City leaders address civil unrest

By Keith Taylor
Citizen Publisher

Berea city leaders addressed the recent civil unrest that has unraveled since the death of George Floyd last week.

Protesters gathered at the intersection near Boone Square and Union Church this week to express their concerns over racial equality across the nation, including the fatal shooting of a Floyd and an African American business owner in Louisville.

Bruce Fraley

The protests in Berea have been peaceful and haven't resulted in looting and rioting such as those that have transpired in major cities across the nation.

Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley said the death and treatment of Floyd was "unjust" and added the actions are "disturbing and bring out many emotions, including anger, fear and sadness."

"As your mayor, I believe it's important to reassure all of our citizens that the City of Berea, our police department and all of our employees are committed to fair treatment and equal protection for all citizens," Fraley said. "We are very fortunate to have a well-trained, diverse police

Tourism, business offices to merge

Council votes 7-1 to form new entity

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

In a 7-1 vote, the Berea City Council adopted an ordinance to create the Department of Business and Tourism Development, effectively merging two existing departments in the city.

The measure was approved Tuesday night during a teleconference meeting.

In the work session prior to the regular business meeting, Mayor Bruce Fraley noted that the merged department will not require creating a new position, but the administration will instead select a director from the current city staff.

The ordinance noted that the goals of the existing Business Development Department and the Berea Tourism and Convention Commission often overlap, and the purpose of the ordinance is to

Happy Hikers

The Pinnacles opened for hikers and outdoor enthusiasts Monday and Shay McClain, right, and Sam Brosius, left, took advantage of their day off from work and were happy campers after Berea College opened the trail after being closed for more than two months because of the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition, Brushy Fork and Anglin Falls also opened to the public earlier this week. "Trails play an important role in keeping the Berea community physically and mentally strong, and we thank you for your cooperation and understanding during the closure," Berea College officials said in a press release. "It is a privilege for all of us to enjoy these trails and one we should carefully safeguard." The Forestry Outreach Center and all restrooms will remain closed. The ability to keep trails open across the state will depend on public willingness to follow social distancing guidelines. Visitors are expected to remain in family groups of less than 10 persons and each group is advised to stay at least 6 feet from other hikers. "In order to keep the trails open, we need everyone's cooperation in following these social distancing measures. Failure to do so could result in spread of the coronavirus which is still very much with us and deadly to some. In the event of outbreak of COVID-19 in the Berea area, the forest may again have to be closed," the college said in the release.

OBITUARIES

Philip Burns Harrison, 101, Berea

Philip Burns Harrison passed from this earth on May 29, 2020. Philip was born on April 3, 1919 in a hardware store in Stanton to Howard and Chaney (Burns) Harrison. Around the age of six, Philip, his parents and three brothers, moved to Berea so his father could help with the family dairy farm. Philip's father also served as the Berea College forestry agent, which had a lasting influence on Philip and shaped his love of gardening and animals - especially growing tomatoes and raising chickens. He and his three younger brothers grew up in Berea, in the log cabin that still stands at the foot of the Pinnacles at Indian Fort Mountain.

Philip attended Silver Creek Elementary School, Berea Academy School and graduated from Berea College with a degree in agriculture. He made eight cents per hour as a work-study student. While in college, Philip started his first business called Berea Seed Growers, which distributed tobacco and corn seed to nearly 20 counties. He maintained the business for many years.

While at Berea College, Philip met his future wife, Fanny Wilder, of Bell County, Ky. They married in 1947 after a long courtship and had three daughters.

After college, Philip's entrepreneurial drive led him to open Harrison Farm Supply. That business eventually became the Berea Southern States store, which he owned for more than 50 years. He also ran the Berea Food Locker and a retail grocery store. Other businesses included selling chickens, eggs and blackberries as well as roofing and guttering. His businesses made him a community leader, and he was supportive of the 4-H program and individuals in need. Over the years, his various businesses employed hundreds of individuals. In addition to his generosity and good nature, Philip was well-known by many in Madison County for the vegetable gardens, healthy mums and chickens he raised. He also raised goats, pheasants, pigs, rabbits and German Shepherd puppies.

Philip and Fanny lived life to the fullest. He loved music and dancing – especially square-dancing. They danced whenever they had an opportunity and always attended local events. On more than one occasion, photos of Philip dancing made the front page of local newspapers. At his 100th birthday celebration in 2019, he enjoyed a special performance of a song written for him by Pam Perry and Wayne Combs from his daughter Ronda's point of view.

Faith played an important role in Philip's life. He was baptized on February 26, 1942 at Berea Baptist Church. He was the church's oldest member and served as an usher for over 70 years. Oneida Baptist Institute in Clay County, Ky also held a special place for Philip, as his maternal grandparents were among the school's founders and both of his parents worked there.

Philip was always open to try new things. At the age of 95, he started beekeeping, which he did for nearly two years. At age 97, Philip became a resident at Berea Health & Rehabilitation, where he remained engaged with a sharp mind. He enjoyed books and worked with his daughter Ronda and was a writer on a memoir titled, "Conceived in a Cave, Born in a Hardware Store" to record stories from throughout his life. The book is available for purchase on Amazon.com.

At his 100th birthday party, Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley presented Philip with a city proclamation recognizing his contribution to the community which read in part, "You set a good example of the importance of hard work and industriousness for everyone who knew you, and you paved the way for future generations of Bereans. You have made a positive and lasting mark on our city and local economy. We owe you a debt of gratitude, and it is my hope that my generation and future generations will continue to build a Berea that would make you proud."

In addition to his parents, Philip was preceded in death by his brothers, John Russell Harrison, Roger Dean Harrison and Joseph Lee Harrison.

Philip is survived by his wife of more than 72 years, Fanny Harrison of Richmond, Ky and his three daughters, Brenda Williams (Jack) of Richmond, Ky; Teresa Kruse (Calvin) of Rapid City, South Dakota and his "biggest fan" Ronda Taylor (Randy Gourley) of Richmond, Ky. He is also survived by four grandchildren, Jill Carney (Richard) of Knoxville, Tn; Brian Williams (Jonda) of Richmond, Ky; and Colby Taylor of Cincinnati, Ohio and Kenan Kruse of Phoenix, Ariz.

The family will welcome friends for visitation on Saturday, June 6, 2020 from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. at Berea Baptist Church with a funeral service following at 1 p.m. at the church. Burial will follow at Berea Cemetery with Kevin Slemp officiating. Restrictions previously in place have been relaxed and anyone who would like to attend are encouraged to do so.

Pallbearers are Randy Gourley, Colby Taylor, Winford "Wink" Starnes, Bart Harrison, Greg Taylor and Jack Williams. Honorary pallbearers are the Baraca Sunday school class at Berea Baptist Church.

OBITUARIES

Frederick Allen Livingood, 78,

The soul of Frederick Allen Livingood slipped into Paradise in the morning hours of the Lord's Day, May the 31, 2020.

Fred was wheeled to the breakfast table that morning, but the Lord decided that He would take Fred on to glory to sit at His table to feast instead. Fred has now been freed from the pains and illnesses of this life and has been restored to even better than his old self.

Only Heaven truly knows the lives that Fred impacted through his life, love, laughter, and ministry that spanned well over 50 years with his wife Carlene by his side until the Lord called her home on October 13, 2017.

As a Southern Baptist minister, Fred pastored four churches during his lengthy and faithful ministry: Lawrenceville Baptist, Piner Baptist, Waco Baptist and Knob Lick Baptist. Their longest tenure was 40 years and six months at Waco Baptist. Fred was devoted to and believed in the ministry of the local church.

Fred was born in Botavia, Ohio November 19, 1941 to J.C. and Dorothy Livengood but soon moved into the Northern Kentucky area where he was raised, married, and pastored until he, Carlene, and their daughter Sheri Renee came to Madison County in 1971.

Their son Frederick Allen Livingood II joined the family two years later.

Fred was a high school dropout who struggled in school but went back to get his GED. He then went on to take classes at Georgetown College and finished with a Masters in Psychology from the University of Kentucky. Fred was a fighter and overcomer.

Fred was a man filled with energy and life; for many years he was avid in fishing, hunting, and camping. He loved vacations in Gatlinburg with the family and at the lake on a pontoon boat.

He loved a good basketball game and especially competing in a seven-inning softball game, playing until he was 67. To say that he was competitive is an understatement. If there is a game happening in Heaven right now, Fred is already up to bat.

Fred was a man of passion — passion for His Savior, his family, the Church, his community, state and nation. He brought life and joy into all of these with a servant's heart.

He will be greatly missed by many family members and friends, but his pilgrimage on this earth is over, and he has found rest in his true heavenly home—a home that he invites all to join him through faith in Jesus Christ.

Fred is survived by his brothers and sisters — Gene (Joyce) Livingood, Jim (Margie) Livingood, Mike (Karen) Livengood, Frances "Poogie" Livingood, and Carol Livingood (Kevin Brown), his two children — Sheri (Jeff) Rogers from Berea and Allen (Paula) Livingood from Berea, his grandchildren — Heather (Zachariah) Pennington, Cameron (Peyton) Rogers, Trey Livingood, Tori Livingood, and two great grandchildren—Allison and Madison Pennington.

A Celebration of Life will be from 5-7 p.m. Thursday, June 4, 2020 at Waco Baptist Church. Worship services will begin at 7 p.m.

In memory of Fred, donations may be made to Mission Dignity, a mission that financially assists retired pastors.

Condolences may be left for the family at lakesfuneralhome.com, services will also be livestreamed for those unable to attend the memorial service.

SHERIFF

Thomas promoted

Madison County Sheriff Mike Coyle announced the promotion of Derek Thomas this week. Thomas was promoted from Sergeant to Lieutenant on Monday. Thomas joined the Madison County Sheriff's Office August, 2008. He was accompanied by his wife, Tasha Thomas.

Remembering a mentor and a friend

Gary Moyers wasn't my first managing editor, but he was the first one who believed in me enough to let me handle my own sports department when I began my journalism career. That meant the world at the time.

He was easy to get along with and someone you could joke around with and not worry about icky-picky things.

I joked with him often about hitting his truck when I arrived to work at the Richmond Register back in the mid-1990s. He never believed me until one morning I actually pulled into the parking lot the wrong way and rammed the front end of his little red Ford Ranger.

Uh-oh. No more kidding around.

Keith Taylor
Publisher

It took me nearly an hour before I convinced him that morning that I really rammed my Toyota pickup into his truck. In his calm demeanor he had me drive his truck to the repair shop and get an estimate and told me everything would be OK. I felt bad at the time, but then Gary made me feel at ease and we laughed about the matter years later.

He knew a lot about newspapers and sports. He also knew about golf and gave me a set of golf clubs for Christmas one year after I agreed to purchase them from him at a fair price. For anyone who knew Gary, that was just the kind of man he was - a giving heart and someone who would do anything for you.

I was saddened with the news of Gary's passing Thursday. If 2020 hasn't been hard enough already, the news was a punch in the gut and my heart just broke immediately. I lost a former boss, co-worker and, more than anything, a true friend.

Gary taught me a lot about journalism and allowed me to spread my wings to give me the self-confidence I needed early to succeed. We lost touch for about five years or so after we both left Richmond, but our paths crossed again when Schurz Communications purchased the Winchester Sun in 2006. Gary worked at the Danville Advocate Messenger, also part of the Schurz group and we became co-workers again.

Since that time, we stayed in touch often and when I needed advice on a job, career or wanted someone to talk to, I would call Gary. He would listen and give me the right words I needed at the time. He also gave me freelance work with the Cats Pause and, just last fall, I helped him conduct a photo shoot with the University of Kentucky women's basketball team.

That was fun and I will never forget it. He was always funny and cutting up and he knew me very well. Many times, he came to my defense and I always appreciated him for doing that, because he knew me as if I were his own.

In one of our last conversations, we talked about a camera lens I sold him in December. I almost kept the lens, but I'm glad he put it to good use and captured some of the last images of his life. I'm sure he's busy with his perfect camera and hitting those balls perfectly in that Great Golf Course in the sky.

I'm gonna miss you, Gary.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Old: Keep integrity of elections intact

Dear Editor:

After reading Rev. Gilbert's article in last week's issue of The Berea Citizen, I believe several items need to be addressed. First of all, our nation was not established as a democracy but as a constitutional republic (if we can keep it per Dr. Benjamin Franklin). We are a nation of laws and not just of people. We elect representatives to craft legislation on our behalf at all levels of government.

Safeguarding the integrity of the electoral process is critical for this.

Second, unlike the Voting Rights Act of 1965 which was passed overwhelmingly with bipartisan support in both the House and Senate, the Voting Rights Advancement Act of 2019 was passed along more partisan lines.

The Democratic Party was the House majority party in both 1965 and 2019. What "critical articles" within the 1965 VRA have been struck down by the Supreme Court? Reverend Gilbert did not specify. Is there something about these "critical articles" that give the Senate reason to withhold taking any action on the VRAA?

Third, Rev Gilbert states that "Since 2013 many states have used suppressive tactics such as unreasonable voter ID laws, illegal purging of voter records, restrictive absentee voting regulations, and reduced polling locations…."Here again, Rev. Gilbert gives no specifics .Furthermore, he does not give any examples as to how "Such laws disproportionately affect the poor, minorities, college students, and women (due to frequent last name changes)….". Let's not forget that on June 21, 2018 the U.S. Dept. of Justice filed a complaint against the Commonwealth of KY citing violation of Section 8 of the 1993 National Voter Registration Act. The suit was resolved on July 3, 2018 with the agreement that "…Kentucky will develop a general program of statewide voter list maintenance that makes a reasonable effort to remove registrants who have become ineligible due to a change in residence, in accord with the procedures and protections provided by the NVRA and state law." How is this illegal?

Finally, Rev. Gilbert cites the corona virus pandemic, stating "we must make voting easier, not harder…." Is it possible that he is promoting mass mail-in voting for both the June 23rd primary and (more critically important) the November 3rd general election?

While there is legitimate disagreement as to whether this would actually lead to much greater electoral fraud, my concern is that there will be far less protection for the integrity of the electoral process than that provided by in-person voting at the precinct level. Due to the proximity of the June 23rd primary to the pandemic outbreak, a more compelling case can be made for increased mail-in voting for public health safety. However, this will not necessarily apply to the November elections.

In conclusion, more emphasis needs to be put on making in-person voting more "pandemic safe" than the much riskier route of mass mail-in voting.

Let's not forget about the recent debacle in which thousands of absentee ballots prepared for the South Carolina primary were found in Baltimore, MD.

I urge all Kentucky citizens to contact Governor Beshear at (502)564-2611 or governor.ky.gov/contact to focus more on making in-person voting for the November election "pandemic safe."

Furthermore, I urge all Kentucky citizens to contact Senators Mitch McConnell at (502)582-6304 and Rand Paul at (270)782-8303 to carefully review the 2019 VRAA for any constitutional issues before deciding to support or oppose it. In addition to keeping Kentucky voters safe, let's keep the integrity of the electoral process safe as well.

Sincerely,
William J. Old, Berea

Berea College: We are indeed one blood

To our fellow Bereans and Kentuckians,

Last week, our nation was roiled yet again by the videotaped killing of an unarmed African American man by police: George Floyd. In our own beloved Kentucky, protestors are marching for justice for Breonna Taylor, an African American woman shot in her own home by the police. Even in the midst of a pandemic, people of color remain targets, often with little recourse. Christian Cooper was bird watching in Central Park a week ago and asked a young woman to put her dog on a leash, which was required in that section of the park. Instead, she told him that she was going to "call the police and tell them that an African American man was threatening her and her dog." The message was clear—Mr. Cooper would be perceived by the police as a threat to her, and would, subsequently, be punished.

In 1857, the United States Supreme Court issued an infamous decision that, it seems, echoes still today. An enslaved man, Dred Scott, sued for his freedom after being taken by his "owner" into what was then a "free" territory. In its decision the court wrote that "They had for more than a century before been regarded as beings of an inferior order…: and so far inferior, that they had no rights which the white man was bound to respect:…" (Dred Scott v. Sanford, 60 U.S.at 407). That decision was overturned by the 13th and 14th Amendments to the U. S. Constitution.

Today, we stand as a nation at a moment when we must decide if the notorious language of Dred Scott will guide our future, or the language of The Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all (men) peoples are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness…" Here at Berea College, we have long stood on the side of justice, and today, we remain steadfast, holding to the motto of our Founder, the great Abolitionist Revered John G. Fee, taken from Acts: 17:26, "God has made of One Blood All Peoples of the Earth." Berea College remains steadfast in its support of all marginalized communities and peoples, and we ask that all Bereans and Kentuckians remember these individuals—that we remember their names and their stories. That we never forget that we are, indeed, one blood.

Sports set to resume on limited basis

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

The Kentucky High School Athletic Association ruled last week that high school teams could begin meetings in groups of 10 or fewer starting June 1. In addition, the KHSAA waived the traditional dead period, which was scheduled between June 25 and July 9.

The KHSAA will also allow limited practices for some sports to begin on June 15. The KHSAA said the guidelines put into place follow the rules put into place by Gov. Andy Beshear regarding the resumption of team practice and meetings.

The KHSAA's decision was welcomed at many high schools, including Berea and Madison Southern.

"We will follow health guidelines and social distancing if coaches choose to meet with student athletes in person," Madison Southern Athletics Director Jay Simmons said. "They will be restricted to meeting in groups of 10 or less. No type of physical conditioning or practice will be permitted at this time."

Simmons met with his coaches Monday to discuss the ins and outs of what teams can do.

"I will be asking coaches to try to have all meetings outdoors when possible," Simmons added. "At this time we have not received expectations for specifics about sanitizing equipment. We will be given specific guidelines from the KHSAA and the district before June 15."

Southern boys basketball coach Austin Newton was pleased with the decision, as it will allow his squad to begin preparation for the upcoming basketball season.

"I think it is wonderful to get back with our teams," he said. "It will benefit our squad greatly because we lost so many seniors. We will be very young and we need as much weight room and skill work as we can get."

Berea boys basketball coach Eric Swords said Pirate players and coaches are equally excited to get back to work.

"We will take the next couple weeks preparing to safely to (return to practice/activities)," Swords said. "I also love the decision to remove the normal dead period. I think the KHSAA acted in the best interest of the students."

Southern football coach Jon Clark said the KHSAA decision couldn't have come at a better time.

"We are in a pivotal point in their lives, and with so much unrest in the world going on around them, I believe our guidance and mentorship is more important now than ever," Clark said. "It goes without saying that there are a great deal of things going on that are far more important than football, and I look forward to meeting these issues head on with our coaches."

Berea football coach Tony DeGregorio credited the KHSAA on putting the safety of student athletes and coaches first.

"The KHSAA is doing everything they can to make sure the kids' safety is a priority when we return, but also for them to regain some normalcy," he said. "The decision to waive the dead period benefits the kids the most, and that's what high school sports is all about – helping kids."

Youth Sports

Earlier, Gov. Beshear announced youth sports would resume under strict guidelines as well.

"I spoke with a Madison United Soccer Association representative, and I believe they plan to start some skills, conditioning or practice-type activities on or around June 15," said Priscilla Bloom with Berea Parks and Recreation. "He expressed to me that they will be following the governor's guidelines very closely. It will take a lot of time, people and effort to make sure these things are being followed and carried out."

Youth sports can resume with small group practices. Activities such as scrimmages and games will be phased in toward the end of June.

Under the governor's ruling, practices with groups not exceeding 10 can take place so long as social distancing requirements are met. Additionally, group practices are limited to one coach.

The governor's guidance also requires equipment to be cleaned as well as health screenings for participants.

Bloom said there is much to do before things begin happening.

"I know that the Berea Youth League would like to have a fall season, but at this time they are unsure if that will happen," she said. "I think they are hopeful though. As far as our ball fields, we have not yet announced a date that they will re-open."

force that is committed to protecting everyone's rights and everyone's life."

City Administrator David Gregory agreed with Fraley.

"As a former Berea police chief, I know the Berea Police officers are trained to treat all individuals, whether they are complainant, suspect or the defendant with dignity and respect," he said. "(Those are) the founding principles behind the concepts of procedural justice and police legitimacy. It is important in our community that law enforcement be willing to question and denounce actions that are wrong so that you can continue to build trust within our community."

Berea Police chief Eric Scott said the City of Berea is "dedicated to ensuring the safety of all citizens."

"We've done all that we can to prepare officers to deal with ever-changing environment that goes on in our society," Scott said. "With that comes training. I can attest that our officers have the training to deal with any and all situations that come when they are doing their day's work. The things going on in Minnesota were definitely troubling," he said. "I can assure you that our agency is watching and we are aware and we are definitely taking the steps needed to ensure that Berea remains safe and secure for all citizens."

Gregory added the Berea Police Department is continually looking for ways to improve communication with the community and be willing to "listen and discuss the realities of policing, diversified meaningful solutions and understand that police officers have literally dedicated their lives to protecting the community."

"Our police are dedicated to continue training and understanding our diverse community of being culturally aware and recognizing biases ahead of time," Gregory said. "A good leader within any organization needs to recognize the importance of diversity within the work force so that the people we serve (know). It's important to understand the dynamics of our community. Never the less, it's imperative that we not let violence and destruction distract us from the real challenges before us."

He added conquering those challenges is "not easy" and requires "partnerships, commitment, dedication and a willingness to understand the community."

"We must work together to ensure a future that ensures fairness, respect and dignity for all," Gregory said.

Scott emphasized "how important it is that we come together now more than ever in this time of need."

Citing an unnamed source in his comments to the community, Fraley said, "we are human beings that just want justice for our people."

"It is my hope that we can learn from the past and build a better future for our children, our grandchildren and for ourselves and to come together to work for liberty and justice for all," Fraley said. "I'm also reminded of our calling to love one another and to treat others as we would like to be treated."

operations.

Magistrates Tom Botkin, John Tudor, Roger Barger and Judge/Executive Taylor voted for the measure. Magistrate Larry Combs was not logged in to the teleconference meeting.

The CARES Act was signed into effect last March by President Trump, making $10 billion in emergency funds available for airports. Taylor explained all three local governments, Madison County, Richmond and Berea, would all co-sign the application.

Following the vote, Taylor explained the special called meeting was initiated in order for the court to meet various deadlines.

"We found out yesterday that we had a few items that we needed to take care of," said Taylor.

Also approved at Tuesday's meeting was a memorandum of agreement between the Commonwealth of Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet, Division of Waste Management, and the Madison County Community Host Liaison, Bluegrass Army Depot.

The memorandum cited the continued need for a community liaison to be the local point of contact for community relations, emergency planning and community oversite of the construction, operation and conclusion of the Bluegrass Army Depot Demilitarization project.

The state agency reimburses the Madison County Community Host Liaison up to $100,000 not to exceed $50,000 per year for services and activities. The memorandum designated the current liaison, Craig Williams, to continue as BGAD demilitarization liaison. The funding would go into effect on July 1, according to the agreement.

When discussing the measure, magistrates praised the job Williams has done in that capacity as liaison. "He's done a great job for us so far and we've been glad to have him since this started," said Magistrate Roger Barger. "He's done a top notch job."

Magistrate John Tudor agreed, noting: "There's nobody more qualified who knows the ins and outs of the demilitarization plan out there on the local level than Craig does, and he's been a good advocate for the county as the liaison position, so I endorse that." The vote to reappoint Williams was unanimous.

Berea Citizen Archives

A trophy recognizing the Berea Citizen for excellence in circulation promotion was awarded following a contest for weekly newspapers in the Circulation Division of the Kentucky Press Association. Pictured was Harriet Goble, circulation manager, holding the trophy awarded by Jerry Adkins, Somerset, chairman of the Circulation Division.

• Three Berea High students were honored by the Berea-Laurel Ridges Chapter, DAR at the school assembly held Friday, February 23. Citizenship awards were presented to Ann Barton and Donald Blackburn and the History Award to Shirley Baker. Ann Barton, a senior, was chosen by her classmates and teachers to receive the DAR Good Citizen Pin, on the basis of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barton of Chestnut Court.

• Two tiny charred bodies, huddled in a corner, were all that remained of two Berea boys when the firemen extinguished the blaze at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson, 9 George Street. Dead were Lowell Wayne Johnson, four, and Roy Dean Johnson, who would have been two the next month, the only children of the couple. Mrs. Pat Johnson, 21, was away at the grocery when the fire started, neighbors said, and she returned home to find the living room in flames. She got her husband out of the house, they said, but failed to get the children, who were behind a chair in the northeast corner of the room. It was said to be some time before she knew her sons were in the burning house, thinking them at a neighbor's house. Funeral services for the boys were conducted at Rominger Funeral Home by the Rev. Rolland Cornelison. Burial was at Fairview Cemetery in Rockcastle County.

•Caught in the air during the Berea High-Foundation game were Gilbert Taylor from Foundation and Don Blackburn of Berea High. Looking on were Matthew Taylor, number 21 of the Foundation team, and Larry French, number 33 of the Berea High team.

• Girl Scout Troop 387, consisting of 12 members, began work on their first aid badge on February 22 at the Berea Hospital. The course was a prerequisite to the emergency preparedness challenge. At this first meeting, John Wray demonstrated and explained to the scouts emergency equipment, including the ambulance. Mrs. Flora Allen, a certified Red Cross First Aid Instructor, would be in charge of the other weekly meetings. Jean Kahlo, Mary Ann Bogs, and Pat Craig were the scout troop leaders.

minimize redundant activities, as well as streamlining performance of administrative functions. The overall mission of the new department is the "promotion and development of economic resources of the city," according to the ordinance.

The department will promote the business, commercial, recreational and convention sections of economic promotion, which will include promoting new programs, conducting economic development research, and adopt procedures and planning to "improve conditions and enhance growth and development" in the city.

A director, program manager of tourism, communication manager, as well as other managers as specified will staff the new department, the ordinance states. During discussion of the proposed measure in the work session, Mayor Fraley noted the mayor will be responsible for hiring director of the department, subject to the approval of the Berea Tourism and Convention Commission.

Councilmember Emily LaDouceur objected to the proposal, stating that tourism and business development are two separate functions and should have two departments. Fellow council members disagreed, however, with Jim Davis stating it was a good idea to get business and tourism under one umbrella, and David Rowlette stating his support for the principle of streamlining operations. "In light of our financial situation, we may find ourselves doing more of these things in the future," Rowlette said. LaDouceur cast the lone dissenting vote for the ordinance.

In other news, the council formally accepted a bid for the Holly Hill sewer replacement project. Berea Municipal Utilities Director Kevin Howard explained that he submitted the bids for the project to the council on March 3, but the following council meeting, where the bids were to be formally adopted by council, was canceled because of the COVID-19 crisis. The council voted unanimously to accept the contract with Potter Excavating for $32,700 and an additional $8,000 if driveway repair is needed at the end of the project.

Diane Kerby was unanimously approved by the council for a one-year term on the Berea Board of Ethics. Kerby had been previously appointed to finish a term vacated by a board member.

Other business included the second reading of a measure to adopt a supplement to the Berea Code of Ordinances. The ordinance was unanimously adopted.

Also Tuesday, the council heard the first reading of the 2020-2021budget, which will be up for a final reading on June 16. City Administrator David Gregory offered two amendments to the current budget, including an additional $5,000 for janitorial supplies relating to the need to sanitize City Hall during the COVID-19 epidemic, and an additional $5,000 for workplace upgrades, including Plexiglas to safeguard city workers and citizens. The measures were approved unanimously.

During the City Administrator's Report, Gregory noted the Pinnacles were opened on Monday. Additionally, the Berea Skatepark is open, as well as some of the park restrooms. Gregory noted the city will begin to assess whether to proceed to phase II opening, which will include opening city ballpark facilities by appointment. Social distancing is still strongly recommended.

When questioned by Jim Davis, Gregory said he is not sure yet when Frankfort will give the go-ahead to open local governments, but the administration would like to open by July 6 with the help of Healthy at Work guidelines. Business at City Hall can be done by appointment.

During Mayor's Comments, Mayor Fraley noted the city is still committed to maintaining the Berea Human Rights Commission.

Fraley noted the move to change how funds were budgeted for the BHRC was motivated by the projected 20% shortfall in revenues for next year.

During council comments, Jim Davis, David Rowlette and John Payne all urged citizens to support local businesses during this difficult period. Payne also urged citizens to participate in the census, noting the count will affect funding for services for the next decade. Emily LaDouceur suggested cutting back funding to the Madison County Fiscal Court for animal control services from $30,000 to $10,000. LaDouceur said county officials promised to deliver a breakdown of costs and services but never delivered.

She recommended reallocating the remaining funds for items like the Berea Human Rights Commission and $5,000 for the proposed trial dog park.

Long-awaited phased reopening is now under way

Shelf Notes

Ruthie Maslin, Madison Co. Library

The number one question I get these days, whether it's someone returning books to the library book drops or even someone who recognizes me behind my mask at the grocery store, is, "So when are you all going to reopen?" I can't tell you how much that means to me, that our community values library services so highly.

We have already begun our phased reopening, resuming services each week, and I know everyone is anxious for us to open our doors once more, even on a limited scale.

But while we wait, there is still a lot to be said for the instant access of our digital collections. For example, last night I went to bed super early because I had to be at the library really early to let a repair person in. Naturally I went to bed too early and woke up at midnight, lying there wide awake.

So I thought, "I'll read for a bit." But I didn't feel like getting out of bed and searching for a good book to read - after that I would never be able to fall back asleep.

Then I remembered Overdrive and eBooks, and so I logged in on my phone with my Madison County Public Library card, found a book, downloaded it, and within a couple minutes, I was immersed in the story. Twenty-four pages later, I was sleepy enough to doze off once more.

Now that is handy - finding a good book to read while in bed in the middle of the night.

I know that doesn't satisfy every reading need, and I realize one of the pleasures of the library that many have missed during this COVID-19 shutdown is the act of browsing for books. So that is one of the first things we want to reinstitute - even in a very limited way - beginning June 8 (which is the date the Governor has said we can begin to reopen to the public).

As I'm sure you expect, our reopening will be a gradual one - we have many things to take into account, from the soon-to-be-released library-specific Healthy at Work guidelines from the Governor's office, to the amount of cleaning that needs to be done and the amount of cleaning supplies and PPE we need to keep everything as safe as possible for both customers and staff.

As the summer progresses, we will restart a new aspect of library service each week. This week, for example, we are adding back in some Saturday hours for holds pickup. You can place your items on hold through our website - www.madisonlibrary.org - or by calling whichever location you want to pick up. Once your holds are ready, you now have the option of scheduling either a curbside or electronic locker delivery from 10 AM to 2 PM on Saturday, in addition to Monday-Friday.

Our service next week is opening a "quick stop" library at each location. We will have a community room in each building set up with a small browsing area, several 15-minute public computers, copier/fax, etc. You can check out books, read the newspaper, get on the computer – many of the things you're used to doing at the library, just on a smaller scale.

Both the number of people that can be in the rooms at any one time will be limited, as will the amount of time anyone can be in the rooms. There will be two open shifts Monday-Friday - 9 AM-noon and 1-4 PM. This gives us time to clean and disinfect after each shift.

We are asking our customers to help us with safety and access for all by wearing a mask (we will have both adult and children's masks available for those who need them), using hand sanitizer, maintaining social distance in the room, staying home if sick, and limiting their time in the library to 15-20 minutes.

The week after that, we hope to be able to schedule longer computer sessions for our customers.

With every service we add back in, we will work diligently to maintain safety protocols to help keep everyone as healthy as possible. So things will look a little different when you return. But our awesome library staff is still the same (although you won't be able to see their smiles behind their masks - and yes, we have been practicing smiling with our eyes).

There will be other differences as well. Summer Reading, for instance, is still going on, but it will be primarily online - look for details soon on our new program called Beanstack, which will be your portal to Summer Reading fun.

And the Friends of the Madison County Public Library are planning an innovative drive-through book sale for late June/early July.

Meanwhile, our online and "take and make" programs for all ages that include everything from STEM activities, storytimes, and crafts for kids, to painting, meditation, book clubs, and fitness classes for adults, continue to be extremely popular. Check out our website, YouTube channel, and Facebook page for all the details.

If all goes well with our phased reopening, we hope to be close to back to normal by the end of summer.

It feels good to be returning to a semblance of normalcy, even if it is, as they say, a new normal. And it feels good to be able to say once again, "I'll see you soon at the library!"

State education officials sort through reopening issues

FRANKFORT (KT) — Issues faced by Kentucky's public schools due to the coronavirus pandemic were discussed during the General Assembly's Interim Joint Education Committee on Tuesday.

Oldham County Schools Superintendent Greg Schultz said the schools need flexibility for reopening when trying to balance public health concerns with what can be done realistically.

Bus transportation is one such issue, he said. "We're asked to have one student per seat and every other seat. There's just no way that most school districts can get their students to school in a timely fashion, or a cost-efficient fashion."

Others included, "Social distancing at the high school level, sheer classroom size and the inability to keep high school students in the same room with teachers," he said. "Trying to have a second grader wearing a mask all day is going to be exceptionally challenging.

"We also need to understand that public schools, which are a great part of our children's lives, are going to have a hard time meeting these with any type of success."

Interim Education Commissioner Kevin Brown agreed with Schultz. "There are a lot of unanswered questions on almost every issue he brought up," he said. "We are working with public health officials on those efforts."

Brown says those officials, including Public Health Commissioner Dr. Steven Stack, took part in a teleconference with the superintendents last week and took their concerns about implementing their guidance. He says revised guidance from public health officials is expected to be issued to the schools shortly.

The Kentucky Department of Education is working on its own reopening concerns as well. They include:

- How to ensure the health and safety of everybody in their buildings.
- How to maintain quality teaching and learning.
- How to support exceptional learners, including gifted and talented students and students in need of special education services.
- How to continue school and district operations.

Brown admitted they are asking school districts to do things they've never done before for the upcoming school year.

"We're asking them to buy PPE, thermometers, etc., yet we also know the state has a huge revenue shortfall looming," he said. "We don't readily have an answer to that. There's talk of additional federal funds coming in, but it is going to be a tough school year next year because of all of these things."

KSP drivers tests set to resume in select cities

The KSP Driver Testing Branch announced Tuesday that it will resume permit testing in select counties where the required CDC/Healthy at Work guidelines can be adhered to. In an effort to ensure the safety of permit applicants and staff, we have implemented a registration process where everyone will be required to schedule a specific date for their permit test. KSP will begin taking appointments, by phone, on Tuesday, June 2, 2020.

For a listing of counties currently offering permit testing and the contact information, please check the link below:

http://kentuckystatepolice.org/drivers-testing/

You can find a list of current open test locations and the phone number for the KSP Drivers Test Administrator or clerk at each location.

Please be patient as phone lines are limited and we anticipate high call volumes.

More information will be distributed as additional counties are added to our list.

You can visit the KSP website periodically to see when your county will begin permit testing.

The office anticipates an announcement at a later date regarding road tests to begin in July.

Reflecting on life in Berea as it was in 120 years ago

The subscription list of The Reporter has been purchased by The Citizen and we hope that the students will feel even a livelier interest in the new paper than they ever had for the old. It has at least two points of superiority. It is a weekly and it runs every week in the year. The Citizen never takes a vacation and it will serve as a weekly news letter when the students are away from Berea.

• Among the feats of good things of Commencement week, the annual exhibition of the Music Department came first in order of time last Thursday night. There was a good attendance of students, but only a few citizens knew that a free concert was to be given, and so many missed a good time. The Citizen will henceforth "fill a long felt want" by giving due notice of such passing events. Owing to the illness of some of the members the exhibition was largely a piano recital. Mrs. Marsh and Misses Todd, Eliott, Miller, Yocum, and Paddock rendered a large and varied program of piano-forte music in a very acceptable manner. Miss Eliott's vocal solo, 'Thou'rt Like a Flower," was very effective, and Mr. Pope's 'cello solo was highly appreciated. Mr. Mann's concerto from Dancla won the rapt attention of all. Everyone was disappointed when a vigorous recall failed to secure an

Funds to help fight COVID-19

By Keith Taylor

Madison County received some good news in its fight against COVID-19 this week.

State Senator and U.S. Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell announced the county received a $58,008 grant from the U,S, Department of Justice that will be used to assist with coronavirus efforts. Those monies were made possible through the CARES Act, the largest economic rescue package in U.S. history.

"The Senate took bold action to support communities battling the coronavirus crisis, and I'm proud my CARES Act continues to support strong local officials like (Madison County Judge Executive) Reagan Taylor who are helping lead

Market thriving

The Berea Farmers Market was bustling Saturday morning as vendors and customers alike enjoyed the picture-perfect weather. The yearlong market featured everything from vine-ripened tomatoes to sweet raspberry tea from the various vendors. According to Connie Abernathy, with Good Life Growers, the business has been brisk even with the current COVID-19 pandemic. "Business has doubled, if anything," Abernathy said. "People have time for gardening … it's been crazy. The community has done a wonderful job supporting the local farmers during this time." Because of the pandemic, vendors, and customers adhered to the social distancing requirements and other recommendations set forth by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The farmers market is open on Tuesdays from 3-6 p.m. at Memorial Park on West Jefferson Street, and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. at Fee Park on West Chestnut Street. For more information on the Berea Farmers Market, visit www.bereafarmersmarket.org. County forming radio network

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

The Madison County Fiscal Court heard the first reading of an ordinance to form the Bluegrass Regional Radio Network (BRRN), part of an inter-local agreement that would eventually enable the county to cut costs for emergency communications.

Madison County Information Technology Director Chris Iseral introduced the ordinance to the court Tuesday during a teleconference meeting. Iseral noted that since CSEPP dollars for emergency communications will diminish once the demilitarization project is finished, the county is seeking an opportunity to find alternatives that are more efficient and cost effective.

The ordinance calls for an agreement between Madison County, Scott County, the City of Georgetown and the University of Kentucky, and would form an emergency radio

KSP

Berea man arrested following pursuit

The Kentucky State Police attempted to conduct a traffic stop on I-75 South near the 72 mile marker in Rockcastle County just after 1 p.m. on June 5.

The initial investigation by the KSP indicated that the vehicle's license plate was reported as stolen.

The Trooper activated his emergency equipment and the driver continued traveling south on I-75 at a high rate of speed, before taking Exit 62 in Mount Vernon.

While traveling on KY-461, the vehicle drove in the oncoming lane of traffic, at which time a legal intervention maneuver was performed by KSP and the car was disabled.

The driver, James N. Small, 44, of Berea, his passenger and the KSP Trooper were transported to Rockcastle Regional Hospital with non-life-threatening injuries, where they were treated and released.

Small was arrested and is lodged in the Rockcastle County Detention Center charged with theft by unlawful taking (under $500), fleeing and evading (1st degree), wanton endangerment (2nd degree), no operator's license, no insurance and no registration.

The ongoing investigation is being conducted by KSP Trooper Mike King.

King was assisted at the scene by KSP Personnel, Rockcastle County Sheriff's office, Mount Vernon Police Department and Rockcastle County EMS.

network that spans from northern Scott County to northern Rockcastle County, Iseral said. He added the network would be available as a backup should the current 911 centers go offline, it would be used so that several local entities could respond to a regional emergency, and it would also reduce long-term costs of emergency communication for the county, Iseral said.

Iseral added that by forming the partnership, Madison County would become one of the principal partners in BRRN, and if other local governments and agencies join, Madison County would earn a share of the dividends. Other entities in the region have expressed interest in joining the BRRN, Iseral said. Forty percent of those profits would go into savings, and 60 percent would be distributed to the four initial stakeholders: Madison County, Scott County /Georgetown, and the University of Kentucky. Madison County would receive 27.5 percent of that 60 percent share, University of Kentucky would receive 27.5 percent, and Scott County/ Georgetown would receive 5 percent. Iseral said there will be no dividends for the first three years of operation. Work on linking the existing communication systems would begin this year, said officials.

The first reading was unanimously approved and will come up for a final vote on June 23.

Also approved unanimously was a resolution to give county employees an additional health care option.

The contract with BluMine Health Care Center will allow the county to save money and lower costs to employees, said officials. Human Resources Director Rachel Thomas and Treasurer Glenna Smith noted that with just 30 percent employee participation, the county has the potential to save nearly $70,000 while providing clinical and wellness services to employees.

Magistrate Tom Botkin praised Smith and Thomas for finding the option.

"This is a really good opportunity to put our people first, but also to cut costs," Botkin said.

In other news, the Madison County Fiscal Court:

• Unanimously approved the second reading of the 2020-2021 fiscal year budget.

• Approved the first reading of an ordinance amending the county's administrative code relating to employees.

For example, all county vehicles will be tracked with GPS, and there are regulations regarding the employees' need to inform Human Resources if they receive certain kinds of traffic violations. Regulations specifically stipulate employees are prohibited from driving with a suspended license. Magistrate John Tudor said he approved of the changes, recalling a former employee who was once caught driving a county vehicle with a suspended license.

• Approved first reading of an ordinance for Drug and Alcohol Free Work Policy.

• Approved the first reading of an ordinance regarding the county's code of ethics.

• The court approved road bids, including: Fuel bid won by Riley Oil Company with a drop in price; Asphalt bid won the Allen Company, no change in price; Rock bid won by the Allen Company, bulk oil bid went to Apollo Oil, and the Detroit Salt Company won the bid for road salt.

• Chris Hager was appointed to the Tax Assessment Board.

• Jeff Masters was appointed to the Madison County Ethics Board.

• Jimmy Marcum was appointed to the county road commission.

• Ron Devere was appointed to the Southern Madison Water Board.

• Roger Barger was appointed to the Valley View Ferry Board.

• R. Michael Day was appointed to the EKU Center for the Arts Community Operations Board.

• Lynn Brewer was hired in the road department as was Donald Joe VanWinkle.

• Sung Min Kim was hired as a Battlefield Golf Course Seasonal employee.

The Madison County Fiscal Court will meet again on June 23 at 9:30 via teleconference.

encore. Mr. Mann's work as a violinist is always earnest and intelligent.

• The address before the Literary Societies was delivered last Monday evening by Hon. Wm. B. Smith, of Richmond. The introduction was in defense of the lawyer, but his main address was along the line of Good Citizenship. The good citizen is distinguished from the worthless or indifferent one by several characteristic qualities which are entirely wanting in the other. To be a good citizen he must obey the law and respect its power. This he does by upholding it at all times. He is interested in things about him, and he is just, merciful, and firm in his dealings with others. Finally, he must be willing to work. We must not be filled with the idea that any kind of honest labor is dishonorable. The speaker emphasized the fact that all good citizens contribute, by some kind of labor, to man's well-being.

• Failure to properly advertise was the reason so few citizens attended the annual exhibition of the Literary Societies last Friday night. The Chapel was nearly filled with students, but there would not have been standing room if a newspaper had informed the general public of the literary feast that was offered. After Miss Mary Hoopes of L.L.S. had entertained the gathering audience with a guitar solo entitled "Blue Bells of Scotland," Prof. L. V. Dodge offered the opening prayer. Homer Martin, Pres. of Alpha Zeta, presided. Miss Wood, Berea's deservedly popular soprano soloist then sang "As the Dawn," by Cantor, winning generous applause. The first oration was by D. F. White, of Alpha Zeta, on the subject, "Shall We Expand?" He argued that the Expansion policy was both American and Constitutional, and should be adopted (1) for the sake of our navy, (2) for our commercial interest, (3) for the Christianizing of the dwellers in the new territories. Mr. White has a clear strong voice and a good presence. The impassioned close was too highly wrought. Miss Ida L. Brooks' recitation of "Aunt Nancy's account of a Fashionable Recital" was a good example of the most valuable type of public speaking – the conversational style. The Mandolin Club made a decided hit with a selection called the "Bezauberuna March" and the audience would not be satisfied until they played again – their second selection, "Estudiantina," being enjoyed even more than the first. Edwin R. Embree of Phi Delta then recited with a resolute, clear voice the old favorite speech of "Wolsey on Being Rejected by the King." Marion H. Frederick, of Alpha Zeta, who was next on the program with an original poem, gave a stirring sonnet on Freedom. Mr. Frederick's talent is well known in Berea and Clay County. We are glad to give to our readers in this issue a poem by this young man. After a charming piano solo by Miss Todd, Miss Maggie Jones gave a pleasing recitation of a funny poem by Paul Dunbar entitled "Deacon Jones' Grievances." The oration by O.B. Tibbs of Phi Delta on "Monuments" won the unusual honor of a burst of applause in the midst of its delivery as the orator gave a masterly tribute to John G. Fee. Mr. Tibbs in his ability to handle an audience shows great promise of becoming an effective orator. Berea audiences have leaned to anticipate eagerly Mr. Mann's violin solos, and the solo with which he closed the evening's entertainment was no exception to his uniformly high standard of excellence. President Frost then dismissed us with the benediction and all went home praising the good work of the literary societies.

• The prodigal and his sister, James Chaney and Mrs. Baker, have returned to their father's house, where three times a day they are feasting on Edwin's early vegetable garden.

• Our esteemed contemporary, The Pantagraph, has again changed editors. Judge Tipton goes into the revenue service and T. C. Adams is at the editorial helm again.

• All will be interested to learn that Bro. Fee has so far recovered that he has made a short business trip to Richmond. Even a dislocated shoulder cannot stop the indefatigable Jno. G. Fee.

• In the Essay Contest in the Forestry Class, the first prize, Hough's Elements of Forestry, was awarded to James Washburn, of Bracken County, KY. The second prize, Bryant's Forest-Tree Culturist, was won by T. T. Simmons of Florida.

• Prof. C. H. Poage, of Eliott Institute, Kirksville, KY, is said to be an applicant for the Berea school this year. Miss Kate Coddington, who has taught the school so faithfully for several years, seems to be the logical candidate for the position of Principal.

• The Lester mill has been sold to Josiah Burdette, who contemplates putting in a saw and otherwise extending his business. Such an industry should pay well here and will be a decided advantage to the town. If such employment could be furnished, many more young men could attend school here.

the response in Madison County," McConnell said. "Those on the frontlines of this crisis, including our first responders and healthcare heroes, deserve all the support we can provide. As Senate Majority Leader, I'm constantly working to deliver the resources to overcome the coronavirus crisis in Kentucky."

Taylor praised McConnell's leadership in helping the county receive additional funding in its fight against COVID-19.

"During these challenging times, I am thankful that Madison County and the citizens of Kentucky have such a strong leader in Leader McConnell," Taylor said.

"With his help and the support of our congressional delegation, these funds will aid in assisting to offset the impact of COVID-19 in our detention center."

Other organizations in Madison County have received more than $14.3 million as a result of the legislation, including $10.5 million for Eastern Kentucky University, $3.5 million for Berea College, $30,000 for Central Kentucky Regional Airport, $132,094 for Kentucky River Foothills Development Council, $128,042 for the Housing Authority of Richmond, and $20,720 for the Housing Authority of Berea.

Through Tuesday, the Madison County Health Department has recorded 78 cases of the coronavirus.

Choose love over hate

Keith Taylor
Publisher

I was raised in a Christian home. My dad was a minister of the gospel and my parents taught me to live by the Golden Rule.

They taught us to respect others no matter the color of skin or national origin. Dad preached wherever he could find a pulpit and a congregation willing to listen to his sermons. He mostly preached about Jesus and the importance of salvation in a person's life, sprinkled in with other biblical topics.

I can remember dad preaching in a house next to a railroad track in Berea that was converted into a temporary church. He preached and pastored at various places in Madison County, no matter the denomination and we followed him along the way, whether it was a storefront building or a church with a steeple.

My dad also evangelized and wasn't afraid to step into a black church to preach a sermon. The first such church I remember him ministering was at Rev. Turpin's church in downtown Richmond. I was moved as soon as I walked in the door. They knew how to have some church! They could sing through the walls and the amens were loud and vocal. The goosebumps were frequent and that let me know that God was near and not far away.

I know it's not always about those goosebumps and sometimes the message trumps the method of delivery when it comes to delivering a sermon.

Since that time, I became hooked on the style of the black church. I love to hear black spirituals and there's nothing like a good 'ole gospel song sang by the black church choir to lift your spirits. One of my favorite songs, "I Can't Even Walk" was sung by the late Charles Johnson and The Revivers. When I need to be reminded about Jesus' love for me, I just listen to that song on YouTube and it ministers to my heart and makes me more aware that we cannot walk through this life without the Lord holding our hands.

That's what we need in our society more than ever is simply walking with the Lord holding our hands. Even in the uncertain times that we live in, we need Jesus now more than ever before because, "Lord I can't even walk without you holding my hand. The mountains too high and the valleys too wide. Down on my knees, that's where I learned to stand. O Lord I can't even walk without you holding my hand."

Being a preacher's kid or PK as they say, was never an easy task. We had some rules under the roof we had to abide by, but we, as a family, never swayed from showing our love for others.

At times, I wondered what it was like to grow up in a "normal home" but I wouldn't trade my upbringing for anything in the world.

Dad and mom made sure we loved others as Jesus loved us no matter what. That's why I choose love over hate any day.

Our Platform

This paper aims to bring the best reading to every fireside. Reading is a great thing, but it makes a big difference what you read.

The Citizen brings, first of all, the news – not every tale of crime or horror, but the important news – the news from Washington and the State capital, from our soldiers in far off islands, from our neighbors everywhere. For the young folks we have a story and a Bible lesson; for housewives, a few new ideas each week which should lighten their labors; for the farmer some valuable hints which will help him to make more from his land and cattle.

We propose to get the best ideas that can be found on all such practical and important matters and pass them around among our readers. The resources of Berea College are not for its students alone. The editor of this paper can at any time step into the largest College library in the State, and he has engaged several of the most distinguished instructors in the College to take charge of special departments in the paper. Those who are visited by The Citizen will know what is going on in the world. Every week it will tell them something worth knowing.

The Citizen is pledged to no party. It is every man's friend. It stands for the things which benefit all – temperance, thrift, kindness, enterprise, and education. And we ask all who believe in these things to subscribe for The Citizen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Myers: Library good resource

Editor:

Just wanted to share with you.

The library is a wonderful resource to our community, but I use a service that I have found that not many people know about. Maybe not even the librarians themselves. I don't know.

The Berea library has an extended wi-fi signal that extends to the first row of parking spots in their lot and some of the Chestnut street parking spots too. What this means is that if you have your own laptop, you can use their signal even when they are not open, while sitting in your car or on one of the benches out front.

This little known fact is true for other public libraries in at least Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana that I have tried in the last year. All you need to know is the password to hop on.

Of course, it is good to remember that it is a public network, but it's quite useful for problem solving, research or communication with YouTube videos, zoom conferences, or webinars, because it is high speed and you don't use up monthly data allotments on your phone.

I probably should have shared this during our closed down COVID-19 time, and maybe some students could have gotten their work done faster, but I thought everyone knew about it.

Oh well, "better late than never," my Dad always said. Hope this helps others who cannot afford internet at home anymore.

I am sharing this, because I believe it is crucial for all of us to help each other succeed so we can "all get through this crisis time together."

Kathleen Myers, Berea

Workman: Say so!

Editor:

I have never been a politically-minded or active person, but maybe now is the time for me to be. When the silent majority stays silent, everyone is affected.

If you don't believe one party rule or in a two-party system or a President who says, "I wish we had a police state, say so. If you support unity, not division, say so!

If you believe in leadership, not rule, say so!

Eleanor Workman, Berea

Blair: Black lives matter

We will use our platform to amplify Black voices. We celebrate and elevate Black Art, Black Joy, Black Resilience.

We call for the end state-sanctioned violence, the liberation of Black people, and the end of white supremacy.

We stand in solidarity with all who call for equity and justice.

State mowing season now under way

FRANKFORT (KT) -- Mowing season is fully underway along Kentucky state highways with Kentucky Highway employees and contract crews mowing roadsides and removing litter on some highways as well.

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet is asking residents to do their part by keeping the state right of way clear of temporary signs and other obstacles that can obstruct the path of mowers and pose a hazard for mowing crews and motorists.

Any signs not officially permitted to be on state right-of-way will be removed. This includes political candidate signs. The signs that are collected will only be kept at the local county facility for a limited number of days.

Anyone wishing to collect their signage may arrange a pickup time by calling the local county facility.

Kentucky law prohibits placement of these unauthorized signs on state right of way.

The prohibition also applies to signs attached to utility poles on the right of way.

Mowing zones will be marked by appropriate signage ahead of and within the work area. Drivers are urged to slow down and watch for slow-moving tractors and support vehicles in areas where mowing or litter removal are ongoing.

In preparation for mowing, state crews will be removing obstacles such as fallen trees from the areas to be mowed.

Drivers should also watch out for crews clearing trees and brush.

These work zones will be marked with signage, with traffic controlled by flaggers where necessary.

Vapor emission detected in storage structure at BGAD

Blue Grass Chemical Agent-Destruction Pilot Plant air monitoring systems detected a vapor emission in a storage structure holding 155mm projectiles containing mustard agent Tuesday.

The equipment detected the vapor during a routine analysis of the atmosphere within the structure, known as a service magazine.

The service magazine includes a carbon filtration system, so the vapor emissions remained under engineering controls and did not enter the outside atmosphere. Additionally, no workers were exposed to chemical agent.

There is no danger or risk to Madison County citizens or surrounding counties. The Madison County Emergency Management Agency and the Commonwealth of Kentucky EMA were notified of the vapor emission.

More updates will be provided as they become available.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Kentucky men's basketball coach John Calipari took part in a NABC webinar on race relations recently.

Calipari speaks out against racial inequality

LEXINGTON (KT) — John Calipari is listening and learning.

The Kentucky coach took part in a discussion on race relations during a webinar sponsored by the National Association of Basketball Coaches. He joined former Oregon coach Ernie Kent, Houston coach Kelvin Sampson and Ron Hunter of Tulane. Frank Martin of South Carolina and Pat Chambers of Penn State also were part of the discussion.

Like many coaches, Calipari is trying to gain more understanding on the issues at hand and wants to help make a difference in improving race relations.

"People said I shouldn't talk — 'You don't understand, you don't get it.' That's why that statement, I understand I may never understand, but I stand with you," Calipari said. "But here's the thing I felt. All these players that have carried me and my family, I think I need to speak. All these players who have put me and my family and my children in that position, I think I need to speak. There will be people mad on both sides. They're mad I'm even saying anything. Have at it. I don't know what to say to you."

Sampson praised Calipari's interest in joining the fight against racism and inequality.

"(When) white people start fighting against racism, it becomes important to you," he said. "When it becomes more important to you than it is to us ... that's when I know we've got a chance."

Calipari hinted at pressing administrators at Kentucky to start a diversity fellowship program to help African-Americans succeed at the collegiate level.

"I come from a poor background," Calipari said. "Where I am now is based on African-American families trusting me with their child. Families of color trusting me with their child to dream their dreams, their hopes, their desires, and understand, and I feel it's important to step up with whatever comes back to me and really think this through.

"Now one of the things I can tell you is that police brutality and ideas of policing and the criminal justice system, I don't think I have the ability to influence," he said. "I can donate to those funds, which I do. But my area of influence — my little corner of where I can do something — is my own players, keeping them safe. Having security talking to my team. It's also about telling them they have a voice. Educate yourself."

Madison County Jailer Steve Tussey didn't waste any time responding to the first two cases of COVID-19 confirmed at the Madison County Detention Center last week.

After receiving confirmation from the Madison County Health Department that an employee had tested positive for the coronavirus, Tussey took action and contacted the Department of Corrections. Within four hours, "Upon notification of our first positive case, we took swift action to ensure the

BHRC funds restored

The Berea City Council adopted a stream-lined budget for 2020-2021, including a 20 percent cut in revenue projections. That could change if the revenues come in stronger than forecast, which could prompt several budget amendments over the course of the year, officials said.

Rebecca, left, and Samantha Moore enjoyed their frozen shaved ice treats outside the concession stand near the Berea Community football field Saturday morning.

Yeti Freeze please

A nice, frosty cool treat is a great way to beat the summertime heat, and Berea's newest business, Yeti Freeze aims to help locals tolerate the hot temperatures by offering up 16 tasty shaved ice concoctions.

Yeti Freeze is the brainchild of Todd and Erin Holbrook. After learning of the success of a similar operation in eastern Kentucky, the Holbrooks pitched the idea to city leaders and worked on plans for nearly a year before launching it a two weeks ago by renting concession stand space from the city of Berea.

"That's how we got started in Berea," Holbrook, a Berea native, said. "A friend in eastern Kentucky has a successful one, and we thought what a great way to get people to the park. Everyone is always looking for something to do with the kids, and the park is a great place."

It has been a hit with the locals, according to Holbrook. The first Saturday (June 6) of business saw Yeti go through 68 five-gallon buckets of ice.

Yeti Freeze owner Erin Holbrook served a customer last weekend.

Yeti Freeze is not a chain, and the name came about from a family vote, Holbrook joked.

Yeti Freeze sports 16 different shaved ice flavors, plus toppings such as fruit and sugary snow cap topping. The frozen treats come in three sizes, kids, regular and large. In addition to the shaved ice, Yeti also sells homemade popcorn and caramel corn at the concession stand near the Berea Community football field.

Yeti is open from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Fridays, and 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturdays.

"We hope to open one day during the week, maybe Tuesday, in the future," Erin said.

Body of teen found

The body of a 17-year-old Madison Central High School senior who went missing while swimming with friends in Herrington Lake six days ago was found late Tuesday.

Prewitt

According to Boyle County Emergency Management Director Mike Wilder, the recovery was made at 9:40 p.m.

Emanuel Prewitt had been swimming with a group of friends on Wednesday, June 10, near Gwinn Island. Prewitt and three of his friends were swimming across the lake to reach the island in an area known as Hog's Back. His friends reached the island but Prewitt did not.

The accident was called in at about 5:45 p.m. Wednesday. Wilder said several search and rescue boats from Boyle, Garrard and Mercer counties were on the water at 6:30 p.m. the evening of the accident.

Primary 2020

Voting the new normal way

Keith Taylor
Publisher

I voted and the May primary is Tuesday. That just sounds odd, but it's true.

If this year hasn't been strange enough because of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, going to the polls will be much different this year. Only three precincts will be open in Madison County for the 2020 version of the primary, but an added option this year was absentee voting provided for those who requested a ballot online.

Traditionally, absentee ballots were for voters who were not available to cast a vote during the May primary or November election. That tradition went out the door on New Year's Day.

Some may consider absentee voting is a little riskier when ballots are mailed to your residence and votes are cast — as was mine — from the comfort of my own couch, but at

KSP cancels Trooper Island camp

FRANKFORT (KT) - There's been another casualty due to the coronavirus pandemic as the Kentucky State Police announced Monday that the Trooper Island Kid's camp this summer has been cancelled.

It was supposed to be a celebration as state police planned to host the fifty-fifth year of the camp, but out of concern for safety, KSP Commissioner Rodney Brewer made the tough decision to cancel camp, but with a twist.

He challenged his Trooper Island Camp Staff to develop a free virtual camp that kids can attend by watching online via an electronic device or television.

The Trooper Island Camp, located on an island at Dale Hollow Lake in Clinton County, serves 700-800 underprivileged children each year.

The first episode airs on the KSP YouTube channel and the Trooper Island Facebook page https://www.facebook.com/TrooperIslandCamp/ on June 30 at 10 a.m. After that, there will be two episodes each week during the month of July for children to watch and participate in, featuring an activity that campers would do if they were at the island.

White House Clinics offering drive-up COVID-19 testing

White House Clinics is offering drive-up COVID-19 testing across the service area for patients and community members.

Stephanie Moore, CEO of White House Clinics says, "testing is essential to the success of public health efforts to slow the spread of disease and prevent outbreaks in our communities." Public health experts from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services agree that readily accessible testing is a critical component to "preventing and containing the spread of COVID-19" (HHS.gov).

Additional dates will be added regularly, so those interested in testing should check back frequently for updates.

The test is a PCR (viral) test which determines if someone has active COVID-19 infection. The test is completed through an anterior nasal swab which is a simple, shallow, pain-free swab just inside the opening of each nostril. With instructions from the testing team, participants self-collect test samples. PCR testing only determines if you currently have active COVID-19 infection. Results of a PCR test will not tell you if you had COVID-19 in the past and will not tell you if you will COVID- 19 in the future. Additionally, participants should be aware that the PCR test may not detect the virus until several days past the exposure. If test participants start to experience symptoms of COVID-19 please get re-tested or consult your Primary Care Provider.

COVID-19 testing is free; however, LabCorp will bill participants insurance, Medicare, or Medicaid for the processing of specimen. Most insurances cover COVID-19 testing with no out of pocket expense. LabCorp will receive reimbursement from the Federal Government for uninsured participants.

In addition to testing, White House Clinics strongly recommends social distancing, regular hand washing, and wearing a mask in public to help reduce the spread of disease. If you develop symptoms of COVID-19 (fever, cough, difficulty breathing), please contact your primary care provider for testing.

White House Clinics, is a federally qualified health center operating nine comprehensive community health centers in Jackson, Madison, Estill, Rockcastle, and Garrard Counties, Kentucky. Each year the 285+ member team provides comprehensive medical, dental, behavioral health, pharmacy, and enabling services to over 31,000 members of our communities. White House Clinics accepts Medicare, all Medicaid managed care plans, commercial insurance, and offers a sliding fee discount program for those with low income. For more information, visit www.whitehouseclinics.com.

White House Clinics is currently hiring for COVID-19 Drive-Up Testing Team positions. CNA qualifications are preferred, but clinical training is not required. Interested candidates may submit an application at www.whitehouseclinics.com/careers/.

Acts of violence condemned by BCS

BCS Superintedent

Berea Community Schools adamantly and unequivocally without reservation or hesitation condemns the killing of George Floyd by members of the Minneapolis Police Department.The killing of Mr. Floyd, and the callous manner in which it occurred are brutal and heart-wrenching reminders that we are all not equal under the law. The institutional racism which makes it easy for rogue police officers to kill unarmed African Americans is far too commonplace and pervasive in our society. Structural and systematic change must occur. Cultural competency, fair treatment and education can instill hope.

As educators and citizens we have a responsibility to do what we can to eliminate social injustice and institutional racism from the places where we work, and our society as a whole. At BCS, we have a moral and ethical obligation to educate our colleagues and students about the manifestations and impact of racial violence across our nation. As educators, we understand that our greatest and most effective method of changing the world is through the children we educate. Knowledge is power. Dr. King called education, "The Great Equalizer."

Our mission is to educate and provide opportunities for all students.

The challenge of educating African American students, others of color and all students for that matter is further exacerbated by persistent acts of violence, hate crimes, and killings based far too often on the color of one's skin and not the content of their character. Racism in America is in many ways more deadly than Covid-19. Pandemics come once every 100 years. Racism has existed in America since the country was founded on the backs of slaves. It is up to each of us to be intentional and vigilant as we endeavor to prepare our young people for adulthood in the world in which we live. We start with seeking first to understand, being proactive and engaging in honest conversations around race, equity and bias.

As a community and a public school district, we understand and embrace our role in dismantling structures of inequity, oppression, bigotry, prejudice, systemic discrimination and racism in our society. Every man, woman and child deserves to be treated with dignity and respect. Dr. King's statement that, "We must learn to live together as brothers or perish together as fools" speaks volumes at a time like this. Ours is a society built on the principle of the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The killings of unarmed persons by the police are gross violations of that principle. We join the call for justice being felt and heard across the world by those who seek the prosecution of the officers involved in the dastardly killing of Mr. Floyd and an end to hate-filled and bigoted acts that demean, intimidate, belittle, castigate and/or sadly kill others. Love is needed in the society in which we live. We are committing to minority recruitment, facilitating dialogue with students, parents, faculty and staff; in addition to providing mentoring and professional development on cultural responsiveness and diversity.

We are at a pivotal time in our nation's history. BCS extends our heartfelt sympathies to the Floyd Family, the Arbery Family, the Taylor Family and all who have endured loved ones being ripped from their families because of cruel and heinous acts of violence against African Americans. May our communities and our nation choose love over hate.

Now is the time for all of America to wake up before it is too late; to listen, to learn, educate, dialogue, take action to right wrongs, and most of all to show love, respect and compassion toward one's fellow man, woman or child. Whether black, brown, yellow, red or white, All lives matter! Stay healthy! Stay safe! Be a good neighbor! Remember, no matter the time or the place always aim high and dare to be great!

Sincerely,
Dr. Diane Hatchett, Superintendent
Berea Community Schools

Lessons from cows and horses

Roger Alford

My coon hunting buddy Barry Bishop passed along a story the other day about a long line of people who had gathered early one morning outside a grocery store waiting for it open.

A young man came rushing from the parking lot and tried to cut to the front of the line, but an old lady tore into him with her umbrella, chasing him back to his car.

Not to be deterred, the young man tried again, but an old geyser bashed him over the head with his cane.

As he approached the third time, he said, "If you don't let me unlock the door, you'll never get in there."

Barry comes up with some good ones, and, while he gave us a good laugh with that old joke, he also provided us a good lesson. Sometimes, in our rush to judgment, we reach wrong conclusions about people. Sometimes, we might feel like all the character traits the Bible holds dear seem to be in short supply nowadays.

I'm glad we still have lots of people who shine the light of Christ through their behavior. The Bible tells us in Titus 1:7 that one of the key characteristics of good men is that they're given to hospitality.

Most of us learned hospitality by watching the previous generation of people who absolutely loved to see company coming, whether it was a neighbor up the road or a relative from another state. The first thing our parents and grandparents did when company dropped in was to make sure they were well fed. The first question always involved food. Depending on the time of day, they'd ask if their visitor had had breakfast, dinner or supper. If there was even a hint of hesitancy, they'd be treated to a feast.

I love hospitable people. If you read your Bible very much, you'll find that many of the men and women were wholly given to hospitality. Abraham would pitch his tent in such a way that he could see any travelers coming. He'd sit out in the evening and watch for them. If they showed up, he'd direct his servants to butcher and prepare an entire beef to feed them.

Strangely, what got me thinking about hospitality was a herd of cattle that grazes in a pasture along one of my favorite jogging routes. I've never seen such a friendly bunch. They come just as quickly as they can to the fence to offer their bovine greetings when I pass by. I can't help but moo back from time to time. Then, there's the horse that almost never fails to lift his head and offer a greeting. That horse loves seeing company coming.

I was thinking how wonderful the world would be if people were to live up to the biblical call on their lives and be even half as friendly as those cows and that horse.

I know that most people in our part of the country are hospitable. But, I'm also sadly aware that there are those who would be more prone to swat us with their umbrellas or canes than to flash a friendly smile or offer a warm word of welcome.

If those sorts would take a jog with me, I could show them some happy cows and a big lug of a horse that could show them what hospitality means.

FROM OUR READERS

Jones: Shoutout to the Library

To the Editor:

As the Madison County Public Library begins to reopen, I want to give a shoutout to the dedicated, excellent Berea and Richmond staffs who have worked for the past three months to serve local readers while the library building was closed. Through fulfilling holds via lockers and making available a wide range of electronic materials, our library has kept patrons well-supplied with timely and timeless readings and viewings. While friends in other cities lamented their loss of good books, I and many others were able to spend pandemic time in meaningful and even joyful ways, thanks to our library. We are lucky to live in a community where people go the extra mile. Hats off to the Madison County Public Library!

Morris: College letter countered

Dear Editor:

We read with interest in recent editions of the Citizen a stern condemnation of a well-documented form of protected political speech; an ominous warning as to the dangers of reopening arbitrarily shuttered churches; and a tedious letter to the editor ostentatiously signed by (it seemed) every single individual ever associated with Berea College, evoking the name of Dred Scott as a means of hectoring us rubes into genuflecting, Drew Brees-style. What a difference a couple of weeks can make.

In those proceeding weeks, we have witnessed the evaporation of the Wuhan Flu spectre (street mobs and continued empty hospital wards being too contra-narrative to report on with a straight face for even the most compliant of media accomplices); and the legitimizing of rioters and brigands as long as their cause is appropriately cloaked in nebulous calls for "CHANGE!" and "JUSTICE!"

When a violent movement whose catchphrase slogan, "Hands up, don't shoot!" has long since been revealed to have been predicated upon a fraud is suddenly granted unquestionable validity; an unmasked(!), race baiting demagogue Gov. Andrew Beshear is photographed casually canoodling with a throng of tightly packed sycophants; and a moral authority such as Berea College lectures us about the injustice of Dred Scott vs. Sandford, while simultaneously embracing the heinous deaths of millions of black babies via Roe v. Wade; it should then come as no surprise when increasing numbers of sober Kentuckians see right through these Maoists with their creepy "Cultural Revolution" purges, and whatever credibility the Democrat Party may have had left with these citizens is deservedly forfeited.

Hubbard: Kentucky a good team

Dear Editor:

I feel fortunate to live in Berea and in Kentucky, with a loving church family and with my family in Kentucky. My friends in other states call me (and ask): "What can we do to get your Governor?" I welcome the news at 4 and 5 p.m. each weekday, hearing the doctors and scientists, like Dr. Steven Stack and Dr. Eric Friedlander urging us (what) to do, even strongly showing us to stay well for ourselves and our family, and repeatedly say, "this is not the flu, this is a serious disease." I'm a restored nurse and I'd be more strict and I was trained in knowledge of diseases and transmission. Our Eastern coast states and southern states , like Florida are facing many more cases and deaths. Dr. Steve Slack estimates we've already saved several hundred deaths with the way we have tackled this virus here in Kentucky. I think florida was more concerned with keeping their beaches open to students coming back during break, rather than the outcome to health and safety. I applause my Kentucky state with the care that we've had. We're a good team.

Larry Dobson, Berea

"The first car I bought for myself was a 1974 Cadillac Fleetwood Brougham 60 series."

David Seals, Berea

"1973 full size Ford Mustang. It had black interior, 3-speed and I gave $1200 for it."

Karen Todd, Berea

"My first car was a 1977 MG Midget. It was white, a convertible, it had a manual transmission and I'd got it from Jimmy Upton. I kept it for 10 years."

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Beginner

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Answer: Conor McGregor

Did you know?

Foods don't get much more coveted than a scoop or two of delicious ice cream on a hot day. Ice cream comes in scores of different flavors. Just ask Baskin Robbins®, which has long touted its own 31 flavors — a different flavor for every day of the month of July. Even though there seems to be a flavor for everybody these days, certain palate-pleasers remain more popular than others. According to an August 2019 survey conducted by ProdegeMR, a provider of people-driven insights for the market research industry, chocolate was consumers' preferred ice cream flavor in Canada, with 23 percent of survey respondents indicating it was their favorite. The International Dairy Foods Association indicates that Americans favor a different flavor of ice cream. In the United States, vanilla is the flavor of choice, perhaps because vanilla goes with everything and can enhance so many other desserts and treats. As popular as vanilla ice cream is, cookies and cream is being scooped up more and more, and is the most popular flavor in 14 different states.

COUNCIL

"All departments were hit when you look at a 20% decline, and I am hopeful that those [revenue] numbers won't be that bad, but we really don't know at this point," Fraley said during Tuesday's teleconferenced business meeting. "So I would ask everyone to be patient with us. We're going to make sure that the things that need to be done and have to be done get done, but the budgeting process this year has been difficult to say the least."

The administration is projecting $2.7 million less in revenue next year, including $1.8 million less in occupational license fees or payroll taxes, approximately $317,000 less in net profit fees, $170,000 less in fees on insurance and $140,000 less in franchise fees, among others cuts. Revenue shortfalls are due to the economic slowdown related to the Covid-19 pandemic.

As a result of the predicted revenue shortfall, department heads and the city administration sharply cut operating costs. Budgeted General Fund expenditures are estimated to be $13 million in 2020-2021, down from $16 million in the previous year.

Once again this year, the budget for the Berea Human Rights Commission (BHRC) was a point of contention. In previous meetings, the BHRC budget for 2020-2021 was zeroed out after it was revealed that the body had spent $250 of its $4,000 allocation at the time budget hearings occurred.

BHRC's unspent funds have been an issue in previous budget discussions. In 2017, the commission's budget was reduced from $12,000 to $5,000 because its budget had gone largely unspent for the previous three years. The issue came up again in last year's discussion when council reduced the BHRC budget from $8,000 to $4,000, of which $250 was spent. At the time, then-BHRC Chair Mim Pride noted that the commission had fielded three or four human rights complaints over the course of the year.

During the most recent budget discussions, Fraley emphasized the city will continue operating the BHRC, but that some of its daily functions would be handled through Zinnia Hensley, the social services coordinator with the Berea Police Department.

On Tuesday, Berea City Council Audit and Finance Chair Steve Caudill moved to amend the BHRC's budget to $500. "This would allow them to cover all the costs that they've had for the last year. If there are issues of them needing more funding, we can look at that based on our revenue projections as the year goes on," Caudill said.

Councilmember Emily LaDouceur disagreed, however, offering an amendment to reduce the $30,000 payment to the Madison County Fiscal Court for animal control by $10,000, then reallocate that money to the Berea Human Rights Commission.

Part of LaDouceur's request was based on the fact the fiscal court had not provided service data as promised.

LaDouceur also suggested the recent events relating to police treatment of African Americans, combined with the recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling on discrimination against LGBTQ citizens, would create a larger workload for the BHRC, and thus create a need for more funding.

"We're watching black people being indiscriminately murdered around the nation and in our state. These are human rights issues that are pressing and the commission is needed now more than ever," LaDouceur said.

Caudill voiced concern about reneging on an agreement with the county, however, suggesting he wouldn't want the fiscal court to go back on the contract to pay Berea for providing fire protection in southern Madison County.

LaDouceur's motion was rejected in a 7-1 vote.

Caudill's original motion to refund the BHRC passed unanimously, and the budget passed in a 6-2 vote, with LaDouceur and David Rowlette casting dissenting votes. Rowlette stated he voted against the budget because he wanted to see better funding for infrastructure, and because he hoped to see more streamlining of city government.

In other buisness

- The council approved a measure to send an engagement letter to the Baldwin auditing firm in Richmond for the city's annual financial assessment. Caudill noted he would consult with the auditors, then report his findings to the Audit and Finance Committee, or council could hold a teleconference meeting.
- Also reported Tuesday, city departments are working together in preparation for the 4th of July fireworks show at Berea City Park.

The fireworks show will go forward, but no other regular events associated with the holiday will be taking place, and social distancing will be strong encouraged, officials said.

The next Berea City Council meeting is slated for July 7.

Carol Barr, the wife of U.S. Rep. Andy Barr, died suddenly Tuesday night at their home in Lexington. (Facebook photo)

Carol Barr, wife of Congressman Andy Barr, dies unexpectedly

LEXINGTON, Ky. (KT) - Carol Leavell Barr, the wife of U.S. Rep. Andy Barr, passed away suddenly Tuesday at the family home in Lexington.

"During this tragic time, we respectfully ask for privacy for Congressman Barr and his family to grieve Mrs. Barr being called home to heaven," a statement released from Barr's office said Tuesday night. She was 39.

According to the release, Barr "may release a more detailed statement at a later date, but right now is solely focused on being a father to his two beautiful daughters."

Barr's wife, Carol, leaves behind daughters Eleanor and Mary Clay Barr. Andy Barr is running for re-election in Tuesday's primary.

The Barrs were married in 2008.

Mac Brown, the chairman of the Republican Party of Kentucky, said "our hearts go out to the Barr family at this tragic news.

"While there are no words that can heal the pain of losing a loved one, we pray together that God will comfort Congressman Andy Barr, their daughters, and the entire family through this very difficult time," Brown said.

Gov. Andy Beshear expressed condolences on Twitter.

"Britainy and I are heartbroken for U.S. Rep. Andy Barr and his family tonight at the sad news of the unexpected passing of the congressman's wife, Carol. We are praying for the Barr family."

U.S. Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell also offered words of comfort to the Barr family.

"Elaine and I are stunned and heartbroken at the news of Carol's passing. Her warmth filled whatever room she entered and her contributions made Kentucky a better place for all of us," he wrote in an email. "And to Eleanor and Mary Clay, Carol was a wonderful role model and source of constant love.

"We send our sincere condolences to Andy, their family and his staff at this terribly painful time."

Amy McGrath, Barr's former opponent in the Sixth Congressional District, said she would have Barr's family in her prayers.

"My heart goes out to Andy and his two daughters over the tragic loss of Carol," she said. "While we were political competitors, we are Kentuckians first," McGrath said. "I hope they feel the love of many and we wish him great strength during this very trying time."

State unemployment woes easing

FRANKFORT, (KT) — It was intended to be a protest at the Capitol by people who have not received their unemployment, but ended up being a problem-solving session, with some people whose filings were held up being corrected on the spot.

Gov. Andy Beshear said on Monday that since the coronavirus pandemic began, 167,420 people filed for unemployment in March, and 7,566 are still unresolved. April saw 429,056 filings with 27,507 contested. May had 295,879 people seeking unemployment benefits, 17,619 of whom are still waiting for their first check. The three-month total is 892,355 filers and 52,684 who haven't received benefits.

Katie King of Nicholasville was among those who were seeking help. She lost two jobs in the food service industry on March 17 and has not seen a penny. Although she returned to work two weeks ago in another work field, she was seeking back benefits for ten weeks of unemployment.

"One job closed down, the other never put me on the schedule, so my claim has been under investigation since day one," she said. "My employer said they put me on the schedule, and I have proof that I was no longer on the schedule."

She said she did not harbor ill feelings for unemployment workers. "I understand that they are overwhelmed and that there's not enough people, but I'm broke. I had to borrow money to pay my bills, now I'm having to pay that money back."

Tamaria McKinley of Lexington said she was there to support her fellow unemployed. "My account has hopefully been fixed as of Monday, but I feel there are a lot of people hurting and a lot of people who are losing everything. They lose their cars, so they can't get to work. Then, they lose their home."

One person who was helped was Kelsi Stewart of Bardstown. "My husband I were laid off at the same time for three months. We weren't ready for that. I'm a server and a full-time student. I'm 26-years old and I'm having a baby in six weeks. We've been living off my maternity leave money and it's starting to get stressful."

She continued, "I think it's all processed and going through."

Paige Johnston of Lexington was another person who came to protest but ended up having her situation resolved. She said her unemployment claim from April 21 has been under investigation. "I got my first check and I got the CARES Act money, but when I went to file my second bi-weekly claim, I answered one of the questions wrong."

safety of all staff and inmates by requesting immediate testing," Tussey said. "We cannot thank the team at White House Clinics enough for their willingness to partner with us in getting expedited testing at our facility."

The Madison County Health Department is contact tracing all positive cases.

"The Madison County Detention Center team has used the utmost caution throughout the pandemic to mitigate the spread of COVID-19 in our facility," Tussey said. "All employees and outside vendors entering the jail are temperature tested, wear proper PPE including face coverings, and are asked the standard CDC COVID-19 questions. In addition, inmates upon intake are temperature tested and complete CDC COVID-19 questions as well as are quarantined for 14 days before entering general population and have been using technology instead of in person visits for family and legal communication."

Currently, the Department of Corrections suspended the transport of prisoners to other facilities. In addition, the jail may not refuse intake of inmates simply due to a positive test in the Detention Center. For this reason, there will be no change in COVID-19 intake procedure. Local and state law enforcement agencies have been briefed regarding intake procedures.

Since the pandemic began, the Detention Center has seen reduced numbers of inmates due to the cooperation of local law enforcement and the judicial branch. White House Clinic tested all employees and inmates at the detention center, Overall, 296 were tested, including 262 inmates at the facility. Also, 34 employees also were tested for the virus.

At 8:30 a.m. Friday, all tests were received from the lab and one inmate tested positive for COVID-19. According to a release, the individual has had no contact with anyone outside the facility. The employee and inmate have been quarantined for 14 days and the employee won't return for duty until a secondary test is confirmed as negative.

Through Tuesday, 91 cases of the coronavirus have been reported in Madison County and 67 of those have recovered.

A total of 203 new cases of the coronavirus and seven virus-related deaths were reported by Gov. Andy Beshear on Tuesday.

The total number of cases has risen to at least 12,829 since the first case in Kentucky was reported in early March.

The deaths currently are at 512.

least to me, the process made it difficult to turn in a fraudulent ballot, which had to be requested online.

The instructions were simple and required two signatures by the voter. For those who needed assistance during the absentee process, proof via signature of the assisting party was required on the ballot. For me, reading the instructions for a second and third time proved to be very helpful just to make sure the ballot wouldn't be tossed when it arrived at the Madison County Courthouse.

The deadline to request an absentee ballot was Monday and precinct voting remains an option for those wishing to cast their vote the traditional way on Tuesday. Thanks to technology, gathering results in the past few years has been relatively easy, but it will require more patience this time around, because it will take time for workers in the Madison County Clerk Kenny Barger's office to tally the votes, especially the absentee ballots.

I still prefer going to the polls to cast my vote and taking part in the annual Kiwanis Pancake Breakfast on Election Day, but given the current circumstances because of the coronavirus, providing an alternative for the voters is the right thing to do until the virus subdues and a vaccine is discovered to keep all of us safe and secure.

Whether you cast an absentee ballot or will be doing it in person on Tuesday, it's still important to vote and let your voice be known. It's part of the democratic process and one that shouldn't be taken for granted no matter the circumstances.

Your vote counts now more than ever, especially during a pandemic.

UK season opener moved to Sept. 3; Couch named to Hall of Fame ballot

LEXINGTON (KT) — Kentucky will open the season on time and two days earlier than originally planned.

The Wildcats were scheduled to open the season against Eastern Michigan on Sept. 5 but the contest has been moved to Sept. 3 at Kroger Field to accommodate a crowded weekend that includes the 146th edition of the Kentucky Derby slated to run on Sept. 5 at Churchill Downs in Louisville. Kickoff will be announced at a later date.

The ongoing COVID-19 pandemic forced Kentucky Derby officials to move the yearly race from the first Saturday in May to September. It marks the first time since 1945 and the second time in history the Derby has been moved outside of the month of May.

For just the eighth time in school history, Kentucky will play a contest on Thursday and the first since Oct 15, 2015 when the Wildcats hosted Auburn.

Kentucky is 2-0 in games played against the Eagles and defeated Eastern Michigan in 2017 and 2019.

Although spring practice was mostly wiped out because of the coronavirus, Kentucky coach Mark Stoops feels good about his team.

"It's always a work in progress and we're constantly trying to evolve and do better things, do the best we can," he said. "I don't think there's any doubt it's just like the recruiting process. These guys got to go back. The guys we are recruiting are juniors in high school right now, and sophomores, and freshmen. They don't know anything about Kentucky other than going to the bowl games and winning the last two and playing exciting football, so that helps us."

Under Stoops, the Wildcats have made four consecutive appearances and defeated Virginia Tech 37-30 in the Belk Bowl last December in Charlotte. Stoops said the team's culture is starting to turn the corner.

"(The) climate is easy to change, (but the) culture is different," Stoops said. "(The) culture is in our community that goes back 100 years but I don't want to hear any of that anymore. We're going forward and we want to continue to push forward and just say I do appreciate the support."

Stoops added that he wants to see the team's support to "go to another level" moving forward.

"I ask the fans to continue to support us, to continue to buy season tickets, to make that investment," he said. "When I say it takes all of us, please don't take it as a cliché. It's true, it takes a great investment by a lot of people to be consistently successful in the SEC and that's what we want to do.

"We need the fans, we need the people in the upper decks, we need the stadiums full and we'll continue to take it to another level. I promise our coaches and our players are working that way and we're proud of the work we've done. We know that there's a lot more to do and we're excited about that challenge but I also challenge other people to continue to invest in it because we need it."

COUCH ON BALLOT

Former Kentucky quarterback Tim Couch has been named to the 2021 College Football Hall of Fame ballot announced by the National Football Foundation and the College Hall of Fame.

Couch played at Kentucky from 1996-98 and was the top pick in the 1999 NFL by the Cleveland Browns. Couch was named Southeastern Conference Player of the Year after throwing for 4,275 yards and 36 touchdowns during his junior season with the Wildcats.

Couch led Kentucky to new heights during his three seasons and helped lead the Wildcats to their first New Year's Day appearance in 47 years in 1999, a 26-14 loss to Penn State in the Outback Bowl.

Although a highly sought prep standout out of Leslie County, Couch opted to play for the Wildcats.

"I chose to play for my home-state school because I grew up a Kentucky fan and I dreamed of playing for the Cats my whole life," Couch said. "I wanted to stay home and make an impact for the school I grew up rooting for."

Coleman signs with Yankees

LEXINGTON (KT) — Former Kentucky relief pitcher Carson Coleman has signed a contract with the New York Yankees.

The redshirt junior pitcher graduated last month and opted to sign with the Yankees and begin his professional career. Coleman, a former standout at Lexington Catholic, was drafted by the Tampa Bay Rays in the 33rd round of the Major League Draft last year, but returned to campus.

Coleman made a mark during his collegiate career as one of the top relief pitchers on the team's roster. During his career, Coleman struck out 81 hitters in 53.2 innings and had a 5-5 record, collected five saves and a 4.19 earned run average.

Coleman was inducted into the Frank G. Ham Society of Character earlier this year for his community service and academic excellence.

New York selected University of Arizona catcher Austin Wells in the opening round of the draft. Wells was the 28th player taken in the draft.

Too many Kentuckians are falling through the cracks right now. I will be an advocate for our community. We need leaders bold enough to represent everyday people. People before politics. I promise to serve and uplift my community in Frankfort.

Feb. 25, 1982: Berea Citizen archives

By Becky Brown
Citizen Writer

A picture of Pearl Baker reading her Bible is featured on the front page. Mrs. Baker was an 83-year-old woman living independently in an apartment. She had a pacemaker, her hearing was failing and she did not have full use of her left arm and hand due to a stroke.

"I have fallen at least 50 times since I have lived in this apartment," she said.

Stories like Mrs. Baker's were the reason Berea Hospital Auxiliary installed the emergency response system, Lifeline.

The system made it possible for elderly people to continue living on their own, because it allowed those individuals to call the emergency-response center with the press of a button.

Auxiliary members said all the money raised at the annual Golf and Tennis benefit would go towards buying the equipment for the system.

Craft Fair makes debut

The first Berea Craft Fair was July 16-18 at Indian Fort Theater. The fair featured over 100 makers from across the eastern U.S. Admission was $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children. Berea Craft Enterprise Inc. organized the event. Lila Bellando, president of Churchill Weavers, was the president of Berea Craft Enterprise as well. Garry Barker was Vice President, Rude Osolnik was the treasurer, and Joseph Osolnik was the corporate process agent.

Grand opening

TG&Y Family Center had its grand opening March 4, and a ribbon cutting ceremony at 8:45 a.m.

Better place

The executive director of the local Red Cross Chapter, Gladys Parker was featured on the front page in a series that highlighted people in Berea who made the city a better place.

Lovern speaks

Yvonne Lovern informed readers about the importance of a device rising in popularity, the smoke alarm.

She urges readers to get multiple smoke detectors for their home, because the alarm informs families of danger in the earliest stages of a fire.

Officers elected

At the annual shareholders meeting of the Peoples Bank and Trust Co., officers were elected for 1982. Larry Harrison was elected to the board of directors. Rick Neikirk was elected secretary to the board. Robert K. Thompson was elected trust officer.

Brinkley visits

Journalist, Joel Brinkley, spoke at Phelps Stokes Chapel on how to keep journalists honest through the help of ethics and laws. The Courier-Journal reporter was in town as Berea College's convocation speaker. Brinkley won the Pulitzer Prize for "Living the Cambodian Nightmare", a four part series.

Home damaged in fire

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Powell Jr.'s home on Guinn Rd. burned down, the house and all of its contents were destroyed. The fire was caused by a faulty fireplace f l u e. The fire became apparent around 3:30 a.m. and the family fortunately escaped their burning home.

VOTE FOR AMY McGRATH
in the DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

Amy and Mitch are neck-and-neck in the polls, and she's closed the monumental fundraising gap thanks to support from Kentuckians in all 120 counties.

Amy poses the greatest political threat Mitch has seen in his 35 years in the Senate, and she is ready to give him the challenge of his career.

She has had her boots on the ground listening and learning. She will deliver changes in health care, education, and economic opportunity that address racial and social inequities that have endured for far too long. That's the kind of senator that Kentuckians deserve.

Send Amy to the Senate, and she'll get things done for Kentucky.

This week in history

What could be a bigger treat than a summertime, roller coaster ride? That fistful of fun debuted June 16, 1884 on Coney Island--home of the amusement park—and some say-- the hot dog, too.

Twenty-first century entertainment festivals boast of blood-curdling, high-speed rides that challenge the imagination, and one's facility to hold down food. But, when it was decided to update Coney Island's 1927 Cyclone, the wooden structure was kept intact, and the speed was capped at 60 mph.

Adventuresome or risk adverse, the roller coaster is an integral part of American history. The Grateful American Book Prize recommends Scott Rutherford's The American Roller Coaster.

• On July 17, 1885, the Statue of Liberty arrived in New York Harbor. It was a gift from France, America's staunch ally during the Revolutionary War. Even though more than a century had passed since the Colonies had become an independent nation, France still chose to honor the United States and its exemplary democracy.

Designed by sculptor Frederic-Auguste Bartholdi, and engineer Gustave Eiffel (Tower), the colossus arrived in "erector set" pieces--packed in 200 crates--that took more than a year to re-assemble. Lady Liberty was dedicated by President Grover Cleveland on October 28, 1886 at a ceremony on Bedloe's Island, now known as Liberty Island, in New York Harbor.

The Grateful American Book Prize recommends Yasmin Sabina Khan's Enlightening the World: The Creation of the Statue of Liberty.

State campground services expanded

FRANKFORT (KT) - Kentucky State Park campgrounds, which due to COVID-19 restrictions reopened Thursday only to self-contained campers and RVs, have now expanded services and access.

To protect the health and safety of park guests and staff from the coronavirus, reopening guidelines restricted the use of campgrounds to self-contained campers and RVs due to the closure of bathhouses.

After further consultation with state public health officials, it was determined that state park campground bathhouses could safely be reopened for visitor use.

They are also allowing the use of tent camping and pop-up campers.

Some restrictions and closures remain in place at the state park system, however:

• To limit interaction with staff, guests should download prior to arrival the ReserveAmerica Camping app to use for check-in, once you arrive at your camping destination. The app is available on Google Play and the Apple App Store.

• There is a limit of two visitors per campsite.

• Playgrounds, swimming pools and beaches are still closed.

• There are no picnic shelter rentals, as the parks practice the public health recommendations restricting gatherings to 10 people or less. That may change by the end of the month, as state guidance will increase the size of gatherings to 50 or less.

• State park golf courses are open, but with restrictions. They include closing pro shops to drive thru service only and spacing tee times 20 minutes apart.

Golf cart rentals can only have one person per cart unless they are family members.

The golf courses have removed bunker rakes and made modifications to the flagsticks to help eliminate the spreading of the virus.

• State park guests are encouraged to wear masks, practice social distancing and follow the other CDC-recommended guidelines listed at KYcovid19.ky.gov

Tourism officials suggest those who are planning on visiting a Kentucky state park should call in advance to check on hours and to find out what is open.

State Fair scaled back

FRANKFORT (KT) - Gov. Andy Beshear announced earlier this week that due to the coronavirus, a scaled-back Kentucky State Fair will be allowed to take place this year at the fairgrounds in Louisville, and one major sponsor announced Friday their plans to deal with the restrictions.

During a press briefing on Tuesday, Beshear announced his administration approved a proposal to allow the Kentucky State Fair to take place.

"We have approved the state fair proposal. It will look very different this year, but the main thing is that we are keeping the agricultural competition and so many of the things that make the fair great," he said.

"However, the fair will not be able to use the portion of the Expo Center that houses our state field hospital. We are nowhere close to needing it, but we do not want to take it down and then need it later."

The Kentucky Farm Bureau has pledged to return and support the event with a strong presence focusing on the fair's rural and agricultural roots, but some of the events they sponsor will not take place due to COVID-19 social distancing restrictions and the state's use of the Expo Center.

Those include the annual Country Ham Breakfast and Charity Auction, the Gospel Music Showcase and the Pride of the Counties display area.

Farm Bureau President Mark Haney said while it is disappointing to have to make changes to these events, having a strong presence at the fair has never been in question.

"The Kentucky State Fair has always been an exciting event, not only for me personally but also for nearly everyone I know who has had the privilege of attending one of the best state fairs in the country," he said.

"And while we are obligated for safety reasons to make changes this year, KFB still plans to have a strong presence at the 2020 state fair, including having Freddy Farm Bureau in his usual place, in front of Freedom Hall, for the 63rd year in a row. There are just some traditions, even a pandemic can't change."

In the coming weeks, the Farm Bureau will announce its participation plans for 2020 as the group continues its long-standing relationship with the fair and the Kentucky State Fair Board.

"We are hopeful this year's state fair will bring new opportunities to a tradition that has lasted for generations, and we look forward to celebrating all things good about Kentucky," Haney added.

He also noted they are looking forward to reinstating in 2021 the activities cancelled for this year.

The Kentucky State Fair will be Aug. 20-30.

Court reviews solar power rules

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

The Madison County Fiscal Court approved the initial reading of an ordinance that would allow for commercial solar facilities to operate in designated county zones. The measure was heard Tuesday during a teleconference meeting of the court.

The proposed ordinance would not affect property owners who want to use solar power for their homes. Instead, the law would apply to property owners seeking to build facilities that will collect, store or transmit solar energy for commercial sale.

Under the proposed regulations, commercial solar energy facilities would be allowed as a conditional use in the following sub-districts and zones: UC3 Neighborhood Commercial, UC4 General Commercial, UC7 Urban Agriculture, RC 3

Voters cast ballots

Turnout 6 percent, most voted absentee

By Keith Taylor
Citizen Publisher

It was business as usual at Silver Creek Elementary School Tuesday as voters cast ballots in the delayed May primary election.

Madison County Clerk Kenny Barger said voter turnout was at 6 percent Tuesday but added approximately 19,000 absentee ballots have been cast and he expects to receive more mailed-in ballots before Saturday's deadline. The State Board of Elections has given clerks a deadline of 6 p.m. Tuesday to turn in their final tally and Barger said he could have his completed prior to the deadline.

"We've already got 27 percent that requested a (mail-in) ballot," he said. "That's higher than any primary we've had in the last 15 years. Most have already voted with the paper ballot. It's a big adjustment. Normally we have about 1,000 absentees, this time we've got almost 19,000."

Barger said the process of counting absentees requires time, but added his staff can count up to "3,000 or 4,000" ballots per day.

The primary was postponed last month because of the COVID-19 pandemic and voters had the option of requesting an absentee ballot or voting in person on Tuesday at three locations in Madison County. In addition to Silver Creek, votes were cast at Clark-Moores Middle School and Boonesborough Elementary School.

"It was very smooth," Silver Creek poll worker Warren Swope said. "We had a lot of folks come in and we had a pretty good turnout. We were constant all day and we had very little down time. It went very smooth with the set up that we had (Tuesday)."

(The Citizen/Keith Taylor)

Barger agreed.

"It went really well as far as I can tell," he said. "People had a lot of questions, but that's natural because we were doing it differently than we ever had. We didn't have problems."

Barger said he could

Wife gives lazy husband reason to lie at home

When the lawnmower broke, a fellow told how his wife kept hinting that he should get it fixed. That fellow kept putting it off, and the grass kept growing taller and taller. Then, one day she came up with what she thought was a clever way to get her point across. The fellow arrived home and found her sitting in the tall grass, clipping away with a pair of scissors.

The fellow watched for a little while and then went into the house, retrieved a toothbrush, and handed it to her. "When you finish the grass," he said, "you might as well sweep the driveway."

Roger Alford

The doctor says he'll be able to walk again, but he'll likely always have a bad limp.

That's another tale from my friend Barry Bishop. I think he got it from some of his fellow coon hunters. It makes quite the point about having the right tool for the right job. We generally wouldn't cut our grass with scissors, nor would we sweep our driveway with a toothbrush. But, you know, God put some unlikely tools into the hands of his people through the generations to accomplish great things.

You may remember that Samson, the strongman of the Old Testament, was surrounded by an army of Philistines bent on killing him. Samson had no weapon, but he found the jawbone of a donkey on the ground. He grabbed that bone and killed 1,000 Philistines, winning a victory so notable that it was recorded for all generations to read about in the Bible.

Then, there was the time that Gideon and his small band of men, greatly outnumbered, skipped conventional weapons and defeated the Philistine army using trumpets, clay jars and torches. The Philistines were so frightened by the noise of the trumpets and the breaking jars that they ran away into the darkness in one of the most humbling defeats in military history.

Neither Samson nor Gideon won those battles under their own power. God enabled and empowered them. God propelled them to victory. If you could ask either of those men today, they'd tell you the Lord proved himself wonderfully faithful in their lives.

I'm sure each of us can look back over our lives and see just how busy the Lord has been in giving us victory after victory in the struggles we've faced. And he'll continue to do just that.

So, you say, the fellow with the broken lawnmower and the angry wife got a raw deal. Well, at least he can still walk.

Roger Alford is pastor of South Fork Baptist Church. Reach him at 502-514-6857 or rogeralford1@gmail.com.

Facebook feedback

Did you vote absentee or are did you to go to the polls on Tuesday? What are the pros and cons of absentee voting?

(I'm) going to the polls with my daughter, who will cast her vote and make her voice heard for the first time.

— Kerry Cummins

My husband and I voted absentee ballot and mailed it in. We were very glad we were allowed to vote that way. We would not have gone to the polls and stood in line and we also didn't want to go vote in person early. This was a good option for us."

— Judy Drake Short

In a time of pandemic, the safety of absentee voting was most important to me. The ability to get a ballot and send it in on my own schedule was an added bonus.

— Laura Gardner Heyman

Going to polls, I personally think that people should vote at the polls and show ID.

— James Stinnett

Absentee ballot, and was glad to have the option. I believe this will help remove barriers to voting for many who might not make it to the polls otherwise.

— Rebecca Wheat

Absentee, and thankful I have that option. It should be available for every election. Not only is it safer during the pandemic, but it also allows people who would not otherwise be able to get to the polls to vote. I'm glad the people who prefer voting in person have the option to do what makes them most comfortable, and only wish they all felt the same about those of us for whom voting by mail is a better option.

— Laura Louise Ritchie

(I'm) going to the polls.

Coach John Calipari has become extremely close with former UK coach Joe B. Hall.

Fathers to players

College coaches are charged with more than just teaching their respective sports. They also serve as mentors to student-athletes, many of whom are thousands of miles away from home.

Throughout history, the University of Kentucky has had some coaches who have served as a father figure to their players and juggled managing the team on and off the court and the field with ease.

Taylor's Thoughts
Keith Taylor

The undisputed "father" of Kentucky basketball, the late Adolph Rupp, won more games than any other men's basketball coach in school history and won 876 games and four NCAA titles. Rupp coached the same team for 41 years and is the seventh winningest coach in NCAA Division I history.

Before he became known as a college coach, Rupp played at the University of Kansas under Phog Allen, a legendary figure in Jayhawks' history. Allen and Rupp have an arena named after them, a unique bond between the two legendary coaches.

The men's basketball team has had other caretakers in the post-Rupp era and none are more popular than retired coach Joe B. Hall, who has gained in popularity during the past two-plus decades and received the respect due to him after he was tasked to follow a legend.

Hall has been retired for 35 years and has served as a father-figure to current Kentucky coach John Calipari. The two coaches share a mutual respect and Calipari isn't intimidated by Hall's presence. In fact, he embraces the presence of Hall, especially behind the scenes.

Not to say that other coaches haven't embraced Hall in the past, but Calipari has made it known he respects Hall and what he means to the program. In addition to Calipari, Big Blue Nation has seemingly embraced Hall more in his golden years than the later tenure of his coaching career.

Although relatively younger than his predecessors Eddie Sutton and Hall, Rick Pitino zapped youthful energy into the program during a time when the Wildcats needed it the most. Pitino's influence resulted in a coaching tree planted by many of his former players including Billy Donovan, Travis Ford, Herb Sendek, Tubby Smith and a host of others.

Smith followed Pitino's success and much like Pitino, he mentored players with a dose of fatherhood and could relate with modern-day era players. Smith did the impossible and won his first NCAA title in his first season at the helm.

Another father figure in Kentucky's rich basketball history was longtime equipment manager, the late Bill Keightley, who sat under six coaches from 962-2008, Keightley was also known as "Mr. Wildcat" and was well-respected by former Kentucky coaches Rick Pitino and Tubby Smith. Keightley was one of the most prominent figures on the Wildcats' bench during the final two decades of his tenure.

Kentucky's basketball program not only is rooted in tradition, but is blessed with father-figure coaches and caretakers through the course of history.

FROM OUR READERS

Group: Support police officers

In a recent speech President Trump said, "We have to bring back law and order in this country and I think the police are phenomenal people."

As I write this our national news is filled with peaceful protests intermingled with violent riots, beatings of innocent people, and what seems to be an overall disdain for our law enforcement members.

This should be totally unacceptable to not only what has been referred to as the "silent majority" but the peaceful protestors as well. All police officers are not evil and racist, as a matter of fact there probably are very few who fit that category. We have seen the killing of an innocent 77-year-old African American officer, we have seen police cars destroyed and burned, and we have seen police indiscriminately attacked and sometimes ambushed. This has to stop!

I'm writing this on behalf of the Berea Moderates who are calling on the City Council to adopt a resolution supporting our local men and women of the Berea Police Department. Our local police are members of our community who attend our events, send their children school with our kids, and take their families out to eat with us at our local restaurants. Every day we rely on our local officers to keep our neighborhoods safe, enforce our laws, and respond during times of crisis.

Every day when they leave their families and go to work they do so knowing that they may face the threat of violence and danger. They may be the one to save a life, break up a domestic disturbance, or save someone from an overdose before the paramedics even get there. We need to remember that the police officers do not make the laws, but they are tasked with enforcing them. If you don't like the law you take it up with your representatives not by arguing with the police officer.

We urge all citizens to support the Berea Police department and recognize the selfless and heroic services they provide. We thank them for their invaluable contributions to upholding justice, keeping peace, and protecting the innocent. If you see an officer out, thank them, buy them a cup of coffee, and let them know that the citizens of Berea are proud of them. Also email our city council to ask them to support a resolution affirming the City of Berea support for the men and women of the Berea Police Department.

Bob New,
Berea Moderates

Hensley: Support Juneteenth Resolution

A Berea city council member has proposed that the Berea city council adopt a Juneteenth Resolution.

I have reached out to all our sitting city council members, and urge them as political candidates to answer the following questions:

1. Do you plan to support the Juneteenth Resolution? If not, why?
2. Do you believe racism continues to exist in our community?
3. Where have you witnessed racism, and how do you plan to combat it?
4. Have you spoken to People of Color in our community, across the political spectrum, about their experiences of racism in Berea? Do you plan to do so?
5. What are your plans to address racism as a political candidate in the 2020 election?

Charlsa Hensley,
Berea

Gilbert: Remember in November

There is more to "Remember in November" than just those running in the national and state elections.

This past Tuesday, June 16, the overwhelming majority of Berea City Council members passed a budget which allocated $5,000 for a Dog Park and $30,000 for the Madison County Animal Shelter AND $500 (Yes, you read that correctly) $500 reinstated to a defunded Human Rights Commission at a time when there are many issues of concern regarding Human Rights: the recent moral outrage over the killings of black people by racially motivated law-enforcement officers; the recent passage by the US Supreme Court for the protection for LGBTQ+ in places of employment; and locally the bullying case of a young student at Madison County High School, and many other populations not included in either of these.

In an attempt to lift up the need for the Berea Human Rights Commission to have operating funds for the unprecedented need for education for ALL, in addition to a visible venue in which to address needs, an amendment to the budget by Councilmember Emily LeDouceur to reallocate some of the money was overwhelmingly defeated, with very little discussion and none of which would begin to address the primary issue and needs at hand.

I am an animal lover and the Dog Park and the Animal Shelter have my support.

BUT REALLY?

In comparison, $500 (Yes, you read that correctly) for the work of the Human Rights Commission in the City of Berea, which was founded on the principles of human rights and whom many want to have us claim "Berea Proud", this is another low point in the leadership of our Berea City Council.

Remember in November,
Rev. Carla Gilbert

Road crews patch Chestnut Street

Last week Berea City Councilman Jim Davis gave thanks to road crews that patched some rough spots on Chestnut Street. Davis specifically thanked the City of Berea Public Works Department for their role in the repairs, while Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley interjected that Kentucky State Transportation Cabinet District 7 officials responded to the city's appeal for help and made sure the repairs occurred.

Fraley added that state officials assisted Berea with an eye toward fixing Chestnut Street in a more comprehensive way, and officials also expressed hope to make an official project of redoing Berea's main drive when funding permits.

Because U.S. 25 is not technically a city road, city officials count on the state to affect repairs when they are needed.

"Our primary consideration was for the overall welfare of the students," said Berea College President Lyle Roelofs in a release by the college. Neighborhood Commercial, RC 4 General Commercial, RC 7 Urban Agriculture, C3 Rural Community Neighborhood, C4 Rural Community General Commercial, and C7 Rural Community Agriculture. With conditional use, plans for commercial solar facilities would be subject to the approval of the board of adjustments and county planning commission.

When submitted with a proposed development plan, commercial solar facilities would be a permitted use, subject to the approval of the Madison County Planning Commission, in the following zones: UC5 Light Industrial, UC5D Heavy industrial, UC8 Urban Development Resource Extraction, RC5A Light Industrial, C5B Heavy Industrial, RC8 Urban Development Resource Extraction, C5A Rural Community Light Industrial, C8 Rural Community Resource Extraction and R8 Rural Resource Extraction.

The Madison County Planning Commission recommended the change to the law during the commission's June 16 meeting. Planning Director Bert Thomas noted farmers in the area have explored the opportunities that may result from commercial solar power, and he compared the opportunity for land owners to an owner renting out property for a cell phone tower. Land owners could then presumably sell their generated electricity to regional power companies.

Madison County Judge/Executive Reagan Taylor encouraged citizens to submit comments to the fiscal court before the final vote on the measure on July 14. Citizens can submit comments to comments@madisoncountyky.us.

In other business, the fiscal court adopted an ordinance approving amendments to the county administrative code. Magistrates Tom Botkin, John Tudor, Roger Barger, and Judge Taylor voted in favor. Magistrate Larry Combs was not present at the teleconference meeting. Also approved Tuesday was the 2020-2021 ordinance providing guidelines for the drug free and alcohol free workplace.

In a second reading, the Madison County Code of Ethics was approved, along with a final vote on an ordinance enabling the county to join the Bluegrass Regional Radio Network, a regional emergency communications system that is expected to be more efficient, save money, and may potentially earn Madison County dividends along with co-owners Scott County. Georgetown, and the University of Kentucky. BRRN would enable other municipalities to subscribe to services provided by the new entity.

On the issue of animal control, a resolution was adopted for the county to apply for $2,500 in funds from the Kentucky Animal Control Advisory Board. If the county wins the funding, it will go to spaying and neutering of cats and dogs, officials said.

The court also approved the renewal of a contract with Bull Pen Grant Writing Services for $35,000 per year for a minimum of 40 hours per month. Magistrate Tom Botkin noted it is a good deal for the county since grant writer Tom Webb has earned the county a significant amount of grant money.

Concerning the CSEPP siren system, the court unanimously approved a measure to reject current negotiations with the provider of emergency sirens, and reopen bids. Officials justified the move noting that concerns about costs and services, which prompted the move to explore other options.

The Madison County Local Tax Settlement was approved for 2019, as the Madison County Sheriff's Department collected 36,000 tax bills for $55 million in revenue that went out to the county's various tax districts.

Also approved unanimously by the fiscal court:

- Jeff Renner was appointed to the Madison County Ethics Board.
- Full-time employees were awarded two personal days during 2020-2021 fiscal year. The decision stems from adjustments made as a result of the COVID-19 crisis.
- Nathan Hines and Jaden Carpenter were hired as groundskeepers at Battlefield Golf Course.
- Steven Brock was hired for the Madison County Road Department.

The next scheduled meeting of the Madison County Fiscal Court will take place on July 14, 2020 on zoom.

Few problems reported statewide

FRANKFORT (KT) — Despite long lines for voters in Fayette County, members of the State Board of Elections are saying the unusual primary election has gone smoothly and could see a record turnout when final numbers are submitted on June 30.

After Secretary of State Michael Adams, in his role as Kentucky's chief election officer, sent a letter to Gov. Andy Beshear recommending the election be postponed from May 26 to June 23 due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the governor issued an executive order implementing the change.

In a show of bipartisanship, Adams, a Republican, and Beshear, a Democrat, have worked together, along with the SBE members, on ironing out numerous election-related issues that resulted from the change.

Kentucky has had absentee voting available for a long time but, up until now, there had to be an excuse to obtain a ballot, such as age, illness or being out of town on election day. That requirement was eased for this year's primary.

Adams was among those calling it a successful election.

"I've been making calls around the state to polling locations, and things have been going great," he told the board members. "I think voters are a little relieved that this process has been so easy for them."

He said lines were short in all of Kentucky's 120 counties except Fayette.

"Even in Fayette County, the lines are about a third of what they were in some other states that you've seen have problems," he said. "If the lines had only been an hour-and-a-half or two hours in some of these other states, that would have been a pretty good day for them. And I'm pleased only one county has gotten that so far."

While saying he wouldn't make a prediction on voter turnout, Adams said, "If you take the voters who voted in-person early, add to those the voters who requested an absentee ballot, those are 29 percent of all registered voters. That's about 50 percent higher than you typically see in a primary in Kentucky.

That does not include anyone who voted in person on Election Day."

Adams says it could reach 35 percent after all the votes are counted, which under the emergency regulation, won't be until June 30.

Board of Elections Chair Ben Chandler said, "We are doing something that truly is historic, that's never been done before. Despite all the propaganda that's been put out there by certain campaigns and others, particularly national commentators who don't know what they're talking about, we are on track to have a tremendously successful and historic election, here in Kentucky."

Jared Dearing, executive director of the State Board of Elections, reported there were around 110,000 in-person early voters, and 890,000 people requested an absentee ballot be sent to their home for a total of around 1,000,000, not including Election Day voters.

He compared that to past Presidential Primary years. "In 2008, which was one of the largest primary elections the state has had in decades, we had 922,000 individuals cast a ballot. In 2012, we had 415,000 Kentuckians cast a ballot and in 2016, we had 670,000."

Dearing also said he fully expected 90 percent of the absentee ballots to be returned to county clerks, and 100,000 people to vote on Election Day, along with 110,000 in-person early voters. "That places us well over 1,000,000 votes cast in this election, which makes it incredibly successful."

The naysayers and misinformation on social media leading up to the primary were wrong, Dearing said.

"The mission of the Secretary, the Governor and this board, was to make sure that voters had access to the ballot, that they could cast that ballot safely and securely, and that every individual had had access, if they were an eligible voter in the Commonwealth. And I think this election has shown that can be successful, and it has been so."

• Senate Republican leader Mitch McConnell easily won his party's nomination in Kentucky in his bid for a seventh term.

• Andy Barr, who recently dealt with the unexpected death of his wife, secured the Republican nomination Tuesday night for Kentucky's 6th Congressional District in his fifth bid for the seat. Barr will face the winner of the Democratic primary between Josh Hicks and Daniel Kemph in November.

have had more polling places available, but didn't have enough poll workers available to make that happen.

The votes were cast polling style as opposed to traditional precinct voting. Drivers displayed their driver's license and the proper ballot for each voter was issued by poll workers.

"They can vote anywhere in the county and you didn't have to vote in your precinct," he said. "It actually worked out really well and worked out better than I thought it would. With the iPads and the technology that we have, people can come in, give us their driver's license and it pulls up where they need to vote and what ballot they need and it was real smooth. We were steady all day."

At Silver Creek, voter Rick Mahurin was pleased with the process. Workers sanitized voting booths and social distancing protocols were followed by voters and poll workers at each location.

"It went well," Mahurin said. "I was really glad to see the turnout we had. I don't believe this virus slowed anybody down. I didn't see any issues. It was a simple process and very organized. There didn't seem to be any issues."

First-time voter Madison Cummins cast a vote with her dad Kerry Cummins on Tuesday and also said the process was easy to follow.

"We used a paper ballot for old times sake," she said with a smile.

This is the January 1, 2020, assessment on which state, county and school taxes for 2020 will be due in the Fall of 2020.

Documentation supporting your opinion of value will continue to be required; however, you will receive specific instructions on the best method to submit your documentation after contacting our office about your intention to have a conference.

Any taxpayer still aggrieved by an assessment on real property, after the conference with the PVA or designated deputy, may appeal to the county board of assessment appeals.
