

Randy Pridemore

Randall (Randy) Pridemore, 72 passed away Tuesday, June 2, at his home surrounded by family after a valiant 48- year battle with diabetes. His devotion to his family and his firm belief in God supported him in his struggle and ultimately gave him peace.

Randall was born to the late Arthur and Mae Pridemore on July 22nd, 1947 in Dema,. He was married to wife and best friend, Brenda, for 53 years. Randy was a veteran of the Vietnam War and member of the American Legion Post in Fortville, Indiana. Randy was a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University with a degree in Accounting and was employed for over twenty years as a mining controller for Cyprus Amax Coals. At the time of his passing, he was a member of Crossroads Community Church in Fishers, Indiana. Prior to moving to Indiana, Randy served as a long-time elder of Glades Christian Church in Berea, Kentucky.

Randall was an avid reader of westerns and political thrillers, spending many a late evening devouring the offerings from the local library. Another passion of Randy's was teaching, and he served as the Sunday School Teacher for the Senior Adults at Glades Christian Church for many years. However, he enjoyed being with his grandchildren the most and made the decision to leave his long-time Berea, Kentucky home to be closer to his family in Indiana. His retirement years were spent traveling with his family, maintaining an accounting service for a select list of clienteles in Kentucky and patiently taking on the many home improvement projects Brenda found such joy in doing.

Randy's biggest blessing was his family. He and Brenda were blessed with their son, Eric, daughter-in-love, Betsy, and three grandchildren, Madeline (20), Aubrey (18) and Samuel (13). He was preceded in death by his parents, his in-laws, Clyde and Ferrall Morris, his brother David, nephew, Joel Hart, and brother-in-law, Larry Secchi.

A private ceremony for the family will be June 13 at Crossroads Community Church. Interment of Randy's ashes will be in Berea Cemetery. The reach of print is stronger than ever

I received a copy of the final edition of the Lexington Leader last week, an afternoon daily newspaper that was published for 94 years until it merged with the Lexington Herald on the last day of 1982. The Lexington-Herald Leader became a daily morning paper that put an end to the evening news in the metro region, but newspapers such as the Winchester Sun remained an afternoon daily. I spent nearly 15 years working at The Sun and we continued to deliver its newspaper for subscribers in the afternoon with a 2:30 p.m. deadline Monday-

Friday and a late morning deadline for the week-end edition produced on Saturday morning. As time progressed, the deadline was changed from late afternoon to late morning, but the purpose of the afternoon deadline served a variety of purposes for readers. One, it gave the reporters a chance to gather and retrieve overnight news and time to write non-deadline style, giving editors an opportunity to proof a story in ample time. The most important thing, in my opinion, it gave readers and subscribers something to look forward to when they came home from work or school. Because of my experience in a daily environment, I learned to write on deadline and off deadline and I will tell you that mistakes are less likely when you are not crunched for time while writing a story, editing copy or putting a page together. I still believe an afternoon format is the best way to produce a daily newspaper, especially in an age when today's news can become yesterday's news in a matter of hours. It's my belief that daily newspapers made a mistake when switching to a morning cycle. During the course of time, however, weekly newspapers, such as The Berea Citizen, have withstood any type of direct hit. Weekly newspapers remain a viable source within the community. We arrive on the newsstands each Wednesday evening and if you subscribe, especially in-county, those newspapers are scheduled to arrive in your mail box each Thursday morning. We also produce "daily" news on our website when needed, especially the jail log, which has proven to be a popular daily pick among our online readers. Our readership remains extremely strong and readers look forward to receiving the print edition of the paper each and every week. Since the pandemic, our circulation numbers have grown, and for that, we are thankful as we strive to keep growing and improving our product. In an era of think "Facebook First," the power of print is stronger than ever before. our reach extends your cycle of friends and followers on social media on a daily basis.

Sunrise trying to serve state

As negotiations between the Cabinet for Health and Family Services and Sunrise Children's Services continue, there are two important factors to keep in mind. First, Sunrise is not asking the state to deny qualified LGBTQ+ individuals or couples who apply to become foster or adoptive parents. Sunrise has often stated in various media outlets that they refer same-sex couples to the state or other agencies that are able to work with them. In Tuesday's press conference, Gov. Andy Beshear said, "Let me also say, I think that, as far as foster parents go, that it would be a mistake not to place kids with wonderful couples that want to be foster parents that are gay. I believe that people make wonderful foster parents in all types of couples, and we shouldn't be eliminating or discriminating against them." Sunrise has not called for the Cabinet to eliminate or discriminate against gay foster parents. They have talked about the lengths they go to help same-sex couples find an agency to meet their needs. It would also be refreshing for the governor, who has often spoken about the importance of his faith during the COVID pandemic, to discuss the importance of religious liberty. The ability to live freely as directed by one's conscience has long been envied by citizens of nations who do not experience this liberty. Sunrise is not asking the state to discriminate against anyone. They are simply asking the state not to discriminate against them. Keep in mind it is the deeply held religious convictions of Kentucky Baptists that has motivated Sunrise to allow the state to have access to their churches for decades in the recruitment and training of foster parents, adoptive parents and homes to serve as places of respite care. Their religious convictions move them to provide the dollars needed to cover the difference when federal and state funding falls short of the need. Not only have the citizens of the commonwealth greatly benefited from religious liberty, but the commonwealth has as well. We pray state leaders don't forget. Source: Kentucky Today Editorial Board

FYI: Water Safety

With summer approaching, the Kentucky Division of Water (DOW) and the Kentucky Department for Public Health's (KDPH) Environmental Public Health Tracking Program (EPHT) offer these safety tips to help Kentuckians enjoy the many rivers, lakes and creeks in which to boat, fish, swim, canoe or otherwise enjoy our abundant water resources. Despite many water quality improvements, there is the potential for human health risks in any body of water. By applying common sense, risks of experiencing water-derived health issues can be greatly decreased. DOW and DPH recommend that the public:

- Avoid ingesting or inhaling the water.
- Thoroughly clean hands and other areas that have come in contact with the water.
- Avoid allowing open wounds to have direct contact with the water.
- Avoid areas where swimming or harmful algal bloom (HAB) advisories have been issued.
- Avoid water with obvious odors or surface scums.
- Avoid getting in water after heavy rainfall, especially in dense residential, urban and agricultural areas.
- Avoid areas below wastewater treatment facility outfalls, animal feedlots, straight pipes or other obvious sources of pollution.
- Restrict pets and livestock from drinking the water if a bright green or blue-green surface scum is present.

The value of the moment

Many years ago, at the bridge above Paint Lick Creek at the Madison and Garrard County line, a young girl with brown curly hair was standing on the creek bank. It was between Spring and Summer because the daisies were in bloom on the bank near the old Dogwalk Road, just as they are right now. A young man stopped and spoke to the girl, handed her a single daisy, and declared that he knew he would marry her someday. The two would court on the banks of the creek, swimming, fishing, and playing together, and they'd get to know each other better and become best friends. The young man's declaration became a goal for the young soulmates. They waited for marriage through personal disaster, including a house fire and burned wedding dress, and almost a year would pass by from the time of their decision to get married. The girl was only fourteen. But they married anyway, and their goal finally came to fruition. The two would move all over the state of Kentucky during their first several years of marriage. They went on to have four children, eight grandchildren, and six great-grandkids. The two farmed, owned businesses, raised kids, served in their church and community, and lived a life that can best be described in one word: love.

The couple was my grandparents, Bill and Louise Grant. They married in 1959 and spent 61 years as "one"- in every sense of the biblical term...one. This past week, my granny passed away. She was 76. To some, that may seem old. To me, it seems young. I can remember the way she worked in the fields with my papaw from sun-up to sundown or run her own business, go home, clean her home, take care of her grandchildren who frequently visited and stayed with her, cook a meal that would feed your body and your soul, go to bed, wake-up, and do it all again. She never missed a beat...she could outwork, outcook, and outwit just about anyone.

The night before Granny passed away, my dad and I drove down to the bridge above Paint Lick Creek. Daddy said, "This is where it all started..." And there are so many things that started there. Their love was indeed something beautiful to all who knew them. It was the start of our family- the family that plays together, prays together, sometimes fights together, but is always together- no matter what. Because that "together" is what we were taught by their love, their marriage, and their relationships with us. They had a marriage that was almost fairy-tale-like in nature. Granny and Papaw danced in their kitchen together, prayed together, cried together, worked together, traveled together — they were always together.

People often talk about the value of a moment...but I'm a product of the value of a moment, so are my dad and his siblings.

Our family story begins at that bridge with the moment shared between two people whose love was so deep and true, that even after their death, it is often the first thing people mention about them saying, "They are together again."

Thank you to all of the community members and friends who have reached out to our family about granny's passing. We love and appreciate each of you, just as my grandparents did.

Thank you for being a community who appreciates their love and their story, and a special thank you to those who have shared with many of us the ways that their love has touched you.

Commencement ceremonies

The Foundation School conducted its commencement ceremonies on Friday afternoon (May 29th) at the Phelps Stokes Chapel on the campus of Berea College. Fifty-eight seniors were awarded diplomas from President Francis S. Hutchins. An additional 4 seniors were expected to received diplomas upon the completion of summer work. In addition to diplomas, numerous seniors were awarded a variety of scholastic awards and awards of honor. Berea High School also held commencement ceremonies on Friday, May 29th. The commencement address, delivered by assistant superintendent of instruction of the Kentucky Department of Education, Don C. Bale, using Robert Frost's poem "The Road Not Taken," urged the group of 39 seniors to take the "less traveled road" in their journey of life. He went on to say that by taking the less traveled road, they would be blazing the trail instead of following one. In addition to the awarding of diplomas, five seniors received special recognition for academics. William Haden Wagers, was recognized as the outstanding member of the senior class and was the first male to win the award in several years. There was a tie for class valedictorian. Brenda Holt and William Wagers each maintained an "A" standing throughout all four years of high school. David Lee Williams was recognized as the class salutarian. Madison Central High School held their commencement ceremony on Thursday, June 4th. Dean W.J. Moore of Eastern Kentucky State College delivered the commencement address to the 150 graduating seniors. Berea College awarded 186 degrees during commencement ceremonies conducted on May 31st at Indian Fort Theater. The commencement address was delivered by Thomas Combs, former Governor of Kentucky, who was also bestowed with the degree of doctor of humane letters. There was also the announcement by President F. S. Hutchins of the Seabury Awards for Excellence in Teaching to Miss Charlotte, Ludlum and William E. Newbolt.

Payroll tax opposition

There was a turnout of people in opposition to the Berea City Council's new payroll tax in attendance at the June 2 meeting. James Lawson, president of the union at Parker Seal and Helen Hounshell, president of the union at Maxwell and Moore, brought petitions signed by approximately 560 employees at both facilities. Lawson said that he would like for the council to understand how the workers felt about the tax and he asked them to reconsider. Lawson also added that a high percentage of local merchants were also in opposition to the tax. The main objection by the factory workers was that they felt the money was being taken against their will for the benefit of the city. Lawson continued by elaborating that 80 to 85% of these workers live in rural areas and therefore have no representation. Mayor Hensley thanked people for their statements. The city council opted to take no action, allowing the tax to take effect on July 1.

Dancers attend World Fair

Visitors to the New York's 1964 World's Fair got a pleasant taste of cultural heritage from Southern Appalachia when the Berea College Country Dancers presented three performances in the Enterprise Common Band Shell on June 6th and 7th. The 16-member folk dance group, under the direction of Miss Ethel Capps, left early Monday, June 1st for Pittsburg, Pennsylvania where they were to present their program for the Pittsburg Dance Teacher's Guild at the Young Men's Hebrew Association on Tuesday, June 2nd. On Wednesday, the dancers toured Valley Forge on their way to Princeton, New Jersey. On Thursday, the presented two performances at the Valley Road Junior High School and later in Cresskill where they were a part of a pot luck hosted by the Berea Alumni of the greater New York City Area. On Friday, performers were able to enjoy the fair activities prior to performances on Saturday and Sunday.

Youth Development Day

Mayor C. C. Hensley proclaimed June 6 as Youth Development Day to kick off the summer long program that focused on the physical development and fitness of Berea's youth. The activities included a youth parade, picnic, Little League All-Star game and a three inning get acquainted gave between Outer Space girls softball teams. All youth baseball and football players dressed in full uniform. They, along with the Berea High School Band and local scout troops participated in a parade that traveled along North Broadway to the City Park. A picnic, sponsored and prepared by the Berea Band Boosters was provided for all youth at the City Park. Following the picnic, the Berea All-Stars played a game. Admission to the game was free for everyone who chose to attend.

Area farmers having a 'hay' day

The sun is shining, and the temperature is rising. Rural residents know the signs. It's hay season. When the weather forecast becomes the most important news for farmers. They look for several hot dry days in a row. If the chance of precipitation is low, farmers might gamble on cutting a field anyway.

The farmers mow the fields with a haybine or disc mower. They might use a tether to mix the hay and get it up off the ground. Farmers use a rake to gather the hay in windrows for baling. The hay needs to cure for up to 3 days before baling.

You might notice buzzards circling the newly mown fields. It is a sad fact that small animals are sometimes run over. Snakes, meadowlark birds, baby deer, rabbits, or cats may fall victim to the mower.

There are also dangers for farmers when mowing. Tractors can rollover injuring or killing driver. Farmers must be aware of the terrain whether it is the incline, stumps, or holes. Farmers have been injured or killed by PTO when trying to clean baler pick up. My mom always worried when it got late, and the boys weren't home yet.

When the wagon was connected behind the hay baler, the chute pushed the bale up to the wagon. One of my brothers would lift it to the back to be stacked. My brother Dwayne laughed about walking backwards and feeling something beating against his legs. It was the loop of a snake body dangling from the bale. He said that was a common occurrence.

If you have ever worked in hay, you know it is the hottest work around. There is the possibility of heat stroke or exhaustion. The tiny pieces of hay stick to you. It is itchy. You get sunburnt. You are exhausted by the end and just want a shower. This is your routine for days on end.

Dwayne estimated on a good day with no breakdowns they could handle 1,000-1,200 bales. If the hay was full, these bales could weigh 45-50 pounds. My brothers didn't bother wearing caps or gloves. They built up calluses on their hands quickly handling those strings on the bales. Dwayne didn't remember them bringing much water either. He remembered stopping to drink from a creek on the farm and stopping to get a pop as they came home.

I always thought my dad was a

master at stacking the square bales. He admitted that it was a learning process. He did have a system that each bale overlapped the bottom bale by at least half the length. My brother Dwayne compared it to a brick layer rowlock. The bales were not going to be jostled off when driving through a rough field. Dwayne guessed they managed to get around 140-150 bales on the wagon. My sisters and I looked forward to playing on the hay in the barn.

Breakdowns can be a huge time liability. My dad, like most farmers, learned to repair his machinery since it was used for several years. Farmers lose even more time for complicated repairs. This can put them seriously behind when they are cutting multiple fields in different locations. Of course, moving the equipment from farm to farm is time consuming, too.

The round baler cut down the number of workers needed in the field considerably. The round bales can remain in the field until transported. If the bales are not stored inside, there is some loss to decay. You might also see some round bales wrapped in plastic. This ferments into haylage which cows enjoy. Farming is always changing with new technology.

When mom isn't feeling well, the whole family notices

I heard a hilarious tale the other day about a 14-year-old boy who came home from school ready for supper, only to find his mother upstairs in bed sick.

"Mom, I'm really, really sorry that you're not feeling well," he said. "But I want you to know I can handle this. I'm getting bigger now. And I believe I'm perfectly able to pick you up and carry you down to the stove."

One thing is sure, when a Mom isn't able to do all the things she ordinarily does, we begin to understand just how important her role is.

I'd hope that could be said for all of us, whether we're moms or not. But, the Bible tells us that there are some people in this world who don't do enough to be missed. In fact, there are some who do very little other than sit and watch things fall apart.

"I went by the field of the slothful and by the vineyard of the man void of understanding, and, lo, it was all grown over with thorns, and nettles had covered the face thereof, and the stone wall thereof was broken down" (Proverbs 24:30-31).

King Solomon, who wrote that Proverb, said he learned from the slothful man that a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of hands in idleness is all that's necessary to come to poverty. Solomon is saying we need to get off our rears and work, to do the things around the house, around the farm, around the office that need to be done.

The slothful man's vineyard didn't become overgrown with thorns overnight.

It happened little by little. The stones in the wall around that vineyard didn't fall over in one day. It happened little by little. The slothful man could have made small repairs as they were needed, but he didn't. Instead, he sat back and let the entire place go to pot.

I read a news article the other day about a woman in another state who died, but no one noticed.

Roger Alford

In fact, by the time someone did notice, she had been dead somewhere between a year and a year and half.

You might ask, how could someone be dead that long without someone noticing? I'll leave you to ponder that. Perhaps by some sad turn of events she had been widowed and had no children to check on her. Perhaps she was new to her neighborhood and hadn't yet forged relationships with her neighbors.

But this much is certain, if that dear woman had been contributing in a meaningful way to those around her, her death would have been noticed immediately.

I hope we'd all strive to be like that teenage boy's Mom, sorely missed when we're not able to do the things we typically do for others. If ever we're in bed sick, let's hope there'd be a long line of people standing ready to carry us to the stove.

Coyle, Ross address Rotary Club on growth, progress in the county

With a continuing effort to return to normal meeting protocol, Berea Rotary heard two speakers in two weeks. Rotary partners Helen Eden and Judy Fritz attended in support. The two speakers were Madison County Sheriff Mike Coyle and EKU Aviation program Director, Dr. Tim Ross. Even though the topics were diverse in content, both speakers emphasized growth and progress in the Madison County area. Both spoke of the cooperative effort with the cities of Berea and Richmond. Ross mentioned the changes that have occurred in the aviation world in the past seven years, much due to legislation. The number of flight hours required, including nighttime flying and variable weather conditions have increased. EKU has 23 aircraft, six of which are leased. There has been a ten year partnership with the Madison County airport. Interest in the program has continued to grow, creating a need for flight instructors. Coyle spoke of the issues involved with a county as large as Madison, the second largest in the state. He has problems securing the staff that he needs for the mission his office must address. This runs the gamut from tax collections and car inspections to court security and overseeing the K-9 program. He noted that the demographic of applicants for his staff has changed and that problems with drug use in the community have been ongoing.

- In the business session, President Rita Davis praised the club for its $1,400 donation to the Berea Food Bank last year via a food bucket used at each meeting.
- Davis also announced there were two scholarship recipients, both from Berea Community as no applicants came from Madison Southern. The winners are Coleman Reed and Kierstin Shaffer. Two-thirds of the membership was present to hear the good news.
- Davis reminded members of the US 25 yard sale on June 4.

Currently Rotary Club meetings are held at the Smokehouse Grille.

Berea College Trace to debut this month

Berea College recently introduced The Berea College Trace—the umbrella that houses all the events and offerings available on campus. Many times, we don't know the gems that exist in our very own back yard. Plan to wear your walking shoes and learn about the College's history through two new self-guided walking tours that will go live this June. Just bring your cell phone to listen or watch. If you are a history buff, you'll love learning about the rich history of the first interracial and co-educational College in the south. After you've walked the campus, you'll likely be hungry. There are many options to choose from starting with the College's own Farm to Fork eatery at the Berea College Farm Store. Here you will get to re-fuel for the rest of your day with organic veggies grown on one of the oldest continually-run college farms in the country. After lunch, plan to stroll through the Log House Craft Gallery — the oldest craft gallery in the state of Kentucky. Built in 1917, the Log House supports independent artists from Appalachia and beyond by selling only hand-crafted merchandise. There's really no need to ever leave town to shop for gifts. You can find everything you need right here. Did you know that Berea College owns and manages 9000 acres of forestland that includes 17 miles of trails that are open to the public? Last fall, the forestry department installed new color-coded trail markers. So, if you haven't ventured out for a while, now would be a beautiful time of year to do so. Have you been to the Doris Ulmann Art Gallery or the Loyal Jones Appalachian Center? And what about those bells you hear ringing? The sound comes from the tower in Draper Hall where we are fortunate to have one of only 166 carillons in the United States, and the largest in Kentucky. Have you checked out the Hutchins Library? Here you will find many treasures: a complete set of John J. Audubon's Birds of America books, the St. John's Bible, one of the largest collections of books about President Lincoln in the country, a first edition Book of Mormon, a copy of the Nuremberg Chronicle, the bell hooks archive, a vast collection of Appalachian oral histories, and much more. Before you end your day, stop by Smoothies on the Square, located inside the Visitor Center on Main Street. Here, you can try authentic bubble tea, a slushie, or a smoothie. Also check out the website www.bctrace.com. You will find a brand-new short film series. Produced by film-maker, Justin Skeens, new films will be released on the 5th of each month.

Recipe from the heart

Cheesecake is one of my oldest daughter's favorite desserts. This recipe is one my mother has prepared for years. It can be served alone or topped with fresh fruit or canned pie filling. It is really very simple to prepare and you can even use a prepared graham cracker or cookie crust to save time. Libby Horn

New York Style Cheesecake

Crust:

Ingredients:

1 7/8 cup graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, melted
2 Tablespoons of sugar

Crust Directions

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Mix graham cracker crumbs, melted butter and 2 Tablespoons of sugar together. Press into the bottom and sides of a greased 9 inch springform pan (I have used a regular pie plate). Chill while preparing the filling.

Filling

Ingredients:

2 pounds of cream cheese
2 large eggs, beaten
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 Tablespoons Cornstarch
1 cup sour cream

Directions

In a mixer bowl, beat: cream cheese and sugar until smooth. Beat in eggs, vanilla and cornstarch until just blended. Stir in sour cream. Pour mixture into prepared crust and bake for 10 minutes. Reduce the oven temperature to 200 degrees and bake for 45 minutes. Turn oven off and allow the cake to cool for 3 hours with the door of the oven slightly open. If using a spring form pan, remove sides from pan. Chill.

Makes 12 servings

Senior Centers to reopen June 11

FRANKFORT (KT) – Gov. Andy Beshear announced Tuesday that Senior Centers, which had been closed for more than a year due to the COVID-19 pandemic, will be able to reopen on June 11, and that an expanded audit has uncovered 260 more deaths.

“That will be among the many venues able to operate at full capacity that day,” he said during a virtual press briefing at the Capitol. “The Department for Aging and Independent Living oversaw a senior center reopening workgroup, to address concerns and ideas on ahead of this June 11 date. The reopening adheres to CDC recommendations, which fall closely in line with long term care and adult day health care guidance.”

The governor said the original audit covered the period November, January and February, where every death certificate was examined for COVID-related deaths.

The daily numbers Beshear revealed on Tuesday, showed 137 new cases reported to state public health officials, 34 of which, or around 25%, were among those 18 and younger. Kentucky’s pandemic total has now reached 458,712 positive cases, since the first one was reported on March 6, 2020.

Besides the 260 deaths reported from the final expanded audit, there was just one more new one on Tuesday, “I don’t remember the last time that was the case.”

This brings to 7,067 the number of Kentuckians lost to COVID-19.

He pointed out that both the weekly number of new cases and the positivity rate, which stood at 2.50% on Tuesday, have now declined for four straight weeks.

The county incidence rate on Tuesday showed no counties in the red zone, indicating 25 or more cases per 100,000 population and an increasing number now in the green, which means less than one case per 100,000 population.

Madison County Public Library

Let's move!

When I introduced myself to you as the new Madison County Public Library Director, I mentioned that you may know me from my previous role of "Coach CC."

For 5 years, June meant one thing to me: coaching a new season of the library's Couch to 5K running team.

Couch to 5K is a world renowned running program that helps beginners slowly work up to the ability and stamina to run, jog, or walk a 5k race. For the library's program, runners of all abilities and experience levels met at the Berea College or ECU track once a week for 12 weeks to train for their end goal: running the Spoonbread Festival 5k. Watching my team train together, develop bonds, and cross the finish line year after year was truly one of the highlights of both my career and my life. I had to end my stint as Coach CC when I moved into a management role at the library. Every June I feel a little reminiscent pang of sadness for the upcoming season, as well as the fellowship and accountability group training can provide.

I started my own journey with running in 2010, the same time I began Couch to 5k at the library. The addition of a work requirement made my ability to back out of training nearly impossible. My first race was the team's first race, the Spoonbread 5K. In an eleven year span, I ran numerous 5Ks, 10Ks, half marathons, team relays, and one full marathon. The latter was a physical, mental, and emotional achievement that thus far is unmatched.

Since my marathon, though, my relationship with running has changed a bit. If running and I were Facebook official, our status would be "it's complicated." I still love it, and it's wonderful stress relief, but it somehow has managed to also simultaneously stress me out. Training takes a lot of time, it's too hot/cold/rainy/windy/sunny outside, and a perfectionist like me tends to place extremely unnecessary pressure on races in which I am not exactly what one would call a competitor.

The COVID pandemic complicated things even further. I had signed up for several races in 2020, which were all swiftly cancelled during lockdown. 2020 is the first year since 2010 that I did not participate in a single race. I found myself a little grateful and relieved to have a break.

As complicated relationships go, though, I started to miss running. The discipline and schedule of training provides an added purpose to each day. Plus, I have a great group of friends who run and race together. Running was a big part of my social life, and for several years my friends and I would travel to different cities to participate in races. I felt a bit bereft without the option to race. Absence does, indeed, make the heart grow fonder.

Last summer I determined that running and I had been on a break long enough. I laced up my shoes, shook off the rust, and put one foot in front of the other until it felt good again. I have not stopped since.

While we also had to pause the library's Couch to 5K team last year, we are lacing up again this year! Since all of us may be a bit rusty, we are changing things up a bit. The new program is called MCPL Let's Move! We'll use the "None to Run" program, which focuses on duration instead of distance, and also allows for more gradual, self-paced training. The first meeting is Tuesday, July 6, 7 p.m. at Battlefield Park. All ages, abilities, experience levels and relationships with running are welcome.

Calipari: Transfer portal won't be a trend in the future

LEXINGTON (KT) — Most of Kentucky's roster will be stocked with transfers next season but coach John Calipari doesn't think that will become a trend in the future.

"Thank goodness that we could tap into that market (last year), but it's not something that we're saying that we're just going to live by," Calipari said Friday.

For the second straight season, at least three or more experienced players have transferred to Kentucky via the transfer portal. Oscar Tshiebwe, Kellan Grady, CJ Fredrick and Sahvir Wheeler will give the Wildcats experience next season in a time in which adding transfers was the best option for Calipari and his staff. "This is a different place for that but this year it's good. I'm not sure where it will go going forward but we'll be evaluating," Calipari said.

According to Calipari, at least six players from more than 130 programs had entered the transfer portal two weeks ago and said that number may have risen because of the popularity of the portal.

"... It's almost like, 'Who's going to do it? Okay, I understand. Now who are we getting?'" he said. "Four years ago, if five players transferred from a team, everybody would go crazy. 'The program is crumbling.' Well, 150 programs are crumbling."

The recent rise in transfers has created an immediate adjustment for college coaches.

"As the NCAA, we have to be able to be nimble and pivot with all this stuff we're doing that's changing the game, you can't have it take two years," Calipari said. "To change something that had unintended consequences, whether it's the portal, whether it's name, image and likeness, we may need to turn on a dime right now."

"It's like you're on an aircraft carrier. Need

Kentucky coach John Calipari has stocked next year's roster with transfers but doesn't think that will be a trend for his team in the future. (Kentucky Today/Keith Taylor) to be on a speed boat the next three years because we don't know where any of this stuff is going. And we're guessing, I'm guessing like everybody else, and my thoughts are always going to be three or four years out, what this looks like. With all the leagues and all the stuff and all the transfers and the change of this change in my staff, how do we take advantage? How do we stay the gold standard in all this?"

Calipari added he is hopeful the Southeastern Conference will waive its current rule that requires transfers to sit out a season before becoming eligible.

"The whole entire country is giving these kids the ability to transfer wherever and every league has, I can't imagine we'd be able to do anything different," he said.

Brooks back?

Calipari hinted that Keion Brooks its expected to return for a third season with the Wildcats.

Brooks hasn't made an official announcement regarding his future, but is scheduled to be available for interviews during the team's camp appearance on Friday in Elizabethtown.

"Lance (Ware) and Keion are going to be big players for us," Calipari said. "... this should be Keion's year. He's that veteran that you're saying, 'you've got to be the center of this.'"

The players were scheduled to report back to campus last Friday.

"We'll have a team full of guys to get ready for what we're doing," he said.

Cats fall to Tide in Supers

Kentucky fell behind Alabama and never recovered in the College Super Regional softball tournament Saturday.

Alabama scored two runs in the first inning and went on to post a 4-1 victory over Kentucky for a two-game sweep in the best-of-3 series to advance to the College World Series.

The Crimson Tide (50-7) defeated the Wildcats 4-3 on Friday in Tuscaloosa. Alabama advances to the College World Series for the 13th time in school history.

Kentucky closed its season 43-16 record and earned a ticket to the Super Regionals following a sweep of Notre Dame last weekend in the Lexington Regional.

Alabama pitcher Lexi Kilfoyl went the distance and scattered five hits. Kentucky scored its lone run in the second inning, while the Crimson Tide added to its narrow margin with a pair of runs in the fourth inning. Kilfoyl fanned 7 batters.

Three-peat feat! Lady Eagles capture district crown

For The Citizen

The Madison Southern Lady Eagles breezed through the 44th District Tournament over the weekend, by knocking off Berea (18-2, three innings) and Madison Central (5-0) to claim the title. The tournament was played at Eastern Kentucky University. It was Southern's third straight district crown (2018, 2019 and 2021). Last year's season was cancelled due to the pandemic.

Several Lady Eagles enjoyed banner days at the plate against Berea on Saturday. Ashlan Estep collected four RBIs on a 3-for-3 effort, while Jade Carter accounted for three RBIs on a 2-for-2 outing that included a home run. Breanna Dawes added a pair of RBIs, while Samantha Cornelison added three RBIs.

Sage Jackson picked up with win, allowing three hits, while striking out five Lady Pirates (6-11).

Alexis Newman and Madison Howell led Berea as they both went 1-for-2 with an RBI.

Southern (20-12) knocked off Central to win the championship. Tessa Juett went 2-for-2 with two doubles, while Estep added a triple. Dawes, Morgan Mensor and Caylen Conrad reach added an RBI to lead Southern.

Juett also dominated on the mound, by tossing seven innings of shutout softball, while giving up three hits and striking out 10.

The 11th Region matchups were not released prior to press time.

Eagles falls in District Championship

The Madison Southern Eagles (7-22) punched their ticket to the 11th Region Tournament Saturday by knocking off Berea (3-18), 19-2 in the first round of the 44th District Tournament.

Cannon Peercy who went 3-for-5 at the plate with three RBIs and a home run paced the Eagles. Drew Hess also went 3-for-5 with two RBIs. Zach Morgeson, Billy Strife and Corey Causey all added a pair or RBIs in the win.

Caleb Cobb picked up the win by allowing two earned runs and striking out four.

On Sunday, Southern fell to Madison Central in the championship game, 9-0. Stats for this contest were not available on the Kentucky High School Athletic Association website prior to press time.

BENEFITS

hazardous duty benefits program sounded a cautious note, stating there was no way to know how much the state would raise costs in the years to come. In Fiscal Year 2021-2022, the city sets aside 44 percent of the gross wages of first responders for the program, while police officers and firefighters pay eight percent out of their salary toward the benefits. Both of those numbers could go up at the discretion of state officials.

"I just hope and pray that it works out for us," said Councilman Jerry Little. Cora Jane Wilson agreed, expressing hope that future councils would not have to raise taxes to pay for it. In the meantime, both the police and fire departments accepted personnel cuts to off-set the cost of the plan. Three police officer positions will be left unfilled, while three firefighter slots will remain vacant.

Councilmembers Katie Startzman and Jim Davis both stated enrolling in the hazardous duty retirement program was justified, but that the city will have to watch the future impact closely. "I think it is the proper decision right now, but I am concerned about the challenges it will present for future budgets," Startzman said.

In other news, the council voted to donate a 2001 fire truck to the Berea Volunteer Fireman's Association. Before the vote, Davis said he wanted to insure the city would not be under any liability while the truck is in possession of the volunteers.

Mayor Bruce Fraley opened a telecommunications franchise bid from Open Fiber Kentucky, then passed the bid on for a recommendation from the city administrator. Under revised franchise rules, additional cable and telecommunication providers can bid to provide services in the city alongside existing providers.

Turning to the issue of returning to regular public meetings, Mayor Fraley said he would consult with corporate counsel to see when the city could enact an ordinance reinstituting in-person public meetings. Fraley said an emergency ordinance may be submitted for a vote as early as June 15. Kentucky Governor Andy Beshear is expected to significantly roll back COVID-19 restrictions on public gatherings in June.

In other news, Berea City Administrator David Gregory said significant progress is being made on the Chestnut Street Pavilion and the mountain bike trail off of J.C. Chambers Road. Both projects are expected to be completed this summer.

- The next Berea City Council meeting is June 15.

people in town and their stuff is what brings other people to the city, and a lot of people here in Berea make a lot of money off of things they don't need. Sometimes that's stuff that would have gone into the landfill."

Coffey describes his journey to launch the yard sale a great experience, noting that what has grown into a major annual event started with just two cell phones and two Facebook pages. Since then, some of the biggest beneficiaries have been local youth sports teams, booster organizations and church groups, who take advantage of the foot traffic to raise funds.

For individuals and groups thinking of participating in the Thursday thru Saturday event, Coffey offers a few tips. Be sure you have the permission of property owners before you set up your stand, comply with local laws, get your stuff ready and tag it, be mindful of the wind, because it can wreak more havoc on a sales area than rain, and follow recommended COVID-19 safety rules.

Noting the event's tendency to bring folks to town, Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley urged citizens to participate. "I would encourage groups and organizations to get permission from property owners along U.S. 25 to have a yard sale event as a fundraiser or just for citizens who want to get rid of their treasures and pass those on to someone who's willing to pay for them," Fraley said during Tuesday's city council meeting.

"This event does bring people to town, and I would ask all of you to communicate and remind people to give themselves a little bit of extra time Thursday, Friday and Saturday because traffic will be up in Berea with the yard sale."

Long time coming: Courthouse upgrades back on track

By Bob Flynn
For The Citizen

RICHMOND — One of downtown Richmond's oldest and most beautiful buildings soon will be getting some much-needed TLC.

At Tuesday's regular scheduled Fiscal Court meeting, magistrates approved a memorandum of understanding with the Administrative Office of the Courts for a more than $12 million renovation of the Madison County Courthouse.

The agreement is the culmination of a multi-year effort by local and state leaders to secure state funding for the project.

Officials hoped to have the project included in state funding last year, but it was dropped from the state budget, in part to Covid 19.

But thanks to the tireless efforts over the last year by Madison County's own, State Representative Deanne Frazier and State Senator Jared Carpenter, and Madison County Judge/Executive Reagan Taylor, funding for the project was

Garden Tour benefits animal rescue

It's been said that gardeners know all the dirt, and a Berea garden tour series to raise funds for "Paws 4 the Cause," a central Kentucky nonprofit animal rescue organization.

The series brings people and plants together by taking guests through three beautiful gardens to better understand how plants grow, bloom and change throughout the summer.

Each tour is guided by the garden's owner who will discuss different gardening topics, including growing tips, best plants for Berea gardens, garden design, and the history of their garden. Whether you have a seasoned green thumb or are a gardening greenhorn, there will be something to learn and apply to at-home gardening projects.

This summer, three gardens will be on display Saturday, June 19 and again on July 17 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Guests will enjoy the gardens of Mary Startzman at 3 Fairway Drive, Katie Heckman at 104 Lorraine Court, and David Saladino at 102 Harrison Road. The entry donation is $15 cash or check to see all three gardens.

Perennial gardens change every day – as plants come into bud, bloom, and wane – giving us a limited time to enjoy their changing beauty.

Plan to join us in the gardens while supporting "Paws 4 the Cause" in their effort to help Central Kentucky four-footed friends. Rain or shine. For more information call Mary at (859) 986-8562 or visit <https://www.paws4thecause.com> to learn more about how this organization helps animals.

Larry Graham Hackley

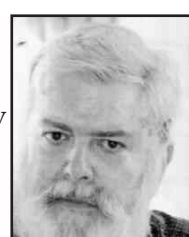

Larry Graham Hackley, 72, noted for his passion for art and Contemporary American Folk Art (Kentucky Folk Art, in particular), died suddenly in Warrenton VA, May 14, 2021, while vacationing with family in the area. Born in Warrenton on November 9, 1948, Larry was raised in Amissville VA in the home where his father was born, once commenting that he felt he had grown up "in a Norman Rockwell painting". Larry lived most of his life in Kentucky, residing in Berea at the time of his death.

Predeceased by his father E. Graham Hackley, Larry is survived by his devoted mother Dorothy Z Hackley, his sister Janet (Jan) H Makela (husband Ronald W Makela), his nephew Joshua Bryan Hackley Makela (wife Sophia Coleman), aunts JoAnne Z Tilley, Nancy Z Nicholas, Betty G Zinn, and countless cousins and friends.

A graduate of Virginia Commonwealth University and University of Kentucky, Larry embraced a lifelong love of art. His curious mind led him to immerse himself in every new interest, reading and researching in depth. Larry was an art teacher in the public schools of Eastern Kentucky, owner of Hackley Gallery in Winchester KY, moving the gallery to Berea for a number of years. He had a keen eye for Folk Art, collecting art and curating many museum and gallery shows through the years.

Larry became interested in Contemporary American Folk Art while living in Kentucky, and became renowned for his expertise in that field, authoring and collaborating on multiple books related to southern pottery, quilts, Kentucky Folk Art, carved canes, and more.

As a child, Larry was intrigued by old crocks used to preserve foods, Victorian hair wreaths, and other historic items in the home of his Grandmother Hackley. His Grandmother Zinn introduced him to baking, gardening, canning and more. He studied bugs, dissected frogs, collected rocks, raised exotic chickens and fish, and experimented with edible plants, all before becoming an adult and venturing off to make his way in his chosen profession.

Fiercely independent, creative and talented, he will be missed by all who knew him as a kind, generous man with an easy-going spirit, who loved his family and friends, and all things interesting and beautiful.

A private memorial service will be held at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, please make memorial donations to the Hackley Family Scholarship Fund, c/o HEADWATERS- Public Education Foundation, P.O. Box 368, Washington VA 22747.

Tragedies a reminder to use caution this summer

Sometimes your plans can be changed without notice.

Such was the case when Rhonda and I were traveling on Interstate 75 while going to Lexington Saturday. As we neared the Clays Ferry Bridge, traffic suddenly became a crawl and a police car in the fast lane passed us on mission.

It was then I knew something was wrong.

We got off of the interstate just before the Clays Ferry Bridge and attempted to take the “old” road to Lexington, but even traffic there was backed up, so we turned around and headed back south and traveled to Winchester and spent a few hours at Rural King before eating dinner at Giovanni’s Pizza. We drove through town and passed through my old stomping grounds — The Winchester Sun — before getting on 627 on the return trip home.

We didn’t hear much about the accident while we were shopping and eating, but noticed that traffic from Richmond was heavier than usual. Once we drive further, traffic could be seen for miles and miles. In my 15 years working in Winchester and traveling from Richmond two, and sometimes four times per day, I don’t recall such a massive traffic backup in all of my life. The backroads from Richmond — the ones the locals truly know about — were backed up for as far as the eye could see on a clear, sunny day.

We found out more and more as we arrived home why I-75 northbound was backed up. A two-car, head-on crashed caused by a wrong-way driver changed everything that day.

Six people, including four children lost their lives in a horrible tragedy, one of the most horrific accidents on our nearby interstate in recent memory.

We may never know why a driver from Madison County was going the wrong way on the Interstate in broad daylight, and my heart breaks for the families of those killed in the accident. Just last week, a young man, 19, lost his life by a hit-and-run driver on Battlefield Memorial Parkway.

Those two tragedies remind us to use caution as the summer months arrive, resulting in more people traveling the roadways and enjoying the warm weather.

Stay safe, use caution and keep your eyes on the road.

Do you need Social Security?

By Dr. Glenn Mollette

In 2020 over 64 million Americans were collecting Social Security.

The National Institute for Retirement Security (NIRS) has reported that Social Security is the only income source for 40 percent of retirees over the age of 60.” (Forbes.com) The study also claimed that only 6.8 percent of retirees receive income from the three-legged stool of Social Security, a defined benefit pension and a defined contribution plan.

Another study conducted by researchers at the Social Security Administration, found that only 19.6 of Americans 65 and over received at least 90% of their total incomes from Social Security. That’s a big difference from the stat provided by the NIRS.

Nevertheless, the point is that for millions of Americans Social Security is either all they have or mostly all they have. Also, there are some government employees who have their own pension system and do not pay into Social Security.

Social Security taxes take a bite of our income from every check. Employers and employees each pay 6.2 percent of wages up to the taxable maximum of $142,800 for 2021. The self-employed pay 12.4 percent. Some self-employed struggle with paying the 12.4 percent and look for creative ways to only report a small salary. This may enable you to have more cash now but your Social Security check will be much smaller when you become retirement age.

Religious objectors can often be exempted from paying the tax. I knew a minister who in his younger days did the paperwork to exempt out of Social Security. It was the one of the biggest mistakes of his life. When he became 65, he couldn’t quit working. He had also drawn out most of his other pension savings for emergencies.

With meager retirement dollars he was also faced with having to buy Medicare insurance. To make matters worse he was diagnosed with terminal cancer. At a relatively young senior adult age he had nothing with which to fight. He was tired from his long years of work. He had nothing financially saved. He couldn’t stop working. Medical insurance became a dilemma and within two years he was dead.

Social Security is not a perfect world.

It won’t make you rich but you’ll be glad you have the check and the medical insurance.

Keep this in mind the average monthly Social Security payment for 2021 is $1,543, and the maximum you can receive at full retirement age is $3,113 a month.

If you have waited until you are 70 the amount is $3,895.00. These figures change all the time depending on cost of living adjustments and how long you work and how much you pay into the system.

Keep in mind the longer you work and the more you pay into Social Security, the more you collect at retirement.

So, go to work and be glad for every dollar withheld from your check for Social Security.

Letter to the editor

Workman: Serving others first

Dear Editor:

Since March of 2019, there have been hoarding, refusal to wear masks or get vaccinated and other examples of what, to me, are self-serving behavior. I have another tale.

Last week I made a purchase at the Post Office, and unknowingly, dropped my credit card in the parking lot.

When I went back the next day to check, it was inside. A man had found it and turned it in. I’m sure others have talks of serving others first This mine. Thanks to that anonymous man.

Eleanor Workman,
Berea

Time to clean the creek!

One of the most unique features of Kirksville, Poosey Ridge, and Newby is the sense of shared responsibility for our communities and their well-being. The time has come to give back to an area each community has enjoyed for several years.

Carrie Grant

It's time to Clean The Creek! Jiggwater is a popular recreation area for all of us, and traffic has definitely increased in the past couple of years. As more people come to enjoy the creek, that also brings about a bigger footprint left behind.

It is our privilege to enjoy the creek and our responsibility to maintain it.

Newby Country Store has partnered with several sponsors to host a "Clean The Creek" event on Saturday, June 12, from 9 a.m. to Noon. Clean The Creek is meant to bring awareness to keeping the area clean for all. Ashlie Hatton, owner of Newby Country Store, said, "Jigg Water is one of the most beautiful places in all of Kentucky. While it had a tarnished reputation prior, it is turning into one of the most family-friendly places in Madison County. Jigg Water, with multiple fishing holes, natural picnic areas, and the best people you will ever meet, is a local staycation that we are committed to cleaning and keeping clean."

Lori Tatum, Executive Director of Richmond Tourism, shared "We want visitors to our area to see the charm and beauty that Kentucky has to offer. Every dollar spent by a tourist turns around seven times in our community." Events like this create change in our communities and support the local tourism industry.

Come out on Saturday, clean the creek, and enjoy the scenery while giving back.

The first 100 people who come to help can get hotdogs, chips, drinks, and ice cream provided by Newby Country Store and sponsors. Check-in at Newby Country Store between 9-11 a.m. to receive trash bags and tickets.

There will be a drawing for prizes. From noon-2 p.m. "Nightshade" will be performing on the store's front porch, while Rick cooks on the grill.

Reflections

Berea Citizen Archives: June 9, 2003

Silver Creek 5th graders learned that that there were so much more to manners and etiquette than simply saying "please" and "thank you" during a recently conducted manners and etiquette class presented by the South Madison Family Resource Center. "Social skills, hygiene, dining etiquette and place settings," were a few of the things center director Cindy Saylor said were emphasized in that class that culminated with a PTO - sponsored luncheon at Boone Tavern, where students were expected to use the skills they had learned during the week-long class. Dining on salad, turkey and stuffing, green beans and cranberry relish, over 50 students were careful to mind their p's and q's during what was for many a first experience with fine dining. Many students remarked about how nice the dining experience was and for some, it was the first experience with this experience.

As two students pass the rolls, fifth grade students from Silver Creek Elementary use their best manners while eating at Boone Tavern recently. The luncheon was a culmination of a manners and etiquette class at the school.

Suspicious package causes closure

A suspicious package from the Ukraine caused the United States Post Office on Glades Road, as well as the Berea College Post Office to shut down for a time. According to Berea Police, a postal worker at the Glades Road Post Office discovered a substance leaking from a package. Federal, state and local authorities were notified and the established protocols were put into place. According to unidentified sources, the leaking packaged was originally delivered to the Berea College Post Office. Once the leak was discovered, the package was placed in a sealed bag and returned to the United States Postal Service on Glades Road, which was evacuated and locked down. Berea College Public Relations reported that the College Post Office was also locked down. State disaster and emergency services were notified and responded to the scene, along with a hazardous materials unit from the Bluegrass Army Depot. Further investigation found that the leaking substance was not hazardous and both postal facilities were reopened by noon. Preliminary reports said that the leaking packaged contained a snow globe that may have broken in transit. There were no reported injuries as a result of this incident.

Berea's railroad history celebrated in Old Town

Over 1,200 visitors filled the streets and shops of Old Town as Berea hosted it's 4th annual look at the city's railroad history. The annual L&N Days celebration drew train lovers and history buffs to Berea's Welcome Center, which was housed in the brick railroad depot left standing between Cincinnati and Knoxville. As a part of the celebration, the depot received a special gift from a Berea resident. Garnett Short donated the original sign that once hung over the tracks at the location welcoming travelers to town. Mayor Steve Connelly said the city was appreciative of the gift and a plaque was to be installed to explain the history of the facility. Short said he was happy to donate the sign.

Medal of Honor recognition

The Berea - Laurel Ridges Chapter of the NSDAR, recently recognized Madison Southern Senior, Adam Rose as the recipient of the DAR Medal of Honor. Each year the DAR recognizes a senior ROTC cadet with the award. The educator of the military sciences department and the principal makes selection for each year's candidate. Recipients must have demonstrated loyalty and patriotism and be in the upper 25% of their classes in ROTC as well as in other academic subjects.

Churchill Weavers unveils historic archives

Local and state dignitaries were on hand for an unveiling of the Churchill Weavers archives. Ginny Galey, archivist for the Southern Highland Craft Guild, who had been on loan to Churchill Weavers for eight months prior to unveiling, presented an overview and synopsis of the collection. The collection was of major historic significance and was considered quite rare. As far as it was known at that time, no other craft school or weaving establishment in the 20th century had kept such complete or extensive records. The collection was a chronological and visual reflection of the 20th Century, which had extensive value as a sociological statement of craft development in the Southern Highland region. 81 years worth of boxes of Churchill Weavers hand-woven swatches, samples and paper records had been organized, categorized and computerized by Daily. The task seemed overwhelming at first. Boxes upon top of boxes had to be gone through, cleared, identified and cross-referenced and analyzed. Undaunted by the challenge, Daly rose to the challenge and one box at a time, "move the mountain." She estimated that over 300,000 woven items along with over 100 linear feet of paper archives had been catalogued by record series. Phyllis Alvic, who had recently authored a book entitled Weavers of the Southern Highlands, said that the collection was something of which to be proud. "The collection is truly remarkable. I would like to see an exhibition with the extensive catalogue as a part of just recognition of Churchill Weavers' contribution to the history of crafts in this country," Alvic said.

Feeling normal again

Even though I'm usually not a big yard sale person, I decided to hit some of the sales Saturday since it was the big US 25 yard sale weekend. The weather was perfect for it despite the higher temperatures later in the day.

Tammy Whittamore

I purchased a cup of lemonade from Jonah near the Faith Baptist Church on the Battlefield Memorial Highway. It really hit the spot. So delicious. There's just something about freshly made lemonade. He had an eye-catching display of yellow and white balloons decorating his lemonade stand.

While I was thinking about the church later, I checked their website (faithbaptistky.org). I was surprised to see all the activities going on for the congregation. There is also an academy for grades K-8 if you are looking for Baptist and Bible based education for your children.

I enjoyed cruising through the Battlefield Estates for garage sales. There were kids riding bicycles on the sidewalks. Some people were hard at work in their yards trimming and mulching. It felt NORMAL. I enjoyed admiring the homes while stopping at a few sales.

I spotted one house with so many beautiful porcelain dolls displayed. I enjoyed talking with the seller. She told me the dolls were from an estate of a couple that had passed away several years before. Even more impressive, the man had made some of the dolls, even sewing the clothes. He also had furniture making skills, was an artist, and a veteran. Maybe the best part of yard sales is the socializing.

Later in the day I travelled with my husband all the way to Mount Vernon. He bought a handle for a sledgehammer and a cane. It became hazardous when a big gust of wind blew someone's tent right over my head. It rolled over their vehicle and came to a stop. Unfortunately, it was probably unusable in the future.

It was a good day to spend some time together. We saw fabric, pigeons, lots of clothes, toys, and miscellaneous items. We even drove by McNew Monuments. We talked about which headstones we liked for the future. You never know what the future may hold. This was reinforced by the news of the horrible wreck that killed five members of one family on I-75. We all need to make the most of our today.

Who's the meanest and the most contrary old woman you know?

An elderly gentleman was out for a drive with his equally elderly and hard-of-hearing wife the other day when a police officer pulled them over.

"Let me see your license," the officer said to the husband.

"What'd he say?" the woman asked in a loud, shrill voice, not wanting to miss any of the conversation.

"He said he wants to see my license," the husband said.

"Where are you going?" the officer asked.

"What'd he say?" the woman yelled, her voice high and piercing.

"He asked where we're going," the husband said, before turning back to the officer and explaining, "We're on our way to our home in Atlanta."

"Lawdy," the officer said, "the meanest, most contrary old woman I've ever known lives in Atlanta."

"What'd he say?" the woman shouted.

"He said he thinks he knows you," the husband said.

Did you, like that elderly lady, ever listen to a conversation that was so interesting that you didn't want to miss a single word? That was the way it was when I was a kid and my aunts and uncles would gather around the dining room table. Long after they had finished their meals, they'd sit there and talk about the good ol' days and how things used to be. I just couldn't get enough of that.

I suppose every generation tends to be nostalgic about bygone days. But you probably know that the Bible calls on us to make the most of the day and time in which we live.

"Say not thou, 'What is the cause that the former days were better than these?'" (Ecclesiastes 7:10).

I suspect the Lord wants us to do our best in the here and now so that when we grow older and look back, we do so with great nostalgia, that we tell stories of our childhoods and our working years that hold a younger generation spellbound. And I suspect the Lord wants that younger generation to listen to those stories and conclude that they'll do their best to equal or even surpass the experiences of the previous generation.

If days gone by seem better to us, then we need to do our part to make the days in which we now live better.

Let's do everything we can to make some memories this year so that we can sit around the dining room table in our old age and talk about it.

Let's hope a younger generation will sit there spellbound, listening.

And, if we're fortunate, there'll be an elderly woman who sees the laughter and asks in a high, piercing voice: "What'd he say?"

Calendar of events

Folk Circle elects officers for year

In spite of the pandemic, the Folk Circle has been very active and successfully launched online events such as the 11th Berea Celtic Fest, the 68th Fall Mountain Folk Festival, and the 28th Danish American Yule Fest. The use of technology helped create new opportunities for this important non-profit and non-political cultural association in Berea.

Farmers Market begun this spring and so did the story-telling activities that include both a folk tradition and academic approach. In addition, the group expects a visit from a senior dance/gymnastics team from Denmark within the next year and potentially also a boarding school, if the situation allows it.

Brooks focused on present, not future

LEXINGTON (KT) — Keion Brooks didn't pay much attention to the speculation surrounding his future once Kentucky's season came to a close earlier year.

"I was just focusing on getting better," Brooks said at a satellite camp in Elizabethtown last week. "That was on the forefront of my mind. I don't know where all the hoopla and speculation came from. Probably because I didn't come out and announce it."

"To me, it's not really a big deal. I don't see why I should have to announce that I'm coming back to school, but I guess that's what people look for."

Like the rest of his teammates, Brooks struggled gain his footing last season and hasn't forgotten about the hard times that fell on the team amid a global pandemic.

"I can't be ignorant of what happened last year, especially if I am going to try to weed out some of the things that weren't successful for us last year," he said. "... just don't put yourself above the team. Don't be above spending time with your teammates."

Brooks also is looking forward to a return to normalcy next season and hopes Rupp

Arena will return to full capacity.

"I am extremely excited to get back out there before all of our fans," Brooks said. "I've been telling my (new) teammates how loud it is, but you can't really know until you experience it yourself."

Kentucky coach John Calipari attended the Philadelphia 76ers-Atlanta Hawks NBA playoff game on Sunday night and, like Brooks, Calipari is looking forward to a full capacity next season.

"To just be in an arena that was packed gets me excited about this year at Rupp," he said.

"It also reminds me of what our kids missed out on last year - the Kentucky experience. This season can't come fast enough for me."

As for his own journey,

Brooks followed the same route taken by Immanuel Quickley and PJ Washington, whom the Kentucky junior to be said, "made it OK to come back."

"My journey wasn't to be one and done," he said. "It's taken a couple of years and I'm just continuing trying to get better. If I keep doing that, hopefully I can reach my dreams."

Not many former Kentucky players have stayed past two seasons during Calipari's tenure at the school and Brooks will be just the eighth player to compete for three seasons or more with the Wildcats. Join Hood, Alex Poythress, Derek Willis, Dominique Hawkins, Willie Cauley-Stein, Marcus Lee and Nick Richards are the lone former scholarship players under Calipari who have played at least three seasons with the Wildcats.

In order to reach the next level, Brooks has also focused on taking his game to the next level.

"(I've) got to get better shooting the three, taking people off the dribble," Brooks said. "The game is changing and I don't want to get left behind so I have to change my game."

PREP ROUNDUP

Softball

The Madison Southern Lady Eagles hosted Lafayette on Saturday, falling 4-1 in the 11th Region Tournament.

Southern's lone run came courtesy of Ashlan Estep whose RBI plated Samantha Cornelison. Estep went 1-for-2 at the plate with the RBI. Cornelison accounted for Southern's other hit, a double, as she went 1-for-3 at the plate.

The Lady Eagles end the 2021 season with a 20-13 record, including a perfect 4-0 mark against 44th District teams and an 8-5 record against 11th Region foes.

Jessa Juett led the team at the plate in 2021, batting .434 with 8 home runs and 22 RBIs. She also had 8 doubles. Cornelison finished the season with a .410 batting average that featured 11 doubles, 4 home runs and 25 RBIs.

Sage Jackson ended the year by batting .310, including 8 home runs, 8 doubles and 26 RBIs.

Juett and Jackson also led Southern in pitching. Juett finished the season with an 11-10 mark, recording 222 strike outs and an earned run average of 1.07 in 124.2 innings of work. Jackson went 9-2, while finishing with 116 strikeouts in 75.1 innings pitched. She finished with an ERA of 2.42.

Baseball

The Madison Southern Eagles' season came to an end at Lafayette Saturday with a 10-0 loss in the 11th Region Tournament.

included in the 2021 General Assembly Budget.

"This project has been a long time coming. We've been talking about this project for a long time and I am so thankful that we did get that bill passed. It is a Capital Project and once it's a Capital Project there's no taking it away at that point," Taylor said.

"We really hope to be starting on some of those renovation in the next couple of months. It's very exciting and refreshing."

The AOC will oversee the design, financing and construction of the project.

And while Madison County will issue bonds on the project, it will be the AOC which will be making the direct bond payments.

That fact was something that District 3 magistrate John Tudor wanted to emphasize.

"I just want to make sure everybody knows that the renovation of the big white courthouse will be done by the AOC and it will not cost any county funds. It's all made through funds from the court system," Tudor said.

During the renovation, the Circuit Court room will be moved into the nearby former Chase Bank building.

Airport board expands

The Fiscal Court also approved the first reading of an interlocal agreement between the Madison County Airport Board, Eastern Kentucky University, Madison County Fiscal Court, the Richmond City Commission and the Berea City Council which expands the Airport Board from its current six members to eight members and gives ECU two seats on the board.

The move was made possible by HB 158 which was passed in the 2021 General Assembly which permitted ECU to be a constituent party of the Air Board and allows it to nominate two members to the board.

Tudor said he felt it was only fitting that ECU have representation on the board,

"I think it's only fair that ECU has two members on the board. They do a lot of work out there so they should have representation on the board," he said.

In other business the court:

- Approved Madison County Road Department annual bids, giving the asphalt contract to the Allen Co. Inc, bulk oils to Apollo Oil, concrete to Concrete Materials Co. LLC, culverts to Interstate Construction Products, petroleum to Kentucky Potroleum Supply and rock to Allen Co.

- Approved a resolution for a Fiscal Year 2021 RAISE grant application.

- Approved the first reading of an ordinance recommending a zone change request to change property located at 1449 and 1479 Barnes Mill Road from zone UC7 to UC1. The Madison County Planning Commission recommended the change because the properties located between Curtis Pike and Crutcher Pike are more suitable for residential use. The motion was approved by a 4-1 vote with Tudor abstaining.

- Approved the first reading of an ordinance recommending a zone change request for property located at 2300 Battlefield Memorial Highway from R7 to RC4. The Planning Commission recommended that the property located at the intersection of Kirksville Road, Hwy. 499 and Hwy. 421 be rezoned because the current zoning is inappropriate and the RC4 zoning was more appropriate.

- Approved a Memorandum of Agreement between the Madison County EMA and the Madison County Health Department.

- Approved the reappointment of Larry Todd to the Southern Madison Water Board

- Approved the reappointment of Valerie Hines and Mike Mavity to the Board of Adjustments.

- Approved the hiring of Steve Brock as a CDL general laborer

- Approved the hiring of Jessie Lyndsey a kennel technician at the Animal Shelter

Historic festival turns 40 this summer

Berea Craft Festival

July 9-11
at Indian Fort Theatre

• Admission is $6 for adults, $5 for seniors and children under 12 are free. Friendly pets on a leash are welcome.
• The hours will be 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Friday-Saturday and 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday.

Special to The Citizen

The Berea Craft Festival will hold its 40th consecutive fair at historic Indian Fort Theatre.

From July 9-11, more than 100 juried artists from 16 Southeastern states will be presenting their works, while some of the regions most talented musicians and dancers perform spontaneously at points along the path. More than 40 of those artists will be Kentucky based professionals in their field.

Success of the festival comes from including the artists that have come for a number of years and have a following and the artists who are new to the area. Newcomers include artists in watercolors, fiber and 2D mixed mediums. Festival organizers agree that this mixture has something for everyone.

Three days of food and entertainment, all while discovering the artistry of craftspeople—a mix of new and old techniques, traditional and modern items, making the event a representation of very unique, functional works. The festival prides itself on the quality offerings it brings to central Kentucky.

“The initial feeling is set by the amazing forest that houses the artists and entertainers. The beauty of the setting is the perfect companion to the amazing work that artists bring to the grounds,”

In-person meetings & events to resume

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

The Berea City Council adopted an ordinance Tuesday that allows the council and other city committees to resume in-person public meetings. The vote came as city officials heard plans for rebooting several community events, including the Fourth of July celebration and the Berea Craft Festival. Fourth of July festivities will include fireworks and children’s activities at Berea City Park.

Several council members expressed relief that the city is transitioning from COVID-19 restrictions to non-restricted public events. Addressing the Berea Craft Festival slated for July 9-11 at Indian Fort Theater, Melissa Gross said the Madison County Health Department has given the green light for the event, imposing no restrictions.

Park bench dedicated in memory of Combs

The Madison County Fiscal Court hosted a Celebration of Life tribute to late 1st District Magistrate Larry Combs Thursday, June 10, at Battlefield Park.

Surrounded by family, friends and several elected officials, Madison County Judge-Executive Reagan Taylor unveiled a park bench facing his former district on what would have been Combs’ 70th birthday.

A tulip poplar in honor of Combs was planted behind the bench, which bears his signature. The tulip poplar was one of Combs’ favorite trees.

At the time of his death on Dec. 25, 2020, Combs served as the longest tenured magistrate (38 years) in the state of Kentucky. (Keith Taylor)

OBITUARIES

Jimmy Neal Shockley

Mr. Jimmy Neal Shockley, II, 50, of Berea, passed away on Monday, June 14, 2021 at his home. Jimmy was born in Richmond, Kentucky on September 18, 1970 to Anne Henderson and the late Jimmy Shockley. He was a graduate of Madison Central and attended ECU. Jimmy worked at various factories as a forklift driver and was a big hearted, honest individual who also enjoyed a good joke or pulling a prank on his friends. He also loved to eat out with his friends and spend time with his family and many pet cats. Survivors include: his mother, Anne Henderson; one sister, Dorothy Shockley Painter (Charlie); his aunts and uncles, Nancy Henderson, Bob Henderson, Rebecca Griffith and Paul Henderson (Tammy); one great-aunt, Faye Conner; as well as a host

Joan Eleanor Stevens

Joan Eleanor Stevens, formerly of Berea, daughter of Bernice Scott Davidge and James Bradley Morris, went peacefully to her heavenly home on June 13, 2021, at the Frankfort Regional Hospital. Along with her parents, she was preceded in death by her sister, Kay Lois Fuller, and special friend Yvonna King. Joan was born August 4, 1929, in Portsmouth, Ohio where she grew up. She also lived in Michigan, Florida, West Virginia, Tennessee, and Kentucky. Joan had a long career in nursing and spent most of that time with the Cumberland Valley District Health Department in Kentucky, working mainly in Jackson and Rockcastle counties. She had a love for music all her life and worked in the historic Grinnell Brothers Music house in Detroit. She had a beautiful soprano voice and was able to sing with a jazz band and in choirs. She also was an avid lover of Animals having special companions over the years. She loved to read and watch westerns in her spare time. She was blessed to see some amazing things in

ROTARY CLUB

Berea Rotary members were treated with sparkle and enthusiasm emanating from two varied sources—the utilitarian and the artistic. The former came with the speaker Kevin Howard, General Manager for Berea Municipal Utilities. The latter, hosted by member Sune Frederickson, represented the Folk Circle Association of Berea. Howard shared many pieces of numerical data pertaining to rates, gallons, operational needs, safety, types of pipes and wiring as well as sound business procedures for managing water, electric, and sewer. He noted that the utility company was purchased from the college and is unique among a few cities. Of special interest to citizens is that Kentucky is 46th in the nation on rates. There was some discussion concerning the charging stations located at the newly opened dog park. There was consensus among members concerning the high quality of Berea water and the of other extended family and friends. In addition to his father, he was preceded in death by: one aunt, Jane Shockley; and his grandparents, Ed & Dorothy Shockley and Shannon & Betty Henderson; a niece and a nephew. Funeral Services will be conducted at 5 p.m. Saturday, June 19, 2021, at the Combs, Parsons & Collins Funeral Home, W. Main St., Richmond, with Bro. Doug Collins officiating. Visitation will be after 2 p.m. Saturday, at the funeral home. Honorary pallbearers will be: Stacey Irvin, Justin Bergman, Doug Floyd, Michael Griffith, Rob Pineur and Steve Thacker. In lieu of flowers, donations are suggested to Hospice Care Plus, 350 Isaacs Lane, Richmond, KY 40475.

Gina Leigh Cooper McGraw

Gina Leigh Cooper McGraw, 57, passed away peacefully on June 14, 2021, surrounded by her family. Gina was born September 27, 1963 in Hillsboro, Ohio, the loving daughter of Lawrence Eugene Cooper (North Port, Florida) and Sandra Farmer Pence (Berea, Kentucky). She is survived by her loving husband Rick, children Haleigh, Noah, Savannah, Major, Rick and Nashua, daughters-in-law Shino and Amanda, grandchildren Skye Mei and Halo Rei, and sister Pari Cooper and nephew Levi Cooper (Leesburg, Ohio). Gina began her career as a machinist for Packaging Resources in New Vienna, Ohio, where she met her husband, Rick. Together they moved to Mt. Vernon, Kentucky where they continued to work together at Mt. Vernon Plastics. For their first adventure as a couple, they traveled to Vermont in a February blizzard to get married. After returning home, she became a wife and mother. As the family grew - relocating to Paint Lick, Kentucky — the adventures continued with annual family trips from one coast to another and all points in between, including memorable vacations to California, St. Louis, Savannah, Chattanooga and Washington DC. For her next adventure, Gina started making candles in her home in 2006. The interest grew into a wholesale business, and her sister Pari created the logo for the Copperas Mountain Candle Company, named after the mountain on the family’s Red Lick property. The business expanded further and, on November 24, 2017, she opened her storefront in Old Town Berea’s Historic Jail. The same year, she decided to raise honey bees and she and Rick created an apiary at their home in Paint Lick. She will be dearly missed by family and friends and will be remembered for her puns, her gumbo and grilling skills, and her uninhibited and courageous spirit. Like her favorite movie Forrest Gump, Gina explored everything with enthusiasm and lived her life without limitations. That full life set an example to her children to take that trip, to say “let’s try it.” Gina McGraw was a wife, mother, machinist, beekeeper, candlemaker and best friend - but her true calling was as an adventurer who shared her zest for life with all she knew. The family will hold a private memorial service at a later date.

Sunday mornings, hard work and power naps

When I was growing up, Sunday was hardly a day of rest. I can remember waking up to the sounds of the “Gospel Singing Jubilee” being played on the only television set we had in the living room as we all took turns getting ready for church. I also remember watching the “Revival Tabernacle” with Rev. Byron Jessup on Sunday mornings after the morning singing. My grandmother and grandfather watched Revival Tabernacle every Sunday morning and I believe my grandmother Taylor ordered one of those

Bibles that he gave to listeners who supported his ministry. Sometimes I tried to get an extra minute or two in before waking up for good, but dad always threatened throwing cold water on my face if I didn’t get up before he left my room. One morning, dad had finally ran out of patience and I felt water hit my face. That’s the first and only time

I remember dad actually pouring water in my face. That will put the fear of God in you in a hurry, especially with your eyes closed in between a deep sleep and waking up. Dad pastored several churches throughout the region and he always thought being 10-15 minutes early meant that you were on time. I still abide by that unwritten family rule to this day and I usually set my watch 5-10 minutes early so I don’t consider myself late to any event. We went to Sunday school, morning worship and Sunday night church. We also went on Saturday and Wednesday night. One church dad pastored — Kings Tabernacle — wasn’t far from my house on Walnut Meadow Road. Every so often, we would walk to church, especially in the summer when the nights were longer and dad had a shorter sermon planned. Most of the time we drove, which meant dad had a long sermon to preach. Sorry, dad, but sometimes you were long winded, but you and mom brought my sister and I up the right way, and for that, I am forever thankful.

Sometimes on Sunday in between church services, we would either go out to eat, go to someone’s house for dinner or we went roller skating at Club Arena here in Berea to help pass up the time. Other times, we would just go home and rest. I can remember dad taking those “power naps” and I learned early on how beneficial those can be, especially on a Sunday afternoon. One of the biggest things dad taught me was the value of hard work, going to church, power naps and the fear of non-baptism water on Sunday morning.

Day for Dad

The month of June is filled with many different celebrations. Once summer arrives in June, schools shut down for a few month’s worth of vacation and most recreational attractions, such as amusement parks and boardwalks, begin operating at full capacity. June also is the month to show dads how much they are loved and appreciated. This year Father’s Day takes place on Sunday and marks the 110th anniversary of this day for dads. Even though Father’s Day began as a regional event in the state of Washington, nearly 60 years later it would be recognized as a national holiday across the United States. Father’s Day also is commemorated elsewhere in the world at various times of the year. According to the most recent census data and statistics, there are 8.6 million fathers and father figures in Canada and 72 million in the United States alone. The following are some ways to treat dads this Father’s Day.

Participate in his hobby

Dad likely has some favorite hobbies, such as playing a favorite sport, boating, hunting, woodworking, or restoring a classic car. Asking to join in to learn the ropes of his favorite hobby can be an ideal way to spend time with Dad and show you care.

Tackle his chores

Provide Dad a weekend off from his normal tasks around the house if they are within your skill set. Volunteer to mow the lawn, weed the garden, run for groceries, or get the car washed. You also may want to help him finish a project he started but hasn’t yet completed.

Take in a show or a game

Maybe Dad has a favorite team he follows or a comedian he loves to watch. Purchase tickets so you can go in person. If that’s not possible, make home viewing a special event by clearing a few hours of your schedule and setting up a comfortable viewing area. Make some special snacks and stream his favorite programming right at home.

Give him “his” space

Dads often make sacrifices for their families, and this could mean compromising on his comfort and pleasure to ensure everyone else has what they need. Create a spot that is entirely his own. This may involve renovating the basement or garage for hobbies or hanging out. Even a free-standing shed in the backyard can be billed as a “Dad Zone,” giving your father a place to which he can retreat for some peace and quiet. Start thinking of special ways to show Dad he deserves top billing.

Coffey: U.S. 25 yard sale a success

The U.S. 25 Yard Sale came to a conclusion earlier this month after three days of fun by all. Rain on Thursday, especially in the northern part, affected attendance. I think this was one of the lower attended events we’ve held. I’d have to blame that on COVID-19 and the bounce back in tourism from the pandemic. We did have plenty for sale, several spots had multiple vendors, especially around London and Corbin — with the best spots in the south being the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame in Mt. Vernon and that wide spot in the road at Lilly. My goodness, what a spot. Dozens of dealers in one spot. The event is organized by two unpaid volunteers with a Facebook page and two cell phones and we look forward now to our companion event, the Boone Way Yard Sale Oct. 1-2 on the same route. We look forward to making it an even better event.

SUDOKU

Level: Intermediate

Here’s How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Take the time to enjoy moments without technology

So often we take things for granted: time, family, happiness, all of the things life has to offer. But, it is all fleeting. Life can be so easily missed because of the device in our hand or the staging of a photo for the perfect social media worthy moment.

This weekend I took the opportunity to “escape” to Tennessee. My husband and I took the scenic routes through the Great Smoky Mountain National Park and Cades Cove, like hundreds of other families. Cell phone service in these areas, much like in Kirksville and Poosey, is limited or non-existent. Being used to that from time spent at Jigg Water or the Green Hole, I had no problem putting my phone in the glove box and just taking in all the breathtaking views and talking with my husband.

However, I couldn’t help but notice all of the families that were missing the moments with their children or significant others because they were hanging out of their window taking a photo of the bears, turkeys, or elk. They missed the expression on the faces of children when they saw these animals for the first time, they missed the chance to talk with them about nature and all that it means for us. They missed the moment...for a photo.

Times have changed. Technology is everywhere. Social media is a driving force behind most of society. I hope though that our small town can continue to enjoy life being truly hands free to soak in every moment whether it’s at Jigg Water or on the back of the farm.

After losing so many people this year that we love, it’s tempting to want to take photos of everything to have it in a memory box or album. But, I promise those photos aren’t what you cling on to in the darkest of nights. You cling for dear life to memories that you can close your eyes and relive, even if only for a moment. The picture probably won’t matter, but the memory surely will.

I have often wondered what it would be like to live somewhere else. Perhaps somewhere near an ocean or lake, the mountains, or just a different zip code.

Though, each and every time I leave for a weekend, I am always grateful to see the caution lights at the intersection of 1295 and 595 and see my cell phone service drop to only a couple bars.

We may be lacking a little in internet and cell phone service, but at least we all know how to enjoy a moment without technology.

Reflections

Berea Citizen Archives: June 15, 2006

Renovating history

After decades of deterioration, the formerly segregated Middletown school was to once again become an educational institution for children, teachers and parents of all ethnicities. Berea College’s program ‘Gear Up’ (Gaining Early Awareness and Readiness of Undergraduate Programs), which assists with low-income families with the higher education of school-aged children would be the occupant of the facility once the renovations were complete. Berea College never had the opportunity nor the money to renovate the space according to Drema Gentry, director of the Gear Up program. However, with the program’s need for a larger facility, it allowed for a grant of $17.1 million to make the renovation possible. Middletown was one of 5,000 schools built in the second decade of the 20th century throughout the south and southwest for the education of black children that was funded by the president of Sears, Roebuck Company, Julius Rosenwald. Few of these 5,000 structures remained in 2002. As a result the National Trust for Historic Preservation named the Rosenwald Schools to its list of 11 Most Endangered Historic Places. Middletown, then called the Berea Consolidated School, was built on Berea College property in 1927. It educated African – American students from three districts, until schools were desegregated in the 1960’s. After that, the facility was used as a community center until it was abandoned.

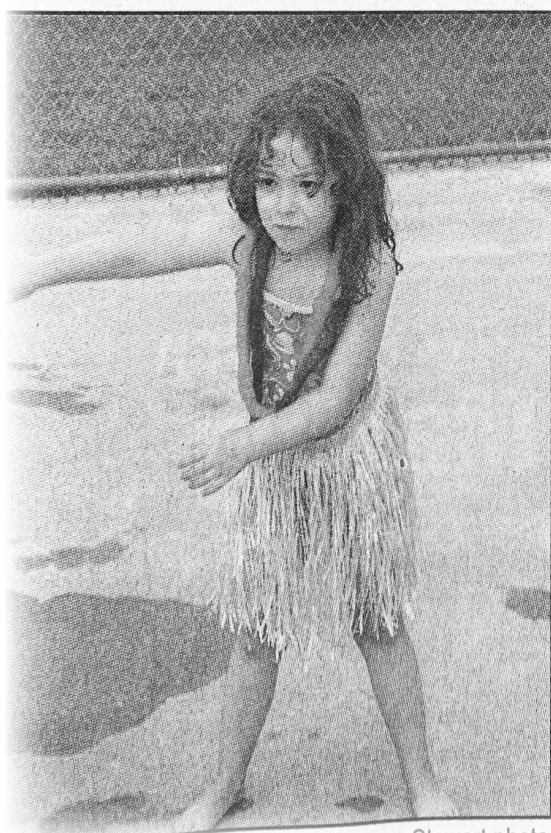

Osborne honored

Reverend J. Randolph “Randy” Osborne was honored of the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the Christian Ministry by Mt. Zion Christian Church and many of his friends and colleagues on June 4, 2006. Osborne was ordained in the Mt.

Olivet Christian Church in Rose Hill, Virginia on the first Sunday in June of 1956. He had served in churches in Virginia, Tennessee and Indiana. He was the pastor of Mt. Zion from 1966 until 2002. Osborne had been employed by Berea College since 1965, where he served as the director of the Campus Christian Center as an assistant professor of religion. From 1966 through 1993 he worked as a staff member during the summer on archaeological excavations at Tell Gezer, Israel. He was instrumental in establishing the Sister Region Exchange with Yatsugatake, Japan and was at the time the president of the board of the American Committee for Kiyosato Educational Experiment Project (KEEP). Osborne’s service to God was lifted up by Lon Oliver; his Service to Family was celebrated by his son and daughter Roger and Sara Osborne and his Service to Friends was shared by Billy Edd Wheeler. Following the service, a memorial tree was planted in honor of Reverend Osborne.

...people stood in line eagerly anticipating this year’s debut of Dive-In Movies at the city swimming pool last Saturday evening. The night kicked off with a luau party complete with music, dancing and swimming. At left, Kaylee Roark does her best hula dance during the party. At dark, attendees were treated to a viewing of the animated movie “Hoodwinked,” a modern twist on classic fairy tales. The event was free, but limited to the first 500 people through the gate. The first Dive-In Movie took place last year, and the popularity of the event led to it being expanded this year. More free Dive-In Movies are planned at the pool on Saturday, June 17, and Saturday, June 24. Gates open at 7:30 p.m., with the movie beginning at dark.

Bus service ready to roll

Until recently, being without a car meant either walking, depending on others or in the case of seniors or people with disabilities, not going out at all. Beginning July 3, 2006, those conditions became a thing of the past. The City of Berea began partnership with the Richmond based Kentucky River Foothills Development Incorporated to provide shuttle bus transportation to Berea’s shopping areas, health care facilities, libraries post office and city government offices. The council had worked hard on the project for two years according to city council member, Truman Fields. The Berea City Council closely studied the bus system in Glasgow and other state municipalities during the course of designing a system for Berea. Kentucky River Foothills Development matched the city funding of approximately $83,000. The bus service would run Monday through Friday, with the cost of a one-way ticket being one dollar.

Clerk tells robber to leave, he does

According to police a man entered the Curry Shell Mart on Prince Royal Drive around 5:45 on June 13. The man approached the counter to purchase Stop Leak (a product used to slow leaks in radiators). However, while the man was at the counter, he pulled a handgun and demanded two packs of cigarettes from the clerk. According to Berea Police Lt. Ken Clark, “Apparently she (the store clerk) told him he wasn’t getting anything from her and to get out of her store, and he did.”

The suspect was described as a white male, approximately 50 years of age with a thin build. He was approximately 5’7” in height. The clerk was unable to provide a vehicle description but told police that the suspect told her he was desperate while he was exiting the store.

Political passions

We probably think people get more riled up now over political matters than in the past, but I saw a newspaper clipping that proved that false. In January of 1866 there was a fight in front of the Madison County courthouse that killed Henry Parrish, Archibald K.

Maupin, Azariah Doty, and Amas Worlds. Continuing bad feelings caused Humphrey Kavanaugh to be shot and killed a week later, while Ed Parrish was killed a year later. The fight was partly attributed to tensions between the Kavanaghs (Confederate Army) and Parrishes (Federal Army).

I was interested because Kavanaugh and Maupin are Kingston landowner names from the past. I was curious to see if Dana Maupin Sparks knew more about the story when I talked to her. She did not. Her family tree contains Dotys and Kavanaghs on her mother’s side of the family. The Dotys came over on the Mayflower in 1620 to Plymouth. The Kavanaghs were Irish. The Maupins were originally French Huguenots.

Dana had information about George Washington Maupin and his famous foxhound, Tennessee Lead. Tom Harris stole the hound while it was in a deer chase in Tennessee. He sold it to Maupin in 1852. There is an article on appalachianhistory.net about the impact the Maupins and Tennessee Lead had on the development of foxhounds.

Dana was baptized in 1959 and became a member of Hays Fork Baptist Church. She was proud to have been part of the choir there that sang at a Billy Graham crusade in Louisville. Pappy Terrill got the sheet music so the singers could practice.

Dana’s dad, Lloyd died in 1973 at the age of 46. He liked to go on historical trips. She could remember visiting Fort Harrod, White Hall, Shaker Town, and Boonesborough. They saw a play, “The Book of Job.” They were rained out three times before watching a play at Indian Fort Theater.

Except for two years of attending Sue Bennett College, Dana has lived near Kingston most of her life even after she married. Her mom Janet lived nearby after being widowed. Dana worked at the courthouse for a year before she became the secretary at the Kingston school from 1973-2000. After retiring from there, she worked at the Board of Education part-time from 2001-2010.

Dana told me about Robert Doty. He lost his home when the Depot was built around 1941. Dana said Robert had to be carried off in a chair. She also said that as far as she knew he never cashed the check he received.

Dana also told me about Elizabeth Francis Doty. She was a young woman just beginning her life. She graduated college, obtained a teaching job, and was engaged. She was taken early by TB at age 25. Dana had another relative that was treated successfully for TB.

Talented chicken just couldn't handle the pressure anymore

I heard a chicken farmer talking the other day about all his great laying hens. Some laid those white eggs like you buy in the grocery store. Some laid those delicious brown eggs. He said he even had one that laid different colored eggs.

"All I had to do was wave a cloth in front of that chicken, and she'd lay an egg the color of that cloth," the chicken farmer bragged. "It worked well until someone waved an American flag in front of that hen. She committed suicide."

I suppose it would be a difficult thing for a chicken to lay a red, white and blue striped eggs with 50 little stars intermingled.

Perhaps you've felt at times that you've faced responsibilities beyond your capability, and you really didn't know where to begin. What I've learned to do at a time like that is to humble my heart and pray for the Lord to enable me. I expect you do the same thing.

One of my favorite Bible verses tells us that our God "is able to do exceeding, abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us" (Ephesians 3:20).

Another of my favorites, Philipians 4:3, tells us, "I can do all things through Christ which strengthens me."

I can't begin to tell you how many times over the years those verses and other similar ones have given me the encouragement I needed to press forward, even when I felt like I was treading waters way over my head. And I can tell you, the Lord came through every single time.

I have talked with Christian mechanics who tell me that, when they come to a puzzling problem with an engine or accessory that they just can't figure out, they simply ask the Lord to help them, and, just like that, the answer comes to them. Those mechanics testify that our Lord is the Master mechanic.

I've talked to Christian journalists who, facing writer's block and sitting there with no idea what the next line ought to be, bow their heads and ask for the Lord's help. Those journalists testify that the Lord is the greatest of all writers.

No matter your vocation, the Lord is right there on the job with you, just waiting for you to ask for his help when you have no idea what to do next. If you'll ask, He'll show you.

I don't want to overpromise what the Lord will do for you on the job. Sometimes that has to do with how closely we're walking with him. But I feel sure he loves for us to ask for his help when we get stuck or when things just aren't going so well.

I've been amazed time and again by what he has done for me. I've learned to rely entirely upon him.

You'll likely face times in your life when you're facing puzzling circumstances at work – so puzzling, perhaps, that you feel like that chicken who thought she needed to produce an egg in the colors of an American flag. In those times, I challenge you to call on the Lord and see if he doesn't come through for you.

Telehealth sleep services still important

The key to getting a good night’s sleep is not a far drive from home.

With the ability to diagnose and treat sleep disorders on site at Saint Joseph Berea, Dr. Jeremiah Suhl and the team at CHI Saint Joseph Health – Sleep Care Center in Berea use the latest equipment and technology to help patients.

The center reopened in 2018 with funding through a grant from the Saint Joseph Berea Foundation, but has served Madison County and neighboring counties for more than a decade.

“We started over 10 years ago at Saint Joseph Berea using equipment funded through a rural health grant we received, and we were having weekly sessions with patients in Berea while I was in Lexington,” Dr. Suhl said. “Back when we first started, we had a tremendous surge in gas prices. We had figured out that the cost of gas to drive from Berea to Lexington and back was more than the copay for a medical exam for many patients. It turned out, having telehealth visits at Saint Joseph Berea was not just a time-saver but also a cost saver for our patients.”

Having this telehealth service option was especially helpful as the COVID-19 pandemic quickly hit. Dr. Suhl and his team already had a process in place to help patients remotely and were able to begin offering this service to high-risk patients who had once preferred to meet in person.

With nearly 70 million people in the U.S. suffer from a sleep-related disorder, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), it was important to ensure that the community had a virtual way to receive the services they often need to help ensure a good night’s sleep.

Sleep disorders include sleep apnea, sleep deprivation, periodic limb movement disorder, nocturnal behaviors and disorders, including sleepwalking, talking and eating during sleep, acting out in dreams, and narcolepsy.

“Some people also experience symptoms, such as fatigue, irritability, drowsiness, memory loss or loss of productivity, and others may not,” Dr. Suhl said.

If someone thinks they have symptoms of a sleep disorder, or if they are required to complete sleep studies to retain their transportation licenses, such as a semi-tractor trailer operator’s license, the Sleep Care Center can see them for a diagnostic appointment at Saint Joseph Berea through telehealth.

While based in Lexington, Dr. Suhl operates a camera, an otoscope and a stethoscope, with help from a medical technologist, to determine if a patient needs a sleep study — just as if he was in the room with the patient. The sleep lab is a fully accredited, full-service sleep lab performing polysomnography tests with a highly trained and experienced sleep technologist. There also is the capability of home sleep apnea testing in some cases; however, that test is less sensitive for detecting sleep apnea.

“If someone shows severe sleep apnea during a sleep study, we can start treatment, which is an air pressure treatment called a CPAP, while they’re here,” Dr. Suhl said. “We can not only diagnose the problem, but we can show the treatment is effective for them in the same night.”

Sleep apnea is one of the most common sleep disorders, according to Dr. Suhl, which can lead to serious health complications, such as increased risk for stroke, heart attack, glaucoma, diabetes, cancer, cognitive and behavioral disorders. Undiagnosed sleep disorders can also worsen symptoms for patients diagnosed with depression and bipolar disorder, diabetes and high blood pressure.

City donates firetruck to Berea Volunteer Fire & Rescue

In what is a big milestone, the Berea Volunteer Fire & Rescue Squad received their first fire engine, donated by the City of Berea. Present for the handover was (from left) Berea Fire Department Chief Shawn Sandlin, Captain Mike Morris of the Berea Volunteer Fire & Rescue Squad, Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley, and Firefighter William Osborne of the volunteers. Tuesday marked a milestone in the history of the Berea Volunteer Fireman’s Association when the Berea Volunteer Fire & Rescue Squad took possession of their first firetruck, donated to them in a unanimous decision of the Berea City Council. Captain Mike Morris, who has served with the volunteers for nearly 40 years, said receiving the truck will help the unit give volunteers a broader range of instruction, including how to operate the equipment during an emergency.

for the craft festival and other upcoming events, including the Spoonbread Festival, which is slated for the third week of September, as well as the Celtic Festival scheduled for August, and the Kentucky Guild Fair in October.

On a related note, the council unanimously approved a special measure granting a temporary exception to nepotism rules in order to award a $1,000 contract to Rick Terrill for the rental of a field for parking for the Berea Craft Festival. Officials emphasized the property was chosen because of its proximity to Indian Fort Theater and to help ensure public safety. Ronnie Terrill abstained from the vote.

Budget approved

In other action, the council unanimously approved the second reading of the 2021-2022 fiscal year budget. The spending plan does not include federal funds from the American Rescue Plan, which could bring the city as much as a combined $4.1 million in 2021-2022, according to Mayor Fraley. Fraley said that the funds, which could be released this summer, include rules for how funds can be spent.

Meanwhile, Berea Municipal Utilities Manager Kevin Howard requested a change order for the 2021 sanitary sewer rehabilitation project by $169,572. Howard noted that Aken Excavating discovered complications when working on the project.

Seasonal employment

On the issue of seasonal employment, the council met in a work session to discuss amending procedures for seasonal hiring of employees. Berea City Administrator David Gregory explained there was a case in which a job candidate wanted to apply for a seasonal position, such as a lifeguard, but could not do so because they are related to a city officer. The rule change enables the mayor to make exceptions to the nepotism rule for seasonal employees, provided the mayor submits written justification for the decision. The council unanimously approved the first reading of the ordinance.

More franchises

Concerning the city’s franchises, the council heard the first reading of an ordinance granting a 10-year franchise of Open Fiber Kentucky, LLC, a telecommunications provider. The new franchise is the latest result of an effort to open competition between cable and internet providers in Berea. “The more the merrier,” said Berea City Council member Teresa Scenters. “I just hope we see more rate reductions for citizens.”

Airport board

Another ordinance approved for the first reading was a measure to expand the Madison County Airport Board to include two members from Eastern Kentucky University. ECU is the fixed base operator for the facility.

During council comments, John Payne read a draft of the proposed Juneteenth Resolution for 2021. The resolution expresses a continued commitment to ensure a safe Berea community for people of all races.

Roelofs report

Berea College President Lyle Roeloffs delivered his report to the city, while also announcing plans to step down from his position in 2023. Roelofs was thanked and congratulated by council members for his service to the Berea community, especially during the pandemic. So far, Roelof’s tenure has seen a growing partnership between the college and the city, including expansion of Berea’s trail system.

Pool patience

Concerning the Berea City Pool, Scenters urged citizens to be patient with the new arrangement, which was dictated because of uncertainty about how the pool would have to be operated because of COVID-19 restrictions. Following guidelines from the state, the city hired fewer people and imposed rules to comply. Scenters said the city would get through this year, then expect things to be back to normal in 2022.

New opportunity

Councilman Jim Davis, meanwhile, urged residents to take advantage of the grocery delivery service offered to Berea citizens by the Kroger outlet in Richmond. Officials have said using the service could Kroger executives to justify the possibility of eventually bringing a new store to Berea. Attracting new grocery outlets has been a continuing goal of the council’s Economic Development Committee, which is chaired by Davis.

The next Berea City Council meeting, which is open to the public, will be July 6 at the Berea City Annex.

Dog Bite Awareness Week

Not many people go to work every day under the constant threat of dog bite – but the USPS letter carriers do. On average, nearly 15 mail carriers per day are attacked.

Postal Service officials report that in 2020, over 5,800 letter carriers experienced dog bites or dog attacks. With deliveries very day, including Sundays and holidays, carriers continue to experience dog bites in urban, suburban and rural settings.

Dog attacks and bites are 100 percent preventable when dog owners remain vigilant and properly restrain their dogs.

To ensure mail carriers’ safety, dog owners must securely lock their dogs in another room until a delivery exchange is done. If a dog is outside, the dog must be leashed away from the mailbox.

When a carrier feels unsafe, mail service could be interrupted, not only for the dog owner, but for the entire neighborhood. When mail service is interrupted, mail must be picked up at the Post Office. Service will not be restored until the dog is properly restrained.

With your help, we can keep our carriers, your neighborhood and your dogs safe. Thank you for protecting your pet and our mail carriers as we continue to bring packages and correspondence to your door each day.

Sincerely,
Mark A. Brown

Online renewal of driver’s licenses now an option

FRANKFORT (KT) – The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet announced on Monday they have launched a service to drive Kentucky into a new era of driver licensing, the online renewal of driver’s and motor-cycle licenses.

Online license renewal is among the new conveniences and options available to Kentuckians because of the phased transfer of licensing services to KYTC regional offices from local Offices of the Circuit Court Clerks. All counties are required to have made the transition by June 30, 2022, and 20 already have done so, with more joining the list each month.

The new driver licensing service is being administered through a network of Driver Licensing Regional Offices located around the state. Eighteen offices are now operating, and more offices are planned to open.

“This is a dramatic step forward for customer convenience – the ability to go online to renew your driving credential and save yourself a trip to a licensing office if you don’t otherwise require in-person service,” said Gov. Andy Beshear.

“Modernizing state services puts Kentuckians in the driver’s seat to choose how they want to be served and make a Better Kentucky.”

The online renewal option is for holders of standard-issue or REAL ID licenses whose credentials will expire within six months – or have been expired for less than a year – and want to maintain the same card version as their current license (standard or REAL ID). The applicant’s name and address must be the same as what is listed on their current credential.

“We’re taking driver licensing to a new level in Kentucky,” said Transportation Secretary Jim Gray. “Greater efficiency, greater security and more choices.”

The online renewal option does not apply to:

- Kentuckians requesting a license replacement for lost or stolen cards.
- Those upgrading from standard-issue license to a REAL ID.
- Kentuckians upgrading from four-year to eight-year expiration.
- Those needing a license with changed name or address.

--Holders of Commercial driver’s licenses (CDL).

Applications for a replacement license or a license that reflects a change of name or address must be made in person. That can be done at any Driver Licensing Regional Office, or Office of Circuit Court Clerk in the customer’s county of residence, provided the clerk’s office has not yet transferred licensing services.

Initial application for a REAL ID must be made in person and can only be done at a KYTC Driver Licensing Regional Office due to document verification requirements. Kentucky REAL ID card-holders may renew their REAL ID online when they are due to renew.

Redrawing of congressional and legislative districts delayed

FRANKFORT (KT) – While the job re-drawing Kentucky’s Congressional and legislative districts every 10 years is a difficult enough task, a four-month delay in getting official U. S. Census data will make it even tougher.

Wendy Underhill with the National Conference of State Legislatures told the General Assembly’s Interim Joint State Government Committee on Tuesday that the Census data, which was supposed to be released in April, won’t be available until Aug. 16. Some of the reasons she cited were the COVID-19 pandemic, natural disasters such as fires and floods, and policy changes.

Senate Majority Leader Damon Thayer, R-Georgetown, a member of the committee, said Gov. Andy Beshear will have to call a special session of the General Assembly during the fourth quarter of this year to approve Congressional and legislative redistricting. “If we don’t have a special session,” he told his fellow committee members, “we are going to have to come in January 4, pass a new bill that tempo-rily delays the filing deadline for one year, probably back to late January, or perhaps into early February. Because we’re then going to have to pass the new maps, wait to see if the governor signs or vetoes them, then give the people a few weeks to digest the new districts to figure out which district they live in.”

The Governor’s Office said the Republican majority has not talked to Gov. Beshear about redistricting and in multiple meetings and conversations over the last several weeks have not asked for a special session.

“Gov. Beshear is focused on ending COVID in the commonwealth and continuing Kentucky’s economic resurgence from the pandemic,” a spokesman said. “The governor and his team look forward to receiving more information from the Census Bureau later this year and determining the best option for redrawing congressional and legislative districts in the commonwealth.”

Thayer said even without the final census figures, there is a huge population shift in Kentucky.

“People are moving out of eastern Kentucky and western Kentucky, and they’re moving generally into the ‘Golden Triangle’ - Lexington, Louisville and northern Kentucky. But, more generally, between the interstates. Bowling Green has seen growth and Owensboro has seen growth. Those are the only places outside of the area between I-65 and I-75, that we’re seeing growth.”

As a result, he said they will have some tough decisions to make. “There are going to be fewer Senate districts and fewer House districts in eastern and western Kentucky. We might as well get that out on the record as early as possible. We’re in June and that’s about as early as we can.”

The preliminary data indicates Kentucky will keep all six current Congressional districts, although those boundaries will have to be redrawn for equal population in each of them, as well as the 38 Senate and 100 House districts.

Lawmakers also need to deal with judicial redistricting. Rep. Jason Nemes, R-Louisville, who has been chief of staff to former Kentucky Supreme Court Chief Justice Joseph E. Lambert and as director of the Administrative Office of the Courts, says it’s been at least three decades since this has been done, leaving the seven Court of Appeals and Supreme Court districts with widely differing populations. “Two of the seven are more than 200,000 people less than the others,” Nemes told the panel. “We also have trial court redistricting that needs to happen.”

Lawmakers would draw the appellate districts, while the Supreme Court would determine the circuit and district court boundaries.

Disaster benefit deadline extended

FRANKFORT, Ky. (KT) – An extension has been granted for Eastern Kentuckians in nine counties affected by the historic flooding in February and March to apply for disaster food stamp benefits.

The original deadline was Monday, June 14, but was extended by two days, said Gov. Andy Beshear. “This new deadline was approved by the Disaster Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program federal administrator, which will allow more Kentuckians who were impacted by this historic flooding to apply for help.”

The new deadline is Wednesday for application to the benefits program for flood-affected residents who lived or worked in the following counties between Feb. 26 and March 14, 2021, which received an Individual Assistance Declaration from Federal Emergency Management Agency, or FEMA: Breathitt, Clay, Estill, Floyd, Johnson, Lee, Magoffin, Martin and Powell. The state is also seeking Disaster Supplemental Nutrition Assistance approval from the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the other 22 counties that have also received an Individual Assistance Declaration due to flooding.

FESTIVAL

said festival enthusiast Melissa Gross.

The annual festival is a hub for woodcarvers, potters and leatherworkers. Festival-goers are offered the opportunity to witness and participate in educational craft demonstrations.

This year’s demonstrations will be in the areas of blacksmithing, weaving, silver-smithing, and ceramics. Real connections to the art going home is found when the experience includes seeing who actually made the piece.

Gifts of all kinds abound in the form of jewelry, leather, ceramics and kitchen accessories. Handmade furniture that can be a family heirloom for generations to come will be displayed at the festival in the traditional and primitive styles. Children’s clothing, scarves and felt creatures will be beautifully crafted new wares.

Kid’s crafts are housed under their own tent for many messy and imaginative opportunities. Marbling paper, repurposing paper for collages, and hand decorations are offered at no cost for the young people to show off their creative genius.

Entertainment and food have been a huge part of the festival’s draw, and there will be a variety of both again this summer.

Operating in-and-around several different performance areas, musicians representing a number of musical styles will stroll about the guests and break into song or dance.

Allen envisions 'great' finish to career

Kentucky redshirt freshman Dontaie Allen is determined to do great things with the Wildcats. (UK Athletics Photo).

By Keith Taylor

LEXINGTON (KT) — Dontaie Allen is staying put and never considering transferring from the University of Kentucky.

Although Allen could have made a move after his first two seasons with the Wildcats, the former Pendleton County High School standout and Kentucky Mr. Basketball is focused on climbing the proverbial ladder.

"I pride myself in being a hard worker, so I looked at it like what do I have to add to my regimen to get better," he said. "I'm not a quitter by any means so in coming back for this season it's just been about improving my game to be a big contributor on this team."

Allen is coming off one of his most productive seasons at Kentucky. He scored a season-high 23 points twice, giving Allen more confidence going into his third season with the Wildcats. He played in four of the team's first six games before breaking out with a 23-point performance in a win on the road at Mississippi State. He also scored 23 in a loss to the Bulldogs in the Southeastern Conference Tournament as Kentucky ended with a 9-16 record.

"I think the big thing with me was I was just playing my game," Allen said. "A lot of things could distract to certain people in that position, but me, I just kept my head down and kept working."

Allen now says his confidence is higher and has been working on becoming a consistent player next season.

"At the end of the day it comes down to confidence," Allen said. "I wouldn't say I was lacking confidence, but I think it's something I've worked on all summer and I'm going to be more than great in my eyes this coming season in all aspects of my game."

Allen has enjoyed getting to know his future teammates during the past two weeks as the Wildcats have circled the state making appearances in a satellite camp. Unlike last season, the camps have given Allen and his teammates time to bond on and off the court.

"We're already having a lot of fun together," he said. "We've been able to scrimmage a little bit and some of the guys have spent time playing video games, pool and ping pong games with each other. There's just a whole different feel compared to the way things were last year."

Allen also likes the makeup of the current squad and added "there's going to be a lot of nice pieces on this team."

"A lot of guys have already gotten better and we've added some guys who can really shoot the ball and do other things," he said. "I've worked really hard to improve some parts of my game like ball handling but the main thing is just confidence."

More than ever, Allen is determined to finishing out the remainder of his career on a high note.

"I'm looking forward to showing my whole game next season," he said. "I'm determined to be great here."

UMass to honor Calipari with statue in HOF event

By Keith Taylor

LEXINGTON (KT) — John Calipari will be among four statues that will be unveiled at the University of Massachusetts next fall.

Statues featuring Calipari, Marcus Camby, Julius Erving and Jack Leaman will be unveiled near the Mullins Center on Sept. 11 in Amherst.

"These four pillars of our men's basketball program put Massachusetts Basketball on the map during their time in Amherst," UMass Athletics Director Ryan Bamford said. "They are responsible for some of the most memorable moments in our program's history, and we are thrilled to honor their legacies with this lasting tribute."

"We look forward to welcoming these Minuteman legends, their families and our fans back to campus this fall to celebrate this special ceremony together."

Calipari led the UMass men's basketball team to an overall record of 193-71 in his eight seasons as coach from 1988-1996. His .731 career winning percentage remains the best in school history, and he ranks second all-time at UMass in victories with 193.

Calipari led the Minutemen to five straight NCAA Tournament appearances from 1992-1996, after UMass had gone to the NCAAAs only once in the first 81 years of the program. His Minutemen made the Atlantic 10's first and only Final Four appearance during the 1996 season, during which they went 35-2 overall and spent 10 weeks ranked No. 1 in the nation. Following the 1996 season, Calipari was named National Coach of the Year by the National Association of Basketball Coaches, The Sporting News and Boost-Naismith.

The 1995-96 UMass squad will be inducted as a team. Calipari was inducted into the UMass Hall of Fame in 2004.

Kentucky defeated UMass 81-74 in the national semifinals in 1996 after losing to the Minutemen 92-

-82 during the regular season. The Wildcats were 34-2 and national champions after defeating Syracuse in the finals.

The UMass Hall of Fame induction ceremony is set for 6 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 10.

Home sweet home

Kentucky assistant coach Orlando Antigua admitted that he would have likely stayed at Illinois if not for a second opportunity to coach at Kentucky.

"It's home," he said. "If it wasn't Kentucky, I would have stayed in Champaign (Illinois). (Head coach) Brad (Underwood) and (AD) Josh Whitman and the staff and the people up there at Illinois were phenomenal. But it's just the relationship 'I have with Cal, the relationship I have with Lexington, my daughter just graduated from here (UK)."

The Wildcats began summer practice Monday and are still in the midst of a satellite tour across the state.

"You need that time to lay that focus, the vision, the togetherness, the bonding that needs to happen when you're trying to push people through the comfort level," he said.

"There's a trust that has to happen that has to be kinda sped up and forced early, in particular here, that at some other places you don't have that same kind of restriction or pressure to do and not being able to be with them and work with them last spring and summer was a big part."

Back in action: Summer hoops heating up

Summer 2021 is very different from 2020, as many restrictions related to the pandemic have been lifted. This is true for high school basketball's summer season as Madison Southern, and Berea Community teams are on the court getting ready for the 2021-2022 basketball season.

Madison Southern Eagles Coach Austin Newton's team has hit the ground running, racing out to a 16-2 mark over the last several weeks.

"Our only losses were against North Laurel and Great Crossing," Newton said. "We have beaten 11th Region opponents Madison Central, Lexington Catholic, and Henry Clay."

Last weekend, Southern went 2-0, knocking off Danville Christian Academy 37-31 and Bell County, 86-66.

Newton said summer ball is vital to any program, and the upcoming basketball season has a chance to be special.

"We have the potential to do some special things this season if we can continue to mature and get stronger mentally and physically," he said. "Not having summer ball hurt us last year because we lost 11 seniors the year before. Summer ball allows you to figure out things and try new lineups. We are going to benefit from all the games we are playing this summer."

Lady Eagles

Heading into his second year as Lady Eagles Coach, Josh Curtis knows the importance of summer basketball as he is looking to replace a ton of scoring for players who graduated.

"It has been a good summer for us so far," he said. "We are .500, and every team we've played can win their region next season."

Curtin said the returning players are being asked to step up and take on different roles than they did last year.

"We are asking kids to do things they haven't been asked to do in the past," he said. "Each day, we figure out a little bit more about who we are. We have had a different leading scorer almost every game, and I think that many different options will make us that much more difficult to prepare for when the season gets here."

Berea Pirates

First-year Berea Pirates Coach Eric Fields said his young players are adjusting well to high school basketball.

"We've got a lot of young kids playing that are getting adjusted to the pace at the high-school level," Fields said. "We are making strides in the right direction to get better, and we are getting into the gym every day."

Fields said this summer's goal is to see improvement on the court and in the weight room, as he feels summer basketball will pay dividends when the season rolls around.

"We just have to say focused and stay in the weight room," he said. "We are getting better, and that's all that matters to me."

Lady Pirates

Berea Lady Pirates Coach Dammian Stepp is more than happy about the opportunity for his team to play summer games this year.

"Last year, we missed all of our summer play, and I feel it had a great impact on our season," Stepp said. "We will have six seniors on the team this year, which is the most in many years. We expect to have a productive season and look for big things this season."

Stepp is keeping a keen eye on several areas this summer, including guard play and defense.

"This team is playing well," he said. "Our guard play has improved since last season, and we seem to be having more success in the post."

"Defensively, we are working to become better defenders," he continued. "We are using this time to deepen the bench and develop some of our younger players."
