor Vehicle Department at 624-4703 #1.

Reed Awarded Power of Life Scholarship

Ariel Reed of Berea received the $500 Power of Life Scholarship from the Kentucky Blood Center. Reed, a graduating senior from Madison Southern High School, plans to attend Eastern Kentucky University in the fall. Since 2010, Kentucky Blood Center (KBC) has awarded more than 500 scholarships to Kentucky high schools that host blood drives. The school earns the award based on the number of donations at blood drives hosted by the school. This school year 100 high schools hosted nearly 300 blood drives and more than $70,000 in scholarships have been awarded to the schools to present to worthy students for their continued education. Power of Life scholarships are awarded each school year based on the units of blood donated at blood drives that each high school or vocational school sponsors. Schools can receive up to a one-time scholarship worth up to $3,000. The schools determine the scholarship recipients, and KBC pays the scholarship directly to the establishment of higher education.

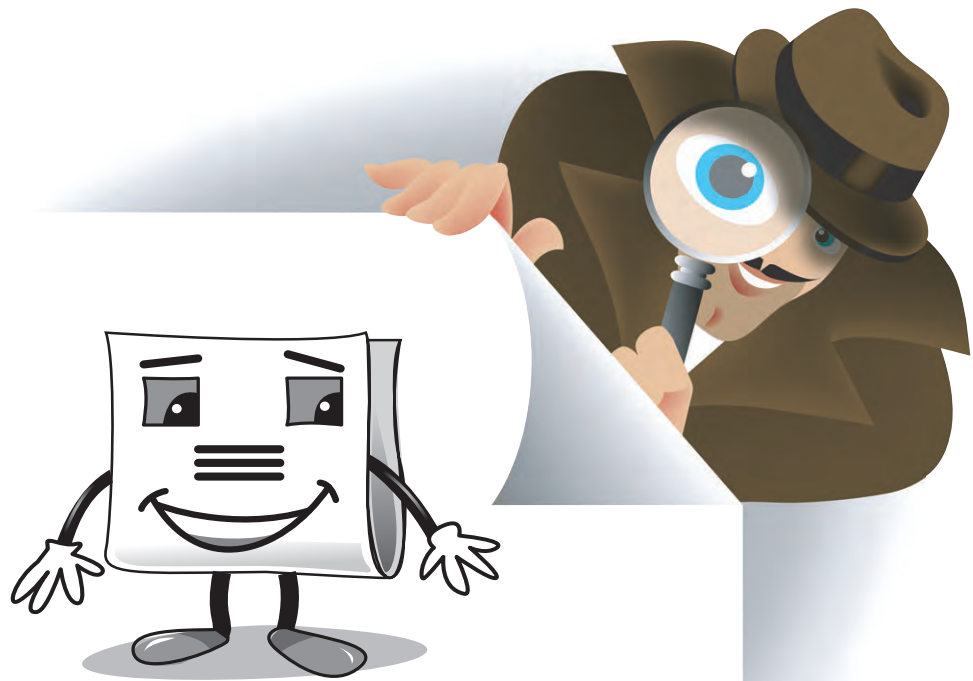

American Heart Association Recognizes Madison County EMS

Madison County EMS has received the American Heart Association's Mission: Lifeline® EMS Gold Award for implementing quality improvement measures for the treatment of patients who experience severe heart attacks. "Madison County EMS is dedicated to making our service among the best in the country, and the American Heart Association's Mission: Lifeline program is helping us accomplish that by implementing processes for improving systems of care with the goal of improving the quality of care for all acute coronary syndrome patients," said Carlos B. Coyle, EMS Director. "We are pleased to be recognized for our dedication and achievements in emergency medical care for all cardiac patients." Every year, more than 250,000 people experience an ST elevation myocardial infarction (STEMI) the most deadly type of heart attack caused by a blockage of blood flow to the heart that requires timely treatment. To prevent death, it's critical to restore blood flow as quickly as possible, either by mechanically opening the blocked vessel or by providing clot-busting medication. Unfortunately, a significant number of patients don't receive this prompt therapy, which is critical in restoring blood flow. "EMTs and paramedics play a vital part in the system of care for those who have heart attacks," said James Jollis, M.D., Chair of the Mission: Lifeline Advisory Working Group. "Since they often are the first medical point of contact, they can shave precious minutes of life-saving treatment time by activating the emergency response system that alerts hospitals. We applaud Madison County EMS for achieving this award that shows it meets evidence-based guidelines in the treatment of people who have severe heart attacks."

AT 113 DILLON COURT, BEREA, KY 40403 OF HOUSE AND LOT
113 DILLON COURT, BEREA, KY 40403

This is a nice three bedroom home on city water and city sewer. It is well located in a quiet neighborhood. It consists of a living room, kitchen, three bedrooms, and two baths. This property is considered suitable for the Rural Development Housing Program. This would be an excellent buy for an investor interested in rental property or for resale after minor repairs.

An open house will be held on June 21, 2016 from 10:00 am – 11:00 am.

The minimum acceptable bid for this property is $18,760.00.

Payments of the current year's property taxes are the responsibility of the purchaser.

Clear title to this property is not warranted. The U.S. Marshal's Deed is not a general warranty deed. Buyers are advised to have the property's title examined. Written notification regarding encumbrances on the property must be made to the Nicholasville Rural Development Office within 30 days.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on June 21, 2016, at 11:00 AM, at 113 Dillon Court, Berea, Kentucky, in order to raise the principal sum of $108,782.82, with accrued interest of $5,316.91 through April 1, 2014, with total subsidy granted of $4,606.16, with late charges in the amount of $40.17, and with fees assessed of $2,662.53, for a total unpaid balance due of $121,408.59. Interest is accruing on the unpaid principal balance at the rate of $12.2102 per day after April 1, 2014, until the date of entry of the Judgment, plus interest on the Judgment amount, (principal plus interest to the date of Judgment plus the interest credit subsidy granted) at the rate of 0.36%, computed daily and compounded annually, until paid in full and for the costs of this action, pursuant to Judgment and Order of Sale, being Civil Action No. 5:14-cv-00410-JMH on the Lexington Division of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky, entered on August 18, 2015, in the case of United States of America vs. JOSHUA M. Finding Solace in Times of Grief

Shelf Notes Ruthie Maslin, Madison Co. Library "Grief does not change you, Hazel. It reveals you." - John Green, The Fault in Our Stars

As I worked in my yard this past Monday, a persistent, yet familiar sound followed me wherever I went. It was the song of what I call my "Rootie Bird." It goes, "Roo-tie, Roo-tie." It's special to me because my beloved grandma, Bambo, always called me Rootie, and she always used that exact intonation when she said it. She had the most beautiful voice I have ever heard, full and rich when she sang, and warm and full of sunshine when she spoke. I had never heard the song of the Rootie Bird until after she passed away a few years back. She was such an important person in my life that her loss devastated me. I kept wanting to reach out and grab her hand, feel that connection I had had with her my entire life. It was in my lowest moment that I first heard it. At first, I thought it was a trick of grief - why would a bird be calling out my name? But my skepticism quickly uncovered a whole new level of sadness and loss, and eventually it grew into comfort and closure. Now, whenever I am working in the yard, my bird calls out, "Roo-tie," and I always think, "Hi, Bambo." My love for her remains undiminished, and my grief at her loss just as powerful. But it comes less frequently now, and my little bird helps me feel connected to her. She was a great lover of flower gardens and birds, and she saw the handiwork of God in all of nature. Those shared beliefs and shared joys sustain me. So it did not surprise me - especially on Memorial Day - that my Rootie Bird would be encouraging me as I pulled weeds and clipped branches. But it got me thinking about all of those we have lost. I have lost three good friends - one who was also a co-worker - in the past couple of months. And Berea has lost some amazing people recently. Although those losses impact us to varying degrees, as a community, we are in a state of grief in many ways. As many of you know, the Madison County Public Library has been grieving the loss of one of our own library family. It somehow seems fitting that some bit of solace come to us in that most familiar of forms - books. Our wonderful library friend Carla Baumann suggested two books she had recently checked out of the library. When Breath Becomes Air has been on the New York Times bestseller list for the past five months. It was written by Dr. Paul Kalanithi, a 36-year-old neurosurgeon diagnosed with stage 4 lung cancer. As he faced his impending death, he wrote profoundly about some of the biggest questions we confront as humans - what makes life worth living in the face of death? What does it mean to have a child, to nurture a new life as another fades away? The book is available in print and audio at the library. The second of Carla's suggestions was also written by a surgeon, Dr. Atul

Gawande. In Being Mortal: Medicine and What Matters in the End, Gawande examines how death and dying are dealt with in the medical profession. From the book jacket: "Riveting, honest, and humane, Being Mortal shows that the ultimate goal is not a good death but a good life - all the way to the very end." This book is available from the Madison County Public Library in a variety of formats, including eBook and eAudio, print and regular audio. Another great library friend, Pam Corley, has gifted the library with a title that also seems appropriate in this time of grief. Awake at the Bedside: Contemplative Teachings on Palliative and End-of-Life Care, edited by Koshin Paley Ellison and Matt Weingast, is a collection of writings by pioneers of palliative and end-of-life care as well as doctors, chaplains, caregivers and even poets offer wisdom that will challenge, uplift, comfort—and change the way we think about death, according to the book jacket. "This book isn't about dying. It's about life and what life has to teach us. It's about caring and what giving care really means." We'll catalog this title and have it available in the next week or so. John Green's quote at the beginning of this column is so apt: Grief doesn't change us, it reveals us. And in these past months of dealing with so many losses, grief has revealed so much about this town to me. Berea is a community. Despite differences, Bereans come together in times of need and stand side by side to comfort and strengthen each other. I think that is quite beautiful. I'm glad the Madison County Public Library is a part of that community. I'll see you here soon!

FROM THE BEREA CITIZEN ARCHIVES APRIL 1966

The students making the Berea Junior High School Star Roll (straight A's) in seventh grade in April 1966 were Shearle Furnish, David Bess, Steve Clark, and Jane York; and in eighth grade, the honor students were Ruth Barton, Brenda Croucher, Robin Tinch, Retha Anglin, and Connie Anderson.

Students making the Junior High School Honor Roll (average B or better) in seventh grade were Jay Anderson, Bradley Arnett, Becky Botkin, Teresa Caudill, Beverly Cummins, Alice Curtis, Judy Engle, Donna Estridge, Robin Hamilton, Kathy Pingleton, James Rowlette, Swecia Webb, Connie Bowman, Linda Cain, Vicky French, Dolores Hazelwood, Daphne Moore, Paula Jo Neeley, Sandra Sander, Dale Whiteford, and Brenda Wyatt; in eighth grade they were Paula Bowman, Kent Clark, Linda Crawford, Scarlet Lake, Linda Lunsford, Mario Mieres, Jackie White, Bobby Green Mike Fothergill, Donna

Moore, Brenda Owens, Kay Wood, Patsy Cox, Darlene Barrett, Pam Baker, and Phillip Malicote.

A united Parent-Teacher Association for Knapp Hall and Berea City Schools was organized. New officers were Norris Woodie, president; Louise Hart, vice-president; Leigh Jones, secretary; and Thurman Calico, treasurer.

The two retiring presidents were Bob May from Knapp Hall and Lewis Botkin from the city school.

Rotary Club Awards Scholarships, Hosts Speakers From EMS and Coroner

During the month of May, the Berea Rotary Club was busy with informative speakers as well as its traditional Election Day pancake breakfast.

The breakfast is a major fundraiser, and the money goes towards $500 scholarships for outstanding seniors from Berea Community and Madison Southern High Schools.

This year's award winners were announced by Rotary member Charles Hoffman during graduation ceremonies at the respective schools. From Berea Community, the scholarship winners were Nick Carpenter, Jordan Carter, Huaiyu Chen, Allie Maynard, Deondre Michael Tate, Della Walters, and Emma White. From Madison Southern, scholarship winners were Chris Everitt, Sierra Brooke Fish, Samantha Haik, Briana Lanham, Kyla Madison Owens, Caitlin Renee Whitcomb, and Adrianah Brooke Willis.

Two speakers in May were Jimmy Cornelison, the Madison County Coroner, and Carlos Coyle, director of Madison County EMS. Both men provided an historical background of their services along with an update on current issues. A common thread of concern is the number of heroin overdoses and deaths. Both Cornelison and Coyle, however, described areas of success and improvement with respect to facilities and interactions with other agencies to address problems over the years.

The District Assistant Governor Willie Walker Thompson of the Richmond Club provided Berea members with dates for important future events, such as the 2017 Rotary International Meeting in Atlanta, Ga.

Upcoming speakers for the local club include Tara Bellando of Promenade Gallery and Carla Baumann of Crazy Eight Stock Farm. In June members will be traveling to New York City, after which President Truman Fields will make a report as he turns the gavel over to Kellie McClure for the 2016-17 year.

Rotary President Truman Fields stands with Rotary scholarship award winner, Briana Lanham, from Madison Southern.

Chamber Director Asks Mayor for Apology

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

"I think the Chamber and our citizens are due an apology," Chamber Director David Rowlette said at the city council meeting on Tuesday, after showing photos of an imitation General Lee car at the Blast from the Past show this past Saturday, and small model General Lees that were sold at L & N Day.

"I wasn't able to make it to the events," Rowlette said, "but my phone was blown up from people calling me. People weren't bothered by what they witnessed or saw there, but the double standard that is being openly done here in our community."

Earlier this year, Mayor Steve Connelly informed the Berea Chamber of Commerce that they needed to forbid the sale of Confederate memorabilia at the Spoonbread Festival in the fall, in order to hold the festival on city property.

The Spoonbread Festival was then cancelled by the chamber, whose board cited safety concerns because of the protests.

Three city buildings on Chestnut Street were demolished on Tuesday, including the old service station, the house where the Berea Food Bank was housed, and the building for the Berea Police detectives. The new Berea Police and Fire Station will be built in the space, and will connect to the renovated city hall. The Berea Food Bank has already been moved into the old sewer commission building, and the Madison County Clerk's office will move to the municipal building this Friday.

In Surprise Move, Council Approves AMP - Ohio For Power Purchasing Contract

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

In a surprise move, the Berea City Council ended almost two years of discussion on whom to purchase power from on Tuesday evening, when council member Jerry Little made a motion to enter into a five-year contract with AMP - Ohio (American Municipal Power). The council approved it by a 6-2 vote.

The vote had not been placed on the agenda, though Little had requested time to speak on the issue. AMP - Ohio was one of the four bidders on Berea's power purchasing contract, and Little said the agency met most of the council's criteria.

"We worked down to two bidders," Little said, "KU and AMP-Ohio . . . we asked the consultant to work up a price of what it would cost in 2019. The results we got were savings of approximately $1.4 million a year with the new contract."

Council member Chester Powell questioned the vote, stating that they still hadn't heard from KyMEA (Kentucky Municipal Electric Agency). Berea Municipal Utility Director Ed Fortner recommended joining KyMEA after the City of Berea cancelled their contract with KU (Kentucky Utilities) two years ago - a contract that will end in 2019. KyMEA was recently organized by the municipal utilities in Kentucky.

All council members voted to sign a contract with AMP - Ohio except for Powell and Chad Hembree. Hembree said he did not know that Little would be proposing a vote on the purchase power issue.

"I committed to my constituents that we would have a public forum so they could give feedback on the decision," Hembree said. "I voted against AMP - Ohio because I wanted to give them a chance to give their opinion."

Tourism May Quit Giving Community Grants To Focus on Sponsorships

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Berea Tourism may be getting out of the grant making business, and getting into the sponsorship of local activities and organizations instead.

The tourism commissioners discussed such a transition at their work session on Monday, when they were reviewing grant applications that had been turned in by such local organizations as the Berea Arts Council, the Kentucky Guild, and First Friday. In the past, several organizations in Berea received a $5,000 annual advertising grant from tourism, but the tourism commissioners decided to decrease that maximum amount to $2,500 for this upcoming fiscal year, except under special circumstances.

With that smaller grant, commissioner Donna Robertson said, would also come advertising and marketing support.

"I think we can help them more by advertising them through our own websites and our own advertisements. We can help them more in that area," Robertson said. "We'll include them as a package in paid advertisements."

"We would like for them to get to a place of becoming self-sustaining," commissioner Ahmad Reynolds said.

Tourism Director Kerri Hensley said she would like for this to be the last year organizations apply for tourism grants.

"Way before we had advertising dollars to spend, way before we had a restaurant tax when our budget wasn't very big, we did these mini grants to get these activities going,"

Hensley said. "But now the game has changed. I think we can do more with our dollars if we keep the advertising together, and advertise all these venues together."

Hensley pointed out that with sponsorships, Berea Tourism would be listed on the publicity materials of the organizations. As it currently stood, grantees

Illustrator Facilitates Comic Book Workshop Saturday

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

This Saturday a comic book illustrator from Louisville will facilitate a workshop for teens and tweens at the Berea library, where he will discuss his work as well as guiding participants through some illustrations of their own.

Kevlen Goodner, the co-founder of Eureka! Comic Labs, has created his own super hero and comic books, while also working as a freelance illustrator and graphic designer for other publications. He will be speaking at the Madison County Library on June 11 from 3 - 4:30 p.m. in the community room.

Goodner, who hopes that his son, Justice, can accompany him, said, "We'll do a quick demo to show the process we use. Then we'll do some talking and also working with the participants."

Justice is also an illustrator, and the two of them offered a workshop together at a youth correctional facility in Bowling Green, after they presented at the Warren County Library.

Lois was the daughter of the late Hiram and Rosie Ingram Gabbard. She was a homemaker and member of the Baptist Faith.

Survivors include her loving husband, Charles Short; two daughters, Karen Short Mattox and her husband, Paul, and Tina Short Sell and her husband, Danny; two sisters, Rachael Richmond and Elsie Knuckles; three grandchildren, Robyn Mattox, Christian Sell, and Dawson Sell; and numerous nieces, nephews, relatives and friends. In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by one infant son, Charles Dwain Short; three babies; and four siblings, Earnest Gabbard, Preston Gabbard, Goldie Johnson, and Evie Fryer.

The funeral service took place at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, June 8, 2016 at Reppert Funeral Home with Bro. Cecil Burns and Bro. David Ballard officiating. Burial followed in Silver Creek Cemetery.

William Glenn McHone

William Glenn McHone, 67, passed away on Tuesday, May 31, 2016 in Lexington. He was a truck driver for many years before becoming disabled. He was preceded in death by his parents, William Buster McHone and Dorothy Musgrove Abrams.

William is survived by his children, Tony McHone, Troy McHone, and Tim (Missy) McHone; the mother of his children, Jeanette McHone; his sisters, Joyce Jones and Judy Stockton; his grandchildren, Jeremy Honican, Brittany McHone, Ashley McHone, and Tristan McHone, and many nieces, nephews and cousins.

Funeral services were at 2 p.m. on Friday, June 3, 2016 at Lakes Funeral Home. Pallbearers were Dwayne Hill, Shane Hill, Tony McHone, Jeremy Honican, Dustin Hill, and Justin Jones. Burial took place in the Pilot Knob Cemetery. Online condolences at www.lakesfuneralhome.com.

Bert Z. Croucher

Bert Z. Croucher, 87, of Berea died Monday, June 6, 2016 at the Terrace Nursing and Rehabilitation Center following a long illness. He was a Rockcastle County native, born October 7, 1928.

Bert was the son of the late Robert and Mollie Chasteen Croucher. He was an Honorable Kentucky Colonel and long-time member of Fairview Baptist Church.

Bert moved to Ohio in 1963, and worked at Metal Powder Products for 17 years before coming back to Berea in 1979. After returning, he worked at the Bluegrass Army Depot (Richmond Activity), was a groundskeeper at Madison Memorial Gardens, and later retired from the State of Kentucky Parks Department. He was employed as a toy maker at Boonesboro State Park.

Survivors include three children, Eddie (Jacke) Croucher, Beverly (Kenny) Jones, and Judy Johnson; two brothers, Roy Lee (Velma) Croucher and J. B. (Joann) Croucher; five grandchildren, Shannon, Danielle, Brandi, Courtney, and Stormy; seven great grandchildren, Caleb, Ella, Luke, Olivia, Sophia, Solomon, and Shiloh; as well as numerous relatives and friends.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his loving wife of 36 years, Barbara Noland Croucher; six siblings, Edward, Willard, Robert Jr., Bobby Earl, Pauline, and Norma Jane; and one grandson, Zachary Edwards.

The funeral service will take place at 11 a.m. on Friday, June 10, 2016 at Reppert Funeral Home with Pastor Vaughn Rasor officiating. Burial will follow in Berea Cemetery. Pallbearers will be Chad Croucher, Bobby Alexander, Mike Alexander, Tim Alexander, Buddy Croucher, and Luke Allberry. Honorary pallbearer is Caleb Conrad. Visitation is scheduled from 6 - 9 p.m. on Thursday at the funeral home.

CHAMBER

“Months ago Mayor Connelly took a stand, stating this would not be sold on city property,” Rowlette said, “but it did happen.”

Rowlette also spoke of the resolution that the council passed in December that affirmed the City of Berea’s commitment to reducing racial prejudice and other types of discrimination and harassment. He asked that the city council renounce the resolution.

“That resolution is open to interpretation. I’m here to ask tonight that this body consider repealing that resolution or significantly revising it so that it has some meat, if that’s what you’re going to do,” Rowlette said. “But I also think the Chamber and our citizens are due an apology.”

Connelly stated that his intent was not to prohibit a car with a Confederate flag from a car show, but to forbid the sale of items.

“But those are items, the Dukes of Hazard model car is for sale,” Rowlette replied. “It’s impossible to regulate this.”

Connelly said he didn’t think it was impossible, but there needed to be a “willing attitude” to have a uniform, acceptable standard. He thanked Rowlette for pointing out the sale of the model cars, since the city should be aware of that.

Rowlette also pointed out an article that two high school students wrote in a journalism class that had been sent to him, where Connelly was quoted as saying, “I’m not losing any sleep over the fact that we’re not having a Spoonbread Festival.”

“You’re saying the Spoonbread Festival had no economic impact,” Rowlette said.

Connelly said he didn’t say that, but he did think the estimated number of 60,000 people coming to the Spoonbread was “probably exaggerated.”

Council member Diane Kerby, who helped to draft the anti-discrimination resolution, said, “I would say calling this impossible is not an accurate statement, since we have agencies like the National Parks Service, the Kentucky State Fair Board, Amazon, NAS-CAR, Walmart, all have policies that prohibit the sale of Confederate material except as it is used in the depiction of history. If organizations that are out to make lots and lots of money can do this, then we as a town of Berea can find a way to do this as well.”

COMICS

FROM THE FRONT

Goodner said they didn’t know what to expect, and at first it was a little awkward and tense.

“But they saw this young man with me, who looked like them,” Goodner said. “And they relaxed. We then had all of them draw their images of the Joker, which we used in a larger piece. It turned into this incredible, spiritual experience. I really hope he can come with me on Saturday.”

The library will be providing sketch paper for the participants at Goodner’s workshop. David Payne, who works with the children’s program at the Berea library, had the idea to bring Goodner to Berea after participating in one of his workshops at a Kentucky library conference.

“I liked that he talked a lot about inspiring kids to do art through comic illustrations,” Payne said. “He works with kids so they have a creative outlet to express themselves.”

Payne said that some of the tweens and teens who frequent the library are interested in illustrating, and many of them carry a sketchbook around with them. They often speak of making art a career.

One of Goodner’s first super hero creations was Mr. Nobody, a type of anti-hero who lives in an urban setting and is rooted in hip-hop culture. Goodner is known for his realistic depictions of super heroes, and Mr. Nobody is a hero for the modern times. A watchman of the human race, Mr. Nobody waits for the end of the world, when he will receive powers to battle the ultimate evil.

“He’s not real happy about his role,” Goodner said, chuckling. “I really love working with people with the visual arts, helping them to be creative, and truly live their dreams.”

Joshua Stewart

Joshua Stewart, 21, of Mt. Vernon died Saturday, June 4, 2016 at Rockcastle Regional Hospital.

He was born on May 1, 1995 and was a resident of Rockcastle County for the past nine years.

Survivors include his foster parents, Donnie and Kim McClure Saylor; his brother, Scottie (Brittany) Stewart; three special brothers, Bradley (Courtney) Saylor, A. J., and Tony; and two nieces, Sophie and Em-mieLou.

Funeral service will start at 2 p.m. on Thursday, June 9, 2016 at Reppert Funeral Home with Bro. Jerry Owens officiating. Burial will follow in Saylor’s Sunset Cemetery in Rockcastle County. Visitation will take place from 12 p.m. on Thursday until service time. Pallbearers will be Bradley Saylor, Bill Harris, Tim Ashcraft, Kyle Riddle, and Scottie Stewart.

A year has passed since Donnie passed away, but we are so blessed by wonderful memories and God is good all the time to help us continue without him.

made a motion to re-consider the KyMEA Interlocal Agreement, which was approved. The AMP – Ohio vote cancels out the consideration of joining KyMEA.

Little has historically been against joining the Kentucky agency, stating at one point that he was “sick of hearing about KyMEA.”

Reid Connelly spoke during audience comments, stating that he appreciated the work that council members had put into the issue, but he was disappointed that the vote was pushed through so quickly.

The council heard the first reading for the 2016-17 Berea city budget on Tuesday evening, with an estimated beginning fund balance of $11,395.131. City Administrator Randy Stone reported that the city ended the fiscal year with a much higher balance than in the amended budget.

“Our occupational license fees are still growing,” Stone said, “but they’re growing slower now, so we’ll need to take a look at that.”

Total city revenues for the coming fiscal year are estimated at $20 million, a much higher number than usual because of the grant funds that are expected to come in this year, including the $10 million loan for the new city building. Employees can receive up to a 2.5 percent raise, and a nine percent increase in health care costs was also budgeted.

In other business:

- Council approved the lease with Honeysuckle

Vine, which will now be under Jeff Farmer’s name, and will last until the year 2025.

- Craig Williams addressed the city council about the two biggest problems on Haiti Rd. where he lives – drugs and speeding. He said they were revitalizing their Neighborhood Watch program. “We need to stand up to this problem,” Williams said. “We’re going to harass these drug dealers in our neighborhood and hopefully get them to leave.”

- Sandy Rowlette expressed concerns with the audio-visual not working well in replaying the council meetings on the public access channel and online. She also suggested that they make the city council agenda available to the public before the meetings.

- Streets Director Dwayne Brumley announced that the low salt bid was for $68 a ton from Detroit Salt Company. This was significantly less than last year’s price of $100.50.

One of the people in the car eventually said they were on their way to another county to sell the drugs.

Officers arrested Brian

Eldridge, 39, and Dustin Brown, 35, both of Baxter. They were charged with first degree trafficking controlled substance (methamphetamine), drug paraphernalia possession, and first degree possession of controlled substance - heroin. Brown was also charged with public intoxication.

- On June 4, officers were called to Walmart because of someone passed out inside of a vehicle. The person showed obvious signs of impairment and marijuana was located inside of his vehicle. Paraphernalia items and a xanax tablet were also located. Officers arrested Seth Griffin, 23, of Big Creek and charged him with third degree possession of controlled substance, possession of marijuana, drug paraphernalia possession, and public intoxication

Theft/Property Damage

- On June 3, officers were called to the walking trail off Harrison Road because of property damage. A city employee reported a damaged chain link fence, and there were black tire marks on the walking trail. A side by side ATV was located down the trail hidden behind some trees with no one around it. Later in the day a resident on Rose Court reported that the vehicle was stolen from her residence.

Public Intoxication

- On June 3, officers were called to Circle K on Chestnut Street because of someone passed out in a vehicle. The person showed obvious signs of impairment; he said he had used methamphetamine. Officers arrested Lloyd Hayes, 52, of Orlando and charged him with public intoxication.

- On June 4, an officer saw several people standing around a vehicle in the parking lot of Circle K on Chestnut Street. One of them showed obvious signs of impairment. Officers arrested Keith Kates, 40, of Orlando and charged him with public intoxication.

Alcohol Intoxication

- On June 5, officers were called to Boone Street just after midnight because of a woman knocking on people’s doors. She showed obvious signs of intoxication, and said she had been drinking. Officers arrested Debra Lynch, 60, of Berea and charged her with alcohol intoxication in a public place.

The Terrace Names May 2016 Employee of the Month

Deana Bryant has been chosen as our May Employee of the Month. Deana has worked at The Terrace for 8 years in housekeeping and laundry. Deana states, “The most enjoyable part of my job is when I’m delivering the laundry to the residents and I get the opportunity to talk with the residents. It’s an honor to be named Employee of the Month. It’s a good feeling to know that my work is recognized by my co-workers and supervisor.” Cassandra Thompson, Director of Environmental Services, stated, “Deana is very dependable employee. She helps out whenever is needed. I’m happy to have her as part of my team.”

Deana is married to Danny Bryant and has one son, Chad. In her spare time she enjoys spending time with her grandchildren and her family. Congratulations – Deana Bryant!

Political Manipulation In Berea

Letters from Berea

Beth Myers
Editor

I left the city council meeting on Tuesday night very disturbed.

A vote on power purchasing took place for the City of Berea with no notice to the public, or even city staff. This issue has been under discussion for almost two years, and council didn't see the need to let Berea residents know of their plan?

A power play was evidently engineered to push the vote through, despite an earlier decision to hold a public forum, and despite an earlier agreement to take another look at an interlocal agreement with KyMEA. Council member Jerry Little made the motion, council member Diane Kerby seconded it, the council approved 6 -2, and that was it. Done. Terminado.

No discussion, no invitation for public input, no notice to anyone. It was a very disturbing political end-around, and I do not appreciate that the majority of council members were compliant with the maneuver. This is the type of political manipulation that takes place at the higher levels; I don't want to see it in Berea.

Most of Bereans are not even familiar with AMP-Ohio, and now we are locked in a five year contract with the power company. Perhaps it was the best decision, but it would have been nice if the public could have been consulted even a little before the vote.

So much for by the people, for the people.

"Let us not be weary in well doing, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not."

often did not give the tourism department credit for its support in their publicity materials and marketing items.

"All organizations seem to forget a lot of the services that we provide, and we need to create mechanisms to let people know that we are a part of this, and we helped make this activity happen," Hensley said.

When discussing the different grants, tourism commissioners discussed giving $2,500 to Berea Arena Theater, $500 to Berea Celtic Festival, and $700 to the Christmas parade along with funding the second place prizes awarded to parade floats. This Wednesday, the commissioners will officially vote on which grants to fund.

There was disagreement among the commissioners, however, regarding the First Friday events, which tourism had fully funded two years ago. The commissioners who reviewed the grant recommended giving First Friday $2,000 as an "Investor Level" of sponsorship; First Friday organizers had requested $10,000.

Commissioner Dale Ballinger said, "I think the $2,000 is too much. The Christmas parade brings people in from Jackson County, Mt. Vernon, Lancaster, and we're only sponsoring them $700. I would say $1,000 is plenty for First Friday."

Charles Arnold, the chair of the tourism commission, agreed, "Well, I can't support it at all. I would prefer to give them $0. We've given them $28,000, and there's got to be a point where we stop."

Both the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen and the Berea Arts Council made additional requests for funding, but Arnold and other commissioners objected to continuing to support the two organizations at the higher level.

"We gave them [Guild] $25,000 in the first year, and it was my understanding that it was a one-time, one-year grant, and then it happened again and now they're asking for $10,000. We open up Pandora's Box, but we never shut it."

Commissioner Ken Gastineau stated that they were continuing to put band-aids on the funding problems of the Guild, and they were "expensive band-aids." Both Hensley and Robertson, however, expressed concern that the community might lose the Guild or the Berea Arts Council if they didn't offer support.

In other business:

- The tourism commission reviewed their draft budget for 2016-17. Arnold expressed concern that in the tourism budget, they were continuing to spend the reserves. City Administrator Randy Stone, however, told him that they were estimating the beginning fund balance of tourism at $1,200,000, since expenses this past year were a great deal less than projected.

- No increase was budgeted for alcohol sales, though Old Town Grill, Pappaleno's, and Street Side Café have their alcohol licenses. Noodle Nirvana also has their license, though the restaurant has not opened yet.

- Tourism received six responses to their RFQ for an advertising agency. They decided to interview three, including the agency that currently handles the Berea Tourism account.

Help native pollinators

Dear Editor,

June 20 - 26 is National Pollinator Week. While most of us are aware of the non-native honeybee as a pollinator, few of us know that there are 4,000 native bees that not only are more efficient pollinators but have evolved over millennia to benefit their ecosystem. Bats, butterflies, moths, beetles, and hummingbirds are also among our native pollinators. Pressure from honeybees for food and nesting sites, systemic pesticides (with which the plants offered by many nurseries and box stores are treated, rendering the entire plant poisonous to pollinators), GMOs which create monocultures and obliterate native flowers/food, and habitat loss all play a role in the decline of our native pollinators. Purchasing nonnative trees, shrubs and perennials for our landscapes further adds to the loss of food source and nesting sites for native pollinators.

Approximately 75 percent of crops grown worldwide depend on pollinators. One in nearly three mouthfuls of food we consume is by courtesy of pollinator services. Pollinators keep native plant communities healthy and produce seed and fruits for other animals.

What can you do to help native pollinators? Check the Kentucky Pest Plant Council list before buying, so you do not buy exotics that are also invasive (for example, burning bush, exotic and very invasive, is still being sold by nurseries and box stores). Pesticides do not discriminate between "desirable" and "undesirable" insects. Use these very judiciously if at all. Plant native plants to provide nectar, pollen and food for larva that are host-plant specific. Provide a water source. Research before buying native or nonnatives from nurseries and box stores to see if the plants have been grown using systemic pesticides. Studies show that native plants in your yard increases your vegetable garden and orchard yield. Buy native plants grown from seed obtained from your eco-region (i.e. coneflowers grown from seed from our general area vs. plants obtained from Michigan and sold in our area nurseries and box stores.)

On July 9, I will have my fourth annual native plant sale. All seeds are collected locally (assuring Kentucky genotype) and are grown with an awareness of environmental impact. Proceeds from the sale benefit nonprofit groups such as MonarchWatch.org. Other sources offering Kentucky natives are few, but do exist. Beware of sources selling cultivars or "nativars," these are human-manipulated plants. This process changes the plant's characteristics such as the amount, quality or presence of nectar and pollen, strength of fragrance, the shape of flowers, etc. which may make the plant less useful, or entirely useless, to pollinators.

Helping pollinators is not easy. Nature holds the patent on native plants so there is little incentive for businesses to "go native," except that consumers are becoming more aware of the importance of pollinators and are making more informed choices. Many of us want to make a difference environmentally. We want to leave the world a better place but are unsure what to do or what else we can do. We're not sure if our individual actions can make a measurable difference. The "eat local, grow local" movement is a forward thinking approach to food production and consumption. Why do we fail to complete the circle by not "planting local?" It is estimated that there is over 32 million acres of suburban lawn in the U.S. Change can start with your yard and your choices. You can make a difference.

Thanks to those who helped with US 25 yard sale

Dear Editor,

The 2016 US 25 Yard Sale was the most successful we've had in Berea since the event started.

Several Berea churches and businesses allowed folks to set up shop on their lots and those that did, prospered. I stopped and spoke to several who were selling their wares, and they all reported a good turnout despite the threatening clouds and windy weather. And in keeping with the premise of the event, several area businesses experienced an increase in customers.

Thanks goes out to the Berea Citizen, who ran some "in kind" ads for the event. Berea City Economic Director Danny Isaacs helped us get the signs placed. Berea Tourism ran an ad in the Citizen and made sure we were included in the radio ads-

-a new twist for Berea--and with the other events listed in an ad in the Herald-Leader.

We'd like to thank WCYO in Richmond and the other stations of Wallingford Broadcasting and WRVK in Renfrow Valley and Saylor Broadcasting who kept our message on the air. Also, thanks goes to the WKYT, WLEX and WTVQ TV stations for their coverage and the interview time they grant us each year.

We reused signs bought by The Berea Chamber of Commerce and we would like to thank David Rowlette and his family for helping promote this event.

Berea Business people Cora Jane Wilson, Karen Todd and Berea City Council member Chad Hembree help us out all year long with promotion and all Bereans should appreciate them for what they do for our community.

Thanks go out to the Berea Street Department for having the city in good shape and for placing the signs, and also to Larry Todd and Star Bank for allowing the signage on their property.

And we thank all the businesses and churches that allowed folks to set up shop. Berea had more interest this year than in any past event, and we are excited about that growth.

Please keep in mind--this is not about selling rags--it's about getting people to visit our town. And we're the best town I know of in six states and two commonwealths.

Thanks again Berea--you folks are the best!

Blanton Named to Dean's List

Hannah Blanton of Berea was named to the Dean's List for the 2016 spring semester at the University of the Cumberlands. To be eligible, students must maintain a minimum cumulative scholastic standing of 3.50 and be in good standing. Blanton is pursuing a bachelor of science degree in English literary studies.

Located in Williamsburg, Ky., University of the Cumberlands is an institution of regional distinction, which currently offers four undergraduate degrees in more than 40 major fields.

Fee Street Clearing

This Saturday, June 11 Sustainable Berea will be hosting a clearing of the Fee Street walkway.

The event is scheduled from 8 to 10 a.m., and participants are asked to bring tools, and wear long sleeves and pants since part of the brush could be poison ivy. The coffee will be provided for this community clearing.

The Fee Street public right-of-way runs from the back of the Berea United Methodist Church to the Berea Urban Farm. People will meet at 201 Adams Street, where Sustainable Berea is housed.

NOTICE OF DELINQUENT PROPERTY TAXES

Please take notice that under the provisions of KRS 91A.070 and Ordinance No. 10-2015, the following taxpayers are delinquent in the payment of City of Berea ad valorem property taxes for tax year 2015. The amounts set out hereafter are inclusive of a penalty of 10% on the amount of tax due, and interest at an annual rate of 10% from January 31, 2016 through June 30, 2016. Additional interest will accrue if the total amount due is not paid by June 30, 2016. Additionally, KRS 424.330 allows the City to assess an additional fee of $5.00 on the tax bill of the delinquent taxpayer for publication costs.

The amount of tax, along with penalty, interest and additional fee, constitutes a lien on the property described on the tax bill. This list of delinquent taxes will be filed with the Office of the Madison County Clerk for recording of the lien.

Hometown Boy Makes Good as Sought-After Event Designer

Kip Kelley, who grew up on Haiti Road in Berea became “Motorcycle Guy,” in the events design world, since he always showed up to work in jeans, t-shirts, and sunglasses to handle all the details of an event from designing the colors to moving the furniture. He returned to the area ten years ago, but frequently leaves to handle events around the country. “The most rewarding thing about what I do is seeing the smile on someone’s face when they see what I’ve created,” Kip said.

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

When Kip Kelley was growing up on Haiti Road in Berea, he reported that he was the “smallest kid on the block,” so he was often left out of fun activities.

His grandmother, who lived close by, noticed that Kip was often alone, so she decided to teach him how to sew on her machine when he was just five years old. That early introduction to fabric and color led to a lifetime passion for Kip that took him from designing bridal gowns to now cycle Guy,” though he does not ride a motorcycle.

“People kept calling, asking for the Motorcycle Guy,” Kip said. “It caught on all by itself. I had a website under my name, ‘Kip Kelley,’ but no one ever looked at it because they would google Motorcycle Guy.”

A friend told him he should make the name work for him, so he eventually named his business, “Motorcycle Guy Events.”

Berea College is also a big client of Kip’s. This past graduation, he designed almost all the events including the commencement, baccalaureate, and senior picnic.

Though Kip does no advertising, his phone rings constantly through word of mouth referrals. His success has allowed him to be somewhat selective, so he prefers not receiving “cold calls” from clients. Brides and other clients interested in his services have to schedule him far ahead of time; he currently has bookings into 2018.

“The most rewarding thing about what I do is seeing the smile on someone’s face when they see what I’ve created,” Kip said.

Kip started in the wedding business through the creation of gowns. By the time he was 15 years old, he was designing and making custom wedding gowns for local brides. He would take months creating a gown, doing all the bead work by hand, and he was in high demand.

After he graduated from Madison Central in 1985, Kip received a full scholarship to the Fashion Institute of Design and Technology. While very interested in attending, he received a lot of negative feedback from family and friends.

“They would tell me that men shouldn’t do that work, and that I needed to get a real job,” Kip said. “They told me I didn’t need to move away; I needed to stay home. So I told the Institute I needed time to think about it, but when I called a year later I was a couple of days too late. They had already filled my slot.”

Kip has faced this type of discouragement since he was a young artist, with people telling him to get a “real” job instead of doing work that was not suited for men. He doesn’t regret not attending the Fashion Institute, however, because he ended up learning design by trial and error, working in the field.

Kip reported that the discouragement he received from those around him became too much, and he ended up moving away from Berea. He spent the next couple of decades designing entire weddings around the country, as well as working in the field of interior design. Ten years ago, however, he decided to come home.

“You know the saying, you can’t take the country out of the boy,” Kip said, who has lived in New York, Chicago, Lexington, as well as various other urban settings. “During the time when I was so busy, I became really disconnected from my family. And I needed to reconnect.”

Kip now lives just outside of Berea, in Mt. Vernon, and enjoys the calm that is such a contrast to his frenetic pace at events. At 50 years old, he realizes that he won’t be able to handle doing the hands-on work required for his event business for much longer. A few weeks ago, he started making jewelry, and the business has taken off quickly from his Facebook page. Calling himself the “King of Bling,” Kip has already filled around 40 custom orders.

Kip also gives back to his home community by volunteering to design the Berea Arts Council’s main fundraiser, Stepping Out for Art, every year. He respects their work in the community, and especially with young artists.

“I remember how hard it was for me as a kid and an artist,” Kip said. “I want children who are artists to receive the support they need.”

Kip can be reached at motorcycleguyevents@gmail.com. His jewelry can be ordered off his Facebook page for Kip Kelley.

Word From Berea Streets

“Who in history would you most like to meet or have a meal with?”

Charlie Napier from DJ to the Cars said, “I’d like to meet Ronald Reagan, because he was the greatest President in our history.”

Joel Eaton said, “Jesus, because He is the Perfect son of God and our Savior.”

Nellie White said, “That would be Jesus Christ -- because he’s our Savior!”

Pattersons Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Rex and Connie Gardner are celebrating 50 years of marriage. Their children, Melissa (Tim) Gross, Cassondra (Jeff) Hensley, and Josh; along with grandchildren, Dalton, Fallon, Dustin, Cole and Zaviour are hosting a reception in their honor on June 18, 2016 at Fountain Park First Church of God in the fellowship hall from 2-6 p.m. The church is located at 5000 Secretariat Drive in Richmond. Bring no gifts.

Summer Camp for Exploring Nature

A summer camp focused on gardening, crafting, exploring nature and finding our place in the cycle of life is being offered from July 27 - 30. The 3.5 day outdoor experience will take place at the Clear Creek Community Schoolhouse in Rockcastle County from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday - Wednesday, with a half day on Thursday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. where parents will be invited. Participants will explore the woodlands around the gardens, and identify and forage plants for creating nature-inspired crafts. Children will be offered morning and afternoon snacks, but will need to bring a packed lunch. On the last half-day, parents are invited to celebrate the bounty of summer with a cob-oven fired pizza party! Clear Creek Schoolhouse is a community gathering place, a 20 min drive from Berea.

For more information and to sign up, call 606-256-0820 (ask to speak with Leah). Cost is $80 per child until June 15, and $90 after that date.

Conley Receives Patterson Scholarship from U.K.

Travis Conley, the son of Wendy Rutherford and Albert Conley of Berea, was selected as a National Merit Scholar for the 2015-16 school year. To be eligible for this honor, Taylor had to score in the top 1 percent of the nation on the PSAT test during his junior year. Now as a Merit Scholar winner, Travis will receive the Patterson Scholarship from the University of Kentucky, which covers all tuition, room and board fees for four years. Approximately 3,000 students around the country were winners of National Merit Scholarships that are financed by U.S. colleges and universities. Officials of each sponsor college selected scholarship winners from among the finalists. Approximately 16,000 semifinalists in the National Merit Scholar were named because of their scores on the PSAT. Semifinalists were the highest-scoring in each state, and represented less than one percent of the nation's seniors. To compete for Merit Scholarship awards, semifinalists first had to advance to the finalist level of the competition by fulfilling additional requirements such as writing an essay and providing information about extracurricular activities, awards, and leadership positions. Semifinalists also had to show an outstanding academic record, be endorsed and recommended by a high school official, and earn SAT scores that confirmed the qualifying test performance. Around 15,000 became finalists, and about half of the finalists were Merit Scholarship winners in 2016. Travis also attended the Kentucky Governor's Scholar program at Morehead University last summer, and received the Clotfelter/Samokar Engineering Scholarship. He graduated from Madison Southern High School in May, where he was ranked first in his graduating class. He also received an AP Scholar diploma.

"It is the function of art to renew our perception. What we are familiar with we cease to see. The writer shakes up the familiar scene, and, as if by magic, we see a new meaning in it."
-- Anais Nin

Arts & Craft Demonstrations During June

The Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea will host drawing, woodcarving and printmaking demonstrations during the month of June.

Bill Berryman will demonstrate his drawing techniques at the center on June 11, using Staedtler-Mars German pencils, which are known for their rich quality of graphite.

Also on June 11, the center will offer two free guided gallery tours at 11 a.m. and again at 2 p.m. These tours detail and explain the center's two exhibits, "Great Impressions: Prints by Kentucky Artisans" and "Kentucky Clay: A Continuing Tradition."

The Berea Welcome Center Carvers will demonstrate their skills at the center on June 18. Specializing in a variety of woodcarving techniques and subjects, three members will show visitors their carving and painting skills.

Lexington printmaker Liz Foley will offer visitors a glimpse into her individual monotype printmaking techniques on Saturday, June 25. Her monotype print titled, "Mandala" is in the center's exhibit "Great Impressions."

Saturday, June 11th at 10:30 a.m.

Near Berea, Ky.

All properties to be sold at Sale 1 site

Directions: From intersection of Chestnut St. & US 25. Follow 25 south approx. 1.3 miles to the property.

SALE 1: 68.95 acres m/l

The heirs of the late B.F. (Benny) Anglin have authorized our firm to sell this property at absolute auction. This farm consists of 68.95 acres of which mostly is cleared crop and pasture land. The property fronts along US Hwy 25 with over 1400' and 863' along Haiti Rd. This property will be sold as a whole and not tracted. This property is set up for an ideal farming opportunity located close to town with a lot of development in the area. It is improved with an older 1 1/2 story frame house. The house has living room, large kitchen, 2 bedrooms, bath and enclosed back porch on the first floor, and two bedrooms upstairs. In addition to the house, there are barns and a shed. All improvements are in need of repairs.

SALE 2: 11.5 acres m/l

This tract consists of 11.5 acres of which all is woodland, recreational type property. The property is located on the west side of Interstate 75. This tract is landlocked and does not have access. There is a family cemetery on the property. Property will be sold subject the cemetery being reserved.

SALE 3: House & Lot

532 Mt. Vernon Rd., Berea (US Hwy 25). This property is owned by two of the grandchildren of the late Mr. Anglin. This property is referred to as lot 39 of Plat Book 1, Page 28 recorded in the Madison County Clerk's office. Having 50' of frontage along Hwy 25. This tract is improved with a frame house with living room, kitchen, 2 bedrooms and bath. It has Masonite siding and shingle roof. The house is in need of repairs.

SALE 4: House & Lot

313 East Haiti Rd., Berea. This property is owned by the late Mr. Anglin's daughter. This property consists of 6/10 acre and has creek frontage. It fronts Haiti Road and has city water. The exterior is aluminum siding and has a metal roof. The house consists of a living room, kitchen, 2 bedrooms, utility room, and bath. In addition to the house, there is a detached garage and tool shed. The house is in need of repairs.

Auctioneer's Note: Here is a rare opportunity to buy farmland with an abundance of potential less than 1 1/2 miles from town.

Note: None of the tracts will be offered together, all will be sold individually.

Note: The purchaser of any single-family residence built before 1978 has a period of ten days to inspect the property for the presence of lead based paint. The inspection period is June 1st through June 10th. The successful bidder must sign a waiver of the 10-day post-inspection period.

Buyer's Premium: A 10% Buyer's Premium will be added the winning bid to determine final sales price.

Terms: 20% down day of sale with balance due within 30 days with deed. Announcements made day of sale take precedence over printed material.

County Approves Regulations on Pipeline, Compression Station

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Two Madison County ordinances to regulate a proposed repurposing of the Tennessee Gas Pipeline that runs under the county, and the building of a new compressor station, were approved by fiscal court on Tuesday, despite both the Kentucky Gas Association and Kentucky Chamber of Commerce sending letters of objection.

Judge Executive Reagan Taylor put the issue on the agenda early at the fiscal court meeting, reporting that Kinder Morgan, the energy company proposing the repurposing, sent a letter stating that the local government didn't have the authority to pass such regulations. The two ordinances had been passed by the Madison County Planning Commission earlier, to address both safety and health concerns of repurposing the pipeline to carry gas solids instead of just liquids. The ordinance

Tourism Approves Community Grants

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Berea Tourism approved paid sponsorships for seven organizations or activities in town at their meeting on June 8, and turned down seven others.

Many of those organizations have received advertising grants of $5,000 from tourism for the past several years, but the commission has decided to transition to sponsoring activities and offering overall advertising for all the events in Berea. The maximum award given to the organizations in a paid sponsorship was $2,500. All 14 of the organizations that applied for the $2,500 will still receive ongoing advertising support from the commission.

Financial Figure Misstated

In last week's issue of the Citizen, it was incorrectly reported in the article, "Tourism May Quit Giving Community Grants," that the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen that the Guild received $25,000 from Tourism.

The Berea Arts Council was the organization that received $25,000 from the tourism department, while the Kentucky Guild has received the $5,000 advertising grants for the past few years.

Berea To Be Featured in Kentucky Monthly

By Marisa Hempel
Citizen Reporter

There just aren't enough hours in a day to experience all that Berea has to offer, but Deborah Cole-Kramer of Kentucky Monthly Magazine did her best.

Cole-Kramer was assigned to write about Berea for Kentucky Monthly's "24 Hours In..." series. Berea will show up in the August publication of the magazine, with Cole-Kramer reporting on her findings during her twenty-four hours in town.

Spending just one day in a Kentucky city as a sort of mini-vacation is a new concept for the magazine, with Berea being the third area featured. Maysville and Somerset were the first two.

"A lot of people in Kentucky look for things like this where they won't have to commit for a week-long vacation," Cole-Kramer said. "[At the magazine] we made a list of cities that we thought have a lot going on and would be nice to shine a spotlight on."

Berea is a great choice to be featured, as there are more than enough exciting things to do in town. Cole-Kramer had been to the city before, but had never allotted an entire day to experience different areas, especially from a reporter's perspective.

"I wanted to make sure I made observations that I knew would interest our readers," she shared.

She began her day in College Square visiting all the shops and getting lunch at Boone Tavern. Cole-Kramer then made sure to experience the

PlayThink Festival Highlights Arts & Play for the Family

By Marisa Hempel
Citizen Reporter

Instructors from all over the country are meeting this week at HomeGrown HideAways in Berea, which will be hosting the biggest year yet for PlayThink Festival.

The creator and founder of this arts festival, Paige Hankla, had a vision to create a safe environment for families to experience music, activities, workshops, and the flow arts Flow arts are described by Paige as "moving meditation with props", which for her began years ago when she got into hula hooping. She describes this skill she learned as transformative, not just for the meditative aspect but also as a way to let loose and have fun while getting exercise.

A former Body Recall instructor is holding body mechanics classes on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, with the morning classes at no cost for seniors.

Pat Rogers, who was an instructor with Body Recall from 2005 until the organization closed its doors, has named her classes, "Mind and Body Tune-Up." The classes are based on the Body Recall textbook from Dorothy Chrisman, and use the same exercises.

"I love doing this because I keep myself in shape, and I love working with people," the 71-year-old Rogers said.

The classes are being held at Modern Woodmen on Haiti Road; participants should use

Bert Thorpe Ballinger

Bert Thorpe Ballinger, 86, husband of Laura Willis Ballinger, died Wednesday, June 8, 2016.

Bert was the former owner of Ballinger's TV and Radio Repair in Berea. He was a US Army veteran with the 25th Infantry, serving with the occupational forces of Japan and in the Korean War. He was the recipient of the Combat Infantry Badge and three Bronze Stars.

Bert was a member of the Holiness Faith, and attended the Berea Tabernacle Church. He was born in Madison County on January 28, 1930 to the late Robert Ford and Barbara Barrett Ballinger. He was preceded in death by his siblings -- sisters, Stella Dyer and Audria Green, and brothers, Dennis Ballinger and Robert Ballinger, Jr.

Bert is survived by his wife, Laura Willis Ballinger; his children, Bert (Veronica) Wayne Ballinger and Penny Marlene Ballinger, all of Berea; his sisters, Alene Eaton and Louise Van Winkle of Berea; and his brother, Herman (Faye) Ballinger of Richmond.

Funeral Services were conducted Sunday, June 12, 2016 at 2 p.m. at Lakes Funeral Home with Bro. John Isaacs officiating. Burial followed in the Pilot Knob Cemetery with full military honors. Online condolences at www.lakesfuneralhome.com.

Anne Cobbs Smith Weatherford

Anne Cobbs Smith Weatherford died peacefully on the evening of June 7, 2016 in Black Mountain, N.C. Her graceful presence and deep courage in the face of Parkinson's disease were a testament to her strong spirit and deep faith.

Anne was predeceased by her beloved husband, Willis D. Weatherford, Jr. She is survived by her siblings, Alice Rutledge Smith Ramsey and Charles (Caroline) Stollenwerck Smith; and her children, Edie (Mick) Hunt, Julia (Hap) Endler, Will III (Janie) Weatherford, Susan (Brian) Cole, and Alice (Jeff) Downes.

Anne will be missed by her grandchildren, Priscilla, Arthur (Brianna) Hunt, Anna (Brendan) Sutton, Jeffrey, Peter and Christopher Hunt, Pearl (Ben) Shirley, Vergil (Jessie) Weatherford, Taylor (Millie) Weatherford, Willis (Mary) IV Weatherford, Susanna Weatherford, Jess Vaughan, and Avery (Stephen) Johnson, Rachel (Jordan) Palmer, Greta (Ian) Etherton and Luke Downes. Her 13 great grandchildren will continue her legacy of shining love and light into the world.

Born in Montgomery, Ala., on February 6, 1929, to Edith Stollenwerck and Carol Smith, Anne was the oldest of four children. After graduating Decatur High School, she earned her BA in mathematics from Swarthmore College where she met Willis, her future husband. Relationships defined Anne's life; her relationship to God, husband, children, church and the wider community shaped her. Marrying Willis and giving birth to their five children was, in her words, "the most fulfilling episode in my life."

While first lady of Berea College, Anne taught basic math to incoming freshmen, and also entertained dignitaries, guests, students, faculty, and board members. Anne was an involved member of Union Church, and earned her MA in religion from Lexington Theological Seminary. She served on the board of Hindman Settlement School, and was an activist for race relations and the peace movement. She served on the KY Human Rights Council for ten years and was a member of the Berea Peace Makers.

After moving to Black Mountain, N.C. in 1984, Anne worked as the director of Christian education at Grace Church in Asheville for ten years. She transferred her membership from Grace Church to St. James in Black Mountain, where she was an active member of the newly established Mountain Chapter of The Order of St. Luke. She continued her studies in education for ministry.

Anne was an avid horsewoman, an inspiring teacher, a life-long learner, a powerful intercessory prayer partner, and a gracious southern gentlewoman. Her memorial service and celebration of life will be held at St. James Episcopal Church in Black Mountain, N.C. on Saturday, June 18 at 11 a.m., followed by a reception. There will also be a reception on Monday, June 20 at 4 p.m. in the Community Room of Union Church in Berea for people to greet the family. In lieu of flowers, gifts may be designated for either of the following:

- Willis D. Weatherford, Jr. Campus Christian Center, and mailed to: Berea College, CPO 2216, Berea, KY 40404; or
- St. James Episcopal Church, and mailed to: St. James Episcopal Church, PO Box 1087, Black Mountain, NC 28711.

Robert Lee "Bob" Adkins

Robert Lee "Bob" Adkins, 54, of Berea, passed away on June 9, 2016, after a long, hard-fought battle with liver cancer. He was born in Charleston, W.V. on April 11, 1962, to Jack and Patty Adkins. He is survived by his wife of 25 years, Tracey.

Bob was preceded in death by his father, Jack; his maternal grandparents, Hugh and Frances Jarrett; and paternal grandmother, Ruth Mitchell.

In addition to his wife, Tracey, Bob is survived by his daughter, Kerri, who's at home; his mother, Patty Adkins of Charleston, W.V.; his sister, Debbie (Mark) Vignovic of Pittsburgh, Pa.; his brother, Steve (Jane) Adkins of Fraziers Bottom, W.V.; his nephew, David (fiance Stevie) Vignovic of Weirton, W.V.; long-time friends, Rob Lambdin of Harvest, Ala. and John Saville of Charleston, W.V.; and his cousins, Jamie Adkins, Bill Adkins, Brenda Snyder, Renee Chalfant, and Leslie Burris, all of Charleston, W.V. Bob will be missed by his faithful furry companion, Sydney.

Bob was a 1980 graduate of George Washington High School in Charleston, W.V. He was a senior sales account manager with Frito-Lay for 15 years. He was an avid golfer and member of the Berea Country Club. He enjoyed camping, fishing, boating, and woodworking.

The family will receive friends on Sunday, June 26, 2016, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the Beni Kedem Temple in Charleston, W.V. It was Bob's wish to be cremated. In lieu of flowers, Bob requested memorial contributions in his name to the American Cancer Society's Memorial Hope Lodge, 208 Charlotte Avenue, Nashville, TN 37203.

Mabel Dykes Brock

Mabel Dykes Brock, 76, widow of Glenn "Mouse" Brock, passed away on Wednesday, June 8, 2016. She was born in Pulaski County to the late Carl and Irene Haynes Dykes.

City needs to improve communication

Dear Editor,

Ouch! Our city administration certainly gets a “D” for citizen outreach. Both council member Hembree and Berea Citizen editor, Beth Myers, made statements in last week’s paper about the lack of a public forum on the choice of a new wholesale electric power provider. There actually was a public forum on April 14, but it received such minimal advance notice that even Mr. Hembree and Ms. Myers apparently missed the one-sentence blurb in the classified section of the paper.

I had specifically requested the city administrator to provide at least two weeks notice of the public hearing in order to give ample time to notify the public. That clearly didn’t happen, and that highlights the problem of the city’s inadequate communication with its citizens. As was pointed out by another citizen at last week’s meeting, the city is failing at keeping its citizens in the loop.

Agendas posted to the city’s web site two weeks after the meetings occur are useless. Taking two months, or more, to post meeting minutes on the web site stymies citizen feedback. The cable TV government access Ch. 12 has been blank for months. When I asked the city administrator about that he said it was a Time Warner problem. OK, but Time Warner has a franchise contract with the city that includes the government channel feed. Shouldn’t the city’s attorney be in touch with Time Warner because they are apparently in breach of contract?

Short of going to City Hall, the only way to get advance notice of meetings is via the city’s Facebook page where agendas are usually posted on the Friday prior to the meeting. Facebook!? That is just unacceptable. Many in our community do not use Facebook. We need city meeting agendas to be placed on the city’s web site at least 72 hours before the meeting takes place. We need meeting minutes to be posted to the city web site within a week of the meeting’s occurrence. We need city government TV feed restored and information posted promptly there, as well. We need meeting videos to be available on TV and on the city web site within 72 hours of the meeting’s occurrence. We need an informed citizenry.

Oh, the public forum? Despite the scant notice, about half the council members, the mayor, the city administrator, and the utility director had the opportunity to hear from more than a dozen citizens. The vast majority of comments urged the city to continue to be a part of KyMEA negotiations at least until they completed assembling their power contract portfolio so that it could be compared with other bids we had received.

The council in their vote on Thursday chose not to go with the will of the citizenry. That said, the council recommendation to go with American Municipal Power (AMP) was a far better choice than the prior advocacy, by some, to stay with KU. That some council members could shift positions based on additional information and understanding is to be commended. But had they waited another 30 to 60 days, an even more optimal choice may have emerged.

Berea needs
Fairness Ordinance

Dear Editor,

In the wake of the tragedy in Orlando, where an LGBTQ (Lesbian Gay Bisexual Transsexual Queer) nightclub was attacked, and over 50 people killed and more than 55 injured, Berea has its flags at half mass in solidarity and to hold vigil.

Our LGBTQ population in Berea does not need our sympathy, they do not need prayers. They need equality and justice and the same rights as all people. They need a town that will set a standard for our entire region. That people are people.

The people of Berea need a town that has a Fairness Ordinance. It is not just a legal matter, it is a matter of living in a place where all people are treated with dignity and respect, and equal rights. Our people need to know that in this town, they are safe. In this town their rights are protected. In this town, they belong because they live, work, and raise families here.

I do not believe in using a tragedy to further a political agenda. I do believe in a town, however, recognizing that even if some folks do not agree with the lives of others, we can agree that if they live in a community they deserve equal rights in a community. This issue will not go away. Not until it is no longer an issue.

I heard that a reason that it was voted down was because it would cost the city too much money. Is there a dollar amount placed on preserving and providing legal protections for justice? I vote a new ordinance be brought forth. And this isn’t Fairness. This is Justice.

Pause, Connect, Reflect!

Guest Column
Leah Van Winkle

We’ve all heard that old cliché reminder – stop and smell the roses!

In modern society, our daily lives become so full – work, school, family, hobbies – that pausing and connecting to what we’re doing, to the world around us, is often just not scheduled in. Pause – take a deep breath in and look around, what do you feel, experience, see, smell?

Now think about when you were a child – did this ability to connect come naturally, did seeing and feeling beauty around you just happen? Now parents, think for a moment about your children – do you see them taking the time to pause, to connect? What happens when they go outside, play games with friends? What brings them the most joy?

Creating time and space for children to connect with nature, with each other, and with a sense of play, especially during developmental years, is of utmost importance. By giving our children the chance to connect with the world around us, we cultivate a sense of responsibility to the environment and people. This summer, how can you make space in your schedule for your children to really connect?

Join the Clear Creek Community Schoolhouse, a farm located nine miles south of Berea, on July 27th – 30th for GROW! Explore. Garden. Reflect., a summer day camp for kids age 9-12.

In this multi-day experience, kids will explore their relationship to the world around them through gardening, play, yoga, writing, and much more! We will guide children through all steps to gardening from preparing the ground to harvest. Additionally, we will offer skills for self-reflection and self-care through yoga and meditation.

Kids will have the opportunity to make new friends, while learning more about how to care for themselves and their world. Parents and the whole family can join us the last day to see what work the kids have been up to, and for an earth oven fired pizza party with fresh veggies from our gardens!

Check out <http://clearcreekschoolhouse.org/workshop/grow-explore-garden-reflect-kids-summer-camp-age-9-12> for more information!

Thanks for community support

Dear Editor,

My family recently suffered the loss of our wonderful Mother, Aunt, Nanny, Grandmother and Great Grandmother. We would like to thank all our dear friends for being there for us.

Also thanks to the congregation of Wayside Christian Church and Sad Gap Christian Church for the love and compassion of food provided to our family. Thanks to the staff from Baptist Health Hospital in Richmond and a special Thanks to the Hospice Compassionate Care Center in Richmond for all the special things that you did to help us through a difficult time.

Thanks to Lakes Funeral Home and for the special service they provided. Also to all the people in the vehicles who stopped as we passed to show their respect. Our family appreciates that so much. Thanks to everyone who prayed and supported us.

May God Bless each of you.

Mayor should apologize to participants in Spoonbread

Dear Editor,

I read the report in both the Richmond Register and the Berea Citizen about the recent meeting of the Berea City Council. The reports stated that David Rowlette addressed the mayor and city council about the recent car show and the L & N days.

According to the reports of Rowlette, and the pictures he showed, there were cars and toys cars with the Confederate flag on them. Rowlette stated that he believed a double standard had been set when the mayor demanded that the chamber prohibit any items with the Confederate flag at the Spoonbread Festival, but said nothing about the flag at the car show and the L & N days.

Rowlette stated that he felt the mayor owed the chamber an apology. The mayor supposedly said the city could not do anything about cars on the street displaying the Confederate flag.

I agree that the city cannot do anything about cars going down the street with the Confederate flag displayed, but I really believe the car show and the L & N days are different. They are not just cars driving down the street. They are an event occurring within the corporate limits of the City of Berea. By letting them occur, the city gave tacit or implied approval for the events.

I agree with Rowlette that a double standard is being set. Why? Is there some attempt to get even with the chamber of Rowlette? And where were those who demonstrated at last year’s Spoonbread Festival and at the chamber meeting when this year’s Spoonbread Festival was cancelled?

I also believe that Rowlette, the chamber, and all who were planning on participating in the 20th Spoonbread Festival are due some kind of apology. I love this city, but right now I am disappointed in its leadership.

Setting the record straight

To The Editor,

On June 7, the Berea Tourism Commission had a planning meeting at the Tolle building to discuss the funding requests they received from various non-profit organizations and others in town for this year's schedule of activities.

As I read the Berea Citizen the evening of June 8, I was very much disturbed, due to the quotes that were made from many of the tourism commission members. I spent most of the day on Friday trying to reach many that were quoted in the paper and also the Citizen's staff person, Beth Myers, who had written the article and also taped the meeting. I think that sometimes we get ourselves into a time crunch and maybe don't take the time to check out all the facts, especially if you also take notes, to go along with the tape. I spoke with Beth on Monday and I hope the article she has written, as a retraction in this week's paper, does explain that we have not been the organization getting all the larger sums of money from the Berea Tourism Commission.

The commission members I talked to relayed, to me, that the article did not state the facts as they were discussed, and that it was not the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen that received $25,000 dollars. That funding and an additional 5,000 per year, for the past two years, a total of $60,000 went to the Berea Arts Council. I was also told that "First Friday" event received $28,000 over the past years.

The Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen has only received a total of $5,000 each year to help with advertising of the Fall Fair that takes place the second weekend in October.

Sustainability was another topic of discussion and was directed, not at the Kentucky Guild, but others that were discussed in the article. Since we are celebrating 55 years and have bought a building, renovated it in a year and a half, started two beautiful galleries, an arts academy, along with an online store, I would think we have reached a point of sustainability, in our organization.

I am very sorry to have to defend an organization that has been part of this town, since 1961. The Kentucky Guild is a juried member, non-profit, statewide organization. The [KGAC] has a very rich and long history, in this town and with the purchase of the property, at 116 North Broadway, have become a permanent, viable part of this community.

Thank you for letting me tell the citizens of this great city that we are here with a mission to: "establish art and craft as a vital influence by promoting excellence through education, collaboration, leadership and service."

Fix bridge on Shortline Pike

Dear Editor,

With much bravado and backslapping, the city renovated the Prospect Street bridge for "the safety of pedestrians and cyclists," and also to complete access to the new bike/walking path along Silver Creek. While all the while the bridge on Hwy 1016 at Shortline Pike remains a hazard to cross on foot or bicycle.

Here cars cross this bridge coming from the direction of Hwy 421 from a 55 mph speed zone, and while exiting Berea from a 45 mph speed zone. I live on Shortline Pike, and have met many people many times trying to cross this bridge on foot or bicycle using a narrow strip dedicated to this task. Most notable and concerning are the young mothers crossing this bridge with babies clutched to their chest while they negotiate the walkway against the traffic.

Recently, I met a young cyclist who chose to ride his bike across the bridge rather than walk it; a misjudgment that could have ended badly.

Now I know from inquiries that "it's a county problem," not a city issue, but who cares? Just fix it and enjoy some more backslapping!

Rape

- On June 12, officers were called to a residence in the 100 block of Berenwood Drive. The caller said he had found a man in his home, who ran away when confronted. Officers located the runaway man on Burdette Street. An investigation later revealed that the subject had sexual contact with a juvenile who lived in the home back in November when she was 13 years old and he was 18. Officers arrested Kevin Reed, 18, of Berea and charged him with second degree rape.

Possession of a Legend Drug

- On June 12, officers made contact with someone going through the dumpster at Knight's Inn. The man had another person's pill container in his right pants pocket with eleven pills inside. Officers arrested Jeremy Miller, 36, of Berea and charged him with illegal possession of a legend drug.

Burglary Arrest

- On June 13, officers were called to Meadow Drive because of a burglary. They spoke to a witness who saw the offender enter the home the night before using a crowbar. The person was eventually located and an interview was conducted. Based on the interview and the witness statement, officers arrested Norma Gootie, 28, of Berea and charged her with second degree burglary, theft of prescription blank for C.S. -- first offense, possession of burglary tools, and second degree criminal mischief.

Theft Arrest

- On June 13, officers were called to Kaye Street because of a theft from a vehicle. A witness saw a woman in a lime green shirt taking the items. They eventually located Wendy Smith, 42, of Berea at her home on Courtland Ave. She was wearing a lime green shirt like the witness had reported.

The property was located hidden under a set of stairs on Kaye Street. Smith was charged with theft by unlawful taking under $500.

Deputies at the Madison County Detention Center located prescription pills on her person. She was additionally charged with second degree promoting contraband, prescription controlled substance not in proper container, and illegal possession of a legend drug.

numerous studios in the art district of Old Town. What stuck out to her the most was Berea’s community of dedicated artisans and craftspeople.

“The whole atmosphere of the arts, talent, and commitment with the artisans was amazing. They have so much pride in their Kentucky heritage and do a great job of sharing their talents with those visiting Berea,” Cole-Kramer said

Cole-Kramer was especially moved by being able to walk into the working studios and watch the artists creating their work out in the open. When observing a woman blowing glass beads at Old Town’s Hot Flash Beads, she found herself falling in love with the piece the woman was working on. However, she had to settle for another piece since the bead being blown was too hot.

When asked if she visited the Pinnacles, Kramer responded that unfortunately it was too hot last week when she visited, but she had climbed there before.

“I love that people from all over come to Berea just to hike there. The beauty at the Pinnacles in Berea really rivals that of even Red River Gorge,” she said.

Most importantly, though, Deborah remarked on the dedication that pervaded the artistic centers in Berea. When comparing Berea’s Kentucky art to other fine art, Kramer said the talent was the same, but the people were more willing to share their work with others. That’s not something that is true of all artistic hubs, she said.

The difficulty in writing a piece on Berea, she remarked, is that she did not want to leave anything out. This series has been rewarding for her because there really is so much to do in Kentucky, and there are a multitude of areas perfect for day trips.

Deborah said, “It makes me have more Kentucky pride to go to each of these cities and makes me proud to say, ‘I’ve been there, you should go there too.’”

Check out Berea featured in the “24 Hours In...” series by Deborah Cole-Kramer in the August Publication of Kentucky Monthly.

After experiencing the at-times wild atmospheres of other festivals, Paige decided to make a festival of her own where the main attraction would not be partying, but family-friendly activities focused on the arts. This arts festival was titled “PlayThink,” and this year it started on Wednesday, June 15. It will end on Sunday.

“I wanted to set up an environment and to make families feel safe to express themselves and learn to play as their children do. As adults we are stuck in a routine with no time for play. Flow arts such as yoga and hooping offer emotional and physical support,” Paige said.

Each year since the festival began in 2012, the gathering has grown tremendously. In this fifth year, 1000 participants are expected to partake in the 200 plus workshops led by 83 instructors.

Paige’s vision was to be able to design a weekend where parents and children enjoy workshops of all types, including drumming, parkour, aerial skills, spoken word, and dance. Performances also take place during the four-day festival’s packed schedule including many nightly musical performances along with fire spinners and stilt walkers alike to entertain.

As a camping festival, one field is allotted for those that wish to stay overnight from Thursday through Sunday afternoon. The other field contains activities throughout the four-day weekend. Those not outgoing enough to try their hand at fire walking or a drum circle can observe the art installations and enjoy the local shopping among the craft vendors at the fest. However, introverts beware: Paige has witnessed firsthand in past PlayThink weekends the transformative power of the arts that can make even the most withdrawn come out of their shell.

The main goal of PlayThink for Paige is to pass her experience along to others by “learning how

Organizations or activities that were turned down for paid sponsorships were Berea Farmers Market, Berea Trail Town, Celebrate the Harvest, Fall Mountain Folk Festival, Grow Appalachia, It’s Sew Berea, and KKY Trap Shoot. The Berea Arena Theater will receive $2,500, Berea Celtic Festival will receive $700, the 31st Christmas Chamber Parade will receive $1,100, First Friday will receive $2,000, Kentucky Guild Fair will receive $2,500, the Quilts Festival will receive $2,500, and the Victory Garden Blitz will receive $500. There was consensus from the commission members on all the activities except First Friday, which both Tourism chair Charles Arnold and commission member Dale Ballinger voted against, and the Victory Garden Blitz which Ballinger and commission member Cheryl Stone voted against.

It was confirmed at the meeting that Berea Tourism would pay for the bike stand out of special programs that Berea Trail Town had requested, even though they would not be paying for the total amount requested.

“As we have talked about tourism in Berea, and what we’re supporting,” Stone said, “we have supported the arts and crafts community, we’re also supporting the trails as one of our new areas, with a focus on outdoor activities and trails, and then we had a focus on Sustainable Berea. Am I missing any?”

Commission members talked about also supporting historic, but they had not received any sponsorship applications for that type of activity.

The paid sponsorships equaled $11,600, though they had budgeted over $26,000.

Commission members agreed to keep that money in the budget line for future activities or requests that may occur.

“We want some flexibility, but we don’t want to open it up for constant requests,” Arnold said.

Tourism commission members approved their 2016-17 budget, which will now be sent to city council for approval.

Arnold asked for nominations for the chair position, as well as vice-chair and treasurer. Tourism members agreed to discuss the positions at their next meeting.

finance concerning the compressor station addresses noise concerns as well as other environmental issues.

“I want to be a good partner. I think it’s important for all of us to have low utility costs, but at the same time those low utility costs can’t come at the expense of the people who live around these types of facilities,” Taylor said.

Kinder Morgan plans to repurpose the Tennessee Gas Pipeline that runs from Ohio into northeast Kentucky. The pipeline travels under northern Madison County.

“For over a year I’ve tried to have dialogue with Kinder Morgan,” Taylor said. “This repurposing and compressor station is going to happen, we’re just trying to keep our community safe. I don’t think we’re asking for anything that’s too harsh.”

County magistrates agreed, with Magistrate Larry Combs stating that Taylor had “bent over backwards,” to try to work with the energy company.

“Let’s not go backwards,” Combs said.

The letter from Kinder Morgan requested that they table the ordinances, and both Kentucky Gas and Kentucky Chamber objected to the county’s actions.

Magistrate John Tudor stated that members of the court had visited Danville, and modeled the ordinance on Boyle County’s. Tudor said they needed to regulate the compressor station because of the people who will live nearby.

“As elected officials of this county, we’re responsible for the health, safety, and welfare of the people in this community,” Magistrate Roger Barger said.

Magistrate Tom Botkin agreed, saying, “The ordinance is not the prescriptive in what it’s asking for. . . I think this ordinance needs to be put into place.”

Both ordinances were unanimously approved.

Magistrates expressed disappointment with how much the Madison County School system was allocating to the sheriff’s office for tax collection fees, after the preliminary tax settlement was presented to the court. Both Madison County Schools and Berea Community pay 1.5 percent to the sheriff’s office for collection, while all the other taxing districts pay 4.25 percent.

The Madison County school board votes on what percentage to pay. The sheriff’s office collects almost $27 million for the Madison County Schools, from almost $47 million total collected for Madison County.

“I’ve always said that’s not fair,” Combs said, pointing out later that if the sheriff didn’t collect the taxes, the school would not be able to collect their money.

Tommy Reynolds from the sheriff’s office gave the report, and stated that other county schools give more.

“If everyone would pay their fair share it would sure equal it out a fair bit,” Tudor said. “The Madison County School board is the largest tax base of anyone in the county.”

“Hopefully this will be the year that it won’t fall on deaf ears,” Botkin said, “because I remember them taking a four percent increase at the school board meeting this past year, so maybe some of it will fall our way.”

In other business:

- Madison County once again signed with KACO (Kentucky Association of Counties) for their property and liability insurance. They had bid the insurance out, but most agencies are wary of insuring a county with a jail. County Attorney Marc Robbins reported that KACO gives many services that other insurers do not, and they serve the counties well. The property and auto insurance decreased by $13,000 for the upcoming contract, and the worker’s comp decreased by $20,000. Everything else stayed the same.

- The fiscal court approved Riley Oil for their fuel. Richmond Petroleum’s bid was a cent lower, but a representative from the street department said Riley’s quality of fuel, availability, and service was much better, with superior service.

- The county clerk’s office received an excellent audit for 2015, with no recommendations, Clerk Kenny Barger announced.

- The 2016-17 budget was approved by the fiscal court.

- The fiscal court approved a Justice Administration Grant for $14,479 for the Madison County Sheriff’s office and the Richmond Police Department will split the amount evenly.

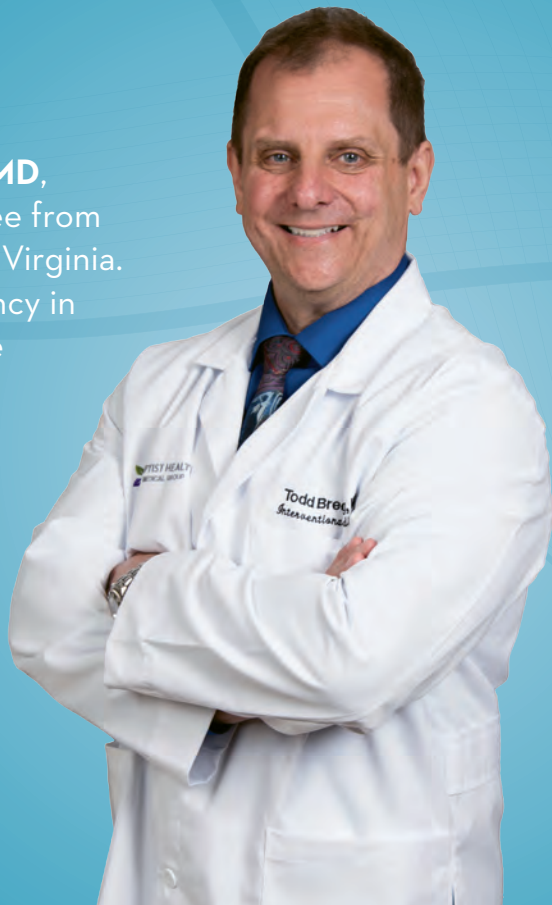

- Fiscal court signed the Safety City Agreement with the Madison County Health Department. Combs asked for them to come make a report to the court.

- A lease to the Madison County Fairgrounds was signed.

Sports Blast Camp Reaches Over 200 Kids

Around 250 kids are participating in Sports Blast in Berea -- a free, two-week summer camp sponsored by Crossroads Fellowship Church.

Crossroads has been sponsoring Sports Blast for seven years now, in the summer. This year, the camp started on June 6, and will end this Friday, June 17. Crossroads Fellowship held fundraisers throughout the year to fund the program, and also recruited some sponsors. But Jonas Hill, the pastor of Crossroads, said the main financial support came from the church's members and parents.

"Sports Blast was birthed in the heart of our pastors seven years ago," Hill said. "Crossroads Fellowship Church has a heart for children, we want to make a difference in as many children as possible. We exist to impact our community and the children of Madison County."

The two-week summer camp is not an inexpensive project for Crossroads. All 250 kids participate in soccer, karate, miniature golf, swimming, and fishing. Their meals and snacks are also provided, and some businesses have participated with Sports Blast to provide those.

The church also takes time for religious education during the two weeks, with Hill using scripture when speaking to the campers and counselors leading a music and praise program. The biggest age groups who participated in the camp this year, Hill said, were third graders and middle school attenders.

"I guarantee they will always remember Sports Blast," Hill said. "They are experiencing the love of Christ in a relevant way, and they are watching people take time out just for them. Each child feels accepted and welcomed at Sports Blast Day Camp. That makes it all worth it."

Word From Berea Streets

"What's your favorite memory that you created with your Dad?"

Chad Linville said, "I remember going to Conley Bottom on Lake Cumberland. Dad and I fished all night, and actually caught a few!"

Jeannette Rowlett said, "My Dad was a state representative from Laurel County. I remember the time I spent traveling and campaigning with him."

Karen Todd said, "Dad and I went fishing at Buck Creek on Lake Cumberland. He caught a big bass, but let me tell everyone I'd caught it. My photo was in the local paper!"

Registration for Splash and Dash Open Until June 20

Scholarship registration will continue until June 20 for the Daniel Boone Splash and Dash.

These scholarships are available for kids and teens from ages 6-15 who would like to participate in the first ever swim-run event in Berea. The competition is scheduled for Saturday, June 25 at 8:30 a.m. at the City of Berea pool. The Berea College Entrepreneurship for the Public Good Program summer students were successful in fundraising for the Splash and Dash, so that the youth could receive scholarships.

The registrations spiked after the online scholarship application at www.Bereatrails.com was taught to local parents and the City of Parks and Recreation staff at the pool. The scholarship submission consists of three website screens, 23 words and 115 characters.

"Registration should be easier than ordering from Amazon," say Vincent Davis, registration coordinator "and we field-tested the online scholarship model with the City of Berea pool staff on June 5."

Alberto Cepeda, sponsorship coordinator, reports that 50 scholarship were donated by Berea's small business to support the entry fees for youth participants.

Aaron Clark, registration coordinator, summarized the type of parents and youth that have registered. A kid like "Jenny", who is incredibly athletic, looks forward to the new challenge of a multisport event. Jenny plays numerous team sports, is especially gifted at soccer, and is part of the running club at school. The thought of a triathlon (swim-bike-run) has been in the back of her mind for a few months, and it feels less intense to try two events, swimming and running, first. In this type of multisport event, she will test herself, and have fun meeting other athletic kids who also enjoy a challenge.

Her brother, "Mason," also looks forward to the challenge of the swim-run. He is active but not athletic, swimming with his friends and running after his dog. Even though he knows he isn't the fastest runner or swimmer, he won't have to complete a rigorous training regimen to complete the Splash and Dash. He wants to test himself and looks forward to the encouraging and non-competitive atmosphere where every participant receives a medal upon crossing the finish line.

Mother "Sue", a self-avowed helicopter parent, looks forward to her offspring trying the Daniel Boone Splash and Dash. After her research, she believes it will be safe. The fact that USA Triathlon has reviewed and sanctioned the event is important, as is the fact that it is a closed course highlighting the City of Berea trail system. Although nervous, she is assured that race distances are designed to be challenging yet achievable, even for first-timers.

The younger group, ages 6-8, swims one lap or 50 meters and runs 500 yards. The 9-10 year-olds swim two laps, or 100 meters, and run 1 1/2 mile. The 11-12 age group swim 150 meters and run one mile. The final Splash and Dash age group of 13-15 swims 200 meters and runs 1 1/2

The scholarships were paid for by people who recognized the value of contributing to an active lifestyle, and who wish to increase the value of the City of Berea trail system designed by the Trail Town Committee. The Splash and Dash encourages a wide variety of youth to be active this summer instead of sitting on the couch. The event increases youth self-confidence in a fun, safe, accessible atmosphere.

The Splash and Dash will be followed by an awards ceremony at 10:30 a.m. with refreshments provided by Grow Appalachia.

For more information go to the Berea Splash and Dash Facebook Page, or register at www.Bereatrails.com.

Panoramic View of Berea Pool A photographer took a panoramic shot of the Berea Pool from the top of the slide on June 10, during the Dive-In Movie event. Once a month in the summer, Berea Parks and Recreation offers a free Friday evening swimming from 6 - 8 p.m., with a movie shown at dusk. Above, the crowd is watching The Good Dinosaur. Parks and Rec Director Priscilla Bloom reported that around 400 people attended the first Dive-In movie of the season -- which may be the biggest crowd ever. On July 15, Zootopia will be shown at the pool.

City Receives One Bid for New City Campus

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The City of Berea only received one bid for the proposed new City Hall campus, which includes expanded fire and police stations.

D. W. Wilburn from Lexington bid $9,958,000 for the new building. City architects had estimated that the project could cost $10 million. City Administrator Randy Stone announced that one other bid had been received, but it arrived after the deadline.

"I'm very disappointed that we didn't get more than one," council member Jerry Little said. "Did we give them enough time to respond?"

Stone reported that they sent out the notice for bids on May 23, with a June 21 deadline. They also held a pre-bid conference on June 8, where three contractors attended.

"A lot of people are very busy at this time," Stone said, who said that companies would have to be very large to bid on such a city building, because of the bonding potential needed.

Stone reported that he contacted different contractors, the architect contacted more contractors, and they followed the publicity requirements for such a project.

"If we need to re-bid it, we will," Stone said.

During council comments, council member Chester Powell suggested placing the names of people who have served in the military on one of the walls of the new city hall building. He stated that people who died for their country were usually honored, but he would like to honor the soldiers who are serving.

The council approved next year's budget on Tuesday night, with council members Ronnie Terrill and Chad Hembree voting no. Terrill has voted against every budget of the city since he has been in office.

Hembree stated that more money was budgeted for the new city hall than he was comfortable with, and he had some questions about expenditures that he needed answers for before voting affirmatively for the budget.

Cheyenne Olson walks down the unpaved section of Fee Street on the way to her house on Adams Street. This section of Fee was closed to vehicles in the 1980s because of the dangers, but many Bereans still use the walkway as a shortcut from the center of town towards the north end.

Fee Street: From Walkway to Driveway

By Marisa Hempel
Citizen Reporter

Fond stories come up when asking Bereans about their memories of "old" Fee Street, the unpaved section of the road that leads down the hill to Adams Street.

In the 1980s, the road was barricaded after it was deemed too steep of a grade to drive down. Mayor Steve Connelly from Adams Street remembers this well, "In 1972 my student labor [for

Knight's Lounge Relocated for More Space

By Kim Kobersmith
Citizen Reporter

After less than two years in business, local entertainment venue Knight's Lounge moved to an expanded location this month at 439 Chestnut Street, the old Monarch Treasures building.

"Knight's Lounge offers a place to hang out and the chance for people to connect and do something that they enjoy," co-owner

Dennis Sparks said.

While the store specializes in card games Magic the Gathering, Yu Gi Oh!, and Force of Will, they also have video and board games. There is no cost for interested participants to stop in and play any of their games. Knight's Lounge hosts game tournaments, and their store sells game cards, Nerf supplies, snacks, drinks, and art that includes jewelry, paintings, and wooden boxes.

Sparks said they had reached capacity at the old store, which is located across the street. Some of their events drew 60 people, which was hard to accommodate. Their new space holds up to 150. The owners also plan to expand the art gallery portion of the shop, since three of the four co-owners graduated with art degrees from

Berea School to Build Three New Classrooms

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

If all goes as planned, Berea Community School will be building three new classrooms at the start of the new calendar year.

"We'll be completing the circle," Berea Superintendent Mike Hogg said at the school board meeting on Monday. "We'll be using the grassy area that curves by the parking lot. They're feeling very confident that this will be funded."

The Berea School has needed the new classrooms for several years, since students have to currently walk outside to the building that holds tech classes as well as others. This building was initially built so that the

Bonnie Carol McCracken

Bonnie Carol McCracken, 71, of East Barker Lane, passed away suddenly at Baptist Health in Lexington. She was born in Garrard County to the late Harlan J. and Alene Long Prewitt.

Bonnie was a receptionist at Morning Pointe in Richmond.

In addition to her parents, Bonnie was preceded in death by her brothers, David, William, and Delbert Prewitt. She is survived by her husband, Roy McCracken; two sons, Larry McCracken and Barry McCracken; one daughter, Jennifer McCracken; and two sisters, Pearline (Jim) Bicknell and Ramona (Jackie) Fayne.

Funeral services were at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, June 22, 2016 at Lakes Funeral Home with Rev. Allen Livingston officiating. Burial followed in the Lancaster Cemetery. Active pallbearers were Michael Fayne, Kevin Fayne, Jackie Fayne, Derrick Rhoudus, Danny Abney and Jason Abney. Condolences may be left at www.lakesfuneralhome.com

Andrew Pearson

Andrew Pearson, 80, passed away on June 14, 2016. He was a native of Berea, and the son of the late Richard and Lucy Knuckles Pearson.

Andrew was a member of Church on the Rock. He loved his family and loved to visit people. He was an avid U.K. Wildcats fan, and also loved the dirt track.

He is survived by his wife, Arnold Mae Pearson of Berea; his 13 children, including his daughters, Margaret (Dwayne) Miller of Berea, Lucy (Chris) Seals of Cartersville, Rose Linderman of Richmond, Christina (Ronnie) Powell of Berea, Connie Tuttle of Berea, and Billie (Charles) Sue Lea of Berea; and his sons, Richard (Sarah) Pearson of Berea, Joseph Sell of Berea, Ike Combs of Richmond, Ted Combs of Okeechobee, Fla., Paul (Ruthanne) Combs of Richmond, Virgil (Barbara) Sell of Berea, and Mark (Teresa) Sell of Richmond; his brother, Jerry Wayne Cline of Lexington; 29 grandchildren; 22 great grandchildren; and six great-great grandchildren.

Other than his parents, Andrew was preceded in death by his brothers, Harold and John Lewis Pearson.

Funeral services for Andrew took place at 11 a.m. on Friday, June 17, 2016 at Church on the Rock with Rev. Mark Sarver and Rev. Floyd Isaacs officiating. Burial followed in the Walleceton Cemetery. Pallbearers were Steve Walden, Bimbo Robinson, Billy Carpenter, Elias Gonzales, Chris Seals, and John Tuttle. www.davisandpowellfuneralhome.com

Mildred Grace Burns

Mildred Grace Burns, 90, widow of Philmore Burns, went to be with the Lord on Sunday, June 19, 2016 at the Hospice Compassionate Care Center. She was born in Clay County to the late Noah and Bertha Bowling Hibbard, Grace was a former employee of Parker Seal Company of Berea, and Sodexo Berea College Food Service.

She was also the oldest member of the Wayside Christian Church. Grace was preceded in death by her husband, Philmore Burns; her sister, Beulah Asher; and her daughter, Patty Shouse.

Grace is survived by her grandchildren, Phillip (Lora) Shouse, Grasha (Randy) Cain, and Patrick Shouse; her great grandchildren, Scott (Kala) Cain, Seth Cain, Sara (Cody) Robinson, and Dwayne (Paige) Shouse; and her great-great grandchildren, Abram Cain, Stella Grace Cain, and her special caregiver, Kathy Spillman.

Visitation will be Wednesday from 6-9 p.m. at Lakes Funeral Home. In lieu of flowers, donations are suggested to Hospice Care Plus. Online condolences at www.lakesfuneralhome.com.

Thomas Kelly Ambrose

Thomas Kelly Ambrose, 58, passed away at home surrounded by family on the evening of June 20, 2016. A native of Berea, Kelly was born on January 11, 1958 in Frankfort to Helen and Thomas B. Ambrose.

A graduate of Berea Community High School and Berea College in 1982, Kelly held an advanced degree from Eastern Kentucky University. In 2002, he joined the faculty of Berea College as an assistant professor of health and human performance. He taught courses in wellness, hiking and camp craft, team and individual sports, and outdoor adventure.

While at Berea College, Kelly coached track and field as well as women's volleyball. He also led student trips to Colorado and Ireland, two places he discovered were second homes during his travels. He loved to share them with others.

Kelly's love for Colorado and the mountains began at the age of 16, when he worked as a wrangler at the Peaceful Valley dude ranch in Lyons, Colorado. He met his wife, Cheryl, there in 1978. Later on, they spent family summers at the ranch riding, hiking, dancing, and singing — Kelly's favorite kinds of "required fun."

Kelly is survived by his wife, Cheryl Lemond Ambrose; three children, Caitlin (Declan) Ambrose Murphy, Riley Ambrose, and Luther O'Cooney Ambrose; four sisters, Colleen (Bob Montgomery) Ambrose, Kathy (Tom) Todd, Neena Ambrose, and Eileen (John) Ramsey; two half siblings, Dan (Teresa) Ambrose and Tomi Garrison; and 13 nieces and nephews. He was preceded in death by his mother and father.

Prior to working at Berea College, Kelly taught at Model Laboratory School in Richmond and Sayre School in Lexington where he coached basketball and soccer.

Kelly is remembered as a devoted father and husband, and a passionate educator, coach, mentor, and prankster, who taught his students to find joy in the world, and was a constant source of laughter and support for his family and countless friends, as well as an avid outdoorsman who passed on a passion and respect for the wilderness and the natural world to those around him.

Visitation will be held during the evening on Saturday, June 25 at the Berea College Seabury Center. A memorial service will be held at Union Church on the evening of Sunday, June 26. Times for the visitation and memorial service are pending; people should check the Davis and Powell website (www.davisandpowellfuneralhome.com) or the Ambrose Army Facebook page for further details.

In lieu of flowers, the family would ask that you make a donation to help Berea College students study abroad in Ireland, a place very dear to Kelly's heart. Checks can be made payable to Berea College, with "Kelly Ambrose/Ireland" in the memo line, and mailed to Berea College, CPO 2216, Berea, KY, 40404.

Hubert H. Webb

Hubert H. Webb, 82, died Saturday, June 18, 2016 at Madison Health and Rehab in Richmond. A native of the Red Lick community, he was born to the late Robert Lee and Polly Davidson Webb.

Mr. Webb was a farmer, and was of the Holiness faith. Other than his parents, he was preceded in death by 15 brothers and sisters.

He is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, June 21, at the Davis and Powell Funeral Home with Bro. Ermon Turner & Bro. Vester Alexander officiating. Burial followed in the Webb Cemetery in Red Lick. His nephews served as pallbearers. www.davisandpowellfuneralhome.com

JB Queen's Writing Inspired by Berea, KY Heritage

By Barb Walters
Special to the Citizen

Accomplished writer JB Hamilton Queen was born in Berea, and grew up on a 160 acre farm in Opossum Kingdom near the Wilder-ness Trail.

Known to her classmates as Janis, Queen attended Berea schools during second and third grade, and completed her elementary work at Kirksville. She returned to Berea for her sophomore and junior years of high school, but graduated from Madison Central in 1958.

"I have a voracious need to read as well as to write," Queen said. "I love doing research for my novels and I often get sidetracked by an exciting story idea."

Queen, who never lost her Kentucky accent, now lives in Sarasota, Fla., with her husband. Her careers have included secretary, singer, model, nightclub owner, manufacturer and fashion designer. In 1986, Queen and her company designed and manufactured warm up suits for the top 50 professional women tennis players of the world. The presentation took place in Madison Square Garden in New York.

Queen's writing career began more than 25 years ago when she told her mother's story in the fiction novel, Raincrow. Mentored and encouraged by author friends, she has contributed to writers' magazines, as well as Nikoo McGoldrick and James A. McGoldrick's nonfiction book, Marriage of Minds: Collaborative Fiction Writing. Dolls Remembered, Nostalgia Digest, Yesterday's Magazette, and Doorways have included her work.

In all, Queen has written six novels. Along with Raincrow, she has published Imminent Reprisal, Masters of the Breed, Sweet Gums, Dagger in the Cup, and Sting. Dagger in the Cup won the 2014 Indie Excellence Book Award in the category of 'faction,' a work based on fact but fictionalized, and the Bronze Medal in the IPPY (Independent Publishers Book Award) for Best Regional Fiction. Dagger in the Cup was noted by Tina Fey, who rated the book number one in a list of New York Times Bestsellers regarding women's reproductive rights.

Queen's most recent novel, Sting, won the Beverly Hills Book Award, the IPPY Bronze in LGBT Fiction, and is a finalist in the National Indie Excellence Awards for LGBT fiction.

"I enjoy bringing my heritage to the page," Queen said, "the beauty of the Kentucky countryside, the strength of those who live there, and the courage that dwells within them all."

Berea Students Achievements

Two students from Berea graduated with bachelor's degree from Berea College on Sunday, May 8 at the Commencement Service.

Charles Gallimore received a bachelor's degree with a major in history, and Anna Taylor of Berea received a bachelor's degree with a major in Spanish.

There were 216 graduating seniors at Berea College's commencement, along with several dozen others who will complete their degree requirements in August.

Sebastian Brown of Berea graduated from Centre College during the 193rd Commencement ceremony held on campus Sunday, May 22. Brown received a bachelor of science degree in behavioral neuroscience. He is the son of Brandy Oliver Brown and Chris Brown, and a graduate of Berea Community High School.

Elizabeth Hogg of Berea qualified for the Dean's List at Emory and Henry College for the 2016 spring semester. To qualify for the Dean's List, a student must achieve at least a 3.6 (A-minus) grade-point average and must complete at least 12 credit hours of course work during the semester.

school and Berea Parks and Recreation could partner on some projects. The school ended up taking it over, however.

“We need to limit the exposure of our students,” Hogg said. “Once these classrooms are built, they’ll be able to stay within the school for all their classes.

Hogg plans to put the project out to bid in October, with plans for construction to start in December or January. They will also be bidding out for a new HVAC system, since their bond potential is strong enough for both projects. The HVAC project, however, will not take place until the summer, since the building needs to be unoccupied.

The first day of school for Berea Community has been set for August 10, at least a week later than usual so that there’s maximum time for the project. Hogg remarked that a shorter time frame can lead to a larger bid, since overtime would be calculated in.

Former elementary school principal Emily Reed will be returning to Berea Community as the director of student learning. This position is similar to the former director of district-wide services job, but will concentrate more on student learning and less on assessment. District Finance Officer Debbie Holbrook will be resigning this year, and Tony Tomkins, the district technology coordinator, will be transitioning to that position.

Hogg announced that Berea Community has placed in the top 15 -20 schools in Kentucky because of their ACT scores. The scores, he said, have had strong, steady growth.

“This board has invested heavily in math,” Hogg said, “and we’re seeing a positive climb in the math scores.”

In other business:

- An overall raise will not be given next year to staff and faculty. The past two years, Berea Community had to raise salaries because of a Kentucky law. “I wish we could do more for our staff,” board member Will Bondurant said.

- Berea Community renewed property and liability insurance with Linville Insurance, as well as student accident coverage.

Entries Requested for Have A Seat Exhibit

The deadline for Kentucky artists to submit entries for the exhibit “Have a Seat: Chairs by Kentucky Artisans” at the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea is July 2, 2016. The exhibit will be held from Sept. 17, 2016 through Feb. 25, 2017.

This exhibit will showcase a wide variety of three-dimensional forms and interpretations of the chair form.

Artists can create a chair using raw materials in any medium, or they can repurpose an existing chair to create a new work. Chairs can be functional or non-functional, but should be recognizable as a three dimensional chair form. Chairs can be tiny or large, as long as dimensions don’t exceed four feet in height and three feet in width. Both traditional and innovative chairs are sought for this exhibit.

Information about the exhibit and an entry form are available on the center’s website. An entry form and prospectus can also be requested by mail at: Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea, Attn: “Have a Seat,” 200 Artisan Way, Berea, KY 40403 or by calling 859-985-5448.

FEE

Berea College] was to deliver papers for The Berea Citizen. I used Fee Street as a short cut when I was out carrying papers in my scout jeep and the engine quit about halfway up! It was a danger to drive because the elevated part has quite a drop off.”

Jim Bowman of Berea also remembers delivering papers, and laughs about his days on the road. “It was a wild ride on your bike,” Bowman said. “If you weren’t careful you’d run straight through the yard across the street on Adams! It is a great short cut to get to different areas of Berea so I always saw many people using it.”

The unpaved section of Fee Street remains a pleasant walkway for pedestrians. The street’s location makes it ideal for cut throughs, traveling north from the center of Berea. The old asphalt is still partially intact, however, and nature does keep encroaching from the wooded areas on the sides.

Recently, Cheyenne Olson from Adams Street and several volunteers cleared away much of the brush that accumulated on the end of Fee Street to allow for better pedestrian traffic. The closed section of Fee runs directly through Olson’s property and the 1.4 acre plot that is now the Berea Urban Farm. Many travel the road on Saturday mornings, attending such activities as the Farmer’s market, which is much easier to travel after the clean-up.

Connelly, who is well-versed in the history of this charming piece of thoroughfare, said the road was named after the Reverend Fee shortly after the Berea College founder died in 1901. Connelly commented that the location of the old Berea High School was significant for this pathway, as it was located where the bank at the top of Fee is now.

“The football team would run down the street to Memorial Park (their field at the time) in the early sixties and would use the steep incline as a conditioner for practice on their way back to the school,” Connelly said.

The road has been declared too narrow for switchbacks, which would make it easier to navigate with a vehicle, so it has not been repaved since closing decades ago. Still, many are amazed that this little pathway still exists and is frequently travelled by many pedestrians. Connelly said there have been ideas thrown around city council to renew the area that was once called “Farmer’s Hill” in the 20th century, because of the Farmer family that lived at the crest of the hill.

There are no plans to add lighting or re-pave the roadway as of now, but it exists as an interesting piece of Berea history that was once bustling with cars and can still be visited anytime as a walkway.

“There were several areas where even if we didn’t end up spending the full amount, I would rather that the amount wasn’t written down,” Hembree said.

The 2016-17 budget estimated a fund balance of $11,395,131 as of July 1.

City revenues are estimated to be $20,110,621, with expenditures estimated to be $25,592,556. Estimated revenues for Berea Municipal Utilities is $20,559,900, with expenditures estimated to be $18,911,730.

In other business:

- The 4th of July celebration will host sand sculpture artist Damon Farmer this year at the Berea City Park. Free swimming will start at 6 p.m. on July 4. In addition to the sculpture, there will be live music, food vendors, inflatables, a climbing wall, and face painting.

- It was announced that Noodle Nirvana would open in approximately a week.

- New signs for the City of Berea should be installed in a few weeks, Stone announced. Berea College will be working on their sign program in the

The Terrace Names June 2016 Employee of the Month

Beverly Cress, SRNA has been chosen as our June Employee of the Month. She has been at The Terrace for almost a year. When Beverly was asked what being named Employee of the Month meant to her she stated, “It makes me feel like I’m doing something right.” She added, “What I like most about working at The Terrace is interacting with our residents, making them smile and making them feel better.” Kelly Belcher, Director of Nursing, stated, “Beverly is a hard worker and is dedicated to her job. She has a big heart for our residents and she will do whatever is asked of her to ensure a better quality of life for our residents. I’m proud that she is a part of The Terrace team.”

Beverly wanted to share a little bit of her past that led her to doing what she does today. She took care of her son at home for several years before he passed away. She stood by his side and did whatever was needed to make his life the best that it could be. She states, “It inspired me to help other people and that’s what started my journey here at The Terrace. It makes me feel good to help others and I know my son would be proud of me.”

What Do You Know?

RESPONSE TO PHOTO FROM LAST WEEK

The photo from last week was of the Mallory School in Red Lick, and it was taken in 1922. One caller said it was called Mallory Springs, and people would often use the sulfur springs in the area.

Linda Alcorn, whose maiden name was Johnson, identified her grandmother as the teacher of the school, Hallie Davis, on the far right of the photo. Hallie married a Johnson. Hallie would travel by horse and buggy to the school, and would stay with the Slushers during the week. She would return home to the Silver Creek area for the weekend.

National leaders' oaths are hollow words

Dear Editor,

It seems to this writer that from 1963 on, the oath that our "national" leaders have taken to defend this country has become hollow words.

When Franklin Roosevelt, Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower, and Jack Kennedy took the oath to defend this country, that oath was set in concrete. The caliber of leaders that these men were does not exist today, and will not exist tomorrow.

Our country was attacked in California, again in Orlando, and no response at all from our "national" leaders. Yet we have come a long way in medical matters, communication, etc. There is another matter missing today in people's heart and soul -- letting your word be your bond.

Considering our Food Choices

I think a lot of us are finding food a complicated issue.

When I was little, I never remember my mom having to think about food allergies, or intolerances, or even specially chosen diets when she would host dinners or plan dishes for a potluck. The only special diet was vegetarian, and there weren't many of those running around in Mississippi.

At one point, I decided to become a vegetarian, because of political beliefs. On one of my summer breaks from college, I was going to attend a birthday party on the Choctaw reservation where my parents served as ministers. I knew the meal would be heavily meat, so I proclaimed with much drama that I couldn't possibly go because it would be impossible to keep to my chosen diet -- a diet that was superior for both environmental and health reasons. My father then sat me down to have one of those transformational talks that he's so good at. He used the Biblical story of the woman coming and washing Jesus' feet with perfume, where the disciples said she should have sold it and given the money to the poor.

My dad told me that in principle, she probably should have sold it and given the money away. But Jesus knew that she needed to give this gift, and he put her needs and generosity above the principle. People need to come before our principles sometimes, dad said. Then he asked me, did I get it?

Yeah, I got it.

So I attended the party, and I ate the food that had been prepared by Native American friends who needed to give this food as a gift to their guests. And that's when I decided to no longer be a vegetarian.

I've always remembered that talk -- as I mentioned, my dad was pretty good at those talks that would transform the way I saw the world. And that's why I struggle often with the food diets that people choose, and how that affects communities that often relate around shared meals and shared dishes.

I realize that food allergies and intolerances are in a different category, since people are at the mercy of what their bodies can handle. It's the chosen diets -- vegan, lacto vegetarian, raw foods diet, fruitarian diet, vegetarian, etc. that I struggle with. By choosing such specific food plans, a person is putting themselves outside community meals, and taking away the ability to receive whatever food a loved one prepares.

On the one hand, I want to be respectful and learn to prepare food that meets all individual diets. But on the other hand, I wonder if people are putting their food principles above their neighbors, and above the need we all have to share food with those we're in community with.

Vendor saddened that festival is cancelled

Dear Editor,

It greatly saddens me to learn that a dispute between the Chamber of Commerce and the City of Berea's governmental offices over the presence of a Confederate Flag has led to the cancellation of the Spoon Bread Festival.

We have been vendors at the Spoon Bread Festival for the past five years, and our sales have shown continuous growth to the point where this is one of the top events that we attend. I want to clearly state that this is absolutely the best organized festival that we attend, and I am sure that the cancellation of this event is a tremendous loss not only to the Berea area businesses, but to the greater community as well.

On a personal note, I am a northerner from Wisconsin who has only lived in the Lexington area for six years, but I have always been received with gracious southern hospitality on every occasion. The Civil War and the Confederacy is and always will be a part of American history, and it should simply be regarded as such.

I truly feel sorry for everyone in Berea as all will lose as a result of this dispute. If the Spoon Bread Festival ever resurrects itself, we would be honored to once again have the opportunity to participate in your community's celebration of, of all things Spoon Bread. Good luck my friends and I wish everyone well. Thank you.

Southern Baptist Convention condemns flag

Dear Editor,

With the ongoing concerns in our community over the Confederate battle flag, the Berea Chamber of Commerce, and the canceling of the Spoonbread Festival, I found it noteworthy to read of the Southern Baptist Convention's vote this week to condemn the flag and its display.

The resolution passed by the Convention states, "We call our brothers and sisters in Christ to discontinue the display of the Confederate battle flag as a sign of solidarity of the whole Body of Christ, including our African-American brothers and sisters."

Over a dozen churches in the Berea area are listed as members of the Southern Baptist Convention.

The head of the denomination's Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission wrote after the vote, "Does this change the game as it applies to the crushing issues of racial injustice around us? Of course, it does not. But at the same time, we cannot dismiss this as just about symbols.

Symbols matter."

I sincerely hope that the Berea Chamber of Commerce and its members, as well as other outspoken Confederate flag supporters in our community, will soon catch up with the times. Then again, maybe the members of the Chamber will stick with their principles, dig in their heels, and vote to cancel church.

Support immigration reform, for my family

Dear Editor:

I'm writing to use this Father's day to share my experience with the immigration system and to show how it can hurt families.

I cannot remember a specific time when I found out I was undocumented, but I knew something was up. For example, whenever we would drive, I would hear my parents discuss how we need to be careful for the police or avoid driving in certain areas because they feared any stop could result in detention and deportation.

I have been protected under the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) since 2012. This grants myself and other young adults relief from deportation, but it does not ensure that our parents and families are protected. There is always a chance that I could come home from Berea College and find that my parents have been deported. Because our laws are out of date, there is often no way to enter or become lawfully present and that means millions of people are permanently separated from their parents and children.

I believe that no matter where we were born, we are all people and our immigration laws should recognize this. Our country should not permanently separate families and should stop revisiting inhumane laws that target our community specifically. Treating all people with compassion can help us modernize our immigration system in a way that benefits us all. I think we have had enough of the rhetoric that constantly dehumanizes us for our identity and values.

I encourage your readers to contact their legislators and encourage them to support immigration reform so my family can stay together.

Berea Delegates Chosen for National Democratic Convention

On June 4 in Louisville, several Democrats from Madison County were selected to be Kentucky delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

The national convention will be held at the Wells Fargo Center in Philadelphia, Pa., from July 25 - 28. The delegates from Madison County will be a part of the 55 pledged delegates representing Secretary Hillary Clinton and Senator Bernie Sanders.

Allison Emmons of Richmond was selected to be a delegate for Sec. Clinton.

Dr. Delinda Dent of Richmond, Kenny Madden of Berea, and Jessica Wells of Berea were selected to be delegates for Sen. Sanders.

When asked why he wanted to be a Sen. Sanders delegate, Kenny Madden said, "I ran to be a delegate for Senator Bernie Sanders because I want to show my unwavering support for Bernie and his bold progressive agenda at the Democratic National Convention."

Sen. Sanders delegate, Jessica Wells said, "I am excited to be a delegate for Sen. Sanders because I believe in the same progressive agenda that Bernie is calling for. I feel both honored and blessed to have been elected to represent strong progressive Kentucky values and show unyielding support for a candidate who has a long and consistent record of fighting for the people of this country. Together we can change the face of politics and establish a government that works for all of us, not just a few."

had speaking or musical parts and the building was filled with the aroma of fresh cut flowers.

Commencements were complete with baccalaureate services, speakers, caps, and gowns. Presentations were made and events were attended by Berea College presidents Frost and Hutchins of Berea, and Whitney Young of Lincoln Institute. Henry Allen Laine, author of "Footprints", and many other notables of the day, frequented the school and addressed the student body.

Middletown's life as a social and educational center did not stop when it closed its doors in 1963. Although vacant and dormant for several years, community leaders re-established it as a community center. It housed a Head Start program, was revitalized for the Gear Up Program, and currently houses the Partners for Education. When the Middletown School building was renovated in 2007, care was taken to preserve much of the original building, including the general layout, much of the flooring, and the wooden folding classroom dividers.

Recognizing the need to capture more history of the school, an evening story telling session was held in 2006 at the First Baptist Church of Berea at Middletown. Oral histories were collected and videotaped. The evening event was organized and moderated by Dr. Janice Burdette Blythe, a Berea College professor, and Tim Jordan, public relations director at Berea College. Videotaped conversations included recollections of Mrs. Dorothy Miller, the school's last living teacher, and fifteen former students. Documentation of this gathering is housed in Berea College Special Collections at Hutchins Library and will be shared at the upcoming reunion.

veterans, general laborers, religious leaders, legal, medical, and educational professionals, and corporate executives. Teachers of Middletown were college educated, including Professor Robert Blythe who served as principal, school superintendent and teacher throughout the school's history.

Blythe was a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and Kentucky State College where he also taught agriculture. His sister, Nancy Blythe Deatherage, also a graduate of Kentucky State and U.C., taught the primary grades from 1938 until the school closed in 1963. Another teacher, Dorothy White Miller, was educated at Knoxville College and Kentucky State, later receiving an advanced degree from the University of Kentucky.

Deatherage and Miller, as well as other black Madison County teachers, were required to retire or to retrain as librarians once the school systems became de-segregated. They were not allowed to teach in the former all-white schools. Deatherage became the Silver Creek librarian and Miller became White Hall librarian in Richmond.

Middletown School served as an educational and social center for the area's African-American community. In 1930, for example, "Negro Farmers' Day" was held at the school, with 400 farmers, teachers and community members in attendance. In the same year, students from Middletown participated in a major theatre production at Berea College, "Vincit Qui Patitur". By 1954 Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and 4-H clubs were active school groups. Occasional visits by storyteller Henrietta Childs and puppet shows by Mrs. Bangson were monthly highlights. The school was noted for its end of the year plays and operettas where all the costumed students it was their second home. The friendly staff members also help new gamers get started.

Each week Knight's Lounge holds card and video game tournaments, most with entrance fees. The most popular is Friday Night Magic, which draws a crowd of around 25. County Pictorial History Book Available to Order

The Madison County Historical Society, which took over the long-term sales for the Madison County Pictorial History Book, has been accepting pre-paid, reserved orders since February.

Sufficient orders have been received to enable the contract for reprinting by Acclaim Press to proceed. Expected delivery of the book is anticipated for late July. The MCHS will announce the dates and location for pickup once the books are on-hand.

"We are extremely pleased to move forward as our many friends who placed orders with payments months ago have been getting antsy. It is now a new ballgame for those who still want a copy but did not wish to commit money to unsettled availability. A key point at this time is that we have books available for those who have not yet placed an order," stated Historical Society President Tom Black.

Anyone wanting to reserve a copy should send a note to Madison County Historical Society, Inc., Po Box 397, Richmond, Ky 40476-0397 or an email to INFO@MADISONHISTORYKY.ORG, or call him at 859-582-6963 to obtain an order form. These are also available at the library, the Arts Center, and several banks.

The book still sells for only $50 if pre-ordered for local pick-up. Pre-paid pricing remains the same price as that of the original printing. However, after delivery of the books, due to increased costs with the reprinting, the "over-the-counter" sales cost will increase to $55. The "best deal" for buyers and the MCHS is to pre-order now at the low original price as well as insuring that a book is reserved for the buyer.

Hempel Receives KBA Scholarship

Marisa Hempel, a junior at ECU, is one of five students statewide selected to receive the Kentucky Broadcasters Association's Harry Barfield Scholarship.

Hempel, who lives in Berea, is a broadcasting and electronic media major. She will receive a $2,500 scholarship for the 2016-17 academic year.

The scholarships are awarded through a competitive application process that includes academic achievement, the recommendation of a faculty member, and extra-curricular activities. The awards are renewable for a second year provided recipients continue to meet specified criteria.

"The KBA is proud to be able to help these talented students pursue their higher education," said Henry Lackey, president and CEO of KBA. "This year's total of $20,000 in scholarship awards means the KBA now has awarded a total of $245,000 in scholarships since the inception of the program in the 1992-93 academic year."

Appalachian Singer, Storyteller to Perform June 28

Songs in Common: Exploring The Ballad Traditions of Western North Carolina and Eastern Kentucky, will include research from McMillon's 2015-2016 Sound Archives Fellowship, a program of Berea College's Special Collections and Archives.

The event is free and open to the public. Those who attend will enjoy a light supper of soupbeans, cornbread and salad provided by the Berea College Farm Store. Supper will be served at 6 p.m. and the program will begin at 6:30 p.m. The Loyal Jones Appalachian Center is located in Stephenson Hall on North Main Street.

Born and raised in Lenoir, N.C., Bobby McMillon became fascinated with traditional stories, ballads, and religious songs as a child, learning from his grandparents and other older relatives in the southern Appalachian region. Since 1978, McMillon has forged a career as a professional ballad singer and storyteller with an authentic performance style, often sharing his knowledge as an artist-in-residence at many educational institutions and performing at prestigious venues such as the Smithsonian Folklife Festival and the World's Fair.

McMillon is one of the finest and best-loved Appalachian singers, known for his encyclopedic knowledge of traditional ballads and lore and his rare ability to convey to listeners a feeling for the world from which the stories come.

This event is co-sponsored by Berea College Special Collections and Archives and the Loyal Jones Appalachian Center. For more information about this event, please contact Sam Gleaves at Samuel_Gleaves@berea.edu.

Clark to Present on Kentucky Vietnam Veterans

Jerry Clark of Berea will be giving a presentation on Kentucky Vietnam veterans on Tuesday, June 28 at the Berea Arts Council.

Clark's talk is part of the Conversation Cafe series that the Berea Arts Council hosts. He will be speaking from 6 - 7 p.m. at the council's gallery space in Old Town Artisan Village.

Clark will be speaking of his retrospective project that is titled, "South-eastern Kentucky Vietnam Combat Veterans' Oral History." Clark, who has a master's in social work, spent over 30 years working with troubled Vietnam veterans. He also spent a two and a half year tour of duty in Vietnam.

When asked what prompted this important work, Clark said, "I wanted to preserve the lived experiences of combat veterans and thought this was the best way to capture what is 'war' unvarnished."

The event is free and open to the community. Please call 859-985-9317 for more information.

Berea Teen to Compete at State After Outstanding Marks at District Horse Show

Ashlyn Popiwczak from Berea, with her horse Zip Bama above, recently competed at the 4-H District Horse Show, and received the highest marks for showmanship, western pleasure, hunter under saddle, and western horsemanship. The 14-year-old has always been reportedly “horse crazy”; she spent many years as a young kid saving pennies to buy her first horse. She was also named the 2016 Kentucky State 4-H Champion in Jr. High Individual Hippology.

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

When Ashlyn Popiwczak was nine years old, she brought jars of pennies and other coins to her mom and told her she thought she had enough to buy a horse.

“I knew at that point that this was it, it was time to do something,” Kammy Popiwczak said. “I thought, ‘what do I do now?’”

For years, horse crazy Ashlyn had been bugging her mom to purchase a horse for her. Now she had saved up around $800 by hoarding pennies, birthday money, and any other coins that came her way. Though her savings wasn’t nearly enough to purchase a horse, Kammy was impressed by her daughter’s determination and focus.

“I told her first we needed to get some lessons, find out about horse care, all that, before buying a horse,” Kammy said.

Now five years later, Ashlyn is the proud owner of two horses, and will be traveling to the Kentucky State Horse show in Louisville after earning Red and Blue Danishes – the highest competitive rankings -- in the District 4 Horse Show on June 12. She and her new horse, Zip Bama, will be traveling to the Expo Center the first week of July to compete in the categories of Western Pleasure, Hunter Under Saddle, Western Horsemanship, and Showmanship.

“I’m nerva-excited,” Ashlyn said with a grin, as she considered her upcoming competition in Louisville. “I really love competing, it’s really fun, but I don’t have to win to enjoy it.”

Ashlyn was also proclaimed the 2016 Kentucky State 4-H Champion in Jr. High Individual Hippology on June 10. A Madison County 4-H Saddle Club member, Ashlyn had to take a 2.5 hour exam that tested her horse knowledge, as well as judging three classes of horses and getting tested at different information stations. Her combined scores led to her overall first place award.

“I was really proud of this award,” Ashlyn said. “I hadn’t really prepared for it, and I didn’t study.”

What Ashlyn has been doing for the past several years is reading and studying everything she could get her hands on about horses. After taking the hippology exam, Kammy said Ashlyn came out with a grin, saying, “I nailed it.”

The Popiwczaks moved to Berea from New York six years ago. While it was difficult to fulfill Ashlyn’s horse dreams up north, with limited space and stables, Madison County offered the needed resources. After Ashlyn brought her pennies to Kammy, she decided to set her up with riding lessons. Ashlyn fell instantly in love with the pony she first handled, Handsome, but Kammy noticed that the horse was ill-groomed, neglected, and depressed. His owners had abandoned him at the stables, and were no longer paying for his care. The stable owner decided to use him for lessons, so there would be a way for the horse to earn his keep.

“I decided to buy him,” Kammy said, who reported that she was as “horse crazy” as her daughter. “There was no way I was going to let his owners keep him.”

After tons of time tracking down the owners, and going through legal channels, the Popiwczaks purchased Handsome, who flourished under their care.

“At that time my daughter was getting bullied at her elementary school, and this horse was neglected, so the two of them seemed to bond and get better together,” Kammy said, who has since pulled Ashlyn out of public school to homeschool her.

Though Ashlyn loved Handsome, a wounded and poorly trained pony wasn’t the easiest first horse to learn on. She said he was “too much horse for me at that time.”

“He had a lot of go in him, and I had a lot of ‘whoa!’ in me,” Ashlyn quipped.

She ended up taking Handsome to the District Horse Show when she was 12 years old, but Handsome was not a good show horse. Though she still loves to ride him, she leased the horse, Zip Bama a few months ago, a 14-year-old mare with strong training who matched well with Ashlyn. At her recent 14th birthday, Kammy surprised her by purchasing the horse for her.

Kammy said she was especially proud of her daughter’s success at the District Horse Show, since Ashlyn has never worked extensively with a trainer. Her education came about with research and reading, and she practices with Zip Bama at least five days a week. And unlike many participants in the horse shows, Ashlyn is not driven by the ribbons; she is driven by her consuming passion for her horses.

She is also somewhat of a “horse whisperer,” Kammy reported. Ashlyn has worked with horses that have been mis-used and mis-behaved, and she quickly establishes a rapport with them, which leads to successful training. At this point, both Kammy and Ashlyn think it’s likely that Ashlyn will pursue an equestrian career as a vet or a trainer.

“I’m a lot more relaxed, and happier since I’ve been working with horses,” Ashlyn said. “Like they say, life is a lot better with horses.”

Word From Berea Streets

Maverick Perez and Brianna Berkemeier said, “We like eating snow cones and playing in the pool in front of the house.”

Caden Allen, at his 5th birthday party, said, “I like to shoot water guns and throw water balloons. And I like swimming and fishing in the lake.”

Nik Payne said, “I like to go swimming at the Berea Pool and I love popsicles and ice cream.”

Jail Overcrowding Becoming Dire, $40 Million Facility Recommended

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

When it comes to the overcrowding of the jail in Madison County, it was reported earlier this month, there are many problems but few solutions.

Many people in Madison County learned how dire the situation was on June 2, when Deputy Judge Colleen Chaney reported for the Jail Task Force, which has been meeting for approximately a year.

"This is an unsustainable situation," Chaney said. "We have $3.8 million from property taxes coming in, that is our revenue stream with regards to tax dollars, and the jail is costing over half of that. Decisions will have to be made."

Chaney reported that since that report, feedback has been pouring in from the community. Around 95 percent of comments have been positive, with people giving suggestions and offering assistance, and the five percent have been people concerned with the potential costs of building a new complex to house all the inmates.

"A large majority of people of that 95 percent appreciate our discussing of changing from incarcerating people to actually healing them," Chaney said.

What Judge Executive Reagan Taylor, Chaney, and others involved in the task force were especially floored by, however, was the flood of offers that came in from churches, nonprofits, medical professionals, and other organizations to partner with the county on services to the inmates. Chaney and Taylor received banks offering to do financial literacy for the inmates, medical providers giving suggestions for inmate care, and other groups offering education and group therapy. Berea Police Survey Sent to 1,600 Homes

Citizen Editor

A community survey about the Berea Police Department was sent to 1,600 addresses in Berea this past week, a random sampling of the over 14,000 people living in city limits.

Dr. Kennaria Brown from Berea College is partnering with the police department on the survey, as a project for her summer class. The police department has worked with Brown previously, with diversity trainings for the officers, and the survey should also give information related to diversity issues.

"We worked together on the survey," Berea Police Chief David Gregory said. "My primary issue was getting feedback from the community on communication and safety."

Berea is split into four police zones, and 400

County Looks to Increase Rental Rates, Alleviate Jail Tensions

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

The Madison County Fiscal Court is looking into increasing their rental agreement rates, and the magistrates gave Judge Executive Reagan Taylor permission to negotiate with the tenants.

"The rate I've proposed I feel is very reasonable," Taylor said. "I'd say none of these rates have been changed for ten years."

The fiscal court didn't approve new rates, however, since Taylor needed room to negotiate with their tenants.

When Magistrate Larry Combs asked Taylor not to run anyone off, Taylor quipped back, "Well, I haven't run you off yet."

The fiscal court also approved the agreement

At the Splash and Dash event this past Saturday, the signature event of the Berea Trail Town Committee, almost 40 youth participated. The "bi-athlon" event started with swimming at the Berea Pool, and ended with a race that finished at the red carpet, with bubbles, above. Splash & Dash Draws 40 Young Athletes to Berea Competition

By Kim Kobersmith
Citizen Reporter

Last Saturday, almost 40 youth, ages 6-15, participated in the first ever Berea Splash and Dash. While each athlete was timed, the emphasis of the event was healthy fun. As each youth passed the finish line, there was a red carpet and bubbles to greet them and a medal to go around their necks to celebrate their accomplishment.

Over 70 percent of the athletes came from outside of Berea, mostly Lexington.

The organizers were glad to have so many visitors introduced to Berea's trails. At least three of the participants are nationally competitive triathletes.

For each USA Triathlon sanctioned event, like the Splash and Dash, they receive points based on time and placement in the race, and they can move up in the national rankings of competitors.

The Saturday event was the only aquathlon, or swim-run event, sanctioned by USA Triathlon held in the state of Kentucky this year, according to organizer Dr. Peter Hackbert.

This first event in Berea is thanks to the hard work of a class at Berea College through the Entrepreneurship for the Public Good program, or EPG. College students had to apply and be accepted into this 20-member class, and each student had a role to play in the organizing of the event. "Even experienced triathlete parents were impressed with how incred-

For July, Artisan Center Focuses on Textile Arts, Quilting

During the month of July, the Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea will host demonstrations and events focusing on the textile arts of felting, fabric construction, and quilting.

In addition, Dr. Pearl M. Johnson will present Quilt Art: Examining the Narrative in Kentucky Quilts during Berea's city-wide Quilt Extravaganza Weekend.

Lexington artist Cathy Vigor will demonstrate the steps of wet felting wool and creating a vessel on Saturday, July 2 at the Center. Vigor will be showing how wool can be felted with water and agitation into a strong malleable material. She will form the felted wool into vessels and offer children the chance to make a felted bead.

On Saturday, July 9, Sue Reeves, of Richmond, will cut, stitch, line and then gather colorful fabrics into beautiful and functional jewelry keepers for travelling. Reeves began making her jewelry keepers when she realized the need for a safe and handy travel compartment for her jewelry.

Also on July 9, the center will offer two free guided gallery tours at 11 a.m. and again at 2 p.m. These tours detail and explain

Jane Frances Kelly Whitaker

Jane Frances Kelly Whitaker, 62, passed away on Thursday morning, June 23, 2016, at Baptist Health-Richmond. She was born on May 30, 1954 in Madison County, the daughter of Anna Margaret Long Kelly and the late Morris Kelly Jr.

In addition to her mother, she is survived by her husband, Gary Whitaker of Richmond; one daughter, Tina (Mark) Bowling of Berea; five grandchildren, Katie Scott, Kelle Scott, Baylea Scott, Lucie Bowling and Tucker Tague; as well as a host of other relatives and friends.

She was preceded in death by her father; a son, Kevin Morris Tague; and a brother, George William Adams. Services were private.

Combs, Parsons & Collins Funeral Home is in charge of the arrangements. www.cpcfhome.com

Dorothy Coyle Isaacs

Dorothy Coyle Isaacs, 90, of Lexington, and widow of the late Jimmie Isaacs, went to be with the Lord on Wednesday, June 22, 2016.

Dorothy was born to the late Tilford and Cinda Isaacs Coyle on December 21, 1925 in Jackson County. She was a member of the Baptist faith.

As a young girl, Dorothy learned early on about farming along with her siblings, and they all helped their father who was in poor health. She continued the love of farming into adulthood, working as a dairy farmer with her husband, Jimmie. In their early years of marriage, they also lived and worked in Ohio.

Dorothy was an avid UK basketball fan. She always kept up with their schedule each year, and got upset if she happened to miss a game. She was a lover of gardening and flowers, and won many ribbons at flower shows with her daylilies and roses.

Aunt Dorothy was like a mother figure to many of her nieces and nephews, and loved by all who knew her. She will be greatly missed.

Dorothy is survived by her only child, Janet Coffey of Lexington; one sister, Letha Jackson of North Carolina; one brother, Thomas (Teresa) Coyle of Indiana; and a host of nieces and nephews who loved her very much.

In addition to her husband and parents, she was preceded in death by five sisters, Katie Hisel, Bertha Clemmons, Jessie Rose, Sally Isaacs, and Mettie Powers; and ten half-siblings, Edna Spivey, Logan Coyle, Doanna Isaacs, Bill Coyle, Frances Coyle, Hazel Coyle, Alfred "Doc" Coyle, Archie Coyle, Effie Bennett, and Obie Coyle.

The funeral was held on Monday at 11 a.m. at Milward-Southland, and the burial followed at the Dix River Church of Christ Cemetery in Lincoln Co. Memorial donations may be made to God's Pantry.

Lewis Alan Babb

Lewis Alan Babb, 62, passed away on June 14, 2016. He was born in Harlan on November 22, 1953.

Alan was preceded in death by his parents, Lewis Babb, Jr., and Coral Nell Keller Babb.

He is survived by his girlfriend, Jimmie O'Mara; two brothers, Tony Glen Babb of Dallas, Texas and John (Teresa) Kevin Babb of Berea; his uncle, Fred (Elaine) Babb of Irvine; and many cousins.

Alan was a graduate of Berea Community High School, and attended both Eastern Kentucky University and Berea College. He loved acting and practiced his craft at Berea College, the outdoor drama Wilderness Road, Louisville Actors Theater, Chicago, Cleveland, New York, Boston, and Repertory touring company in Europe. He also loved history, hiking, and photographing nature.

It was Alan's wish to be cremated. Family will receive friends at Lakes Funeral Home on Thursday, June 30, 2016 from 5 - 8 p.m. Online condolences at www.lakesfuneralhome.com

Kathleen Rodgers

Kathleen Rodgers, 73, of Speedwell, Tenn., passed away on Wednesday, June 22, 2016 at her home. She was born on April 13, 1943 in Berea, the daughter of the late Daniel and Carolyn Eden Richmond.

Kathleen was a member of the Calvary Missionary Baptist Church in Tiperell, Tenn.

In addition to her parents, she was preceded in death by her brothers, Charles Richmond, Danny Richmond and Roger Richmond; and her sisters, Frances Lassila, Donna Williams, and Mildred Jordan.

She is survived by her husband, Edmond Rodgers; children, Paul Kidwell of Mt. Vernon and Keith Kidwell of Nashville, Tenn.; sisters, Betty (Bill) Isaacs of Berea and Ruby (Sonny) Morgan of Berea; five grandchildren; three great grandchildren; special friends, Cathy Knight, Barbara Hall, Shirley Partin, Mable Shepard, Paula Wynn and Ida Welch; and a host of nieces, nephews, other relatives, and friends.

Funeral services were held at 7 p.m. on Saturday, June 25, 2016 at the Creech Funeral Home Chapel with Rev. Ronnie Wynn and Rev. Bobby Partin presiding. Music was provided by Shirley Partin. Graveside services were held at 2 p.m. on Sunday, June 26, 2016 at the Mountain View Cemetery in Harrogate, Tenn.

Online condolences and guestbook are available at www.creechfh.com. Creech Funeral Home, Middleboro, is in charge of all arrangements.

Laura Anglin Martin

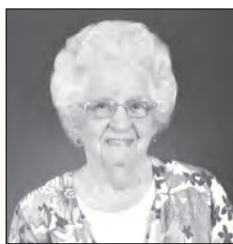

Laura Anglin Martin, 91, died Sunday, June 26, 2016 at Kenwood Nursing Home in Richmond. A native of Climax in Rockcastle County, she was the daughter of the late Henry Calvin and Mattie E. Cook Anglin.

Mrs. Martin worked as a CNA at Berea Hospital for 21 years, and did private duty nursing until the age of 75. She was a member of the Berea Church of God where she served as president of the Ladies Ministries for eight years and Women's Aglow. She sang with a local gospel group for many years.

Mrs. Martin loved to cook, garden, read, and travel, and she loved her friends. A quilter, she and the ladies of the church made several quilts for the church bazaar. Her favorite thing to do was to go to church.

Mrs. Martin is survived by her children, Olen (Patricia) Myron Martin of Allentown, Pa., Marshall Martin of Lexington, Marco (Kathy) Blake Martin of Richmond, and Marilyn (David) Martin Walter of Richmond; 16 grandchildren; and 23 great grandchildren. She was preceded in death by two sons, Monroe Martin and Mendel C. Martin; two brothers; and eight sisters.

Funeral services for Mrs. Martin were at 12:30 p.m. on Wednesday at the Davis & Powell Funeral Home with Bro. Stephen Hobbs officiating. Burial followed in the Berea Cemetery. Expressions of sympathy may be made to Hospice Care Plus, 208 Kidd Drive, Berea, Kentucky 40403. www.davisandpowellfuneralhome.com

Jackson Co. Woman Arrested for Attempting to Kill Husband

The Kentucky State Police, Richmond Post was called at approximately 9:20 p.m. on Sunday, June 26 after a Jackson County resident was found inside a residence on Boss Vaughn Road suffering from gunshot wounds.

Cecil Ray Snider, 59, of Annville was critically injured after being shot inside his home, and was found several hours later by his wife and neighbors. Snider was airlifted to the University of Kentucky Hospital with life-threatening injuries.

The initial investigation alleges that Elizabeth J. Snider, 32, of Annville, shot her husband inside their home on Sunday evening then left the scene. She returned home a few hours later with some neighbors to find her husband still alive.

Elizabeth denied any involvement in the shooting, and over the next three days KSP investigators followed up on leads and conducted multiple interviews trying to determine who shot Mr. Snider. As a result of their investigation, Elizabeth Snider was arrested yesterday afternoon and is now in the Jackson County Detention Center charged with attempted murder.

A motive and events that led to the shooting are still under investigation by KSP Detective Tye Chavies.

What Do You Know?

One of our readers brought this photo in that she found in her family archives. She doesn't know the people in the photo, or why they have gathered, and wonders if anyone from Berea might have some information. Please email editor@thebereacitizen.com with any feedback.

RESPONSE TO PHOTO FROM LAST WEEK

The woman in the photo last week was Betty Foley, the daughter of Red Foley, the singer, musician, and entertainment personality who grew up in Blue Lick. She often sang duets with him, one reader reported. Her sister is Shirley Boone, the wife of Pat Boone.

How important is Sunday worship?

Dear Editor

Sunday Worship...

How important is "Sunday Worship" in our churches today? In the past few years I have noticed many churches shutting doors to Sunday night worship services and mid-week prayer services.

It just may be, as the Bible tells us, in the last days there would be a great falling away, and satan would roam about as a roaring lion, seeking whom he could devour.

It has come to my mind that in today's society, the need for worship services is greater than ever before.

We know that many dedicated Christians are obligated to work on Sundays.

We have Fire Dept., Police, Doctors, Nurses, Paramedics, Ambulance Drivers, and other public services such as gas stations, restaurants, hotels, motels, cab drivers, and yes, many truck drivers, who must work on Sundays.

Many of these workers, I'm sure, are devout Christians that depended on the "church doors" to be open on Sunday nights and mid-week worship, so they too, can worship our Lord.

These people are deprived of their right to worship when the church doors are shut.

The thought comes to my mind of the song "Where are my children, why don't they serve?"

Are we, as "called" pastors, deacons, and board members going to allow our church doors to be closed to those who only have the privilege to worship on Sunday nights to continue?

Pastors are the Shepherds of the flock. If we allow the flock to wander, they may soon be lost.

I believe God is still on the throne and I believe He is quite concerned about the condition of our world.

We can only pray, trust, believe, and hope that the pastors of today will reconsider the importance of having the church doors open again for Sunday night services.

I'm sure many Sunday night worshipers are praying for this to happen.

We are in the last days. Keep our church doors open and let's have Sunday Night Services open to the public again.

God will bless the church when we honor and worship in Spirit and in Truth.

To God be the glory!

Spirit Responds

England has forsaken the EU. Apparently, she decided being a part of a larger piece is not worth the effort. My spirit weeps.

And, a potential President of these 'United States' agrees.

What views might he hold for our 'States'?

My spirit shudders.

The EU, established after WWII, with knowledge of our Oneness and the ensuing spirit of co-operation, to foster peace, prosperity, amongst former, or potential, rivals. My spirit rejoices.

With 'The War', we seemed to learn as fear, from ignorance of our Oneness, thwarts cooperation, it promotes distrust and... 'isms'.

And, while fear and products of fear (hatred, greed, arrogance) augment themselves, they lead to isolation and destruction. My spirit celebrates insight.

Now, after Britain's defection, other EU factions might follow suit.

Fear grows. Going backward toward isolation? My spirit weeps.

In our shrinking world, isolation is the very opposite of where we need to head. My spirit weeps.

Before, 'leaders' like Hitler, divining a 'superior race' while scapegoating others, manufactured... hell. My spirit weeps buckets.

Now, our potential 'leader' is promoting a 'superior' country of the elite while scapegoating others and praising isolationism.

Where might his fear-tactics take us?

My spirit wonders.

Ponder this: fear grows, our world shrinks, stock-piled armaments. Do we isolate and pretend we, by ourselves, will survive? My spirit is horrified and... weeps!

When will we wake up? With our depleting resources and increasing population, only cooperation, sharing of gifts, being one-with-each-other will allow all to survive; and, potentially, to thrive. My spirit rejoices.

It seems so simple: to share gifts freely given; to know 'neighbor' as all living beings, (regardless of race, gender, local, species, etc.) and, to 'love neighbor as self' (no 'isms' here). My spirit sings.

But, to follow such dictates might mean vulnerability. Do we only worry about our own being? How hypocritical and myopic are we? My spirit wonders.

So, what will we do, follow the dictates of resonating hearts or trembling guts?

Can we love and trust ourselves and others, toward Oneness or Unity?

Or, are we lead by fear and its by-products, toward destruction? My spirit tries to hope.

Four Berea Community students competed at the state track meet. John Ramsay won second place in the high jump, Jeff Chasteen took fourth place in pole vaulting, Debbie Vick

Final construction plans for the new Southern Madison Middle School on Glades Road were approved in June 1976. The superintendent of Madison County Schools, Russell Roberts, said it shouldn't effect how many students attended Berea Community. The approximate cost for the building was $1.4 million. Bereans to serve as jurors on the Madison County Circuit Court were Bill Lethgo, Helen Sloe, Richard Lehmann, Wilmehia

Clearing Fee Street for Pedestrians

On Saturday, June 11, several volunteers, above, worked on cleaning up the unpaved section of Fee Street. They started at 8 a.m, clearing away the brush and other encroachment of nature. Sustainable Berea organized the cleanup, so that neighbors and friends could continue to use the pathway. There is a call for volunteers to tidy the walkway on second Saturdays of the month. In the back row above are (l-r), Vicky Dinsmore, Randy Dinsmore, Abby Adams, Josh Woodward, and Jesse Fowler; in the middle row are Michelle Flannery, Gauge Golji, David Dinsmore, Karen McKelvey, David Scrivener, Cody Elliott, and B Griffin; and in the front row are Robert Kilbourn and Loren Weber. COUNTY with the Lexington Recycling Center, where they take all their products. The county previously paid $37 a ton processing fee, and a $7 marketing fee, and the Recycling Center has increased that to $50 a ton processing fee with the marketing fee staying the same. Once the recycling items are sold, the county receives some reimbursement, though Taylor said it wasn't very much.

Magistrate Tom Botkin said the recycling program was getting to be more of a liability than a revenue stream. Taylor agreed, though he said the program may keep more trash off the road. Though the agreement was approved, the fiscal court decided to keep an eye on how much it may be costing the county.

Jailer Doug Thomas addressed the fiscal court about the overcrowding of the Madison County Detention Center, which has only grown worse this month. Thomas reported that he had 327 in the detention center, with 66 housed in jail in Clay and Casey County.

"This makes us a few shy of 400 under our care," Thomas said.

Thomas had to call the State Department of Transportation for help, since he had trouble finding other jails that would take the prisoners, even though Madison County reimburses for their own prisoners. Several state inmates, which are the only county inmates that receive reimbursement from the state, were removed from the detention center to make room.

"I have to wonder about the safety of our inmates, and our jail staff," Taylor said, who mentioned that if they couldn't house state inmates, they would lose approximately $541,000 from the budget.

"When we get so overcrowded we end up with a lot of assaults," Thomas said.

County Attorney Marc Robbins said it would be important to know what the inmate population currently consists of, whether they are serving contempt charges, misdemeanor sentences, or waiting for sentencing on a felony.

Magistrate Larry Combs asked what would happen if they closed the jail that day, and Robbins replied that it would be an incredibly reckless thing to do.

Court members also discussed the work program, where inmates pick up trash. The state will not be fully reimbursing the program, so the county would have to fund part of it in order to keep it going. Taylor said if the county decided to take over the program, and fund it, he would ask for the two cities to share some costs.

In other business:

- Fiscal court members were split on whether to terminate an employee from the road department. After an executive session, Magistrate Roger Barger made a motion to terminate Darrell Whitt's employment, but only Taylor voted in agreement, with Magistrates Combs, John Tudor, and Botkin voting no. Whitt was then reinstated.

- The fiscal court approved bids for rock, gas, oil, and culverts. Allen Company received the bid for rock, Concrete Materials Company received the concrete bid, Apollo Oil received the oil bid, and Robinson-Turley received the culvert bid.

- The County Road Aid agreement with the State Transportation Cabinet was approved by the fiscal court for $1,450,691.77. This amount is slightly higher than last year.

- The Madison County Municipal Aid Agreement was signed. Madison County will be receiving $142,994.98, which is around $6,000 more than the previous year.

- To reward some of the senior staff, extra vacation days were awarded to employees with over 11 years, with more days coming with seniority.

- The courthouse will be closed on 4th of July. The first artillery piece at the Battlefield of Richmond will be unveiled on the 4th.

tacted them to talk about a potential partnership where research could be the goal.

"As far as our long-term goals, I'm really confident that we have support for the services we want to offer the inmates. When we talk to people outside of Madison County, we are able to talk about a community that is truly embracing this," Chaney said.

The much more difficult task for the group, however, is dealing with the short-term goals. At Tuesday's fiscal court meeting, Jailer Doug Thomas reported that there were 327 inmates in the detention center, with 66 being housed in other counties. He needed to send even more inmates to be housed in other counties, but he couldn't find any takers, despite the fact that they would receive reimbursement from Madison County.

"I personally called 15 jails, and they couldn't or wouldn't take any inmates," Thomas said, who reported that the safety of both inmates and staff in the jail was at risk when there were so many people.

"When we get so overcrowded we end up with a lot of assaults," Thomas said.

Chaney said the Jail Task Force would be working on some immediate relief for the jail, as their short-term goal. They will be talking to both the State Department of Corrections to see about options, as well as the community groups who have offered support.

One reason for the huge inmate population in Madison County is the high recidivism rate; over 70 percent of inmates are arrested again. When looking at other jails, the task force discovered that there was a correlation between the programs offered to inmates, and a lower recidivism rate.

There is much trepidation among many Madison Countians about the potential community debt if the fiscal court decides to implement the ultimate recommendation of the Jail Task Force – to build a new facility that would cost approximately $40 million in the next four to five years. The plan would be to build a state-of-the-art model facility to house around 600 inmates that would concentrate on rehabilitation with education, substance abuse programs, and therapy.

Chaney reported that very few of the members of the jail task force members would have predicted making such a recommendation. But as they dug deeper into the expenses and revenues of the Madison County Detention Center, as well as reviewing future predictions of the increased jail population, they had to eliminate most of the other possibilities.

"I left almost sick to my stomach every time we had a meeting," Jeff Fultz said from Central Bank and Trust, who served on the Jail Task Force Committee. "I thought, it's government, it's got to be inefficient, we can find a way to save money . . . but when we started uncovering the stones, there weren't inefficiencies where I would have expected."

Members of the task force are Taylor, Jailer Doug Thomas, Circuit Court Judge Jean Logue, Jail Consultant Brad Black, County Attorney Marc Robbins, accountant Myron Fisher, Fultz, Sheriff Mike Coyle, Magistrate John Tudor, Peggy Rice who represented as a citizen from Richmond, Dr. Hameed Koury, pastor Mitch Brown, Liberty Place Director Gwen Holder, and David Gilliam from the Madison County Schools, who represented as a citizen from Berea.

Chaney reported that they were very deliberate in picking a diverse task force with different skills.

"We wanted individuals that could bring us information from their areas of specialty, Chaney said. "We all have a very specific lane, and sometimes that lane can cause tunnel vision, and this problem is a community-wide problem that everyone is facing."

Chaney systematically laid out the problems of the detention center, which was built in 1990. It is a 170 bed facility, that is getting close to having 400 inmates. Currently, Madison County is paying $25 to $29 a day for over 60 of those inmates to be jailed in other counties, because of the extreme overcrowding. And 85 percent of the inmates, Chaney emphasized, are there for drug related offenses, whether trafficking or possession, or thefts connected to get-the center's two exhibits, "Great Impressions: Prints by Kentucky Artisans" and "Kentucky Clay: A Continuing Tradition."

The Berea Welcome Center Carvers will demonstrate their skills at the center on July 16. Specializing in a variety of woodcarving techniques and subjects, three members will show visitors their carving and painting skills.

On Saturday, July 23, Richmond artist Cathie Brown will create her unique felted purses from 10:30 to 3:30 at the center. Brown creates her purses using felt and a variety of decorative techniques. The purses are then lined with colorful fabrics.

To coincide with Berea's Quilt Extravaganza Weekend, quilter Brenda Plaster, of Lawrenceburg, will demonstrate how to utilize color, pattern and value in fabrics, to create quilt designs based on different orientations. During her July 30 demonstration Plaster will stitch together fabric blocks to illustrate the many variations possible.

"I love to use the color, pattern and value of fabric along with orientation of the quilt blocks to create new designs. Quilting offers an infinite visual variety," said Plaster.

Also on July 30, Dr. Pearlle M. Johnson, assistant professor of Pan-African Studies and Art History at the University of Louisville, will present "Quilt Art: Examining the Narrative in Kentucky Quilts." This talk will explore women's history, storytelling, identity politics, and empowerment. Based on her research, she will examine quilts with cross-cultural parallels in technique and assemblage, as well as revealing unique designs.

Johnson's presentation is made possible by the Kentucky Humanities Council's Speakers Bureau program, and is free and open to the public. This event is being held in conjunction with Berea's Quilt Extravaganza Weekend held city-wide July 30-Aug. 1.

The Kentucky Artisan Center at Berea currently features works by more than 700 artisans from more than 100 counties across the Commonwealth. Special exhibits on display include "Great Impressions: Prints by Kentucky Artisans," through Sept. 10, 2016; and in the lobby, "Kentucky Clay: A Continuing Tradition." For more information about events call 859-985-5448, go to the center's website or visit the center's Facebook page.

ably well-run the event was," shared Hackbert.

The class garnered a lot of community support for the event. KentuckyOne Health was a presenting sponsor and Community Trust Bank was a signature sponsor. Grow Appalachia's Summer Feeding program provided a free breakfast for all the athletes. Thirty-six local sponsors provided enough scholarships that every athlete could participate for free, thanks to over 800 personal calls to local businesses. Organizers wanted to ensure that money was not the barrier for participation, especially for local kids. Fifty-seven volunteers also helped make the day happen.

The class members had a wide variety of experiences to prepare for organizing the event. "We traveled all over Eastern Kentucky to see the power of travel tourism and how the natural assets of a community can impact the economy," shared Race Day Coordinator Brandon Pollock.

They also volunteered at the Kids Legacy Triathlon in Lexington to see the operations for such an event.

Student Vincent Davis shared his favorite part of the preparations. "We had the opportunity to participate in a practice adult triathlon through Bluegrass Triathlon Club. It was so much fun."

Last year's summer EPG class helped Berea achieve Trail Town status to boost tourism, and this event was a spin-off to highlight Berea's trail system. The impetus came from Ahmed, the General Manager at Berea's Holiday Inn. He gifted $500 to the EPG program in appreciation for their work on the Trail Town initiative. Hackbert said he would use it for a youth event, and the Splash and Dash was born.

"The first year of organizing an event is always the hardest, and the EPG class has laid a solid foundation," shares Pollock. The EPG students' hope is that someone in the community will take on the organizing of a youth Splash and Dash or even triathlon event for next year, so their hard work is put to good use.

SURVEY

surveys were sent to each zone. The GIS Department handled the random choosing of 400 addresses in each zone, which includes both multi-family and single-family dwellings.

Brown's class wrote the questions, and they will also be processing the data from the surveys. While the police department will receive them in the mail, Gregory will be passing them directly to Brown. A self-adressed, stamped envelope was sent with the survey, to increase the return rate. Both parties are hoping for at least a 25 percent return of the surveys.

"I would ask people to please send them back in," Gregory said. "The survey is a way for us to find out how we perform, how we communicate, how people in the community feel about the police department. It will help us serve the community better."

Gregory expects to receive a presentation about the survey results in mid-July, or early August.

Turning to the Season of Summer Bible School

By Beth Myers
Citizen Editor

Several churches in Berea are involved with preparing or implementing Vacation Bible School (VBS), including West Side Baptist Church, above.

Like many churches in the area, West Side, whose Bible school program started on Monday, offers a group praise and worship with all participants before splitting people into different age groups. West Side is exploring an ocean theme, Submerged, while this week Berea United Methodist Church is using the theme of caves.

The curriculum at West Side involves "diving deeper," where children and adults are encouraged to look beneath the surface to see who people really are, just as Jesus could see through to people like Zacchaeus or the woman at the well.

As with an ocean, the parent guide of Submerged reports, "when only looking at the surface, it is impossible to know what may be only a few feet down or miles below."

West Side Baptist Church's VBS will finish on Friday, July 1. The evening services go from 6 - 8:45 p.m. There are classes for toddlers through adults. Call 986-3444 for bus service.

Word From Berea Streets

"What do you plan on doing to celebrate the 4th of July?"

Jacob Burcham said, "Since it's my daughter's first 4th of July, we plan to have a big family gathering at the Berea Park and enjoy the fireworks."

Jason Kumfer said, "'I'm planning on going to Renfro Valley with my family to cook out and just have a relaxing evening."

Mirra Shapiro, with her child, Reishi, said, "We're going to the forest in Rockcastle County where we live and we'll take in the beauty of the great outdoors."
