State promises to fix Chestnut Street

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

“We have been working diligently with Transportation Cabinet District 7 trying to get repairs made.”

Bruce Fraley
Berea Mayor

Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley told Berea City Council members he has been lobbying Kentucky Transportation Cabinet District 7 officials to fix Chestnut Street, and that the state government has committed to repairing the road this year.

Fraley addressed the issue Tuesday night during a meeting of the Berea City Council during the mayoral comments segment of the meeting.

“We have been working diligently with Transportation Cabinet District 7 trying to get repairs made,” Fraley said, who said he personally contacted the chief district supervising engineer Kelly Baker. Baker reported Chestnut Street has made the cut for resurfacing this year, and letting of the project could begin as early as this fall, according to the mayor. Highway 1016 is also on the state’s to-do list to complete this fiscal year, Fraley said.

Berea City Councilman Jerry Little noted there is a lot of confusion among citizens about why the City of Berea doesn’t fix Chestnut Street. He said the city can’t resurface Chestnut because state and federal highways are technically out of the city’s jurisdiction, leaving Berea to depend on the state’s transportation cabinet. Nonetheless, both Little and Fraley said they have heard the complaints of local motorists and they are working to get it repaired.

“I’m certainly interested

Craft Festival returns

The Berea Craft Festival will be back beginning Friday at 10 a.m. at scenic Indian Fort Theater outside of Berea.

The event will draw more than 100 artisans from 16 states around the region, and will feature a host of talented musicians and dancers who will perform throughout the fair, which runs until Sunday.

Event Coordinator Melissa Gross recently told city officials the Berea Craft Festival will mark its 40th event, and will be much like it has been in recent years, featuring art and craft, performance and food that has kept people coming back year after year.

“I think people are ready to get out and about. We have much to celebrate, because it will absolutely look like the festival we have all come to know and love,” Gross told city officials during a recent city council meeting. “Please come out and join us. If you can’t make it Friday, come some time over the weekend and see what we have enjoyed for four decades come back to life. I think you’ll be pleased.”

The 2020 craft festival was cancelled because of the COVID-19 pandemic, but Gross told city leaders that when she asked artisans to come back

Caregiver Connection set to launch

Special to The Citizen

A new, free resource for family caregivers is coming to Madison County in late July. Caregiver Connection, a monthly gathering for family caregivers, launches on Friday, July 30, from noon to 1:30 p.m. in Richmond. The new resource is designed to give caregivers a chance to network and share tips, challenges, resources, and more. Caregiver Connection is hosted and sponsored by Hospice Care Plus. "Part of our mission has always been to support family caregivers, and we do that well with caregivers in our hospice and palliative programs," said Gail McGillis, interim CEO at Hospice Care Plus. "But caregivers need support long before hospice is involved. This is one way we can make that possible."

According to Tiffani Wright, community liaison at Hospice, a family caregiver is anyone who helps a loved one regularly, usually because physical or cognitive conditions make that help necessary. "Early in the caregiving journey, a family caregiver might help once a week with physically demanding tasks, like house-keeping or grocery shopping," said Wright. "They may provide transportation to appointments for their loved one. For those who are further along in the caregiving journey, they may be providing full-time care in a live-in situation." Caregiver Connection's monthly meetings are for all family caregivers, regardless of where they are in their journey.

The meetings begin with a complimentary lunch. Then, participants will choose prompts to start discussion. Wright, who has helped create and launch the program, says participants will determine the agenda. "We want this to be a group that's by and for caregivers," said Wright. "As hosts, we'll provide lose guidance to get started, but what they do each month during the Caregiver Connection meeting will be determined by them. "It's about their needs." Since lunch is provided, registration is required. To sign up, visit hospicecp.org, call 859-986-1500, or email hospice@hospicecp.org. Caregiver Connection Meeting can also be found in Facebook events or on the Hospice Care Plus Facebook page.

Unplanned summer adventure

A weekend getaway was briefly discussed but wasn't planned.

Last Friday, Rhonda and I packaged up and drove toward East Tennessee, but ventured off the beaten path and drove past Pigeon Forge toward North Carolina with an unplanned destination.

We settled on Asheville, North Carolina, which ended up being an excellent choice. We had a late dinner at Rocky's Hot Chicken Shack, a local favorite. The chicken is prepared in a pressure cooker and you can taste the difference, because it's prepared with lard.

When food is that good, you have to buy a T-shirt as a souvenir.

The following morning, we had breakfast at the Biscuit Head, which also didn't disappoint a pair of Kentuckians visiting the area. I had the country ham biscuit on the biggest "Cat head" biscuit ever made and it came with egg, cheese and a fried green tomato, plus a side of red-eye gravy.

We planned our day around a visit to the Biltmore Estate, a country retreat built by George Vanderbilt, which opened its doors on Christmas Eve of 1895. The home was built on four acres, chichi featured 35 bedrooms, 43 bathrooms and 65 fireplaces. The Biltmore opened to the public in 1930. The tour that took nearly two hours to complete, was a step back in time. The elegance of that era was spectacular, but yet so simple. The house has a bowling alley and swimming pool in the basement and the library featured thousands of hand-picked books by Vanderbilt for his guests to enjoy.

The amazing part of the structure, is that it's still privately owned.

Following the tour, we ventured into Cherokee and Bryson City looking for a place to spend the night. Of course with it being Fourth of July weekend, we were hard pressed to find a spot and paying $300 for 12 hours wasn't going to happen. We enjoyed a great buffet at Granny's in Cherokee before going through Maggie Valley for the fourth time in two days.

We drove through the mountains and ended up staying in Newport, Tennessee overnight before heading back toward Berea, again, without a plan in hand.

At the last minute, I mentioned a visit to the Museum of Appalachia, since we had passed the road sign numerous times on the way to and back from Pigeon Forge down through the years.

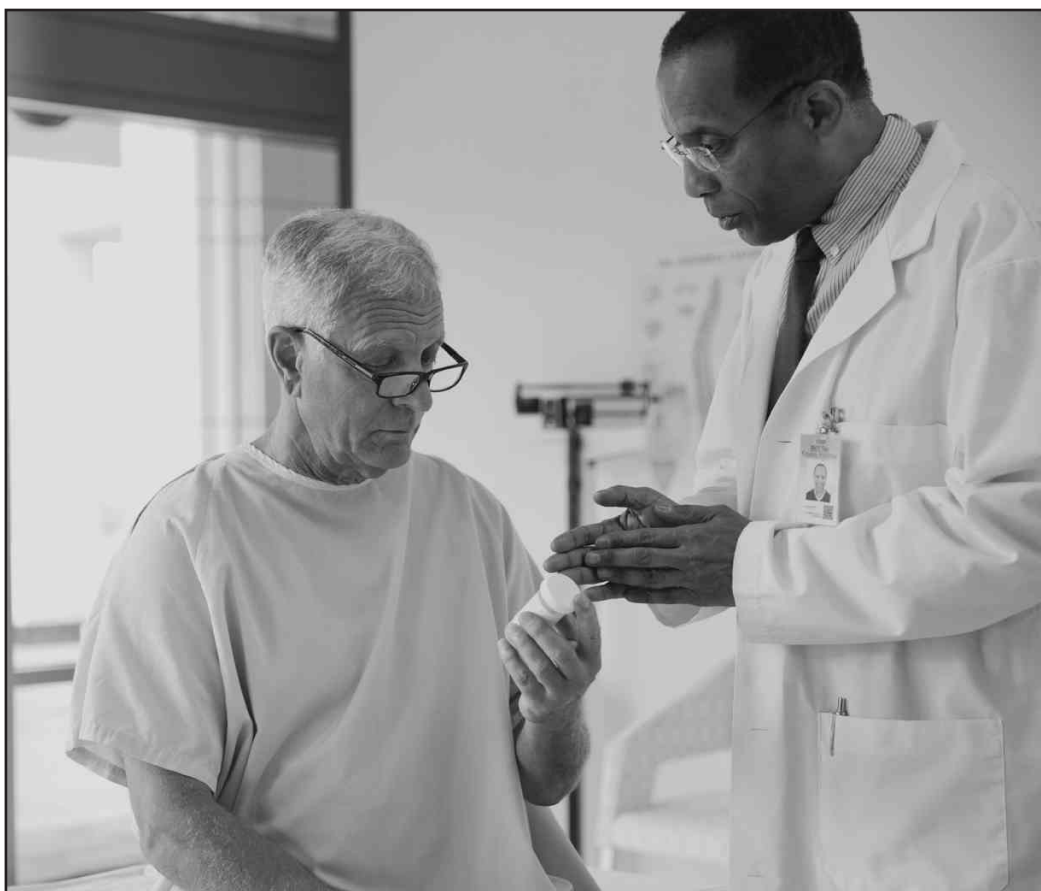

As we pulled up to the entrance, we had no idea that it was the Independence Day "Anvil Shoot." The greeter told us we picked the right time to visit the village and its contents.

We toured the cabins and discovered how citizens in log cabins and enjoyed the simple life in Appalachia. Log structures and many of the exhibits, including the saw mill were on display and functional. The anvil shoot was a blast — no pun intended — and the Hall of Fame featured numerous tributes to late Tennessee Senator Howard Baker, Roy Acuff, the Carter Family, Bill Monroe among other appalachain heroes.

Vendors were spread throughout the property, but none of them caught my attention more than the home-made ice cream truck. It may seem like a small thing, but homemade ice cream on the Fourth of July is a big deal.

My mom, who passed away from COVID-19 last October, made it for us at the family cookout we hosted during the past several years. I was relieved when we found homemade ice cream on the Fourth of July this year and didn't even have to look for it.

Sometimes a road to nowhere will get you somewhere.

American dream or nightmare?

Until recently my wife and I paid over $2,000 a month for medical insurance.

We each had a $6,000 deductible. One year we both had a procedure, which meant we had $12,000 in out of pocket expenses. There were also some other "uncovered" medical costs throughout the year which resulted in over $40,000 in medical insurance and out of pocket costs. The procedures themselves of course cost far and above what our out of pocket expenses were. Most likely if we had not had health insurance the doctors and medical facilities would not have performed them. In America, you have to have medical insurance or the means to cover the costs of your healthcare.

For the average American $40,000 in medical costs in one year means an eternity of debt. The prospects of such makes average Americans shy away from medical care they need. Unaffordable medical care is not an American dream. Honestly, for too many Americans it's a nightmare.

A business owner recently told me, "I pay for insurance for my employees but it's barely enough insurance to meet the legal requirements for our business. It's terrible insurance. It pays for almost nothing and no one with our insurance would ever want to go to the hospital." This is tragic as all Americans need good medical care. However, the insurance companies in America are making billions in profit. The way they make profit is by denying to pay for something you need. The health insurance industry had a "net" profit of 22 billion dollars in 2019. Businesses need to make profit, but Americans need medical care, not denial and medical debt that leads only to serious anxiety for Americans.

"If you are buying an ACA (Obamacare) plan as non-subsidized health insurance for a family of four, you can expect to pay about $25,000 for the year in premiums and deductibles. That breaks down to an average of $17,244 in annual premium cost for health insurance for families of 4 and $7,767 in deductible expenses. If you qualify for a subsidy this will certainly help but just the out of pocket deductible can make healthcare daunting for most." (ehealthinsurance.com)

Healthcare is a major component of financial security. Financial devastation is lurking around the corner for any American who does not have a good medical care safety net. Any hospital stay today amounts to tens of thousands of dollars.

You must make medical insurance a priority for you and your family.

Also, our government is still a long way from solving our medical insurance dilemma. Obamacare has not fixed our problem.

It's a step, but we have a long journey ahead of us. We must have access to good and affordable medical care in this country and we must not give up on making it good for all Americans.

SUDOKU

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Severe storm pelts city

A severe thunderstorm rolled into Berea on July 3, downing power lines across the city. A severe thunderstorm warning was issued at approximately 7 p.m., just minutes after the storm, containing strong winds, heavy rain and hail, began in Berea. Mary Pollard, dispatcher for Berea Police Department, said police responded to numerous calls across the city. Traffic lights were out in various parts of town, requiring police officers to provide traffic control. Berea Police assisted Kentucky State Police with a two-car accident on Richmond Road near White Station Road believed to be weather related. At least one person was transported to Berea Hospital for treatment. Meadowlark Drive was blocked by a fallen tree near Bob-O-Link Drive. Numerous other trees were downed around the city with numerous incidents of trees on houses and cars. The heaviest damage was reported downtown and in the north and east parts of the city. As the storm left Berea, it moved on to the Big Hill and Red Lick areas leaving minor damage. Following the storm, a large double rainbow stretched across the sky for nearly two hours.

Local market catches fire

On July 3, Berea Fire Department, Berea Volunteers and the Madison County Fire Department responded to a blaze at Kenny's Market at the corner of 1016 and Barker Lane. Some merchandise from the store was saved from damage by store owner Kenny Bray.

Brown honored

Bandy Oliver Brown was chosen as the "2001 Outstanding Young Lawyer of the Year" by the Kentucky Bar Association and was recognized during the KBA Conference held in Lexington. The award was based on legal accomplishments, civic activities, and community involvement. At the time Mrs. Brown practiced law with her father, Roger M. Oliver at Oliver Law Offices in Berea and was a prosecutor in Richmond as Assistant Madison County Attorney for Marc Robbins. Brown served on the Board of Directors for several organizations primarily devoted to children's issues including Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of Madison and Clark Counties, of which she was a founding member and past president and Growing Up Safe in Madison County. She also served as Chairperson of the Dependency, Neglect and Abuse Committee of the Madison County Family Court Council and had recently been appointed to the Madison County Juvenile Drug Court and Implementation team. Since 1996, Brown had been involved with the development and implementation of statewide training in child neglect and abuse procedure law and has lectured on the subject on the subject throughout the state to judges, prosecutors, law enforcement officers, family service workers and other professionals. Brown had recently co-authored Best Practice in Dependency, Neglect and Abuse Cases with the Administrative Office of the Courts and A Practitioner's Guide to Juvenile Detention in Kentucky with the Children's Law Center, Inc., for cross-disciplinary distribution statewide.

Fight against cancer

In 2001, the Berea Craft Festival celebrated 25 years of Art and festival coordinators wanted to mark the special occasion with lots of fun activities, but they wanted to do something meaningful that would make an impact beyond the one weekend. They did not have to search far, finding friend and fellow Berea artist Jimmie Lou Jackson. Jackson was a retired lab technician, craft shop owner and excellent glass bead maker. Most importantly, she was a breast cancer survivor. On Friday, July 23rd, the Berea Craft Festival donated twenty percent of admission to breast cancer research. Jackson created a beautiful bead necklace showcasing twisted pink ribbon, the breast cancer awareness symbols. Proceeds from the sale of the necklace was donated to a fund to assists women who needed help playing for their treatment. Before retiring to pursue her artwork, Jackson had worked for 35 years working as a cytotechnologist, screening pap smears. However, in November of 1999, the fight became personal as she was diagnosed with breast cancer. Although she had regular mammograms, she found the lump on her own. Three months of emotional ups and downs and 35 radiation treatments, she was deemed cancer free. At the time she had been cancer free for 2 years. Jackson said, "I owe my life to breast cancer research and all the educational information about mammograms and self-breast exams. It's nice to join the festival in giving some thing back."

State Fair offering early bird prices

The Kentucky State Fair announced the most affordable Fair experience in more than a decade today and three special days for fairgoers to enjoy. Early bird tickets through Aug. 5 for $8 per person, including parking.

Early bird admission tickets are available online at kystatefair.org/tickets beginning July 2 at 10 a.m. through Aug. 5 at 11:59 p.m. and can also be purchased at participating Kroger locations. Prices increase on Aug. 6. Admission at the gate is $10 per person and $10 parking per vehicle.

Advance all-day Thrill Ville ride wristbands are $25 and can be purchased at Ticketmaster with your admission ticket, in-person at participating Kroger locations or at kisselentertainment.com/tickets.asp.

In addition to announcing early bird tickets and Thrill Ville wristbands, the Kentucky

State Fair announced the return of two popular special promotional days and a new morning event to welcome more families from across Kentucky.

On Sunday, Aug. 22 Military Sunday at the Kentucky State Fair will honor veterans, military members and their families with free admission and optional discounted midway wristbands. Military I.D must be presented at the entrance and will include up to four people.

Churches are a very present help in trouble

Our little community of Kingston was supposedly named after the first merchant and tailor in the area, Theodore King.

Tammy Whittamore

It was incorporated in 1872 but later dissolved. Religion was a mainstay in our ancestors' every day lives. It provided a moral compass, acceptance, forgiveness, and comfort for all. Here are some nearby churches to the Kingston area:

- Mt. Zion Christian Church was completed in 1852. The original congregation members were slaveholders and their slaves. The south wall was damaged by cannonballs from the nearby Civil War battle fought in 1862. The church ministered to the wounded after the battle.

- Hays Fork Baptist Church has a long history. It was dissolved once in December 1848, but that order was rescinded quickly in June of 1849.

In 1888, services were moved to the Kingston schoolhouse because of the poor condition of the church building.

Soon plans were made and the new building was completed in 1894. The church made many other improvements throughout the years such as a parsonage and a fellowship hall. The congregation has certainly persevered through the years.

- New Liberty Baptist Church was founded in 1866. The church was one of several small African American churches that were started by Rev. Madison Campbell (1823-1896). He was a former slave of Edly Campbell and was able to purchase his freedom in 1863. Rev. Campbell was the first pastor at the First Baptist Church in Richmond.

He baptized hundreds of African Americans during his ministry.

Nearby on Wilson Lane is the New Liberty Baptist Church Cemetery. It contains approximately 51 graves.

One of the oldest graves is Anderson Moore 1836-1895, and the most recent burial is from 2017.

- White's Memorial Presbyterian Church was erected as a memorial to William H. White (her first husband) by his wife Mrs. Margaret Faulkner White Breckinridge in 1877. It was first named the Silver Creek Chapel before being renamed in 1948.

Sadly, it is the only remaining rural Presbyterian church in the county. White's Memorial Presbyterian Church certainly fulfilled Mrs. Breckinridge's hope that it would grow and prosper and be a blessing to the community, a spiritual guide and an anchor for the christian people.

MCHS Class of 1972 plans reunion

The Madison Central Class of 1972 is planning its 50th year high school reunion.

A planning meeting will be at 7 p.m. on July 19 at the Union City Christian Church fellowship hall.

"We may be looking at a September, 2022 reunion date. But, that is why we need to get going now," Class president Gary Fritz said.

Fritz and several others met recently to get things under way for the event. Venues and catering will need to be considered during future meetings.

According to the 1972 school yearbook, there were 264 in the graduating class.

While many people will interact on social media, the class is seeking to get reunion information spread in many ways.

If you or your spouse is a Class of 1972 Madison Central graduate or you know of others who were, make plans to attend the July 19 meeting.

For questions, call Gary Fritz at (859) 582-9631 or Dottie Burton at (859) 358-1573.

Christmas in July at Kirksville

The Kirksville Community Center is planning a "Christmas in July" event from 9 a.m.-2 p.m.

More than 55 vendors and others will be at the event, including the Farmhouse Grub Food Truck, arts & crafts, direct sales, Kentucky Proud products, antiques & vintage.

The Kirksville Community Center will be collecting non-perishable food for the Berea Food Bank.

Because of a recent vandalism and burglary at the community center on April 25, the center remains closed to the public.

The park is available to rent to the public. The park includes the pavilion, playground, rest rooms and walking track.

For more information, contact Billie at (859) 338-6690.

Even a broken clock is right twice a day, so the saying goes

A fellow walked out of an antique shop carrying a big grandfather clock he'd just purchased. He had always wanted one and was happy to shell out big bucks for such a great find.

The fellow made it out of the shop and onto the sidewalk when an old drunk bumped into him, knocking the clock out of his hands. It broke all to pieces on the concrete.

"Look what you did," the fellow said angrily.

"Why don't you just wear a wristwatch like everyone else?" the old drunk asked.

Time tends to be very important to us on this side of eternity. We keep our watches and clocks handy so we'll always know the time of day. We have them on our arms, on our walls, on our kitchen ranges, on our nightstands, in our offices, on our vehicle dashboards. Then, twice a year, we have to change all those clocks, at least those that don't change automatically.

That can be quite the chore, especially with those dashboard clocks. I always struggle to remember which buttons to push and which dial to turn when it comes time to spring forward or fall back. I always feel a great sense of accomplishment when I, through much trial and error, finally get done.

Perhaps you remember the time that the Lord set back the clock – well, it was actually a sundial – for King Hezekiah.

Hezekiah was ill and dying, and he prayed for healing. The Bible tells us he turned his face to a wall and wept as he prayed. God heard Hezekiah's prayer and added 15 years to his life.

I find it fascinating that Hezekiah had the audacity to ask for proof that the Lord had answered his prayer. I find it even more fascinating that the Lord, in his great patience, provided that proof.

The prophet Isaiah, who was with Hezekiah at the time, offered a time change as the proof.

He asked Hezekiah whether

he'd rather the Lord set the sundial forward 10 degrees or back 10 degrees?

Hezekiah thought about this for a moment and decided it would be a lot more difficult to set a sundial back 10 degrees. So, that's what he asked for.

"And Isaiah the prophet cried unto the Lord: and he brought the shadow 10 degrees backward" (2 Kings 20:11).

That was an incredible miracle. Think about what had to happen in the heavens to make it happen. People have questioned for years how the Lord pulled that off.

I'm glad for folks who don't worry about the "how" but instead just marvel that He "did" it.

There are times when we, like the old drunk who thought the fellow was carrying around a grandfather clock so he'd know the time, can miss the obvious. And, in this case, the obvious is that there's nothing our Lord can't do.

Capitol open to visitors with added security

For the first time since Gov. Andy Beshear issued his COVID-19 state of emergency executive order in March 2020, Thursday saw visitors and tourists allowed inside the state Capitol and Capitol Annex buildings.

There are some new security measures that have been implemented with the reopening.

The doors leading to the tunnel between the Capitol and the Annex, as well as the one between the Annex and the lower levels of the parking structure are now equipped with identification card readers. That means a valid ID issued by the Legislative Research Commission is required to gain access at these points.

Those without such an ID must enter the Capitol Annex through the main visitor's entrance at the front center of the building, to properly check in with security.

Adams praises ballot harvesting ruling

FRANKFORT (KT) – Kentucky Secretary of State Michael Adams is praising the U.S. Supreme Court's decision to uphold Arizona's ban on ballot harvesting.

In a 6-3 ruling on Thursday, the high court upheld voting limits in Arizona that a lower court had found discriminatory under the federal Voting Rights Act.

It was the high court's second major decision in eight years that civil rights groups and liberal dissenting justices say weakened the Civil Rights-era law that was intended to eradicate discrimination in voting.

In an opinion by Justice Samuel Alito, the court reversed an appellate ruling in deciding that Arizona's regulations on who can return early ballots for another person and on refusing to count ballots cast in the wrong precinct are not racially discriminatory.

The federal appeals court in San Francisco had held that the measures disproportionately affected Black, Hispanic and Native American voters in violation of a part of the Voting Rights Act known as Section 2.

"I'm grateful to the U.S. Supreme Court for upholding Arizona's ban on ballot harvesting," said Adams, "a pernicious practice that contributes to duress, intimidation and outright fraud in elections. Arizona's law was our model in drafting our own law this year to ban ballot harvesting in Kentucky, and today's decision will protect free and fair elections in the commonwealth."

'Shot at a Million' winners announced

FRANKFORT (KT) – Gov. Andy Beshear on Friday presented the first six winners in the state's "Shot at a Million" contest, designed to spur Kentuckians to get their COVID-19 vaccinations.

The governor said the first drawing, which included more than 608,000 entries, was conducted yesterday, randomly selecting one adult Kentuckian 18 or older, for the $1 million prize and five young people ages 12 to 17, to receive full-ride scholarships to a Kentucky public college, university, technical or trade school.

All six winners attended the news conference, which was held in the Capitol Rotunda.

"Congratulations to the winners," Beshear said.

"Their prizes are life-changing, and that's on top of the COVID-19 vaccines, which we know are life-saving. Please, get your vaccination as quickly as possible."

for 2021, they responded with enthusiasm.

“I will tell you that I was astounded that I had 40 artists reply in just a couple of days saying ‘I will be there if you’re there.’ We have a waiting list right now and it has not been hard to talk anyone into coming,” Gross said. More than 40 of those artisans will be from the Bluegrass State.

The Berea Craft Festival will showcase work in several different mediums, including weaving, fiber, watercolors, blacksmithing, ceramics, wood, jewelry, photography, felt, leather, and more. Along with handmade furniture, children’s clothing, and scarves, the festival features heirloom quality art, craft and wares that can be treasured for generations to come.

In addition to other entertainment, the Berea Craft Festival will feature kids crafts, where they can marble paper, repurpose paper for collages, and hand decorations are offered at no cost.

Admission is $6 for adults and $5 for seniors, and children under 12 are free. Friendly pets on a leash are welcome.

The event runs Friday, July 9, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday, July 10 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Parking is free. More information can be found at craftfest@visitberea.com or <https://www.visitberea.com/berea-craft-festival> or call 800-598-5263.

Berea City Councilmember and owner of The Native Bagel Katie Startzman said she is glad to see the Berea Craft Festival back after last year’s event was cancelled.

“I feel like this is a flagship event for Berea and it feels so hopeful that it’s coming back,” Startzman said in thanking Gross for her efforts.

Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley noted he, too, is ready for the Berea Craft Festival to make a triumphant return, stating: “We’re going to come back with a vengeance this year.”

Levitt Amp Series makes festive comeback

Under clear skies Saturday, the Levitt Amp Berea Music Series made a festive comeback with the help of its national and local partners.

Approximately 600 concert goers attended the event at the Berea Park Annex (next to the Skate Park), enjoying a performance by Ben Sollee, who kicked off the summer concert series that will feature artists from around the Bluegrass State. The concerts will run weekends through Saturday, September 4.

Organizer Ali Blair praised AppHarvest for its assistance and partnership. The company is one of Berea and Madison County’s newest employers, which will grow environmentally sustainable produce.

“We have a wonderful partner this year in AppHarvest,” Blair told the audience. “They are going to be a job creator here, and they are going to get involved in our community and our culture, and we are really appreciative of that.”

Blair then introduced AppHarvest President Jonathan Webb, who praised Berea for being a model for other communities.

“Many of us who are from Kentucky are so inspired by this small, tight-knit community of Berea, which is really an example for rural America,” Webb said. “I think many people of our team would say this is one of the great rural communities in America, and we’re thrilled to be with you tonight and feel very special to be a part of it.”

The event marked the triumphant return of the concert series after most public gatherings were cancelled or restricted in 2020 because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

During her remarks, Blair thanked the Mortimer and Mimi Levitt Foundation for supporting the Levitt Amp Berea Music Series, even after last year’s live concerts were postponed.

The organization provided $25,000 in support for the Berea series for 2021, carrying over what it had pledged for 2020. Additionally, Blair announced the foundation has committed to another $25,000 grant for Berea.

“They’ve been such phenomenal partners that they want us and our community to know that this series isn’t going anywhere, and they’ve actually awarded us $25,000 for 2022,” Blair announced.

Blair also gave special thanks to local partners, including the Berea Mountain Association, the City of Berea, and First Friday Berea, numerous organizations and businesses that had booths at the event, as well as staffers from the Parks and Recreation Department, Public Works Department, and Police Department of the City of Berea for helping to stage the events.

Berea Mountain Association President Peter Hille praised Blair’s work in keeping the music series going, which she launched with First Friday Berea back in 2014.

in it because it needs to be fixed, so we’re working on it with our folks in the state to try to make that happen,” Fraley said, repairs will stretch along Chestnut Street to interstate exit 76.

On a related note, Little, who chairs the Berea City Council Public Works Committee, cautioned there has been a steep drop in gasoline tax revenues in recent years, making it more difficult to cover all of the streets that need resurfacing and paving.

Little stated the revenue problem will become worse as more electric cars take to the road, and less gasoline is sold, which will cause further declines in gasoline tax revenues distributed to the cities. This year the city has budgeted $275,000 to spend on resurfacing, which Little said is inadequate when considering the number of roads in Berea that need repair.

“I really don’t know what we’re going to do with our streets because when you start completely black-topping these streets, which are old, we don’t have the funding,” Little said.

Other business

In other news, the council heard a presentation from Lucas Witt of MWM Consulting LLC, who gave an update on the state of the city’s industrial development plans. Witt noted the city has 87 acres of land available for prospective tenants. The city has seen big moves in recent years, including the plant expansion and adding of a new manufacturing line at Hyster-Yale, the development of a new high-tech battery line at Hitachi MS Electric Motors for $100 million, with the plan of creating 200 new jobs, and AppHarvest, which is building a 15-acre sustainable agriculture facility for $40million, bringing between 40-70 new jobs. Discussions with more potential employers are in progress, Witt reported.

Berea City Council member Steve Caudill expressed appreciation for Witt’s service. “I really want to thank him for the work he’s done on behalf of our city,” Caudill said. “It’s been a really refreshing time the past four or five years. We’ve really started to build momentum in the area of economic development, specifically in our industrial growth.”

In other developments, the council voted unanimously to allow the mayor to apply to the Kentucky Department of Local Government for a grant from the Recreation Trail Program, which will allow the city to apply for funds to complete the Scaffold Cane shared use path. Fraley noted this is the second time the city has applied for such funding, and that the application may have a better chance for success this time. It covers 80 percent of the costs of building the shared use path, while the city would pay 20 percent.

Also approved was a measure enabling the mayor to apply to FEMA for disaster relief funds in connection with severe weather in the beginning of 2021. The grant for $159,000 would cover expenses related to the storms, including debris removal, emergency staffing for first responders and utilities personnel, and other costs.

The council also adopted an ordinance granting a 10-year franchise license to Open Fiber Kentucky, a communications provider. Council member Teresa Scenters said she hopes the expansion of the number of telecommunication providers in the city will ultimately drive prices down for Berea’s internet and cable TV consumers.

“I am glad to see more communication companies coming to Berea. I think it’s going to be good for citizens to have competition, and maybe we’ll actually see some of this stuff (rates) go down,” Scenters said.

Florida building collapse serves as warning

FRANKFORT (KT) – The recent building collapse in Surfside, Florida, which has left at least 18 people dead and more than 140 missing, has raised questions about building safety in Kentucky, and whether something similar could happen here.

The Public Protection Cabinet’s Department of Housing, Buildings and Construction, or HBC, is the agency that oversees the construction industry in the state, and here are some of their functions:

HBC’s Division of Building Code Enforcement reviews, plans and inspects new building construction, as well as additions, alterations, renovations and buildings involved in a change of occupancy or use. This ensures that buildings follow adopted codes and referenced standards. The division also conducts elevator inspections.

HBC’s Division of Fire Prevention conducts inspections of existing public buildings for compliance with state fire and life safety codes. These inspections ensure that safety features such as means of egress, fire alarms, sprinkler systems and other necessary equipment are maintained in satisfactory condition. Inspectors meet with property owners and occupants to achieve any necessary corrections.

HBC accepts complaints for investigation against both facilities and inspectors. To file a complaint, visit the web page here: https://ksfm.ky.gov/newstatic_info.aspx?static_id=285.

In addition, cities like Lexington, Louisville, Covington and Frankfort have code enforcement agencies for safe practices.

Gov. Andy Beshear touched on the topic .

“What happened with that building in South Florida is a tragedy,” he told reporters. “In fact, I have a friend whose wife was in that building and thus far has not been located.”

Beshear mentioned HBC and local agencies that do this work, but added: “We are redoubling, looking back. We are going to try to make sure that while this didn’t occur here, that we learn lessons from it, about what extra needs to be done. You see the pictures and it’s almost hard to believe that a building could collapse in the United States of America. We need to make sure certainly here in Kentucky, which I am responsible for, that we’re not cutting corners and that doesn’t happen here.”

State, Sunrise hit roadblock

FRANKFORT (KT) – The negotiations between the state and Sunrise Children’s Services have apparently hit another snag.

Gov. Andy Beshear said Thursday that the Cabinet for Health and Family Services has offered Sunrise Children’s Services a contract in the form previously requested with specifically a line eliminated in two different sections.

“Sunrise has responded by saying that’s no longer their position, and they now want significant additional terms written into the contract,” he said. “So, at this point, there is not (a) resolution. But they have the contract they (originally) asked for, right there, ready to sign, if they are willing.”

Sunrise’s attorney, John Sheller, said Thursday any additional language being sought is needed to comply fully with the Supreme Court ruling in the Fulton v. City of Philadelphia case. The state also has asked for changes or clarifications in the contract, he said.

“Every clarification requested by Sunrise is either something required by Fulton, something it requested before or something Kentucky has accepted in the past,” Sheller said in an email. “We look forward to completing the process soon and we presume Kentucky feels the same.”

The U.S. Supreme Court decision in Fulton v. Philadelphia was what prompted the state’s willingness to offer the contract that protects the organization’s “deeply held religious beliefs.” The state wasn’t going to offer the contract prior to that ruling even though past administrations, both Republican and Democratic, have done so since the 1970s.

The Supreme Court decision said the city of Philadelphia could not block a Catholic agency from being awarded a contract over its refusal to work with same-sex couples.

Republican leaders urged Beshear to sign the contract with Sunrise following that ruling.

Beshear said the state has offered the contract and that this is not a time for negotiations.

“They weren’t provisions that changed; they are new provisions that are being asked for. About nothing in the contract will be enforced if it violates A, B, C, or D,” he said. “Well, if it violates A, B, C, or D, it is already not enforceable. I think they want a new preamble about who they are and what it means,” he said.

“So I hope they’ll put those kids first. That language no longer appears in the contract they’ve been offered.”

ORDINANCE NO. 18 - 2021

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BEREA, KENTUCKY, GRANTING UNTO OPENFIBER KENTUCKY COMPANY LLC. ("OFKY"), ITS SUCCESSORS, AND ASSIGNS, THE RIGHT, FRANCHISE, AND PRIVILEGE FOR A PERIOD OF TEN YEARS, FROM JULY 15, 2021, TO ACQUIRE, CONSTRUCT AND MAINTAIN IN THE CITY OF BEREA, KENTUCKY, THE NECESSARY FACILITIES FOR THE OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE OF A COMMUNICATIONS SERVICES SYSTEM FOR PUBLIC AND PRIVATE USE, AND TO USE AND OCCUPY THE PUBLIC STREETS, HIGHWAYS, AVENUES, ALLEYS, BRIDGES, AND PUBLIC PLACES FOR SUCH PURPOSES, AND PRESCRIBING THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS THEREOF.

WHEREAS, by Ordinance No. 04-2021, the City of Berea, Kentucky, created a non-exclusive franchise for communication services, pursuant to Kentucky Constitution Section 163, KRS 82.082 and KRS 96.010, within the City of Berea, Kentucky, and requested that bids be submitted therefor; and

WHEREAS, OpenFiber Kentucky Company LLC. ("OFKY") submitted a bid pursuant to Ordinance No. 04-2021; and

Recipe from the heart

Apple pie seems to be a traditional dessert served with Fourth of July Celebrations. This is a recipe that my mother has made for a long time. It is one of my favorites. I hope that I am giving credit correctly here. I do believe this is one of several recipes that Ann Overby shared with her.

Libby Horn

Swedish Apple Pie

Ingredients

Pie

- 1 - 9” pie shell (unbaked)
- 2 cups sliced apples (cooked)
- 2 Tablespoons plain flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 egg
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup sour cream

Topping

- 1/3 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/3 cup plain flour
- 1/4 pound (1 stick) butter, softened

Directions

Mash cooked apples slightly. Add flour, sugar and salt. Beat egg and vanilla together and add to the apple mixture. Fold sour cream into apple mixture. Pour into pie shell and bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes.

Mix topping. Sprinkle over top of pie and bake another 15 minutes.

Serve with ice cream.

Mintz follows heart, opts out of NBA Draft to return

LEXINGTON (KT) — Davion Mintz is returning to Kentucky. Mintz withdrew his name from the NBA Draft on Thursday ahead of the July 7 deadline and will play one more season with the Wildcats. Mintz led UK in scoring (11.5 points per game), 3-point field goals (56) and assists (77) last season. “I wanted to give it a real shot and I feel like I did that,” he said “I know that I am ready and closer to my ultimate goal of playing in the NBA. Having said that, my heart has guided me back to Kentucky for one more year. “I want another season on the national stage to prove that I am ready to play at the highest level. I can’t wait to get back to Lexington with my teammates and experience the full effect of Big Blue Nation. It’s time to get back to work.” Mintz is the first player to return to campus after leading the team in scoring the previous season since Randolph Morris returned to campus during the 2006-07 campaign. Next year’s roster features Mintz, a fifth-year graduate, a redshirt junior, six juniors, a redshirt sophomore, two sophomores and three freshmen.

Kentucky coach John Calipari welcomed the return of Mintz. “I am so happy for Davion because he was able to explore all of his options and decided to come back to a place that he loves,” Calipari said. “He is one of the most appreciative players I have coached in my time here. I said to his parents after last season, ‘I can coach him for the next 10 years.’

He is that kind of person, player and leader.” Calipari said the team’s makeup is different than last season, but added, “there is no question that Davion makes us better.” “He improved so much from the start of last season to the end and I can’t wait to see that continued growth in his second year with us,” he said.

Happy birthday, America!!!

Festival a big draw

Three-day event brings 8,000 to city

By Keith Taylor
Citizen Publisher

The Berea Craft Festival was a hit last weekend at Indian Fort Theater.

The three-day event attracted more than 8,000 patrons, including 2,900 attendees Friday, opening day. Prior to the pandemic, an average crowd on opening day was between 1,500-1,800 patrons.

“We had the strongest turnout on Friday than we’ve had in a very long time,” festival organizer Melissa Gross said. “We were thrilled with the response from the community and the area. People were ready to get back out.”

The event was canceled last year because of the COVID-19 pandemic, but resumed with craftsmen, artists and shoppers eager for a return to normalcy.

“People were ready to shop and buy things, and the artists had a very good weekend,” Gross said. “We like to see people leave with bags in their hands and there was lots of that.”

The event drew over 100 artisans from 16 states around the region.

It showcased work in several different mediums, including weaving, fiber, watercolors, blacksmithing, ceramics, wood, jewelry, photography, felt, leather, and more. Along with handmade furniture, children’s clothing, and scarves, the festival features heirloom quality art, craft and wares that can be treasured for generations to come.

David Enge, of Tater Knob Pottery & Farm in Berea, molds a piece of pottery as his son, Jordan Lee Enge, 2, provides a helping hand during the opening day of the Berea Craft Fair last Friday at Indian Fort Theater. On opening day, approximately 2,900 festival goers attended the three-day event.

In another sign things are beginning to get back to normal, the Madison County Fiscal Court Tuesday was able to host its first meeting in Berea in more than a year due to the COVID- 19 pandemic.

The Court usually holds its first meeting of each odd calendar month in Berea.

During the short session, the court approved several resolutions including one for the application for and administration of a Justice Assistance Grant (JAG) for Fiscal Year 21 in the amount of $11, 392 which will be split equally with the City of Richmond. No matching funds are required for the grants.

OBITUARIES

Glenna Sawyer Rice

Glenna Sawyer Rice, of West Chester, PA and formerly Berea, KY, died on February 9, 2021, just shy of her 91st birthday. Born in 1930 and raised in rural southeastern Kentucky near the town of Corbin, Glenna was the first in her family to attend college, graduating Berea College in 1951 before marrying classmate Oliver W. Rice, Jr., in 1954. She and Oliver raised four children in such far-flung places as Bangkok, Thailand, before settling in West Chester in 1972. Glenna was a long-time teacher in the West Chester Area School District, where as a reading specialist she established an innovative middle school remedial reading lab. Helping students improve their reading skills was her professional passion and she received numerous commendations for her work in this area. She continued educating after her retirement in 1986, bringing both expertise and financial resources to rural reading programs in her native Kentucky. Another rewarding post-retirement experience involved teaching English at Southwest China Teachers' College in Sichuan Province. An avid horticulturalist, Glenna enjoyed taking certificate-level courses at Longwood Gardens, and loved tending her expansive home gardens. She was also a skilled bird watcher and enjoyed this hobby connecting her to nature wherever she traveled. In retirement and after Oliver died in 1991, she returned to Berea where she was active in various civic roles and Appalachian folk art preservation activities. She toured internationally with the Berea College Alumni Country Dancers performing folk dances of English, Danish and

Appalachian mountain traditions. She was a talented visual artist, mainly in charcoal pencil and oil, and displayed many of her works in her residences and retirement communities. Glenna is survived by her four children, David (Exton, PA), Mavis (Minneapolis, MN), Mark (St. Louis, MO) and Kevin (Malvern, PA). She also leaves behind nine grandchildren and one great grandchild. A Memorial Celebration 1-3 p.m., Saturday, July 31, 2021 in Boone Tavern Event Room. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions suggested to Pine Mountain Settlement School (Glenna Rice Reading Camp Fund), 36 Hwy 510, Bledsoe, KY 40810. Reppert Funeral Home and Cremation Service entrusted with arrangements.

Family influences lead to lifetime friendships

When you start connecting the dots to your past, everything comes full circle.

When my friend Mark Bishop is in concert close to home, I always try to make an effort to attend, and Sunday night was no different as he performed at Union City Christian Church in Richmond.

During the concert, Mark talked about the family's heritage in Southern Gospel Music and mentioned Granny Bishop as the driving force behind the family ministry when he toured with his dad Kenneth and brother Kenny as "The Bishops."

As a child, I remember my mom would call granny Bishop many times asking for prayer when I was sick. We visited her home and spent time with her. I always remembered her as a praying lady through her conversations with my mom and dad, whether it was over the phone or in church.

Mark also referenced a church in Irvine he attended when he was young. As he described the pastor and mentioned the name of the church, my mind flashed back to my childhood. I saw the preacher — the late Paul Arvin — as Mark described in my own mind.

Back in the day, my dad took us all over the place to church and I remember attending that block building on several occasions. That's where I became acquainted with Mark and his family. Later, my dad had the family sing at churches he pastored. I taped one of those early concerts back in the early 1980s and I still have that cassette tape in my archives.

Also during the concert, Mark explained how Granny Bishop's desire to have her son and grandsons record an album which led to what would later become a career destination for him both as a singer and songwriter. For nearly 20 years, the family toured the nation as one of the top groups in their genre. They had a yearly homecoming at Indian Fort Theater that drew hundreds to Berea the week after the Berea Craft Festival. They also recorded their 10th anniversary concert at Brock Auditorium in Richmond.

When the family retired from the road, Mark carried on both as a soloist and a songwriter and has done remarkably well on his own. He has carved his own niche and it all began with those humble beginnings at a small church in Irvine, the same place I attended some church services as a child.

I've always considered Mark and the rest of his family like kinfolk. It all traces back to Granny Bishop and the influence she had on her own family and others in her circle of friends.

'SEC of the FCS'

Eastern Kentucky University was a founding member of the Ohio Valley Conference. Now the Colonels will make history as a member of the Atlantic Sun Conference.

The conference has yet to become a full-fledged football league, but has scheduled an alliance with the Western Athletic Conference for this season. The Colonels will take on Tarleton, Abilene Christian, Lamar and Sam Houston this year.

"Right now we want to be the SEC of FCS football," Eastern Kentucky athletics director Matt Roan said. "We want to be the premier FCS Football Conference in America."

Roan said the conference wants to follow the path set forth by several other top conferences in the FCS.

"The Missouri Valley is a really good one (and) the Big South or the Big Sky (Conference) is a very good one," Roan said. "The Colonial is a very good one."

Roan said the Colonels bring "a lot of tradition that's really unmatched" on the gridiron. League members North Alabama, Kennesaw State, Central Arkansas and Jacksonville State bring a dose of football prowess to the league. Eastern won national championships in 1979 and 1981.

"There's very few people that have the football tradition that we have. So when you look at that core five, we're in a great position," Roan said. "As a founding football member, you know, we can have those conversations with those schools that we would like to include and join us and kind of what we're trying to build in the same spirit as we built the OVC and 1948."

Roan isn't sure if the football league will have aspirations to move up to the FBS eventually, but added it will depend on what the "collective wants to do."

"If one of them, including ourselves, said, 'hey, we would like to test the FBS waters, (the commissioner) would be supportive and the league office would be supportive and the membership would be supportive,'" Roan said. "I think the same can be said that if the league as a whole said, 'hey, we'd like to see if there's a pathway to FBS — there could be that pursuit of that as well.'"

Atlantic Sun Commissioner Ted Gumbart said the addition of Eastern, Jacksonville State and Central Arkansas "represents a new era in the ASUN."

"We have moved subdivisions as a conference with the sponsorship of football," he said. "Our goal is simple, maintain the upward trend of academic and athletic performance success we have established in all our current sports and become the best FCS conference in the country. Bringing these three schools together with ASUN FCS members Kennesaw State and North Alabama give us a tremendous foundation upon which to build."

Letter to the editor

Workman: Serve people over party

The attacks on our country we now refer as "9-11" could be called an invasion, even though it was not by a foreign army.

The attack on our Capital, our own country, on Jan. 6, was an insurrection when our own citizens gleefully stormed the building. Many of our legislators have downplayed the seriousness of the event, which was encouraged by our sitting president.

Insurrection is a serious crime being denied. That is very worrisome to me. Recently I heard Representative Tony Gonzales of Texas say he didn't think about it. His concern is for the situation at the southern border where our patrol people are doing God's work.

We should all be concerned with events at the Mexican border, but I fail to understand how deliberately separating family groups, leaving children alone and afraid is God's work. It is work of people who are themselves afraid, afraid of the tired, the hungry, and the poor. These are not people attacking us. We are being attacked by our own! I personally think it is time for those of us who have had enough of this bickering, blaming "the other side of the aisle."

I call on our servants in Washington to serve all people of the country, not their party and to be kind to other people.

Eleanor Workman,
Berea

Word on the streets

“ Did you make plans to attend the Berea Craft Festival?”

Pamela Cveticanin

"Yes, I planned on visiting on Sunday."

Amelia Clark

"Yes, I've gone several years, and now I can take my son."

Peanut Johnson

"No, I've lived here 31 years and I've not been yet."

SUDOKU

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Good news.
 Rates just
 got lower.

Im excited to announce auto insurance rates just went down. I can help you find coverage that works for you. LET'S TALK TODAY.

It's not Mayberry, but it's as close as it gets

If you're from a small town or a tiny, rural community, chances are you know who has the best chili at the Fall Carnival or who can make their grandmother's cobbler that's been passed around at church potlucks for years, or even who can help you fix your car when you just can't make it into town. People have built talents over the years that fill needs within the community. These seemingly little things help build the overall character of any town you go into- but the larger the town, the harder it is to see clearly. Small towns have an apparent character to those who live there, and it's what draws others into the community. One of the best things about Kirksville is the character — of both the town and the people. I'm not sure that I realized how much personality is in this little place until I grew up, but I especially see it now that I'm watching my younger brother and cousins grow up in this community. My brother has friend groups filled with children whose parents and grandparents have been friends with our parents and grandparents. That connectivity is just not found in larger cities, for the most part. They work together and learn from one another and each other's families, often doing the same things that the older generations of their families did together. We stick together. Aside from the connectivity, there is something to be said for knowing what to expect in a small town like ours. For instance, if there is a potluck at church or a family reunion, or any kind of get together, I know that my Aunt Frances Grant King will come with her Italian Cream Wedding cake (or the salad that everyone wants the recipe for once they devour it), Kathryn Rhodus is bringing her blackberry cobbler, and my mom is always expected to bring her green beans and a jar of pickles. When my granny was alive, people raved over her apple pies and chicken salad. If there is a chili cookoff at church, Sammy Hammons will bring the best chili there, hands down. If someone has a question about something to do with mechanic work, I bet they ask Bobby Cates.

When people wanted to know about Kirksville's history, they usually went to Dr. Murphy. While Billy Dennis ran the store, you could bet he would know all the most recent game stats for the Kentucky Wildcats. Everyone here has something they are a wealth of knowledge about, and they'll teach you what they can and help where they can. Just about all of us are in touch down here, and to some extent we are frozen in time in all the best ways. It's not Mayberry, but it's about as close as we can get in 2021.

Giving love to the "CEO" of Allen's Flowers, Squeaky, owner Nora Ruth Jenkins.

Meet Boone, the 162-pound Newfoundland who has taken Berea by storm with his size and demeanor.

Reflections

Berea Citizen Archives: July 14, 2005

Berea's four-legged CEO's keep businesses running

For some Berea Businesses, the owner's name on the business license is merely a formality. The real CEO is the one with four legs. Tux, the City Kitty is the most famous of the lot. A former stray turned unofficial Mayor of Berea, the black and white cat graciously greeted visitors to the city at the Welcome Center in Old Town. Reba, another greeter, once an abused and abandoned cocker spaniel, was given a second change by city employee Martha Ann Davidson. Reba returned the favor by pulling her through cancer treatments. CeCe the cat was discovered in the engine compartment of a customer's car while in for servicing at Britton's Chevrolet. She "snooprovized" operations from that point forward. If you opened the door at Office away on West Jefferson Street, Bobbie, a then year-old tabby cat with big orange eyes and a naturally bobbed tail, would have greeted you. "She rules the roost," said Jimmy Garland, owner of the business. Like garland, she was in the office every weekday, helping with computer work by lying by the mouse pad and guiding Garland's hand on the mouse with her paws around his wrist. Squeaky, a brown tabby, adopted by Allen's Flowers, was discovered outside of the shop. Squeaky was eventually lured inside for food. Jimmie Lou Jackson had an llasa apso puppy she co-parented with Martha Ann Davidson whose full name was Willie Nelson Jackson Davison. Willie's name complements Davidson's other dog, Reba, who was named after country star Reba McIntire. Willie enjoyed meeting and greeting customers. With melting brown eyes and a ready smile, Eddie, a brindle-coated greyhound mix, welcomes visitors every morning to watch is companion Michelle Weston work her magic with glass at her studio. He was adopted from Petpro, an organization that rescues animals that are doomed to be put down at shelters. Buck, a Jack Russell terrier, would set the example for patients at Hunter Purdy's office at WaysMeet on Main Street. Kara Brunner's gray tabby cat, Kodak was the boss according to the photographer. She was helpful with cranky or scared children. David and Maxine Keller were mourning the loss of their 12-year-old golden retriever, Bear, who had been with them since they opened their business. The loss was very difficult. On the evening of September 12, a month after Bear's passing, Maxine was driving home through a bank parking lot where they had walked Bear so many times before. There, sitting on the pavement was a dog – a golden retriever. Maxine stopped and took a closer look. The dog had no problem with leaping into the truck as if to say, "Here I am!" After a search for owners was unsuccessful, the Keller's decided to keep Simon who welcomed customers at their shop.

And then there's Boone...big Boone

You may have seen him walking the streets of down town in the evening or you may have seen him or at the Independence Day Celebration. Perhaps you've seen him visiting with residents at a local health care facility. Regardless of where you may have seen him, few people are strangers to Boone. Boone, a 162-pound Newfoundland, has had his size compared to bears and cattle. Despite his size, he is a gentle giant and quite the attention getter. "The attention he gets is incredible," said Cain. Boone was much more than a local celebrity, he also volunteered at Berea Health Care Center. He visited the facility every Monday, brightening the day of the residents. "They love Boone," said activities coordinator Donna Anderson. "He is so big you'd think he would scare people, but he's on their level and the residents don't have to stoop or bend to cuddle him."

Quilts of all kinds to adorn Berea ridge as part of extravaganza

Berea's first quilt extravaganza adorned the Berea ridge with batches of patches, intricate patters, bright colors of what has become an American staple – the quilt. The idea of the extravaganza came from the city's event committee. According to committee member, Gwen Childs, the Berea Arts Council was approached by the Quilt Artists of Kentucky, which inquired about the possibility of a quilt exhibit at ArtSpace. The idea made its way through the events committee and became reality. "Berea has such a strong quilting heritage," Childs said, "The committee looked at what times of the year were quiet and berea, when there's not much going on, and decided on the dates for the events." The event kicked off July 18th with an exhibit at ArtSpace of quilts by the Quilt Artists of Kentucky. Many types of quilts were on display, including challenge quilts, which gave multiple quilters the same pieces of fabric to work with, resulting in a variety of designs.

Preserving summer bounty

Picking those green beans is lots of bending and searching through the vines. Then when you have a good mess, it's time to break them up. Some varieties are stringless which is a blessing. If you don't do a good job stringing them, people will be complaining when they have a hard time swallowing because the strings are hung in their throat.

When the beans just keep coming, you can't wait until you just pull up the whole vine at the end to pick the last beans.

If you are canning beans, there's still more labor: getting out all your equipment, sterilizing the jars and lids, packing the jars with beans, and following the directions for your pressure canner. Those jars of beans look nice after cooling and dating the lid. Now it's time to pack them somewhere for storage. Hopefully, the jars all sealed, and none broke in the canner! Now you've only got how many more buckets full before you are finished canning?

I particularly enjoy the shuck beans. We would lay the green beans on a window screen in a hot place to dry. You can also string beans on a thread and hang in a dry place. These dried beans can be stored in a bag or a jar. Simmer for a few hours with some fatback or grease, and it's so good!

If you live in the country, you have animals competing with you for the corn ears. Bugs, worms, deer, or raccoons are a few. Husking and silking those ears of corn can be tedious. This is where friends and family come in handy. Corn juice splatters everywhere when you cut the kernels off. Blanching and bagging finishes off the job if you are freezing.

Tomatoes are versatile. Tomato juice, whole tomatoes or pieces, salsa, and spaghetti sauce are some ways to use in canning. After a few minutes in hot and then cold water, the tomato peel comes off easily.

The next time you enjoy homecooked canned food feel very blessed. Someone put a lot of time and effort in while standing, lugging heavy loads, and preparing it. If you have the chance, help someone who has canning experience. You can put those skills to good use for your family.

93-year-old preacher returning to the pulpit in rural Kentucky

Perhaps you heard about the fellow who passed out in one of those dull uptown church services. Members of the rescue squad rushed in. They carried out five people before they got the right one.

You certainly won't have to worry about that scenario at Bethel Christian Church in the small community of Fox, Kentucky, on July 18. That's the Sunday when 93-year-old Doyle Spry will be back in the pulpit, and you can be assured he'll have everyone fired up.

I'm so thankful we have preachers like Brother Spry who have never sought fame nor fortune, but desired only to serve the Lord faithfully.

While he could have served anywhere in the world, he chose to base his ministry in a sparsely populated area near the edge of the Appalachians. He's been so very faithful to serve God there. In fact, in that very rural corner of the world, he has personally baptized 191 people.

Nowadays, Brother Spry may have to lean on a walker or sit on a stool when he preaches, but he remains a very capable communicator of the Gospel message. He's the kind of old-fashioned preacher this current generation needs to hear from.

I once wrote of Brother Spry that, in nearly a century on this earth, he has been through good times and bad. He survived the Great Depression. He survived the Korean War. He experienced the heartache of losing a beloved wife. Through all that and more, he will tell you that the Lord was always there for him. And he will tell you that the Lord will be there for you, too, because He will never leave you nor forsake you.

What I appreciate about Brother Spry is that he understands the importance of being in church. He will tell you that, at his age, he knows the time of his departure from this world is drawing nearer but that a city awaits not made with hands, a city whose builder and maker is God.

So, for his 93rd birthday, Brother Spry will be where he wants to be, preaching about the One who is worthy of worship, with this scripture in his heart:

"O come, let us sing unto the Lord: Let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation. Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms. For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods. In his hand are the deep places of the earth: the strength of the hills is his also. The sea is his, and he made it: and his hands formed the dry land. O come, let us worship" (Psalm 95:1-6).

If you're anywhere near Fox, Kentucky, on July 18, let me encourage you to go and hear from a man who'll have you so fired up that you won't have to be worried about being carried out of church by the rescue squad.

You can reach Roger Alford at (502) 514-6857 or rogeralford1@gmail.com.

FRANKFORT (KT) — The state of Kentucky wrapped up the fiscal year that ended June 30 with a record surplus in the General Fund, according to information released Friday by the state budget director's office.

General Fund receipts totaled $12.8 billion, a 10.9% increase over FY20 collections, exceeding the budgeted estimate by $1.1 billion. At the same time, Road Fund revenues totaled $1.6 billion, an increase of 10.1% over last year, resulting in a $64.6 million revenue surplus.

State Budget Director John Hicks said the general fund revenues for FY21 set many milestones.

"The FY21 General Fund revenue surplus is over $1.1 billion, the highest ever by a multiple of three," he said. "The revenue surplus will be deposited into Kentucky's 'Rainy Day Fund,' the Budget Reserve Trust Fund, bringing it up to nearly $1.9 billion, or over 16 percent of General Fund spending. The $1.9 billion balance is up from just $303 million at the end of last year. The final surplus amount will be known once the accounting records for expenditures are completed later this month.”

Gov. Andy Beshear reacted with excitement during a 58-second video posted on Facebook.

“The economic news today related to our state budget is nothing short of incredible,” he said.

The general fund increase was the highest annual growth rate in 26 years, as a combination of vaccination progress, federal government aid to individuals and businesses, and employment growth, all of which contributed to an improved Kentucky economy.

All three of the largest tax areas, individual income, sales, and business tax receipts; which account for 80 percent of total General Fund receipts, grew significantly. Sales tax receipts grew by 12.0%, the highest annual growth rate since the tax rate was raised from five to six percent in 1990.

Individual income taxes grew by 7.9%, while business tax receipts from the corporation income tax and the limited liability entity tax grew 38.1%, after yearly growth of less than two percent over the prior five years.

General Fund revenues stayed higher than the budgeted estimate all year, which called for a 1.2% growth rate. General Fund growth rate had been hovering around 5.5% through the first nine months of FY21, then the final three months spiked by 24 percent, leading to the 10.9% growth rate for the year.

Blue Grass Chemical Agent-Destruction Pilot Plant operators place the first M55 rockets containing VX nerve agent on a conveyor to begin the destruction process July 9. This marks the fourth of five destruction campaigns to begin at the Blue Grass Army Depot. (A portion of this photo has been blurred in accordance with Department of Defense guidelines.)

First nerve agent rockets destroyed at Blue Grass Army Depot plant

The first M55 rockets containing VX nerve agent were destroyed at the Blue Grass Chemical Agent-Destruction Pilot Plant (BGCAPP) July 9. This marks the fourth of five chemical weapons destruction campaigns to begin at the Blue Grass Army Depot (BGAD). “Rockets are the most complex munitions in our stockpile,” said Dr. Candace Coyle, BGCAPP site project manager. “We are eager to see this portion of the chemical weapons in Kentucky destroyed. The team is focused and ready to accomplish the mission safely.” “Our team has successfully completed two projectile campaigns involving nerve agent,” said Ron Hink, Bechtel Parsons Blue Grass (BPG) project manager. “As with the previous campaigns, safety will remain the top priority as we begin rocket destruction.” Under the observation of trained operators, automated equipment will disassemble nearly 18,000 rockets and drain the chemical agent. The agent will be neutralized by mixing it with water and caustic to produce hydrolysate. After the agent is confirmed destroyed, the hydrolysate will be pumped to holding tanks to be processed later at an off-site disposal facility. The drained rocket warheads will be containerized and destroyed in a Static Detonation Chamber unit located on the depot. The rocket motors will be placed on pallets and safely transported to Anniston, Alabama, to be destroyed in a Static Detonation Chamber unit. Throughout the campaign, the BGCAPP team will work closely with BGAD and Blue Grass Chemical Activity (BGCA) partners to destroy the chemical weapons. “The professionalism, leadership and day-to-day level of teamwork between Team BGAD continues to demonstrate a superior level of capability and expertise between all parties,” said Col. Stephen Dorris, BGAD commander. “I couldn’t be prouder of the focused intensity going into the effort to quickly and safely rid Madison County, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, the United States and the people of planet earth, from the threat of chemical weapons.” “Blue Grass Chemical Activity is proud to be a part of the team that continues to make history as we support our nation’s commitment to destroy the chemical weapons stockpile,” said Lt. Col. Edward Williams, BGCA commander. “Even while we supported the destruction of VX projectiles at BGAD this past May while operating under CO-VID-19 pandemic precautions, BGCA personnel were at the same time preparing to support transport of VX rockets for the mission.” “The start of VX rocket destruction in Kentucky is an important step toward fulfilling the United States’ commitment to the Chemical Weapons Convention,” said Michael S. Abaie, program executive officer for Assembled Chemical Weapons Alternatives. “Our teams are working diligently to eliminate an entire category of weapons of mass destruction, with safety always at the forefront.” The Program Executive Office, Assembled Chemical Weapons Alternatives is responsible for destroying the remaining U.S. chemical weapons stockpile in Colorado and Kentucky. The organization oversees the contract for design, construction, systemization, operation and closure of BGCAPP with BPG and subcontractors Amentum, Battelle Memorial Institute and GP Strategies. The project also works closely with community advisory groups to keep them informed about chemical weapons destruction progress. “The start of VX rocket destruction is a big step forward for BGCAPP,” said Doug Hindman, Kentucky Chemical Demilitarization Citizens’ Advisory Commission chair.

The Edward Byrne Memorial Justice Assistance Grant allows local governments to support a broad range of criminal justice related activities based on their own local needs and conditions. The Court then approved the County entering into an Interlocal Agreement for the grant with the city of Richmond in which the Richmond Police Department and the Madison County Sheriff’s Department will each receive $5,696 from the grant. The Court also approved for the county to apply for a 2021 Kentucky Department of Agriculture Animal Control Advisory Board Spay and Neuter grant in the amount of $3,000. The grants are awarded on a competitive basis for spaying and neutering companion animals. Madison County received a $2,500 grant last year and matched another $2,500 which allowed the Madison County Animal Shelter to spay and neuter 47 companion animals.

In other business the Court:

- Heard the first reading of an ordinance to approve a zone change request for property located at 1270 Moberly Road, from R7 to R1 single family residences. The land-use request for the property located near the Madison County Fair Grounds was approved by the Madison County Planning Commission during its meeting Tuesday, June 15. The Commission found that the zone change was appropriate and consistent with the Madison County Comprehensive Plan because of the character and area of the property due to the residential development from Concord Road to Moberly on East Hwy. 52. Specifically, a new residential development which the Court approved in October 2020 which is adjacent to 1270 Moberly Road. The Commission also found that development is desirable in the transportation corridors, the property contains the required infrastructure including sewer on site needed for residential development and there is a need for single resident lots in the county at this time. A zone change request for the property was denied by the Court in 2019 but could be brought before the court for consideration in 1 year. The difference this time around was the changes made in the area since the last request.

- approved a resolution proclaiming July 13, 2021 as United Way of the Bluegrass Centennial Day.
- approved the hiring of Elizabeth Cordel as finance clerk in the Finance Department at the rate of $16 per hour.
- Approved moving firefighter Dylan Rogers from Firefighter 1 to Firefighter 2 upon his completion of 400 hours of training.

Recipe from the heart

This past week I was searching the internet for some different ideas for evening meals. There is something about summer that makes me want to try new and different things. This week’s recipe was a result of some of that research. I have a recipe for baked beans that I have used for years but decided to switch it up. This recipe did not disappoint!

Libby Horn

Baked Beans

Ingredients

4 slices of bacon
1 small onion, diced
4 (15 ounce) cans of pork and beans in tomato sauce, drained
1/2 cup ketchup
1 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 cup corghum syrup or molasses

Directions

Place beans in a collander to drain. Cook bacon in a skillet over medium high heat. Drain, reserving 1 teaspoon of bacon drippings in the skillet. Saute onion in hot bacon drippings until tender. Stir together all ingredient in a large bowl and place in a lightly greased 11” x 7” baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until hot and bubbly.

State Auditor Mike Harmon plans to run for Governor

FRANKFORT (KT) – Democratic Gov. Andy Beshear has picked up a Republican opponent for his anticipated 2023 re-election bid in the person of Kentucky Auditor of Public Accounts Mike Harmon.

“My launch is not filled with fireworks and fanfare, but merely my strong determination to help renew Kentucky and hopefully help this state become the best version of itself it can be,” he said in a statement issued on Monday saying that he had filed the paperwork announcing his intention to seek the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

“Over the last year and a half, sadly Kentuckians have had their liberties and their livelihoods suspended and stolen while promises to make those losses whole have gone for the most part unfulfilled,” Harmon said. “I learned a long time ago to make few promises because someone’s word should be their bond, and that bond, if at all possible, should be honored and unbroken.

“But I will make this promise that if I am elected, I will do my best to take time to listen to the people of Kentucky and to serve each and every one to the best of my abilities regardless of their political affiliation.”

Harmon was first elected to the State Auditor’s post in November 2015, and won re-election for another four-year term in November 2019. Under the Kentucky Constitution, he cannot seek a third term.

Some of the accomplishments he points to while in the auditor’s office: completing high profile audits and examinations of entities and programs such as the Commonwealth’s public retirement systems, the Administrative Office of the Courts, KentuckyWired, the University of Louisville Foundation, the Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund, and many others.

He previously served in the Kentucky House of Representatives for 13 years representing the people of Boyle and Casey County, and previously Washington County, in the 54th District.

Harmon graduated from Eastern Kentucky University with degrees in math, statistics, and theater, and was valedictorian of his Boyle County High School class.

He also serves as a deacon and church moderator at Junction City First Baptist Church.

In his candidacy announcement, Harmon included the mission statement he adopted after his first successful election to public office, one he says he has tried to live by:

“I have no desire to leave a legacy, except that I served my Lord, that I served my family, and that I served my country, well.”

Harmon is the first person to announce their intention to run for governor in 2023.

Swing For a Cure

Previously we made a post to look for some exciting news in the coming days. Unfortunately, this is not the post we wanted or expected.

It is with the heaviest of hearts that we are posting of a great loss to this tournament. Our founder, Tom Howser, who had the biggest heart and soul for this caouse and gave so much to the youth, has reached his heavenly home. Last year Covid shut us down and Tom ended up getting Covid. He fought hard, spending 109 days in the hospital before making it back home. We are grateful that Tom was able to return home and spend time with his family. He expressed that he wanted to see Swing for a Cure to go on this year (this was the post we had hoped to make). Unfortunately, unexpected complications from Covid took tom from us on Friday, June 18, 2021. Please keep his wife Patty in your thoughts and prayers for the difficult days ahead.

The family of Thomas M. Howser wishes to thank you for your kindness and sympathy at a time when it was deeply appreciated.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

The Berea Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing on Tuesday, the 27th day of July 2021, at 6:00 P.M., in the Council Chambers of the Berea City Annex for the purpose of considering a proposal to amend the zoning classification of property located at 136 Neely Street from R-1 (Single Family Residential) to MP/C (Mobile/Manufactured Home Park/Community District).

The public is invited to attend and make comments.

Mintz: Decision to come back was 'simple'

LEXINGTON (KT) — Davion Mintz took his time deciding his future plans. Mintz, who opted to return to Kentucky for a second season, declared for the NBA Draft but carefully planned his path without the help of outside influences, such as hiring an agent. He also didn't want to draw a paycheck overseas. "For me, where I'm at with my group is, we don't want to rush or elect to go overseas if I don't have to," Mintz said Thursday. "My goal was trying to find an organization that could use my skillset immediately or help foster me – or come back to Kentucky. So, it was very simple." Mintz said his main priority during the process was "solely about me, just finding understanding and the route to take. "I had great communication with the coaching staff and knew beforehand this was what was going to go on," he said. "I think it will be great." Mintz isn't concerned about a roster stocked with a mixture of newcomers and experienced guards and kept an open mind as the Wildcats prepared for a future with or without his services. He led UK in scoring (11.5 points per game), assists (77) and 3-point field goals with

56. "I think it will be great, honestly," Mintz said. "Going into my process, I didn't judge it too much. I knew that we needed the roster additions that the coaches made this year. That was a part of our team where we kind of struggled last year. I knew we had to make some additions in our backcourt. That didn't surprise me at all. ... (There are) a lot of talented players back there, a lot more shooting, so I think it will be a lot of fun." Another deciding factor for Mintz was last year's 9-16 mark, adding the experience was painful and "you don't forget that you won nine games." "If that's not enough motivation for anybody I don't know what is," Mintz said. "... We're going to use that motivation, we're going to live off of that. I think it's going to be a great year. It's going to be a lot of fight in us. It's not the time to hold our heads too high right now. It's the time to work."

Cats to play Ohio State in Classic

One of Kentucky's non-conference opponents for next season is on the slate. The Wildcats will take on Ohio State in the CBS Sports

Classic and the two border rivals will play the second game of a doubleheader at a site to be determined. North Carolina and UCLA will play in the opener at 3 p.m. on Dec. 18 in the eighth edition of the classic. The Wildcats own a 3-4 mark in the prestigious event and lost to North Carolina 75-63 last season. The Tar Heels are 5-2, while Ohio State is 4-3 and UCLA has won just two games out of seven. The four teams have combined for 26 national championships, led by UCLA with 11, Kentucky with eight and North Carolina with six titles.

Pinnacles drawing visitors, spending to Berea

Andy McDonald
Special to the Citizen

Visitors to the Pinnacles and tourism spending are up, according to a study presented Tuesday night before the Berea City Council.

Dr. Louisa Summers, professor of Health and Human

Performance at Berea College presented the findings of her annual report, along with research associates Osman Bin Aamir and Gage Cousineau.

According to the study, an estimated 103,000 hikers visited the Pinnacles in 2020, generating an economic gain for the city of over $1 million. The data was acquired using a combination of infrared sensors, observation, on-site interviews, and interviews used with a QR code, Summers said.

Summers noted there is good news and bad news when it comes to the economic impact of hikers. Slightly over 50 percent still report spending no money in town after visiting the popular hiking venue.

“This is a missed opportunity. The good news is in 2021, we saw the largest increase in people spending $20 or more. In addition, there’s more people reporting spending $20 than in previous years,” Summers said. In fact, the study estimated a 400 percent increase in spending over last year.

While approximately 41 percent of the people are coming from Richmond and Lexington, Summers reported there is an increase of visitors from surrounding counties, such as

Pavilion progress

There were more signs of progress for the Chestnut Street Pavilion Monday morning as crews were working toward meeting their summer completion goal.

The cupola for the pavilion was installed Monday, and crews were out pouring cement for the facility, which is projected for an August completion. An usually wet July has delayed construction somewhat, along with some pandemic-related delays in getting supplies.

The pavilion will be the home of the Berea Farmer’s Market, but it is also expected to be available to the public as a performance space, a venue for classes or seminars, and as a space that can be rented by the public for events like family reunions.

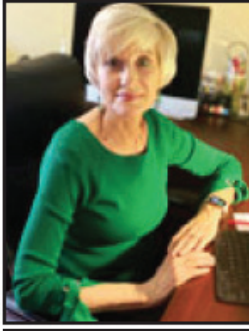

Much of the funding for the Chestnut Street Pavilion is coming from the Berea Tourism and Convention Commission, which has budgeted $250,000 for the completion of the facility. The money for the public facility is coming from the restaurant tax. City officials have previously speculated the $565,000 pavilion will be completed under budget.

The effort to build the pavilion on Chestnut Street, next to the former Mitchell Tolle building, began when the city rallied support from local citizens and interest groups, thereafter winning a $250,000 grant from the Kentucky Governor’s Office of Agriculture Policy and an additional $100,000 from the United States Department of Agriculture Rural Development division.

Mayor Bruce Fraley, who spearheaded the effort to lobby county and state officials on behalf of the city, said the Chestnut Street Pavilion may well spur economic revitalization of Berea’s commercial district on Mt. Vernon Road, and it may serve as a gateway that will lead to the revitalization of Chestnut Street and Old Town as well. Both of districts are already seeing an upturn of new businesses moving in.

This is just a special and unique way to honor our fallen brothers and sisters. We love comforting the families and friends as we ride into their towns. It's also good for them to see that as long as we are riding and carrying on their legacy, they will never be forgotten.”

Ride to to honor fallen first responders

Last year, Kentucky first responders experienced 12 line of duty deaths.

As a special way to comfort those families, friends, and communities who lost a loved one, Kentucky Brotherhood Ride is hopping on bicycles and riding to those communities.

During a four-day period, the Kentucky Brotherhood Ride will be visiting 18 counties in central Kentucky to honor those who have paid the ultimate price for their job and community.

Starting on Thursday, July 29, 35 first responders and their dedicated support team will saddle up on their bicycles and head out of Lexington, Kentucky on a four-day, four-hundred-mile journey to carry on the legacy of our fallen brothers and sisters.

The riders will be visiting 18 counties — eight of which are the hometowns of a fallen first responder.

Families and communities of all fallen first responders have been invited to be in attendance during the stops in each of the 18 counties.

James William McKinney

James William Kelley, 75, went to be with his Lord and Savior on Tuesday July 13, 2021, at Saint Joseph Hospital in Lexington following an extended illness. He was born June 26, 1946, in Berea to the late Ed and Alice Beard Kelley. A lifelong resident of Berea, Mr. Kelley served in the Army National Guard, was a former employee of Phillips Lighting, Ajax, Madison County Road Department, and the Bluegrass Army Depot, before retiring in 2012. Mr. Kelley was considered by everyone as the rock of the family. Quiet and humble by nature, he was always a good listener and could be counted on to share thoughtful wisdom and sound advice. Mr. Kelley was a member of the Silver Creek Baptist Church. He was a no-nonsense gentle man who valued hard work, honesty, and integrity. He enjoyed gardening a great deal and working on the farm with his John Deere Tractor. He was also an avid Cincinnati Reds baseball and UK basketball fan who enjoyed hunting & fishing in his younger days. More than anything else in the world however- he loved his family. He was a loving husband, amazing father, sweet papaw, and friend who set many examples for us to follow. He will be sorely missed.

Other than his parents he was preceded in death by one brother, Donnie Kelley and two sisters, Barbara Hinkle, and Terry McMullin.

Mr. Kelley is survived by his wife of 55 years Lucy Curraleen Kelley; his daughter Jamie Willis and her husband Steve, their children Jared, Allison and Braden of League City, TX; and his son Chris Kelley, his wife Alicia and their children Madison and Emma of Berea; as well as several cousins, nieces, nephews, and friends. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions are suggested to: Bluegrass Care Navigators Hospice, 1733 Harrodsburg Rd. Lexington, KY 40504

Funeral services were at 2 p.m. Friday July 16, 2021, at Davis & Powell Funeral Home. Rev. Jimmy Ashcraft officiated. A private burial followed in Berea Cemetery. Pallbearers were Chris Kelley, Steve Willis, Larry Moore, Joe Whitaker, Scott Rowlette and Brad Hylton. Honorary pallbearers were Buddy Boykin, Kenny Hylton, Carl James Neeley, Teddy Croley and Ronnie Terrell.

Judy Conn Northern

Judy Conn Northern, 58, Berea died at her residence July 14, 2021. She was an Indianapolis, Indiana native born April 3, 1963, daughter of the late Charles and Mary Phillips Conn, homemaker, member of the Holiness Faith and resident of Berea.

Survivors include her husband Harold Northern; children Danyel Conn, Eric Northern, Zachary Northern; siblings Mary, Tim, Charlotte and Nena; 3 grandchildren; 1 great grandchild; as well as numerous relatives and friends. In addition to her parents she was preceded in death by a daughter Brandy Adams. Graveside services were at 2 p.m., Monday, July 19, 2021 at Scaffold Cane Cemetery. Reppert Funeral Home and Cremation Service entrusted with arrangements.

Druther’s still thriving in Campbellsville

A simple post drew a lot of interest. As a member of the Kentucky Press Association Board of Directors, our quarterly meetings take us to various parts of the state. Our summer meeting last Friday was held at Campbellsville University, my first official visit to Taylor County. To my knowledge, the county isn’t named after any member of my family, but I admit, Taylor County does have a ring to it. I took the backroad trail, because the GPS on my phone told me it was the quickest way to get to there. However, the quickest doesn’t always mean the best, even though I enjoyed driving through the backroads and passing through an Amish settlement somewhere near Lebanon and Casey County, I’m really not sure, but it was pretty neat seeing the horse and buggy travelers sharing the highway. Upon arrival, I came across a Druther’s Restaurant, the last one of its kind on the planet.

Keith Taylor

At 10:30 a.m. it was packed and I decided to go in and reminisce. I posted a photograph Druther’s Restaurant on my personal Facebook page, and folks flocked the post with comments. Some of them were happy a Druther’s still was in existence in the United States. Truthfully, I didn’t know Druther’s was so popular in its prime. Many followers asked if they still served Fried Chicken and as far as I know, they do, because it was on a menu board. The entrance and dining area looked the same as it did more than three decades ago before Druther’s swapped its name in favor of Dairy Queen and converted its menu to the DQ brand. I ordered a soft drink and walked around downtown for about an hour before going to the meeting. I had never been to Campbellsville and I was impressed with the shops and cleanliness of the stores and shops located in the downtown area. It was refreshing to see a downtown so vibrant and appealing, and it was a pretty sight — a bookstore, coffee store and an old-fashioned soda pop machine featuring Coke products and Ski. I browsed through a sporting goods store and purchased a T-shirt with the Campbellsville University logo embroidered on the front and then drove off to campus for the board meeting. We had a catered meal of Chick-Fil-A, one of my favorite restaurant chains. Looking back, I wish I would have grabbed a box of fried chicken before driving back to Berea, because for old time sake, I would have rather went to Druther’s.

Financial suicide is not necessary

There is some risk to all of life. A friend and his wife had a house paid for and a substantial savings account. At the age of 65 he was retired and bored and bemoaned he had never been a business owner. He was aware of a family who had recently closed a business so he offered to buy it from them and even employed a family member to run it. He knew nothing about the business but was confident all would be well. The cost of the investment, his lack of understanding the business and the monthly outgo spelled disaster. Within two years he had lost his house and his entire retirement savings trying to make his dream business endeavor sustainable. Another acquaintance had worked hard at an auto plant for twelve years but retired and took his $150,000 retirement savings and sunk it into a restaurant endeavor. He had never run a restaurant before and within one year the restaurant had failed. His money was gone and he had a sizable debt.

Another acquaintance retired and wanted something to do. He got into a cookie business that lasted three months. He spent $30,000 a month for three months in a cookie franchise before he was able to get out of the venture. Neither of the prior persons had any prior business ownership experience. Life is filled with lessons. Education is often very expensive. You must decide if you are still young enough or too old to take on such a business venture. This is especially true if you could end up losing all your investment and further financially obligating yourself. If you want or need something to do, then get into something that you can afford and know something about. Being informed and applying as much research to any endeavor is crucial. If you can afford a large franchise fee, other investment costs and you can make the business successful, then by all means enjoy your endeavor. If you are risking being homeless then you should probably reconsider. Years ago, an old friend was almost financially broke at 50. He had worked in various restaurants with others but had little to show for his efforts. He rented an old hamburger restaurant that had been closed and his rent and overhead were cheap. He went to work making the best hamburger in town. For 16 years his burger business netted him an annual salary of over $300,000. He retired well. Sometimes we simply need to be content with what we have. If you need to work, consider what you know, what you have and how you can make it work for you. It could require a minimal amount of advertising. Or, it might simply require letting acquaintances know what kind of work you are doing and building your business by word of mouth. You may be able to use space or land that is sitting dormant and can be rented or bought reasonably. Life’s pursuits can be, and should be, approached with reasonable caution.

Word on the streets

“ What is your favorite thing to make from fresh fruit?”

Les Stewart

“Strawberry-rhubarb pie. My grandmother used to make it.”

Ray Powell

“Peach Preserves. My Mom always made them when I was a kid.”

Gina Hudson

“Strawberry shortcake. It’s fresh, “summery” and light. “

Here’s How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Good news.
Rates just
got lower.

Im excited to announce auto insurance rates just went down. I can help you find coverage that works for you. LET’S TALK TODAY.

Kirksville roots provide a solid foundation

At some point, almost everyone has lost their joy to a thief known as “comparison.” Just about everyone has done it — compared their life to what they see on someone’s social media, a family member’s story of success, or what others in their age group have achieved. Life doesn’t really have a measuring point, but the idea of it, still impacts our happiness and how we check our own successes. Growing up in a large family, my biggest point of comparison were my cousins. We are all very different, but we’ve each compared our lives to one another at some time. I was the “middle grand-child,” so I felt the brunt of that! All of my other cousins left Kirksville at least once — whether it was for college or love. Watching that, I always felt a pressure to leave because I felt left out in some way, like I was missing an adventure. I was telling my papaw about the pressures of that one day and he said, “There’s nothing wrong with staying by your roots ... you’ll have a good foundation too.” And I have. I’ve stayed close to my roots my whole life. Some might feel disadvantaged by this, but I feel humbled and blessed by it, especially after last week. I live next door to a friend I went through high school with and I was able to show her and her child around to some of the local swimming holes. Sharing that makes me feel fortunate, because her child is just another generation that will grow up to love and appreciate our community and its offerings. Staying close to home meant that I was able to be the “one call away” person when my grandparents needed someone, a cousin needed a sitter, or my brother needed a ride to a game. Living in a small town for 30 years might sound mundane to some, but to me it represents a different kind of adventure. An adventure filled with family, friends, and sharing all the big moments. It’s easy to get caught up in your social media news-feed and feel a little jealous, but don’t forget that you can create your own adventures right here. Memories with those you love can’t be bought or replaced. I think my roots are planted more firmly in Kirksville than they ever have been, and my feet like to stay in the creek with people I love.

Big Apple breaks window

A window at Modern Beauty Salon on Short Street was broken on Friday, July 12 when Carl “Big Apple” Miracle stepped out of his bread truck and turned his ankle on the broken sidewalk. As he was falling, Miracle threw out his arms, stumbled some more before his elbow went through the salon window. Miracle sustained minor cuts that were patched up. The window and sidewalk were also repaired.

Tastee Freeze burglarized

On Monday, July 15, a break-in was reported to the Berea Police Department. Thieves had broken into the Tastee Freeze located on U.S. 25 North. An individual(s) had broken in the back door and made off with approximately $76 in cash, ten cartons of cigarettes and a case of coffee.

Jet bombers begin scoring runs

Area residents have both seen and heard the United States Air Force B47’s and B52’s flying at low levels simulating bombing runs. These aircraft have been practicing simulated bomb drops and are equipped with a device to sound an electronic tone at the moment the “bombs away” signal is given. The bombers were being tracked by radar scoring units that were recently assigned at the Blue Grass Army Depot. The unit was used to determine accuracy of the bombing runs. Personnel from Detachment 89 of the 12th Radar Bomb Scoring Squadron out of Turner Air Force Base in Georgia arrived at the depot earlier in the month. The detachment consisted of three officers; two civilians and 67 enlisted personnel and would be located at the Bluegrass Army Depot indefinitely.

Children to have display day at the park

For the past few weeks, children participating in the morning park program have been making, painting and shellacking, plaster of Paris plaques. They have been also been playing kickball, badminton, four square and table games. On Tuesday and Wednesday of the program, participants were working with detergent bottles, which were cut into vases and painted. Boxes were cut, painted and decorated with glitter or pictures. These were to be used for collection or jewelry boxes. Thursday and Friday, participants would be engaged with making pincushions, “toss” pillows, decorated blocks of woods and stringing bamboo beads. Mrs. Alan Cruise, program director had also been teaching participants words and phrases in French and Spanish. On July 24th, there was a day for parents and other interested community members were invited to see the finished products.

Music camp begins with 65 students

The Friends for Strings Summer Music Camp was held July 21 – 27. A total of 65 students had signed up for the third season of this camp. Allan Green of Union College served as the director of the advanced and elementary orchestras. Arthur Dondero and Rolf Hovey (chairmen of the Berea College of Department of Music), served as co-conductors. Students attending the summer camp come predominantly from the Berea area. However, this season saw participants from Cincinnati, Louisville, Richmond, Lexington, Somerset, and other surrounding communities. Out of town students were housed in dormitories. All participants had a full schedule of classes, individual work as well as a recreational program.

Attendance figures released

The State Department of Education released attendance figures for all public schools in Madison County, as well as for two surrounding counties. The figures given were the average daily attendance for the first two months of the 1962-63 school year. The state’s allotment to districts is based primarily on these figures. The average daily attendance for the Madison County School District during this period was 3,963.9 pupils. Madison County is the 40th in size among the 206 districts in the state. The Berea Independent School average daily attendance was 517.3, ranking it 187th in the state. Other local districts were Garrard County 1,966.4 (103rd in the state; Jackson County 2,609.4 (73rd in the state) and Richmond Independent 1,658.5 (124th in the state).

New market ‘pops’ up in the Kingston area

Our little community of Kingston has a new store. It’s called, the “Pop-Up Market,” across from the Shell Mart. The grand opening was on July 17. It looked like fun with a food trailer, local mobile boutique, and Mudtruckerstudio pottery. The Facebook page said the market has a goal of bringing items “to create a hub for local farmers, artists, and cooks to bring their valued goods to the community.” There is a wide variety of produce available by weight or by bulk for canning. There are other items available such as t-shirts, candles and melts, goat milk soaps and lotions, and other local gifts. The store is closed on Monday and Tuesday. The Wednesday-Saturday hours are from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and Sunday hours are noon-5 p.m. I met Dr. Mitch and Dr. Amy of Sunset Chiropractic during my weekly Pinnacle hike on Saturdays. I found them to be passionate about their calling with quite a vision for outreach in the future.

“If you don’t take time for your wellness, you’ll be forced to take time for your illness.” Check their Facebook page for a variety of events, classes, and informative posts. The scheduled grand opening is July 23 from 11:30-2 p.m. at 2025 Corporate Dr. in Richmond. There will be lunch, arts and crafts, games, photo booth, prizes and more.

I also met another newcomer to the area on that same hike. Her name is Hayley and she just moved here from Nashville. She is still settling in and exploring her new hometown. Hayley is working at Berea College in admissions. We are fortunate to be able to attract retirees and newcomers to our home. Let’s continue to be welcoming, friendly, and supportive.

Religion

There must be a reason cows have horns and horses don't

I heard a story the other day about the city slicker who visited a farm for the very first time. He was fascinated by all he saw and had lots of questions for the farmer. "Why doesn't that cow over there have horns," he asked. "Well, some breeds of cattle don't grow horns," the farmer explained. "Others do, and we cut them off so they're not a danger to other cattle or to people. Sometimes, when they're small calves, we put dehorning paste on them, and they dissolve. But the reason that particular cow doesn't have horns is because it's a horse."

The truth is, if we're unfamiliar with rural living, there are lots of things we don't know or understand.

By the same token, if we're unfamiliar with city living, there are lots of things we don't know or understand. And, with human nature being what it is, pride can well up in us simply because we know something the other person doesn't.

That's not just a city vs. country thing. Pride can well up in us because we have something our neighbor doesn't, no matter where we live.

Oh, but we must remember God hates pride. He warns us: "Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before fall" (Proverbs 16:18).

I was driving to church the other day on the outskirts of Atlanta and was struck by the ginormous homes along the way. With so many professional sports teams, Atlanta has a great number of highly paid athletes who can afford multi-million dollar homes.

Atlanta also has highly paid businessmen working for major Fortune 500 companies who can afford multi-million dollar homes. Yet, I've found those people aren't puffed up with pride.

In all honesty, the most prideful attitudes I've encountered have been in less well-to-do communities where people have become puffed up because their four-bedroom homes are a little bigger than the neighbor's down the road, because their pickup truck sits higher than the neighbor's down the road, because their car is a little newer, or because their lawn is a little greener, or because their cows are a little fatter.

Pride gives us a feeling of superiority. It convinces us that we're better than others, and even that we have no need for the Lord because we can handle things ourselves.

What we need to keep in mind always is that, "God opposes the proud, but gives grace to the humble" (James 4:6).

Knowing the difference between a cow and a horse doesn't make us better than someone else.

It just shows we grew up on a farm. Knowing how to maneuver in a big city subway system doesn't make us better than someone else. It just shows we grew up in the city.

Let's lose the prideful attitudes that cause us to lift ourselves up, and let's lift up Jesus, the only One who is worthy.

Flying Needles making quilts for CASA

The Flying Needles Quilting group met Saturday, July 10, 2021 at the Gathering Place at 305 Glades Road, Berea, to work on making quilts for CASA.

They held a contest to see who could complete their quilt top first.

On Saturday, July 24, 2021 at 10 a.m., the group will meet to learn how to bind a quilt on the sewing machine.

After completing the lesson they will work on making Fidget Quilts for use at Baptist Health Hospital in Richmond. Persons on the 4th floor will use them to have something to do with their hands and hold their attention.

Anyone interested is invited to attend on the 2nd and 4th Saturday of the month.

Berea College's Entrepreneurship for the Public Good Program completes small business Champions Program

Berea College Undergraduate students within the Entrepreneurship for the Public Good Program are have completed the Champions Program that recognizes travel and tourism businesses recovering and reopening from the pandemic along U.S. Bicycles Routes 21 this summer. The Champions Program aligns with the marking of USBR 21 with the Department of Transportation and Friends of the Boone Trace.

This year's EPG project focuses on communities found along U.S. Bi-cycles Routes 21 especially those recovering and reopening following the impact of the pandemic. The excellent news about COVID is that adventure tourists are increasing and traveling to less congested areas after the economic downturn and social isolation. However, small businesses have struggled, especially in rural areas. The Champions Program intends to recognize and highlight the small companies that have survived and are returning and reopening their operations. "We have seen that traveler and adventure tourists are viewing business pages or posting photos or re-views online, and we wanted to honor the small business as "Champions" that are returning," says Dr. Peter H Hackbert, Director of EPG.

Four years ago, EPG student research provided the framework of Kentucky's newest bike Route 21, which runs from Cleveland, Ohio, to Atlanta, Georgia. As a result, EPG collaborated with Friends of Boone Trace, Inc. to meet the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials (AASHTO) standards in 2018. Using this information, The Friends of Boone Trace, Inc. applied for and received the designation of Kentucky's newest national bike route. USBR 21 features the original route opened by Daniel Boone in 1775 — the first road ever into the land west of the Appalachian Mountains, which began the 'westward movement' of our country. The 265-mile route connects the Ohio River in Mason County, Kentucky, through the heart of the Bluegrass Region, to the edge of the Cumberland Gap in Tennessee. The addition of this route places Kentucky as 5th in the nation for the number of "biker friendly" miles recognized by AASHTO.

The Champions Program focuses on the business community along USBR 21, including adventure and recreation groups, business owners, chamber of commerce, trail town council, town councils, and elected officials and county government. Dr. Hackbert says, "We desire to activate owners in towns along the route. Because businesspeople are, by nature, busy, the students are reviewing online digital platforms to identify and list the recovering and reopening the small businesses. In addition, the Champions Program intends to publish those recognized firms in their local newspapers, to honor their courage and resilience during this difficult time.

Berea College and the Entrepreneurship for the Public Good Program in its research to support the travel and tourism sector recognizes these businesses that are recovering from the pandemic in Berea Kentucky.

For the past ten years, EPG students researched the Commonwealth's small rural communities that connect trails and towns to strengthen local economies through adventure tourism. Their research helps communities develop tourist destinations and combines water-based, cycling, hiking, mountain biking, ATV, caving, rock climbing, equestrian riders, and endurance trail runners as users to trail systems. The summer work guides travelers to trails, food, lodging, campground, retail stores, museums, authentic art and crafts, heritage assets, entertainment, and other services.

Funding for the USBR 21 Wayfinding Signage Project was provided by a $85,000 grant from the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet. "By providing easily found signage directions, bicycling tourists are guided to the most interesting places to experience safe, scenic riding along Kentucky's historic byways. This approach will attract more visitors to explore Kentucky's towns and engage in other outdoor adventures, while touring," says Dr. Fox. "We anticipate this designation will bring in more cyclists to the Commonwealth and impact on the economy of the Appalachian Region."

John M. Fox, MD, President, Friends of Boone Trace, Inc. said, "This bicycle route is a modification of the auto tour using alternate roads to make it safer and more pleasant, passing many historical points of interest along the way." The USBR 21 route covers 10 Kentucky counties, three certified Kentucky Trail Towns, and numerous towns.

hikers who are coming from Jackson, Garrard and Lincoln counties.

Out of state hikers spent a projected $21 per person, or a total of $367,556 according to estimates. Visitors from Richmond or Lexington, meanwhile, spent a projected $8.77 per person or $461,608 total.

As good as those numbers are, Summers said they can be better, and she and her research associates offered strategies for increasing expenditures, such as a special promotions offered by merchants and retailers, detailed maps, as well as a more aggressive advertising campaign, including social media.

On a related note, Summers said she would be including Berea's coming mountain bike trail in future research projects. That facility is expected to be ready by the end of the summer.

In other news, Berea Business Development and Tourism Director Donna Angel reported the Berea Craft Festival was a huge success. Visitors came to the fair from 32 out of the 50 states, and attendance records for the weekend were broken, Angel said.

Sales were off the charts, according to Angel. "Each vendor either sold out or ran very low on product," Angel noted. "There was not one vendor who was not ecstatic about their sales." Kentucky had the highest number of visitors to the festival, followed by Ohio, Maine, Florida, and there were visitors from Texas and California, Angel reported.

In other action, Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley opened a bid from the Allen Company for approximately $183,000 for resurfacing of city streets, including Jefferson Street. The bid was passed onto the Audit and Finance Committee for further review.

Mayor Fralcy also presented a proclamation for the Madison County Sports Hall of Fame, a brief recognition ceremony which included Donna Lovell, John Lovell, and Coach Glen Also approved unanimously was a change order for the Russel Acton Folk Center for $8,085 for more materials. Berea City Administrator David Gregory explained the project was still on track for completion and still well under cost of other submitted bids.

The council heard the first reading of a zone change ordinance for 171 Herndon Lane – from R1 from planned unit development to agricultural. The plot under review was part of the Stony Creek Subdivision on property fronting Herndon Lane. The property will be used for a private green house and maybe one house, according to officials.

During the meeting, Angel introduced three tourism employees to the council. Nancy Conley has been serving as tourism operations manager, Liz Todd was introduced as program manager, and Sara Stillwell was introduced as media manager.

ABLE TO HAVE SUCH A GREAT STORY TO TELL.”

– Susan, Cancer Care Success Story

Prompt care and a close partnership with her hometown doctor paid off for a retired healthcare leader. When Susan began feeling a new breathlessness while exercising, she had a nagging feeling something was wrong. After tests showed lung cancer, her doctor referred her to Baptist Health Richmond for treatment. The early diagnosis qualified her for a clinical trial, and today she is cancer-free. “I didn’t know Baptist Health had that component of clinical research, but was surprised and excited to be part of that. If what I do can help other people, then that’s wonderful,” she said. Learn more about our network of advanced cancer care services at BaptistHealth.com/CancerCare.

Johnson named to Team USA

LEXINGTON, Ky. (KT) — Keldon Johnson will join former Kentucky teammate Bam Adebayo in Tokyo.

Johnson, along with JaVale McGee, were added as replacements on the U.S. Olympic Team Friday after Bradley Beal (health and safety protocols) and Kevin Love (calf injury) were dropped from the roster ahead of the 2020 Olympic Games set for July 23-Aug. 8 in Tokyo Japan.

Johnson plays for Team USA coach Gregg Popovich and will be bringing familiarity to the roster.

"We welcome Keldon (Johnson) and JaVale (McGee) to our squad," Team USA managing director Jerry Colangelo said Friday.

"Keldon has played well during our training camp and in the exhibition games in Las Vegas and, being a member of the San Antonio Spurs, he is familiar with the things coach Popovich wants this team to do. JaVale has been involved in our USA National Team program since 2009, and we believe he will offer a valuable inside presence."

The Wildcats now have three representatives on the team, the most of any college. UCLA has two players in Jrue Holiday and Zach Lavine. No other college has more than one representative on the 2020 U.S. Olympic Team. Devin Booker is also part of the squad.

Johnson, a 6-foot-5 guard, attended the national team's Las Vegas training camp as a member of the USA Select Team and was added to the USA roster for the team's exhibition games.

He has seen action in two of three games in Las Vegas, averaging 5.5 points and 2.5 rebounds per game.

The Americans will open preliminary round play on July 25, against France (8 a.m.), then will play Iran on July 28 (12:40 a.m.) and will close out preliminary play on July 31 (8 a.m.) versus Czech Republic.

A draw will take place following the conclusion of the group phase to determine the pairings of the quarterfinals. The winners of the groups and the second-placed team with the best result from the Group Phase are placed in one pot (D), while the two remaining second-placed teams and two best third-placed teams in another pot (E).

Teams from the same group in the Group Phase cannot be drawn against each other in the quarterfinals.

This stage of the competition is played in a knockout format, and the draw will produce an Olympic bracket for the road to the gold medal.

Beverly to lead city

Sandlin named interim city administrator

Rose Beverly

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

In a 7-1 vote, the Berea City Council voted to hire a city administrator candidate to replace David Gregory, whose two-year tenure as Berea's chief operating officer ends Saturday upon his retirement.

In Tuesday's special called meeting, the council voted to hire Rose Beverly, who most recently has served as city administrator in Aitkin, Minnesota. The hiring is contingent upon the Beverly and the administration reaching a final agreement on the terms of her contract. The lone dissenting vote came from Berea City Councilman Jerry Little,

Coroner:
Drug epidemic
a major concern

Bob Flynn
For the Citizen

"I wish I had good news for you, but I don't," Madison County Coroner Jimmy Cornelison said leading off his report to Madison County Fiscal Court members during their regular bi-monthly meeting Tuesday in Richmond.

For the next 20 minutes, the court heard the somber effects the current drug epidemic the entire state is experiencing has had on the local coroner's office.

Cornelison said that last year Madison County had 59 drug overdose deaths. Through seven months this year his office has already handled 42 confirmed OD deaths and has 13 other cases pending toxicology reports, two of which Cornelison said involve manslaughter charges by law enforcement.

Robert Chambers Sr.

Robert Chambers Sr., 81, born on August 16, 1939, in Kildav, Kentucky, to the late Robert and Gernice (Smith) Chambers, passed away Thursday, July 15, 2021, at the University of Kentucky Albert B. Chandler Hospital.

He graduated from Rosenwald High School and served his country in the United States Marine Corps and retired from the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago, Illinois, after 35 years of service. He was an active member of New Energy Fitness, where he loved to go bright and early 4 days a week to run on the treadmill and lift weights. He was a member of Crossroads Fellowship Church, where he enjoyed fellowshiping with other Christ followers. Robert enjoyed watching FOX news, college football and basketball, reading (especially the Bible), and spending time talking to friends and neighbors. He never met a stranger. On move in day at his new house in Berea, before the moving truck was even unpacked, Robert knew several of his new neighbors!

That's just the kind of man he was. Robert was passionate about fitness, good eating habits, keeping things clean, hard work, helping people, sharing his knowledge of history and the Bible, and cutting grass! Not just his grass, but his neighbors too!

Robert dearly loved his family and always looked forward to trips to spend time with his children and the multiple generations of his family.

In addition to his parents, he was also preceded in death by his siblings, Charles "PeeWee" Latham, Patricia Williams, Marilyn Oliver and Jimmy Chambers.

He is survived by his loving wife of 46 years, Marian Segers Chambers; his children, Michelle Denise "Nesie" Chambers, Karen Chambers, Kimberly Chambers, Tracy (Lonnie) Keene, Robert "Hasseim" Chambers Jr., and Eddie (LaTonya) Chambers; his sister, Joyce Cole; his brother, Frank Bowman; 15 grandchildren; and 12 greatgrandchildren along with a host of nieces and nephews. He will be greatly missed by his many friends and family members.

A Celebration of Life was at 6 p.m. on Friday, July 23 at the funeral home. His son-in-law, Pastor Lonnie Keene of StrongPoint Church in Columbus, Ohio, officiated.

Sherry R. Howard

Sherry R. Howard, 56, Berea, passed away July 23, 2021, at the UK Hospital in Lexington. Sherry was employed by Dairy Queen in Berea and was a member of the Berea Evangelistic Church. She was born in Harlan Kentucky to the late Rev. Johnny E. and Alene Durham Adams. Sherry was also preceded in death by her siblings: Jimmy Adams, Bill Adams, Denny Adams, and Phyllis Koch.

Sherry is survived by her husband Edward Howard and her children: Brandon (Brooke) Long, Misty (Patrick) Kirby, and Ashley Brock, and her siblings: Helen Caldwell, Deb Pennington, Terry Adams, Charlie Adams, Roy Adams, Johnny Adams, and Dave Adams, and her grandchildren: Eliah, Micaiah, and Gideon Long, and Harper and Kailyn Kirby, and many nieces and nephews.

Services will be at 11 a.m. Thursday, July 29, 2021, at Lakes Funeral Home with Rev. Brandon Long officiating. Burial will be in the Evarts Memorial Gardens in Harlan.

James William Kelley

James William Kelley, 75, went to be with his Lord and Savior on Tuesday July 13, 2021, at Saint Joseph Hospital in Lexington following an extended illness. He was born June 26, 1946, in Berea to the late Ed and Alice Beard Kelley. A lifelong resident of Berea, Mr. Kelley served in the Army National Guard, was a former employee of Phillips Lighting, Ajax, Madison County Road Department, and the Bluegrass Army Depot, before retiring in 2012. Mr. Kelley was considered by everyone as the rock of the family. Quiet and humble by nature, he was always a good listener and could be counted on to share thoughtful wisdom and sound advice. Mr. Kelley was a member of the Silver Creek Baptist Church. He was a no-nonsense gentle man who valued hard work, honesty, and integrity. He enjoyed gardening a great deal and working on the farm with his John Deere Tractor. He was also an avid Cincinnati Reds baseball and UK basketball fan who enjoyed hunting & fishing in his younger days. More than anything else in the world however- he loved his family. He was a loving husband, amazing father, sweet papaw, and friend who set many examples for us to follow. He will be sorely missed.

Other than his parents he was preceded in death by one brother, Donnie Kelley and two sisters, Barbara Hinkle, and Terry McMullin.

A visit to Fort Payne a memorable gain

“You see that Mountain over there? One of these days I’m gonna climb that Mountain.”

If you grew up in the 1980s and listened to country music, you heard those words often in the introduction to Alabama’s hit song, “Mountain Music,” one of many hits for a band that began their career known as “Wild County.” After taking care of business and covering the Southeastern Conference Media Days last Tuesday in Birmingham, Rhonda and I spent some time in Fort Payne, home of Randy Owen, Jeff Cook and Teddy Gentry, all cousins who were otherwise known to the rest of us as, “Alabama.” The group has been “retired” since 2003, but remain one of the top country music bands to hit the circuit. Overall, the group charted a total of 43 songs that reached the top of the charts, and one of those mega-hits was “Mountain Music,” which helped pave the way to more chart-topping songs during the next two decades.

A museum and fan club based in the same facility in Fort Payne remains very much active and a must-see attraction for those who visit the South. One of the office workers Karen Potts, once resided in Cadiz, Kentucky and hasn’t forgotten her roots. Ashley Stargell — likely the first person you see upon arrival to the museum — was very helpful and resourceful.

Keith Taylor

After we paid and gained entry into the museum, Rhonda and I had flashbacks of a time when this band was “it” in country music. We grew up with this group and they were very much like family. We cheered them on when they won awards and couldn’t wait to hear the next single on radio or buy the next album as soon as it hit the stands. Many of those projects featured more than one No. 1 song.

Like many bands in any music genre, Alabama wasn’t an instant success and it took time for the group to develop its brand. They started as “Wild Country” and began performing professionally at “The Bowery” in Myrtle Beach, performing as many as six nights per week. Their bus — a van — took them to other shows and the back seat was raised so one band member could sleep on the floor and another could rest on the back seat.

That all changed when the band experienced a major breakthrough in the late 1970s and the early sacrifices led to success in Nashville. Overall, Alabama claimed more than 200 awards during their career, with most of the hardware coming at them full speed in the 1980s.

In the later years, the group returned to its roots and recorded a few gospel projects, one of which was produced by Bill Gaither Music. The band truly began its career in church settings, performing gospel songs at a young age, resulting in a well-documented career in the music business.

The museum is breathtaking, especially if you witnessed the band’s success in the 1980s, when Alabama was a major part of your life. They felt much like family as you watched them climb that proverbial mountain all the way to the very top.

Keith Taylor is publisher of The Berea Citizen.

Do what you enjoy

You will be most successful if you pursue a career that you are able to do. Some jobs do not mentally or physically suit our abilities. Some people find work to do but are only able to maintain their vocational effort until they are 50 or 55 years old. This is fine as many people are able to financially retire in their fifties. Jobs that require strenuous physical labor become less productive for many as they age.

Often, throughout life we find ourselves working jobs that are available and that pay enough for us to make our living. If we can physically and mentally adapt to the vocational demands then we have a chance of doing very well.

More success will come your way if you enjoy your work. Typically, the physical and mental aspects of your work endeavors aren’t as difficult because of your attitude toward your labor. What would be difficult for someone else is easier for you because you enjoy the work.

A surgeon spends many years in college, medical school and sometimes more than one residency. Many people are not cut out to spend this much of their lives in school. A couple of weeks ago, a good friend of mine, who is 72 years old, performed six surgical procedures in one day. He totally thrives on his work and retirement is not in his vocabulary. Five days a week he is seeing patients and performing surgeries. He totally loves his work. To him, it’s easy, and is mentally and emotionally stimulating.

Sometimes we have jobs we can’t wait to quit. Sometimes there are jobs we simply never want to quit.

Financial security will hinge on two key factors. Work you can do and work you enjoy doing. If you can do the work and you do a good job, you will be able to continue as long as you are mentally and physically capable. If you enjoy the work, then you are going to try to keep going as long as possible.

When you enjoy something, eventually you’ll make money from it because you are stimulated to keep working and improving.

A married couple has worked for a local restaurant for over ten years. They make a respectable living and both are always a delight in taking care of their patrons. A dear friend mowed yards for over 20 years and was always an inspiration to the many who hired him. Another friend spends eight hours a day solving people’s computer issues. He never lacks for work. Another, spends his days measuring people for clothes and sells the best special ordered suits in town.

Another, makes a good living laying tile while another friend plays fiddle on the weekends but then makes her real living giving fiddle lessons all week.

There are all kinds of jobs. All require learning, developing and mastering a skill. Follow your heart, learn the work, pace yourself and you’ll thrive emotionally and financially.

Word on the streets

“ Are you ready to drive an electric car?

Jeannette Rowlett

“No, I had a diesel powered car and I had to plug it up, I’m not ready to do that again.”

Kyle Sowers

“No — I think the electric vehicle is not practical at this point.”

Becky Moore

“No, I think it will take all the fun out of driving.”

BRIEFS

Sustainable Berea celebration canceled The 15th annual meeting of Sustainable Berea at the Berea Urban Farm set for Thursday, July 29, has been canceled because of a recent	rise in COVID-19 cases in Madison County. Brotherhood Ride Saturday A brotherhood ride to honor fallen first responders	begins Thursday and will continue through Sunday. The group will ride bicycles through 18 counties, including Madison County and Berea. Eight of those counties are hometowns of a fallen first responder.	Team USA member speaks to Hogg Therapy Children at Hogg Therapy received a motivating message from Team USA Olympic Hurdler Daniel Roberts this week.	“It is so crucial that all children are able to receive therapy that needs it,” said Jennifer Fowler, co-owner of Hogg Therapy. “We are honored to be able to help the kids in our community in such an important way.”

Level: Intermediate

Here’s How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Good news.
 Rates just
 got lower.

I'm excited to announce auto insurance rates just went down. I can help you find coverage that works for you. LET'S TALK TODAY.

Roundhill General Store getting set to open its doors again

Driving through Kirksville the past few weeks it's been evident that the new owners of Roundhill General Store have started working inside the building. The prospect of the store reopening has stirred a lot of emotion within me.

I am excited to see the store reopen in the owner's time. However, I am also almost dreading walking in for the first time. The losses that our community has suffered the past year have been so close together, and are the very people that I will still look for and miss upon my first trip into the store ... and it's a sad thing knowing they won't be there. I have a hard time imagining a store without Bill Grant playing rook with a sausage on a bun sitting next to him. I am also saddened for Mike Friend, as I know how much he loved owning the store and interacting with our community. My prayers continue to be with Mike and his family. They have become part of our community and certainly part of my family.

The idea of driving just down the road again to grab a burger or whatever fare the new owners offer makes my heart warm with anticipation and joy, though! It will be nice to have our communal space to gather again.

On a different note, due to rain Newby Country Store has moved its "Clean The Creek" date to Saturday, July 31. Stop in at the store from 9-11 a.m. to grab a trash bag and enter the raffle to win some awesome prizes. There will be live music from noon-2 p.m., featuring Nicola Cassetta. This is sure to be a great time, and it would certainly help out of recreational area. Visiting Newby Country Store is sure to set your spirits up right!

4-H members meet Paula Deen

On Saturday, July 14, members of the Madison County 4-H Means Business Club were invited to the Kentucky 4-H Foundation event with Food Network Star, Paula Deen. This event was coordinated as an effort to raise money for 4-H programs across the state. The young entrepreneurs who participate in this club sell everything from magnets to jewelry. This year's event was very successful bringing in approximately $1,400. At the conclusion of the event, members of the Madison County Club were able to go up on stage and present Deen with a gift bag containing items from each member's business.

Flora's legacy

Flora Allen loved to quilt, so it seemed appropriate that Berea should name a quilt show in her honor. Some of Flora's friends suggested the idea to the steering committee for the Berea Quilt Extravaganza and they agreed. As a result, the 2007 show will be the first Flora Allen Community Quilt Show.

Allen, a retired teacher and business owner had made well over 100 quilts in her lifetime and was still working on quilts at the time of her passing in 2004. Her daughter, Nora Ruth Jenkins, said, "She had just finished quilting one and she had starting cutting out the pieces for another. 'We found them beside the chair where she always sat to make her quilts."

As a part of Flora Allen Day, many of the more than 100 quilts were displayed at the Berea Welcome Center for people to come and see.

Police respond to stabbing

An altercation at an apartment on North Broadway sent a man to the hospital while another man went to jail claiming self-defense. 19-year old, Gregg S.

Sizemore of Logston Road was charged with second-degree assault following the incident that occurred around 11:30 Saturday night. According to Berea Police Captain, Ken Clark, police were called to 210 North

Horse takes gallop

The western stretch of Chestnut Street resembled the final stretch at Keeneland on Wednesday morning when a lone horse galloped his way through town making it as far as Pizza Hut. Bliss, the beloved horse of Elizabeth Spencer of Orchard Street, took a tour of Berea after breaking free from his fence. Around 9:30 am, the grey horse was spotted trotting down the middle of Chestnut Street. Two motorists, Paul Gadd and an unidentified female, stopped their commute to attempt to capture the loose pony. Berea Police Sargent David Gregory, said that they are sometimes called to corral a small or miniature horse that sometimes escapes its confines in Berea, but this was a first for a horse this size. Following the fiasco, Spencer walked Bliss home. The only injury was a small scrape along the horse's neck.

A valuable tradition

When I was a kid, I always looked forward to Vacation Bible School. My two older brothers were busy with farm work, but my sisters and I attended VBS at Glades Christian Church when we were young. This was before there were so many other entertainment choices such as sports camps, internet, and millions of TV channels. We were excited to just have somewhere to go.

It would usually run for an entire week. So many adults in the church were involved with the program. I can still remember a puppet show at the beginning of one session. There was a big theater built for it. There were several puppets who acted out skits.

Of course, craft time was a favorite. What kid doesn't enjoy creating a masterpiece. We were so excited to take them home after the last day. One year the older kids made a nail and string picture. I think as younger kids we made easier crafts such as handprint crafts.

Crafts and snacks were in the basement where it was nice and cool. You had to be careful on those concrete steps going down though. Kool-Aid, cookies, and chips could be piled high if no adults were monitoring. We enjoyed being with the other kids. Most of them we already knew from church or school but sometimes there were visitors.

My Grandmother was a Sunday School teacher, but I don't remember if she taught in VBS. There were classes for all age levels because so many children attended. Students were given a foundation of knowledge and faith that could be built on later through life.

Now as an adult, I have been involved with a few Vacation Bible Schools at Wayside Christian Church. We will be having a VBS and Back to School event on July 31 from Noon-3 p.m..

We are located at 2310 Menelaus Road, Berea. We would love to give your kids these special childhood memories.

A temporary problem

A very nervous man called 911 and shouted frantically into the telephone: "My wife is pregnant and her contractions are only two minutes apart." "Is this her first child?" the dispatcher asked.

"No, ma'am, this is her husband," he replied.

Childbirth is one of those nerve-racking events in life that can cause otherwise intelligent men to become blithering idiots.

There will be times in all our lives when we're so nervous we won't be able to think straight. That's when we need a friend to come alongside us who can think rationally on our behalf.

That was the case for a jailer in the city of Philippi back in the days when the authorities had ordered the Apostle Paul locked up. That jailer had to be a bright man to run a correctional facility, to manage the books, to supervise the guards, to do all the things required to do the job well.

Then came the day when the Lord brought a crisis into the jailer's life that sent adrenaline coursing through his body, that scared him half to death.

First, an earthquake jarred him out of bed in the middle of the night. That would be frightening in and of itself. He then rushed in to check on his prisoners and every door was open. He was absolutely beside himself with fear at that point, thinking that all of his prisoners had escaped. It was at that point that he desperately needed a friend.

"He drew out his sword, and would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had fled. But Paul cried with a loud voice, saying, 'Do thyself no harm: for we are all here.' Then he called for a light, and sprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas, and brought them out, and said, 'Sirs, what must I do to be saved?' And they said, 'Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house.' And they spake unto him the word of the Lord, and all that were in his house. And he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and all his straightway."

That jailer would have committed suicide if not for the

Roger Alford

Apostle Paul speaking into his situation at a time when he couldn't think clearly for himself. Paul was that friend the jailer desperately needed. He calmly offered his insights in the crisis.

Yes, the jailer's world had been shaken, but, no, the situation wasn't as bad as it first appeared.

You've perhaps heard the saying that suicide is a permanent solution to a temporary problem. What looked like the darkest possible moment in that jailer's life turned out not to be so bad after all.

Crises come and go in our lives. Often when we look back on what we initially thought were the darkest moments of our lives, we realize they just may have been the brightest. That's the way it was for the jailer, because his life was transformed in that crisis.

It's in those dark moments that we can best see the light of Christ. It's in the dark moments that we should draw close to Him, not push him away.

Blue Grass Army Depot (BGAD)
EPA ID #KY8-213-820-105, AI #2805
Tentative Approval of Two Hazardous Waste Permit Modifications

The Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet (Cabinet), Division of Waste Management (Division), has tentatively approved two modifications to the existing hazardous waste permit for the Blue Grass Army Depot (BGAD). The modifications are for the chemical weapon disposal facility known as the Blue Grass Chemical Agent-Destruction Pilot Plant (BGCAPP). The two modifications are:

- Off-site Shipment and Disposal of Agent Hydrolysate. A modification to allow off-site shipment of agent hydrolysate to a permitted hazardous waste incinerator.
- Uncontaminated Rocket Motor Storage. A modification to allow up to 29 existing BGAD igloos to be used to store uncontaminated rocket motors after separation from the rocket warheads.

The U.S. Army is the owner of the permitted facility. BGAD is located at 431 Battlefield Memorial Highway, Richmond, Kentucky. The BGAD facility contact is Ramesh Melarkode (859-779-6268). Bechtel Parsons Blue Grass Joint Venture (BPBG) is the operator of BGCAPP. The BPBG contact is John McArthur (859-625-6447).

What will be done and why?

The hazardous waste regulations require that proposed hazardous waste permits or modifications include a thorough review of all required information to ensure that all program requirements are met, and that all interested parties have an opportunity to review and comment upon the proposed actions. The Division has completed a review of the respective permit applications and has prepared a draft Permit. The draft Permit sets forth conditions for conducting the hazardous waste operations. The Division has determined that the applications meet the requirements set forth in the statutes and regulations.

The permit modifications includes detailed conditions required under the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) and the Commonwealth of Kentucky statutes and regulations to ensure protectiveness of human health and the environment.

A fact sheet and website with more information about the proposed modifications is available as noted below.

How can I tell the Division what I think about these tentative approvals?

Public involvement is encouraged and comments are welcome. Anyone wishing to comment on the tentative decision to approve these permitting actions should submit comments on or before September 8, 2021, the close of the public comment period. Additionally, a public meeting will be conducted on September 1, 2021, at 6:00 pm in the Perkins Building, Kit Carson Drive, at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Kentucky, followed immediately by a public hearing at the same location.

Comments or requests for further information on the Permit Modifications should be mailed to Brandon May, Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet, Division of Waste Management, 300 Sower Boulevard, Second Floor, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, with all issues of concern clearly stated. Electronic comments should be submitted to brandon.may@ky.gov, 502-782-7010. All comments received by the close of the public comment period noted above will be considered when making a final decision on the proposed permitting actions. Anyone submitting comments will be sent a "response to public comments" document specifying any changes made or not made, with the reasons why, as a result of the comment(s) submitted. Any person who may be aggrieved by the final decision on these proposed permit modifications may file with the cabinet a petition which sets forth the grounds of the objection and demand a hearing pursuant to KRS 224.10-420(2).

Where can I review the documents used to make these tentative decisions?

importance of the Central Kentucky Regional Airport and what it means for Kentucky’s future,” said Gov. Beshear. “These infrastructure upgrades will encourage more investments and bring even more jobs to this region. As we emerge from this pandemic, we are building a better Kentucky improving infrastructure and creating jobs and opportunities in every corner of the commonwealth.”

Existing water and sewer systems at the airport cannot support the anticipated future transportation needs in Central Kentucky, hampering the facility’s critical role in the economic development of the region. The need for upgrades is exacerbated by the presence of the Eastern Kentucky University (EKU) Aviation Program’s flight school at the airport. EKU will soon create an aviation mechanic school that will utilize airport facilities, further taxing the current systems.

The project includes construction of 12,000 linear feet of 4-inch sewer lines, two new manholes and 12,000 linear feet of 8-inch water lines. The result will be a substantial increase in water capacity as well as an improvement in fire protection for the facility.

The city’s application for this project was submitted to ARC through the Department for Local Government (DLG), which administers ARC funding at the state level.

“The ARC is a crucial partner in Kentucky, because they are dedicated to providing quality infrastructure that will help our communities grow and prosper,” said Dennis Keene, commissioner of DLG.

“Madison County has a tremendous amount of economic opportunity and investments like this will pay dividends for future growth,” said Rep. Josh Bray, who represents Garrard and Rockcastle counties and the part of Madison County that includes the regional airport. “It’s because of the partnership and cooperation between the Madison Airport Board, the City of Berea, Madison County, and Eastern Kentucky University this project has become a reality. I am proud to be a part of such a strong coalition that works together to help improve the lives and opportunities of Kentuckians.”

“The Central Kentucky Regional Airport is a critical partner in the competitiveness for Madison County, Richmond and Berea governments from an educational and economic development perspective,” said Madison County Judge-Executive Reagan Taylor, president of the Kentucky Association of Counties.

“Improving water and sewer infrastructure to this area of the county provides a significant investment that will translate into responsible growth, resulting in job creation and a better quality of life for Madison Countians.”

“We are very pleased to have the Governor’s support for our request for funding from the Appalachian Regional Commission for the airport modernization projects,” said Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley. “With Eastern Kentucky University growing their Aviation Program, along with current and future growth of business and industry in Richmond, Berea and Madison County, modernization and growth at the Central Kentucky Regional Airport is critical. I also appreciate the high level of cooperation among local officials, our elected representatives in Frankfort, the Bluegrass Area Development District, the Governor’s office and the Department for Local Government in moving this project forward.”

“We do not have a definitive cause according to our team at Berea Municipal Utilities,” Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley said. “However, I was advised that a problem occurred in the KU (Kentucky Utilities) transmission system somewhere between Berea and Richmond, causing one phase of the three-phase system to go down. Our utilities team worked hard to resolve the problem as quickly as possible.”

Berea Municipal Utilities lost 1 phase of a transmission line feeding into Berea, resulting in outages throughout the city and some nearby areas in the county, including the Kirksville area.

The Berea Police Department directed traffic at most traffic light stops and others used the three-way and four-way stop methods during the outage.

“Shoutout to our community for the cooperation dealing with traffic around the city today due to the power outage,” the Berea Police Department said in a Facebook post.

The Berea Fire Department was busy making its runs throughout the city answering fire and smoke alarm calls during the outage. Berea Fire Chief Shawn Sandlin and his crew responded to approximately 12 calls, triggered by the outage.

Sandlin said most of the calls were from buildings on the Berea College Campus.

Playground dedication

The new inclusive playground was unveiled last week, with a ribbon-cutting ceremony Monday at Berea Community Schools. “It’s a great day to be a Pirate,” Berea Community Schools Superintendent Diane Hatchett said. “We are so incredibly grateful to our BCS Board of Education, the BCES school staff, the hardworking and determined playground committee, parents, district-wide students, community members and especially Kendyl and friends for their support as we opened our new inclusive playground today with an official ribbon-cutting ceremony. Truly this was a dream come true for many.” (Submitted) who, while wishing Beverly well and vowing to work with her, said he had reservations about giving the job to someone he doesn’t know well.

Eleven candidates participated in the entire hiring process, with five ultimately being interviewed in person, according to Human Resources Director Jennifer Renfro. Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley stated that time and again, Beverly impressed interviewers.

“Rose was consistently the top-rated candidate in both panel interviews. Her experience as a current city administrator was very important in the evaluation process and we expect her to hit the ground running,” Fraley said.

“Anytime we have a new city administrator, it is a significant moment for our city. As the new chief operating officer, she brings a wealth of experience to the job.”

Beverly’s tenure as city administrator at Aitkin, Minnesota, a city approximately two hours north of Minneapolis, has run a little more than a year.

Prior to that, she served as the clinical manager/medical staff coordinator of Lost Rivers Medical Center in Arco, Idaho, where she worked for five years.

In related news, Berea

Fire Department Chief Shawn Sandlin has been tapped to serve as the interim city administrator until the new city administrator can take over.

That measure was approved in an 8-0 vote by the Council.

QUEST FOR GOD'S GREAT LIGHT™

The deaths are not going to stop, Cornelison said. The only way to make it stop is to make it tougher by prosecuting the people who are bringing the drugs into the county from out of state.

“The only way we are going to make it stop is to maybe scare everybody from coming to Madison County. The Richmond Police Department is handling these cases as manslaughter charges now. And these are major players, not the users. These are the people who are bringing it in and selling it to your children and grandchildren,” he said. “We need to eliminate them however we see fit.”

The majority of the deceased were between the ages of 25 and 45, but some were younger and one was 68 years old.

And while the numbers are a high this year, they also are a little misleading, Cornelison told the court, and the number of drug related deaths in the county is actually much higher.

Cases where individuals who OD are revived on site by doses of Narcan administered by Madison County EMS then transferred to hospitals where they later die are not handled by the coroner’s office so they don’t show in his office’s statistics.

In those cases, the coroner only becomes involved, Cornelison said, if he is contacted by the hospital because of a criminal case.

Over a three-week-period this year, the coroner’s office also handled five cases in which decomposed bodies were found in Madison County, which Cornelison said is more that he usually gets in a year.

“That’s just showing you, that number one, there are a lot of people out there that nobody knows where they are, or maybe nobody cares. I don’t know,” Cornelison said. “You would be amazed on a weekly basis of the number of calls I get where people ask me if I have such and such in the morgue, they are looking for a loved one. It’s unbelievable.”

When asked if the recent rounds of federal stimulus money effected the number of overdoses his office sees, Cornelison said it absolutely did.

“I can tell every time a check goes out. People think that’s not true. It is true. We can tell it, it’s just like clockwork. After one round, we worked a case where a guy had 11 crisp new $100 bills in his pocket. When I dug a little deeper in his billfold, I found the 12th one folded up with heroin in it,” he said. “So, you tell me. It’s pretty obvious. It’s extra money, let’s put it that way. They may not have to do the things they normally do to buy more. I feel sorry for these folks. You want to help them. But you’ve got to help yourselves too.”

A large portion of the meeting involved lengthy discussion surrounding the second reading of an ordinance requesting a zone change for a piece of property located at 1270 Moberly Road from R7 to R1 single family residences.

Before voting on the ordinance, magistrates requested a presentation from representatives of the developers of the proposed development and also heard input from community members that would be affected by the development.

Bobby Jones, spoke on behalf of the more than 250 residents of Moberly road and voiced concerns the residents had about the amount of traffic the development would have on the intersection of Moberly Road and KY 52 near the Shell Station and also effect of the water runoff from the development on their homes.

Jones said he and the other 250 residents were against the zone change being approved.

Donny Gentry, who owns 6 ½ acres on Moberly Road, downhill and east of the proposed development told the court he had no problems with the zone change.

He said his family moved to Moberly Road with the understanding that it was an area of growth and assumed there eventually would be development around his property. He said he saw no problem with the development with the the infrastructure in place and plans for water retention outlined by the developer, He told the court that any property downhill from the development would benefit him and other residents and he had no objection and sees nothing but good from the zone change.

Third District Magistrate John Tudor voiced his concerns about

In other business the Court:

- Approved a resolution accepting a Natural Resource Conversation Services proposal and project for stream and road bank improvements along Slate Lick Branch Road to stabilize the stream road bank. Cost of the project will be shared 75 percent by NRCS and 25 percent by Madison County with a possibility of the County’s 25 percent being split 12 percent from the state and 13 percent from the county.
- Approved naming the Madison County Emergency Management Agency director as the applicant agent for FEMA grants.
- Approved the extension of the county’s one-year-maintenance contract in the amount of $600,000 with L3 Harris Radio to provide maintenance for the Madison County CSEPP Program. This will be the 12th year L3 Harris Radio has provided the service.
- Approved the purchase Shelter-in-Place Kits for Madison County CSEPP from Pioneer Location Industrial Services.
- Approved awarding a contract to Boring Operations to provide underground infrastructure for the County’s emergency communications network.
- Approved the adoption of Trillium Loop Road into the county road system for maintenance by the road department.
- Approved a proclamation recognizing the Madison County Sports Hall of Fame which was established to honor significant contribution of past, present and future Madison County residents who have brought great recognition to themselves, Madison County and the cities of Richmond and Berea through their careers as athlete, coach, administrator, media member, volunteer, supporter or game official.

Kentucky Wildcats

July 28
2021

Cats picked to finish 3rd in SEC East

LEXINGTON (KT) — Kentucky was picked to finish third in the Southeastern Conference Eastern division in a preseason media poll released Friday.

The Wildcats were chosen behind projected division winner Georgia (923 votes) and Florida (784 votes). The Wildcats received 624 votes, including two first-place votes. Missouri was fourth (555), followed by Tennessee (362), South Carolina (355) and Vanderbilt with 149 votes.

"It's a great term, super seniors, the guys that decided to come back, and we greatly appreciate having that experience," Kentucky football coach Mark Stoops said. "There's six guys that bring a wealth of experience. They've won a lot of football games. They've been to a lot of bowl games and had some success. Hopefully, they'll help us take it to another level and provide the leadership that we need."

The Bulldogs received 124 first-place votes, followed by Florida with seven. Alabama was projected to win the overall title and picked first in the SEC West, receiving all but four first-place votes with 932 votes. Texas A&M was second (760), followed by LSU (633), Ole Miss (529), Auburn (440), Arkansas (241) and Mississippi State with 217.

Georgia coach Kirby Smart said his squad needs to be "better everywhere" to duplicate the team's past success.

"It starts with what we do — but the introspection was for us to find maybe a different way to do things and hear a different voice, and we've done that," Smart said. "The weekly meetings that we've had, that we've drawn time away from football, have been incredible." Kentucky offensive lineman Darian Kinnard was named All-SEC first-team on offense, while running back Chris Rodriguez was a third-team selection, along with offensive lineman Luke Fortner. Josh Paschal was a second-team selection on defense and defensive back Yusuf Corker was named to the third-team.

"I feel like it's also a good time for us," Stoops said. "It gives us great balance. Roster management is such a big deal now, with what's going on ... I feel like we have good balance within our six classes now ... but that will change each year."

Kentucky football coach Mark Stoops says Kentucky is on a good path during an appearance at SEC Media Days last week in Hoover, Alabama. (Kentucky Today/Keith Taylor)

'I feel good where we're at'

HOOVER, Alabama (KT) — Mark Stoops is nearing a decade as football coach at the University of Kentucky and remains focused on turning the Wildcats into a national title contender.

In his ninth appearance at Southeastern Conference Media Days on Tuesday, Stoops reaffirmed his commitment to taking the Wildcats to the next level.

"I said it when I got to Kentucky that we were going to recruit, we were going to develop, we were going to compete, and I wanted to take this program to national prominence, and people laughed at me," Stoops said. "We're not there yet, but we're on our way. I'm going to continue to work. I feel good about where we're at."

Stoops has guided the Wildcats to five consecutive bowl appearances, but the Kentucky coach has yet to find the right leader to fit his offensive vision. He opens his ninth season with his fourth offensive coordinator. Eddie Gran appeared to be the answer, but Stoops wasn't satisfied with the team's progression on offense, especially last season.

The Kentucky coach wanted more passes and more balance than what the Wildcats achieved under Gran's guidance and Stoops is hopeful he found the answer in former Los Angeles Rams quarterback coach Liam Coen.

"That's a big reason why I hired Liam," Stoops said. "It took me some time to clearly look at what I wanted our team to look like and what I felt like we can do. So I spent quite a bit of time researching people and systems and ultimately came down to Liam. I have full confidence and trust in him, and that is part of his system, part of the offense to be able to play action pass and get the ball down the field."

"I felt like this spring we got the ball down the field better than we have in years, so I feel very good about it."

The players feel good about the future under Coen, including offensive lineman Darian Kinnard, who opted against the NFL Draft in favor of returning for a fifth season.

"One of the biggest things he wants is just pinpoint accuracy with everything we're doing," Kinnard said. "Everything has a purpose and a reason, and it sets up a lot of stuff for a lot of the game I feel like we've just got to keep sticking to it, keep working, and master this new offense that we're getting."

The team's success under Coen in the first year will largely depend on the quarterback, with Auburn transfer Joey Gatewood, Beau Allen and Penn State transfer Will Levis battling for the starting position.

"There are a lot of things that go into that decision," Stoops said.

"The bottom line is who is going to give us the best opportunity to win the most games. That's the most important thing. ... ultimately, it comes down to how the team is playing."

Aside from getting a handle on the offense, Stoops added that everything comes into play when it comes to naming a starting signal caller during fall workouts.

"We get 12 opportunities and it's the whole body of work," Stoops said. "Camp is important, the first game is important — all that momentum and how we play throughout the season and (close games) with a razor thin margin. It's all important. I'm just excited about camp at that position, how we progress offensively and how we progress as a team."

As college football navigates past the COVID-19 era, Stoops isn't taking anything for granted.

"It's very nice for us to go back to doing the things that we do and spending time with each other during the summer," Stoops said. "A year ago, all those things were taken away. This year that's a big piece of our culture, is to spend time with each other."

Now that talking season has begun, Stoops knows the season is just around the corner.

"We're excited about the season — ready to get going," Stoops said.
