City facing future financial challenges

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

The Berea City Council received a sobering financial report during a Tuesday work session, as Berea City Administrator David Gregory outlined fiscal challenges that lay for the city.

According to Gregory, the city is anticipating approximately $12 million in incoming revenues for the General Fund, but he noted the city's payroll costs have increased in recent years, projected to grow to $8,616,600 in the coming year, or approximately 72 percent of the operating budget. Those figures include increases in Medicare and FICA costs, healthcare, CERS retirement costs, as well as a general increase in the size of the city payroll as more people, such as police officers and firefighters, have been hired. In contrast, personnel costs made up 51 percent of the operating budget in 2015.

Gregory asserted personnel costs could soon outpace revenues taken in by the city. With that in mind, Gregory said city staffers are implementing measures to cut costs and raise more revenue, including: eliminating part-time positions, not filling some full-time positions, outsourcing services to save on hiring and benefit costs, departmental spending cuts, and a freeze on hiring and promotions.

On the revenue side, Gregory said the administration is working to bring in more money by measures like rental of city properties, increasing pool fees to cover

facebook feedback

Many people responded to our question "Are you in favor of keeping daylight savings time all year long? Why?"

32 people liked it | 4 people loved it | No one was sad | No one was mad | No one was amused | 55 people commented

Sample comments

Laura Compton I don't even care which time we are on, just so we don't change times halfway thru the year! That is hard on everyone AND on our pets. I hope that all of the Eastern Time Zone can stick together and do the same. People travel so much now, and a uniform plan across the nation would simplify life for all.

Barb VanWinkle Mills No, because as it is, it's still dark at 7am, which means it would still be dark at 8am.

Ticky Harrison Abrams Yes! Early darkness can be depressing.

Chris Linville Abolish it for good or make it permanent. Honestly, I don't care. Just stop the changing.

Shirley Carlberg Just the opposite. Keep Eastern standard time all the time, no more Daylight Savings time.

Lynde Smith Moores Yes because the weeks long struggle of trying to get adjusted after time change is unbearable, but then again I do enjoy the ability to get the children inside and showered before 8pm in the winter months. It's like a teeny tiny win somehow. It seems I may be somewhat conflicted.

Tennessee Tornadoes remind us to be weather aware

Taylor's Thoughts
Keith Taylor
News Editor

Like many of you, I've been to Nashville and the news hit close to home after the region was hit by deadly tornadoes early Tuesday morning.

The home of country music is one of my favorite destination spots and I enjoy covering the Southeastern Conference Tournament when it's held in Music City. I was shocked and sad after hearing tornadoes roared through the region.

About 1:30 a.m. Tuesday morning, I was awakened by a clap of thunder and never thought any more about it until Rhonda told me that people were killed by tornadoes in Nashville. I then began to think of my friends in Nashville and wondered if they were OK.

Almost all of them marked themselves safe on Facebook and I sent messages to those whom I knew had ties to Berea.

Lorna Sears Pyka, a 1990 graduate of Berea Community High School, has lived in the Gallatin Tennessee area for the last 25 years and was awakened by the storms as they made their way through Nashville and knew something was up when her husband John Pyka "mentioned as he was coming into the house last night how warm it was and that it was perfect weather for a tornado."

"Thankfully we were not close to the tornado," Pyka said. "This is actually the second time that a tornado like this has hit East Nashville. It happened before in 1998. We were living just on the other side of Nashville in Laverne, Tennessee when that happened."

The severe weather that tore through Nashville and the surrounding area serve as a reminder that tornadoes are and can be deadly and to take precautions and be aware even during a tornado watch.

This week is Severe Weather Awareness week in Kentucky and a state-wide tornado drill was scheduled for Wednesday. Emergency management officials urge citizens to have a plan in place in case of severe weather.

- Designate a tornado/severe weather shelter in an interior room on the lowest level of a building, away from windows. Basements are best, but, if there is no basement, choose an interior bathroom, closet or other enclosed space on the lowest level of a building.
- Tell everyone where the designated shelter is and post the location.
- If you live in a mobile home or other manufactured housing, locate the nearest building where you can take shelter in case of a severe storm. They emphasize that no mobile home is a safe shelter from a tornado or severe thunderstorm.

As we were reminded earlier this week, tornadoes are a serious matter and can't be taken lightly. Stay safe and keep your eye on the sky.

Pelphrey: Osborne's articles should be used to teach children about the effects of bullying

Dear Editor,

The articles written recently by Melissa Osborne regarding her daughter Cara moved me beyond words. Not only because of what was written, but because Melissa is the most private person I have ever met. The courage that Melissa showed by writing the articles was nothing short of heroic. My concern is that Melissa's courage ends as being a story told by a grieving mother. This story has so much more potential.

My wish is that the local schools would use it as a teaching tool. What if the stronger, more popular boys were taught that true strength is defending the weaker, timid classmates? The young girls could also be taught that, whether through physical or verbal intimidation, bullying shows an ugliness that no amount of makeup can hide.

For those who appease the bullies by laughing at their treatment of others in hopes that they won't become the next victim, please just walk away. Don't provide bullies the audience they crave.

Melissa has always been a dear friend, but I couldn't be more proud of her. My prayer is that her courage will be rewarded by children who are currently being bullied suddenly finding allies from unexpected friends.

Thank you,
Larry Pelfrey

Ruthie Maslin, Madison Co. Library

Good books and programs abound at the Library

As I move forward on this journey of my life, I am struck by the fact that it's often a matter of moments that separates the wildly divergent forks in the road. I know that sounds like a worn out and very mixed metaphor, but it captures the essence of the thought.

One of those moments came back to me this morning on my way to the dentist in Versailles. On a similar morning, several years back, on the same stretch of road (which is basically a divided highway), I recall watching a whole tire from a semi truck rolling and bouncing toward me across the grassy median, as if in slow motion. It was as if time froze for a split second as I surveyed the Tableau of the Impending.

And then my car inched forward and the tire crossed the lane immediately behind me and continued off into the ditch.

A mere matter of seconds separated very different possible outcomes.

And then I heard the news about the tornado that hit downtown Nashville. Several of us were in Nashville last week, joining thousands of library staff from across the country at the biennial Public Library Association conference. We left Saturday, and the tornado hit Monday just blocks from where we had been. Again, such a small margin separates very different outcomes.

My heart is heavy for the people of Nashville and the surrounding areas of Tennessee devastated by the storms. Sometimes a good way to process through these situations is to read books related to them.

So I checked Madison County Public Library's catalog and found several titles dealing with what happens in the aftermath of a devastating storm like this one.

Good Hope Road, by Lisa Wingate, follows Jenilee Lane as she sifts through the debris left by a tornado that wipes out her home town. It's available in print in Richmond and eBook format through Kentucky Libraries Unbound/Overdrive. Remember MCPL has a daily courier service that transfers requested books from Berea to Richmond and vice versa, so if you see a book you want to check out and it's not in the location you want to pick it up, we can easily transfer it for you.

While the aforementioned novel embraces the triumph of the human spirit in the face of disaster, After the Storm, by Linda Castillo, takes a somewhat darker turn. Police Chief Kate Burkholder finds herself dealing not only with the aftermath of a killer storm, but also a decades-old murder, the evidence of which is unearthed by the storm. It's available in print in Richmond and Berea, large type print in Richmond, and eBook and eAudio formats through Kentucky Libraries Unbound/Overdrive.

Coping with the aftermath of a disaster is not a quick fix. Sometimes it takes decades, as we see in Low Pressure, by Sandra Brown. Bellamy Lyston Price was only 12 years old when her older sister Susan was killed on a stormy Memorial Day. Eighteen years later, her sister's murder and the legacy of the devastating tornado still haunt her. And she finds that the past is never really that far behind us. This novel is available for checkout with your MCPL card in print and audio in Richmond and Berea, and eBook and eAudio formats through Kentucky Libraries Unbound/Overdrive.

These are only a small sample of the great reads available for checkout at the Madison County Public Library. But, of course, it's not always just about the books. MCPL also offers a robust schedule of programs and activities for all ages throughout the month.

A program coming up this Sunday afternoon at the Berea location (319 Chestnut Street) is a great example. Berea's own Kim Kobersmith is the featured artist for the March installment of See the Art, Meet the Artisan, a library partnership with the Berea Arts Council. Kim will be discussing her work in the library's theater on March 8, 2-3 PM. The program is free and open to all.

According to her artist's statement, "Kim Kobersmith started writing in 2014 and hasn't looked back. Her passion is sharing aspirational non-fiction stories accurately and compassionately, especially those she finds near her Appalachian Kentucky home. Her writing is fueled by curiosity and the joy of crafting words into narratives. Her articles can be found in Kentucky Monthly, The Daily Yonder, and Madison Magazine.

"She launched the Kentucky Sheroes Project in 2018 to lift up the stories of unsung women with a lasting legacy in the Commonwealth. This microbiography poster project was made possible by an Artist Enrichment Grant from the Kentucky Foundation for Women and culminates in the free distribution of posters for Women's History Month, March 2020."

I hope you get a chance soon to stop by the library and check out a good book or a great program. More details on both can be found on our newly redesigned library webpage, www.madisonlibrary.org. I'll see you soon at the library!

Tips for auto owners
• Keep it tidy – anything, even if it is trash in a store bag, could be seen as valuable to a thief, who doesn't know what's inside. Conceal all the evidence
• Hide your electronics and accessories, or bring it with you.
• Put shopping bags in the trunk as soon as you get in the car, not before you go into a store. You never know who is watching.
• Get an alarm.

Reflections

from March 1960
Berea Citizen Archives

The Berea Pirates had a rough time of it Friday night to gain the finals of the 44th District tournament as they downed the Madison Central Indians 54-50. The contest was a close one all the way through with the Pirates ending up on the long end of the score. By winning the Pirates earned the right to meet Madison Model Purples, victors over Estill County, for the District championship. This marked the first time since 1956 that the Pirates had gained the finals for the finals of the District

The Rev. O.B. Mylum went to his garage Friday morning to get his car out. It wasn't there, having been stolen some time during the night before. The garage is located near the parsonage in the rear of the Berea Baptist Church on Chestnut Street. Bro. Mylum offered a $25 reward for information leading to the whereabouts of the car. Police Chief R.L. LeMaster said Wednesday night that he had not received any word that the missing vehicle had been found.

We heard about an agricultural freak that should take its place with last summer's oddities such as the "potatoes" growing on Mrs. George W. Strunk's tomato vines and the 1-¾ pound spuds grown by Mrs. L.H. Rucker. The newest potato story concerns one, which Mrs. E.A. Bender purchased at a certain local grocery. After baking it, she cut it apart to butter it. To her surprise she found a watermelon seed, a "perfect black one," according to the description given by her sister, Miss Rhea Scrivner. We're wondering (1) how the seed got into the potato, (2) if the seed would have sprouted had the potato been planted, and (3) if the B&B Market has any more potatoes containing watermelon seeds.

Ordinance 06-2020

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BEREA, KENTUCKY, PROVIDING THAT THE CODE OF ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF BEREA, KENTUCKY, BE AMENDED BY REVISING SECTION 34.206 TO MAKE GRAMMATICAL CHANGES, REVISING SECTION 34.301 TO DELETE CERTAIN REQUIREMENTS FOR DESIGN AND MAINTENANCE AND REMOVE THE FEE IN LIEU SYSTEM FOR DEVELOPERS, AND REVISING SECTION 34.302 TO CLARIFY THE REQUIREMENTS FOR LAND DISTURBANCE PERMITS WHICH ARE PART OF A COMMON PLAN OF DEVELOPMENT.

BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of the City of Berea, Kentucky as follows:

SECTION I

That the Code of Ordinances of the City of Berea, Kentucky, be amended by revising Sections 34.206, 34.301, and 34.302, so that such sections shall read as follows.

§ 34.206 PLAN REQUIREMENTS

(A) Erosion protection and sediment control for construction projects requires continual planning, observation and action for all components of the overall plan. The process will be documented through requirements established by the Kentucky Division of Water, and implemented in their KYR10 permit While stormwater management plans typically contain permanent treatment practices (PTPs) instead of temporary practices, the initial plan submittal must address permanent stormwater management including water quality. A general description of each type of plan follows.

(B) Stormwater Pollution Prevention Plan. A Stormwater Pollution Prevention Plan (SWPPP) is a living document that is first submitted for approval to the city and to the KDOW. It will be updated, as necessary, as development continues. It includes site map(s), an identification of construction/contractor activities that could cause pollutant discharges into stormwater and a description of measures or practices to control these pollutants. The SWPPP is required by KYR10. It includes the EPSC Plan and Stormwater Management Plan. Once the development plan has been approved, a copy of the SWPPP must be maintained onsite and should include copies of all permits issued for the site. Inspection documentation and plan revisions must also be documented in the SWPPP once site development has begun.

(C) Construction EPSC Plan. Once the erosion prevention and sediment control (EPSC) plan has been approved, it becomes a component of the SWPPP. The EPSC Plan is a set of plans prepared by or under the direction of a licensed professional engineer detailing the specific measures and sequencing to be used to control sediment and erosion on a development site during and after construction. It includes supporting calculations, a construction schedule, and schematics and cross-sections for clarification, as well as any other material in support of the EPSC Plan. As the project progresses, revisions and modifications should be tracked in the SWPPP, with major modifications requiring prior approval by the city before implementation.

(D) Post-construction Stormwater Quality Management Plan. The post-construction stormwater quality management plan (P-SWQMP) contains permanent water quality treatment devices, such as detention structures, outlet protection, stormwater conveyance devices, and bioretention areas. Once approved, the P-SWQMP becomes a component of the SWPPP. Some of these components will not be installed during initial construction activities. However, knowing the proposed locations during early construction activities can be beneficial so areas can be appropriately staged. For example, permanent detention structures can first function as sediment basins. Once permanent controls have been installed, they should be protected from sediment laden runoff, as many permanent water quality treatment devices rely on infiltration for treatment and can easily be overwhelmed.

(E) Sites where land disturbance activities are proposed will require a complete Stormwater Pollution Prevention Plan (SWPPP) approved by the Issuing Authority of the City of Berea.

(1) The SWPP plan shall be prepared by a licensed engineer. The engineer shall be required to visit the site, in person, to evaluate the existing conditions before preparation of the SWPPP. The engineer shall notify the City of Berea at least five (5) days prior to the visit. The city may choose to visit the site with the engineer. The engineer shall prepare the report, including all of the maps and sketches required.

(2) The report shall be bound, on 8-1/2" x 11" paper. All plan drawings shall be folded and inserted (the size and scale of the plans may vary depending on the nature of the project; some critical areas might require an enlargement, or "blow-up sheet"). The report may be placed in a folder, binder or 3-ring binder, depending on the scope and size of the report. If the report is in a folder or binder, the outside of the folder/binder shall include as a minimum: Stormwater Pollution Prevention Plan, the name and address of the project, any additional documentation to identify the project per City of Berea requirements, the owner of the project, the consultant's name and contact information and date of submission.

(3) The SWPPP and EPSC plans shall be readily available at the construction site from the date of project initiation (NOI) to the date of Notice of Termination (NOT).

(4) Format and contents of the SWPPP will follow the outline ~~presented~~ as referenced in the Stormwater Manual.

(Ord. No. 24-14, § 1, 12-16-14)

§ 34.301 GENERAL REQUIREMENTS

Post-construction stormwater management in areas undergoing new development or redevelopment is necessary because runoff from these areas has been shown to significantly affect receiving water bodies. Post-construction pollutant loadings will be controlled through the six (6) minimum control measures under the KPDES stormwater permit.

(A) Redevelopment projects are required to meet twenty percent (20%) of the local water quality standard.

(B) The design of structural BMPs shall be by a professional engineer licensed to practice in the field civil engineering.

(C) The property owner shall be responsible for all maintenance and record keeping and reporting as detailed in the Maintenance Agreement.

(D) The City of Berea and its agents shall have right of entry to inspect, observe, test or perform any other activity related to the operation, maintenance and function of the stormwater infrastructure.

(E) General requirements for post-construction stormwater control ~~requirements for design, maintenance and a menu of BMPs~~ are located in the post-construction section of the City of Berea's Stormwater Manual. These regulations in the manual shall be the standard practice for post-construction compliance in the City of Berea.

(F) Stream corridor protection BMPs shall be utilized to protect designated streams and waterways through conservation methods. These methods may include buffer strips, greenways, vegetated channels, stream bank stabilization and restoration.

(G) Impervious area runoff controls shall be utilized to address high levels of runoff quantity and reduced quality associated with high-density developments. These controls may include preservation of open space, minimizing impervious surfaces, porous pavement, utilization of grass swales instead of curb and gutter, reduced pavement widths and similar measures.

(H) Discharge control BMPs shall be utilized to provide flow attenuation for post-development runoff. These BMPs may include detention facilities, extended detention basins, retention facilities and artificial wetlands.

(I) If a new development or redevelopment project contributes runoff to downstream receiving waters that are impaired or infrastructure that does not have sufficient capacity, the city may, at its discretion, require stormwater management controls greater than the minimum required by this section. Drainage calculations shall be provided by the developer's engineer to demonstrate the integration with the downstream hydraulic system.

(J) All facilities must be designed to require minimal maintenance to ensure that the facilities do not become nuisances or health hazards. Maintenance expectations shall be clearly stated in the maintenance agreement.

(K) The Approving Agency of the City of Berea, at its discretion, may require the developer of a new development or redevelopment project to provide off-site mitigation of stormwater BMP improvements in priority areas within the development watershed, when water quality treatment standards cannot be met ~~pay a stormwater improvement fee in lieu of the installation of stormwater BMP improvements~~.

(L) The requirements set forth in this section are intended to:

(1) Develop and implement strategies which include a combination of structural and/or non-structural best management practices (BMPs) that prevent or minimize water quality impacts from developments in the City of Berea.

(2) Ensure adequate long-term operation and maintenance of BMPs.

(3) Minimize damage to public facilities and utilities.

(4) Encourage the preservation of floodplains, floodways and open spaces to protect and benefit the community's quality of life and natural resources.

operation costs, increased fees for building permits, and adopting moderate property tax increases, as well as other strategies.

Commenting on the work session, Audit and Finance Chairman Steve Caudill said the council should continue pursuing bold ideas, but reach a consensus on its main priorities each year.

"We've got some decisions to make as a city," Caudill said. "It's an economic guarantee. You will have inflation and costs will go up. As a city we will have to start looking at this and thinking about our priorities. We are going to have to come up with goals that we can collectively agree upon and work towards because we aren't going to be able to chase every single light down the tunnel."

On a related note, Berea City Councilman Ronnie Terrill pitched an idea to raise council salaries from $400 a month to $600 a month. Additionally, Terrill recommended raising the mayor's salary to $25,000 annually.

Berea City Councilmember Emily LaDouceur supported the idea of a pay hike on the grounds that it would make serving the city more accessible for some who might not be able to afford it. Terrill, meanwhile, noted that with all of the meetings he attends, he doesn't recover the cost of fuel for running back and forth into town.

While some council members agreed current compensation doesn't cover the costs of conducting the city's business, few seemed to support the idea of a raise. Councilmember Jim Davis noted it would be hard for the public to understand such a move. "We're singing the blues [about the budget] but then you want a pay raise," Davis joked. Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley said the timing would be bad considering the city has implemented a freeze on promotions for staff. He added in light of the financial picture, the city as whole, including the council and mayor, has to be ready to make sacrifices. "For me, pay is not a factor," Fraley said. "I'd do it for nothing."

In other business:

- Council heard a report from Craig Williams on the destruction of chemical weapons at the Blue Grass Army Depot. Williams noted that total destruction of chemical weapons at the facility is still on track for December of 2023. Williams added a task force is evaluating how local communities can retain the skilled workforce now at the site once the destruction process is complete.
- Berea College President Lyle Roelofs gave his first update of the year, noting the trail on the south bank of Brushy Fork Creek is open. The city will lay gravel this year, then pave the trail next year. Additionally, Roelofs announced a first-in-the-nation hydro-electric project by the college, in which Berea will install turbines on one dormant lock along the Kentucky River. The project has the potential to produce enough energy to meet half of the college's electricity needs, Roelofs said. Another identical project is in the works at another lock, Roelofs said.
- The council voted to accept North Fork Drive, Winding Branch Drive and Stoney Creek Way into its road maintenance plan.
- Council adopted a municipal road aid cooperative agreement with the state, providing $280,955 for road upkeep. Councilmember Jerry Little noted municipal road aid funds have dropped significantly in recent years.
- The council heard the first reading of a measure to accept a bid from Don Combs to buy a house at 103 Meadowlark Drive for $71,000.
- Council adopted a storm water control ordinance.

TORNADO

woke me up with hail pinging against my bedroom windows."

A battery operated weather radio confirmed Jackson's fear that a "tornado was near."

"We're part of tornado alley so this unfortunately happens far too often," she said.

According to the Associated Press, at least 40 buildings were damaged in downtown Nashville and at least 24 people were confirmed dead.

In Putnam County, some 80 miles (130 kilometers) east of Nashville, at least 18 people were killed, including five pre-teen children, and 88 others were injured.

Twenty-one people remain unaccounted for, Putnam Sheriff Eddie Farris said, and about 40% of the rubble still needs to be searched, including a 25-acre field with marshy vegetation reaching 7 feet high.

"Last night was a reminder about how fragile life is," Nashville Mayor John Cooper said during a press conference.

"It is heartbreaking," Tennessee Governor Bill Lee added. "We have had loss of life all across the state."

At sunrise early Tuesday, Jackson said there were branches and debris scattered throughout her neighborhood and currently is without electricity.

"I'm seeing pictures from so many friends who have total devastation," she said. "Tennessee State University is badly damaged. Donelson Christian Academy is also badly damaged. The death toll continues to climb with daylight and I continue to hear sirens in the distance."

Jackson's son Brayden Jackson is a junior at Trevecca Nazarene University and witnessed the tornado as it made its way through downtown Nashville early Tuesday.

"He actually saw the tornado that hit downtown and described the lightning as green then red and the winds were very strong," Jackson said.

Tennessee men's basketball coach Rick Barnes offered his thoughts and prayers to the victims following the Volunteers' 81-73 win over Kentucky Tuesday night at Rupp Arena.

"Our thoughts and prayers go out to those that lost people in the devastation there. And I talked to my friend of mine in Cookeville today and I asked him, I said, 'You know, we're going to be coming through there next week for the tournament,' I said, 'What can we do?' He said, 'I'll think about it,' but he said, 'In the meantime, the best thing you can do is beat the Wildcats.'

"So, again, if that helps anybody but it's so sad, what happened there, and again, actually, this is a game but that's real-life tragedy and I'm just really sad for those people and I just know that we've got to keep them in our prayers."

In times of disaster, financial donations are the best way to aid those in need. Cash can be used immediately in response to a crisis, and allows disaster relief organizations to purchase exactly what is needed, when it's needed.

The Tennessee region of the American Red Cross is directly supporting relief efforts in the state at https://www.redcross.org/local/tennessee.html.

The Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee has established a Middle Tennessee Emergency Response Fund: https://www.cfmt.org/story/middle-tennessee-emergency-response-fund/ to support flood-affected communities and non-profits.

HARDGE

FROM A1

Friday night.

"I will always be a Lady Pirate and I think that's where God wanted me to be at that time," Denny said. "Kenyatta choice to be an Indian, but he's on the same path and I support him and I'm excited. We were nervous at first but I realize how much the coaches and the staff have taken Kenyatta under their wings and that's such a huge blessing to me and he's in very, very good hands."

Denny "feels honored and blessed" to watch her son play and hasn't been surprised by his recent success playing on the varsity level.

"Kenyatta has always been such a humble kid," Denny said. "He has always worked and he has always put in the extra time. When I see Kenyatta, he reminds me of myself in the way that he rebounds and the way he plays defense, which reminds me of myself."

Hardge said the biggest thing his mom emphasizes is defense.

"I try to take that to heart and help everybody else with that," he said. "Once someone starts talking (on defense), then everybody else starts talking and it's fine after that."

Hardge said he simply tries to give the team a spark when he's in the lineup.

"I try to provide energy and if we are slow getting out (of the gate), I try to bring the most energy as possible to get us back going," he said. "When you're in practice, you know what everybody can do and you try to help them out. I've been playing with these people all of my life and in fifth-grade, I was playing up with the eighth-grade (team) and I was competing with them so I could help myself and get better as a player."

Hardge also plays football and baseball and is currently being recruited by the University of Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky University even though he has yet to officially begin his prep career. Hardge currently doesn't have a favorite sport but that could change in the future.

"I really don't have a favorite," he said. "I just like to compete in all of them and try to better myself as a whole person. If one doesn't work out for me, then I have two (sports) to fall back onto and my academics."

Madison Central coach Allen Feldhaus Jr. said Hardge is a talented athlete beyond his years and has had a sense of belonging since joining the varsity squad earlier this year.

"He's one of those kids that is already physically strong enough as an eighth-grader," Feldhaus said. "He just brings tremendous energy when he comes into the basketball game. He talks and I don't think I've ever had a kid, especially at a young age that understands how you're supposed to communicate defensively and the older kids feed off of him. That's just unusual and he's just a great all-around athlete.

"He's one heck of a football player and they say baseball might be his best sport. He's a catcher and he's just special. He's one of those (special players) and he stepped out in the first game of the district tournament and most eighth-graders would be a little scared and he comes into the game in the second half and won the game for us. He just took over. He can lead older kids and that's very unique."

Hardge credits those attributes to his mom.

"She's the one I look up to," he said. "She's my motivation."

Cub Scouts Hold Pinewood Derby and Celebrate 110th Birthday of Scouting

Cub Scout Pack 516 celebrated the 110th birthday of the Boy Scouts of America at their annual Blue and Gold Banquet on February 8th, 2019. This annual banquet serves as an awards ceremony for the Pack as they celebrate the previous year in scouting. Along with the dinner and awards, the Tiger Den also held the annual food drive which collected over 250lbs of food for the Berea Food Bank.

During the event, the Pack also held a Cross-over Ceremony as 5 cub scouts, who completed the cub scouting program by achieving their Arrow of Light rank, were accepted into Troop 51 to continue in the Scouts BSA program.

Additionally, Pack 516 held its annual Pinewood Derby on February 22nd. The Pinewood Derby is a racing event in which scouts build unpowered cars from blocks of wood, plastic wheels, and metal axles. The cars run on a standardized track and are powered only by gravity. The Derby event is run by chapters (called "Packs") of the Cub Scout Program of the Scouts BSA and often serve as one of the major events of the year. Pack 516 had a total of 29 cars registered this year and the event was a great success. Jaden Lopez won 1st place, Charlie Moreland got 2nd place, and Sawyer French took 3rd Place. In addition to 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place, Jackson Martin won an award for the Most Fuel-Efficient car, Cubmaster's Choice was awarded to Mathias Gregory, and Dean Brock won the Outlaw Division Champion.

Pack 516 would like to thank their community sponsors who help make these events possible. Papalenos, Save-a-Lot, Dominos, Hitz BBQ, Crackle Barrel, Walmart, and Lee's Famous Recipe all donated items for these events.

White Station Homemakers report

White Station Homemakers met at Middletown Baptist Church at 11:30 on February 12. Terri Griffin called the meeting to order to start work on Valentine treats for the elderly residents of the Terrace. Forming an assembly line and using everyone's artistic notions, we created over 100 gifts to be shared with the residents on Valentines Day. This allowed for enjoyable socialization.

When the project was completed a light lunch provided by Betty Schiederman was enjoyed by all. Everyone enjoyed working hard to put the right product to the statement to advertise product.

Betty Eberle gave the leader lesson on scams and how to protect yourself. Everybody has received robocalls. Being able to ID callers was discussed. Feel free to hang up on pushy callers, She highlighted the importance of care upon answering the phone call. Never answer "yes", as they may record the response and use it as your approval for other merchandise and or money transfers. Never give out family member's names. If they state that your grandson needs help tell them to name the person or give a name that is not one of family the members. This will verify legitamacy.

Meeting adjourned till March 11,2020 at 11:30.

News from Berea Lions

Ever wonder who puts up those signs on the highways with front and back facing Lions heads? Yes - there are Lions likely in your neighborhood! Unlike the ones out in the wild, Lions are folks who have a passion for helping others and making their neighborhoods and cities better places to live. Parents who have children in childcare centers, schools or other places, have probably noticed vision screenings taking place with Lions members manning special cameras designed to detect common childhood vision problems. Lions vision screeners also can be seen at the Kentucky State Fair using a variety of vision screening equipment.

Lions Clubs had their beginning on June 7, 1917, when Melvin Jones, a Chicago insurance executive interested in serving humanitarian needs, formed a group of what would later be known as today's "Association of Lions Clubs International." The Berea club was organized on April 18, 1946, at Boone Tavern, Berea.

On a local level, Berea Lions conduct Audible Egg Hunts in the Spring, using unique "talking eggs" to give vision-impaired children the experience of participating in an Easter Egg hunt. Our schools work also includes vision screenings at events like the Annual State Special Olympics, and the Day of Hope. We also lend a hand with special community projects like collecting non-perishable foods for the Berea Food Bank. Recently, Lions have begun participating in diabetes screening projects.

The Berea Lions purchased a lensometer last year, to read prescriptions on donated eyeglasses, which are sorted and packed to be delivered to other countries. To date, we have delivered several thousand eyeglasses to mission teams going to Uganda, Haiti, and Mexico.

Lions clubs make up the largest international service organization in the world. Overseas work includes helping to eradicate preventable diseases such as river blindness, cataracts and measles. In 2004, Lions Clubs International raised $12,000,000 for disaster relief for a huge Tsunami which hit the Indian Ocean area.

If you are someone who enjoys helping people, and would like to meet people from a wide variety of backgrounds, we would love to have you come to one of our bi-monthly meetings on the 2nd and 4th Mondays of the month at 6:30 PM. We meet at the Smokehouse Grill restaurant, Old Peggy Flats Rd., Berea. Check out our Berea Lions Ky webpage on Facebook (Berea Lions Club (KY)), or visit our website at Berea Ky Lions Club.

Speakers focus on forgiveness theme for annual Lenten lunches

In this time of right-fighting, offense-taking, grudge-holding, and simmering anger, the notion of simple forgiveness seems as attractive as a cool glass of water in early August.

Thoughts of forgiveness center the annual Lenten Luncheon series at Berea United Methodist Church. Each Wednesday, beginning March 4, a community person will speak about a personal understanding of "My Lenten Journey of Forgiveness", the theme of the 2020 series.

The lunches, which are open to all Bereans, feature a speaker, music and a soup-and-sandwich lunch each Wednesday during Lent, March 4 – April 1. There is no charge for the meal, which begins at Noon in the Parish House and ends by 12:45 P.M.

Berea United Methodist Church is located on the corner of Fee and Chestnut Streets in Berea, KY. The Parish House is at 101 Fee Street. Doors for the luncheon will open at 11:45 A.M. For more information about the church, or the Lenten Lunch series, please call 859-986-3485.

The first speaker of the series was Mary Miller, speaking on her topic of "Taken, Blessed, Broken and Forgiven."

She is the newly appointed assistant pastor of worship and member care at Berea UMC. Although this is a new title, Mrs. Miller is not new to ministry at Berea UMC. She and her family, husband Chris and children Rebecca and Benjamin, moved to Berea in 1993, and joined Berea UMC in 1994. She has been director of worship and music ministry at the church for 25 years.

Mrs. Miller graduated from St. Olaf College in 1984 with a bachelor of arts degree in music education.

On March 11 Susan Henthorn will be speaking on "Forgiveness... Who Cares?"

Ms. Henthorn has been a reference and electronic resource librarian at Berea College for nearly 30 years. Her father was an ordained United Methodist pastor in the East Ohio Conference. Her maternal grandparents met as missionaries in Angola, Africa and were both ordained pastors in the West Michigan Conference. Her grandmother served several years as the president of the National Women Minister's Association. Ms. Henthorn's calling was to music and to education, helping people discover and enjoy a love of music and of learning.

Pirates, Lady Pirates fall in region tourney

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Berea's run to the 11th Region Tournament ended Tuesday night as the Frederick Douglass Broncos blew past the Pirates 73-32.

Jayden Smith led the Pirates (22-9) with 16 points and nine rebounds.

The Berea Lady Pirates' season end with a 57-32 loss to the Paul Laurence Dunbar Lady Bulldogs in the first round of the 11th Region Tournament Monday night.

Alexis Newman's nine points paced Berea (17-14). Madison Howell and Maddy King finished with six points each in the loss. MaKenzie Howell grabbed nine rebounds, while scoring four points.

The region loss came on the heels of a district runner-up where Berea fell to Madison Central.

Against Central, Madison Howell scored 10 points, while grabbing six rebounds. Isis Rodgers added nine points.

Honors: Madison Southern and Berea boys and girls basketball players received post-season love as a total of 12 players garnered honors.

Madison Southern's Samantha Cornelison was named to the 11th All-Region Team. Teammates Aleigh Richardson and Macie Daniels were named to the 44th All-District Tournament Team.

On the boys' side, Eagles hoops players Chad Fugate and Hunter Buchanan were named to the 44th All District Team.

Fugate and Buchanan finished in top 50 three-point shooters in the state, with Fugate knocking down 47.8 percent of his attempts to Buchanan's 37.9 percent.

Coach Austin Newton said both players were instrumental in Southern winning four straight games before the district tournament began.

"Hunter caught fire to close out the season," Newton said. "(He) was 35-for-61 from three-point range over the last six games of the season."

In addition to all district honors, Fugate was named to the 11th All-Region Team.

"He finished his career with 1,305 points and is ninth on the career scoring list," Newton pointed out. "He was a career 46.4 percent three-point shooter and 81 percent from the foul line."

Berea's Jaylen Dorsey earned an honorable mention to the All 11th Region Team, as well as his place on the 44th District All-Tournament Team. Timmy Thompson and Jayden Smith were also named to the all-district team.

"Those three really stepped up in the Model game to help us advance to the region tournament," Coach Eric Swords said. "(Also), Dorsey being named to the 11th Region honorable mention is huge for him and our program.

"The 11th Region is one of the toughest in the state, so for him to make the cut says a lot about the work that he has put in. It is my hope that these awards will make Dorsey and Jayden come back even stronger for next season."

Lady Pirate players Isis Rodgers, Madison Howell and Chesney Lovins were named to the 44th District All-Tournament Team last week in Richmond.

Cats have the tools in place to make a run for NCAA title

What will it take for Kentucky to make a deep run in the NCAA Tournament? It obviously takes luck, skill and a lot of talent to win it all and the Wildcats have a team that's capable of going all the way this season.

It's too early to make a projection simply becasue there is one more game to play in the regular-season and then the Southeastern Conference Tournament, but it's safe to say Kentucky figures to be in the conversation because there's no degree of separation from the best teams and the good teams scattered from top to bottom in the Top 25.

What does Kentucky have going for itself? There are a number of positives to dwell on going down the stretch and the following are reasons why the Wildcats will be among the teams mentioned as national title contenders going into March.

GUARD PLAY

Kentucky doesn't just have a point guard, it has three players capable of running the team at any given time under any set of circumstances. Although Ashton Hagans is the primary ballhandler, Tyrese Maxey and Immanuel Quickley have the ability to run the point in Hagans' absence.

Keith Taylor

All three guards can score as well. Sparked by Quickley's career-high 30 points in a win at Texas A&M recently, the backcourt trio combined for 54 points. Hagans can distribute the ball even though he recently has a tendency to turn the ball over.

Hagans leads the SEC with 6.5 assists per game and the three guards have been a driving force for the Wildcats and Quickley has scored double figures in 19 straight games.

POST PRESENCE

Not many teams can boast of having a solid presence in the post at two positions. The improvement of Nick Richards has given the Wildcats a reliable weapon inside and he just keeps getting better although he failed to reach double figures against Texas A&M earlier this week because of foul trouble. EJ Montgomery is beginning to show signs of his potential and it couldn't come at a better time for the Wildcats.

Montgomery scored eight points and grabbed 10 rebounds against the Aggies and has made some game-clinching rebounds down the stretch for Kentucky, especially on the offensive glass, during some close finishes over the past two weeks.

FREE-THROW SHOOTING

When it comes to winning close games, free-throw shooting is a must and the Wildcats have a roster stocked with players who can knock down freebies when it counts. Of course, Quickley is always money at the charity stripe, but Maxey, Hagans and Richards have proven to be effective at making those free baskets, too.

If you are an opposing coach in a close game against the Wildcats, it's a challenge choosing who to foul and it will be an even harder feat during tournament time. As a team, Kentucky is shooting 79 percent from the line, paced by Quickley (91 percent), followed by Hagans and Maxey at 81 percent and Richards at 75 percent.

BENCH RELIEF

Veteran Nate Sestina, along with freshmen Keion Brooks and Johnny Juzang, have each made valuable contributions off the bench this season and that's a good sign going into the one-and-done part of the season.

Sestina is versatile, while Brooks provides solid presence in the post and Juzang has shown he can provide a punch as well to help the Wildcats. Juzang provided a spark in a win at Tennessee and you have to figure Juzang, who isn't afraid to shoot, will start making them at a random rate eventually.

WINNING CLOSE GAMES

The Wildcats have had about every scheme imaginable thrown at them in conference play this season and have shown the ability to overcome adversity, with the exception of a loss at Auburn and a letdown at South Carolina and a rare 81-73 home loss to Tennessee Tuesday night at Rupp Arena.

It's not easy to win on road in the conference, but the Wildcats have compiled a 7-2 record away from Rupp Arena, a sign the Wildcats aren't intimidated by road environments. During a recent eight-game win streak, Kentucky won six of those by single digits.

But there's good reason to believe March Madness could again be a lot of fun for Big Blue Nation this season.

Berea College cancels spring semester amid COVID-19 fear

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizem

Berea College announced a decision Tuesday to suspend on-campus instruction for the rest of the academic year due to concerns about the COVID-19 virus. Faculty has discretion to have students complete courses through online platforms, according to a statement released Tuesday afternoon.

Officials emphasized there are no suspected or confirmed cases of the virus at the college as of Tuesday, and that the move to conclude the academic year and dismiss the college's 1,600 students home was a precautionary measure. Berea College is just one of several institutions around the nation to suspend on-site classes.

Berea College President Lyle Roelofs said in a statement that students are to be moved out of their campus dorms by Saturday, that those in need will get assistance for travel costs, and that college operations will continue until further notice. The decision was made by the college's Administrative College, according to the statement.

Additionally, Berea College commencement may be canceled or

Beshear recomends cancelling services

Cancelling church services was among a series of new recommendations issued Wednesday morning to combat spread of the coronavirus, which currently sits at eight cases in Kentucky.

"I don't believe that whether or not you go to church during this period of time is a test of faith," Gov. Andy Beshear told reporters during a Capitol press conference.

"I believe God gives us wisdom to protect each other and we should do that, and I'm going to recommend that our churches across Kentucky cancel their services for this weekend."

Smith honored as Leader of the Year

Saint Joseph Berea has announced that the 2019 Leader of the Year award recipient is Sara Smith, manager, Pharmacy, Saint Joseph Berea.

The hospital annually presents one employee serving in a managerial position with the Leader of the Year award. Selection criteria include an outstanding demonstration of leadership led by CHI Saint Joseph Health's core values of reverence, integrity, compassion and excellence. Smith was this year's recipient and was nominated by Bonnie Abrams, coordinator, Health Unit, Saint Joseph Berea.

"Over the last 18 years, Sara has become a friend to all," said Abrams. "Whether she is interacting with a doctor, patient or colleague, she upholds her reverent and compassionate character, while also maintaining a high level of excellence and integrity. Sara is intelligent, organized and truly irreplaceable. Saint Joseph Berea is a better place because of her."

Smith is often recognized by colleagues for always putting her best foot forward and giving 100 percent effort to all that she does. As the Pharmacy manager, she receives a countless number of requests during any given shift. Whereas the volume and pace of this position might intimidate some, Smith conducts herself and organizes the work in a manner that makes what she does look effortless.

Berea Cub Scouts to help with Nashville tornado relief

Seeking donations from the community

Donelson Christian Academy in Tennessee took a direct hit in the recent tornado outbreak and sustained heavy damage throughout the entire campus. The worst-hit was the preschool classrooms that were housed in mobile trailers and were piced up and torn to pieces.

Cub Scout Pack 516 has decided that they want to help.

DCA is determined that they will not miss class. They have decided they will go on and rebuild as they go. They are planning on starting back on March 16 at a local church, but they have basically nothing.

The elementary is the hardest hit, and the teachers literally have no classrooms to collect things from.

Pack 516 will be taking up a collection for the school which will be delivered to the teachers and staff.

Donelson Christian Academy is pre-school through high school. They need everything from school supplies to toys, books, cleaning supplies, and much more. It can be new or gently used.

The Pack will be collecting everything and storing it until the school is ready for it. They are accepting donations from everyone, individuals and businesses. They are also accepting any size donations from one small item to large collections.

Please share this on your social media and with your friends and neighbors. You can pass along the scoutmaster's contact info to anyone interested.

News from Berea Rotary

Berea Rotary members heard from Allie Turley, Madison Southern High School's girl's varsity basketball coach. Turley, a native of western Kentucky, had been working outside the state for the past 15 years. His basketball experiences involve playing, coaching both girls and boys, as well as both high school and college. He holds a B.S. (emphasis in biology) from Eastern Kentucky University and a Master's in Sports Leadership. He did not plan to be a teacher, but had "a bug to coach." In his 18 years coaching he stated his experience at MSHS has been the most fun. He was pleased to find young women who had a good base of basketball knowledge with much enthusiasm and energy for the sport. He felt that the team should have been playing in the regional tournament after completing a very ambitious schedule, noting that to "get better you have to play better teams." During the Q&A period he stated that the difference he saw in girls and boys is that "boys free-lance too much and girls not enough." He thought playing "pick-up basketball" might be helpful. When asked about the seeming decline in the use of the backboard he noted that this team's worst percentages were in shots that were four feet and in. He said that Title IX figured into many decisions, including scheduling. Some Rotarians voiced surprise that scheduling is a part of the coach's job. Others were interested in whether the regional draws were by blind draw or seed. He stated that it is put to a vote every year. When asked about the future plans of some of his seniors he mentioned that Aleigh Richardson will be signing soon with a school in Ohio, Hallie Harrison is going to UL in chemical engineering, and both Sunni Walters and Skylar Sparks have chosen EKU, where Skylar plans to major in education to become a coach. Walters suffered an injury late in the season and saw little play after that. He said the Lady Eagles played with a "Never Quit" philosophy which made it a season he wishes could have continued. He noted the seniors were the first ones on the bench cheering others on.

Two guests attended--Rotary Partner, Donna Harrison, and John Hare. Harrison reported that the road trip to Charleston, SC in June is currently full.

March 31st the speaker will be David Johns of Edward Jones. Berea Rotary meets each Tuesday noon at the Artisan Center.

Local artist to show at Kentucky Crafted

Gary DuBois will exhibit at The Kentucky Crafted Market, the Kentucky Arts Council's signature arts marketplace for wholesale buyers and the general public March 13-15 at the Kentucky Horse Park's Alltech Arena in Lexington.

DuBois was invited to participate in The Market as a recently juried participant of the arts council's Kentucky Crafted Program.

"For 38 years, artists in the Kentucky Crafted Program have represented the best of the Commonwealth's art and craft production on local, state, national and international stages," said Chris Cathers, arts council interim executive director. "Kentucky Crafted artists contribute mightily to the Commonwealth's global association with artistic excellence and quality craftsmanship."

DuBois has owned Stone Table Studio for two years, producing sculpted art from repurposed stone. DuBois is participating in The Market for the first time.

The Kentucky Crafted Market offers buyers from galleries, shops and online retail venues across the nation the opportunity to select products from this elite group of exhibitors. The Market is open exclusively to the trade 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., March 13.

On March 14-15, the marketplace opens again to the public. In addition to shopping for fine art and craft, visitors can enjoy musical performances, sample regional food products, participate in hands-on activities, and explore Kentucky arts and culture through special exhibits. The Market is open 10 a.m.-6 p.m. March 14 and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. March 15.

About his unique artwork, DuBois says,

"I've been an artist all my life, but ended up in stone only recently. Every idea is an experiment, every new piece an adventure. I tend to push the edge, making shapes unexpected for stone: dishes, leaves, feathers.

"Working with repurposed stone from countertop scraps, I see my handiwork as a 'beauty from the broken' redemptive metaphor. Beauty and value restored to the broken and rejected. I find inspiration in the natural world around my home and in the beauty of the stone I work.

"I find great delight in each new piece as I watch it unfold from the rigid stone and come to life."

Lawmakers trying to shoot your watchdog

Jay Nolan
CEO of Nolan Group Media

How would you feel if you hired someone to work for you and they shot your family's watchdog? That's essentially what Stephen Rudy, the powerful chairman of the Kentucky House Appropriations and Revenue Committee, just did.

He and some of his colleagues scattered language throughout the committee's 201-page state budget bill (HB 351) that takes nearly all public notices out of newspapers. Then they rushed it through the process.

Worse, they intentionally ignored the fact that a bill addressing the public notice issue had already passed the house – one that had been hammered out after intense negotiations and compromise with representatives from across the state for newspapers plus city and county governments.

The supposed reason for this is to save "public tax dollars." Okay, so how much is the savings? According to the legislature's own research, less than two tenths of one percent of their budget for most school districts!

Likewise, most cities spend a tiny, tiny fraction of their budget on public notices. Again, this data came from the legislature's own research commission, which published a report on this issue, LRC research report #431.

So, if Rep. Rudy and his Frankfort colleagues really want to save taxpayer dollars, they should be trying to increase the number of people who know about and can bid on city, county and state projects, right? It is proven an open, honest and transparent bid process with many bidders builds trust and reduces cost. This bill does just the opposite. Bid invitations, audits, and other financial reports for all school boards, cities, and counties would disappear from newspapers.

Sure, printed newspapers don't reach as many homes as they used to. But neither do network television shows, radio broadcasts, or even cable television. Media everywhere has become more specialized and fragmented, with smaller and smaller audiences now common across the board.

But, quite interestingly, most newspapers today put their public notices on their websites - at no extra charge to taxpayers! PLUS, in Kentucky they are already consolidated on a single statewide website - www.kypublicnotice.com. The site is FREE. It's open to anyone. It lists every notice listed in almost every Kentucky newspaper.

So, when you combine the print product, newspaper website - well, newspapers are still the cheapest way to reach a large audience.

Some in Frankfort suggest we use "government or government agency" websites for public notices. But, when discussing websites in rural counties, Senate President Robert Stivers said, "I don't think many cities or counties across Eastern Kentucky even have websites, do they?" He's right. They do not.

But our communities still have newspapers and newspaper websites. These do reach and serve their community.

For example, in Clay County, The Manchester Enterprise and its website routinely reach over 20,000 viewers per week. The county only has about 20,366 people. In Knox at The Mountain Advocate, 24,000 views each week is common. That's over 75% of the county's population.

But unless the senate steps up and stops this now, Rep. Rudy and his crew will get away with this blatant attempt to keep you in the dark. To stop this loss of government transparency, please email or call your state senator today. Ask them to fix HB 351 so it keeps public notices in newspapers. Don't let them shoot your watchdog!

New: Arguments by Terrill and LaDouceur for a raise are very self-serving

Dear Editor,

Prior to the city council meeting last week a work session on the city budget was held. City administrator David Gregory pointed out that one of the biggest contributors to our budget problem are rising costs in Medicare, FICA, healthcare, and retirement. Some of this has been brought on by increase in the number of employees. I'm sure there are other issues contributing as well.

But while the discussion pointed out that the city is managing this "challenge" through austere measures, much like many of us in the private sector are used to on a routine basis, two city council members, Ronnie Terrill and Emily LaDouceur, called for a 50% increase in the amount of money they receive to cover their expenses as well as the mayor's salary. Mr. Terrill claimed he is spending more driving in to town for meetings than he is making as a council member. Ms. LaDouceur claims if we paid more, we could get more people to run.

Both of these arguments are very self-serving. First, you know up front how much the reimbursement is before you file to run. If you think it is not enough, don't run. Someone who has been in office as long as Mr. Terrill knows full well what the pay is. If he is not happy with it then don't seek reelection.

As for Ms. LaDouceur, running for a council position should not be meant as a way to enrich yourself. It is not meant to be a job to provide for your family.

These arguments are made worse when you have just heard how you are asking city employees to do more with less. We aren't hiring new people or promoting people, we are eliminating part time positions, and we are implementing department spending cuts.

We know from some of the council comments that a looming tax increase is coming. How arrogant do you have to be to ask for more money for yourself while voting to reduce other city resources and raise taxes on the citizens?

If anyone should get more money it is the person who climbs a utility pole for hours a day after an ice storm to restore our power, or the guys who dig in mud in the freezing rain to repair a water main break, or the office workers who listen to complaint after complaint from people paying their tax bills. Let's not forget the police officers driving through your neighborhood at 4:30 am while you sleep or the firemen trying to save a burning house while the residents stand wrapped in blankets watching their home being destroyed.

Being a public servant should be an honor, not a burden.

Pelphrey: Osborne's articles should be used to teach

Dear Editor,

The articles written recently by Melissa Osborne regarding her daughter Cara moved me beyond words. Not only because of what was written, but because Melissa is the most private person I have ever met. The courage that Melissa showed by writing the articles was nothing short of heroic. My concern is that Melissa's courage ends as being a story told by a grieving mother. This story has so much more potential.

My wish is that the local schools would use it as a teaching tool. What if the stronger, more popular boys were taught that true strength is defending the weaker, timid classmates? The young girls could also be taught that, whether through physical or verbal intimidation, bullying shows an ugliness that no amount of makeup can hide.

For those who appease the bullies by laughing at their treatment of others in hopes that they won't become the next victim, please just walk away. Don't provide bullies the audience they crave.

Melissa has always been a dear friend, but I couldn't be more proud of her. My prayer is that her courage will be rewarded by children who are currently being bullied suddenly finding allies from unexpected friends.

Thank you,
Larry Pelfrey

properties has been appraised by an appraiser, who established the appraised rate. Under KRS 67.0802 and the county is required to set the minimum bid for each of the properties at those appraised rates. The properties are as follows:

- Parcel 8 at 976 Battlefield Memorial Highway (Minimum Bid: $300,000).
- Parcel 9 (Lot 2) on Battlefield Memorial Highway (Minimum Bid: $215,000).
- Parcel 10 on General Cruft Drive (Minimum Bid: $225,000).
- Parcel 11 (Lot E-1) on US 25/Berea Road (Minimum Bid: $87,000).

Taylor told the court an open house will be held from 9 a.m.-noon on March 14 and 2-6 p.m. on March 24 for property located on Parcel 8 at 976 Battlefield Memorial Highway. Sealed bids will be accepted until 1 p.m. on Friday, March 27 at 135 West Irvine Street, Suite 300 in Richmond. Bids will be opened at 1:15 p.m. on Friday, March 27 at the Madison County Fiscal Courtroom.

"We felt like we needed to (have an open house) so potential buyers could come and see it," Taylor said. "With the lots, there is no point in that because (potential buyers) can go and see them anytime they would like."

Other properties owned by the court, including Wilgreen Lake, New Road and Battlefield Golf Course are expected to be available for bid in July.

To help address budget concerns within his own department, Madison County Sheriff Mike Coyle informed the court of the sale of three vehicles, including a pair of Hummers owned by the Sheriff's Department totaling $20,390. The court approved monies from the sale to be be transferred from the general fund to Coyle's budget. Coyle said the Hummers have been a great asset and added his department is keeping three in inventory.

In other business:

- The court approved a zoning change at 1650 Berea Road from UC-1 Residential to UC-4 Commercial.
- Approved resolutions on application for a application of grant funds for assistance to firefighters and Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet of Waste Management Grant Funds. Additional resolutions approved included a memorandum of understanding with the Kentucky Department Transportation of a training room, and the annual notification of agreement for FMC.
- Approved a contract with Safer Services for CSEPP Outdoor sirens for $1.8 million. The contract also includes $52,000 annual maintenance charge and both monies will be federally funded. The number of sirens in the county will be reduced from 60 to 40 but with the same capacity.

VIRUS

postponed, and the school's sports teams will suspend participation in USA South Conference play after Thursday, according to the email that was distributed to the campus community.

Berea Independent School District Superintendent Diane Hatchett said there are no plans to suspend instruction at Berea Community Schools, but that school officials will continue to monitor and evaluate information as it becomes available. "At Berea Community Schools the health and safety of our students and families is our number one priority," Hatchett said in a statement. "At this particular time, there are no known cases of COVID-19 in Madison County."

Hatchett praised a joint effort by local officials to educate the public and confront fears about the possible spread of the virus. On Tuesday, Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley and City Administrator David Gregory met with officials from the City of Richmond, Madison County, county EMS staff, as well as administrators from CHI Saint Joseph Hospital Berea and Baptist Health Richmond to consult with the Madison County Health Department (MCHD), which is monitoring the epidemic and directing efforts to educate the public. The meeting was at the Madison County Joint Information Center in Richmond. Fraley noted the health department has been planning a response for some 13 weeks, and that Tuesday's meeting was, in part, about determining how local governments and hospitals can cooperate to support the health department's efforts.

Fraley and Gregory stated another main objective of Tuesday's conference was to forge a unified response and to insure all entities were providing their constituents with the same information. "I think that by doing that it can lessen the fear that can go with a situation like this that's really an unknown. The best advice I can give to people is to educate themselves about the spreading of any disease, whether it's the flu, cold, or any kind of infectious disease, and take appropriate precautions," Fraley said.

Official information on COVID-19, including who is at risk, and steps to take to avoid contracting the virus, is available at the state hotline at 1-800-722-5725, or online at www.kycovid19.ky.gov Regular updates are also available from Governor Andy Beshear's Facebook page at https://www.facebook.com/GOVAndyBeshear/ at the Centers for Disease Control at https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/index.html and the City of Berea https://www.facebook.com/bereakygov/posts/2676686049226217.

"My recommendation for people is to get their information from these official sources," Fraley said.

Update

As of Wednesday, Berea and Madison County's other two local governments have contingency plans to continue providing services to their citizens, Fraley said is the key to meeting the challenge of any emergency.

"We don't know how widespread this will become," Fraley said of the virus. "But we are prepared, and we continue to prepare. We feel like we are positioned and prepared for an event like this, but it can change from day to day. We're hopeful that it does not become widespread, but if it does become widespread, we feel we are prepared for anything that comes our way."

Baptist Health Richmond is closely monitoring the evolving coronavirus (COVID-19). In an abundance of caution, we have activated the appropriate infection control protocols at the hospital until further notice to protect our patients, as well as staff and community.

- Mother and Baby Care: On the Mother-Baby and Labor and Delivery units, immediate family over the age of 18 without a fever or runny nose will be allowed to visit. We ask to keep the number of visitors to two at a time.
- All Other Adult Units (non-maternity): Patients in the Emergency Department, Surgical Services, Intensive Care Units (ICU), Telemetry, and Medical/Surgical will be allowed up to two visitors at a time from immediate family.
- Palliative Care, Emergenc and Hospice Care: We respectfully welcome clergy for family support along with immediate family members only.
- When visiting, remember to wash your hands with soap and water when entering and leaving patient rooms.
- Those with fever, runny nose, body aches, or respiratory symptoms should not visit.

"The well-being and safety of our patients and the community is always our top priority," said Greg D. Gerard, president of Baptist Health Richmond. "Our caregivers are highly trained and ready to handle any kind of emergency. We respectfully ask that visitors adhere to these temporary restrictions so that we can maintain the safest possible environment for everyone."

Langfels enters his first year as Eagles' skipper

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

First-year Madison Southern baseball coach Jayson Langfels has a singular goal in mind as the Eagles prepare to open their 2020 season.

"We want to win each day at each practice and try to get better," Langfels said. "A part of our job (as a coaching staff) is to show them where they're insufficient at and give them a plan where they can go out and execute and get better each day. That's the goal we have for these guys is to win one practice at a time, and by the end of the season, we'll be in good shape."

The team leadership is there as Southern returns six seniors, including four who have signed to play college ball (Jalon Lamb- Alice Lloyd; Britton Robinson – East Tennessee State; Tanner Hambree – Alice Lloyd and Titus Haskins – University of the Cumberlands).

"These kids are hungry to take ownership of their culture," Langfels said. "That's one thing I've noticed in talking with them. They are set on creating a culture they're proud of."

Last season, the Eagles were runners-up in the 44th District and advanced to the second round of the 11th Region Tournament, where their season ended with a loss to Lafayette.

The Eagles begin the 2020 season at home March 16 versus Frederick Douglass at 6 p.m.

- Brent Billings has seen steady improvement each of his first three years as coach of the Berea Pirates. While his overall win-loss record is 20-51, his Pirates have improved every season he has been in charge, including an 11-17 mark last year.

For the Pirates to sail above .500, Billings said his team must focus each day.

"I want to see them steadily progress and not hit that mid-season slump," he said. "I would like to see our pitchers progress through the season; throw more strikes and put the ball where they want to put it."

With the steady improvement in each phase of the game, the odds are good that Berea will advance to its first 11th Region Tournament since 2014.

Berea graduated seven seniors from last year's team but returns five seniors this year. That, coupled with an outstanding crop of underclassmen, has the fourth-year coach feeling good.

Berea's pitching rotation is deep, Billings said.

"I have six or seven guys I can rely on to give us solid four to five innings every game," Billings explained. "Some of those guys can go all seven if we need them too. We also have some younger guys who will give me one or two innings in relief."

Leading the charge on the mound will be senior Caden DeGregorio.

"He is going to be a strong pitcher for us this year," Billings said. "He's grown a lot since last season."

Billings said while he is still tinkering with what the defense will look like, he is confident everything will be set when the season begins March 17 at home versus Frankfort at 6 p.m.

"We have a bunch of guys who play a lot of positions, so we're still trying to find the right combo," he said.

Softball

After capturing back-to-back 44th District titles, the Madison Southern Lady Eagles have their sights set on a higher prize – the 11th Region Championship.

The Lady Eagles were a game away from realizing that goal in 2019 but fell to Woodford County in the 11th Region title game.

"I have high expectations coming into this year for our program," Coach Abbey Stepp said. "I expect to win the region and go to state. Now that we've been there in those high-intensity games and atmosphere, we're going to come back more prepared than we were last year."

Southern lost two seniors from last year's squad and returns five seniors and multiple juniors, so the needed experience is there.

"I have had discussions with our seniors about being good leaders and good role models for this program. I look for them to step up this year with their consistency and their play," Stepp said.

On the mound, Stepp will look for the 1-2 punch of Kayla Pigg and Tessa Juett. Both players pitched well last season, and bring different guises to the game.

"Kayla is right-handed, and Tessa is left-handed, so they have different looks from the mound," Stepp said. "Both of them throw hard, and they have good off-speed (pitches), as well."

At the plate, Stepp expects Juett, Kayla Conrad, and Samantha Cornelison to provide key hits and quality at-bats for the squad.

"I have high expectations for those three," she said. "I expect them to have consistency at the plate and in the field out of them. I expect them to lead in all offensive categories this year."

Southern opens its season March 21 at Paul Laurence Dunbar at 3 p.m.

- Though entering his first year at the helm of the Berea Lady Pirates softball team, Coach David Alexander isn't a stranger to many of the players. Having coached Berea's middle school team for several years, Alexander is familiar with many of his players.

Last season, the Lady Pirates finished 10-11, and for Berea to get over the hump, Alexander said it would boil down to the basics.

"I want to see them progress and get better every time they get out on the field," he explained. "I'm a coach that teaches fundamentals."

A defensive-minded coach, Alexander said that is where much of the off-season work has been focused.

"I don't care if you hit 27 homes runs, but if you can't stop the other team from scoring, what good have you done?" he asked. "We will work on hitting, of course, and we have some good kids, natural hitters. But at the beginning, I work on defense and keeping kids focused on what their job is in whatever position they're playing."

Berea returns one senior, Malyah Penn, who will play first base.

"She has a good, powerful swing, and she listens and follows directions well," Alexander said.

Berea opens its season March 16 at home against Danville at 6 p.m.

Tips for auto owners
• Keep it tidy – anything, even if it is trash in a store bag, could be seen as valuable to a thief, who doesn't know what's inside. Conceal all the evidence
• Hide your electronics and accessories, or bring it with you.
• Put shopping bags in the trunk as soon as you get in the car, not before you go into a store. You never know who is watching.
• Get an alarm.

Miss Norma Singleton, daughter of Mrs. Ethel Singleton of Berea, a 1969 graduate of Madison Central High School, enlisted in the Air Force on Dec. 12, 1969. The reasons Miss Singleton gave for enlisting were to further her education, to travel and to meet interesting people. The most remarkable thing about the Air Force, she said, was her uniform, which distinguishes her in a crowd, and the feeling of being admired. She also said that the Air Force has many opportunities and there were plenty of boys for those who are interested.

Miss Peggy J. Wylie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Wylie, Route 2, has enlisted in the U. S. Navy. She will undergo "boot" training for WAVES at the WAVE Training Center, Bainbridge, Md. After boot training she will be granted a 14 day leave before reporting to one of the Navy's service schools. Miss Wylie is a 1967 graduate of Madison Central High School.

Spec. 5 Charles O. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Robinson, Paint Lick, arrived home Wednesday, March 4, after serving a year's tour of duty in Viet Nam. His wife is the former Mary Margaret Abney.

Spec. 5 Lawrence W. Thompson, 23, son of Mrs. Emma W. Thompson, of Berea, has been assigned to the USARV transportation detachment in Saigon as a computer engineer. Miss Susie Horton, discussion; Miss Jody Chisholm, dramatic interpretation; and Bill Johnstone, extemporaneous speaking.

The Berea Lions Club sponsored a chili supper to raise money for the Berea Elementary School reading program. Russell Walters, representing the Lions Club, expressed appreciation for the help received on the money-raising project from the following businesses: Southern Belle Dairy (Berea), Meadow Gold Ice Cream (Richmond), Davidson Brothers Wholesale Co. (Berea) , B&B Market (Berea), Gibson Greeting Cards Inc. (Berea), Bremner Biscuit Co. (Louisville), Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. (Lexington), and Uncle Charlie's Meat Co. (Richmond). Walters presented a check for $400 to Mrs. Dorothy Miller, elementary school principal.

A fire at Gibson Greeting Card Inc. was among five fire calls answered by the Berea Fire Dept. during the past week. Bill Walters of Gibson Greeting said the fire resulted from some welding that was being done inside the factory. The sprinkler system came on immediately and the Berea Fire Department was called. The blaze was soon brought under control but damage totaled $1,500, Walters said. Firemen were called to four other fires last week, two on Saturday and two on Sunday. The first call Saturday was a grass fire on the I-75 right-of-way, just outside Berea. The fire burned one barn but the firemen managed to save a frame house. Firemen were called at 5 p.m. to 216 Prospect Street to rescue a cat from the top of a tree. On Sunday firemen put out a grass fire on the Hayes' property on Kay Street and one on the property of Kenneth Cummins on Dogwood Drive. They extinguished the fire but not before it destroyed a doghouse on the property.

Madison Southern Band Launches Shoe Drive Fundraiser

– Madison Southern Band Boosters https://madisonsouthernband.org/ is conducting a shoe drive fundraiser on March 1st – April 30th to raise funds for the 2020 Band Season. Madison Southern Band will earn funds based on the total weight of the pairs of gently worn, used and new shoes collected, as Funds2Orgs will issue a check for the collected shoes. Those dollars will benefit the MSHS band. Anyone can help by donating gently worn, used and new shoes.

All donated shoes will then be redistributed throughout the Funds2Orgs network of micro-enterprise (small business) partners. Funds2Orgs works with micro-entrepreneurs in helping them create, maintain and grow small businesses in developing countries where economic opportunity and jobs are limited. Proceeds from the sales of the shoes collected in shoe drive fundraisers are used to feed, clothe and house their families. One budding entrepreneur in Haiti even earned enough to send to her son to law school.

"We are excited about our shoe drive," said Summer Jones, Madison Southern Band Booster President "We know that most people have extra shoes in their closets they would like to donate to us. This event will help the band and we have the chance to help families in developing nations who need economic opportunities. It's a win-win for everyone."

By donating gently worn, used and new shoes to the Madison Southern High School Band, the shoes will be given a second chance and make a difference in people's lives around the world.

Drop Off Locations

A fond farewell

Berea says goodbye to Mario's after more than 40 years in business

Jimmy Upton was the first cook at Mario's Pizza. He left the kitchen for the last time Sunday night.

Upton, owner of the popular establishment for nearly 42 years, ceased operations because of family medical issues that "changed my whole life." Upton wanted to spend more time with his wife Brenda, who is battling cancer, and deal less with the business aspect of his life.

Before making the final decision to close, he approached Brenda for her blessing on the move.

"If she didn't want to do it and she's my partner, I wasn't going to do it," Upton said earlier this week. "I would have continued the struggle of an independent businessman, with all of the headaches and

City, county under state of emergency

By Keith Taylor/News Editor

The Berea City Council canceled its bi-monthly meeting Tuesday night because of guidelines set by President Donald Trump advising to "avoid gathering in groups of more than 10 people."

Several Berea churches had worship services last Sunday and others livestreamed their services via Facebook and other online avenues. Churches are offering live and online services this weekend.

Still in business

Although closed for dining temporarily, local food establishments, such as Papaleno's are still serving their menu items through carry-out, drive-thru, and curb-side pickup. "We do a lot of pick-up (orders) anyway," Papaleno's co-owner Jerome Lewis said. "We do a lot of pick-up orders on a consistent basis and we've offered that service since 1984. It's something we're accustomed to (doing)." (The Citizen/Keith Taylor)

Churches balance safety, ministry

For some churches in Berea, congregations worshipped as usual. Others canceled and opted for an online service instead over concerns of COVID-19.

At Berea Baptist Church, pastor Kevin Slemp did his usual double duty with two services last Sunday, but said attendance was less than usual. But Slemp said by the "end of the day, over 1,700 people had viewed the service online."

Allen Livingood, pastor at Westside Baptist, also noticed an increase in online viewership.

"More people watched online and shared it more than normally," he said.

"Our crowd was around half the size as usual, but that was okay because we had encouraged older people to stay home, those already sick or if they or someone

Baptist Health Richmond updates temporary visitor restrictions and open entrances

Baptist Health Richmond is responding to the evolving COVID-19 situation by temporarily restricting the number of visitors to patients.

They will ask patients to please choose one person to provide support during their hospital stay and not to bring other family members or friends to the hospital campus, including waiting rooms and lobbies. Children younger than 16 are not allowed on campus for visitation until further notice.

The Emergency Department entrance is open for patients who need emergent care. All other patients and visitors must enter through the South Entrance (entrance located next to Outpatient Registration) of the hospital.

All other entrances will be closed until further notice.

When visiting, visitors are reminded to wash their hands with soap and water when entering and leaving patient rooms.

Those with fever, runny nose, body aches, or respiratory symptoms should not visit.

Baptist Health appreciates everyone's cooperation in adhering to these temporary restrictions so they can maintain the safest possible environment for patients, families and staff.

March 7
Assault:
Officers were called to Reed Hill in reference to a domestic disturbance. When officers arrived they were told by an adult female and the subject that the woman's 13 year old son was out of control and combative. It was determined that Todd J. Holden, age 33, of Evarts had smacked the juvenile in the nose, causing it to bleed. Holden was charged with Assault, 4th Degree Child Abuse.

March 11
Drug Arrest:
A complaint was made to police regarding two persons, a male and a female, who were living on the back-side of private property on Jane Street. When officers arrived at the property they discovered a woman who was passed out and laying on the ground. She had slurred speech, trouble maintaining her balance, and told officers she had used drugs. Courtney L. Martin, age 25, of Paint Lick was charged with Public Intoxication of a Controlled Substance (Excludes Alcohol) and Criminal Trespassing.

Drug Arrest:
An anonymous complaint led officers to Haiti Road where they found a man and woman camped near a tree line and behaving suspiciously. The man was slumped over and leaning against a tree in order to maintain balance. Officers discovered several syringes and spoons near him. During a search a small pouch containing a piece of paper, which held a brownish powdery substance, was discovered. The subject attempted to disperse the substance by blowing it, which caused a portion of the substance to land on an officer's clothing. A continued search of the area revealed several other narcotics and drug paraphernalia. The subject told officers it all belonged to him. James Willis, age 29, of Berea was charged with Criminal Trespassing, Public Intoxication of a Controlled Substance (Excludes Alcohol), Possession of a Controlled Substance 1st Degree (Heroin), Possession of a Controlled Substance 1st Degree (Methamphetamine), Possession of a Controlled Substance 3rd Degree, Tampering with Physical Evidence, and Wanton Endangerment, 2nd Degree, Police Officer.

March 11
Drug Arrest:
While en route to Redi Mart on Glades Road to assist officers on the scene, who were in contact with three persons who had been reported to possibly be under the influence of drugs, a Berea Police officer was alerted that one of the subjects had fled the scene. The officer located Tami Cain, age 45, of Berea, walking on Hwy. 1016. She was grinding her teeth, making twitching actions, her eyes were pinpointed and did not react to light, and she appeared to have uncontrollable muscle movement in her arms and shoulders. Cain told the officer she had two needles concealed in her bra. She was charged with Public Intoxication of a Controlled Substance (Excludes Alcohol).

Drug Arrest:
Police were responding to a report of a man and two women who were acting suspiciously and appeared to be under the influence of drugs at Circle K on Glades Road when a caller, providing a description of the vehicle, reported that the three had left Circle K. The vehicle was discovered at Redi Mart on Glades Road. Officers found John Meadows, age 45, of Berea in the driver's seat. He appeared to be under the influence and told police that he had used Meth two days prior. Three $20 bills were found in his pocket, all with the same serial number. Several syringes were also found in the vehicle. Meadows was charged with Criminal Possession of a Forged Instrument 3rd Degree and Public Intoxication of a Controlled Substance (Excludes Alcohol).

Drug Arrest:
In the same incident as the two preceding reports Ashley Evans, age 27, of Berea, was observed by officers almost falling as she exited Redi Mart on Glades Road. Evans was unsteady on her feet, had slurred speech and was unable to stay awake. She was charged with Public Intoxication of a Controlled Substance (Excludes Alcohol).

Saint Joseph Health and SJBerea taking precautionary actions as number of cases in Kentucky increases

CHI Saint Joseph Health is actively monitoring new developments related to the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) in Kentucky and across the United States. As the situation evolves, Saint Joseph Berea is making changes related to visitation and operationally.

Since the beginning of the flu season, Saint Joseph Berea has implemented seasonal restrictions and those are still in place. In light of the COVID-19 situation, the hospital is reinforcing those restrictions and taking additional precautionary steps. Only two immediate family members will be allowed to visit patients in all units. In addition, people with a fever, cough, sore throat or other flu-like symptoms will not be permitted to visit. Anyone who has traveled to a high risk area for COVID-19 or had contact with a person known to be infected with COVID-19 will not be allowed to visit patients in the hospital.

"Our top priority at CHI Saint Joseph Health is the safety of our employees, patients, visitors and communities," said Dan Goulson, MD, chief medical officer for CHI Saint Joseph Health. "Considering all of the recent recommendations and information, as well as the safety and well-being of our volunteers, we have made the decision to temporarily pause our volunteer programs. We are making these changes out of an abundance of caution."

With this change, the gift shops run by volunteers at Flaget Memorial Hospital in Bardstown, Saint Joseph Berea, Saint Joseph London, Saint Joseph Mount Sterling and Women's Hospital at Saint Joseph East will close temporarily. Many volunteers at CHI Saint Joseph Health are over age 60 and are particularly vulnerable should they be infected with COVID-19.

Similar to instances involving Ebola, SARS and MERS in the past, CHI Saint Joseph Health is working with CommonSpirit Health and public health departments at the state and local levels, as well as with local governments on community response.

CHI Saint Joseph Health advises patients to avoid emergency rooms unless symptoms are severe, such as high fever, shortness of breath or difficulty breathing. Patients should contact their regular health care provider by phone first if they are experiencing symptoms like cough, low-grade fever or other respiratory issues.

Goulson offered standard precautionary measures to help prevent the spread of COVID-19. Wash your hands frequently; it's one of the most important steps in avoiding not only COVID-19, but also other illnesses, including the flu. And if you're sick, stay home. If you develop a fever and lower respiratory symptoms such as a cough, talk with your physician or care provider.

For more information on how to help prevent the spread of coronavirus, visit www.chisaintjosephhealth.org/novel-coronavirus.

Man-at-Arms: "Shooting" Barrels

Notes to Consider

G. S. Morris, Retired soldier, teacher

Among the many old wives' tales associated with the US Armed Forces is that the services' members are, well, "armed." Nothing could be farther from the truth.

Civilians may further be forgiven for imagining military personnel are surely armed while in a combat zone? Again however, they would be wrong. You see, the hoplophobes (those who hold an irrational fear of weapons and tools) command our "armed" forces. Outside each and every structure on a US camp in a combat zone are sand filled "clearing" barrels. The idea is, prior to entering any building or tent; the American soldier is compelled to "clear" his firearm at the barrel, thus making the gun "safer." What happens on a fairly regular schedule? A soldier who actually has a "useful" firearm (one that's loaded) mixes up the sequence of first dropping the source of ammunition (magazine, belt, etc.) prior to operating the firearm's action; pulls the trigger in the general direction of (due to complacency bred by overfamiliarity) the "clearing" barrel; and...BOOM! Hence the GI reference to the obnoxious contraptions as "shooting" barrels.

As with aircraft (takeoff and landing); the two most "dangerous" times when handling firearms are loading and unloading. The "safest" condition for firearms are loaded and slung or holstered; then left alone until needed to defend oneself.

The retired Army CID Special Agent I've been interviewing recently passed along an amusing story concerning "cleared" sidearms in a combat zone. Running late for a Bradley Fighting Vehicle ride from one to another forward operating base (FOB) to conduct soldier interviews; the agent whisked past an armed entrance guard stationed at a mess tent's "clearing" barrel. "You need to clear that pistol!" quipped the guard. (Holding up his badge and creds in passing): "I'm a CID agent, and I'm running late."

As the seated agent wolfed down his Raisin Bran Crunch, a set of legs could be seen over his bowl. "Hey. You're gonna clear that pistol." It was the guard's supervising sergeant. "No," came the reply. By now, all eyes in the chow hall were on the man scarfing down his breakfast alone at a table while a cast of "authorities" came by to instruct him as to what he was or wasn't going to do with his sidearm. Finally, the FOB's "Mayor" (every FOB had a field grade officer in charge of the outpost's day-to-day activities), appeared and announded in a loud, clear voice: "Soldier. I am ordering you to unload that pistol." It was at this point, the agent produced from his wallet a folded piece of paper. When unfolded by the "mayor," it read in part: "Army CID Agents, as federal law enforcement officers, will remain armed at all times, and at all locations." The memorandum was signed by Gen. George Casey, Multi-National Force - Iraq Commander.

The FOB mayor returned the paper; stomped off to the muffled amusement of the gathered crowd; and the agent hurriedly finished his chow in order to catch that Bradley ride. Amazingly, no one was harmed by the agent's "hot," holstered pistol; how was that even possible?

Bowling: Commission a waste of taxpayer dollars; should be dissolved

Dear Editor,

During the March 3, 2020, city council meeting, the financial state of the city was discussed. It was mentioned where budget cuts may be made to aid the city. My suggestion to city officials would be to cut the Human Rights Commission. This would save the city $16,000 annually.

During the past four human rights commission meetings they have discussed their inability to guarantee confidentiality to anyone that files a complaint through their office. Any complaint brought to a meeting is susceptible to the open records act. Any complaint that does not fall within their jurisdiction is susceptible to the open records act. The Berea Human Rights Commission has no authority to investigate claims even when they do fall in their jurisdiction. The complaints that do meet their requirements are forwarded to the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights for the state to investigate.

Should this commission be receiving complaints if they can't guarantee confidentiality to the victim? Recently, portions of a complaint made by a victim was shared on social media by a former commissioner and further shared by a current commissioner. According to an open records request this record wasn't obtained by the open records act but rather the commissioners had access to the file and decided to share it out of maliciousness. When asked about the breach of confidentiality, the commission has made a number of excuses including blaming the victim. I've attended HRC meetings where names of respondents were mentioned also breaching their rights to confidentiality. Carelessness like this could open the city up for lawsuits.

Also, during the last 3 meetings, the commission has failed to elect a chairperson. The commission is required by their bylaws to elect officers at their January meeting. At the March meeting, still no one wanted to be considered for the chairperson position.

Another issue is the commission spent $2700 to purchase the rights to a video. Their budget is $6000 annually and they spent almost half the budget on a video. They then made a copy of that video to share with another group in Berea. Most copyright laws forbid copying for any reason. The commission also spent $1500 to set up a table at an event where only a couple thousand people attended the series of 10 events. Other groups that table at this same event were only charged $250. This vote occurred during the same meeting where the mayor informed the commission about his decision to have grants awarded by the city council and not separate commissions. Whether it's called a tabling fee or grant it's still a donation.

That's $4200 of their $6000 budget spent on two items. The remaining part of their budget is allocated to the salary of the part time administrative assistant employed by the commission. I think the city would be better served without this commission and to allow the recently hired community resource coordinator to take complaints and forward them to the state commission or other appropriate agency.

UPTON

the responsibilities that it takes to run a business. It's demanding and it's not different in 2020 than it was in 1980. When you think about it, you've got people, you have employees and you've got food. It's no different. People are more emotional sometimes, but we're in an emotional time in our country, and it's emotion versus reality."

Although he was owner of the establishment, Upton was very much hands-on, especially in the kitchen, where he spent most of his time.

"(Last) Sunday night, I was the only one cooking," he said. "There is nobody that I would have ever hired, who would have done what I did. They didn't have the mental capacity for the discipline it takes to be a very good cook in a busy situation."

Upton's offerings went beyond pizza and expanded to a variety of items from hamburgers and wings to fried mushrooms, one of the most popular items on the menu.

"I was good at what I did," Upton said. "There are things that are going to go away that nobody can get any more. There are recipes that I have that are not going anywhere and I'm not out there trying to sell a recipe or anything like that. That's the facts.

"The recipe for the mushroom batter came from a friend of a president of a company, a small franchise in the very beginning and he was from New York. … it was his mother's recipe that he gave me from Italy. I've carried it and it's been a staple at our restaurant from the very, very beginning."

That beginning took place in 1978 after Upton was laid off from his job as a concrete worker following a blizzard that crippled most of the state. Upton walked into his father's pharmacy and noticed a set of blueprints for a building originally designed for a Mr. Gatti's Pizza. He pitched the idea of opening his own restaurant to his father, Paul Upton, longtime owner of Upton's Drug Store, and to his wife, Brenda.

From the opening day Upton followed his mother Geraldine's advice and never compromised discipline in his practice as a business operator.

"She said 'Jimmy, don't ever cut short your recipe and go cheap," he said. "Always buy quality, follow the recipe and you'll be OK."

He also "felt an obligation to teach the younger generation the correct way ,and the right way, and the only way."

"All of those things carry over into every aspect of any career," he said. "The President of the United States (Donald Trump) would not be where he is today if he did not have discipline, and none of us would."

Upton has sponsored numerous events in the community and sponsored many youth league teams since becoming a successful business owner.

"I'm active (in the community) under the radar," he said. "There are a lot of things that I have done that goes unnoticed. … As far as being a civic leader or a civic person, I never wanted to have the exposure of being places I really didn't want to be and I don't mean that in a negative way. I felt like I was better served if I could help the kids and the schools, churches and those things."

On the final day, Upton placed a statement on the establishment's Facebook at 12:45 p.m. Sunday and business remained steady until closing. He ran out of pizza dough, mushrooms, cheese, hamburger buns, hamburger, potatoes and cheddar cheese.

"We ran out of everything and that's a blessing," he said. "It was absolutely the most incredible emotional outpouring of love and support. We had a lady that drove from Louisville and there were people from Corbin, Danville, Jackson County, Winchester … It was a challenge and my career has been a challenge. You go through ups and downs, the economy and everything that life throws at you. You just fight through it and that's what I did."

Upton will continue catering events through "Uptown Catering" but admitted it won't be the same.

"Catering is fun and it's exciting and different," he said. "It will be more of traditional catering (offering). I will not go back into pizza, because I won't have the ovens."

Fraley: Precautions a priority

Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley issued the following statement to The Citizen on the ongoing coronavirus crisis:

"I want to assure all citizens of Berea that the emergency declaration, which is being issued in the City of Richmond and Madison County as well as the City of Berea, is a necessary action to protect our citizens and community. Such a declaration puts all three governmental entities in a position to obtain funding and allow procurement of personal protective equipment for our first responders. Also, I am very pleased with the high level of cooperation between the three governments, along with our local educational and medical institutions. In summary, the emergency declaration is in the best interest of our City and the County as a whole.

"We are approaching this situation as a United Front: The city is working closely with the City of Richmond and Madison County as we follow the guidance of Public Health officials at the State and Federal level.

"From my perspective, we are preparing for the worst, but hoping for the best.

"I want to re-assure our citizens that we are taking precautions with the safety of all of our citizens in mind. ...

"This is the time to put our best foot forward and come together as a community.

"Don't be afraid, be informed. Don't be worried, be helpful to those around you."

City Administrator David Gregory

"Limiting close personal contact is our best tool for mitigation, and on the advice of public health officials, and with the State of Kentucky, and Madison County, we feel it is now time to do more."

Berea Municipal Utilities suspends disconnections, adjusts fee schedules

Over the past several days, our community has experienced many changes to our daily lives. Many of our routine tasks have been altered due to the coronavirus outbreak.

Berea Municipal Utilities and the City Administration understand the concerns many of our customers are now facing due to national, state, and local efforts to combat the virus. We value the cooperation and trust of our customers, of which has always been one our core values as your utility service provider.

Berea Municipal Utilities will be suspending our disconnections for non-payment for a limited time. We will also be waiving late fees on future billing cycles until further notice. This is not common procedure; however, we are sensitive to the well-being of our customers during this challenging time. Although disconnects will not be occurring, we will continue our regular billing cycles and customer notifications and request all customers to continue paying their utility bills as usual if possible. We encourage any of our customers facing current financial difficulties to contact our billing department to make payment arrangements by calling (859) 986-4391.

As we all navigate through this challenging time together as a city and community, Berea Municipal Utilities will continue our dedication to our customers well-being and will strive to be of assistance to all our customers.

As a reminder, the walk-in lobby for Berea Municipal Utilities is temporarily closed to the public.

Payments are currently being accepted online at www.bereautilities.com.

Convenience fees are being waived during this time for online payments. The drive-thru at 212 Chestnut Street is open from 7:30 a.m.-4:00p.m. A drop box, next to the drive-thru window is also available for afterhours payments.

Payments can also be mailed to PO Box 926, Berea, KY 40403.

County offices closed to walk-in access

Madison County Judge Executive Reagan Taylor and the government agencies have temporarily suspended walk-in service access at all government entities.

"In this unprecedented time of uncertainty for our leaders, citizens and employees, I want to express my sincere appreciation to my fellow elected officials who have come together to ensure the health and safety of our community," Taylor said in a release. "In addition, the collaborative spirit of our sister cities of Richmond and Berea as well as community stakeholders in the education, law enforcement, military, emergency response, and health sectors reaffirms my confidence in the community leadership we have combating the COVID-19 virus."

A state of emergency was officially issued for the county Monday by Madison County Emergency Management Director Dustin Heiser.

"We are in full support of the decision of our elected officials to declare the state of emergency. Declaring a state of emergency will help us to further prepare and gain additional resources needed to support efforts to our county in response to COVID-19," Heiser said.

Madison County Government, under the direction of Taylor, will remain operational with employees reporting to duty.

EMERGENCY

FROM A1

"These guidelines were recommended to the President by the top public health officials in the United States of America," Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley said. "Even without the department heads being present, we would have more than ten people present at a City Council Meeting. Therefore, based on the recommended guidelines articulated by the President, we are cancelling the Berea City Council meeting scheduled for March 17, 2020."

Fraley is consulting with the Kentucky League of Cities, Kentucky Attorney General's Office and the Governor's Office on having public meetings by video conference later this month.

"I am directing the city administrator and the information technology director to work with our city attorney to develop step by step instructions for having meetings by remote videoconferencing, that can be live streamed and meet the requirements of Kentucky law, and we will schedule a special called meeting as soon as possible," Fraley said. "Videoconference with live stream will include meetings of the City Council, along with Boards and Commissions.

"I am optimistic that we can make these arrangements in short order, and that we will be able to have special called meetings using video technology by the end of March."

CITY OFFICES CLOSED

As a precautionary measure, and in cooperation with State and National Public Health guidance, the City of Berea closed its city offices to walk-in traffic on Monday.

Employees will be on duty and all services will still be available. Citizens and customers are urged to use online, phone, and drive-thru services.

Customers can make payments for utility billing, business licenses, net profit returns, etc. in the drive-thru window at City Hall or by mail at 212 Chestnut St., Berea, KY 40403.

Building, mechanical and electrical permit applications can be found online, and payment can be taken over the phone.

The Police and Fire Departments will be operating under restricted procedures.

they lived with has a compromised immune system."

Slemp spoke on "Power, Love and a Sound Mind" and emphasized 2 Timothy 1:7. Prior to Sunday's services, Slemp said the church took precautions and advised seniors who had a compromised immune system to stay home and those with respiratory issues.

"The night before the service, we had someone wipe down surfaces such as door handles with disinfectant," he said. "We asked those who did attend to not shake hands or give hugs, and to try to keep a bit of distance from others.

"With our low attendance, it wasn't difficult for people to sit at a distance from each other if they chose. We also did not pass offering plates to receive the offering. We had people stand at the doors with the plates as people walked out so any who chose to give could just drop their gifts in the plates. We also had hand sanitizer placed throughout the facility."

Berea Christian Church canceled its usual Sunday services but offered an online version to its congregation and Berea United Methodist Church followed suit.

Berea Church of God pastor Steve Hobbs said churches are taking the virus "very seriously" and are working hard to "balance safety and ministry."

Pastors praised the ability to use technology and encouraged online giving.

"Over the past few years, quite a few of our attenders have already begun giving online," Slemp said.

"However, given the current crisis, online giving will become much more important. It is a great blessing that we have that capability."

Moving forward, all pastors are praying normalcy resumes soon.

"We are hereby joining with the world wide and nationwide and our local community wide effort to curtail the spread of this virus," Berea Methodist pastor Dr. Timo Karvonen said in a Facebook post to his congregation. "We pray and hope our local Berea United Methodist Church can play a small but important part in working towards the common good of all our people in our community and in the whole state of Kentucky."

A package containing $15,000 in stolen jewelry was handed over to the Berea Police Department – with apologies from the thief. According to Chief Billie Moseley, the package was mailed from Jefferson County on Feb. 19th, only four days after Horton's Jewelers on Chestnut St. was robbed by two armed men. The 94 pieces of jewelry in the package have been identified as a part of the stolen merchandise. An unsigned note was included in the package: ("I did not know he had a gun. I did not know he was going to rob the store. I am not a robber.")

Glen Hosfield, group leader of procurement and material control for Goodyear Aerospace, was recognized for 15 years of company service. He was pictured with Lee Turner, plant manager, and Jack Pettibone, manager of materials, who presented the service pin.

Jean M. Dichting of the General Motors Corporation's public relations staff held aloft synthetic rubber produced in only 60 seconds. The demonstration was part of the "Previews of Progress" assembly program presented to Berea Community School students.

Robert Isaacs of Berea was initiated into the EKU chapter of the Phi Kappa Phi honor society. Membership in the society in one of the highest honors at Eastern. Members must be in the top 10% of their class scholastically and attain a 3.7 grade point average in all of their college class work. Isaacs was one of 82 seniors that were initiated.

Parker Seal employees were honored for perfect attendance. Presented and pictured with plaques were Janie Pearson, Margaret Howard, Zelphia Lakes, Emma Studfield, Mabel Philpot, Mary McClure, Harry Buckman, Charles Bullock, and Wayne

Virus puts spring sports on hold

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

The many ball fields around Berea are unusually quiet as COVID-19 wreaks havoc on the state and the rest of the nation.

Last week, the Kentucky High School Athletic Association (KHSAA) declared a dead period for all spring sports, including the high school state basketball tournaments.

During a dead period teams may not, participate in any "organized team activity, or organized or semi-organized team competition in any sport or sport-activity in any format at any location in any state where school personnel (paid or unpaid) are involved, in attendance, or receiving reports of performance," according to an email from the KHSAA.

Madison Southern Baseball Coach Jayson Langfels said the situation is tough, but prior to the dead period, he told his team to keep a positive outlook.

"I told them to be optimistic about April, and that we may have an opportunity to play a shortened season," he said. "It's our job to be ready when that time comes."

Berea Baseball Coach Brent Billings' message to his squad was similar.

"It certainly is disappointing," he said. "We've put in a lot of hard work to get where we are, and we were ready to play."

Both coaches said the precautions are necessary, and prudent during this time.

"We are heeding the warnings from the governor, mayor, KHSAA commissioner and health professionals," Billings continued. "Hopefully, this virus runs its course and gets out of here so we can get back to the field."

The KHSAA said it is too early to speculate on whether the springs sports championships and tournaments will be affected by the disruption.

"There is also no current consideration to seeking alternate locations or dates for sports state championship play beyond the currently scheduled dates," the KHSAA's email stated. "The information related to the Covid-19 is ever-evolving, and changes happen quickly. We will inform all stakeholders if there are any changes in circumstances."

In addition to prep team sports, the local recreational leagues have also been affected by COVID-19. The Madison United Soccer Association (MUSA) and Berea Youth League (BYL) has announced a post-ponement of practices and games.

In a Facebook post, BYL said all practices would be postponed through March 27.

"At that time, the BYL board members, along with city officials, will decide on the future of the upcoming season," the post read.

In a similar action, MUSA suspended all activities until the week of April 13.

"The plan is to resume games on April 18," MUSA Director of Communications Vinit Kutty said in an email sent out to parents. "However, this is a very fluid situation, and we will continue to monitor it and provide updates if needed. We will meet the week of April 5 to make sure the plan is on track and to decide if other measures need to be taken."

Berea Art Awards presented at Stepping Out for Art Gala

On Feb. 29, 2020 the Berea Arts Council hosted Stepping Out for Art and presented its 4th annual art awards. The event, which includes dinner and an art auction, is the organization's major fundraiser. The wide variety of items in the live and silent auctions represented the work of local artists who donated the items in support of the Arts Council.

Gwen Childs, Executive Director of the Berea Arts Council, presented the awards. "Steve Connelly was an ally and supporter of the arts and crafts community throughout his tenure as mayor. It was an honor to present him with the Community Art Award this year. The Artist of the Year Award was presented to Al and Alice White and Ruth McLain. They have shared their remarkable musical talent with Berea and the world during their careers as members of the McLain Family Band and while performing as Al, Alice, and Ruth."

The Berea Arts Council offers year-round experiences celebrating diversity in various forms of the arts through rotating exhibitions, workshops and performances. The office and gallery are located in the historic Tate Building at 444 Chestnut St. in Berea. For more information visit www.bereeaartscouncil.org or email info@bereeaartscouncil.org.

Progress Club report

Berea Progress Club Meeting

The Berea Progress Club held its monthly meeting, March 5th with members enjoying lunches at the Artisan Center. Our business discussion was held and membership made aware of the loss of one of our members, Barbara McDonald, who served us for many years in the position of secretary. Her minutes were so enjoyable to read.

Our speaker for the meeting was Dr. John Morgan who gave an informative discussion of Partners in Education, which is affiliated with Berea College. Partners in Education serves people in Appalachia with Gear Up programs for schools supporting children for higher education. The program is supported by Federal funds to increase educational aspirations for children by building academic skills as they grow and develop in their local school environments. The poverty level being so high in Kentucky and other Appalachian states that having improvement seen in Leslie County gives much encouragement to the work done by Partners in Education. A discussion followed.

The next meeting of the Progress Club will be April 2, 2020 at the Artisan Center with guest speaker Jill Swed, meteorologist of WLEX. It is an open meeting and all are invited to come. We hope to become more aware of the climate changes occurring now and in the future.

By Keith Taylor
News Editor

The Madison County Health Department confirmed the county's first case of the COVID-19 virus Saturday. On Sunday, a second case was confirmed.

According to the Madison County Health Department, the second patient is in isolation at home and recovering. The first patient diagnosed, a 76-year-old female, is at Baptist Health in Richmond and is a resident of Madison County. Because of privacy guidelines, no other information is available on the patient.

On Monday, the health department began offering a local call center to provide general COVID-19 information. This number will be available during limited hours of operation to be announced and shared as soon as possible. The number doesn't take the place of the KY COVID Hotline.

The health department also will offer a regular daily update on COVID-19 on its social media sites at 4 p.m. Follow the health department on Facebook (Madison County Health Department) and Twitter (@MCHDTweet) for these updates.

Volunteer firefighters help protect the community

By Brent Billings
For The Citizen

"9-1-1, What is your emergency?" is a phrase that nobody ever wants to hear in their lifetime. But, unfortunately, it happens more often than one might think. The nature of the emergency determines which agency or agencies respond. In Berea and its immediate outlying areas, if the emergency is not solely medical or legal, you are most likely going to receive a firefighter. But what exactly does that mean?

Gas prices falling

Gas prices have seen a decline in the past ten days. Berea prices averaged $1.83 per gallon, as of Wednesday morning.

The first station in the nation to return to 99 cents per gallon is in Kentucky. GasBuddy confirmed last Friday that a BP station in London had lowered its price to 99 cents per gallon, according to a cashier who answered the phone and also GasBuddy users who reported the price to GasBuddy app.

The station is the first in the nation to reach the mark that GasBuddy had been anticipating could pop up in the Great Lakes states a week or so ago.

"Absolutely amazing to see how quickly prices have fallen, and the return of something few Americans have seen since the early 2000s," said Patrick DeHaan, head of petroleum analysis for GasBuddy. "We're in uncharted waters due to demand plummeting in light of the coronavirus situation, and yesterday oil prices fell to their lowest level since 2002 in a sign of the deep distress our economy is facing."

News from Berea Rotary

Berea Rotary regrets that its meetings have temporarily been suspended. This is in light of the world wide crisis involving COVID-19, the coronavirus. The Rotary International Convention, scheduled for June 6-10, 2020 in Honolulu, Hawaii, has been canceled.

Rotary International has recommended that districts of Rotary and Rotaract clubs meet virtually, cancel, or postpone meetings or events following the advice of national and local health officials. Further, the clubs have been asked to continue to follow the guidelines set by the World Health Organization and their national, regional, or local health authorities to protect member health and safety.

If feasible, clubs may conduct meetings online or by phone. Berea Rotary's meeting location, the Artisan Center, has closed its kitchen and is closed for groups.

The Election Day Pancake Breakfast is rescheduled for June 25th, Election Day.

Taylor's Thoughts

Keith Taylor

A strange new normal

I never made it to Nashville, only getting as far as Glasgow.

That's when I got the news the Southeastern Conference decided to cancel the league tournament because of coronavirus concerns. In shock, I grabbed something to eat, filled up with gas, and drove back home trying to sort out the news with some form of reasoning.

Any other year, Kentucky would have been playing a basketball game today and fans would have packed Bridgestone Arena — most of them non-season ticket holders at Rupp Arena — cheering on the Wildcats.

Thinking it was some sort of dream, I checked my calendar to make sure it was March. I looked in the mirror to make sure I wasn't sleepwalking. Once I accepted the fact I wouldn't be covering the SEC Tournament this year, reality began to sink in. I then realized I wasn't dreaming and things happening around me were real, very real.

I carried on, holding out hope that somehow the NCAA Tournament would make up for the disappointments that transpired over the course of a 24-hour period. The never-ending news cycle began with the announcement that no fans would be allowed to attend the NCAA Tournament, followed by the move by all the major conferences to cancel the remainder of their league tournaments.

Then it trickled down to the high school level and the Kentucky High School Athletics Association decided to bring a halt to the Sweet Sixteen.

By the time I pulled in my driveway, the NCAA Tournament was called off and Kentucky Governor Andy Beshear advised school systems in the state to call off classes for the next two weeks. It's not the type of spring break I'm sure school administrators, teachers, parents and others were anticipating.

Like many of you, I was disappointed by what transpired over the course of a seven-day period. Under normal circumstances, we all would be wondering where Kentucky would be seeded on Selection Sunday and filling out our brackets during one of the most exciting times of the year.

I'm used to things coming to a halt in March after Kentucky bows out of the Big Dance. Although anticipated, the sudden stop still packs a punch, but this blow went beyond the norm and came totally out of the blue, literally.

As we all have found out, normal isn't the in-thing in 2020 and there are bigger concerns for the state, nation and world we all share together. The goal is to keep COVID-19 from spreading and becoming a major pandemic across the globe.

Until we find out more about the virus and a possible cure, this is going to be the new norm and we all have to get used to it.

Let's hope and pray it's sooner rather than later so things can get back to normal.

Local funeral directors: An open letter to the community

Dear Editor,

On Tuesday, March 17, 2020, Kentucky Governor Andy Beshear, with guidance from the Center for Disease Control, The World Health Organization, The Kentucky Funeral Directors Association, and The National Funeral Directors Association, set forth guidelines as it pertains to Kentucky deaths and funeral services. His requirements are that NO PUBLIC VISITATIONS OR FUNERALS be held at this time, only private services with a small number of family members in attendance. In addition, CDC Guidelines dictate that gatherings be 10 people or less.

Therefore, in accordance with the Governor's recommendations, the undersigned funeral homes in Madison County have until FURTHER NOTICE, ADOPTED THOSE GUIDELINES.

We stand united in doing our part to compassionately care for and serve our community. We appreciate your cooperation in working with us in honoring your loved ones in ways that are meaningful, and that also take into consideration current FEDERAL AND STATE GUIDELINES regarding public health and safety. As a caring community, we are facing the challenges that are arising with the Coronavirus.

Please know that all funeral homes are open and serving families, in accordance with these temporary guidelines.

Sincerely,

Morris: Executive order in violation of Kentucky law

Dear Editor,

Like me, I'm sure your readers recall the draconian measures taken in response to the nearly 12,500 Americans killed by the 2009-2010 H1N1 Pandemic. What's that? You don't recall the American elephant being attacked by a housecat a decade ago, and jumping off an economic cliff in response?

Neither do I.

I will give Gov. Beshear the benefit of the doubt. I will not presume his daily demagogic "news" conferences are really aimed at performing the miracle of getting himself re-elected in a state which has clearly ended its allegiance to the extremist Democrat Party. A cynic might further see the governor's true motive is to dupe a sufficient number of Republicans into believing his authoritarian overreaches somehow "spared" their lives; I would surely not assume such an ulterior motive.

However, our state's virtuous chief executive has a couple of glaring inconsistencies with his "life saving" actions. First, why do the state's abortion mill(s) in Louisville remain open? I took the governor at his word that all "elective" medical procedures were to have ceased in the Commonwealth. Of course, there's nothing legitimately "medical" connected to the murder of an innocent child.

Secondly, Gov. Beshear's Executive Order 2020-246 was in clear violation of KRS 237.104 when it included "Sporting Goods" retailers as non "life-sustaining" businesses. He further presumed to have the authority to close any firearms retailer that did not comply with the stipulations put forth in his executive order.

KRS 237.104 makes clear: "No person, unit of government, or governmental organization shall, during a period of disaster or emergency as specified in KRS Chapter 39A or at any other time, have the right to revoke, suspend, limit the use of, or otherwise impair the validity of the right of any person to purchase, transfer, loan, own, possess, carry, or use a firearm, firearm part, ammunition, ammunition component, or any deadly weapon or dangerous instrument."

Finding some balance in the new normal

"Daddy, we're bored."

That been a constant battle cry from my 8- and 5-year old this past week and a half. Usually, my girls would be in their regular routine of school (for my second-grader) and childcare for my youngest. Additionally, they'd both be practicing and playing soccer.

Now we live in a new normal, a normal that we're still adjusting too and hopefully will be temporary.

Like many of you, we're in a holding pattern as the Coronavirus has wreaked havoc on our daily lives, and left many parents scrambling to find activities to keep their children occupied, while at the same time, work.

I briefly spoke with Priscilla Bloom and Erin Moore with Berea and Richmond parks and recreation, seeking ideas on how to keep everyone active during this crisis.

Mike Moore

Berea Parks and Recreation has shared information from various online sources to many people who have contacted them seeking advice.

"The internet is a great resource," Bloom added. "We have shared ideas from other parks and rec departments, and we've come up with a few of our own."

One suggestion from Berea Parks and Recreation is to organize a scavenger hunt in the yard, Bloom said.

It gets the family moving and outside, weather permitting.

Another thought is going old school, Bloom said.

"Do things like jump rope or hopscotch," she said. "I know it sounds odd, but it is effective."

City Park in Berea, located near the board of education, also offers a story trail, which is excellent for hiking.

"Just make sure you follow the guidelines (of social distancing)," Bloom said.

Making sure kids and adults are not cooped up inside for days or weeks at a time is vitally important, Moore said.

"First and foremost, being active is both physically and mentally rewarding," she explained. "Taking a walk has been proven to lower your blood pressure and relieve stress and anxiety. This is helpful while we all are experiencing uncertainty for what the future holds."

Limiting social media use and television viewing is also beneficial, Moore added.

"Passive recreation is always a great way to help relieve stress," she opined. "Go outside, read a book and relax. We have been a society that has been on the go and constantly moving. Now is the time to reset and appreciate the simple things in life."

For those utilizing Berea City Park for hiking, Bloom assured me the public restrooms are open and are sanitized throughout the day.

One thing to be wary of are the playgrounds. Bloom said while they are not closed, it is nearly impossible to keep them sanitized, and the last thing anyone wants is to spread germs.

Both park and recreation departments have things planned as warmer months approach, but whether or not events are canceled are beyond their control.

"We have our usual events planned, such as outdoor movies and pool activities," Bloom said. "It's hard to say (if they will be canceled) because things are just so uncertain right now."

Assuming life resumes to normal, Bloom said parks and recreation must be prepared, probably more so this year than in years past because there will be many people with cabin fever.

"When everything is ready to go, we have to make sure we are ready to go," Bloom said.

Moore agreed.

"We are hopeful that once the sun comes out and people can get back to a new normal, our parks and recreation department can continue to serve the community."

operate as a combination department. Although the two departments are separate, both departments are comprised of firefighters that work closely on a day to day basis. Both departments train together, respond together and rely on each other to operate efficiently.

The career fire service has been notoriously difficult for those without experience to break into. Physical agility testing, knowledge about position availability, and training hour requirements for certified firefighters can often make joining the fire service a daunting prospect for those new to the field. As a result, volunteer departments, like Berea Volunteer Fire and Rescue, act as an important springboard to a career within the fire service. Berea Volunteer Fire and Rescue has had great success in training up and preparing their members for career departments. Within the last three months, six members of Berea Volunteer Fire and Rescue have been hired on to career fire departments, including Berea Fire Department, Richmond Fire Department, and Madison County Fire Department. Over the last several years, members have also been hired on with Nicholasville Fire Department, Lexington Fire Department, Winchester Fire Department, Bluegrass Airport ARFF, and Walton Fire Protection District.

Of the 26 full time members of the Berea fire department, 15 started out with the Berea volunteer fire department. 10 of the 11 who didn't start with the Berea volunteer fire department started their career with another fire department in another city. That's 25 of 26 career firefighters beginning their career as a volunteer firefighter. Additionally, the Berea volunteer fire department has 9 members on its department that are employed by other full-time departments. The Berea fire department currently has five members who volunteer their free time to their hometown volunteer fire departments.

The City of Berea and Berea Fire Department recognizes all of the dedicated members of Berea Volunteer Fire and Rescue and sincerely thanks you for your service and hard work.

RISK

local health officials are working with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the Kentucky Department for Public Health (DPH) to identify and contact all those who may have come in contact with the person. These individuals will be monitored for fever and respiratory symptoms.

"We believe the risk to the public is low, and as this situation evolves, we will continue to communicate with the CDC, the Kentucky Department of Public Health, and the people of Madison County," said Madison County Health Department Director Nancy Crewe. "The best way to prevent illness is to avoid being exposed to this virus. As we continue to recommend, there are everyday preventative actions you can take to help prevent the spread of this virus. Also, continue to adhere to Governor Andy Beshear's social distancing guidelines and watch his regular press conferences on his Facebook page and television for updates on COVID-19."

Recommended precautions are being taken to protect the patient and staff. The medical team is evaluating and monitoring the progress of this patient in close collaboration with the local and state health officials and the CDC.

"We have been expecting our first case in Madison County for several days and this news was certainly expected," Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley said in a post on the city's Facebook page. "My recommendation for all citizens is to continue taking appropriate precautions by following the guidelines set by our State Government at www.kycovid19.ky.gov and our Federal Government at www.cdc.gov . It is up to all of us to follow this guidance, to remain calm and cooperative, to be strong, and help one another."

How the virus spreads

- Between people who are in close contact with one another (within about 6 feet).
- By respiratory droplets produced when an infected person coughs or sneezes.
- These droplets can land in the mouths or noses of people who are nearby or possibly be inhaled into the lungs.

Symptoms of COVID-19 may include fever, dry cough or shortness of breath. Individuals who are experiencing symptoms should first contact their local health department or health care provider.

State hotline

The ordinance doesn't require a second reading and applies to any City of Berea board, commission or "any other public meeting of the City of Berea" and adds that "no such meeting shall occur until the mayor has certified the need for such a meeting considering the then-current situation regarding public safety."

Under the emergency ordinance, the city shall provide members of the general public on public viewing of meetings via the internet, along with a notice and a video link to observe meetings at least 24 hours before a video meeting.

Website formed

The City of Berea also has launched a temporary website to provide updates and information regarding the ongoing coronavirus pandemic to the citizens of Berea.

"The new website will provide a one-stop shop for information and assistance related to impact of the coronavirus. I encourage all citizens to be informed, to stick together and to help one another. We will continue to website to provide everyone with the most current information available," Fraley said.

Gregory agreed.

"We are determined too take immediate steps to help our residents and businesses weather the current situation," he said. "I'm sure in the coming days and weeks, there will be more measures the City of Berea can implement to help our residents and businesses as additional needs arise."

Reflections

from March 1990
Berea Citizen Archives

Officer Rick Bates was pictured accepting a plaque in recognition of his title, Berea Policeman of the Year, from Assistant Police Chief John Grider. Officer Bates was selected through recommendation from supervisors. He was commended for his thorough work with Berea detectives, and was instrumental in solving several cases in the previous year.

Berea policemen were honored with plaques naming their achievements of the past year. Pictured were James Durham, most DUI arrests; James Thompson, traffic officer of the year; and Chief Ray Brandenburg, perfect attendance. Jerry Combs, who was not pictured, was also honored for perfect attendance.

Cynthia Sayre, of Kentucky Habitat for Humanity International, was the guest speaker at St. Clare Catholic in Berea at a potluck supper. She presented receipts for $5,075, which was raised by the parishioners to Charles Homa, president of the St. Clare parish council. During the Advent season, families from both St. Clare and St. Paul Catholic Church in McKee held a fund drive, headed by Guy and Peggy Patrick. "Our aim was to raise money to help build homes in the poorest nation of the world, which is Haiti," said Mrs. Patrick. "We were amazed at the response we received, as both St. Clare and St. Paul have such small parishes."

Nannie Shearer of the Berea Health Care Center turned 101 years old. Shearer gave the Lord credit for her long life. "He sure has kept me here awhile," she said.

The Berea Baptist Church's deaf adult Sunday school class was pictured. Members included teacher Karen Chapman, Faye

"The LORD your God in your midst, the Mighty One, will save; He will rejoice over you with gladness, He will quiet you with His love, He will rejoice over you with singing."

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS OF KENTUCKY UTILITIES COMPANY

RECOVERY BY ENVIRONMENTAL SURCHARGE OF KENTUCKY UTILITIES COMPANY'S 2020 ENVIRONMENTAL COMPLIANCE PLAN

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that in a March 31, 2020 Application, Kentucky Utilities Company ("KU") is seeking approval by the Kentucky Public Service Commission ("Commission") in Case No. 2020-00060, pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statute 278.183 of an amended compliance plan ("2020 Plan"). Once approved, KU will begin recovering capital costs associated with new pollution control facilities in the 2020 Plan under KU's existing Electric Rate Schedule ECR (also known as the Environmental Surcharge tariff) through an increase in the environmental surcharge on customers' bills beginning in late October 2020.

Federal, state, and local environmental regulations require KU to operate facilities that produce energy from burning coal in an environmentally compliant manner. To do so, KU is seeking Commission approval to construct certain water treatment systems at the Ghent and Trimble County generating stations and to install a wastewater diffuser in the Ohio River and construct a Bottom Ash Transport Water recirculation system at the Ghent generating station. Each construction project is a component of the 2020 Plan.

KU is seeking an order approving the 2020 Plan to recover the costs of these new pollution control facilities through its Environmental Surcharge tariff. These projects are required for KU to comply with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's 2015 Effluent Limitations Guidelines Rule as amended. The estimated total capital cost of these new pollution control facilities is $252.3 million. Additionally, KU is requesting recovery of operation and maintenance expenses associated with certain projects in the 2020 Plan.

Beginning in late October 2020, the initial bill impact for KU's Group 1 customers is estimated to be a 0.04% increase with a maximum increase of 2.13% in 2025. Group 1 includes Rate Schedules Residential Service (RS), Residential Time-of-Day Energy Service (RTODE), Residential Time-of-Day Demand Service (RTODD), Volunteer Fire Department Service (VFD), All Electric School (AES), and all Lighting Rates (i.e., LS, RLS, LE, and TE).

RS, RTOD, and VFD customers using 1,139 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $0.05 up to $2.46. AES customers using 19,744 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $0.75 up to $38.88. LS and RLS customers could expect a monthly increase of $0.01 up to $0.33. LE customers using 3,573 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $0.10 up to $5.12. TE customers using 171 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $0.01 up to $0.39.

Beginning in late October 2020, the initial bill impact for KU's Group 2 customers is estimated to be a 0.06% increase with a maximum increase of 2.98% in 2025. Group 2 includes Rate Schedules General Service (GS), Power Service (PS), Time-of-Day Secondary Service (TODS), Time-of-Day Primary Service (TODP), Retail Transmission Service (RTS), Fluctuating Load Service (FLS), and pilot program Outdoor Sports Lighting Service (OSL).

GS customers using 1,717 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $0.11 up to $5.59. PS-Secondary customers using 33,725 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $1.45 up to $77.01. PS-Primary customers using 58,355 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $2.46 up to $130.68. TODS customers using 208,133 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $5.80 up to $308.49. TODP customers using 1,294,965 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $29.04 up to $1,543.53. RTS customers using 4,908,868 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $94.85 up to $5,041.26. FLS-Transmission customers using 51,873,999 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $859.76 up to $45,695.77. OSL-Secondary customers using 5,204 kWh/month could expect a monthly increase of $0.44 up to $23.50.

The Application described in this Notice is proposed by KU. However, the Commission may issue an order modifying or denying KU's Application. Such action may result in an environmental surcharge for customers other than the environmental surcharge described in this Notice.

Comments regarding KU's 2020 Plan and Application may be submitted to the Commission through its Web site or by mail to the Public Service Commission, Post Office Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602.

Any corporation, association, body politic or person may, by motion within thirty (30) days after publication, request leave to intervene in Case No. 2020-00060. That motion shall be submitted to the Public Service Commission, 211 Sower Blvd., Post Office Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40602, and shall set forth the grounds for the request including the status and interest of the party. Intervention may be granted beyond the thirty (30) day period for good cause shown; however, if the Commission does not receive a written request for intervention within thirty (30) days of initial publication, the Commission may take final action on the Application. Any person who has been granted intervention may obtain copies of the Application and testimony by contacting Kentucky Utilities Company at 220 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky 40202, Attention: State Regulation and Rates.

A copy of the Application and testimony is available for public inspection on KU's website (http://www.lge-ku.com), on the Commission's website (http://www.psc.ky.gov), and in paper medium Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 pm at the office of Kentucky Utilities Company, 100 Quality Street, Lexington, Kentucky or the Commission's offices located at 211 Sower Boulevard, Frankfort, Kentucky, after March 31, 2020.

Kingston Elementary hosts 7th annual Living Biography

Each year, Mrs. Conley's 5th grade reading classes at Kingston Elementary participate in a Biography Book Tasting where students have the opportunity to browse numerous biographies while enjoying refreshments, such as cookies and juice. Students then select someone they would like to know more about, then spend the next four weeks reading about and researching information on that famous person. Students share the compiled information on a display board and present the information while dressed as their famous person. Classes and family members are invited to attend the Living Biography. The project focuses on numerous Reading, Writing, Listening/Speaking, and Technology Standards. These pictures, from March 12, feature Cheney Rigsby as Amelia Earhart, Willow Stanton as Rosa Parks, Lily Fenton as Alex Morgan, Solon Parker as George Washington, Laurel Busby as Sacajawea, Andrew Kerns as Ben Franklin, and Waylon Adkins as Bob Ross.

Berea leaders once again rise to the cause for Hospice Care

Donna Angel

Lonnie Reppert

Emogene Hogg Hartman

Teresa Scenters

A committee made up of Emogene Hartman, Lonnie Reppert, Teresa Scenters, and Donna Angel recently completed their annual fund drive for Hospice Care Plus and The Compassionate Care Center, raising $23,000.00 plus for a much needed and well-deserved organization.

Hospice serves six counties, Madison, Estill, Lee, Jackson, Rockcastle and Owsley. The Hospice mission remains the same today as it did at birth to serve all people regardless of the ability to pay. The Compassionate Care Center is an incredible place to spend loving and precious time with dear ones, whether it be for respite time for the family member, nurturing them back to stronger health conditions or to see that excellent quality of life is followed till the end draws nigh.

Angel, Hospice Care Plus president, said, "It has been a great journey serving and working with the Hospice organization over the past fourteen years."

She went on, "Inasmuch as the strength of our community depends upon the commitment of citizens who are willing to give abundantly of those personal offerings that will make a positive difference in the lives of others, the committee and I give thanks and appreciation to all who have contributed over the past years helping us to raise more than $250,000.00.
