Post 50, Fraley remember those who served

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

At Sunday's Memorial Day service at Berea Cemetery, veterans read a roll call of names of Bereans who died in foreign wars. At the ceremony hosted by American Legion Cleveland Frost Post 50, Berea mayor and keynote speaker Bruce Fraley went a step further, encouraging the audience to remember the individuals who died in service to their country, including their lives, their hopes and their families.

Before highlighting the life of one Berean who died in World War II, Fraley recalled the history of Memorial Day, and suggested what fallen veterans might say if they could speak to us today.

The entirety of Fraley's remarks read as follows:

"To properly honor and remember the sacrifices of the brave service

Farristown Project

Leaders address concerns

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

In a special called work session Tuesday night, Mayor Bruce Fraley and the Berea City Council listened to concerns of Farristown residents regarding public safety and historic preservation of the neighborhood. By the end of the meeting, city officials committed to working with residents to accomplish both goals.

Tuesday's meeting stems from a Berea Planning and Zoning Commission decision last month in which P&Z recommended the rezoning of parcels in Farristown from both A-1 Agricultural and R-1 Residential to I-2, Industrial Park. Two thirds of the 87-acre parcel has already been zoned industrial over the past two decades.

Farristown residents attended the April meeting to raise two concerns. First, that the closure of the Farristown Bridge on Menelaus Road presents an immediate threat to public safety for Farristown residents, since it significantly delays emergency vehicles from reaching homes

The Berea City Pool opened its doors to the public on Saturday and 1,320 patrons visited the pool during the first four days, with, 500 in attendance on Memorial Day. The warm temperatures following opening day have given swimmers a chance to enjoy the water and soak in the sun. The pool is open 11 a.m.-6:30 p.m. Monday-Saturday and 1-6:30 p.m. Sunday. The cost is $5 for adults, $4 for children ages 3-17 and children under 2 are free. Several family and individual packages are available for purchase.

Cattlemen enjoy beef month

By Mary Margeret Cheeks/Citizen Staff Writer

The month of May was celebrated as National Beef Month. According to the USDA's Economic Research Service, there were 91.9 million cattle and calves in the United States on farms.

For Madison County, beef plays a significant role in the agricultural industry since Madison County is the second largest beef cattle producing county in the state. In honor of National Beef Month, the Cattleman's Association collaborated with the Central Kentucky AgCredit office located in Richmond to offer the community a free meal with hamburgers via a convenient drive-thru service on May 26.

OBITUARIES

Charles Winford Hammond

Charles Winford Hammond, 69, formerly of Inez, passed away Wednesday, May 25, 2022, at his home in Berea. He was born December 06, 1952, in Paintsville to the late Mont and Mable Copley Hammond. Charles was retired from coal mining, an avid outdoorsman as he enjoyed campfires with his loving family and friends. He was a very generous person and never met a stranger. His children referred to him as an unlicensed comedian as it was difficult to determine if he was serious or joking. Charles loved to cook, go to yard sales and, in his younger days, was an auctioneer. He was of the Baptist faith.

Other than his parents, he was preceded by five siblings, Jack Hammond, Clyde Hammond, Minnie Sue Bailey, Anita Haney, and Ronnie Hammond.

Charles is survived by his children, Michelle Hammond Collins of Paintsville, J.D. Hammond and his wife Mary Beth of Berea, three siblings, Billy Ray Hammond of Ulysses, Joe Hammond and his wife Annie of Louisville, and Paula Barrett of Rock Hill, SC. In addition, he is survived by four grandchildren, Harlon Mills, Carley Johnson, Gavin Mullins, and Fraley Boone Hammond along with several nieces, nephews and many friends.

Funeral services were at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 28, 2022, at the Davis and Powell Funeral Home. Rev. Ben Stephens officiated. In accordance with the families wishes cremation will follow the services on Saturday.

Davis and Powell Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mildred Martin Newsome

Mildred Martin Newsome, 86 , died May 25, 2022 at U.K. Bluegrass Hospice Care Center.

The oldest daughter of the late Henry C. and Addie Dooley Martin of Three Links, she was the mother of Rosetta Newsome Gardner (husband, Paul R. Gardner), and Cheryl Newsome Marshall of Louisville. Mildred was married to their father, Z.L. (Pete) Newsome from 1954-1967.

She was a sister of the late Gene (wife, the late Darlene D.) Martin, Edith M. (husband, the late Harold D.) Ballinger, Mabel M. (husband, Armel) Davidson, and Bro. Jack D. (wife, Darlene L.) Martin, all of Three Links.

Her Grandchildren are: Matthew (daughter Lily Lynn Maria) Marshall, Adam (wife Melanie, daughters Ciara Lynn and Evie June) Marshall, and Taylor (daughters Sunny Margaret and Holland Pearl) Marshall, all of Frankfort; Harrison (wife Ann) Gardner, Palm Bay, Florida; and Zachary (wife Mackenzie, son Zander Lee) Gardner, Altoona, Iowa.

Mildred was blessed with 16 nieces and nephews and their families, two special nieces and a nephew from the Newsome family, and many cousins and other dear relatives.

She enjoyed a career in advertising and graphic communications, and loved the Lord and her family and friends.

Funeral services were at 1 p.m., Saturday, May 28, 2022, at Three Links Christian Church where she was a member. Reverend Jack Martin and Grant Martin officiated. Burial followed at Phillips Cemetery, Three Links.

Lakes Funeral Home handled arrangements.

Emma Lakes Himes

Emma Lakes Himes, 75, died suddenly Thursday, May 26, 2022 at her residence. She was a Madison County resident most of her life, born September 25, 1947, daughter of the late Flemming Lakes and the late Dora Rose Lakes Whittamore and retired realtor with Don Foster and Associates. Emma was a Maroon Lanes Bowling League member for many years and former employee of Lamb's Beauty Shop. After completing an Associate Degree in Business and post graduate requirements she received an SEC Brokers License which enabled her to help areas of Kentucky receive availability to natural gas.

Survivors include her son Brian Himes and wife Melissa; siblings Lela Mae Johnson, Gilbert Lakes; grandchildren Zakkariah, Zaedyn; as well as numerous relatives and friends. In addition to her parents she was preceded in death by her husband Robert Himes and 2 siblings.

Funeral Services were at 2 p.m., Tuesday, May 31, 2022 at Reppert Funeral Home. A private burial will take place at a later date.

Mowing helps keep the yard glowing

I love to mow the lawn.

There something about clean, fresh-cut grass that makes the landscape around your home all of that more appealing to your friends, family, neighbors and strangers.

Since moving to Berea nearly five years ago, there is more grass to mow, with an acre-plus to cut, not to mention plenty of trees to provide shade from the heat of the summer sun.

Keith Taylor

Back when Rhonda and I lived in Richmond, we had much less grass to mow and it took me less than 20 minutes to get it all done. Now, it takes more than an hour to complete and that includes the trimming. Since then, I've transitioned from a riding mower to a Zero Turn Cub Cadet. Going from a steering wheel to a zero turn was quite the transition that took some getting used to, but eventually it's the best way to mow a big tract of land.

Mowing the lawn provides a way of escape for a short period of time and relieves a dose of everyday stress that tends to creep its way into our daily routine.

Although mowing the lawn is a weekly chore I've embraced in adulthood, it hasn't always been that way.

You see, growing up in the country, we had almost two acres of land in our house in the curve at bucket town, or 237 Walnut Meadow Road. We had a chain link fence and open lot, a creek and plenty of room to roam. Since Dad worked a full-time job and pastored a church, my sister Taunya helped mow the lawn.

I had the trimming duties, while Taunya cut the lawn with a riding mower. Let me tell you, trimming our yard was a task with rocks, tree roots and everything else scattered across that yard. I literally hated trimming the yard and found every excuse not to at the time, but did it anyway.

Dad always trimmed the banks of the property, presenting an even better appearance for those who passed by our little house in the curve. Even though we had strangers routinely visit us after landing in our garden when they failed to properly negate a sharp curve, especially in the rain, we made sure they at least had a soft landing.

For the most part most of those who wrecked on our property weren't injured, although some close calls occurred near our house. I do remember a motorcycle fatality and the one time we had to evacuate after a truck carrying hazardous materials jumped the curve and landed in the middle of the garden.

I'm glad my parents instilled the value of a nice home and a clean lawn and I'm proud to carry on the tradition.

Fighting for the future

Kentucky on frontlines of national addiction epidemic

Addiction is one of the most difficult and destructive things a family can experience. It can tear people apart, and in worst case scenarios, leave loved ones grieving and wondering if there's anything they could have done differently.

Tim Robinson

In Kentucky, the addiction crisis impacts thousands of families each and every day—and young people remain some of this epidemic's most vulnerable and undeserving victims.

Children living with parents who have a substance use disorder are at higher risk for mental and behavioral health conditions, according to data from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, and are more likely to develop substance use disorders themselves—perpetuating what is unfortunately too often a generational battle.

We should take time to reflect on how the addiction crisis is impacting the mental health of our next generation—and what we can do now to prevent them from experiencing the same struggles that many adults face today, especially given the youth mental health crisis that's prompted experts and public officials to sound the alarm.

Research has shown a strong correlation between mental health and substance use, with approximately half of Americans who suffer from mental illness also experiencing a substance use disorder. Tragically, that rate is even higher—as much as 60 percent—among young people.

Despite these dire statistics, I truly believe there is hope on the horizon in the fight against addiction—and that Kentucky can lead the way. This optimism comes from the many allies we have working alongside us, not just in the Commonwealth, but throughout the U.S.

Some of us at Addiction Recovery Care recently attended the 2022 Rx and Illicit Drug Summit in Atlanta. The Rx Summit first began ten years ago under the leadership of Operation UNITE and Congressman Hal Rogers. Today, it's the nation's largest gathering of health care providers, law enforcement, first responders, elected officials and treatment professionals to discuss what's working in prevention and treatment.

At this year's summit, I participated in a roundtable with Dr. Rahul Gupta, director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP), and other prevention, treatment and recovery advocates from across the country. I also had the opportunity to join a panel discussion on the Eastern Kentucky's decrease in drug overdose deaths prior to the COVID-19 pandemic and shared some of the vital lessons we've learned since ARC's inception in 2010.

Time and time again, these discussions circled back to the social determinants of recovery—those key services and resources that are so critical to long-term recovery and an individual's success as they transition out of a treatment program.

Overall, there seemed to emerge a more unified call for a comprehensive approach to recovery that hasn't been so prominent in years past—and a sense of urgency that we must get in front of these problems now so that future generations aren't shouldering the same epidemic we are today.

I came back from the Rx Summit with a renewed understanding of why our current efforts to address substance use in Kentucky and beyond are so important. I thought of my own children and family—and the many children and families who have been affected by this terrible disease.

For so many, addiction is a generational problem—something that may feel inevitable for a young person who has grown up around substance use and unhealthy behaviors. For others, even those with no family history of addiction, substance use might be the result of other untreated mental health struggles.

Fortunately, we can do something about it. And we owe it to our young people to throw everything we have at this problem.

That means equipping their parents who are struggling with the resources they need to reach long-term recovery and to break the cycle of addiction. It means addressing the nation's youth mental health crisis and helping young people from turning to dangerous substances. It means stopping fentanyl, which is leading to more and more teen overdose deaths, from entering our drug supply. It means starting prevention early.

And it means staying hopeful and continuing this fight, no matter how difficult it may seem.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Gray: Pray for sexual abuse survivors

The Guidepost Solutions Sexual Abuse Task Force Report released Sunday afternoon was heartbreaking and shocking, to say the least. The abuse perpetrated against fellow image-bearers — the fact that those involved in abuse held positions of leadership in Christian ministry, and the fact that the abuse was covered up — speaks to the level of spiritual darkness that was allowed to reign in some Southern Baptist churches and entities. After reading the report, the Lord led me to pray for sexual abuse survivors in a way I never had before. Romans 12:15 reminds us to "weep with those who weep," and this is a time to grieve with our brothers and sisters in Christ.

In November 2021, former KBC President Dr. Wes Fowler brought a motion to the messengers of the Kentucky Baptist Convention meeting in Elizabethtown to establish a Kentucky Baptist Sexual Abuse Task Force (SATF).

That task force was approved unanimously by the messengers and has been actively at work since that time.

Below are four priorities of KBC's Task Force, and an update on each:

1. Review internal KBC documents related to sexual abuse: The KBC SATF was designed to be preventative rather than investigatory. Guidepost Solutions has requested many of our internal policies and will help us discover if there are gaps where we can better guard against sexual abuse. The review by Guidepost Solutions has begun and will be wrapped up in the coming weeks.

2. Training KBC staff members: We wanted to assure that KBC staff members are appropriately trained in the prevention of, response to, and care after instances of sexual abuse, in order to help Kentucky Baptist churches. That training has been scheduled for the early fall of this year, with Guidepost Solutions personnel providing the training.

3. Production of a Sexual Abuse Prevention Handbook: Guidepost Solutions is helping us with a handbook that will be distributed to Kentucky Baptist church leaders and will address prevention, response and care as it relates to sexual abuse. This handbook should be finished by early fall and made available to Kentucky Baptist churches and their leaders.

4. Training Kentucky Baptist church leaders: This October, we will host sexual abuse training experts in the state to provide equipping opportunities at four separate locations for Kentucky Baptist church leaders. Again, this training will be aimed at helping churches with prevention, response and care as it relates to sexual abuse.

If you read the report, you noticed that there was one Kentucky church mentioned as having a sexual abuse allegation made against it. After further investigation, we discovered that church is not affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

Kentucky Baptists, please join me in praying for survivors of sexual abuse.

Let's work together to assure that sexual abuse will not happen in connection with Kentucky Baptist churches.

May the Lord give us wisdom and compassion as we work together to prevent sexual abuse, respond to allegations and instances of sexual abuse, and care well for survivors.

Todd Gray,
executive director-treasurer
Kentucky Baptist Convention

Lumpkin: Byrd family expresses gratitude

On behalf of the Byrd family, I want to publicly express our deepest gratitude for the memorial honoring the life and service of my brother, Mac Byrd. Those who made this possible are so very generous, especially considering that it has been over 30 years since any of the family has lived in Berea.

Jimmy Lakes initiated the idea of naming a road in honor of Mac, and Mayor Bruce Fraley immediately bought into the idea. Together they worked for over a year and a half to see the project come to life. The Berea City Council generously approved the project and the expenditure. Natasha Lacy of the State Transportation Cabinet provided the necessary advice and essential services. I thank them all.

It was wonderful to know that the dedication service last Thursday was thoughtfully planned and was well attended. My thanks too to those who participated as attendees or as participants in the program.

Berea will always be my hometown, and this honor for Mac lets us know that our hometown also claims us.

• RECIPE OF THE WEEK•

Recipe from the heart

Anything fresh strawberry is always a hit with my family. This one should be a hit with your family.
Libby Horn

Strawberry Cheesecake Trifle

Ingredients

• For the cream cheese filling"
2 - 8 ounce packs cream cheese, softened
2 cups powdered sugar
1 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
• for the whipped cream:
1 pint whipping cream
6 Tablespoons powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
• For the rest:
1 angel food cake
1 cups strawberries, sliced

Directions

Place softened cream cheese in a bowl and add powdered sugar and vanilla and mix until smooth.
Assemble the trifle by placing a layer of angel food cake on the bottom, followed by a layer of cream cheese mixture. Top with a layer of strawberries. Repeat layers 3 - 4 times, ending with strawberry layer.
Make whipped cream by beating whipping cream, vanilla and powdered sugar until stiff peaks form. Top trifle with whipped cream.
Let rest in the refrigerator for at least 2 hours before serving.

Here's How It Works
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9X9 grid, broken down into nine 3X3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

located on the west side of the CSX Railroad. Secondly, that Farristown is a historically significant part of Berea's history, an African American hamlet founded in 1821 that predates the founding of Berea College.

Long-time Farristown resident Aaron Banther told officials that he wants to know what future development might look like before it actually happens, including what steps will be taken to ensure the history of Farristown is preserved for future generations.

"We want to be in the conversations going forward," Banther said. "We don't want to be forgotten about."

Meanwhile, residents Marilyn Martin and Patsy Dunson described their difficulties in trying to get the state transportation cabinet to repair or replace the Farristown bridge, which was closed in 2021 after falling into disrepair. In previous meetings, Martin described three separate occasions when her mother was in need of medical attention, however Madison County EMS was delayed in getting to her mother's home because they had to take a longer route.

Another resident described how fire fighters were delayed in reaching her house after her car caught fire.

Mayor Fraley said restoring a route to parts of Farristown is the most immediate priority since it involves the safety of residents. He said one of two things has to happen: either the Farristown bridge must be repaired, or, the state and the city must pursue establishing a new route to serve residents.

"We have to have a bridge or an alternate route as soon as possible," Fraley said. Council members Jim Davis, John Payne, Teresa Scenters and Cora Jane Wilson agreed the public safety issue must be addressed first. Wilson revealed that in communication with State Senator Jared Carpenter, fixing the bridge is an unlikely option due to the cost. City officials are working on options to provide and alternate route.

Others recommended taking steps to give Farristown residents a voice in future decisions. Berea City Councilmember Steve Caudill recommended taking two steps. First, to move forward with the zoning changes proposed by the city, but also to appoint representatives of Farristown to advise the Berea Industrial Development Authority (BIDA), which currently owns the land, on ways to develop the land while also preserving the neighborhood's history. Caudill suggested the possibility of buffer zones between the neighborhood and industrial operations.

Regarding the history of Farristown, Fraley said the city may have the opportunity to help in sharing what has been an unknown history of the African American community. "Now is the time to tell that story," Fraley said. "If it hasn't been told by anyone else before, why not us?"

Councilmembers Teresa Scenters and Jerry Little thanked the residents for attending the meeting, saying their voices are valued and have been heard. Scenters thanked residents for bringing the issues to the city's attention, and for beginning a discussion on how to move forward.

"Maybe we won't solve every problem tonight, but I feel like this is a beginning point of something good that can turn into something we couldn't have imagined," Scenters said.

In thanking citizens for attending, Fraley said Farristown residents have given officials a lot to think about.

"My whole thought process is how do you respect the area? How do you respect the people who came before us?

"How do you respect Farristown as a unique community that predated Berea College and the city of Berea? Can you do all of those things and still have economic growth? Can they work together? I think the answer is yes," Fraley said. "If it can happen anywhere, with our history, I think it can happen in Berea, Kentucky. So, I'm confident, and I do look forward to continuing the conversation."

BRIEFS

Hunsucker celebrates 40 years at Wal-Mart

Mark Hunsucker recently celebrated 40 years as an employee of Wal-Mart.

Hunsucker has been an integral part of the success of the Berea Wal-Mart location.

Annual L&N Day set for Saturday

Free activities for "kids" of all ages during the 22nd Annual L&N Day in Berea.

On Saturday, June 4 from 9 a.m.-5 p.m., watch working model trains, shop for the perfect railroad treasure and join in on storytelling of days gone by.

Stand within a few feet of the track as freight trains cruise past the station and pick up a special commemorative ticket. Take a family "selfie" in front of the train silhouette. Special activities and conductor hats for children are available, while supplies last.

Located in the heart of the Old Town Artisan Village, 3 Artist Circle.

The event is free and open to the public from 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Newman, Davis to attend grand opening

Three-time novelist, Melissa Newman, Ed.D. and poet, non-fiction, and children's book author Hasan Davis, J.D., will headline the grand opening of Berea's new bookstore, The Taleless Dog Booksellers Saturday, June 4.

Beginning at 11 a.m., Davis will read from his newest work, "Human Writes," a book of poetry, and at 2 p.m., Newman will read from her third novel "Growing Up Wilder." Between the two readings, beginning at around 12:30, there will be a question-and-answer session about writing and publishing.

Bookstore owners, Clark and Susan Buckmaster of Berea, plan to continue highlighting local and regional authors and invite them in to meet their readers long after the grand opening weekend.

Harrison receives NSDAR award

Cadet Sergeant Dawn A. Harrison, daughter of Wayne and Sydney Harrison of McKee, is the recipient of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (NSDAR) JROTC Bronze Medal with Ribbon Bar and Certificate.

The award is sponsored by the Berea-Laurel Ridges Chapter, NSDAR and was presented by Chapter National Defense Committee Chair Linda Parsons at the Jackson County High School JROTC Change of Command and Awards program.

Bidding farewell not always easy

Tammy Whittamore

I saw that three Kingston Elementary teachers reached their retirement goal this year: Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Bowman, and Mrs. Robinson. Congratulations.

The Kingston Pop-Up Market is having a Farm Swap on June 4th from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. They are hoping to see chickens, ducks, rabbits, goats, or any other farm animal you need to swap. Should be fun for everybody. If you get hungry, there will be a food truck available.

My husband's friend, Pastor Lawrence (Larry) Gassett, passed away this past week. He was such a kind man. He said he always enjoyed reading my articles. His mom and sister were our neighbors for years. My husband Kenny formed a close friendship with him over their common interest in classic trucks. They enjoyed all kinds of conversations including spiritual ones. My father-in-law Charles, who is also a preacher, valued his fellowship. We received cards from Larry for many special occasions and sometimes a separate one from his wife Ruth, too.

Larry frequently bought Spalding donuts for a breakfast treat to Berea even though he couldn't eat them himself. He was a thoughtful man.

Larry had a great enthusiasm for his projects. Once he was needing a hood for a 40 Ford pickup. After Larry located one on eBay in Arkansas, a friend was on the phone with the seller. Unbeknownst to that friend, Larry had decided to drive there.

He arrived at the seller's home with no advance notice. Luckily, the hood was suitable, and he was able to bring it home.

After he stopped at a hotel for the night returning home, Larry became worried about the hood outside.

He ended up bringing it into his room for safety's sake!

My husband Kenny and all Larry's Berea friends will certainly miss him. I know his church families are thankful for the time Pastor Gassett was with them.

We extend our condolences to all those who mourn his passing.

There's something unusual about a praying monkey

Roger Alford

One of my all-time favorite stories is about the time the small-town zoo's only monkey died, and the keepers didn't have enough money to replace him.

The monkey was the zoo's biggest draw, and, not wanting to lose visitors, zookeepers came up with an idea. They put one of their employees in a monkey costume and had him eating bananas and swinging from trees.

One day, he swung a bit higher than he should have, lost his grip, and flew out of his exhibit, landing in the cage of an African lion. He was so scared that he couldn't help screaming, "Lord, help me."

The lion rushed over, stopped when he got really got close, and whispered: "You'd better shut up or you'll get us both fired."

The last time I shared that story, I told you the Bible makes clear that God doesn't want us to be pretenders. He made us to be us, and he doesn't want us pretending to be what we're not.

During Jesus' earthly ministry, He was especially tough on the scribes and Pharisees, who were the religious leaders of that day. These people wanted others to believe they had special relationships with God.

Jesus, however, saw them for what they were. He called them hypocrites, telling them they were like painted tombs, appearing beautiful on the outside while, inside, they were full of rottenness.

As the all-knowing, all-seeing, all-powerful Lord of Glory, Jesus is in position to know us like nobody else. We can't fool Him.

The story is told about a woman who once spotted Robert Redford in a hotel lobby. She followed him to the elevator, and nervously asked: "Are you the real Robert Redford?"

As the elevator doors closed, he answered: "Only when I'm alone."

Who we are when we're alone, when no one else is looking, that's who we really are.

That realization should be more than enough to make us eternally grateful for the mercy and forgiveness God has extended to us through Jesus.

We may not eat bananas or swing from tree branches, but most of us have been known to act like something we're not, as if we have it all together when we know fully well we do not.

CAPTAIN

Fire Department Station 1, local, state and county officials were on hand for the unveiling of the road sign, which is to be deployed between mile points 10.80 and 12.80 along Kentucky 21 from the bridge over Brushy Fork Creek eastward to the Berea city limits, according to a Kentucky Transportation Cabinet press release.

Captain Byrd was a member of the 1st Aviation Brigade, 220th Aviation Company, United States Army, who piloted a plane known as the Bird Dog, a Cessna used for reconnaissance and forward control. Byrd and a fellow crewmember were lost during a mission, presumably having crashed in the mountains.

Near the end of 2020, Byrd's friend, Jimmy Lakes, contacted Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley, who lobbied state officials to facilitate the construction, placement and naming of a highway in Byrd's honor. Lakes thanked the members of the Berea City Council for passing a unanimous resolution to fund the construction of the sign, but he also expressed appreciation for his late friend. "I would like to say 'Thank you, Captain Byrd, for your life, and for your service," Lakes said.

Fraley expressed appreciation for the assistance of the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet District 7, including Natasha Lacy, who he said helped shepherd the proposal through the proper channels.

Fraley later read a brief account of Byrd's life written by Byrd's sister, Nita Byrd Lumpkin, including details of the aviator's final mission.

"January 9, 1969, he and his back seat observer were returning to base when he reported that they were lost. Bad weather and lack of instruments contributed to the inability to locate the plane after contact was lost," Fraley said.

In recalling Captain Byrd's disappearance, another friend, Billy Baker, said Byrd's manner of death was consistent with who he was as a person.

"He was low on fuel, but he was that devoted to helping his fellow man," said Baker, stating Byrd had volunteered to find other servicemen who were lost that night. "His whole life was helping others, helping his fellow soldiers. He truly was a good 'ol boy. I just loved him."

Byrd left behind a wife, Elaine Seales Byrd, and a daughter, who was approximately three months old when he left for Vietnam in 1968. His remains and that of his fellow crewmember were never recovered.

In remembering the particular sacrifice made by Captain Byrd, Mayor Fraley quoted a friend of Byrd's, who stated: "'We owe a debt of gratitude to all those people [who served]. But there is a difference. While Captain Byrd's death and service to our country is not more important than other Bereans who died in foreign wars, the others who died were repatriated and received a proper burial. But Captain Byrd never got to come home.' That's why we're here," Fraley added.

Several officials were on hand to observe the dedication/tribute to Captain Byrd, including State Representative Josh Bray, Madison County Sheriff Mike Coyle, as well as Berea City Council members Jim Davis and Ronnie Terrill. An opening prayer was offered by Todd Matonich, president of Rolling Thunder Kentucky Chapter 5, a veterans group.

Brooke Danielle Way sang The Star Spangled Banner, and played a violin rendition of America the Beautiful, while Addelyn Kate Moody sang My Old Kentucky Home.

Rolling Thunder Kentucky 5 concluded the tribute with an inaugural ride on the newly dedicated Captain Hugh M. "Mac" Byrd, Jr. Memorial Highway.

Mrs. Daisy Mathews, special deputy sheriff, appointed by Judge Hiram Johnson, arrested Frank Helton and took him to London last Saturday, after a posse of deputies composed entirely of men had failed to find him. Helton had made one escape from custody and has several whisky charges against him. He was relieved on bond covering all the charges, because it was brought to the attention of Judge Hiram Johnson that his family was at the point of starvation and be promised to provide for them until his trial comes up at the October Court.

The Berea Foundation Tenth Grade held a Class Night in Gray Auditorium on May 31 at 7:30 p.m. The Foundation School Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Rolf Hovey sang the May Day Chorus, arranged by Deems Taylor; the Foundation School Quartette, consisting of John Biggerstaff Dan Center, Carl Graham, and Owen John Schumacher, sang "On a Chinese Honeymoon," and the Foundation Trio, consisting of Betsy Churchill, Betty Christopher, and Audrey Dowlen, sang "Stop dat Buzzin'." Dean Roy N. Walters presented awards to students for outstanding achievement in scholarship. Prize Bibles given for excellence in Bible study went to the following students: Betsy Churchhill, and Katherine Flanigan, 10th; Walter Huff and Ruby Cornett, 9th; and Charles Vick, Ungraded. A scholarship of $75 went to one student from each class

Financial and Otherwise, Craftsmen's Fair Proves to Be Resounding Success

June 1, 1972

The glorious weather of last weekend was only one of the elements that made the sixth annual Artists and Craftsmen's Fair at Indian Fort Theatre an outstanding success. The others were that some 17,000 persons (15,000 of them paying either $1 or 50 cents depending upon age) came out during the four days to see the work of 97 participants from all over the state, and happily, to buy much of it. Garry Barker, the executive director of the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen, which sponsors the event, reported sales of about $45,000. The guild itself, which depends upon this fair for its operating expenses for the entire year, will realize about $21,000 in box office receipts and it's 20 per cent commission from the sales. The only fly in the ointment was the theft of some of the arts and crafts during the wee hours of Sunday morning. Altogether 11 items with a combined retail value of $1,600 were taken from the main exhibit area under the shelter at the theatre itself. The state police and fair officials believe the thieves approached the exhibit area by a service road behind the theatre, which officials thought had been blocked off.

Berea has been gaining national attention in some unexpected ways. The city was named as Kentucky's most enlightened city in the May-June issue Utne Reader magazine, using criteria such as "access to alternative health care, lively media, a breadth of cultural activities, and diverse spiritual opportunities." Berea has also been nominated in a national competition to find the nation's most attractive painted communities. The Prettiest Painted Places in American competition to find the nation's most attractive painted communities. Berea Mayor Clifford Kerby said he was pleasantly surprised by the favorable attention the city has been receiving from the magazines. "We're growing faster than Richmond or the county either one," Kerby said, "Population stands right at 12,000, which is where it was projected for the year 2000. We're way ahead of schedule. Berea has a very low unemployment rate, better than average educational system, a clean, beautifully maintained city, and a progressive government, Kerby said.

"This city does everything right," Kerby said. "People are cooperative, we have a good government, good management. We've got good industry. Everyone who wants a job has a job. We're strict about keeping our town clean and controlling growth."

members this Memorial Day, we should enjoy our freedoms with gratitude, never forgetting all we have been given and realizing that freedom is not free.

We are all very fortunate to live in the United States of America and the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and we owe a debt of gratitude to all who have laid down their lives for us, and who fought to preserve and strengthen our great nation.

Each year we recall that Memorial Day was established to honor those who died in the Civil War, which claimed more lives of Americans than any other war in our history. In the late 1860s, Americans began to hold springtime tributes to fallen soldiers by decorating their graves, and praying together. These traditions remain with us today. Originally known as Decoration Day, Memorial Day was established as a federal holiday in 1971.

While we talk about the history and purpose of Memorial Day, and that is good, we should also think about what those brave soldiers, who have given the ultimate sacrifice, might say to us if they were standing with us, in this place, here today. We all have thoughts of what they might say. Some of my thoughts of what they might say to me are:

'Don't let my sacrifice be in vain. Protect freedom. Do not be afraid to fight tyranny and oppression. Do not be afraid to stand up to those who seek to destroy us."

Perhaps they would also say, 'Defend liberty at all costs. Remember all who have died, from the battles of Lexington and Concord in 1775 to Afghanistan, so that you might live as a free man in the greatest country on earth.'

Or maybe they would say: 'Also remember the families who grieve us. Comfort them. Help them when you can. Call my name and do not forget me.'

They might also say: 'Remember the 900+ veterans who are buried in this cemetery, who served out country honorably, who defended our freedom and our liberty, for their service is also important even though they did not die in a foreign war, they made a sacrifice for all of us.'

Let those thoughts of what they might say be good thoughts and remember them throughout the year.

Last year, I did something a little bit different, where I got information about four veterans who died in foreign wars so that we might know them a little better. Their families were eager to tell me about what they were like, what their hobbies were, what their personalities were like, what they hoped to do when they got back home. This year, I was able to get information on one other soldier, who died in World War II."

At that point, Fraley read from information provided by Paul Rominger, which read:

"Paul B. Robinson was born in Paint Lick May 8, 1915.

He was the sixth of 10 children of Sherman and Flora Shockley Robinson. When he was still a child, the family moved to Berea where his father had a grocery store. His father was also a carpenter and continued farming. His mother was a homemaker, but was also a musician, playing the piano, organ, violin and accordion. Paul had a good singing voice and was told often he should be on the radio. Paul was a member of First Christian Church. He married Mary Francis Waller. They had no children.

Paul Robinson was employed at Blue Grass Army Depot when he was inducted into service October 27, 1943. He was trained in communications at Camp Blanding, Florida. In April, 1944, he was sent to England in preparation for the invasion of France. On the flight with him was a fellow soldier from Berea, Ralph Neeley. The photo of them remains a treasured possession. Paul was a linesman in the 82nd Airborne Division, 69th Regiment. Men from three divisions parachuted behind German lines June 6, 1944. Paul and his unit parachuted into Ste. Mere Eglise in the early morning hours preceding the invasion of the beaches of Normandy. Five weeks later on July 11, he was killed by a sniper in the horrible battle for St. Lo. Paul was buried in the Normandy American Cemetery overlooking Omaha Beach. There is a memorial marker for him in the Berea Cemetery. Paul Robinson was awarded the Purple Heart.

In his last letter home received by his mother July 13, Paul wrote: 'We had a really nice church service this morning with communion. It was touching and impressionable.

Have you heard from Harold? I wish I could hear from him. Until next time. I go on duty in two hours. Be good and God bless you all.'"

Fraley closed by encouraging citizens to provide information about 35 serviceman who died in foreign wars and are now memorialized in Berea Cemetery.

He expressed hope that family and friends would contact him so more stories of fallen veterans might be told.

U.S. 25 yard starts Friday

Will you be cleaning out the garage or closet, looking for a team or club fundraiser, or just need some extra cash? Look no further, as the 11th Annual US 25 Yard Sale is coming to Central Kentucky June 3 & 4, 2022. The event stretches almost 200 miles from Corbin to Richwood, Ky..

This promises to be the best year we have ever had. This event was started in 2012 by Williamstown, Ky resident Judy Wigginton, and has been held every year since and is among the nation's 10 longest yard sale events.

One change for this year is that the event has been consolidated into just 2 days, Friday June 3 & Saturday June 4, as a statewide event. In addition, Grant County will have a "Founders Day Sale" on Thursday, June 2.

Residents and vendors should plan now to take advantage of this FREE event, and possibly use it as a fund-raising opportunity for their local school teams, clubs and church groups. There are multiple spots along the route who are renting or are allowing free set up spots for vendors.

Chris Cooper, Senior Loan Officer of Central Kentucky AgCredit, played a role in the collaboration and implementation of the event. Cooper said, "We started this event before the pandemic. Then we skipped a year. Then we came back last year with this drive-thru event. And we are doing that again this year with the drive-thru event and it actually worked out pretty good. You know, some good things came out of the pandemic. This is one of them. We really didn't have the parking. You know if you park, and you have to walk across the street. I don't want any accidents. So, we just made it too where we can shuffle the people through and they just drive, and we have got the radio station out there and we have got it advertised it everywhere." Cooper confirmed that 700 hamburgers were prepared accompanied by a bottle of water and a bag of chips to complete an ideal sack lunch. Cooper said, "Some of the offices around here have came through and just picked up for their whole office so it has helped with the traffic flow. Then we also have these goody bags that we are giving away that are promoting our product, with recipes in there, spatulas, cutting boards, chip clips, magnets, and facts and figures on beef." Cooper stated the goal is to get the good word out about beef. The hamburgers themselves that were handed out were also a special treat, Cooper said, "These are Kentucky Cattleman's ground beef burgers. This is the Kentucky Cattleman's Association; they own the company that buys the cattle and grinds the burger, and you can buy it in Kroger stores. So, you can get the same burgers that we are cooking today at Kroger. This beef never left the state."

If citizens are interested in learning more about the Cattleman's Association or the services that Central Kentucky AgCredit provides to local farmers, Cooper encourages folks to reach out. He said, "We (Central Kentucky AgCredit) do all kinds of farm loans. We are a co-op that we loan money to farmers or anybody that does anything with "Ag," agribusiness, farms, cattle, rural homes; we do it all. Right here at 1000 Ival James Blvd on the Bypass in Richmond."

Pratt facing recurring cancer fight

LEXINGTON KT) — University of Kentucky basketball radio analyst Mike Pratt has been battling cancer for the past three years and is facing another fight in his struggle against the disease.

Pratt, 73, had a tumor removed from his colon in 2019 and another in his liver and also had radiation treatments on his jaw and back but the cancer has returned. He is scheduled to begin a treatment with Hope4cancer, a non-toxic program, on June 16.

Throughout his fight, the well-liked Pratt has remained the color analyst for UK basketball.

On a social media site (GiveSendGo.com) to raise money in his fight, a post read, "being a former player, his love for the University shines through in every broadcast. He has kept up his Friday talk show with Bob Valvano and most recently a daily talk show with Dan Issel."

Kentucky coach John Calipari and his wife Ellen have pledged to match the first $50,000 in donations through on the site.

"Ellen and I have been in prayer for Mike, who is one of the best people we've ever known," he said. "One thing that makes Big Blue Nation special is how we fiercely take care of and protect our own. It's time to do that again."

Maria Montgomery, a former Miss Kentucky and on-court radio host for men's basketball games at Rupp Arena, has admired Pratt's ability to fight cancer.

"When Mike told me about his diagnosis, I was blown away by his positivity and drive," she said. "His attitude is one to admire in a cancer battle. Let's get behind him and help on the financial side because that can be one of the toughest factors in a journey to (good) health.

"If you know Mike Pratt, you know what a special man he is. He's a dear friend to many and a gentleman to all. And Mike needs our help."

Warford remembered as a trailblazer

LEXINGTON (KT) — Reggie Warford was a trailblazer at the University of Kentucky and will forever be remembered as the school's first Black men's basketball player to graduate from the school.

Warford passed away on May 26 at the age of 67. He played four seasons with the Wildcats (1973-76) and was the first Black player to play all four seasons. He was a member of the school's NCAA national runner-up team in 1975 and played on Kentucky's NIT championship squad a year later in 1976.

Tom Payne was Kentucky's first Black signee in 1969 under legendary coach Adolph Rupp and played the 1970-71 season. In 1972, Warford became coach Joe B. Hall's first signee after the former assistant succeeded Rupp.

"I know how much Reggie meant to Kentucky and how he inspired others, including Jack Givens and James Lee," Kentucky men's basketball coach John Calipari said. "Reggie and I worked together at Pitt in the 80s and have remained friends. I'm going to miss my brother. May God bless you, Reggie."

Kentucky athletics director Mitch Barnhart said Warford "played an important role in the history of UK athletics."

"His career as a player and student, and his presence as a native Kentuckian, helped set the stage for the continued growth of integration of Kentucky basketball and our entire athletics program," Barnhart said. "We are deeply saddened by his passing and our condolences are with his family, friends and teammates."

Warford was inducted into the Kentucky High School Association Hall of Fame in 2019 and originally committed to Austin Peay before ultimately deciding to sign with the Wildcats.

Following his playing career he entered the coaching ranks and served at Pittsburgh, Iowa State and Long Beach State. He was head coach of the Harlem Globetrotters in 2003 and won the USBWA Most Courageous Award in 1984.

He also served as coach at Muhlenburg County when his sons Grant and Tyler were playing.

PREP ROUNDUP

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Another high school sports season is in the books as the baseball, and softball teams from Berea and Madison Southern closed out their respective seasons.

And while there were more losses than wins, that doesn't mean the season was without bright spots for both schools, and both schools boast several players who should return next year.

The Berea baseball team ended its season with a 9-15 record. Junior Billy Strife led the team at the plate with a .435 batting average with 24 RBIs. He also picked up four wins on the mound while striking out 41 batters. Sophomore Cameron Thompson also shined at the plate with a .368 batting average with 15 RBIs. He led the pitching staff with a 2.78 earned run average.

The Lady Pirate softball team finished the 2022 campaign with a 2-9 record. But a solid foundation was laid with the likes of Junior Taylor Johnson, who ended the season with a .393 batting average with 12 RBIs. Sophomore MaKenzie Strong garnered 28.1 innings from the circle while recording 28 strikeouts.

The Madison Southern baseball team finished with a 12-16 record. The Eagles should return a bevy of talent in 2023. Sophomore Zach Hudson shined at the plate, finishing the season with a .425 batting average with five doubles and four triples.

He also had 19 stolen bases. Sophomore Caleb Cobb ended with a .390 batting average with 24 RBIs and two home runs.

Sophomore Zach Morgeson worked 41.1 innings and finished the season with a 4-6 record on the mound. Sophomore Braden Hudson finished with 30 strikeouts, while Zach Hudson finished with a 2-3 record while leading the team with 36 strikeouts in 29.2 innings pitched.

The youth was served for the Lady Eagles as they found 2022 a tough go, finishing with a 4-24 record. They were led by freshman Ashlan Estep who ended with a .390 batting average and 12 stolen bases. Freshman Crystal Cook finished with a .371 batting average with 16 RBIs and three homeruns, while junior Jada Carter ended with a .364 batting average.

Freshman Goss Kayley added three homeruns in 2022.

Freshman Bella Strunk worked 79 innings in the circle while striking out 46 batters. Fellow freshmen Kennedy Alcorn and Kayley worked 37.1 and 22.1 innings, respectively.

Again, while the wins did not outnumber the losses, both schools' teams have established an excellent foundation to build from and have much to look forward to in 2023.

Proposed budget puts emphasis on outdoor recreation

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

The Berea City Council heard the first reading of the Fiscal Year 2022-2023 budget Tuesday, a spending plan that factors in steep increases in personnel, fuel and insurance costs.

According to the proposed budget, general fund revenues are estimated to be $17.7 million, with expenditures projected to be $23.3 million. Officials are estimating an ending fund balance for the year of $16.6 million.

Having received approximately $4 million in American Rescue Plan Act funds (ARPA), the city is planning on using that money for future projects, including $1 million to extend Kenway Street to Phase II of the Berea Bypass, thus giving the Dixie Park neighborhood another point of entry and exit, $190,000 for heavy equipment, $1 million for sidewalks and shared use paths, $330,000 for automobiles, and $1 million for park improvements.

Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley noted Thursday that nearly

Future Eagles

'Oceans of Possibilities'

Library kicks off annual summer reading program

By Mary Margaret Cheeks
Citizen Staff Writer

The Madison County Public Library kicked off its Summer Reading Program on May 31 at the Berea and Richmond locations.

Kennedy Morin, Youth Services Programming Coordinator of the Berea location, was eager and excited to launch the program as she scooped ice cream and handed out bowls to patrons who attended the event.

"Our theme for the summer is "Oceans of Possibilities," so, that is why we have a ton of ocean-themed stuff here, we have ice cream, Ariel & Moana (were) here to take pictures, kids are making their own sunglasses, and we have a petting zoo. " said Morin.

The kickoff was only the beginning when it comes to summer reading fun at the library. The library will be hosting two programs each day during the summer months. The reading programs will vary in what ages they are specifically for. The library will also serve free lunch every Monday-Friday for any child up to age 18.

"Libraries are so much more than books now," said Morin "We have really tried to hire some really cool people."

Throughout the summer, all

Patricia Lynn Hayes

Patricia Lynn Hayes, 62, wife of 46 years to Steven R. Hayes, passed away Saturday June 4, 2022, in Berea. She was born September 2, 1959, in Berea to Betty Lamb Hayes and the late Luther Hayes. Patty loved the Lord and her family. Her absolute joy in life was to take care of her family. Patty served the Lord in many ways; she and Steve are faithful members of Emmanuel Baptist Church. Patty had served as Youth Director at Conway Baptist Church during the 1980s-90s. She enjoyed reading John Grisham, growing, and arranging flowers, and decorating. As a small business owner, she owned and operated Heavenly Treasures Christian Bookstore in Old Town during the mid-90's, was a real estate agent for Pennington Realty in the early 2000's, worked with the child support division of Rockcastle County Attorneys Office, owned the store at Snyder, and helped her son at his store on Highway 461 in Rockcastle County. She would always greet everyone with a big Smile and Hello.

Other than her father, Patty is also preceded by an infant brother.

In addition to her husband and mother, Patty is survived by two sons, Andrew Hayes and his wife Patty Joe of Berea, Luke Hayes and his wife Jennifer of Mount Vernon, three sisters Teresa Scenters of Berea, Kathy Cox and her husband Fred of Berea, Kaye Deaton and her husband Steve of Berea, four grandchildren, Aubrey, Ally, Evan, Eli, and a host of nieces, nephews, and friends.

Funeral services were at 11 a.m. Wednesday June 8, 2022, at Davis & Powell Funeral Home. Rev. Joey Kays officiated and burial followed in the Pilot Knob Cemetery. Pallbearers were Evan Hayes, Eli Hayes, Mark Scenters, Adam Scenters, Greg Cox, Matt Cox, Aubrey Hayes and Ally Hayes.

Davis and Powell Funeral Home.

Dr. Phillip T. North

Dr. Phillip T. North sadly passed away on June 4 after a brief battle with a brain tumor. His loving wife and best friend Dr. Tamala North was by his side. He was preceded in death by his parents Phillip R. and Wilma J. North. Surviving members of his family include his brother Douglas (Priscilla) and sister Patricia (William) Hastings. Also surviving are his children, Christopher (Kacy), Jennifer, Phillip J. (Colleen), and his "bonus son" Ryan (Savannah). He leaves behind five grandchildren whom he loved dearly, Kira, Alexander, Hudson, Bryce, and Evelyn.

Phillip graduated from Center High School, in Kansas City, MO and was appointed to the United States Air Force Academy where he graduated in 1972, "Best in Blue." He was then accepted to, and graduated from, The University of Chicago Pritzker School of Medicine and was a member of Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Society. Phillip went on to achieve the rank of Colonel while serving his country as a general surgeon in the USAF for over 17 years before opening his own practice in Ohio. Most recently he served as a primary care physician for the Veteran's Administration in the Berea VA Clinic. He loved taking care of his Veterans and brothers and sisters in service. He recently retired with 22 years of federal service.

Phillip achieved many things in his life. Among them included his PADI certification, private pilot's license, and becoming a Mason. He had several hobbies but birding, cooking, fly fishing, and singing were his favorites. His fun claim to fame was that he was once paid to sing with the San Antonio Opera. Over the years Phillip participated in numerous community theater musicals as an actor, director, sound technician, makeup artist, stage manager, and set construction.

Phillip was an ardent supporter of The Croswell Opera House, a community theater in Adrian, MI. His family requests that memorial contributions be sent to The Croswell Opera House, 129 E. Maumee St., Adrian, MI. 49221. Condolences via cards, messages, to the family can be dropped off or sent to Davis & Powell, 616 Chestnut St., Berea, KY 40403. The family will plan a memorial event to be held next summer.

Davis and Powell Funeral Home.

Nina Chasteen

Nina Chasteen, 73, passed away after a brief illness on Tuesday, May 31, 2022, at St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington.

Nina was born in Lexington to the late Ruford and Marie Miller Turner. She was retired from Berea Hospital after 26 years of dedication. She also had previously attended Red Lick Holiness Church.

In addition to her parents, she was also preceded in death by her husband, James J. Chasteen; two sons, Daryl and David Satterfield; and one brother, Ruford Turner, Jr.

She is survived by her loving granddaughters, Megan Gammell and Britni Satterfield; and two great granddaughters, Olivia Duff and Raelynn Gammell; one stepdaughter, Contina Chasteen Schill; and a host of extended family and friends.

Funeral services were at noon, Friday, June 3, 2022, at Lakes Funeral Home. Rev. Ermon Turner officiated and burial followed in the Red Lick Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Doug Hymer, Justin Linehan, Leon Bennett, Brandon Turner, Adam Rose, Harold Bryant, Jason Turner and Estes Isaacs.

Lakes Funeral Home.

Jasper Wiley Tussey

Jasper Wiley Tussey, 92, widower of Nannie Lou Tussey went to his heavenly home on Sunday, May 29, 2022. He was born on January 8, 1930 to Thomas and Lucy Baker Tussey, both of whom preceded him in death. He was an avid fisherman and loved to watch Gunsmoke. He was a retired heavy equipment operator from the University Of Kentucky and served in the Korean War, in which he earned a Combat Infantryman Badge and was awarded Korean War Service Medal from the South Korea Service.He is survived by: two daughters, Vickie Richmond (Gary) of Berea, Judy Foley (Dan) of Richmond; grandchildren, Joey Richmond (Cassie), Brittney Fitzpatrick (Adam), Josh Pingleton (Lauren), Amber Whitaker (Josh), and special caregiver, Beverly Bray, who he thought of as a granddaughter; great grandchildren, Christian, Emma, Holly Beth, Kenzie, Ava , Jasper, Abby, Jax, Heidi Kate, and Margot.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by numerous brothers and sisters, and two daughters, Jackie Lou Tussey and Tammy Louise Tussey. Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. on Friday, June 3, 2022 at Oldham, Roberts & Powell Funeral Home with Bro. Joey Kays officiating.

Something about finding a bargain

Keith Taylor

There's something about finding a bargain.

A good deal can be discovered almost anywhere there is a cash register, but most of those money-saving bargains can be mostly found at garage, yard and estate sales this time of the year.

I enjoy visiting yard sales and consider it a stress reliever and a chance to find a bargain on something I may be in the need for and don't want to pay top dollar for when I can get it used and for a cheaper price.

I like to drive to places I don't frequent often and believe me, this county features a lot of landscape and residential areas that are in places that are less traveled.

Neighborhood sales give me a chance to exercise and meet people. Sometimes, if it's a big area, I will load up my bicycle, grab a backpack and peddle around the neighborhood. It saves gas and knocks off the calories, a win-win for the wallet and getting into shape.

I carry small change, such as five and one dollar bills to make it easier on both the buyer and seller and don't waste my time at a residence that has used items to make a profit with an expensive price tag. There is a difference between a yard sale and an auction.

Most of the time, I find books, old LPs, some clothes and items on my wish list that I'm seeking at yard sales.

One year, I bought an electric keyboard that I use to enhance my skills on the piano. I have bought snow shovels for little of nothing and electronics, such as a computer monitor that sits in my home office.

In addition to yard sales, I enjoy visiting the Goodwill stores in search of hidden treasures. I have been known to visit them on road trips during March Madness if one is located near the media hotel.

During the U.S. 25 Yard Sale this weekend, I did notice more bargain hunters out than usual and for the most part, bargains were aplenty for those who took the time to look on what turned out to be a beautiful weekend.

I consider bargain hunting a fun hobby. It's like a box of chocolates. You never know the next bargain you're going to find.

Mass killings: What is the answer?

Glenn Mollette

Do parents in America want to spend every school day hoping and praying their children will not be heinously murdered?

Do children want to spend their days constantly looking up to see who might be entering their room with an assault weapon? Do you want to walk the grocery store aisles wondering if someone has picked your store and this day to shoot at you? Do you enjoy sitting in a house of worship knowing that if a crazed gunman enters your location the exit doors are very few. Movie theatres are anticipating a major boost in attendance this summer. Can you go in peace knowing that your life could be in danger if someone enters with a semi-automatic weapon or an AR-15?

The list of possibilities is almost endless as restaurants, sporting events, concerts, shopping malls and more are targets of those who plot evil rampages against innocent people.

Uvalde, Texas and Buffalo, New York are the recent locations of horrific killings of the very young and elderly American people doing everyday life – going to school and buying groceries.

When will this happen at your school, grocery store, house of worship or any place else? At one time, Americans never imagined such horrors as many of us have lived to see. One mass shooting has led to another and another. Your school or church or whatever the event is must plan for an attack every time you gather. If we do not try to protect the people at such events and gatherings, then we are throwing caution to the wind and subjecting people we love to the possibilities of being killed.

What is the answer? The Buffalo grocery had an armed guard. This was not enough for a gunman who had strategized and outgunned the security guard who gave his life trying to save others.

One major problem is such an evil person has the element of surprise. They have surveyed the location. Innocent people are caught off guard.

People may even be carrying weapons but might not even have the time to draw their weapon because the rapid fire of the attacker's weapon takes that person's life before he or she can reach for their weapon.

What is the answer? Do we equip every teacher in America with a semi-automatic weapon? Should teachers and grocery store shoppers and ministers carry assault weapons at all times? Do you want to put on your Sunday dress and then strap on your assault rifle so you might have a chance of defending yourself?

State and federal lawmakers continue to wrestle with what to do. One suggestion is to take away all the guns.

This might be okay until Russia or China invades us and we all have to fight.

The local villain may find a way to order all the parts he needs online to assemble an assault weapon and you have no way to defend yourself. This possibility must be made illegal.

Evil finds a way to release hate and fulfill deranged fantasies. This does not mean we give up. Limiting assault weapons to people 25 and older, strict background checks, waiting periods and licenses is possibilities. Limiting all gun purchases to people over 21 is another possibility. Eighteen-year-olds use guns in the military but are trained and strictly supervised.

Do Americans really need assault type weapons? Would we be willing to ban them if it would save an elementary school of children from a murderous rampage?

It's all too late for Uvalde, Texas families and so many more. State and federal government must make some real decisions. In the meantime, we have to protect ourselves.

Letter to the editor

Workman: Why no compassion?

When I read the words from Mr. Glenn Mollette the May 11 issue about the death of Naomi Judd and "life's" appointment.

I wondered several things.

First, is it ever appropriate to comment on another person's life if I have never had their experiences or never walked in their shoes? Second, why are we more gracious and understanding of the body than toward those who suffer with disease of the mind? Third, When a person dies of cancer, for example, hear words like, "She fought hard but the Lord finally took her home and she is in a better place."

Isn't it possible someone who had a long, hard struggle with mental illness could hear the Lord say, "it's all right, you have struggled long enough, come home."

If we are compassionate, can we ever say, how long another must suffer with an illness, that won't kill like cancer, might be is, for that person, intolerable?

June 8, 1922

The Silver Creek Junior Agricultural Club met Thursday evening, June 1, 1922. Roscoe T. Chesnut was selected to represent the club at Lexington Junior Week, June 19 through 24, 1922. When Chesnut returned, he made a report to the club. Thomas Bowman was elected to the office of Secretary vacated by the resignation o f Ruby Terrill. It was further voted by the club to have an ice cream supper, Saturday, June 17, 1922, beginning at 6:30 in the evening. The proceeds were to go to the club. The members of this club were on the job and their progress was noted.

June 6, 1946

The fire department was called out last Tuesday, May 30, 1946, before noon to extinguish a blaze in the diner of the L&N train Number 33, which passed through Berea each day for some minutes after ten 0'clock. The blaze was inside the wall and could not be extinguished without breaking through the walls of the small compartment. The fire was put out without doing much damage to the train. It is believed that sone short circuit caused the blaze. The train proceeded on its way after about a 15-minute delay.

June 8, 1972

Federal aid in repairing flood damage was touched on during a recent meeting of the Madison County Fiscal Court. Mrs. Bernice Walters of the Department of Civil Defense, reported on a Frankfort meeting she had attended at Judge Turley's request. There she learned of the help available through various agencies for repair and recovering from flood caused damage. She particularly mentioned disaster relief funds through the Department of Civil Defense, and the help of the Small Business Administration. Particularly important she said, was the keeping of accurate records of costs, man hours, machine hours, materials and the availability of the County Engineer at short notice to accompany federal personnel for site inspections. The program already was set in motion, County Court Clerk Charles Wagers reported, saying that an application for assistance under the Disaster Relief Program had been made and signed by six magistrates on May 30, 1972. Bobby Jenkins of Civil Defense, said that Federal inspectors had already made a survey the day before (June 5, 1972) of various flood control sites in Madison County, initially approving $22,000 of aid. They were to return on Friday for surveys of damage in Richmond and Berea, as well as any other sites that might be unreported in Madison County. Magistrates had suggestions for other sights for inspections. Mr. Jenkins said that projects, to be eligible for this aid, must be flood caused, maintenance projects were not acceptable, and repairs must be over $100. The washed-out bridge near Valley View, discussed at previous meetings, was among sites to be inspected, he said.

June 12, 1997

Berea and Madison County would likely reap the benefits of a meeting which took place in Colorado Springs at the end of May. 1997. The meeting was the first of a series of dialogues scheduled to discuss alternatives for chemical weapons disposal at the Blue Grass Army Depot near Richmond, as well as several other storage sites across the country. The group was made up of representatives from each of the states where chemical weapons were stored, members of the U.S. Army and members of the Alternative Technology program, which was formed in 1996 by Congress to examine alternatives as to how to destroy chemical weapons stockpiled in the United States. At least three Madison County residents attended the meeting. Craig Williams, spokesperson for the Chemical Weapons Working in Group in Berea, Charles Schindler of Berea College and Kay Harker of the Department of Environmental services. Williams said the first dialogue was very productive. "We're off to a good start," Williams said, "A cooperative dynamic in the alternative technology process is what will be required to satisfy all the parties in this house. We have always been critical of the decision-making process, but the Army, regulators and the citizens together have broken new ground in trying to achieve consensus on how to dispose of these munitions." In the past, the Army made the decisions in how to dispose of chemical weapons, and announced their decisions and then asked for comments, as required by law. Williams said the search for alternative technologies was following a different process, which began with the Colorado Springs meeting and would continue with a second meeting scheduled for June 1997 in Lexington, Kentucky and a third meeting scheduled for late June/early July 1997 in Baltimore, Maryland. Williams pointed to the Canadian experience as an example of why cooperative decision- making must be continued. "In Canada they took four years to cooperatively develop the approach used to rid themselves of their chemical weapons," Williams said.

SOUTHERN MADISON WATER DISTRICT
CUSTOMER NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that Southern Madison Water District expects to file an application with the Kentucky Public Service Commission on or about May 25, 2022, seeking approval of a proposed adjustment to its water rates. The proposed rates shall not become effective until the Public Service Commission has issued an order approving these rates.

CURRENT AND PROPOSED RATES
SOUTHERN MADISON WATER DISTRICT

Monthly Rates for Water		Current		Proposed		Difference
First	2,000 Gallons	$ 13.446	Minimum Bill	$ 13.960	Minimum Bill	$ 0.514	3.82%
Next	1,000 Gallons	$ 6.633	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 6.886	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.253	3.81%
Next	3,000 Gallons	$ 6.223	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 6.460	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.237	3.81%
Next	4,000 Gallons	$ 5.763	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 5.983	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.220	3.82%
Next	15,000 Gallons	$ 4.883	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 5.069	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.186	3.81%
Next	25,000 Gallons	$ 4.583	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 4.758	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.175	3.82%
All Over	50,000 Gallons	$ 4.033	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 4.187	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.154	3.82%
Water Loss Surcharge		$ -	Per Bill	$ 1.94	Per Bill	$ 1.94	100.00%
Kentucky River Authority Withdrawal Fee	All Gallons	$ 0.0253	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.0253	Per Thousand Gallons	$ -	0.00%

If the Public Service Commission approves the proposed rates, then the monthly bill for a customer using an average of 4,000 gallons per month will increase from $26.30 to $27.31. This is an increase of $1.01 or 3.84%. The District is also applying for a Water Loss Reduction Surcharge of $1.94 per customer per month for 48 months.

The rates contained in this notice are the rates proposed by Southern Madison Water District. However, the Public Service Commission may order rates to be charged that differ from these proposed rates. Such action may result in rates for consumers other than the rates shown in this notice.

Southern Madison Water District has available for inspection at its office the application which it submitted to the Public Service Commission. A person may examine this application at the Association's office located at 207 N Dogwood Drive, Berea, KY, 40403. You may contact the office at 859-986-9031.

A person may also examine the application at the Public Service Commission's offices located at 211 Sower Boulevard, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601, Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., or through the Public Service Commission's website at http://psc.ky.gov. Comments regarding the application may be submitted to the Public Service Commission through its website or by mail to Public Service Commission, PO Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40602. Recipe from the heart

This is a quick and tasty dish for when you just want that comfort food feel.

Libby Horn

Spring Vegetable Fettuccine Alfredo

Ingredients
Kosher Salt
1 - 9 ounce package of fresh fettuccine
2 cups shiitake mushrooms (about 4 ounces), stems removed and discarded
1 bunch thin asparagus
1 stick (8 TBSP) unsalted butter
1/2 cup frozen peas
Freshly ground pepper
2 cups heavy cream
1 1/2 cups freshly grated Parmigiano-Reggiano cheese
1 Tablespoon chopped chives

Finely grated zest of 1/2 lemon

Directions
Bring a large pot of generously salted water to a boil. Add pasta and cook according to package directions unlit al dente, tender but slightly firm. Reserve 1/2 cup of pasta water, strain pasta and toss with a splash of oil

Slice mushroom caps into 1/4 inch thick strips. Snap the woody ends of the asparagus off and cut into 2 inch lengths. Heat a large skillet over medium heat and add 2 tablespoons of the butter. When the butter melts, raise the heat to medium-high and add the mushrooms in one layer. Cook with out moving until the undersides have browned (1 to 2 minutes). Stir, and cook an additional 2 minutes. Add the asparagus, another Tablespoon of butter and 1/2 teaspoon of salt and continue to cook, stirring occasionally until the asparagus is tender and the mushrooms are browned (2 to 4 minutes). Transfer the vegetables to the colander with the pasta.

Reduce heat to medium and add the remaining 5 Tablespoons of butter. When the butter has mostly melted, whisk in the cream and bring to a simmer, then add peas and cook for 2 minutes. Turn the heat off.

Whisk the Parmigiana-Reggiano into the sauce. Add the vegetables, cooked pasta, cooked chives and lemon zest and toss well. Season with salt and pepper. The pasta will thicken as it cools. To thin it, add pasta water 1 Tablespoon at a time until desired consistency is reached. Serve in heated bowls.

Here's How It Works

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9X9 grid, broken down into nine 3X3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

enthusiastic about the health department's role in the health of Madison County," said Dr. John M. Johnstone, chair of the Madison County Board of Health.

Prior to her appointment to the Madison County Health Department, Dr. Vundi served the Commonwealth of Kentucky as an Epidemiologist in the HIV/AIDS Branch of the Cabinet for Health and Family Services.

With research interests in the areas of cancer, infectious disease, Health Related Social Needs (HRSNs), and substance use disorder and prevention, she brings experience in research through various roles from the University of Kentucky's Center for Health Services Research.

A native of Floyd County, Vundi has made her home with her family in Berea for nearly 18 years.

"I am very grateful to have the opportunity to serve in this role alongside such a passionate, competent, and caring team," she said. "I truly believe that the services offered by the health department are invaluable to our community. I am excited to support and help grow our mission as the needs of Madison County evolve and change," said Dr. Vundi.

"The team at Madison County Health Department looks forward to continuing our service to the people of Madison County with Dr. Vundi's leadership," said Lloyd Jordison, MBA, RN, Health Education Director who served as interim director of MCHD during the search for a new director.

Dr Vundi replaces Nancy M. Crewe, MA, MPH, who served as Public Health Director for Madison County since 2010.

LIBRARY

programs will be offered in both Berea and Richmond, scheduled at different times so patrons will not miss out on the festivities.

"I think the event we are hyping up the most is we are going to have live sharks from the Newport Aquarium here." said Morin. "We are just trying to get experiences not everybody can afford."

Participation in the summer reading program is as easy as signing up at the library and picking up a punch card and a free book. Citizens are instructed to color an image of a seahorse for every 20 minutes their child reads. Each card totaling 200 minutes.

When cards are filled up, they can return them to the library for a new card. All participants in the Summer Reading Program will have the chance to win (one of 10) $100 gift cards to Wal-Mart.

"Each card you turn in gives you a chance to win one of the gift cards at the end of summer." said Morin.

Patrons are welcome to sign up for library card at any time at either Madison County Public Library location. All that is needed is a photo I.D. and current proof of address.

Children as young as birth can also sign up for a library card with a parent or guardian's permission.

If citizens would like to learn more information about the activities, programs, and the summer reading excitement at either library location they can visit the library, follow the Madison County Public Library on Facebook, call (859) 986-7112, or visit their website at madisonlibrary.org.

CITY OF BEREA, KENTUCKY 1890

ORDINANCE NO. 09 - 2022

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BEREA, KENTUCKY, CHANGING THE ZONING CLASSIFICATION OF PARCELS WITHIN AN 87 ACRE TRACT OF LAND LOCATED ON MENELAUS ROAD DESCRIBED HEREIN AND REFERRED TO AS 1620 MENELAUS ROAD AND OWNED BY BEREA INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY FROM R-1 (SINGLE FAMILY RESIDENTIAL AND A-1 (AGRICULTURE) TO I-2 (INDUSTRIAL PARK DISTRICT); AND A 1.26 ACRE TRACT RECENTLY ANNEXED INTO THE CITY'S BOUNDARIES BE ASSIGNED A ZONING CLASSIFICATION OF I-2 (INDUSTRIAL PARK DISTRICT)

The City Council of the City of Berea, Kentucky, does ordain as follows:

Pursuant to the authority granted in KRS 100, and in Section 401.2 of the Land Management and Development Ordinance, and further pursuant to hearings held on April 26, 2022 and on May 10, 2022, by the Berea Planning Commission, wherein the Planning Commission found that the proposal for zoning map amendment from R-1 (Single Family Residential) and A-1 (Agriculture) to I-2 (Industrial Park District) for parcels within an 87 acre tract of land located on Menelaus Road; and that the 1.26 acre tract on Menelaus Road recently annexed into the City's boundaries should be assigned the zoning classification of I-2 (Industrial Park Development) was appropriate based on specific factual findings, and said Planning Commission having recommended to the City Council that the requested map amendment be granted; therefore, the City Council adopts the findings of fact and recommendation of the Planning Commission and further, pursuant to KRS 100.211, the area as hereinafter described on Exhibit "A" hereto (parcels within an 87 acres tract) and located at 1620 Menelaus Road be and the same is reclassified to I-2 (Industrial park District) from R-1 (Single Family Residential) and A-1 (Agriculture); and the 1.26 acre tract recently annexed into the City's boundaries be assigned a zoning classification of I-2 (Industrial Park Development).

Would you swim in pool with alligator if money was right?

Roger Alford

A wealthy man loved inviting people to his house to show off the alligator he kept in his swimming pool.

When people were gathered around the pool, the wealthy man would make an offer: "If any of you will swim across the pool, I'll give you $500,000, a brand new home, and a fancy sports-car."

As soon as he made the offer on one particular occasion, there was a splash, and an overweight middle-aged fellow swam across the pool as fast as fast as he could go with the alligator snapping at his heels. He managed to get out of the water on the other side without being ripped to pieces.

The wealthy man was impressed, and congratulated the fellow, telling him he was the first person ever to accept this challenge.

"Now what would you like first?" the wealthy man asked. "The money? The house? The sports-car?"

"The first thing I want," the man said, "is the name of the person who pushed me into that pool."

All of us have had acquaintances who would try to push us into things. Our parents likely warned us that we'd encounter such people, and that we shouldn't allow ourselves to be manipulated by them.

The Bible admonishes us in 1 Corinthians 16:13 to stand firm in the faith, to behave like men, and to be strong.

The Apostle John once had a run in with a rather pushy fellow. Here's what John said:

"I wrote unto the church: but Diotrephes, who loveth to have the preeminence among them, receiveth us not. Wherefore, if I come, I will remember his deeds which he doeth, prating against us with malicious words: and not content therewith, neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and forbiddeth them that would would, and casteth them out of the church" (3 John 9-10).

Can you imagine someone with the audacity to tell the great Apostle John and other early church leaders who walked alongside Jesus during his earthly ministry that they weren't good enough to preach in his pulpit?

Diotrophes seems to have been the kind of person who might shove someone into a pool with a hungry alligator.

'We have a chance'

Calipari thinks Cats will be in the hunt for a national title

LEXINGTON (KT) — Kentucky's loss to Saint Peters in the opening round of NCAA Tournament still bothers Kentucky coach John Calipari.

"We were the fifth-seeded team in that tournament and lost," Calipari said during an appearance on the Paul Finebaum Show earlier this week. "I'm still sick over it. … There's some grieving. I have never had a team lose to a seed like that, but they weren't a 15 seed, Saint Peters was really good. … At the end of the day, you can't steal the joy of that season. The last game, you got to go through it, you got to deal with it.

Despite a slight roster turnover, Calipari will return several players from last year's squad, including College Player of the Year Oscar Tshiebwe and Jacob Toppin.

"We got a terrific group. It's Kentucky, we play for the national championship. My thing always is, you want to be in the hunt. We were in the hunt last year. Two years ago, when we win our league by three games, they shut down the tournament. That team could've won the whole thing. You want to be in the hunt, and I am looking at this team, and we have a chance. We really do."

Calipari, entering his 14th season at Kentucky, still thinks he has the best job in basketball.

"I believe that," he said. "I've had some opportunities to look or leave, and you know what? At the end of the day, you look at this situation, we have the chance to win it every year."

Despite his status, Calipari added that facility upgrades remain a top priority moving forward.

"Mitch (Barnhart) and I are meeting because it's unacceptable if we're not the gold standard in facilities and everything else," he said. "It's not acceptable if midnight madness isn't something talked about for a month. We need the campout going again.

To have everything the gold standard, we've always been that. We slipped a little bit in some of the facilities. Now I'm not saying our facilities are bad, they're not bad, they're just not the gold standard.

"Mitch and I are going to sit down and talk 'okay, what's the path?," he said. "How do we get that going to where anybody that walks on our campus and sees any facilities, knows, 'Wow, look at this'? We're going to get there. Like I said, he and I are going to sit down and talk about it, but again what we do, the big picture, is getting kids to that next level by developing young people."

Calipari said he remains committed to win the school's ninth national title.

"I've done this for a long time." he said. "The bullets are shot through bazooka holes.

"The greatest job, the greatest opportunity, we got to make everything the gold standard, which is what it's been. You know what? Let's go on and do some crazy stuff, which we have a chance to do."

BUDGET

one quarter of the ARPA funds will be dedicated to park facility improvement.

"In a post-COVID world, the emphasis is going to be on outdoor recreation is going to be greater than it has ever been. So, I think, for our future, for the kids and adults, that's a wise investment in our future," Fraley said.

During Thursday's work session, some councilmembers expressed concern that because the current year budget projects more spending than revenue, the city is dipping into its fund reserves. Cora Jane Wilson suggested the imbalance creates the perception that the city is not being a good steward of taxpayer funds.

However, Fraley cautioned the council that the spending plan is only a forecast, and that more often than not in recent years, revenues have exceeded projections and expenditures typically come in under budgeted amounts. He added that the best way ensure a healthy city economy is to continue recruiting new employers, thus creating more jobs and more revenue. The city has invested more in recent years in improving the Berea Industrial Park and in recruiting new businesses to the city.

"The more of those capital projects we can do, the more revenue we'll gain," Fraley said.

Fraley went on to note that the imbalance between expenditures and revenues is happening in municipal governments all over Kentucky. City Administrator Rose Beverly added that inflation is driving up costs of most everything, including fuel, goods, employee wages and insurance.

Councilman Jim Davis insisted there are still ways to cut costs. He noted one of his concerns has been about the use of fuel by the Berea Police Department. Davis said that having officers leave their cruisers running when they are parked for long periods of time, such as when they dine at local restaurants, probably shouldn't be happening.

"With gasoline at four or five dollars a gallon, that's one area to save some money," Davis said. "I don't think it looks good to come up here and see three or four cruisers out there running. I don't think it's very good use of taxpayer's money."

Berea Police Department Chief Eric Scott responded by saying that the computer systems in each of the cruisers would drain the car batteries if the car wasn't left running.

Additionally, he noted that the computer systems, which are also connected to the body cameras officers carry, would have to reboot every time the car was started. That delay, according to Scott, could potentially mean that citizens or officers could be endangered. "It's just an officer safety thing," Scott said. However, in response to Davis's concerns, Scott said he would investigate the issue further.

The budget comes up for a second and final reading on June 21.

In other business, the council unanimously approved accepting a zone change recommendation from the Berea Planning Commission to rezone approximately 87-acres in Farristown from A-1 Agricultural and R-1 Residential to I-2, Industrial Park Zone. Two thirds of the property had been zoned industrial over the past 20 years, since it is located in the Berea Industrial Park.

Mayor Fraley and council members thanked Farristown residents for their input on the proposed zone change, since it spurred discussion on how to secure another road for the neighborhood in the wake of the closing of the CSX bridge. Additionally, the issues raised by Farristown residents started discussions at the city on how to preserve the history of Farristown, a historically African American hamlet, and how to establish buffer zones between residential areas between industry and residential areas in a way that will allow for economic development yet still preserve quality of life for residents.

Also Tuesday, the council agreed to pay Rick Terrill $1,500 to rent a field next to the Berea Craft Fair at Indian Fort to be used for overflow parking. Fraley noted it is the only space available for overflow parking for the fair.

In other business, Mayor Fraley announced Tom Schultz has been appointed to the Board of Adjustments, while Darnell Martin was appointed to the Berea Industrial Development Authority.

The next Berea City Council meeting will take place June 21.

State to repair Farristown Bridge

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

City Council

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet has approved funding for reconstruction of the Farristown Bridge on Menelaus Road, according to Berea Mayor Bruce Fraley.

Fraley made the announcement Tuesday during a meeting of the Berea City Council, noting that the bridge project seemed increasingly unlikely. After consultation with state officials last week, however, the bridge will go out to bid next spring, according to Fraley.

"That was surprising to me considering some of the things that I knew about the project and what we've been told in the past. So, that is very good news," Fraley said.

Additionally, Fraley noted the cabinet has approved funds for the design, right of way and utilities for a new road through the Berea Industrial Park. Farristown residents have expressed concern that the lack of a bridge and adequate roads has posed a public safety and

LearnShops providing more options

By Andy McDonald
For The Citizen

Berea's summer Festival of LearnShops returns in July after a pandemic-induced hiatus, only this time, economic development in the city is giving visitors more recreation and dining options.

Since 2011, visitors have ventured to Berea from 38 states and two foreign countries to learn from seasoned artisans about jewelry making, glassblowing, blacksmithing, writing, drawing, painting, pottery, and other many other artistic media.

The series paused in 2020 because of COVID, but Berea Business and Tourism Development Program Manager Liz Todd said LearnShops are now ready to pick up where they left off in a celebration of the LearnShops' 10th anniversary.

"We are ecstatic to have tourists and visitors back in our city, to given them a chance to experience what makes Berea unique," Todd said. "Our LearnShops program was designed to let others experience the creativity that is Berea by making their own art under the guidance of an experienced instructor!"

Offered over 10 days and approximately 90 course sessions, most of the LearnShops are offered in convenient half-day sessions, though the schedule also

Beat the heat

The hot temperatures during the past two weeks have given residents an opportunity to take a dive into the Berea City Pool to help beat the heat. The heat index soared to more than 100 degrees last week and have dipped below that mark this week, but temperatures are forecast to be climb back into the mid-90s by the weekend. In above photo, Maleigha McFerron and Ethan Cochran walked into the pool to escape from the sizzling temperatures on Wednesday afternoon. The Berea City Pool is open Monday-Saturday 11 a.m.-6:30 p.m. and 1-6:30 p.m. Sunday. The pool will offer free family swimming night from 6-8 p.m. Tuesday, June 28, July 12 and July 26. Renewing the Quality of Life for Senior Adults

The Senior Renewal Center allows clients ages 55 and up to receive behavioral health treatment without the high cost or inconvenience of inpatient hospitalization. Through group therapy, senior adults gain a better understanding of their situation and learn effective ways to cope with individualized issues.

Treatment plans focus on each unique client, with a specific set of circumstances, symptoms and goals to be understood and treated.

The center offers:

- Individual counseling
- Individualized group therapy with other senior adults struggling with similar issues
- Family therapy
- Regular communication with family members
- Regular meetings with primary therapist

OBITUARIES

Peggy Sue Baird Murray

Peggy Sue Baird Murray, 79, wife of the late Lowell Murray, died Wednesday, June 15, 2022 at Hospice Care Compassionate Center in Richmond. Peggy retired from Berea Community School after teaching for 37 years as an English teacher. She enjoyed sharing her love for books and the English language to all her students. One of her greatest joys of teaching was reading Romeo and Juliet with her freshman classes.

Peggy came to Berea College from her beloved home of Jellico Creek, where she met her husband, Lowell. She graduated from Berea College in 1966 and Eastern Kentucky University in 1977 with her master's degree in education. She was a member of the Berea Church of Christ where she served many years as a Sunday school teacher, she loved being an active member of her church and studying God's word. Peggy was preceded in death by her parents, Herbert and Katherine Harber Baird and her sister Carroll Baird Hymore.

Peggy is survived by her daughters, Melissa (Scott) Murray Anderson, and Margaret (Troy) Murray Burnell and her grandchildren: Aaron (Kayla) Anderson, Madeline Ann Merrick, Macie Carroll Merrick and great granddaughter, Ona Eilene Anderson. Her siblings: Brothers, Jerome (Daphne) Baird, John Baird and Sister Janey (Don) Bryant, and several nieces and nephews. Pallbearers were Scott Anderson, Troy Burnell, Aaron Anderson, Jeremy Bryant, Christopher Hymore, Matt Turner, Michael Hardy, Ronnie Mullins, Ashley Anderson and Eric Baker. Honorary pallbearers were Jerome Baird, John Baird, Jerel Hymore, Donald Bryant, Ed Harber. Special honorary pallbearers were the staff and faculty of Berea Community School and all of her former students.

Funeral services were Saturday, June 18 at Lakes Funeral Home. Burial was at Berea Cemetery.

Donations can be made to Hospice Compassionate Care Center in Memory of Peggy Murray, 350 Issacs Lane, Richmond, KY 40475.

Saint Joseph hosts 'Blessing of the Rigs'

Saint Joseph Berea on Thursday held a "Blessing of the Rigs" event last Thursday to honor and bless first responders in the Berea area, and recognize their dedication to the local community each day.

The event was one of several across CHI Saint Joseph Health, which invited first responders to attend the event during which they each received a nondenominational blessing for themselves and the rigs they use to transport patients.

Along with Saint Joseph Berea, CHI Saint Joseph Health also held this event Saint Joseph East, Saint Joseph Hospital, Saint Joseph Jessamine, Saint Joseph London, Saint Joseph Mount Sterling, and Flaget Memorial Hospital.

This is the second year CHI Saint Joseph Health has held this event at its facilities across the state, as they help celebrate humankindness in communities. Humankindness is embedded in the call to serve at CHI Saint Joseph Health.

"Humankindness is not only part of CHI Saint Joseph Health's call to serve our community, but it's also woven into our values of Compassion, Inclusion, Integrity, Excellence and Collaboration," said John Yanes, president, Saint Joseph Berea.

"We are committed to demonstrating kindness in serving our communities, and we know that first responders have the same dedication and values.

"We are proud to help show our support for these heroes and recognize their service."

Vacation full of ups and downs

I love vacations, but this one was a little unusual and out of the ordinary.

The ocean was as breathtaking as ever and the view from the ninth floor was perfect. I admired God's creation as the main attraction in Myrtle Beach. I hadn't been there on a vacation since 1986, and the five-day gave me an opportunity to spend time with Rhonda, my sister Taunya, my niece Addie and her friend Taylor.

Keith Taylor

Getting to our destination was another story. Our vehicle broke down in Woodruff, South Carolina on our way and we had mechanical issues caused by an oil change business when they re-installed the air filter upside down, which caused debris to be sucked into the mass airflow sensor. Not a cheap fix, which resulted in frustration, and inconvenience for us in Spartanburg, South Carolina.

While trying to get our vehicle to a safe place, it stalled on us in the middle of a four-lane highway and thankfully, two working-class young men helped Rhonda get it off the road and into a parking center parking lot.

As we were trying to figure out our unexpected plans for the first day of vacation, Melinda Foster, owner of the Avon Shop in that tiny shopping center, which also had a Chiropractor's office, came to our rescue. She invited us into the shop to cool off, get our thoughts together and gave us soft drinks and ice cream to help relax and calm us during a time of distress.

A stranger instantly became a life-long friend to all of us. God sent us help and comfort in a time when we needed it the most.

We were strangers but felt like family by the time we left her store.

We finally got the Rogue towed away to Benson Nissan in Spartanburg. Much like Melinda, Torrey Johnson and his staff went out of their way to diagnose and repair the problem.

Luckily, the part we needed was the last one they had in their inventory. After five hours of sitting in an Avon Shop, debating our plans and making a 45-minute ride in a tow truck to Spartanburg, we were on our way to the beach.

We made it there after dark, and got into Captain's Quarters after 10 p.m. Stressed, but blessed, we checked in, got our bearings together and prepared for the rest of our beach getaway.

Once the initial issues were behind us, we enjoyed our strolls on the beach, waking up to the waves splashing and the sunshine as the backdrop.

One evening we enjoyed a calabash dinner at the "Original" Captain Bennett's Seafood, which featured 170 items of Seafood and other offerings and trimmings. For those who know me, I love to throw down a big plate, but this restaurant was overwhelming and it will take more than one trip to experience it all.

While on the beach, I got buried in the sand by Addie and Taylor and simply enjoyed the waves and the water for the first time since we visited the Bahamas on a cruise in 2015. And, yes, I did get a tan, but no sunburn.

I did pack my Buc-ees of Richmond shirt and wore it on my beach walk on the last day. The attire led to a conversation with an attorney from Austin, Texas. She had no idea that Buc-ees existed outside of the Lone Star State.

She mentioned that a lot of Texans enjoy "Buc-ee hopping" to various locations to check on various merchandise, since not all of them carry the same items.

By the way, he cooperate office handled our vehicle claim and expenses upon our return home, easing the strain of a financial burden..

The ending of the vacation was much better than the beginning.

Building a technology future like no other

With construction slated for two new technology-focused buildings, Berea College is embarking on a technology future like no other, a future that is inclusive of everyone while attempting to solve humanity's most pressing technological issues. The combination of technology, the liberal arts, and practical hands-on experience for our underserved student population will have implications for Appalachia and beyond as our capable students continue to access technological fields and careers.

On June 10, we broke ground on the first of two new buildings that will better serve students eying careers in the tech-related fields of the future. The first building, which will be home to computer science, digital media and information technology, is planned for completion in the spring of 2024. The second building, with construction to follow in 2025, will house engineering technologies and applied design, including sculpture and ceramics.

Together the two buildings will replace the Danforth Technology Building, which was constructed in 1958 and can no longer meet the needs of a modern technology curriculum. With computer science becoming the most popular major on campus, the need for new facilities was apparent. Both new buildings will be constructed to meet the curricular needs of the present and future, feature transparent classrooms where students can see technology learning on display and spacious labs and studios and maker spaces that stimulate creativity and problem-solving.

Lyle Roelofs

These new buildings will serve our untypical population of students, all of whom come from backgrounds usually underrepresented in technology fields. Nearly all of our students are from low-income families (98% qualify for Pell Grants); nearly 60 percent of them of first-generation college students; 45 percent are of color; and nearly three-quarters of them are from Kentucky and/or Appalachia. We have a great track record of sending our graduates on to careers in technology, despite the lack of diversity typical in that industry.

That's important as we seek to build a technology future that is inclusive of everyone regardless of gender, race, or economic background. The average starting salary is nearly $60,000 in the tech sector, so that these careers are instrumental in advancing the social mobility of the students we serve, who come from households making on average half that amount annually.

Also important is the integration of the liberal arts, learning and labor. Our students do not just learn to be adept coders, their liberal arts education enables them to see the ethical dimensions of the technologies they are advancing. We believe what higher education leader Randy Bass has said about the future of technology and post-secondary education: that as machines get better and better at being machines, the best thing that higher education can do is teach humans to become better at being human. In addition, through Berea's Labor Program, which requires all students to work for the College, most Computer Science majors work in Berea's IT program, which allows them to apply what they learn in the classroom in real-world settings, adding significant practical learning to their academic program.

As always, the Berea College motto—God has made of one blood all peoples of the earth—drives our efforts to build a technological future that includes everyone, that attempts to solve human problems, and presents a new age for Appalachia. These two new buildings represent a faithful investment in our students and in Kentucky and the Appalachian region.

Parmesan Chicken

Ingredients
4 to 6 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon kosher salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
2 extra-large eggs
1 tablespoon water
1 1/4 cups seasoned dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan, plus extra for serving
Unsalted butter
Good olive oil
Salad greens for 6, washed and spun dry
1 recipe Lemon Vinaigrette, recipe follows

Lemon Vinaigrette:
1/4 cup freshly squeezed lemon juice (2 lemons)
1/2 cup good olive oil
1/2 teaspoon kosher salt
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Directions
Pound the chicken breasts until they are 1/4-inch thick. You can use either a meat mallet or a rolling pin.
Combine the flour, salt, and pepper on a dinner plate. On a second plate, beat the eggs with 1 tablespoon of water. On a third plate, combine the bread crumbs and 1/2 cup grated Parmesan. Coat the chicken breasts on both sides with the flour mixture, then dip both sides into the egg mixture and dredge both sides in the bread-crumb mixture, pressing lightly.
Heat 1 tablespoon of butter and 1 tablespoon of olive oil in a large saute pan and cook 2 or 3 chicken breasts on medium-low heat for 2 to 3 minutes on each side, until cooked through. Add more butter and oil and cook the rest of the chicken breasts. Toss the salad greens with Lemon Vinaigrette. Place a mound of salad on each hot chicken breast. Serve with extra grated Parmesan.

Lemon Vinaigrette:
Yield: 6 servings
In a small bowl, whisk together the lemon juice, olive oil, salt, and pepper.

SOUTHERN MADISON WATER DISTRICT
CUSTOMER NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that Southern Madison Water District expects to file an application with the Kentucky Public Service Commission on or about May 25, 2022, seeking approval of a proposed adjustment to its water rates. The proposed rates shall not become effective until the Public Service Commission has issued an order approving these rates.

CURRENT AND PROPOSED RATES
SOUTHERN MADISON WATER DISTRICT

Monthly Rates for Water		Current		Proposed		Difference
First	2,000 Gallons	$ 13.446	Minimum Bill	$ 13.960	Minimum Bill	$ 0.514	3.82%
Next	1,000 Gallons	$ 6.633	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 6.886	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.253	3.81%
Next	3,000 Gallons	$ 6.223	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 6.460	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.237	3.81%
Next	4,000 Gallons	$ 5.763	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 5.983	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.220	3.82%
Next	15,000 Gallons	$ 4.883	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 5.069	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.186	3.81%
Next	25,000 Gallons	$ 4.583	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 4.758	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.175	3.82%
All Over	50,000 Gallons	$ 4.033	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 4.187	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.154	3.82%
Water Loss Surcharge		$ -	Per Bill	$ 1.94	Per Bill	$ 1.94	100.00%
Kentucky River Authority Withdrawal Fee	All Gallons	$ 0.0253	Per Thousand Gallons	$ 0.0253	Per Thousand Gallons	$ -	0.00%

If the Public Service Commission approves the proposed rates, then the monthly bill for a customer using an average of 4,000 gallons per month will increase from $26.30 to $27.31. This is an increase of $1.01 or 3.84%. The District is also applying for a Water Loss Reduction Surcharge of $1.94 per customer per month for 48 months.

The rates contained in this notice are the rates proposed by Southern Madison Water District. However, the Public Service Commission may order rates to be charged that differ from these proposed rates. Such action may result in rates for consumers other than the rates shown in this notice.

Southern Madison Water District has available for inspection at its office the application which it submitted to the Public Service Commission. A person may examine this application at the Association's office located at 207 N Dogwood Drive, Berea, KY, 40403. You may contact the office at 859-986-9031.

A person may also examine the application at the Public Service Commission's offices located at 211 Sower Boulevard, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601, Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., or through the Public Service Commission's website at http://psc.ky.gov. Comments regarding the application may be submitted to the Public Service Commission through its website or by mail to Public Service Commission, PO Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40602. You may contact the Public Service Commission at 502-564-3940.

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9X9 grid, broken down into nine 3X3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Story addresses Lions Club on Diabetes Prevention

The Berea Lions Club was pleased to welcome Margaret Maupin Story, a Certified Madison County Health Department Diabetes Educator, to its biweekly meeting as a guest speaker on May 23, at the Smokehouse Grill.

Margaret is celebrating her 46th year with the department, with the last 12 years working with a diabetes prevention program.

Margaret shared her insights about what diabetes is doing in the Commonwealth. She described how this disease diagnosis rate doubled from 2000 to 2018 in Kentucky adult populations.

In one county of Eastern Kentucky, over 22% of adults have diabetes. Adult diagnosis rates in the Bluegrass region are about 9.7%. Western Kentucky adult diagnosis rates are about 14 to 15%. Medical and healthcare costs for diabetes now stand at about five billion annually.

She talked about screening for type 2 diabetes and the risks for various ethnic populations. Typically, screening criteria include ages starting at 45, with overweight defined as those with a BMI index (a ratio of weight to height) equal to or greater than 25%. In the case of Asian Americans, the rate drops to a BMI of 23%. Populations at higher risk of developing type 2 diabetes are African Americans, Hispanic/Latinos, American Indians, Alaskan Natives, Pacific Islanders, and Asian Americans.

One of the more standard tests used for diabetes screening is the A1C which tests red blood cells for the presence of sugar molecules. The A1C test also gives the medical provider information on how well a patient's diabetes is managed. Since the red blood cell takes 90 days to make a complete journey through the body, it collects a good representative sample of blood components, including glucose molecules. An A1C level of 6.5 indicates diabetes. Patients with this level of A1C are referred to a diabetes self-management and support program (DSMES). Persons with an A1C level of 5.7 to 6.4 are in the pre-diabetes range and at an increased risk of developing diabetes. Programs to lower the risk of developing diabetes, such as the Diabetes Prevention Programs (DPP), help folks reduce their weight by at least 7% and encourage 150 minutes of exercise per week.

Before COVID-19, the DSMES classes at the health department were held in a traditional classroom format, which is the preferred way of teaching. Madison County Health Department offered classes through a virtual option during the pandemic. Currently, classes are once again provided in person.

Margaret next shared information about the local Diabetes Support Group. This very popular group has also recently resumed meeting in person. The support group meets on the first Tuesday of the month at 2:30 pm at the Boggs Lane location of the Madison County Health Department.

The support group discusses the many challenges of living with a diabetes diagnosis. Questions range from the basics of "eating right" to proper foot care to knowing the right questions to ask of a physician or healthcare provider. Participants feel free to ask questions about their individual experiences and share personal success stories.

The diabetes management program "Healthy Living With Diabetes" is a free program accredited by the American Diabetes Program and the Association of Diabetes Care and Education Specialists. This program is available to persons diagnosed with diabetes or those providing care to a person with diabetes.

Elderly couple finds sure-fire way to get kids home for a visit

Roger Alford

An elderly woman called her daughter who lives out-of-state and delivered the news: "I hate to interrupt your day, but I need to tell you that your Dad and I are getting a divorce. After 51 years, I've had all I can take, and I can't take no more."

"But, Mom," the daughter began.

"No 'buts' about it," Mom said. "We're sick of each other, and I'm sick of talking about this, so you call your brother and tell him for me that I'm divorcing his Dad."

The daughter called her brother, who totally freaked out. He in turn called his mother and told her in no uncertain terms: "You are NOT getting a divorce. Do you hear me? Don't do a thing before we get there. We're flying in tomorrow to deal with this."

When the son hung up, the elderly woman turned to her husband and said with a big beaming smile: "OK. They're coming to visit. And they're buying their own tickets."

There's nothing as grand as visits from family. There's anticipation before they arrive, hugs when they show up, and hugs again when they leave.

And, because God created people to be social creatures, we tend to miss our loved ones when they're away, especially our children.

"Lo, children are a heritage of the Lord: and the fruit of the womb is his reward. As arrows are in the hand of a mighty man; so are children of the youth. Happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them" (Psalm 127:3-4).

Then, they grow up, move away, and get very busy living their own lives. In the hustle and bustle of earning livings, taking care of chores and caring for children, it's easy not to carve out time for our own parents.

That's sad, considering we couldn't possibly have gotten along without them when we were young.

Perhaps you've heard the story about the teacher who once showed her second graders a magnet and explained how it worked. In a quiz the next day, she asked this question: "My full name has six letters. The first one is M. I pick up things. What am I?"

When the test papers were turned in, the teacher was astonished to find that almost 50 percent of the students answered the question with the word "Mother."

We grew up with a deep need for our mothers and fathers. Sooner or later, the day will come when they have a deep need for us as well.

When that day arrives, they shouldn't have to contrive a story about a divorce to get us to come for a visit.

LEARNSHOPS

includes full-day and multiple day classes.

Return visitors may notice there are new offerings this year, including Writing Your Family Album with Susan J. Mitchell and new to the summer sessions is Pyrography on Gourds by Paul Buhrmester. Some favorites are coming back, including Make and Take Santa with Lindy Evans, painting with Neil Di Teresa, Amy Lewis, and Pat Banks, creating Shaker-style boxes with Will Bondurant, and others. Mary Ann Woolery Bussey also returns with silk Leaf Dying on Silk Scarves, as does Artisan Village jeweler Becky Brown, who teaches The Basics of Enameling.

"Michelle Weston has not taught with LearnShops in over two years, and we are thrilled to have her return with glassblowing classes," Todd said. "She has a brand-new class for our festival, Glass Cactus Garden. Using hot glass from the furnace, students will form and blow into molds to create two cacti to start their succulent garden. She is also providing mini terra cotta pots. It is extremely relevant right now, since people are really getting into gardening for the first time and creating a green space, so Michelle is offering a plant that that you can keep forever. We also have a new instructor, Tammy Clemons, teaching a Digital Media Literacy course which is so beneficial during a time when technology is constantly changing."

What may come as a surprise to return LearnShops participants is how many dining options with local flavor have sprouted since LearnShops was paused.

"Berea's dining options are more spread out around all four corners of Berea, from Brandi's Bakery & Bistro near Boone Square Mini-Mall, to the Berea College Farm Store, and classic favorites such as Papa Leno's, the Boone Tavern Inn, and Berea Coffee & Tea," Todd said. "But new offerings include Noodle Nirvana and Happy Jack's World Sandwich Bar (both new to College Square), and we now have an upscale eatery, Honeysuckle Dining and Bourbon House (tucked near Berea Country Club)."

Other exciting new additions include homegrown eateries like The Native Bagel and Nightjar burger and cocktail bar on Chestnut Street, as well as Peg & Awl Public House.

Old Town also provides more dining choices. "Another awesome new feature is picnic areas and seating in the Artisan Village of Old Town. We have nice picnic tables with benches, complimented by the local flair of Apollo Pizza or Becky's Breads Berea Bakery, where guests can grab a sandwich to go and head outdoors to picnic with friends and family," said Todd. "The Village Life in Old Town also offers patio seating with drinks and live music many nights of the week after classes conclude."

The schedule allows LearnShops participants meet up either at mid-day or when courses are done, whereupon friends and family can enjoy a little "show and tell" about their rich new experiences. "With this convenient schedule, one family member could take one class and one could take another and they could meet during their 1.5-hour lunch break (12:30 – 2 p.m.) to visit and share stories of their day, then most classes wrap up by 5 p.m., just in time for supper."

For more about this year's summer LearnShops see www.visitberea.com, or contact the Berea Welcome Center at (859)986-2540 or stop by for suggestions. They are open 7 days a week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Berea continues upgrading its network of shared use paths for hikers and cyclists, there's a new dog park, and the Silver Creek Bike Park has opened for mountain bike enthusiasts. In a triumphant, post-pandemic return, LearnShops will kick-off festivities at one of Berea's newest venues, the Chestnut Street Pavilion.

"We'll be having our 10th Anniversary Kick Off Celebration on July 15 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. with music by Donna and Lewis Lamb, food trucks, special guest speakers, all hosted at the new Chestnut Street Pavilion. Bring your chair and your love of art and come celebrate with us!"

Christian Academy to open this fall

By Mary Margaret Cheeks
Citizen Staff Writer

This fall, Berea and Madison County will have a new elementary option when it comes to Christian education.

Kingdom Christian Academy will open its doors to families, offering grades Pre-K through 4th grade. Pre-K will serve potty-trained 3-to-4-year olds.

"We always knew that our community needed a Christian school that was able to provide both a quality education and more importantly, a Christ-centered view of the world." said Melissa Stacy, founder and co-owner of Kingdom Christian Academy.

Stacy, who began with a vision, was supported by an obvious need in Madison County.

"As we spoke with people in the community, we knew that the need for this school was something that many desired, so we partnered with Great Commission Church, prayed, and took off with the idea for this school!" said Stacy.

The mission for the school is simple.

"Our mission at Kingdom Christian Academy is to serve children and families by providing a safe and nurturing Christian learning environment for all." said Stacy.

Kingdom Christian Academy will be utilizing Abeka Curriculum accompanied by play-based learning for younger students, and an opportunity for real-world experiences for older students.

"Abeka is an established program that inspires learning and teaches biblical value within our Christian school. The program teaches using a spiral teaching method which instills the foundational skills many students are lacking." said Stacy. "Abeka focuses on mastery, not memorization, and forms a bridge to new topics promoting critical thinking skills."

Stacy also assures lots of fieldtrips will be planned to assist in student engagement and continuous learning.

"We like to think that we have taken the best parts of education, the education that many of us remember growing up, and made that into our curriculum." said Stacy.

With the pandemic hopefully at our heels, Kingdom Christian Academy wants to offer what is wanted and needed not only by students but also parents.

"I think that many of us can agree that there is a need for education reform in this country." said Stacy. "We are making steps for that change with Kingdom Christian Academy. Parents are yearning for their students to be in-person, to have smaller class sizes, to be a part of the academic community all while learning and being surrounded in Christ's love. And that is what they will receive at our school."

Kingdom Christian Academy is to set sail this fall with both co-owners Melissa Stacy and Jami Thomas steering the ship. Stacy has many years of experience in education and directing a private school program. Thomas has served as a teacher for numerous years and has also worked in several leadership positions.

"We are excited to be a part of something that is our own and to make it great!" said Stacy.

The staff is built of passionate, experienced educators; Linda Parker, Jennifer Christman, Jen Gullett, Holly Combs, Lynel McKeel, Christina Parke, Melissa Stacy, and Jami Thomas.

"We will be having a 'back to school' night in August where parents and students will meet teachers and tour classrooms. Everyone will be notified via email and on Facebook of this date." said Stacy.

If citizens are interested in learning more about Kingdom Chrisitan Academy and enrollment, they can visit their Facebook page: Kingdom Christian Academy.

Citizens can also locate a link on the Facebook page for registration. For any other questions, or interest, citizens may also email at kingdomchristianacademy226@gmail.com.

QUICK FIX

Operator of J&M Quick Fix. "We provide yearly maintenance, repair issues when it comes to the particular piece of equipment not starting or other problems and sharpen blades for mowers or chainsaw chains."

J&M Quick Fix want to be the solution the community needs in quality lawn-care equipment repair.

"The business began because we both saw every shop in the area being anywhere from 6 to 8 weeks behind." said Josh. "Also, we both had heard lots of complaints about poor customer service and people having to bring their equipment back to certain businesses numerous times.

"We thought it was time to start a lawn equipment repair service that was transparent, precise, good with communication, and offered our services at a fair rate."

J&M Quick Fix's mechanic Mark Cheeks is knowledgeable and reputable with decades of experience in small engine repair.

"Mark is the lead mechanic and has 30-plus years of mechanical experience on everything with an engine." said Josh. "He worked 20 years at Ace Hardware as the foreman over their mechanical shop and now is the foreman over the garage at EKU. He prides himself on precision when it comes to fixing anything."

Josh and Mark take pride in the quality they can provide. While Mark handles the mechanics, Josh partners in administrative duties.

"J&M personally the front office, marketing, and anything else where J&M needed a guy. I have 10-plus years in customer service and retail at various places." said Josh.

If citizens would like to learn more about the services J & M Quick Fix can provide, they can visit and communicate via message on their Facebook page: J&M Quick Fix. Citizens can also find their business information on Google or can schedule appointments and ask questions by calling (859) 314-8621.

"Our hours to make an appointment for drop-off or pickup is; Monday-Thursday 5:30-8:30 p.m., Saturday and Sunday 9 a.m.- 6 p.m.." said Josh. "We offer pick and up delivery anywhere in Madison County for $40 (outside the area is negotiable). We do not operate as a storefront, so all drop offs need to be set up via phone or Facebook messenger. Our labor rate is tied with the lowest in the county."

BRIDGE

traffic risk, but Fraley said those problems will likely be resolved with these new projects. Last week, the Berea Industrial Development Authority unanimously voted to grant right of way to the state to allow for the construction of the new road through the industrial park.

"It looks like there are two different solutions to a problem that has been going on now for over a year in the Farristown community," said Fraley, who has been lobbying state officials on the issue for several months.

"That's good news for Farristown," said Council member Jim Davis. "I never thought they would do a bridge, but I'm tickled to death they are."

The Berea City Council heard the final reading of the Fiscal Year 2022-2023 budget Tuesday and adopted the spending plan unanimously. Steve Caudill, Teresa Scenters, Ronnie Terrill, Jim Davis, Katie Startzman and John Payne voted for the budget. Jerry Little and Cora Jane Wilson were not present at the meeting.

General fund revenues are estimated to be $17.7 million, with expenditures projected to be $23.3 million. Officials are estimating an ending fund balance for the year of $16.6 million.

Katie Startzman asked for more detail on plans for the $4 million in American Rescue Plan Act funds (ARPA). Mayor Fraley explained the city is tentatively earmarking the money for various projects, including $1 million to extend Kenway Street to Phase II of the Berea Bypass, thus giving the Dixie Park/Roselawn neighborhood another point of entry and exit, $190,000 for heavy equipment, $1 million for sidewalks and shared use paths, $330,000 for automobiles, and $1 million for park improvements.

Additionally, Fraley said some of that money may be used for street improvement, since gasoline tax revenues are dwindling, but the cost of asphalt is increasing with the cost of gasoline.

"This particular plan calls for investing in our street infrastructure to catch us up the best we can. That would be one priority for these funds," Fraley said.

In other business, the council unanimously adopted a resolution regarding health insurance, since the city is changing carriers.

"We think this will give us a little less volatility in the market," said City Administrator Rose Beverly, who explained the city was facing a 17 percent increase in health insurance costs if the city remained with its current carrier.

Under the new plan, city costs for health insurance may go up approximately 10 percent, and the city has a chance to realize more savings if the city has a low experience rate on health care costs in the coming year.

During council comments, Fraley addressed a concern from Mark Workman about the future of the Berea Crafts Fair.

The mayor said the city plans on continuing the fair under the supervision of the tourism department.

"The craft festival is alive and well and we plan to continue," Fraley said.

Fraley also revealed progress on a spec building on Farristown Industrial Road, noting that MP Kelly has poured the concrete of the first building, which could potentially house a new employer.

In related news, Beverly reported AppHarvest will receive their certificate of occupancy so they'll be able to start growing lettuce and begin operating in the east green house.

On Tuesday, the council also voted unanimously to accept new sewer infrastructure into Berea Municipal Utilities, including one manhole and 64 feet of eight-inch sewer line near Brooklyn Boulevard. The measure is subject to the final approval of city corporate council.

Berea Police Department Chief Eric Scott gave a departmental report to the council, at one point noting that the police department's electric vehicles have saved approximately $15,000 in fuel costs in the two years the city has had them. Scott thanked the council for the decision to buy the vehicles. "It's not always easy to be first, but I can promise you it has worked in our favor," Scott said.

The next Berea City Council meeting is scheduled for July 5.

Prisoners escape by wholesale

Thirteen prisoners sawed through two steel doors of the jail at Pineville, on Sunday and marched out past the sleeping jailer. Eleven other prisoners refused to leave. A search was started at once and several of the escaped prisoners were recaptured. Among those escaping was Jim Harrell, sentenced to life imprisonment the previous Thursday. Jailer James Howard offered a reward of $100.00 for his recapture and $25.00 for each of the other prisoners.

Hart Brothers expand business

The grocery, feed, hardware and seed store owned by Charlie and Dempsey Hart had been moved three doors east of its former location on Chestnut Street. The new location was purchased from Mrs. R. R. Coyle and is being remodeled along with more modern lines. Hardwood floors had already been installed and an expansion of forty feet had been added to the rear. Additions had been made in the form of a basement and the addition of a second story. Plans were being made for the installation of an oil heating system. The remodeling was still in the process of completion, particularly in the front of the store where new plate glass and show cases were yet to be installed. The old storage room for feeds was being retained at the same place. The building formerly housing Hart Store was owned and rented out by John dean. It had been sold to Raymond and Brady Baker who would open a Firestone store there. Although improvements were ongoing at the new store, Hart Brothers had been in operation since the previous week. The installation of equipment for self-service was planned as a future improvement.

'Wilderness Road' preview open to public

The preview performances of "Wilderness Road," were open to the public. Managing Producer, George Mallonee announced that the June 27 and June 28, 1972, previews would begin at 8:30 p.m. at Indian Fort Theater. There were no reserved seats, and no reservations were necessary. Mallonee had also announced that the "Wilderness Road" office is inviting employees fo tourist service businesses to attend one of the previews so that they would be acquainted with the production and thus prepared themselves for questions anticipated from travelers who would visit Berea over the summer. The "Wilderness Road Cast would be singing some of the hymns from the show during the upcoming vesper service to be held on the steps of Hutchins Library. Reverend Will Frenzle would be speaking and Reverend Henry parker, who was also an acoro in the production, would be leading the service.

Mullins named manager

Teresa Mullins was officially named as general manager of the Berea Citizen this week. Mullins, who had been serving as interim manager since last November, was formerly the newspaper's advertising manager. She has served in nearly every staff position with the paper during the past several years. As interim manager, Mullins launched full color editions and increased local news and photo coverage. "I wanted the people of our community to be proud of their paper and feel it was here to serve them," Mullins said. "That was, and still is my goal. Glenn M. Gray, vice president of operation with The Berea Citizen, said Mullins also increased community-wide growth of the paper. "In this short time, she has revamped the newspaper, and increased readership and circulation," Gray said. "She has been more successful than any other manager in recent history in Madison County. Management and staff are both proud of Teresa and her contributions to this newspaper and community."

Lasting legacy

In the media circle, we can be so busy chasing stories, separating fact from fiction, that our surroundings are nothing more than a continuous and never-ending cycle.

Social media has made it even more difficult to communicate and even build relationships within our media circles. The health pandemic separated us even more and zoom press conferences just aren't the same as face-to-face contact.

Keith Taylor

Although I'm appreciative of technology that allowed us to do our job during the past two-plus years, there's just something about conducting an interview in real-time and in person. You develop a feel for the story, the subject and proceed with words to create a visual picture for the reader.

There also something about developing and forming friendships with your peers and Mike Pratt never ever failed to speak to me when we crossed paths in the media room at Rupp Arena or on a road trip during the past two decades he served as a color analyst for the University of Kentucky Radio Network.

The first time I met Mike was at the Winchester Country Club back in the early 2000s. He was guest speaker for the local UK alumni chapter, and I remember he was very gracious and shared stories of his experiences as a player for the Wildcats and later as a broadcaster on the radio network.

From that point on, we forged a professional friendship, and he was always so kind to me and helpful. He would always ask how I was doing and shared his thoughts on the Wildcats. Like many of you, I was saddened to hear of Mike's passing last week. I was on vacation in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Recently, I purchased a book at a yard sale, entitled, "Kentucky Basketball's Big Blue Machine" written by late Kentucky Sports Information Director Russell Rice in 1976. In a chapter, devoted to "Echoes from the 1960s" Pratt recalled playing for late Hall of Fame coach Adolph Rupp and the Wildcats.

"On a fast break early in my sophomore year, I laid the ball in the hoop and then twisted to avoid running into Jim LeMaster under the hoop. I failed, and tumbled head over heels into coach Rupp's feet on the bench. Before I could quit rolling, coach was up on his feet, yelling, 'Get up, Pratt … your man is already down the court.' We were up at least 20 at the time.

"Another time, we were playing Vandy and I had hit almost two (shots) in a row and with a third straight one, they called timeout. In the huddle, coach Rupp said, 'not bad shooting, son - although Chip (Rupp, his young son) probably could have done that too.' He turned slightly then looked back at me and smiled that grin and winked."

Pratt then shared another story he always remembered.

"I'll ever forget the day in Columbus (Ohio) after we were beaten by Jacksonville. I was on the bench alone, sweaty and crying. I looked up and there was coach sitting next to me shaking his head, but no words could come out — just the two of us without words."

Pratt left many of us speechless when he left us last week and sometimes there are no words. That's when memories take hold and remain forever

His smile and friendship will never be forgotten.

Clergy react to Supreme Court decision

By Keith Taylor
Citizen Publisher

When Roe v. Wade was overturned by the United States Supreme Court, the ruling was applauded and criticized, creating divided opinions on abortion, which had been legal since 1973.

The 6-3 ruling — Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization — last Friday returned power to the states to determine abortion rights. Kentucky has a trigger law that was passed in 2019 that outlaws abortion and took effect immediately following the ruling.

Kevin Slemp, pastor of Berea Baptist Church, praised the ruling and said "for many years it looked so unlikely that this day would ever come."

" In 1973, the Supreme Court invented a constitutional right to abortion although no such right was given in the Constitution itself," he said. "Thankfully, their misapplication of the Constitution has been corrected and the issue has been sent back to the states. But, this does not mean that the pro-life cause has won. The case for the intrinsic worth of all human beings will now need to be made state by state."

Union Church pastor Kent Gilbert believes that "God intends for us to have life and have it abundantly."

Fourth full of events

By Mary Margaret Cheeks
Citizen Staff Writer

The city of Berea will host their Annual 4th of July Spectacular event for the community on Monday, July 4, at Berea City Park.

"The activities will begin at six o'clock." said Cilla Bloom, Director of Parks & Recreation. "We will have games, sack races, water balloon toss. We will have face painting. We will have a professional photo booth, inflatables, and an obstacle course."

The Citizen office will be closed on Monday, July 4 and will reopen on Tuesday, July 5.

Along with the activities and games planned, citizens can expect a variety of good food.

"We will have six food vendors." said Bloom.

Around 8 p.m., the band Rock of Ages plan to perform.

"It's a group of all Kentucky boys." said Bloom. "They are an 80's rock tribute band. They are a really talented group, and all of this will be taking

Broadband services expanding in county

By Mary Margaret Cheeks
Citizen Staff Writer

The Madison County Fiscal Court discussed an update of broadband internet services becoming available to citizens within the county during its bi-monthly meeting Tuesday in Richmond.

"You saw the RDOF groundbreaking of 1,100 homes." said, Chief Information Officer of Madison County Information Technology. "That was Spectrum. That was Federal dollars that were brought in. They're doing that. I have to say that Spectrum Charter has been a great partner so far

Bank robbery suspect arrested

On April 29, 2022, at approximately 10:53 a.m., Richmond Police responded to Whitaker Bank on Brandy Lane in reference to a bank robbery that had occurred.

The suspect entered the bank demanding money and then fled the scene with an undisclosed amount of cash. During our response and preliminary investigation, officers obtained images of the suspect and his vehicle.

Following an in-depth investigation, the Richmond Police Department partnered with multiple law enforcement agencies and identified the suspect as Jeffery Pratt (44) of Cynthia.

On June 24, Richmond Police charged Mr. Pratt with Robbery 2nd degree in connection with this incident. Mr. Pratt is currently being held in the Bourbon County Detention Center. The arrest comes through the partnerships and coordination of the Harrison County Sheriff's Office, Kentucky State Police DESI East, Kentucky State Police Post 6, Bluegrass Narcotics Task Force, Cynthiana Police Department, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Overcoming obstacles since birth

Keith Taylor

Many of you know my story. Perhaps some of you, don't. Just in case, let me share the beginning of my life as it was told by those who were witnesses to my birth.

When I was born, I was two months premature and a small, small baby. After birth, I dropped under two pounds and was stayed in the hospital for two months. I didn't come home until around my original due date in late June.

My parents could have easily thrown in the towel on me and given up in those last weeks before mom went into labor with her first child. They could have pushed the abort button and I would have never known what it was like to live on this earth. They would have spent their lifetime, perhaps wondering what their baby boy born premature would have accomplished in life. They would have never known.

The first few weeks after birth, a nurse, Ella Barger, fed me with an eye dropper. She used old-fashioned tender loving care to make sure I made it through those first couple of months breathing the breath of life. It wasn't an easy ordeal for my parents, who faced many uncertain days wondering if I was going to live or die.

They could have given up. The doctors and nurses could have just said it wasn't worth the time and effort to save a tiny baby at Pattie A. Clay Hospital in Richmond and move on to the next birth. I had no control over the decisions that were being made at the time. My life was in their hands and the hand of almighty God, who ultimately made the decision whether or not to keep me here in this planet.

My parents are believers and that's where they started when it came to a life or death situation that flashed right before their eyes. I can't imagine what they were feeling or the agony they were facing at the time. Those moments, I'm sure were gut-wrenching and painful.

One day, my dad simply told God while he was praying he had the final say on things and placed me in his hands. That's when things changed, and for the good. It was then God began working a miracle in my life.

One day, my dad and his friend Burl Sweat visited the hospital and they saw me kicking off the blankets and moving around. It was then Dad told me he knew that I was going to make it. That fighting spirit was there and instilled at birth.

It's still there.

I had to learn to cry again. I had to deal with some hearing and speech issues while growing up and truthfully, being made fun of by classmates thinking that I had an accent and "talked funny" was hard at times for me.

I overcame those obstacles and became the man that I am today. I'm thankful my parents didn't give up on me and choose the alternative. They chose life and I'm glad they did.

History

Fourth of July

Few summertime holidays elicit as much excitement as the Fourth of July, also known as Independence Day in the United States. Each year, family, friends and revelers anticipate the arrival of the holiday so they can host barbecues, enjoy the sun, listen to their favorite summertime tunes, and commemorate the freedoms afforded by the monumental events that led to the holiday's establishment.

Independence Day became a federal holiday in 1941, but July 4th has stood as the birth of American independence for much longer. July 4th marks a pivotal moment in the American Revolution. According to PBS, the colonies were forced to pay taxes to England's King George III despite having no representation in the British Parliament. "Taxation without representation" became a battle cry and was one of several grievances colonists had with Great Britain.

Conflict between the colonies had been going on for at least a year before the colonies convened a Continental Congress in Philadelphia in June of 1776, says Military.com. On July 2, 1776, the Continental Congress voted in favor of independence from England. Two days later, on July 4, 1776, delegates from the 13 colonies adopted the Declaration of Independence.

The Declaration of Independence is an historic document drafted by Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson was considered the strongest and most eloquent writer of the declaration writing committee charged with putting the colonies' sentiments into words. Richard Henry Lee of Virginia was one of the first people to present a resolution for American independence, and his commentary was the impetus for the formal Declaration of Independence. A total of 86 changes were made to Jefferson's original draft until the final version was adopted. The signing of the document helped to solidify independence, and eventually lead to the formation of the United States of America.

A total of 56 delegates signed the document. Although John Hancock's signature is the largest, it did not hold more weight than the other signatures. Rather, rumor has it, Hancock signed it so large so that the "fat, old King could read it without his spectacles." However, the National Archives says it was also customary that, since Hancock was the president of the Continental Congress, he be the first person to sign the document centered below the text.

The Pennsylvania Evening Post was the first newspaper to print the Declaration of Independence on July 6, 1776. The first public readings of the Declaration were held in Philadelphia's Independence Square on July 8, 1776.

Together, we can figure it out

Glenn Mollette

America has always been a land of hard work and struggles but always with the hope and dream of success and prosperity.

On the Fourth of July we celebrate our Declaration of Independence which was ratified by the Second Continental Congress on July 4, 1776.

The Second Continental Congress declared that the thirteen colonies were no longer subject and subordinate to the monarch of England King George the III and were now united, free, and independent states. The Congress voted to approve our independence on July 2 and adopted the Declaration of Independence two days later,

Benjamin Franklin is reported to have said, "Aye, I know there shall be no nation on earth that works harder than the great and powerful United States, and so I dare say that the celebration of July 4th should be a day on which none shall work and instead all will refrain from exerting themselves in any way."

Historians have said that when John Hancock signed the Declaration of Independence, he did so in a bold hand, in a conspicuous manner, and rose from his seat, pointing to it, and said, "There, John Bull can read my name without spectacles, he may double his reward and I put this at defiance."

"Independence Day: freedom has its life in the hearts, the actions, the spirit of men and so it must be daily earned and refreshed – else like a flower cut from its life-giving roots, it will wither and die." – Dwight D. Eisenhower

Our freedom was won by the sheer will power of an early generation who determined to do whatever was necessary for our freedom. We had to fight. Our earliest generation determined whatever it took was worth it to separate from the authoritarian rule of England.

Freedom is never easy. Most Americans at that time had sacrificed everything to pursue freedom of worship, to develop our ideas, businesses and personal interests.

It took years for Americans to begin to experience some prosperity and most never did. Our earliest generation sacrificed, worked and battled diseases with little to no medical care. They had no financial or social security. There were no government handouts, bail outs or insurance companies covering their losses. Early Americans were on their own and helped each other as best as they could.

More than ever before we must make whatever is necessary to run this country from chips to run our cars and technology to growing our food and producing sufficient energy. Depending on foreign nations for anything is a poor plan for maintaining our freedom. We become dependent instead of independent.

This is why we must have a mix of energy. Relying only on one source is not a plan for independence. Trade with other countries is good for America because we want other nations to buy our products. Many businesses in America would die if they could not export to other countries. The main idea is that we produce enough to have enough as we need it in America.

I love America. We have a great a history. We have some problems, but who doesn't? Together we can figure it out.

Cameron cracking down on price gouging

FRANKFORT (KT) – Attorney General Daniel Cameron is encouraging the reporting of suspected price-gouging to his office after Gov. Andy Beshear issued a state of emergency Thursday on gas prices in the state, which is needed to activate Kentucky's price-gouging law.

According to the statute, no person shall sell or rent an item for a price "which is grossly in excess of the price prior to the declaration."

It sets a threshold for gasoline at the price the day before the price gouging order was issued., and further states that a price is not a violation if it is 10% or less above the price prior to the declaration, or 10% or less above the sum of the costs and normal markup for a good or service.

Cameron's office says as an example, AAA reported that an average price for a gallon of regular gasoline on June 22, 2022, was approximately $4.717. For price gouging to occur under the statute, regular gasoline would have to be sold at approximately $5.188 or higher. Other factors, including cost to the business, increased transportation costs, etc., are also considered when evaluating suspected price gouging.

"My office has been monitoring gas prices across the Commonwealth for months and has already issued civil investigative demands and subpoenas to businesses suspected of charging unconscionable prices for gasoline," Cameron said.

"We will continue to do our job and protect Kentuckians from unlawful prices."

Suspected price gouging of gasoline can be reported to the Attorney General's Office by calling 502-696-5485 or by visiting ag.ky.gov/price gouging.

Cameron's office says when filing a price gouging complaint, Kentuckians are encouraged to report as many details as possible about the suspected price gouging, including the name and address of the seller/retailer, the item purchased, the price of the item after the emergency declaration, and the price of the item before the emergency declaration, if known. If a refund is sought, consumers should also keep receipts from the transaction to show proof of purchase.

1 pound bacon strips, cooked and crumbled
1 cup chopped pecans, toasted
1 cup dried blueberries
1 cup dried cherries
1/4 cup finely chopped red onion

Dressing:
1 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup cider vinegar

Directions

In a large bowl, combine first 6 ingredients. In a small bowl, whisk together mayonnaise, sugar and vinegar. Pour over broccoli mixture and toss to coat.

Here's How It Works
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9X9 grid, broken down into nine 3X3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Attendance in the summer school in 1922 showed an increase over that of 1921. Teachers are beginning to take advantage of the opportunities offered at Berea College, and the students of regular courses were pushing forward in an endeavor to shorten the time necessary to finish the work for their diplomas or degrees. The first and second grades of the Training School were under the direction of Miss Harrison who is able to do unusually good pieces of work for the children who were fortunate to be in her care. The little tots who found it hard to get a start in school and those where were planning to enter school in the fall would receive individual care during the summer and were there by able to get into position to do a very strong year of work. It was a pleasure to see the children work under such favorable conditions.

June 27, 1946

In a lay-off affecting 529 workers, the Blue Grass Ordinance Depot terminated the employment of approximately forty percent of both office and operative employees, effective July 24, 1946. This layoff was the latest in a series since the close of the war and is the result of greatly decreased production requiring a smaller working staff. The Ordinance, which was established during the war for storage and renovation of ammunition, is located on Dixie Highway 25 between Berea and Richmond. The layoff includes many workers who had been there since the opening of the depot, plus more recently hired employees. There was no discrimination between operatives and the office workers, but a preference was made in the case of veterans of this war who were employed there. The government sale of surplus war materials which was to be held in the near future was expected to re-adsorb some of those who were laid off. But as there were only to be about forty new positions open, there was a large number without jobs from this source. Alex Smith, Assistant Field Director of the War assets Administration held interviews and made employment for the new positions open in the surplus sales at his office. A preference was given to those workers who were affected by the Blue Grass layoff.

Average cost per day at Berea Hospital far below statewide level

Although Berea Hospital had shown a substantial increase in activity during the previous year, the average cost per day for patients remained far below the state average. In a report submitted by Dean Pierce, the hospital administrator, for the previous 11 months of the 1971 – 1972 fiscal year, the average cost had been $53.82. This figure compared with exceptional favor with the average hospital cost per day in Kentucky for 1971 at $74.54 according to statistics supplied by Blue Cross. Meanwhile the hospital had greatly increased its services. For the corresponding 11-month period for the previous year. There were 15,238 patient days. This year to publication date there had been 17,573. These figures were for the hospital alone. The use of the Extended Care Facility was another category. The hospital had 3,135 admissions at one-point for the previous year and 3,789 for 1972. The increased traffic was reflected in other figures as well. Babies born in 1971 numbered 226, while 1972 births as of press time were 333. Operations in 1971 totaled 269, while in 1972 they were at 407. The Extended Care Facility was in operation for only seven months in 1971, so no comparative statistics were available.

July 3, 1997

The debut of The Citizen as it was known then, was on June 21, 1899. The paper's "format" was very different in those early days, resembling the format of today's Wall Street Journal. Approximately one-third of the front page of the first issue of The Citizen was filled with advertisements. Local news, obituaries, business and sports ran side by side in the remaining four columns of the front page. T. G. Pasco was listed as editor and manager. Pasco reportedly was "well educated, ambitious and energetic," with "considerable newspaper experience." The newspaper's "platform" was, in part, to bring the best reading to every fireside. Reading is a great thing, but it makes a big difference what you read. The Citizen brings, first of all, the news –not every tale of crime and horror, but the important news – the news from Washington and the State Capital, from our soldiers in far off islands, from our neighbors everywhere." The newspaper also proposed "to get the best ideas that could be found on all such practical and important matters and pass them around among our readers." Furthermore, "The Citizen is pledged to no party. It is every man's friend. It stands for the things which benefit all – temperance, thrift, kindness, enterprise, and education." Many of those goals are still the goal of this newspaper. Although, generally speaking, we no longer cover the news in "Washington and State Capital," because there are so many other sources of that news available tour readers, we do strive to cover the local news which we feel is important to our readers. The column, called "Looking Back…," (now called Reflections) presented, and continues to present excerpts of articles from the date in 1899 which roughly corresponds to the current date.

Not much can scare a well-armed country boy

Roger Alford

The story is told about the police officer who pulled over a country boy as he travelled through the big city.

As the county boy got his driver's license from his wallet, the patrolman noticed his concealed carry permit.

"Do you have a gun with you?" the patrolman asked.

"Yep," the country boy said. "I have a .45 right here on my side."

"Do you have any other guns with you?" the patrolman asked.

"Yep. I have my 12-gauge Remington 1100 under the backseat," he said.

The big city officer, thinking surely that was all, asked if he had any others?

"Why, yes," the country boy said. "I have a .357 in my console. And a .44 magnum in my glove box."

The patrolman, unable to understand why anyone would feel the need to be so well armed, looked that country boy in the eye and asked: "Mister, you have so many guns. What are you afraid of?"

To which the country boy boldly replied: "Not a thing, sir. Not one thing."

The Bible makes clear that folks can have far more confidence than that country boy when they put their trust in the Lord. David, the great warrior of the Old Testament, understood that. When still a boy, David boldly faced Goliath, the giant of the Philistine army, and defeated him. Later in life, while in grave danger from an overthrow attempt, David wrote:

"Lord, how are they increased that trouble me! Many are they that rise up against me. Many there be which say of my soul, There is no help for him in God. But thou, O Lord, art a shield for me; my glory, and the lifter up of mine head. I cried unto the Lord with my voice, and he heard me out of his holly hill. I laid me down and slept; I awaked; for the Lord sustained me. I will not be afraid of ten thousands of people, that have set themselves against me round about. Arise, O Lord; save me, O my God: for thou hast smitten all mine enemies upon the cheek bone; thou has broken the teeth of the ungodly. Salvation belongeth until the Lord: Thy blessing is upon thy people" (Psalm 3:1-8)

In Old Testament times, an army was typically measured by its horses and chariots. David, however, understood that it was far more important to have the Lord's favour than to have a huge arsenal.

"Some trust in chariots and some in horses, but we will trust in the name of the Lord our God" (Psalm 20:7).

If we trust in the Lord the way David did, a patrolman could ask us what we're afraid of, and we could honestly reply: "Not a thing, sir. Not one thing."

"That means entering into the complexity of who and what should guide decisions about abortion," he said. "Having a life of quality and safety, having a life of care and a caring community, having the right to exercise the heart and faith in each individual is just as sacred as is the collection of cells that grow into living children. In my own religious tradition, and at my own church, there is great diversity of thought about exactly when individual cells become a human being, capable of receiving a soul and exercising a life. I know many people of faith are similarly unsure."

Gilbert citied Exodus 21:22-25 and is "swayed by the biblical account that suggests unless and until a child can survive outside the womb, it is not yet fully a body or a person."

"In this example from the Bible, a woman's life is distinct and valued differently than an unborn fetus," he said.

In his view, Slemp added that teaching the biblical principle that " that all people are created by God in the image of God and are loved by God" and that includes the unborn.

"The most basic argument against abortion is not difficult to understand or communicate: It is wrong to kill an innocent person," he said. "Abortion kills an innocent person. Therefore, abortion is wrong. May God grant that these simple truths find their way not merely into our legal codes, but into our hearts."

Gilbert's biggest issue with the "trigger law" is the language within the legislation.

"Whether one is opposed to abortion rights or not, I am gravely concerned that the 2019 "trigger law" now in effect was poorly crafted and will cause unintended harm," he said. "There are further measures that were passed this year (now stayed in court proceedings) that would add even more barriers to sensible care even for those experiencing a spontaneous abortion (also called a miscarriage). In my opinion it is immoral to deny care to or frighten doctors away from medical treatment that could seriously injurious but not "threaten a life sustaining organ."

"What is the morality of making a 14 year old carry and bear the child of her rapist? Or in the case of a severe deformity that develops in the fetus, how can it be moral to force a couple into the prolonged agony of carrying that fetus until it is developed enough to suffer and feel the suffering of its inevitable death? Neither parents or potential child are served by this and the law makes no exception for these cases."

Gilbert added that is "very much in support of women and their families who decided to bear children in any circumstance and hope that we might support them with everything they need."

Slemp added that supporting pregnancy centers and educating today's youth is a priority.

"We need to support our pregnancy help centers all the more, and do all that we can to help women receive the support they need to care for their newborn children," he said. "We need to educate our youth and adults on the purpose and commitment of marriage and the awesome responsibility of parenting to hopefully reduce the number of unintended and unwanted pregnancies."

Marshall's Therapy expands to county

By Mary Margaret Cheeks
Citizen Staff Writer

In January, a new pediatric therapy clinic opened its doors in Madison County.

Marshall Pediatric Therapy Clinic is new to Richmond, but not new to central Kentucky with clinics also in Georgetown, Lexington, and Nicholasville.

Courtney Desrochers, Marketing Coordinator for Marshall Pediatric Therapy defines that the Richmond location is something special.

"We are in partnership with EKU. We are an official clinical learning site. Meaning that students and faculty can come here and observe therapy taking place in real time." said Desrochers.

"They can see the clinicians actively working with a child hands-on. We offer a student space here with TV that kind of homes in on cameras of different sessions. It's real world happening versus only textbooks or just watching a video, it is seeing it live. This is the first clinic that we have done that with in terms of university partnership."

With major colleges and universities surrounding all of Marshall Pediatric Clinic's, the hope is to build these connections at each location. Desrochers explained that the EKU partnership has more of a homecoming feel for the company.

"Our founder and executive director (Pam Marshall) graduated from Eastern in 1989 from the Occupational Therapy program which is why she always knew she wanted to open a practice here (Richmond) and have the partnership with the university. So, it has been really beautiful honestly to see that come to fruition." she said.

The collaboration runs far deeper than the Occupational Therapy program, Marshall Pediatric Therapy allows EKU students of multiple fields to utilize the clinic.

"We are really looking to highlight all departments; like psychology, behavioral health, and even social work." said Desrochers

There are seven or eight departments of EKU welcome to the clinic.

Aside from the interconnection between EKU and the clinic, Marshall Pediatric Therapy has other attributes that really sets itself apart from competitors.

"We offer occupational therapy, physical therapy, speech therapy, and what is really setting up apart is that we offer a fourth discipline and that is mental health therapy. Of all the times, it is now needed more than ever for all ages, but of course we are pediatrics, so we do go up to age 21." said Desrochers.

Not only does Marshall Pediatric Therapy offer mental health therapy, but they also have taken the time to decipher the controversial ABA therapy attributes and develop their own approach. Despite several formats and types, Desrochers confirms they are introducing a brand-new model to the mix.

"Our program is called Building Blocks. Building Blocks offers a focused model of Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA), which is an applied science of behavior. It is an application of the scientific method of increasing skills while addressing and reducing challenging behaviors. This is done through reinforcement strategies and environmental manipulations after an analysis of data are collected through observation and assessment." said Desrochers

The Building Blocks program will offer both a collaborative and integrative approach at a focused 6 to 25 hours a week despite the typical 26 to 40 hours a week that usually accompanies ABA therapy.

With multiple disciplines under one roof, the therapists can work together for the best needs of the child.

"It's a little more targeted and a lot more effective." said Desrochers.

She confirms that the goal is to bring all therapy under one umbrella and with the ability to bring a lot of approach to treatment.

Marshall's Pediatric Therapy clinic is consistently growing, therefore if citizens are interested in services or employment, they can check their social media platforms including Facebook and Instagram. Citizens can give them a call at (859)-444-5330.

The company will also be unleashing a new, informative, personal, resourceful, and updated website in July that will house a lot of information for clients, staff, and citizens.

"This platform will be engaging and resourceful, while also offering a fun aesthetic and functionality component. We want everyone from our own staff and families, community partners, and referral sources alike to have a landing place they are confident will provide them with concise information and direction." said Desrochers place at the Community Park or City Park, down by Duerson stadium, and football field in that area."

Marshall Pediatric Therapy accepts most insurances and Medicaid.

At 10 p.m., the fireworks will begin.

"The fireworks will start immediately after the band." said Bloom. "They usually last about 20 minutes. Some people will be able to sit in the stadium and if people want to bring a blanket or camping chair they can, because there will be lots of grassy area where they can also sit."

This will be the first 4th of July Spectacular event for Berea without Covid-19 restrictions since 2019.

"We are happy to be back to normal." said Bloom. "We are happy to have folks back and festivities back."

Aside from the 4th of July Spectacular events that evening, Berea will have the pool available that afternoon for citizens to also enjoy on July 4.

"We will have special free-swimming hours at the pool." said Bloom. "We will have free swimming from 2 to 6 p.m. and the pool will close at six."

If citizens would like to stay up to date on the 4th of July Spectacular event or any other events hosted by the City of Berea and Berea Parks & Recreations, they can follow their Facebook page: Berea Parks & Recreation.

in that aspect. We have sent many emails and phone calls to them and said, 'Hey, you're like next door. Why are you not getting that guy?' They will say, 'Yes, you are right. We are sorry.' And then, they run the needed cable to get those people that are right there."

The issue has been despite the dedication to serve everyone, the reality has been that some homes are still unreachable and these homes are within a short distance of reachable homes. However, additional awarded funds could broaden how many citizens receive service.

"Last week, the state announced the Kentucky Broadband Deployment Fund Award winners. Spectrum won a bunch of money there as well." said Iseral. "It was like 13 counties maybe; Madison County was one of those. That is 1,247 more residents that will get internet from Spectrum and what Spectrum did is they kind of dovetailed into their RDOF funds, the state funds. So, they use federal dollars to build their network out to RDOF areas and they're going to use their own money to tap into that and provide service to the people in the state. Basically, on the other side of the road, or neighboring."

Iseral confirms that Spectrum has been very helpful in determining what areas can be reachable and what are not.

"With that announcement actually securing that additional 1,247. That allows All Points now to give us a low-level network design cost on just what we're going to have to service." said Iseral.

The problem now is that internet providers are building and developing so fast in Madison County, it is hard to keep up with what areas have been reached, what will be reached, and what is still unreachable.

"It will be a part of All Points mission to help us kind of keep identifying where these people have service and where they don't." said Iseral.

Some areas in difficult locations are being served ahead of more servable areas and there is a reason for that.

"We have to be careful to understand that when they use federal dollars or state dollars to service, unserved people, they can do nothing else with that infrastructure until the unserved people are served." said Iseral. "Now, why is that important? That's important because they're going to pass all kinds of people that are going to be served and they're going to go, why am I not getting it, right? You will get it off of their eventually. The mission is and what they have to do with the money is run that fiber to the unserved people but it is being planned and put into place so that once the unserved people are served, they can back in and use that to serve everybody else."

At some point, Iseral confirms All Points will expand inward into the city, providing services to everybody. This will hopefully create lower prices and options of service providers to citizens.

"The mission is, it doesn't matter how far you are off that road, we're coming to you." said Iseral.

Iseral is still asking citizens to go online to www.madisoncountyky.us and click on Connect Madison County to determine whether they currently have availability to internet services at their address or not. Either way, citizens need to confirm if they have accessibility to internet service or not. This tool allows citizens to be contacted when service does become available to them. Citizens can call the offices of Fiscal Court if they have questions regarding service or they can follow updates on their Facebook page: Madison County, KY.

Dillingham picks Cats

LEXINGTON (KT) - Kentucky picked up a commitment on the recruiting trail when Robert Dillingham chose the Wildcats on Friday night.

Dillingham, the No. 13 overall prospect in the Class of 2023, is a point guard and a five-star recruit and chose Kentucky over Auburn, Louisville, and USC.

"If you put in the work at Kentucky and coach (John Calipari) thinks you are good enough to make it, then it will happen for you," Dillingham told ESPN. "When I visited Kentucky, it was incredible. They explained everything. The basketball, academics, strength and conditioning, NIL."

NIL, a new recruiting tool, helped sway Dillingham to Lexington.

"Coach Cal explained how it works and said, 'It's not the reason you come here, but it's definitely a perk.' I know TyTy Washington and Oscar Tshiebwe have done very well."

Dillingham chose N.C. State initially, but de-committed last March.

"Coach Cal and his staff came to see me when I was at Combine Academy," he recalled. "They flew private into Lincolnton, North Carolina. That meant a lot. Coach Cal is down to earth. He told me and my mom his whole story growing up. My mom is an energetic and positive person. She felt good about Coach Cal and Kentucky."

Dillingham, a 6-foot-1 guard, plays for Donda Academy in California and currently plays on the Nike EYBL summer league circuit.

Lyon County (Ky.) High School Travis Perry received a scholarship offer from Kentucky on Saturday afternoon. Perry made a visit to Lexington and impressed Calipari in the Titans-Rockets Summer Shootout in Shelbyville. Perry scored 42 points in one game and 36 in another contest in the shootout.

Perry has played on the varsity team at Lyon County since 7th-grade and has scored 3,189 points in his career. The state record is held by King Kelly Coleman, who tallied 4.337 points from 1953-56.

Schedule update

Kentucky will host Kansas in the SEC/Big 12 Challenge on Jan. 28 at Rupp Arena. The Wildcats and Jayhawks will meet for the 34th time with Kentucky holding a 24-10 edge in the series.

Last January, the Wildcats handed the defending national champions a 71-63 setback in Lawrence, Kansas.

In other games in the Challenge, Alabama is at Oklahoma, Arkansas plays at Baylor, Auburn will take on West Virginia in Morgantown, Florida will play at Kansas State, Texas Tech is at LSU, Ole Miss will play Oklahoma State in Stillwater, while Texas Christian will take on Mississippi State, Iowa State is at Missouri and Texas will take on Tennessee in Knoxville.

The Challenge between the two leagues has been contested for the past 10 years, with the games televised on various ESPN networks.

NBA Draft

Shaedon Sharpe and TyTy Washington were among 30 players selected in the NBA Draft Thursday night.

Sharpe was the No. 7 overall pick by the Portland Trail Blazers, while Washington was selected as the 29th pick of the draft by the Memphis Grizzlies. Washington was later traded to the Houston Rockets.

Summer hoops helps teams prep for next season

By Mike Moore
For The Citizen

Area high school basketball teams spent much of June fine-tuning and gearing up for the anticipated 2022-2023 season that tips off in late November and early December.

Madison Southern Eagles

For Coach Austin Newton, the summer saw his junior varsity notch a perfect 10-0 record, while the varsity team posted a 12-2 mark. Southern lost three post players to graduation, so Newton said the Eagles are adjusting to "small ball."

"We have some of the best guards in the state, but (we) learned that we need to mature and get physically and mentally strong over the next few months," Newton said. "If we can do that, we feel we have a top team in the 11th Region."

Berea Pirates

Coach Eric Fields said the summer saw his team get more comfortable in their respective roles.

"Getting experience by playing and finding out ways to get better (was important)," Fields said.

During summer ball, his team posted a 4-7 record, but Fields said many things were ironed out on the court, which should bode well once the season tips off.

"We had a few rough patches, and we are going through some growing pains with a few freshmen and sophomores," he said. "We had a lot of close games and won a few and lost a few. But we really came together as a team, and I saw a lot of bright spots heading into winter."

Madison Southern Lady Eagles

Coach Josh Curtis was pleased with what he saw during summer ball. The Lady Eagles went 19-5 during June's games.

"I saw exactly what I wanted to see from our players from summer ball. We bring back a ton of experience from last season and add some pieces that can help us out. We were looking at getting more/finding consistency out of our returning players and starting to define roles for new players."

The Lady Eagles will have to replace a few multi-year starters, but Curtis said the talent is in place to do just that.

"I asked some players that produced for us last year to step up and do more and be more consistent," he said. "I also put new people in roles to see what they could do. Hadley French was amazing as an 8th grader, but she has found a way to become even better at such a young age. Tara Wooten was the definition of consistency this summer, as we will need her to be that senior presence this year.

Jada Carter and Bella Moberly continue to excel and become solid in their role. Ashlan Estep has taken on more of a leadership role and slid into Morgan's role last year regarding her energy and defense."

Berea Lady Pirates

Coach Dammian Stepp has many holes to fill as six seniors graduated from a team that went 24-8 last season.

"Returning senior Chesney Lovins will bring leadership and experience (to the team)," Stepp said. "Juniors Maddie King and Abby Beard have played well this summer. Both are excellent ballhandlers and solid playmakers."

Stepp is also looking for several players – Sophie Brewer, Lauren Stepp, and Mandy Newman – to step up their game and provide key minutes and production.

"We have less depth than in previous years and finding a way to play with fewer players will be one of our biggest challenges," Stepp said.

The coach also stressed the importance of his team taking advantage of individual work through July and this fall's strength and conditioning program.
